The Master declared plainly, "Yet a little while, and the world shall see Me no more"; but He promised that He should be seen by His followers. St. John declares, "We shall be like Him; for we shall see Him as He is." (1 John 3:2.) We read: "Every eye shall see Him"; but this, to be in harmony with the other Scriptures, must refer to the eyes of understanding. The Bible declares that eyes of human understanding are blinded now by error and sin, but that shortly all the blind eyes shall be opened. Then all will see Messiah and His Kingdom with the eye of faith, as the Church now see Jesus, the crown of life, and the things which the natural eye hath not seen.

Our English word coming is used to translate several very different Greek words. One of these is Parousia, which means presence, and is used in referring to the first stage of the Lord's Second Advent. He will be invisibly present. For a time none but the saintly few whose eyes of understanding are anointed through the Word and the Spirit will realize His Parousia, His presence, while all things earthly will continue as they have been—buying, selling, building, marrying, etc. Then, later on, will come the Epiphania; that is to say, the revelation, or manifestation, of the unseen Christ. This will not be a manifestation in the flesh, but in a great Time of Trouble, symbolically represented as fire, as when we read, "He shall be revealed in flaming fire, taking vengeance."—2 Thessalonians 1:7-10.

To my understanding, the Bible teaches that Jesus has been present in the world since 1874. In other words, His Second Advent then began. The wonderful progress in the world since then Bible students thus explain; the wonderful blessing upon them and their study of the Bible they interpret in harmony with this. They understand the Bible to teach that this Parousia will continue for a thousand years; but that the Epiphania, or manifestation to the world, will be due in forty years from the time the Presence began. For this reason they are looking very interestedly to see what the present year may bring forth.

And do we not see everywhere signs of unrest, a time of trouble brewing? It looks as though this year would mark the beginning of the "flaming fire" of judgments upon the world which will mark the closing of this Age and the inauguration of the New Dispensation of Messiah's Kingdom, when "justice shall be laid to the line and righteousness to the plummet," and when the ignorance, superstition and darkness which so long have hindered us will begin to be broken. The transition may be painful, yet it will be blessed, marking the overthrow of Satan's empire and reign of sin and death and the inauguration of Messiah's Kingdom and its Reign of righteousness and life eternal.

Our Lord, in describing His Second Presence, clearly indicated that it would be unnoticed by the world until the cataclysm of trouble should come. Thus He likened the earlier days of His presence to that period before the Flood, when the world, unconscious of the impending catastrophe, continued to build, eat and drink as usual, and knew not. So, says the Master, it will be in the end of this Age. Eating, drinking, building, planting and marrying will proceed as usual; and the world will not know that they are in the presence of the Son of Man. The great Day of Trouble, noted throughout the Scriptures as "the Time of Trouble such as never was since there was a nation," will come upon them suddenly—St. Paul says like the pangs of a woman in child-birth. A New Dispensation and new order of things is about to be born, and this great trouble is merely incidental to that birth.

St. Paul refers to the matter, saying, "Yourselves know perfectly, brethren, that the Day of the Lord cometh as a thief in the night. For when they (the world) shall say, Peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape. But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that Day should overtake you as a thief. Ye are all children of the light, children of the Day."—1 Thessalonians 5:1-6.

If this great change from the dominion of Satan to the rule of Christ shall begin to manifest itself this very year, 1914, it will be a cause for rejoicing to all. Although no sufferings are joyous, but rather grievous, nevertheless when we know that our interests are in the hands of a gracious Saviour, who died for us and who is intent upon doing all that can be done for the recovery of our race from sin and death, we may well be glad in realizing that the Plan which Messiah is about to carry out for the blessing and uplifting of mankind from sin and death conditions is part of the original Divine Plan of the Father. And we have all the more joy, confidence and assurance that all things will work together for good to those that love God.

"The bud may have a bitter taste,
But sweet will be the flower."

The trouble will be an awful one, but we believe not of great length. The Bible everywhere tells of the glorious results that will follow, when the shackles of darkness, sin and error shall be broken, and when all the spiritual powers surrounding mankind will be good and helpful, as in contrast with those of the wicked spirits now operating through mediums, by clairvoyant and clairaudient powers, to ensnare, to deceive, to bewilder, mankind.

The fact that our Lord appeared in seven different flesh-forms on various occasions after His resurrection does not contradict other plain statements. Rather, we see that such appearances resembled the appearances of angels in the flesh, to communicate some good message from God to men. Had Jesus not materialized and appeared to His disciples, what proof would they or we ever have had respecting His resurrection? And would not the fact that He saw them for a few moments and then vanished tend to prove to them that He was no longer a flesh being, but a spirit being, who had merely appeared to them for a special purpose? St. Paul declares that he saw the Lord last, and not as a man, but as a spirit being, whose brightness was above that of the sun; and it injured his eyesight; for our Lord was not veiled in the flesh, as when He appeared to the disciples during the forty days.

The Christ who is to come a second time, then, is not the Jesus of the flesh, but the glorified Jesus, who in nature and glory is far above the angels—of the Divine nature.

When Jesus ascended, two angels appeared to the disciples, saying, "This same Jesus, whom ye have seen go into Heaven, shall so come again in like manner as ye have seen Him go." In the past many of us have misunderstood this statement—not scrutinizing it carefully enough. Assuredly it would be the same Jesus that would come again—the same One who died for us, the same One who left the glory for us before He was born the Babe of Bethlehem. In all His changes He remains the same personality as He declared: "I am He that is, and was, and is to come." The angels did not say, however, He will come again in the flesh, or materialized, as you have seen Him go away. Their message related to the manner of His going and the manner of His coming. What was there special about the manner of His going away that would correspond to the manner of His coming again? Many things! He went away quietly, secretly, unknown to the world, unknown to any except His disciples. In like manner has been His Parousia—silently, quietly, unknown to the world, not known to any except his disciples. Surely, if we are right in saying that His Parousia began in 1874, the manner would correspond with the manner of His going. He did not come with glorious hosts, blaring trumpets, etc., but as a "thief in the night." If we have the correct date and chronology, Gentile Times will end this year—1914.

What of it? We do not surely know. Our expectation is that the active rule of Messiah will begin about the time of the ending of the lease of power to the Gentiles. Our expectation, true or false, is that there will be wonderful manifestations of Divine judgments against all unrighteousness, and that this will mean the breaking up of many institutions of the present time, if not all. Some Scriptures seem to indicate that this will mean world-wide anarchy, not all beginning at the same time, but beginning and gradually spreading the world around. The further intimation is that this trouble will eventually prove a blessing to humanity, melting their hearts in the Day of Trouble, teaching them more of sympathy for one another, breaking the power of superstition, wealth, ignorance, etc.—preparing them for the glorious Reign of Messiah's Kingdom.

Mr. Edward Paquette, Navan Centre, Ont., writes:—"One month ago my face was covered with pimples and a rash. I had tried a number of these so called blood purifiers with no avail. Seeing an almanac of yours in which you strongly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, I decided to try a bottle, and after I had taken it I could see a decided change, and after using three bottles more all the pimples had completely disappeared."

Curious Grape Production.

A wine farmer at the Cape has discovered that by the accidental interlacing of one of his sultana vines with a hanepoot vine, the latter has produced more than three times the quantity of grapes it did the previous year, and 100 per cent. more than any of the other hanepoot vines near it.

SHE GAINED 36 LBS.
Mrs. George Bradshaw, Harlowe, Ont., writes: "I was troubled for many years with weak, watery blood and dropsy. I had nervous headaches, dizziness, and sinking spells, and was, in fact, a semi-invalid. Doctors told me my heart and kidneys were diseased and gave me up. By using 10 boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I have been cured of many of my old complaints and gained 36 pounds in weight."

Blarney.

A certain comedian once engaged a particular Dublin jarvey to drive him to his hotel.

"What do I owe you, Pat?" he asked at the end of the journey.

"I laive it to yerself, yer 'onor," said the coachman.

"No, no," retorted the comedian. "You must tell me what the amount is, or else I shall have to call a constable and ask him what the proper fare comes to."

"Well, yer 'onor, it's loike this," said the jarvey. "When the late Sir Henry Irving came to Dublin he used to give me a sovereign, Mr. Lewis Waler gave me five and twenty shillings and Mr. Martin Harvey thirty shillings; but, begorra, you're a better actor than any of them, so I laive it to yerself."

Made Himself at Home.

James Hogg, poet, known as the "Ettrick Shepherd," was never quite happy away from the fields. Sir Walter Scott made a friend of him, but he was not a social success. "In a shepherd's dress," writes a historian, "and with hands fresh from sheep shearing, he came to dine for the first time with Scott in Castle street, and, finding Mrs. Scott lying on the sofa immediately stretched himself at full length on another sofe; for, as he afterward explained, 'I thought I could not do better than imitate the lady of the house.' At dinner, as the wine passed, he advanced from 'Mr. Scott' to 'Shirra' (sheriff) 'Scott,' 'Walter,' and finally 'Wattie,' till at supper he convulsed every one by addressing Mrs. Scott familiarly as 'Charlotte'."

Capable of Change.

Thackeray tells of a peasant woman begging alms from him, who, seeing him putting his hands in his pockets, said:

"May the blessings of Providence follow you"; but when he only pulled out his snuff-box she immediately added, "and never overtake you."

SHEPHERD'S DOGS.

The cult of the collie has taken a strong hold upon the public, says a writer on "Collies and Their Kind," in The Windsor Magazine, and there are very many famous specimens to be seen to-day at the great shows. The late Mr. Panmure Gordon, who had so many dogs, included some striking collies in his collection, and not many years ago Queen Victoria herself was to be reckoned among successful exhibitors. But it must not be forgotten that nearly all prize dogs would be beaten in open competition at sheep trials. Their ears may be better, their forelegs straighter, their backs shorter, and their coats immensely superior to those of their work-a-day cousins of the wild border countries, but when it comes to the work for which practical men must rely upon their collies, there is very little doubt about the dog that will come out first. It will not be the artificially lengthened one, but the dog whose shape has been fixed by Nature for the work she wishes him to do, the dog trained to endurance from the time when he was picked out of his mother's litter as the one best fitted to survive, and trained with more care than kindness for the tasks before him.

The collie most in favor among shepherds and farmers in the north country is the bearded collie, which looks like a long-tailed English sheep dog, and, as far as our experience goes, continues the writer, is so devoted to his duties and his rightful owner, that he regards the rest of humanity with suspicion. He is a rough-looking fellow at best, whose shabby and shaggy appearance would earn the contempt of his more pampered but less able cousins of the show bench. It is likely that the more ornamental dogs will have lost most of their early instincts in the course of a few generations. At the sheep dog trials, still an annual feature of rural life in remote corners of the country, the bearded collie can hold his own against all competitors of his own family, and other sheep dogs will find him hard to beat. Opinions as to the origin of the bearded collie differ considerably. Some think that it is a reversion to one side of the parental line, while others hold that it is a product of the union of an old English sheep dog and a collie. The point is not worth laboring, because we cannot hope to solve the problems.

Suffice it that while rough and smooth collies are becoming domestic pets, the bearded variety—crossgrained and ill-tempered though he be—is undoubtedly doing excellent work in the Scottish Highlands as a sheep dog pure and simple. But for his services the toll that the snowstorm takes, when it comes suddenly to hillsides where the sheep are straying, would be very considerably augmented. While rough and smooth collies will respond in some fashion, however slight, to the advances of his master's friends, the bearded collie, so far as the writer's experience goes, acknowledges none save his master, and will even bark and growl at other members of the family. He seems restless and unhappy in the house, but as soon as his foot is on the hills he is a different dog, with a sense of responsibility that is quite unmistakable. His are none of the graces belonging to his cousins, the rough and smooth collies, but in the Scottish Highlands graces are a little out of harmony with surroundings, and the plaided shepherd "blowing of his nails" is quite happily associated with the rough, surly, bearded collie.

A quantity of wreckage has lately been washed ashore in the neighborhood of Mossel Bay, a significant object being a cushion marked "W." A hatchway which was found has been sent to the builders of the missing liner Waratah with a view to identification. The Waratah left Durban for Cape Town on July 26 last, with nearly 200 persons on board, and was seen the next day in a violent storm. Since then she has not been heard of and was recently posted at Lloyds as "missing."

Waited on Napoleon.

An interesting person is William Johnstone, who is 108 years of age and now living in a religious institution at Sydney, N.S.W. He was a cabin boy in 1816 on H.M.S. Northumberland, the British warship that took Napoleon to St. Helena. He remained on the island for some time as one of the fallen emperor's attendants, and he has a book with Napoleon's writing in it.

Sage And Sulphur Darkens Gray Hair
It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Colour, Gloss and Thickness
Hair that loses its colour and lustre or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even colour, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.
Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Sixty Years Ago.

The Swiss President's unassuming status has given rise to many stories. Mr. Edmund d'Auvergne, visiting the Government buildings at Berne, "noticed the world 'Bundespraesident' (President of the Confederation) inscribed over an inconspicuous door, just as you might see the word 'Cashier' or 'District Registrar.' I called to mind how an important English railway contractor once knocked at this door and was answered by a man in shirt sleeves, whom he took to be a clerk. It was the President himself." In Sir Horace Rumbold's time (the 'sixties), the story was that a diplomatist, calling at the President's private abode, was admitted by a lady with tucked-up sleeves and soap-sudded arms—Madame la Presidente straight from the wash-tub.—London Chronicle.

Bengalis Aroused.

Killing the sacred cow of the Brahmins is considered a great crime in Eastern Bengal, and some Bengali newspapers assert that panic prevails in that district in connection with the coming manoeuvres and stories of oppression on the part of the 10th Gurkhas at Dacca. The "Amritza Bazar Patrika" asks, "If the Gurkhas behave thus, what will not the Highlanders do?" The "Englishman" exposes the absolute absence of any foundation for what the "Dacca Herald" calls "the Gurkha atrocities," but considers that the situation is serious, particularly as the Dacca newspapers are raising the question of killing cows to provide food for the British troops in districts where cows had never been killed before.

His Happy Thought.

The man who has much redness
On his highly colored nose
Is sensitive about it;
He's sure the redness shows.
But when it comes to photos
He's thankful without doubt
And leaves the color out.
—Yonkers Statesman.

Unnecessary Trouble.

"Oh, by the way, dear," said the merchant as he was preparing to leave the house in the morning, "if I find I can't be home to dinner I will send a note by messenger."

"Don't trouble," said his wife sweetly; "I have already found it on the blotting pad."—Western Mail.

My Word!

There was a young fellow named Leigh,
Who tried to turn night into deigh.
At the setting of sun
He would start out for fun,
And at daylight he'd crawl in the heigh.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

On Her Mind.

She wanted to call up the shoe store and ask if a certain style of shoe had been received.

She took down the receiver.

"What number?" said exchange.

"Narrow twos," she promptly replied.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Futurist Drama.

There once was a mystical lama
Made laundry marks on a pajama.
Some thought it a frolic
And others symbolic
But it wasn't; 'twas futurist drama!
—New York Sun.

Not Too Far Forward.

"Are you a political leader?"

"No," replied Senator Borghum. "A political leader has to be away up in front where he can't see all that is going on. I make it my business to stay where I can maintain supervision."—Washington Star.

In the Olden Days.

The ancient Greeks enjoyed a blessing—
Their trousers never needed pressing.
But to their joy some gloom attaches—
They had no place to strike their matches.
—Judge.

Success.

Binks—How's Dobson making out raising chickens?

Jinks—Very well, very well. He's pretty near got to the point where he can afford to eat one himself.—Kansas City Star.

Domestic Felicity.

No money is better spent than what is laid out for domestic satisfaction. A man is pleased that his wife is dressed as well as other people, and a wife is pleased that she is dressed.—Dr. Samuel Johnson.

The Hustler.

"Do you believe that all things come to him who waits?"

"They may start for him, but usually some man who hustles overtakes them before they get to the man who waits."

The Seychelles.

The Seychelles group, a British possession lying 750 miles northeast of Madagascar, consists of about thirty small islands.

Chrysanthemums.

The Chinese chrysanthemum was introduced into England as far back as 1764, but it became extinct in that country soon after.

TESTED.

"Is this picture to show one that it will be all right for my daughter to see?" asked the man who was next at the ticket window.

"Sure," replied the girl in the booth; "I've saw it and it ain't hurt me."

AN IMPRESSION OF NEW YORK.

"Wall, Si, I see you're back from New York. Lively town, that, eh? I s'pose everybody there has a job."

"Yep. I even saw men leadin' dogs for exercise in the mornin', an' doin' it as carefully as though they was paid for it!"

SORRY FOR THE OVERCOAT ARTIST.

"Henry," said his sister at the breakfast table the morning after, "you shouldn't ask that young artist to work so hard when he and a party of your other friends visit you."

"Huh?" replied brother, coming out of a postmortem reverie of the big hand.

"You needn't try to deny it. I listened at the door awhile, and some one was always asking the poor artist to 'dra three' or some other number of pictures. At least you should have been satisfied to have him draw one at a time."

Girl Shot Dead

A shooting accident occurred in Campbell's fish shop, Belfast, resulting in the death of Miss Campbell. A brother of the girl, who had been out shooting during the day, entered the premises and put down the gun he had been using. A boy named Thomas Campbell, said to be a nephew of the deceased, took up the weapon and was examining it when the gun went off in the lad's hand, the shot hitting deceased full in the face just as she as entering the premises.

Killed by a Tombstone

A verdict of "Accidental death" was returned at an inquest at Skerries on a boy named Joseph Flanagan, who was killed at the monumental works owned by Mr. P. Mathews. The boy, while playing with other youths in the locality, went over to read the inscription on an unfinished tombstone. When he placed his hands against the upright slab the latter shook and fell forward. Death was instantaneous.

Death Coincidences

After fifty-four years of married life Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jones, of Cheltenham, have died on the same day, the husband being seventy-eight and his wife seventy-seven. Mr. Jones became ill through worry over his wife's illness, and when he was told of her death he began to sink at once, and died just before midnight.

Dead Bittern Confiscated

Edward Peich, a gamekeeper, was fined $5 and costs at East Harding, Norfolk, for shooting a bittern, an exceedingly rare bird which is protected under the Wild Birds Act. The bird, which had been sent to Sir Edmund C. Nugent, was ordered to be forfeited.

HELEN ARMSTRONG

This little five-year-old girl gets a nice, thick pay-envelope every week for playing child parts before the moving picture film. She plays with her doll, mauls a big dog or whispers to her mother in such a natural and unaffected way that she is in great demand. All patrons of the "movie" shows have seen her very often.

Killed by Motor Cycle

Going out to test a motor cycle belonging to a friend, Bernard Gould, aged twenty-nine, an engineer's draughtsman, of Grantham, was found lying on the road two miles outside the town with the machine on top of him. He died in hospital.

Monument to Capt. Scott

A monument, in the form of a cairn has been erected to the memory of Captain Scott on the Lautaret Pass, in the French Alps, where the Antarctic explorer spent some time in 1908 experimenting with motor sledges.

He Knew

"I am not afraid of gaol. It is a gentleman's life to what it used to be," exclaimed John Willmott, of Silver street, Reading, when he appeared for the seventieth time before the borough magistrates.

Veal and Lamb

"At a wedding at St. Paul's Church, Burton-on-Trent, the bride was Miss Veale, the bridegroom was Mr. Lamb, the lady was given away by Mr. Hare, and among the guests was a friend named Mr. Fox."

URIC ACID SUFFERING

Uric acid is an accumulation of poison which finds lodgment in the system when the kidneys fail to remove it from the blood. In the kidneys and bladder it forms stones, in the joints and muscles it causes rheumatism. In any case the pain and suffering is almost beyond human endurance. Uric acid is promptly removed from the system when the kidneys are kept healthy and active by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Where Women Legislate

A woman to be a candidate for the Kansas Legislature must be at least forty years old and the mother of children. It also is preferred that they have held office and mixed to some extent in politics before, such as having been county superintendents or some of the other offices to which women frequently have been elected in Kansas. Since the passage of the suffrage amendment the women are taking a prominent and active part in Kansas politics.

New Use For Telephones

The telephone is being put to many uses as a labor-saver and an emergency aid. In the cost keeping systems in many factories the workmen do not keep their own time records, but telephone to the bookkeeper whenever they start or finish a job, so that he can make the entry. Automatic telephone temperature-recorders are used in orchards to save fruit from frost; when the temperature falls the central operator is notified, so that she can arouse the farm hands and send them out with smudge pots.

Golden Wedding Cake

At the golden wedding celebrations of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Somes, of Southend, eleven children, who have grown to maturity out of thirteen, were present, and a package of wedding cake which Mr. Somes put away on his wedding day in 1863 was eaten.

A Clock of Glass

A clock constructed throughout of glass is the result of six years' work on the part of a Bavarian glass polisher. The plates and pillars which form the framework are of glass, and are bolted together with glass screws. The dial-plate, hands, shafts, and cog-wheels are of glass and glass wedges and pins are used for fastening the various parts of the running gear together. Like the clock itself, the key by which it is wound is of glass. The construction of the remarkable time-piece was a matter of infinite pains. Some of the parts had to be made as many as forty times before a clock that would go could be produced.

RUN-DOWN WOMEN

Health in a Simple Tonic.

How many women do you know who are positively well, strong and healthy as a woman should be? They may not be sick enough to lie in bed—but they are run-down, thin, nervous, tired and devitalized.

Women are so active nowadays and so much is expected of them, that they constantly overdo and suffer from headache, backache, nervousness and kindred ills.

Such women need Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil which will create an appetite, tone up the digestive organs, make pure blood and create strength.

Mrs. Walter Price, Biloxi, Miss., says: "I was in a run-down condition for months, I had taken several medicines but they seemed to do me no good. Finally Vinol was recommended, and from the first bottle I began to improve until I am strong and well as ever."

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. McDermid & Jury, druggists, corner George and Charlotte Streets; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe Streets.

To Stop Training Aviators.

BERLIN, March 23.—The training of aviators was suspended Saturday by the executive of the National Aviation Subscription. It resolved that the funds could be better used in giving prizes for the encouragement of record-making, as Germany, in its opinion, already was adequately supplied with competent aviators.

Repeal Fight Again Delayed.

WASHINGTON, March 23. — The opening of the legislative battle for repeal of the tolls exemption provision of the Panama Canal Act was delayed until next week by prolonged consideration in the House Saturday of the rivers and harbors appropriation bill. Renewed skirmishing in the Senate served to reveal, however, the intensity of feeling in the controversy.

Administration leaders had planned to call up the Sims repeal bill in the House Saturday and present a rule to limit general debate to fifteen hours. It is not likely now that the bill can be taken up before to-morrow or that a vote can be had until late in the week.

Naughty Paris To Reform.

PARIS, March 23.—The Paris police yesterday began the introduction of a scheme of moral reform in the public resorts of the city. Celestin Hennion, the prefect of police, summoned the proprietors of all the music and dance halls and concert cafes to the prefecture where he informed them that exhibitions of undraped performers would in future not be tolerated. It is understood that this regulation will not apply to theatres on the ground that what might otherwise be regarded as indecency is counteracted by the artistic value of the productions.

OFFICERS RESIGN

THEY WILL DO POLICE DUTY

LONDON, March 23.—The Government's military precautions to preserve order in Ulster have precipitated a crisis without parallel in the history of the British army. Rather than be placed in a position where they might be called upon to act against the Ulster covenanters numbers of officers have resigned their commissions.

The tension has been relieved somewhat, however, by the consent of the officers at Curragh to undertake "police duty" in Ulster.

The entrance of King George on the scene as peacemaker was the dramatic event of Saturday. He had long conferences with the Prime Minister, Mr. Asquith, the Secretary of State for War, Col. Seely, and several high officers, and afterwards summoned Field Marshal Lord Roberts, who has been much criticised by the Liberals for utterances, which they construed as encouragement to the officers to refuse to obey orders.

In the meantime the movement of troops continued in Ireland. The centre of interest shifted to Curragh, 25 miles from Dublin, where the infantry brigade, under Col. Bolkare stationed. Gen. Sir Arthur Paget, commanding the forces in Ireland, spent the day in camp. He held a conference with fifty officers of the Curragh, Dublin, Kildare and Newbridge garrisons. It was said that orders had arrived for the despatch of the third brigade to Ulster, but that these could not be carried into execution because practically all the officers had resigned. Orders for the despatch of the Sixteenth Lancers also failed of execution by reason of the same wholesale retirement of officers.

The Government is embarrassed by the disaffection, which even exists among the officers who continue on duty for the army is officered from the aristocratic families and the great majority of the aristocratic class are Conservatives and sympathise with the covenanters.

What appears to be a reliable account of the defection of officers at Curragh comes in a Dublin despatch. On Friday morning the officers received notification from the War Office that unless they were prepared for active service in Ulster under certain contingencies they should send in their papers within twelve hours. As a result of this notification 70 out of 76 officers, including Lord Holmpatrick, resigned. Gen. Sir Arthur Paget then communicated with the War Office and subsequently had a conference with the Curragh officers.

Gen. Paget gave assurance that the movement of troops to Ulster was intended merely for the protection of Government property, and on this assurance the officers eventually agreed to proceed to Ulster for police duty, but resolutely refused to undertake hostilities against the Ulster loyalists.

There has been no diminution in the activity of the Ulster army. Yesterday the officers of the so-called headquarters staff on duty at Craigavon, now the centre of the Ulster movement, were busy taking the ranges of the various hills and other strategic points of Belfast Lough, which the estate overlooks. They had a rangefinder of the latest pattern.

A sufficient number of motor cars are available to enable the administration to transport at least 2,000 men with rifles and ammunition to any threatened point in Ulster, three hours from Belfast, independent of the railway.

Ulster awaits with curiosity the next move of the War Office and other authorities, pending which the situation remains unchanged. Absolute order prevails in the city. Eighty special service "minute men" on duty at Craigavon marched to the Presbyterian church at Belmont early yesterday morning, taking their hospital corps and ambulance men, even the surgeons, but leaving fifty men behind to guard the rifles and patrol the estate while the others prayed in the pews behind Sir Edward Carson and other leaders.

Gen. Gough Resigned.

LONDON, March 23.—The Sunday Observer asserts on high authority that Gen. Sir Arthur Paget visited Curragh on Friday and gave Gen. Gough of the third cavalry brigade the option of taking command at Ulster or retiring. Gen. Gough, who was allowed two hours for consideration, resigned immediately.

The Observer says that the Government has decided to issue two hundred warrants for the arrest of the leaders in Ulster.

Railway Given Orders.

ALDERSHOT, March 23. — The London and Scuthern Railway received notice yesterday from the War Office to have rolling stock in readiness to move any number of troops up to 10,000 with horses, wagons and supplies at short notice.

Arrested For Auto Thefts.

TORONTO, March 23.—Three automobile thieves, ranging in years from 18 to 20, were arrested at midnight last evening, two by officer 194 and one by Acting Detective Nursey. The first two arrested confessed to having committed about a dozen of the recent motor car thefts perpetrated about the down-town districts.

NO MORE PAIN

"KEPHALDOL CAN NOW BE HAD AT YOUR DRUGGIST'S"

Herr Doctor Stohr, the famous Austrian nerve specialist, first used KEPHALDOL prescription in his private practice and hospital work in Vienna. Other noted physicians and surgeons adopted this formula in treating severe cases of Rheumatism Sciatica and Lumbago, La Grippe, and Colds, Neuralgia and Headaches. The wonderful properties of KEPHALDOL became known in England, where a company was formed to prepare KEPHALDOL TABLETS and supply them to the public at a nominal price.

Canadians, visiting the Old Country, heard of KEPHADOL — tried them—and brought them back to Canada. So great became the demand for KEPHALDOL here, that a Canadian office was established to distribute these tablets on this side of the ocean.

So what one famous physician did in Austria, has resulted in thousands and thousands of sufferers being cured of pain.

If your druggist should not have KEPHALDOL, a 50c tube of tablets may be obtained by remitting the price to Kelphaldol Limited, 31 Alcatour Street, Montreal.

LAWLESSNESS IN CHINA.

Inland Provinces Are Scene of Looting and Massacres.

PEKIN, March 23. — Outrages by brigands in Central China are assuming alarming proportions. Several bands associated with the noted outlaw White Wolf are robbing the people and burning their property. The latest exploit of the bandits was the massacre of 200 townsfolk, who were resisting their entrance into an important market town close to Siang Yang Fu, Province of Hupeh. Seventenths of the town was burned, and the population ruined financially. On the occasion of the recent sacking of King Tsek Wan, Province of Honan the local troops made no effort to resist the brigands. The troops were commanded by a general, formerly a noted brigand chief, who was given his army appointment during the recent revolution.

The measures of the Government to deal with the situation are totally inadequate and there is every prospect of the development of brigandage to dimensions beyond its control.

CREPEAU SEEKS DAMAGES.

Action For Libel Entered Against Bock's Weekly.

MONTREAL, March 23.—A suit has been entered in the Superior Court at the instance of Jules Crepeau, second assistant city clerk of Montreal, who claims $25,000 for libel against D. Lorne McGibbon, Edward Beck, Louis Joseph Tarte and La Patrie Publication Company.

The plaintiff takes exception to an article which appeared in the first issue of Bock's Weekly, and which alleged that Crepeau had taken bribes.

In an interview Saturday Mr. Crepeau, speaking of the writ, said:

"These people set a fine trap for me, but it has sprung on themselves, and they will find it a strong trap-bat for them, not for me. It will hold them tight. Look out for next week; you are going to see some fun."

Nerves Were on Edge She Could Not Sleep

Great Change Brought About Dr. Chase's Nerve Food --System Built Up---Nerves Strong---Sleep Natural and Refreshing

Nothing can give you so good an idea of what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will do for you as reading the letters from persons who have been benefitted by its use. That is why we are publishing such letters daily in this paper.

Diseases of the nerves are manifested in different ways. With some it is sleeplessness and inability to rest. Others have frequent headaches and neuralgic pains. Indigestion is a common symptom, and depressed spirits and discouragement are usually manifest. Whatever may be the warning, the principal thing is to restore the wasted nerves before paralysis or locomotor ataxia claim you as a victim.

Mrs. Edson Brock, Trenholmville, Que., writes: "I want to state that I have never taken anything to do me so much good as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and am never without it in the house. I have been using the Nerve Food for months now and am still taking it, as it just suits my needs, and is building up my system wonderfully. I was so nervous I could not sleep, but now I sleep soundly at nights, and wake up feeling refreshed and ready for the day's work. I know it is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that has brought about the great change in my condition, and am change for it. My husband was a great sufferer from itching piles, and has been entirely cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment."

By noting your increase in weight you can prove that new, firm flesh and tissue are being added to the body. Naturally and gradually vigour is restored to the nervous system by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food until you find yourself again feeling and looking well and ready to fight the battle of life. CASTRO FOUND AT LAST.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, March 23.—Gen. Cipriano Castor, former dictator of Venezuela, whose whereabouts had been unknown for several months, was discovered here in the course of Saturday night.

A party of detectives late Friday evening raided an hotel inhabited almost solely by Venezuelans, and found there 40,000 rounds of ammunition and a few revolvers.

This discovery led to a further raid. The police proceeded to a house which had been occupied for several months by Gen. Carmelo Castro, a brother of the former President, and, armed with a search warrant, went over the place. Among the effects of the occupants they found one revolver and a few cartridges.

On entering one of the rooms, however, they made a much more important discovery, for they found it occupied by Gen. Cipriano Castro himself.

Earthquake Recorded.

CLEVELAND, O., March 23.—Earthquake shocks which continued from 12.26 a.m. until 7 a.m. were recorded by the seismograph at St. Ignatius College yesterday. Rev. Odenbach, the curator, said that the quake was the longest he has recorded in many years. The maximum wave, coming at 6.29 a.m., lasted 35 seconds, and was the longest in his experience. It was his opinion that the point of origin was in the far east, possibly China.

Victim of Vendetta.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 23.—Raffaelo Argo, a wealthy member of the foreign colony here, was found dead Saturday on the front verandah of his house, with two bullets in his back. The police say Argo was the second victim of the vendetta declared four years ago, when an Indian was killed in Argo's restaurant, the other having been Albert Dent, a banker, who was shot down in the street last summer.

Fatal Fire at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 23.—William Clemmings, 72 years of age, was burned to death and a dozen other lodgers barely escaped by jumping into firemen's nets Saturday when fire destroyed the Kansas City Mission. Mrs. Lizzie Kirck dropped her four-year-old son into a net, then jumped herself and escaped. Several men and women were carried down ladders, almost suffocated.

KINGSTON, March 23. — Patrick O'Shay, aged 70, New York, arrested for vagrancy, was turned back by the immigration authorities at Alex Point, Alexandria, but with his wife, aged 65, he walked to Cape Vincent and then came over on the ice to Kingston in order to fool officials. The couple will be deported.

Spreading Rail Wrecks Train.

TORONTO, March 23.—Travelling at a speed of 40 miles an hour the Canadian Northern Nanaee train, No. 9, jumped the rails at a point between Cherry Wood Junction and Greenburg, about 25 miles east of Toronto, on Saturday night. The dinner and one of the passenger coaches plunged down a 15-foot embankment to the north of the tracks, while the baggage car and the two other coaches which composed the train, were thrown from the rails south of the tracks. Several persons were slightly injured.

Seakskin Sacques May Go Up.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 23.—The eastern sealing fleet of 15 ships is having the worst weather for many years and has not more than half the number of seals secured at the same date last year. Wireless messages from the eight ships agree that the severity of the storms and the immense thickness of the ice floes makes conditions extremely difficult, and thousands of the seals killed and heaped on the ice fields to be picked up by steamers will never be recovered.

DREADED SUNDAY PASSES IN ULSTER WITHOUT ANY SIGNS OF DISTURBANCE

The Gravity of Crisis is Indicated by the Fact That the King Cancelled His Liverpool Visit.

AN ELECTION PLANNED

LONDON, March 22.—The dreaded Sunday passed without the slightest disturbance of order in Belfast or in Ulster. But the gravity of the crisis is fully indicated by the fact that the King cancelled his intended week-end visit to the Earl and Countess of Derby at Liverpool.

Their Majesties will carry out their projected visit to Chester on Wednesday, but will return to London on the first train Thursday morning. They will remain in town during the rest of the week.

The Daily Chronicle, the Government organ, says it learns that Premier Asquith will make another important statement within a fortnight on the Irish question, in which he will offer an early general election, probably in July, on condition that the Unionists will co-operate in passing the plural voting, Home Rule and Welsh disestablishment bills at this session of Parliament.

The King has thrown his influence earnestly on the side of conciliation, and seems to have made a personal appeal to the officers, who had resolved to resign rather than face the possibility of being called upon to fight in Ulster, and it may be taken for granted that the King is equally exerting his influence with his Ministers in the same conciliatory direction.

Proofs are not wanting of the desire on both sides that everything possible should be done to avoid any chance of conflicts. The Nationalists have abandoned their proposed parade at Londonderry, and Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, continues to voice his desire to do his utmost to avoid provocative acts.

An official report issued last night says that all the proposed movements of troops in Ulster have now been carried out.

"These movements," the report continues, "were of a purely precautionary kind, with the object of giving adequate protection to the depots of arms, ammunition, and stores, and other Government property, against possible risks. There has not been and there is not now any intention to move troops into Ulster except for these and like purposes."

The conferences between King George, Premier Asquith, and the other Ministers with reference to the Ulster situation continued all yesterday. Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, twice visited the Prime Minister during the morning, and Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, likewise conferred with Mr. Asquith.

In a general way the situation yesterday seemed somewhat easier, the public being inclined to wait with patience the expected statement in the House of Commons to-day regarding the movement of troops in Ulster and the resignation of officers.

The military service in the parish church at Omagh, County Tyrone, for the regulars station there was also attended by three hundred Ulster volunteers. At the close of the service all joined heartily in singing the National Anthem. Afterward, the volunteers were drawn up outside the church and saluted the regulars, who returned the salute as they marched back to barracks.

Ammunition Spirited Away.

DUBLIN, March 22.—Stock-taking at Curragh magazine Saturday disclosed that thousands of rounds of ammunition were missing. The stock is being replenished from the Newbridge and Kildare stores.

Quota Going From London, Ont.

LONDON, Ont., March 23.—Thirty Londoners and possibly more are preparing to go to Ulster to fight for the Carson forces should the threatened civil war break out. Secretary Harry Bennett of the Ulster Defence Fund says that definite action will be taken following a meeting called for to-night.

TO-NIGHT'S MEETING PROMISES TO BE THE BEST ON RECORD

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Board of Trade will be held in the City Council Chamber, and it is expected will be the largest and most enthusiastic in the history of the organization. During the past few weeks there has been a startling revival in interest in the Board, and a large number of young men have signified their intention of becoming members. With considerable new blood introduced there should be a great year ahead of the Board of Trade. Every citizen who has the interest of Peterborough at heart should attend to-night's big meeting.

A STRIKER LOSES LIFE

MORE TROUBLE LIKELY

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 23. — A train carrying workmen to the Gould Coupler Works at Lancaster near here, where a strike has been on for a month, was halted by a load of strikers and dumped on the tracks this morning, and there developed a pitched battle between the guards on the train and the strikers, revolvers and rifles being freely used.

Stanislaus Skilonski, aged 17, a striker, was shot dead, and two others severely wounded. More trouble is expected.

PEDLARS AND ORDER TAKERS ARE WARNED

The Retail Merchants' Association takes the credit for broadening out the Transient Traders' Act so as to include parties doing business without permission, who take orders for goods to be afterwards delivered or that are offered for sale in any manner.

The first conviction made under the new amendment was given on Saturday morning when Magistrate Dumble fined a man by the name of Robinson $1, letting him down easy owing to the first conviction.

The local secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association made the complaint; he states that he intends that similar cases will be prosecuted, and any one having any knowledge of pedlars, etc., ringing door bells and otherwise annoying people, to ring up his number 1-4-8-4, and the police will be immediately notified.

STERILIZING CABINET FOR OPTICAL INSTRUMENTS

Mr. Fowler's Optical Parlours Equipped With This Safeguard

Mr. A. A. Fowler, eyesight specialist, with the Nugent Drug Co., has just installed a Cabinet Steriliser in his well-equipped optical studio, which is intended to be an extra safeguard to his patrons.

"Does he sterilise his instruments?" is now frequently asked by the prospective customer—because, in this age, people like to be assured of perfect protection from the transmission of disease when instruments are used that are being handled by the general public.

The "Superior Cabinet Steriliser" is an efficient medium for this purpose, in optical, dental and surgeons' offices. All instruments, fabrics, etc., are rendered antiseptic by being perfectly sterilized in this cabinet. They are always rendered germproof by coming in contact with a formaldehyde solution, as the disinfecting agent conveniently arranged in this cabinet.

SIR RICHARD McBRIDE GIVES HIS OPINION

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, March 23.— Sir Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, is here to-day. He declares his business at the Capital has nothing to do with railway legislation, but it is believed nevertheless that his opinion will be asked and given concerning the Canadian Northern application for further assistance, as British Columbia is particularly interested. He discoursed at some length upon both the Canadian Northern and Transcontinental situations. "The Dominion of Canada," he said, "cannot permit at this time in her history that either of these roads should be jeopardized."

MALONEY HAD CRIPPLE'S KIT

He and Prisoner Brickfield Again Remanded After Protest From Their Counsel Mr. D. O'Connel

SKELETON KEYS

By Mr. D. O'Connell, counsel for George Francis Brickley, and James Mahoney, who are at present held on a charge of vagrancy, protesting that evidence against prisoner, Brickley, in the form of duplicate finger prints, which had been received from the department, was not evidence at all, the case was stopped suddenly this morning, and a remand granted until Thursday of this week. Mr. O'Connel further made a plea for bail, stating that the men had now been confined to the jail on that charge for two weeks.

The charge on which Brickley appeared this morning, was that of vagrancy, and not being able to give a satisfactory account of himself.

The evidence was given in detail, by Detectives Newhall and Meagher of their arrests, and the reason for same. It will be remembered that they were arrested on March 9th, and it was later suspected that Maloney was an escaped convict. This, however, did not prove to be the case.

In the case of Brickley, finger prints from the finger print department at Ottawa, reveal the fact that Brickley was convicted at Kenora, Ont., on August 15th, 1911. Mr. O'Connel objected to Chief Thompson reading this letter as evidence, but the Magistrate ruled that if he chose, he could ask the question, but the prisoner was not bound to answer. The Chief then asked Brickley, if on the date mentioned, he had been convicted. Brickley, who appeared very uneasy, said he could not answer that question.

On exhibit at court this morning, was a large assortment of articles, among which was a number of packaged of court plaster, which apparently Maloney had been selling, and upon which was printed, a plea to the public, which started "Being a Cripple, etc," which was placed on the packages, for the purpose of soliciting public sympathy, and for inducing the public to buy his wares. Among his outfit was a rubber stamp, bearing the appeal. A letter supposedly from Thomas Wm. McGarry, a barrister, bearing out his case, was also exhibited, as well as a quantity of skeleton keys, which it is the object of the authorities, to show that they belonged to prisoners, although they were not found in their possession.

It was said in court this morning, that an employee of the G.T.R. had identified Brickley as the man who had been seen in the vicinity of the track, where the keys were found buried. He will likely appear at the next hearing to give his evidence.

Meanwhile, the prisoners will be remanded in custody.

A mysterious "Third Person" was also captured by the police at the same time Maloney and Brickley were arrested, but he was allowed to go on the strength of his statement that he had engaged a room at the Munroe House, more to test the veracity of his statement than anything else, and on his promise to appear in court the next morning. He has not been seen since, or as Detective Newhall paraphrases it, "He gave us the slip."

A PUNCHING BAG PRESENTED

The Peterborough Athletic Club officers and members are deeply appreciative of the way in which their efforts are being received by the public generally. Those whom the members have been able to see in regard to the matter have responded liberally, and the club feels greatly encouraged. For instance Mr. Chris. Graham, always ready to help along sports, in addition to a substantial contribution, has presented the P. A. C. with a complete punching bag outfit, a gift that will be appreciated by officers and members alike.

OFFICERS WITHDRAW

General Gough and Other Leaders in Curragh Reconsider Their Decision to Retire

WARM IN THE HOUSE

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., March 23.—Efforts of the Government to make it appear that disaffection in the Army was due to the misrepresentation of orders by General Paget, was bitterly resented by the Opposition leaders, before a crowded assemblage in the House of Commons, this afternoon. So intense was the feeling among the crowd that noisy outbreaks among the spectators were frequent and several persons were ejected. Challenged by Bonar Law, Premier Asquith heatedly denied that officers had been warned that a refusal to serve in Ulster would be followed by their dismissal. He also denied that Paget had ever received orders to the effect that the movement of troops was for the occupation of Ulster. Amid cheers from the Government benches Premier Asquith announced that General Gough had withdrawn his resignation as Commander of the Cavalary Brigade at Curragh, and that many other officers who resigned last week, had followed Gough's example and withdrawn their resignations.

LONDON, Eng., March 23.—Colonel Seeley, Secretary of War, had an extended conference with the King this morning regarding his impending statement in the House of Commons this afternoon on the Ulster question. It is understood that beyond suggesting a few modifications in the tone of Seeley's proposed speech His Majesty was satisfied that the results should be favourable to conciliation.

The great question of the hour is, in view of resignations of officers, how do the rank and file of the army in Ireland stand. The correspondent in Ireland of the Daily Telegraph (Unionist), says he has talked with many non-commissioned officers and men of the cavalry regiments at Curragh, and has found them generally "more docile" than the officers. The general attitude they take up, is that its theirs not to reason why.

JOSEPH CAILLAUX, Minister of Finance and former Premier of France, whose wife shot dead Gaston Calmette, the editor of Le Figaro, because of his political attacks on her husband. "I did my duty and bear no malice," the editor said as he expired. Government, social, and political circles were stirred to their base by the sensational developments in the bitter feud between Caillaux and the editor. Mme. Caillaux is confined today in the St. Lazare women's prison.

CELEBRATED FIRST MASS.

Rev. Father Bennett Begins Priesthood Auspiciously.

TORONTO, March 23.—In St. Basil's Church yesterday at 10.30 a.m. Rev. John B. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Bennett, 75 Maitland Street, who was last Thursday ordained to the priesthood by Bishop O'Connor in South Orange, N.J., celebrated his first solemn High Mass. Father Bennett was attended by Rev. Thomas Heydon, of St. Michael's College as arch-priest; Rev. Father Williams, of East Toronto, as deacon and Rev. Joseph Ferguson, of Lindsay, as sub-deacon. The sermon was preached by Rev. James Ferguson, of South Orange, New Jersey, an uncle of the young priest, who delivered an eloquent discourse on the duties, responsibilities and opportunities of the priesthood. The Mass was celebrated with unusually elaborate ceremonial, and the musical programme was of a high order. The church was thronged with worshippers and many of Father Bennett's relatives and friends were in the congregation. Father Bennett will remain visiting his parents for a few days.

ENTHUSIASM SHOWN BY LIBERALS OF EAST RIDING AT ANNUAL MEETING

Dr. Munro, of Warsaw, Elected President — Stirring Speeches by W. A. Buchanan, Sam Clark and F. D. Kerr—Resolutions of Confidence Were Passed.

BIG CROWD IN THE EVENING

Examiner Special:

NORWOOD, March 23.—The annual meeting of the East Peterborough Liberal Association held in the Town Hall here on Saturday, provided ample proof that the beacon fires of the party in the eastern townships of the county are unquenched and unquenchable. The veterans of many a campaign were well represented, and their expressed confidence and faith in the principles of Liberalism were an example and encouragement to the large number of young men who were present, not a few of whom were apparently only in their twenties. Their interest was a promise of a generous supply of recruits to fill out the fighting ranks for future contests.

It was only the annual meeting of the association, but there was a latent enthusiasm manifested that augurs well for the party in East Peterborough. William T. Buck who has served actively in the past refused the nomination to re-elect him as president. The accident he suffered last summer in which one of his legs were amputated by a mower on his farm, has incapacitated him to some extent, but he is able to get around quite comfortably. Mr. Buck suggested that the position be given to another member of the association and Dr. Munro of Warsaw, was unanimously chosen.

In acknowledging the honour Dr. Munro made a neat little speech, saying that he would put forth his best efforts in the cause of the party. He is a comparatively young man, and as several of the members stated, has the necessary amount of "go" in his make-up.

Confidence in the Leaders.

One of the strong binding ties that called forth expressions of confidence and hope was a deep faith in the integrity and cleanness of the Liberal leaders, Mr. N. W. Rowell and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, reference to whom brought forth rounds of applause. Their respective policies were completely endorsed at the general meeting held in the afternoon and the cheerful, hopeful addresses by the special speakers in the evening stirred up an enthusiasm that found frequent expression.

Cheerfulness Abounds.

In every respect the annual meeting was decidedly bright. There is no gloom among the East Peterborough Liberals. As a number of them stated, they have every reason to be proud of the accomplishments of the past, and they are strong in the feeling that the Liberal policies and principles are predominently in the interests of the masses of the Dominion.

The Afternoon Meeting.

The active workers comprised the attendance of the afternoon meeting which was largely devoted to business. About one hundred were present from all parts of the riding. Mr. F. D. Kerr of Peterborough, and Mr. Sam Clark, M.P., for West Northumberland, were also present. They gave short addresses and in the evening were joined by Mr. W. A. Buchanan, M.P. of Medicine Hat, when all three spoke to an assemblage that filled the hall.

The Officers Elected.

The officers elected for the coming year were as follows:

President—Dr. Munro, Warsaw.
1st Vice-Pres.—John Hull, Lakefield.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Wm. T. Buck.
Sec-Treas.—W. A. Richardson, Norwood.

Township Vice-Presidents—
Dummer—Ed. Hawthorne.
Asphodel—Mr. R. Ehnhurst.
Lakefield—J. A. Richardson.
Burleigh and Anstruther — Duncan Brown.
Chandos—D. S. Campbell.
Douro—Michael Welsh.
Belmont—Jos. Johnston.
Havelock—Alex. Mathison.
Otonabee—W. S. Anderson and Fred Edson.
Norwood—Chas. O'Reilly.

Finances Discussed.

The question of finances was enquired into, after which Mr. W. A. Richardson called attention to the various literature that could be easily obtained respecting the proceedings of the Commons.

Mr. John Hull urged the members to subscribe to the Canadian Liberal Monthly, which he said he had found very helpful in the presentation of various matters concerning the party, and in the manner in which many questions are being dealt with by Parliament. Every Liberal should take this paper, he said, and not only read them, but preserve them for future reference.

Thanks to Mr. Buck.

Mr. Chas. O'Reilly moved, seconded

HOW JOHN BARLEYCORN BETRAYED TORY HECKLER AND LANDED HIM IN TROUBLE

Examiner Special:

NORWOOD, MARCH 23.

While Sam Clarke, M. P. P., was speaking on the Liberal "Abolish the Bar" policy in the Town Hall, here, on Saturday night, one of the rabid Conservatives of the Village provided a gratuitous object lesson and, at the same time, amused the speaker and the large audience. He had spent the day in Peterborough, and returned on the "local," highly pleased with the world in general, and particularly satisfied with himself. His wing collar was set on the bias, one of the wings striving to jab his ear, and his black tie clung in places only to the neck-band of his shirt. He gave some of the evidences of a good-natured drunk.

The "local" had not been in long until a "heckler" was heard in the hall. He called several remarks to W. A. Buchanan, who replied that he was deaf and couldn't hear a thing. Then he tackled Sam. Clarke. Mr. Clarke turned his attention to the interrupter and told him that if the would come up to the platform he would give him a hearing as soon as he finished the points he was dealing with. John Barleycorn, at one stage, swells a man's ego until he feels like a giant-killer. Apparently this one was lit to that stage, for it was he who stalked up the aisle, in answer to the invitation, mounted the platform and took the foremost seat. "I am reminded," said Mr. Clarke, "of the old quotation: 'Come unto Me all ye who are weary and heavy burdened and I will give ye rest'"; also "The spirit is not dead."

The audience responded with a hearty laugh, in which the heckler heartily joined. Several times he said 'that's right," and in clapping his hands he missed his aim, occasionally, as if his eyes told him there was a wide gap between them. Two or three things did not suit his line of thought and he interrupted, but, on the whole, was quite tractable, good-natured, and beamed at the audience as he sprawled in the chair. When the meeting was over Constable Puffer climbed to the platform and took him under his wing, and the descent was as rapid as it was long. From the chairman's seat he slid to the police cell under the stage of the hall, although the sliding process was out the front door and around the walk.

Drunk in a local option district was the reported charge, and it was not the first one. Some of the people said he had not paid his last fine for the same offence, and that he did not have the option of a fine in this case. The penalty, it was said, would be three months in jail. At any rate he added a touch of humour, cheap and sodden as it was, to the meeting, and provided an object lesson. The fact that the man was of Conservative persuasion did not please several of Norwood's prominent Tories who were noticed in the hall.

Said Mr. Clarke: "I haven't seen two men all day who showed any signs of having been drinking."

HAVE BOUGHT MORE GROUND

Trustees Will Provide Larger Play Grounds and Will Open an Additional Room After the Easter Holidays

ATTENDANCE IS GROWING

The trustees of May's School have arranged to open another room in their splendid buildings just outside the City, below Byersville. A meeting was held recently, when it was also decided to purchase another piece of property immediately west of the school grounds in order to provide additional play grounds for the children. The trustees have full powers to go ahead with the work, and arrangements have been made for paying for it. The extra room is now ready and will be opened after the Easter holidays. When the school was built two rooms on the upper floor were only partially finished, pending a demand for their use. Seventy children in one of the junior classes was altogether too large a number to be easily handled. There are now over 150 pupils in attendance and at the opening of the new term this number will likely be enlarged. With the addition to the play grounds the school should be well equipped in every particular. If the attendance continues to grow at its present rate it will not be long until the limit of its accommodation has been reached.

Funeral Of Late Walter Libby

Was Held on Sunday Afternoon to the Little Lake Cemetery—Many Tokens of Sympathy

The funeral of the late Walter Libby was held on Sunday afternoon from the family residence, Parnell street, to the Little Lake cemetery. A large number of the former Peterborough young man's friends paid their last respects by visiting the home, and many floral tributes were offered. Walter Libby was widely known, particularly among the young men of the south end with whom he had played the old games and attended school. To them his untimely death has been a decided shock, for his death to his old friends is a personal loss. It is true that he had removed to Detroit, but he returned during the holiday seasons, and was just the same natural Walter, untouched by the ways of the big city and the glamour that turns the heads of many others. His loss is keenly felt. Rev. H. P. Keith and Rev. Mr. Conners conducted the funeral services. Flowers were received from the Wm. Hamilton Co., Wilson and Short, of Detroit; Robt. Cook, Ernest Hubel, John Meharry, Mr. Warmington, Mrs. and Miss Jennie Gibson, Miss Susie Richardson, Dr. B. Garside, Walter Routly, Mr. and Mrs. Emery, and others.

The pall-bearers were Fred. Reid, Ernest Gibson, Gordon Libby, Arthur Fry, Arthur Libby, Martin Libby. Mourners were present from Toronto and Detroit.

LAND VERY HIGH IN CALIFORNIA

Former East City Man Writes of the Conditions

Mr. John Young, formerly of East City, who went to California last Fall, in a letter to the Examiner, states that they have had the best of weather in California this winter and having had a great deal of rain are looking forward to big crops. He says that land prices are high and that the land is selling at from $250 to $600 per acre, near Turlock, California. Mr. Young and family are well and have spent a delightful winter.

WILL DELIVER AN ADDRESS ON LIFE-SAVING

The Rev. C. W. Rose, of Brantford, is exchanging pulpits with the Rev. J. R. Webb, of the Murray Street Church, next Sunday.

Monday evening Mr. Webb will address the young people in Brantford.

Rev. Mr. Rose has consented to remain over in Peterborough on Monday evening, to give his lecture on life-saving. This lecture was given in Brantford three weeks ago, and the hall was packed to the doors on that occasion. Mr. Rose had experience as a sailor before going to college, although he is still a young man. His experience in life-saving has been such, as to put in his hands, a certificate signed by the present King himself. He also holds the medal of the Royal Humane Society for life-saving, and the golden penny, which is given away in England each year.

Mr. Rose is not an Englishman, but a Nova Scotian. The delivery of this story has been urged upon him, by his brethren in the ministry and who learning something of his past life, were anxious that the public should have an opportunity to hear him.

It is understood that there will be no charge for admission, but that a collection will be taken up to defray expenses.

HOME RULE FOR CANADA.

Hon. Winston Churchill, though he is a minister of a Liberal Government, still has in him a leaven of ancestral Toryism. He believes in the one eminent cardinal principle of your real Toryism — centralization — of power, privilege and influence, and the utmost limitation or utter elimination of self-government. Canada about three-quarters of a century ago, fought against Downing street rule and won recognition of the right to self-government, developed later into the complete self-government we enjoy and will not give up. The idea of naval concentration in the home waters, the Dominions to be tributary parties, is the revival of the spirit which Churchill favours, centralization, and hostile to the spirit of self-government, which is the indispensable bond of enduring empire. If Churchill is sincere in his advocacy of Home Rule for Ireland, why does he seek to limit Canada's self-government by depriving her of the power of building and controlling her own naval forces and demand centralizing authority at home? Self-government is admitted to be by all great statesmen irrespective of politics — except perhaps a few fossil remnants of by-gone statesmanship — the real true and only enduring bond of empire, and any limitation of its application is a retrograde step and a dividing not a combining element in holding together the various national entities of the Empire. Canada won't surrender its Home Rule.

WELL QUALIFIED.

The "brute majority" in the Ontario legislature has whitewashed Mr. G. Howard Ferguson, who broke the law of the land. His law-breaking has been condoned. What about Mr. Evanturel? He only broke the moral law and he was cast forth by the unanimous sentiment of the whole of the members of the Legislature. What a howl would have been raised, what a jeer jeered if the Liberal leader in the House had brought in a bill to whitewash Mr. Evanturel. In his case regard for principle and decency triumphed over party. In Mr. Ferguson's case partisanship triumphed over principle and decency. Why was the rush to indemnify Mr. Ferguson? Was he indispensable to the Legislature? With a three-to-one majority in the Legislature, Mr. Ferguson was not needed to save the government in case of a division. What was he needed for so badly, that all political decency had to be sacrificed to rush through a whitewashing bill by outrage of parliamentary rule and outrage of decency? Mr. Hanna can now rest more comfortably is perahps a partial explanation. If the Proudfoot charges, which Mr. Ferguson so effectively side-tracked last session, are reviewed, Mr. Ferguson's services will be available to keep the screen on the dark lantern, so that light will not be thrown upon the Provincial Secretary's questionable and, so far, unexplained, connection with contribution to corruption funds. We shall never know, unless Mr. Ferguson's right hand has forgotten its cunning whether Government Contractor Taylor voluntarily offered the $500 contribution to the party funds, or whether Mr. Hanna solicited it; whether that which Sir James Whitney saw Manna do wrong, in taking, was all the contribution. And we shall not have explained the relation of Contractor Taylor's gift on the money to the suspiciously rapid settlement of Contractor Taylor's claim against the Government, very much in Contractor Taylor's favour. Mr. Ferguson was a very handy man and he must be on hand when the Public Accounts election probe threatened to be used with dangerous energy. It is a great compliment to Mr. Ferguson that he was regarded as the only man in Sir James Whitney's following capable of ...the erring tracks of his min... that he was the only man ... capable of giving ... partizan service in investigating the management of a Dis...

minion work. Mr. Ferguson seems to have been well qualified for the specialties he has been chosen to exploit.

LAWBREAKERS APPOINTED TO PUBLIC OFFICE

OTTAWA, March 19.—Another story of a lawbreaker appointed in office and continued in office by the Borden Government was told in the Commons to-night, and some more light was shed on the remarkable cynicism of the ministry in respect to the methods and actions of the party workers it rewards with public positions.

The main story had to do with Ambrose Gray, an Alberta homestead inspector. Despite the fact that Mr. Gray had been convicted of breaking the law, he was appointed inspector after Mr. Borden became Premier. An active partizan for years past, Mr. Gray resigned his inspectorship at the beginning of April, 1913, to become a Conservative candidate against Hon. Wilfrid Gariepy in the Alberta Provincial elections. Defeated in these elections, said Mr. W. H. White, (the Liberal member for Victoria, Alberta), Mr. Gray was reappointed homestead inspector in the very riding in which he had been a political candidate. Thus, homesteaders who had been his supporters in the election and other homesteaders who had been his opponents were under his control in matters affecting the property which they were seeking to patent.

HOMESTEADERS COMPLAIN ..

Already, said Mr. White, there are homesteaders who claim that because they were opposed to Mr. Gray they have received "the worst of things," in subsequent relations with him as an official of the Interior Department.

Hon. George P. Graham joined with Mr. White and other members in condemning vigorously the methods which the Government had followed.

A POOR DEFENCE OFFERED ..

Hon. Dr. Roche had little defence to offer for the Government or Mr. Gray. For himself, he said, he knew nothing of the matter personally, but he would have an investigation undertaken if any charges were made.

Hon. J. D. Hazen jumped into the breach to assist the Minister of the Interior by use of the familiar tu quoque argument. He cited a case of some years back when a fishery inspector in New Brunswick had resigned to contest Sunbury as the Liberal candidate against him, and had been reappointed when the polling went Conservative. He, however, was not a law-breaker.

Pius Michaud (Madawaska, Victoria) countered neatly, however, by a reference to the more recent case of Max Cormier, who resigned Government positions in New Brunswick to run, first, as a Dominion candidate, and later as a Provincial nominee, and on each occasion was reappointed by the Conservatives.

ANOTHER STRIKIN GEXAMPLE

Levi Thompson (Qu'Appelle) made more trouble for Dr. Roche by bringing up the case of J. K. Smith, a convicted perjurer, appointed to office at Moose Jaw by the present Government. This case, he said, he had drawn to the Minister's attention himself a year ago, but apparently nothing had been done, for Smith was still in office. Was it the policy of the Government, he asked, to retain convicted law-breakers in office after the facts were put before the Ministers?

Dr. Roche was discreetly noncommittal when faced by the Smith case, but murmurings of tu quoque were heard from Government supporters. The incident closed with virtually no defence from the Ministerial benches of either the Smith or Gray case, and no assurance that the plan of appointing convicted offenders to Governmene positions would be abandoned.

PETERBOROUGH ATHLETIC CLUB AND COLLEGIATE WINNERS

Local Students Defeated Trinity College School 31 to 27 in Fine Game of Basketball—P. A. C. Beat Leaders in Opening Game of City League

Two lively games of basketball were seen in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium on Saturday night when the Peterborough Collegiate Institute defeated Trinity College school of Port Hope by 31 to 27, in an exhibition game, and the Peterborough Athletic Club beat the Senior Ladrs 53 to 41 in the opening fixture of the City Basketball League.

Th game between the two schools was hard fought and exciting all the way. Collegiate were in from most of the journey, leading at half time by 20 to 15, but T.C.S. pressed them hard and on several stages in the second half were only a basket behind. Collegiate, however, seemed able to let loose an extra link whenever the visitors threatened and held their lead until the finish. The home team's many fouls, of which full advantage was taken by T.C.S., gave the red and black team eleven points, Tayor and McCarter doing some fine shooting on penalties. The visitors had a snappy combination, but the Collegiate team's shooting from the field was more accurate, the splendid marksmanship of Knapman and Horsfield being responsible for most of the points. Peever started on the defense for the Collegiate. The teams were:

T.C.S.—

Defence—Morris, Cruikshanks.
Centre—Harvie (capt.)
Forwards—Taylor, McCarter.

Collegiate—

Defence—Peever, Rogers.
Centre—Cannif.
Forwards—Knapman, Horsfield.

The Peterborough Athletic Club team, the first representatives of the new organization to get into action, won the City League fixture handily. They cinched the game in the first few minutes by throwing five baskets before the Leaders scored, and from then on held their lead safely. It was 28 to 19 in favour of P.A.C. at half time and 52 to 41 at the finish. The game was a very clean and open one, with pretty shooting by both sides. Harper for the Leaders was high scorer for the night, finding the baskets twelve times. Long led the P.A.C. with eight to his credit, while Flowers tore off some great long distance shots.

The teams were:

Leaders—

Defence—Cunningham, Brown.
Centre—Harper.
Forwards—Rew, A. Flowers.

Peterborough A. C.—

Defence—Darling, Bartlett.
Centre—W. Flowers.
Forwards—Long, Smyth.

The points were scored as follows: Leaders — Cunningham 1 basket, Harper 12 baskets, Rew 2 baskets, 3 fouls, A. Flowers 4 baskets.

P.A.C.—W. Flowers 7 baskets, Long 8 baskets, Bartlett 5 baskets, 1 foul, Darling 1 basket, Smyth 4 baskets, 1 foul.

Referee—J. J. Thompson.

OPEN MEETING OF THE P. A. C.

Reports From Canvassers Will Be Presented on Wednesday Night

There will be an open meeting of the Peterborough Athletic Club in the Y.M.C.A. board room on Wednesday night and every member is asked to be on hand sharp at 8 o'clock. The canvassers who have been soliciting funds for the club will report at this meeting and the members will decide the next steps to be taken. Every one interested is urged to make it a point to attend this meeting, which will be the most important yet held by the club.

Membership tickets are now out and may be secured from the officers. Every member and all those wishing to join are asked to secure their tickets before Wednesday night if possible.

ATHLETICS TO PLAY IN BRANTFORD

BRANTFORD, March 22.—The appearance here of the world's champions, the Philadelphia Athletics, will be the feature of the Old Home Week celebration in Brantford in August next. Baseball enthusiasts yesterday closed negotiations with President Shibe and Connie Mack of the Athletics by paying a guarantee, the highest ever paid for any amusement attraction in this city.

The team will play, it is expected, against the best team that can be picked from the Canadian league. President Nelson of the Brantford club will endeavour to secure the consent of the magnates of the Canadian League to select at least one man from every team so that out of these, with the full Brantford and Erie teams available, a fast nine can be selected. The game will be played August 11.

THE P. A. C. WILL NOT BE A MONOPOLY

There seems to be a misapprehension in certain quarters as to the aims and objects of the Peterborough Athletic Club.

"You fellows want to have a monopoly," remarked one citizen to a club member who was soliciting support. "You're going to organize a City Baseball League, and with most of the good ball players already members of your club you'll put a team in the League that will be too fast for the rest."

This citizen has an entirely wrong conception of the purposes of the Athletic Club. Those at the head of the organization realize that there is nothing more harmful to the welfare of local sport than a monopoly. The Peterborough Athletic Club will not be represented in the City Baseball League if one is formed, or in the Junior City Hockey League or similar organizations. The members of the club will be as free to join the different City League teams as if they had not joined the P.A.C. In fact they will be encouraged to do so.

The Athletic Club proposes to encourage the different local Leagues in every way possible, but there its activities will rest. Of course the P.A.C. could place teams in city organizations, teams probably too strong for other clubs, but such a step would be disastrous to the best interests of sport, and has not and will not be thought of by the club's officers. The Athletic Club's energies will be devoted towards stimulating and encouraging the different local leagues, and at the same time to placing the strongest teams in the field to represent the city against outside cities in different lines of sport. For instance it is proposed to have a Peterborough Athletic Club baseball team picked from the best material available to play exhibition games with outside teams. There may be a P.A.C. soccer team along the same lines, and if the members desire it a P.A.C. lacrosse team for outside competition. These different teams will not interfere with local leagues in any way. City leagues are the best possible development grounds for every branch of sport and the citizens of Peterborough may depend upon the Peterborough Athletic Club to be behind every movement that tends to the best interests of sport.

The special objects of the Club will be to see that young athletes get a chance. In Peterborough, as in many other places, the "comers" in different lines of sport have not always been given an opportunity. There has been too much of the principle that because Jones played rover or Smith played defence last year, that you to have to start this year's team with Jones at rover and Smith on defence. This has been the case here as well as in many other places, and it is a system that is not progressive to say the least. The Athletic Club will give the young players th chance they have been looking for, and the officers are confident that a couple of years under the new method will convince the citizens of the wisdom of the course.

The campaign for funds for the establishment of headquarters is well under way, and most encouraging has been the reception given the canvassers. It is hoped that by Wednesday night when there will be an open meeting of the club ,that a sufficient sum will have been raised to permit going ahead at once to secure and equip club-rooms. Get in behind and help the good work along.

PETERBOROUGH WRESTLERS MADE GOOD SHOWING IN THE TORONTO TOURNEY

The three Peterborough wrestlers, members of the Y.M.C.A. wrestling class, who went to Toronto on Saturday evening to compete in the Toronto city championships, brought back only one prize, but distinguished themselves nevertheless. In spite of the fact that they were competing against experienced wrestlers, a number of whom had been wrestling for from five to ten years and who had competed in a number of tournaments only recently, none of the Peterborough wrestlers were thrown, losing their bouts on points in each case. In two cases the men who defeated them were the winners in the finals.

The Peterborough wrestlers were Harold Lees, who took part in the 115 lb. class; H. Hartikanen, who took part in the 125 lb. class, and Will Scott, who competed in the 145 lb. class. Two weeks and a half ago the local Association received an invitation from the Central Y.M.C.A. to send competitors to compete in the Toronto championships. This gave the Peterborough men very little chance to get ready. None of them had had a chance to take part in any tournament and therefore they lacked the experience, whereas there have been several tournaments lately in Toronto, with the result that the Toronto wrestlers were all experienced men and in the pink of condition.

In the 115 class Lees competed against W. Clay of the West End Y. M.C.A. Clay is almost perfectly developed physically, and has been wrestling for about ten years, during which time he has won many important bouts. On Saturday night he won the 105 lb. class and then took part in the 115 lb. class where he met Lees. Lees was as quick and stronger than Clay, but was not in a good condition and lacked a little insicience. In spite of this Lees had Clay in difficulties on a couple of occasions and once dropped him on his shoulders but off the mat, so the fall was not allowed. Clay's science enabled him to get two or three chancery and cross buttock holds on Lees, none of which was he able to convert into a fall. At the end of 6 minutes of as good wrestling as was seen during the night, Clay got the decision on points, there being no fall. With a little more training and time to develop science, Lees should be able to defeat Clay in another bout. Clay got into the finals where he lost on points to R. Hood of the Centrals, whom he had defeated on previous occasions.

In the 125 lb. class Hartikanen met A. Durnan of the Centrals, the final winner. Durnan has been wrestling for years and was possibly the best scienced man who competed on Saturday night in any of the classes. He had a peculiar scissor hold from the rear which he got on Hartikanen near the start, and which Hartikanen was unable to break away from. Durnan is an expert with this hold, and won the final bout with it. Hartikanen made a splendid showing. He was not in serious danger of being thrown at any stage of the bout, but lost on points, because he was unable to shake off his man. The fact that he was able to stay the limit without being thrown in view of his lack of experience, was a most creditable showing.

In the 145 lb. class there were six entries, among them some of the best known wrestlers in Toronto. These included A. Gibson, of the Centrals, a previous city championship holder, and Adams, a crack wrestler from the West End Y.M.C.A., a winner of several open tournaments. In his first bout Scott from Peterborough met Harpley of the Centrals. Scott showed up awkwardly at first, but had the science and when he came to grips was able to beat his man decisively on points. In the semi-finals he met Adams. Scott was the aggressor for a short period at the first of the bout, but Adams broke out and obtained a neck and arm hold which he should have quickly converted into a fall, but Scott held him off with a leg-lock and lasted out the six minutes without a fall. The fact that Scott who had never wrestled out side of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. before, with very little training was able to hold off a crack wrestler like Adams for six minutes, was a great credit to him. Scott won a medal for getting into the semi-finals. He lost to Adams on points. Adams later won the finals. The showing made by the three Peterborough wrestlers was sufficiently creditable to ensure wrestling receiving quite a boom locally.

What Makes A Baseball Curve?

That a pitched baseball curves in the direction in which the nose of the ball is moving because of the spin—upward if the twist given by the pitcher is upward, toward the right if the twist is to the right, and so on—is a matter of experience that is quite comprehensible, but how a hard-pitched ball should jump sidewise in a most irregular manner, although pitched straight without spinning is puzzling In The Journal of the Franklin Institute for January Prof. W. S. Franklin of Lehigh University expounds the phenomenon as well as the philosophy of twisted balls. Multitudes of "fans" who have always supposed that the baffling qualities of a straight-pitched ball were due simply to its swiftness never suspected this eccentricity. Prof. Franklin states the case in this way:

Consider a very smooth ball is moving through still water without spinning. There is certainly no more reason why the ball should jump to the right than to the left. Therefore it must continue to move straight forward! That is good logic; but such a ball is no more subject to logic than is a sharp stick. The fact is that the ball does jump sidewise, and in a most irregular manner. This may be shown by dropping a smooth marble in a jar of still water. The marble goes nearly straight for several inches, and then suddenly jumps sidewise. Similarly, a smooth baseball jumps sidewise irregularly as it moves through the air, if the ball is not spinning.

The explanation lies in the fact that a rapidly moving stream of air splits when it flows past a ball with unstable dividing lines or vortex sheets; the unstable sheet wil spurt now upward, now downward. The condition is the same when the ball splits the air and is shunted in a glancing manner past the bat. The only requisite for this baffling effect is power in the pitchers arm.

BASEBALL

Garland ("Chief") Nevitt, the Delaware Indian catcher who has just been sold to St. Thomas, in the Canadian league, promises to be a very active contender for a regular place on the team. He has been in constant athletic training throughout the winter on a physical education school operated in connection with the Battle Creek sanatorium. In this way he is enabled to begin the playing season in excellent physical fitness.

Nevitt is 23 years old, is a full-blooded Delaware Indian, born in Oklahoma, and educated at the Haskell Indian school, where he was a close friend of Jim Thorpe, the renowned Indian player now with the New York Giants.

Nevitt's first professional engagement was with Battle Creek, where he has played for three years, being the catcher mainstay during the time.

He is nimble-witted, very quick, agile, holds runners close to the bags, and is cool in the crisis. He hits either right or left-handed, and is rated as a good batsman at all times.

The Indian's chief claim to distinction is that he is the only vegetarian ball player under contract. Not only does he abstain from meats, but refuses coffee and all stimulants. He also forgets tobacco in all its forms.

Brantford Expositor: To turn our attention to baseball. Fred Bramble, who was picked up in the draft by Fort Wayne from Berlin, has refused to sign up unless he gets a bigger salary, and he has been suspended, while Dave Inker, the Saints' backstop, is also a member of the A.O.H. —not Hibernians—but Ancient Order of Holdouts. Both of them feel that the Feds want them. They are being kpt company by Gilhooley, last year with Hamilton, while the champions are all along on the demand for more money. And that despite the fact that the league is still Class C.

Knoble, the Pennsylvania semi-professional bal player signed by Midge Craven, last year succeeded in winning 16 games out of the 17 in which he participated. At this rate he will be a valuable addition to the hurling staff. He was recommended to the Saints by a Providence catcher, who is a friend of Midge's, and was communicated with by Craven. He is a young fellow and has the weight and speed behind his curves. He is very optimistic and says he hopes to have as long a string of victories this year as last.

St. Thomas Journal: An Ottawa scribe says that Knotty Lee will not manage any club this year because the league won't stand for him any longer. Those are harsh words.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 21.—Minor league baseball organizations in all parts of the country have about completed preparations for the opening of what they predict will be a season of blue-ribbon prosperity, and this notwithstanding the threat of the Federal league to grab all of their players who showed class, without the formality of handing over real money for their release.

While keping one eye on the Federals the minor league magnates have kept steadily on the job all winter, strengthening their circuits wherever possible, making up the season's schedules and signing managers and players. Numerous changes in circuits and in team managers have taken place since the close of last season.

One of the most notable of the changes was the transfer of the Toledo team of the American Association to Cleveland. The Cleveland team will be managed by the veteran Jim Sheckard, and will play its home games on the American league grounds while the Naps are on the road.

Two other new managers will pilot teams in the American Association. Bill Armour returns to the game as manager of the Kansas City Blues, and Jack Hendricks will have charge of the Indianapolis outfit.

The Southern league circuit remains the same as last year. New managers selected include the following: Mique Finn, Memphis; Harry McCormick, the former Giant, at Chattanooga; John Dobbs, at New Orleans; Robert Gilks, at Montgomery, and Bris Lord, formerly of the Boston Braves, at Mobile.

Erie, Pa., and Toronto, Ont., have displayed Berlin and Guelph in the Canadian league circuit. George Smith, former Boston-Buffalo manager, will pilot the Erie team.

The "Little Old" New England league has dropped Fall River, and Brockton and admitted Fitchburg, Mass., anad Lewiston, Me., to the circuit. Fred Lake, veteran big league player and manager, will own and manage the Fitchburg team, while William McMahon has been signed to manage the Lewiston outfit.

In the Tri-State league Reading takes the place of Atlantic City. Harry (Izzy) Hoffman, formerly of the Chicago Cubs, has been signed as pilot of the new team. In the same league John Castle, who managed the Atlantic City team last season, goes to Allentown as manager. The veteran Zeke Wrigley will lead the Trenton team.

Several managerial changes have been announced in the Three-I league recently. Clarence Rowland, owner and manager of the Dubuque team for several years, has signed as manager for Peoria, while Forrest Plass succeeds Rowland at Dubuque. Howard Wakefield, formerly of the Cleveland Naps, joins the league as manager of the Springfield team.

Five of the eight clubs in the New York State league have engaged new managers for this season. The new managers are: Fred Payne, Syracuse; John Kelly, Scranton; Pete Noonan, Wilkesbarre; Wid Conroy, veteran big league infielder, Elmira; and Eddie Phelps, former Brooklyn catcher, Albany.

The Waterbury franchise in the Eastern Association has been bought by Lee Fohl, who managed the Akron, O., team last season. Meriden, in the association last season, has been dropped and the team transferred to New Britain.

At the recent meeting of the Northern league Minneapolis and La Crosse were dropped and Fargo, N. D., and Fort William, Ont., added to the circuit.

The South Atlantic league will open the season with the eight-club circuit this year, having granted franchises to Columbia, S.C., and Augusta, Ga. Both cities were members of the league several years ago.

Clinton and Marshalltown, Iowa, are the new cities in the Central Association circuit. They supplant Monmouth and Kewanee, Ill.

In the Virginia league Roanoke loses its manager, "Buck" Pressly, who goes to the Norfolk team as pilot.

The new managers in the North Carolina league include Louis Cook, Asheville; Thomas L. (Red) Owen, Greensboro, and Jack Spaulding, Charlotte.

A notable change among Texas league managers is the selection of Pat Newman to succed John Fillman, the veteran manager of the Houston team.

Of the new leagues to start business this season the Colonial league seems to be attracting most attention. This league will have a tight little circuit made up of Brocton, Fall River, New Bedford and Attleboro, Mass., and Woonsocket and Newport, R.I.

The old Western Association is to be revived by cities of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, and a new Ohio and West Virginia is to be placed on the map before the season gets under way.

Number One outfit of the White Sox was trimmed pretty regularly by the Coast League teams this season.

In the practice games of the Detroit Tigers the sweet walloping of one Kavanaugh caused H. Jennings to see visions of another Cobb or Crawford.

An attack of malaria may keep Heine Wagner, short stop of the Red Sox, out of the game until the championship season is under way.

A New York scribe says the Giants who made the world tour have become chronic tea drinkers. Larry McLean was not a member of the touring party.

The Fort Wayne team of the Central League is to open the season at home this year for the first time in the dozen years it has been in the circuit.

The Marshalltown Central Association team is to be known as the "Anons" in honour of the Cap Adrian Anson, the old Chicago player and manager, and the first white child born in Marshalltown.

None of the Athletics' recruits seem to have it on George Brickley, a brother of Charlie Brickley, of Harvard football fame. Brickley, a right-hand pitcher, is the hardest hitter of any of Mack's youngsters.

Now that he has signed Mike Doolan, Manager Otto Knabe, of the Baltimore Federals, would give his shirt to land Hans Lobert. All three played together with the Phillies for several years.

Miller Huggins says his Cardinals will not be crippled by the desertion of Evans to the Federals, since he had planned to can Steve anyway. It must be true that all of the players who jumped to the Feds were ready for the scrap heap when they flopped.

In the recent series between the St. Louis Browns and the St. Louis Cubs the Cubs started off like sure winners. But it all ended with the start. When the series concluded the Browns had the Cubs looking like Kelley's army at Sacramento.

According to recent statements of certain big league moguls, John McGraw is the highest salaried manager and Tris Speaker, Johnny Evers and Ed. Sweeney are the highest salaried players. If this is true Ty Cobb must have to buy a ticket to get through the gate.

BOXING

Young Ahearn put up a classy battle in Paris the other night when he stopped Adrien Hogan, the Frenchman, in 11 rounds.

June 9 is the date and Los Angeles the place now decided on for the much discussed Johnny Dutton-Kid Williams mixup.

Willie Ritchie has taken up golf. He says he would rather be a champion golfer than a champion boxer.

"Battling" Levinsky, who has been wading through the middleweights and heavyweights, will tackle "Pueblo Jim" Flynn at Troy, N.Y., April 6.

All but fools know fear sometime.

The Evils Of Intemperance

Outlined by Father Minehan at the Church of the Sacred Heart Yesterday Morning

"The Evils of Intemperance" was the topic of a sermon by Father Minehan of Toronto, which he delivered yesterday morning at high mass at the Church of the Sacred Heart.

He took for his text, Galatians, 4: 31—"So then, we are not children of the bond woman, but of the free".

It is certain, he said, that you are far ahead of Toronto; you are one of the most flourishing cities in Canada. You have been blessed in this City with one who is now your Chief Pastor and who has, for years, been associated with the Abstinence movement, and long may it continue so blessed, and it is hoped that ere long you wil have some of your abstinence workers coming down to Toronto.

As it now lies before us, it is the bold Christian liberty. Christ hath made us free. The true friend of liberty is the Catholic Church. There is, however, one deadly enemy of liberty, one deadly enemy of freedom, and that deadly enemy is the deadliest of enemies, and that is intemperance.

Father Minehan then gave an instance of where an application was made for a licensed house, opposite a factory, and the owners of the factory strongly objected to the license being granted, because, they claimed, it would reduce the ability of their workmen by one-fourth. The man who impoverishes his efficiency by drink is, continued the speaker, a thief, and the worst kind of thief. One-quarter of the wages that he got would be gone, because of drink.

There are millions and tens of millions every year, who do this. What is liberty? It has been defined by great and inspired men. It means giving a chance for man to help himself. There must be, however, certain restraints. But these restraints should interefere as little as possible with liberty. He had heard the remark made once that England must kill the public houses, or the public houses will kill England. By the police records of last year there were nineteen thousand people arrested in Toronto for drunkenness; and they are not arrested in that city unless they are unable to go home alone. On Christmas Eve last, the jails were so full that no more could be accommodated. Just imagine that scene. While the bells were ringing "Glory to God in the Highest" there lay thousands, senseless and prone, upon the cell floors, while those at home were watching and waiting for the Christmas cheer and, in some cases, a meal that they never got. There was not one of these but what could take a glass and leave it alone, but they would not. Strong drink can do what the cannon cannot do. Strong drink is one of the deadliest foes of civic liberty. It is also worse for intellectual liberty. We have far too much of it and we have seen the influence of drink upon our men of intellectual ability. This whirlpool of strong drink has sucked down some of the greatest men of intellect. Therefore; I say, that Christian liberty which is a purchased liberty hath made us free. We should do everything in our power to make it impossible for the evils of strong drink to wind his passions around us.

There is one safe way of Christian liberty, and that is to put an insurmountable wall between you and that demon slave driver, intemperance.

A GOOD SELECTION

When J. W. Norcross was selected for the important post of Managing Director of the Canada Steamship Lines, one of his first moves was to appoint W. E. Burke as his assistant. This selection was a natural one in view o fthe able assistance he has had from Mr. Burke in the building up of his large and successful shipping business. Mr. Burke brings to his new position an unusual experience for a man of his years. Known and widely popular all over the Great Lakes, his personality and executive ability will, undoubtedly, be a big factor in the working out of the plans for the improvement of the various divisions of the Canada Steamship Lines, which, in all, comprise a fleet of no less than 101 boats.

INTERESTING SERVICES IN PARK STREET

SERVICES EACH NIGHT

Large congregations attended the revival services that were held in Park Street Baptist Church on Sunday. In the morning the church was filled to overflowing. Evangelist Pugsley took his subject from John xx.. 20:, "He showed unto them His hands and His side."

"A life of service," said the speaker, "always leaves marks of suffering and sacrifice. Christ showed His hands and His side as a result of a life of service.".

THE AFTERNOON SERVICE.

The service in the afternoon was devoted to women. Evangelist Pugsley gave a practical and helpful talk on public and private life in the home. "Home," he said, "constituted one of the greatest institutions in the world. A mother's first duty was in the home."

THE EVENING SERVICE.

In the evening the church was crowded to the doors. The galleries and aisles were filled. The speaker based his remarks on the sixteenth chapter of St. Luke, from the nineteenth to the thirty-first verse, which deals with the story of the rich man and Lazarus. "Hell," said Evangelist Pugsley, "is the result of a misspent life." His remarks pertaining to the subject were extremely practical and interesting.

The singing was exceptionally good and was augmented by a large chorus choir.

The services will continue throughout this week. Subjects of special interest will be dealt with each evening.

REMAIMED TO CALL FIRE DEPARTMENT AND PERISHED IN FLAMES

Graphic Account of the Manner in Which Walter Libbey Lost His Life in Detroit Fire.

TOO LATE TO ESCAPE

A Canadian lost his life in a fire that destroyed the five storey building at 51-55 East Woodbridge Street, Detroit, Thursday afternoon. Unlike 15 fellow workmen he did not make a dash for safety when smoke started pouring through cracks in the floor of the machine shop. Instead he thought of the employers and their property. He started out with the men when the shout of warning came, but turned back immediately afterward and grabbing the receiver off the telephone frantically signalled to get central. Other employees shouted to him but he stuck to his post yelling into the telephone mouthpiece in a vain endeavour to get a reply and notfiy the fire department.

Walter Libby, 24 years old, a Peterborough boy boarding with his brother, Martin, at 25 Victoria Avenue, Windsor, was the youth who died in the fire when he preferred to call the fire department by telephone rather than make his escape. James Law, 42 years old, a fellow employee of Libby, was trapped with him on the fifth storey of the buildingand was burned to death.

Saw Brother Die.

Martin Libby, a younger brother of the unfortunate Peterborough youth, was employed with him, but left the building when the first warning was given.

"The fire did not seem at all serious at first," he said to The Record this morning. "When I first saw the flames a few pails of water could have put out the blaze. However I took no chances and rushed downstairs with the rest of the men and stood across the street from the building watching the smoke pour from the upper stories. Not for one minute did I think my brother was trapped up there.

"I stood there looking when suddenly he appeared at a window on the fifth floor. He threw his hat, apparently to draw attention, and as I yelled to him to hang on until the ladders were put up he fell back into the flames. That was the last I saw of Walter. I knew that there was no chance to save him, although the ladders were at the window a few moments after he disappeared."

When the body was recovered on the fourth floor, where apparently the man had made his final effort to escape, it was not very badly burned, the remains being recognizable. The body was taken to Peterborough this afternoon.

Walter Libby was born at 477 Parnell Street, Peterborough, where he lived up till last August, when he moved to Windsor and secured employment in Detroit. He was a first class machinist and foreman of the department where was employed.

He is survived, besides his brother Martin, by a brother, Lewis, and sister Maude, living in Peterborough.

Loss of $125,000.

He was employed as foreman for Wilson & Short, and was sitting at the desk in the office on the fifth floor when other workmen saw smoke coming through the floor. He picked up the telephone to call the fire department. He was unable to get central and as he was flashing his receiver frantically to get central the flames were spreading all the time.

Someone telephoned a still alarm to the fire department, but whether Libby did finally get a connection with the fire department over the phone, or whether someone else called the department is not known.

It is estimated there were about 60 persons in the building when the fire broke out. Fifteen machinists and tool makers were at work on the fifth floor of the building and both Law and Libby were among this force.

Four manufacturing firms which occupied the structure, formerly the old storage warehouse, were made homeless by the fire, which caused $125,000 damage. The firms and the floors they occupied are: The Haughton Elevator & Machine Company of Toronto, first floor; Williams & Houghton Printing Company, second floor; the Cravenette Globe Manufacturing Company, fourth floor, and the Wilson & Short Machine Company, fifth floor. The third floor of the building was vacant.

HELPFUL SERVICE AT GEORGE STREET

Last evening a very inspiring service was held in the George Street Methodist Church. A very large congregation filled every available seat, and a powerful evangelistic sermon was delivered by the pastor, the Rev. R. G. Peever. The pastor took his text from Revelation 3:20, which reads as follows: "Behold I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice and open the door I will come in to him and will sup with him and he with me."

After the regular service, to which the choir contributed a splendid anthem, a song service was held. This was attended by the majority of the congregation, and those who took part were the recipients of the enthusiasm inspired by the truths of the Gospel as emphasized in the hymns.

MR. N. C. CAMERON AND DOLLAR DAY

Peterborough, March 22, 1914.

Editor Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Several misleading statements have been made by one or two parties in the City as to the attitude I took as secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association in connection with Dollar Day.

These statements have been made with a not very lofty purpose in view, and as you are fully conversam with all the facts, I would ask that you make the matter perfectly plain to your readers.

Our letter to you on March 6th in itself should explain our attitude, but would prefer to have your statement of fact.

We are now in a position to put a stop to many existing evils and to fulfil the principle the Association stands for: To make it easy to do right and hard to do wrong in trade.

Yours truly,

N. C. Cameron.

In connection with the above letter of Mr. Cameron, the Examiner publishes below his letter to them of March 6th, which was his attitude then on Dollar Day. The method of the distribution of the Treasure Box by the merchants as carried out on Dollar Day was approved of by Mr. Cameron (estimating blanks with no restriction), and is satisfatcory to him so far as future dollar days are concerned. He believes that the next Dollar Day in Peterbrough will produce unprecedented business in Peterborough.

Peterborough, Ont., March 6, '14.

The Peterborough Examiner,

Peterborough,

Dear Sirs,—We are pleased with the efforts you are putting forth towards boosting March 12th as Dollar Day in the Peterborough stores, and in which many merchants should co-operate.

There is one feature about it, however, that we cannot endorse, and that is, the giving of coupons for prises, as this would be a violation of the Trading Stamp Law. This, however, could be easilyovercome by cutting out that feature of it, and if this is done, you will have our heartiest and most vigorous support in making March 12th a shopping day long to be remembered in Peterborough, by the merchants and customers alike. It is a splendid idea, and if the above suggestion is accepted, we believe that the movement will have the unanimous support of every merchant in Peterborough.

On behalf of the Executive Board, I remain,

Yours truly,

N. C. Cameron,

Secretary.

A CASE FOR INVESTIGATION AT CHEMONG

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your valued paper to ask the following:

A feeling of regret has come to the minds of some of the people owning cottages in Chemong Park. A report has come to light that a horse died in the Village of Bridgenorth from a disease pronounced as unknown by a Veterinary Surgeon of this City and was drawn out and left on the edge of the spring creek that runs through the Park and empties into Chemong Lake. Now, as the Spring freshets are at hand are the germs of this diseased animal not inclined to be washed into this creek and be carried down the stream into Chemong Lake. I would urge that the Sanitary Inspector of the Township of Smith would look into this matter and report publicly in the papers, if it is not true. If this report is true does it not lead to a straight case of polluting the water in Chemong Lake.

Resolution By Board Of Trade

The Ontario Associated Boards of Trade Want a Commission of Inquiry Appointed

The appended communication has been received by Mr. T. Quartermaine, secretary of the Peterborough Board of Trade. It is self-explanatory. It will probably be dealt with at a meeting of the Board of Trade that has been called for this evening.

The communication is as follows:

T. Q. Quartermaine, Esq., Secretary Board of Trade, Peterborough, Ont.

In pursuance of a resolution passed by the Toronto Board of Trade—a copy of which is enclosed—which was at the time forwarded to your Board, a large and representative deputation, consisting of representatives from Toronto City Council, Union of Canadian Municipalities, Ontario Associated Boards of Trade, Toronto Trades and Labour Council, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Toronto Guild of Civic Art and Toronto Housing Company, waited upon the Provincial Secretary, urging the Government to appoint a Commission of Inquiry to collect facts and information useful to municipalities in connection with the subjects named in the resolution. The Provincial Secretary gave a most sympathetic hearing to the delegates, and it was felt by those present that the Government would take the same view.

The establishment of a Government Municipal Department is also contemplated, which could furnish expert advice and assistance to all municipalities.

GOVERNMENT COMMISSION.

Resolved that the Board of Trade of the city of Toronto co-operate with other Boards of Trade and municipalities in urging the Ontario Government to appoint a commission to study and report upon the whole question of municipal legislation regarding matters in which these associations are immediately interested. Such inquiry would necessarily include town planning, housing, the abolition of slums, the creation of a Government Department having jurisdiction over all municipalities, and to whom must be submitted plans of all sub-divisions of property, the laying out of streets and the ear-marking for park or municipal purposes of land in sections in which one or more municipalities have now — or may have within a reasonable period — a substantial interest, and the advisability of granting to municipalities power to delegate authority to commissions to carry out specific works of improvement.

The scope of the subject is broad and important, and should be studied in the light of experience in Germany, England, the United States and other countries, and the Legislative and Municipal Acts of such countries should be carefully examined for the purpose of enacting such laws in Ontario as may be deemed advisable after applying the information secured to the conditions which obtain here.

(Sgd.) F. G. Morley, Secretary.

Adopted, Council meeting, Board of Trade, of the city of Toronto, April 10th, 1913.

Son Of Indian Chief Dead

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Ont., March 23.—Norman Manass, 19, only son of Great Chief Manass, of Kettle Point Indian Reserve, died at his home yesterday of pneumonia. The young Indian was very active around Kettle Point following the big storm of November 9, and was tireless in the search for the wreckage of lost steamers. As a result he contracted a very severe cold. The funeral will be held to Indian cemetery on Wednesday afternoon and will be the most impressive ever seen on the reserve.

RETURNED FROM THE OLD COUNTRY

Mr. C. Harwood, manager of the carpet and draperies department of Robt. Fair and Co., has just returned from a seven weeks' business trip to the Old Country. He spent most of his time in London, where he looked up new ideas for his department. Mr. Harwood stated to the Examiner this morning that he had a very rough passage both going over and coming back. He went on the Steamship "Ascania" and returned on the Royal Edward. He had the honour of being chairman for the concerts on both trips when quite a good sum was realized for the seamen's fund.

Will Addddress A Meeting

In Peterborough on Wednesday Evening

Mayor Buller is calling a meeting of citizens to determine what part Peterborough will take in the proposed celebration of the Hundred Years of Peace with the United States, in 1915. Major C. F. Hamilton, Hon. Secretary of the Canadian Peace Centenary Association, will address a meeting in Peterborough on Wednesday evening next. He will explain the movement which is taking so large a hold in Canada and the United States.

A special invitation is extended to members of the City Council, Board of Trade, Board of Education, Canadian Club, and other organizations. The meeting will be held in the City Council Chamber.

"THE MENACE" IS BARRED

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, March 23.—The ban of the Canadian post office has been placed upon a strongly anti-Catholic weekly publication called "The Menace," published at Aurora, Missouri, and Canadian edition of papers which the publishers are now endeavouring to establish at Aurora, Ontario. It is found that the material was of a virulent character, calculated to discredit the Roman Catholic religion. In one number was found a challenge to debate upon the resolution, "That the Roman Catholic priesthood were a bunch of white slavers." The Department decided that no paper which had for its sole purpose to discredit any one class, had a right to receive the privilege of the mails. As a result one of the recent issues comes out with a flaring denunciation of Canada's post office department, calling the department the "hirelings of Pope Pius."

Saved Her Children From Flames

Special Wire to The Examiner:

MONTREAL, March 23.—The heroism of Mrs. Joseph Ouimet saved her four little children from terrible death last night when their home caught fire. She rushed through the flames twice, bringing her children to safety. Then she wanted to go back for her husband, who was struggling inside the building with clothing, but he was rescued by firemen.

FELL ONTO THE ICE; FRACTURING HIS KNEE.

Chas. Roberts, of Murray Township, Lay Unconscious All Through Night.

BELLEVILLE, March 23. — On Saturday morning a resident of Trenton found Charles Roberts, of Murray Township, lying alive on the ice in the River Trent. It appears that Roberts, on Friday night, had been on a bridge and had fallen to the ice below. He fractured his knee in the fall and became unconscious. Exposure to the cold night air resulted in his feet and hands being badly frozen.

After temporary aid was rendered in Trenton he was brought on Saturday to Belleville Hospital for treatment.

by Mr. Hull, than the thanks of the Association be tendered to Mr. Buck, the retiring president, for the faithful services he had rendered while occupying that position. Mr. Buck acknowledged this appreciation and promised to continue his interest in the Association. A resolution was passed on motion by Mr. Buck that the sympathy of the Association be extended to the family of the late Hon. Sir George Ross. It was carried unanimously.

Resolution of Confidence.

The meeting saw two resolutions put on the books, and the manner in which they were received was most enthusiastic.

That the Liberals of East Peterborough in convention assembled desire to express their confidence in N. W. Rowell as leader of the Liberal party in the Ontario Legislature, and that we heartily endorse his progressive platform on moral and temperance lines as well calculated to advance the best interests of the people of the province.

Confidence in Laurier.

Moved by J. E. Richardson, seconded by Jos. Johnston:

That the Liberals of East Peterborough place on record their confidence in the brilliant leadership of their great chieftain, the Right Honourable Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and pledge their strong and hearty support in his campaign against trade restrictions and in his statesmanlike efforts toward the organization of a Canadian navy.

An Enthusiastic Reception.

There is no doubt of the Hon. W. A. Buchanan's popularity in Norwood. Time after time has he received an enthusiastic welcome in his old home town, but never one warmer or more spontaneous than that which greeted him in the Norwood Town Hall on Saturday evening. The hall was crowded to the doors with an audience that cheered to the echo, when the Federal member from Medicine Hat appeared on the platform, and again when he began to speak.

A striking feature of Mr. Buchanan's address was his refutation of the arguments used by the Conservative party concerning the reciprocity agreement and his counter claim that the future prosperity of the last great West was dependent upon legislation designed to create a wider market for the Canadian farmer.

The Canadian West.

"The West is a young man's country," said Mr. Buchanan. Many of you have relatives or friends in the west, and I believe that you all desire that the West shall prosper. We have a period of depression in the west, and the great majority of the people out there believe that had the electors endorsed the reciprocity agreement in 1911 we would not have had a wave of depression in nineteen hundred and thirteen and fourteen. You would have seen the price of farm commodities going up instead of down. What did we find when the United States government revised the tariff, enabling Canadian cattle to enter the United States free of duty. The value of cattle to the Canadian farmer increased. That shows that the arguments presented by the Liberal party in 1911 were sound. We want tariff relief in the West. We want wider markets. We have been advised to go into mixed farming. We have been doing this and find that the same argument prevails."

Want Tariff Removed.

"I am a low tariff advocate," said Mr. Buchanan with considerable emphasis. "I am prepared to stand for a fair tariff that will not injure the manufacturers of the East and at the same time will work out for the common good. We want the tariff removed from farm implements. There was a time in the history of Canada when nearly every county possessed an implement industry, but of late years the implement manufacturers have been merging for their own interests. The high tariff on implements enables the manufacturer to compete in all parts of the world but not in Canada. We want free wheat. This is a very important necessity. If we remove the duty on wheat, the United States government will do the same. We have been told that were the tariff removed we would not get as high prices for our goods. That has not been proved. The United States market has been opened and we have got better prices as a result. Why do I speak of these things of Western Canada? Because I am a citizen of Western Canada and of Canada as a whole. What we are asking for now, is a wider market. It is in the interests of this country that we should have an open market.

Signs of Stagnation.

"In the Canadian west to-day, as well as throughout the length and breadth of Canada we find signs of stagnation. People are leaving the West in large numbers. This is a condition that will eventually extend to Eastern Canada unless steps are taken to introduce a remedy. The Government of Ottawa is afraid o f moving one iota, continued Mr. Buchanan, because is is afraid of offending the protective interests. In order to have prosperity, we must have a government that is looking after the whole of Canada. The present government is known in Ontario as a Conservative government. In Quebec it is known as a Nationalist Government. There is no question about the hyphen. It is a double-barrelled government, or in other words a Nationalist - Conservative government. The Senate has frequently been accused of holding up legislation introduced by the government. Take the Highways bill for instance. The Liberals demanded that a clause be inserted which would ensure an equal distribution of money for the improvement of highways, and not unequal distribution, favouring provinces that condescended to come under the wing of the Conservative government by returning a Provincial Conservative government. This, the Hon. R. L. Borden and the Hon. Frank Cochrane refused to obey. They claimed that it was their intention to have the clause inserted, but they refused to indicate their intention in writing.

Senatorial Restraint.

The proposed tariff revision legislation was killed in the Senate because the Conservative party refused to agree to the appointment of an impartial commission. The Liberals favoured a measure compelling industries to expose their books so that a competent investigating commission could determine whether or not there was sufficient justification for the protection that was asked for. The Conservatives would not accept this proposal, consequently the bill was turned down and the Senate was blamed.

"Then we come down to dear old navy," said the speaker. "I was not in the House in 1909 when the, Hon. George E. Foster, the Hon. R. L. Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier clasped hands in recognition of their approval of one policy for the protection of the shores of Canada and of Imperial defence. Since that, we have learned that the Conservative party has deserted that policy and have attempted to divide public opinion on the matter. There is a party of demagogues in Toronto who think that Canada should bow down to the will of Downing Street, while in Quebec, Bourassa stampeded the habitants in believing that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was too Imperialistic. Such a thing did not happen in the west. We are too big out there."

Were Ashamed.

Resuming his address, Mr. Buchanan said that the men whom the Conservatives were ashamed of in 1911 had since been appointed to Cabinet positions. The Premier was not compelled to take the Nationalist members into the Cabinet unless it was by reason of some pre-arrangement arising out of a plan to attack Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the grounds that he was too Imperialistic. A government that was united was suerseded by a government that favours in Quebec what it does not favour in Ontario.

"We can maintain our own standing as regards the militia and we can do the same for a Canadian navy. The Liberal party stands for a navy built by Canadian workmen and controlled by Canadian people. (Cheers.)

"We have been told that the Liberal party is corrupt. I do not claim a clean sheet for any party, but at the same time we are proud of the Liberal administration. The Hon. R. L. Borden promised us a clean administration yet the first bye-election since the return of the Conservative Government was featured by bribery and corruption of the worst kind.

A Big Return.

Mr. Buchanan referred to the bye-election in Macdonald, where the Conservative candidate was afraid to go to court. "Then," said the speaker, "we have the case of a subsidy that was granted to a well known Conservative in New Brunswick for the construction of a piece of railway, and which netted the Conservative in question the sum of $80,000. The Conservative member for New Brunswick got up in the House and endorsed the charge that was brought against his fellow Conservative. The speaker also enumerated a couple of questionable land deals that were consumated in the west.

"The man who holds up his hands to such methods as that is no longer a Canadian," said Mr. Buchanan. He ought to go and live in Russia." (Cheers.) "I will not say that the record of the Liberal party is unblemished. It is the principles of the Liberal party that I am proud of. The Transcontinental railway is another proof of the confidence that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had in the possibilities of Canada. A partisan commission is said to involve a reckless expenditure. A well known Conservative of Montral in an address to the student of McGill University declared that he was ashamed of the report. The Transcontinental is a railway that will stand for years. It represents the last word in railway construction. What we want is more intelligent voting. There are too many people who are satisfied to be led away."

Mr. F. D. Kerr's Address.

We are here to discuss questions of public interest, said Mr. F. D. Kerr on rising to speak. Let us discuss for a few moments questions concerning what the Conservative electors got as compared with what they ofught for. How did the Hon. R. L. Borden succeed in ousting an administrative body that advocated a wider market as a means of strengthening and increasing the trade of Canada. It was whispered up and down the country that people must vote against Sir Wilfrid Laurier because of his race and religion. I trust that the time will come when such a narrow point of view will not prevail. This country is too large and the men withih its boundaries are too big to view with a spirit of tolerance such a limited vision of Canadian politics.

Introduced Confidence.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's initial entry into power as leader of the Dominion government was followed by the exit of a corrupt and dishonest government. Sir Wilfrid introduced enthusiasm and confidence among the people of Canada. Assisted by able and upright men, legislation was enacted together with an immigration policy which in effect proved to be the means of opening up the great Canadian west. And in 1911, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who I submit was one of the greatest statesmen of his day, went out of power because he and his cabinet saw that this Canada needed a wider market. They voted him out of power not because he was corrupt and dishonest, but because his viewpoint was wider and much more clearly defined than ours.

The Nationalists.

"Come with me to Ottawa," said the speaker and see what you have got in exchange for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Allan Aylsworth and men of that calibre. You have voted into power French Nationalists, such as P. E. Piondin, Deputy Speaker in the House of Commons, who is reported to have said, "You couldn't get justice under the Union Jack unless you shot bullet holes through it." You voted out a Frenchman and that is what you get, a French Nationalist. Then you have the Hon. L. Pelletier, Postmaster Geenral, who is stated to have said that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was selling his country to the English. He is the man who introduced the bi-lingual post cards throughout the length and breadth of Canada while they were never known under the Laurier administration. (Cheers.)

A Query.

"Did you get what you voted for on the treaty question?" inquired Mr Kerr. You voted to let well enough alone. You voted against Sir Wilfrid Laurier because he was not building a big enough navy and handing it over to the British Admiralty. If Sir Wilfrid had remained in power we would have had a Canadian navy, built by Canadian workmen, manned by Canadians and under the control of a Canadian government. Sir Wilfrid has viewed these questions with the eyes of a statesman; others have viewed them with partizan eyes. Canada at the present time is undergoing a period of stagnation."

"In conclusion," said the speaker, "I ask every man to remember these things, and ask himself the question, 'Does he stand for fair play and honest government.' The party that stands for equal rights and fair play, is the party to whom we should pledge our support." (Applause.)

Sam Clarke's Remarks.

Mr. Clarke said he heartily agreed with the resolutions that had been passed. Very few really appreciate the strenuous work and the continuous fight that the leader of the Opposition in the Legislature has to put up. The same applies to the old war horse (applause) in Ottawa. But he's used to it. He fought for years and he fought well. There's not a dirty spot on his record.

Strength of Leaders.

Mr. Clark said that the Liberal party could lay claim to leaders whose records were of the cleanest. In the Legislature there were George Brown, Edward Blake, Pardee, Fraser, Mowat, Ross. I never heard of a cancerous growth in one of them. It's a good record, going back over 35 years. Some of the boys in the Liberal party went astray, and the whole party was held responsible for it, but I think that not one of these leaders was responsible for any member who fell.

The Leader of the Opposition.

Our new leader of the Opposition, Mr. Rowell, was not known in politics outside of being a good, honest follower of the Liberal party. If ever there was a man who took to the job with as little tuition it is Mr. Rowell. He is equal to any man in the House with all their experience. We must have good leaders. We have one of the cleverest we have ever had in the Provincial House.

The Evanturel Episode.

Mr. Clarke dealt with the Evanturel episode. When Gustave came to the caucus of the Liberals after the famous letter was read, he was asked what he had to say. "I made a big mistake," he said. "I did not quite understand what I was doing." Mr. Rowell did not hesitate. No matter what the House intended to do, and although the party was but a handful, Evanturel had to go.

In contrast with this action was the whitewashing of Howard Ferguson, who held a brief from the Federal Government in connection with the Trent Canal investigation. As a member he could not accept this, but the Government brought in a bill which they rushed through and dragged the Lieutenant-Governor from his bed, in the early hours of the morning, to sign it. Evidently there must have been something serious, judging by the haste they displayed in preparing the whitewash. Howard was cleansed. He is all right now and will take a job from the House when ever one is offered, for Howard knows pretty well where to look for dirt.

Abolish the Bar.

Mr. Clark stated that Mr. Rowell leaves no doubt as to his attitude on the abolish-the-bar platform. If you want N. W. Rowell as the leader of the Liberal party you've got to endore his policy, for he believes in it and swears by it. He is bound to lose some of his old-time followers, but there is his great big, broad principle. It is not a question of roads and bridges, not equalization of taxes but the great question that aims to give a new moral tone to this Province.

Mr. Clark referred to the revenue producing acts which the Liberals had founded when in power, the succession duties, the duties from manufactories, the finding of silver in the development of the Temiskaming railway. On the other hand we have the reckless expenditure of the present government. This new Government House will run, he said, to a million and a quarter dollars. They are even sending the Minister of Public Works to Europe to look over furnishings for it. And those who will be entertained there are the upper 500 of Toronto and other centres of the Province.

The Government boasts of its prison farm. At Guelph, those scoundrels who break the laws are treated like gentlemen. The place will cost close to a million, with its big barns, and ornate grounds. Why do we want such extravagance? The Government is going to extremes. There is no occasion for undue hardness, but the idea of punishment is not carried out at Guelph. The criminals are treated better than law-abiding citizens, and the quarters are a temptation to them to return.

Drink Money.

Mr. Clarke emphasized the high plane which Mr. Rowell is taking upon the question of the bar. He feels he is right and will go ahead whether he is returned with ten or fifty followers. When we come to decide a question from the standpoint of dollars and cents we lose some of the sweetest things in life. It is a question as to whether the curse of drink shall remain for the thousands for the sake of material interests of the dozens. Rowell is right. He stated to one deputation that he would stake his whole political life to abolish every bar in this Province.

Not Two Men Drunk.

I have not seen two men with any semblance of liquor on them, to-day. Is that not better for the future? We're on the uplift; the good of the home is in the ascendancy. I had as good a meal in Norwood to-day as I could wish for. We will have this all over the Province. If fifty per cent of those now out of work had saved the money they spent in recent years on drink they would have sufficient means to carry them for the next two years.

POLICE COURT NEWS

In Police Court this morning, Henry Wyatt, was assessed $5.75 for creating a disturbance.

William Rose was fined $2 for being drunk.

A local man was find $10 and costs amounting in all to $13.75 for being under the influence of liquor while on the blacklist.

Mr. Rollins preached from the texts, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread," Genesis, 3:19. "The labourer is worthy of his hire," Luke, 10:7. "The labourer is worthy of his reward," 1 Timothy, 5: 18. The Examiner will publish a complete report in to-morrow's issue of Mr. Rollins' sermon.

VOTER WOULD BE DISILLUSIONED

OTTAWA, March 21.—It would give an awful shock to the rural voter if he were suddenly transported to the House of Commons gallery and saw the way his representative in Parliament does not attend to business. You can imagine Mr. Voter, looking vainly for the man in whose favour he exercised his franchise. He had an idea that he would see legislators at white heat, his own unsullied champion among them, fighting the great battle of right (as seen by partisan eyes) against wrong.

For instance, say, Mr. Voter has been much worked up over a certain indefendible act of the partof a fishery inspector in his neighbourhood, who for $25 per annum sees that the district observes the regulations.

Mr. Voter comes to see the thunderous look and flashing words that will describe the wrong till a crowded assembly trembles and cheers. He actually finds about a dozen or so men scattered about in a wilderness of chairs. Four or five in the front hear what is going on; the rest do not—and don't seem to give a snap whether they ever do. Somebody says something and somebody else nods his head in reply across the open space in the middle.

Mr. Voter asks a gentleman in uniform when the House is going to sit. He is told it is sitting; that the somnolent body before him is the Parliament of Canada engaged with the Act to Consolidate and Amend the Fisheries Acts.

Among the Missing.

Where is his representative Mr. Uniform does not know. He did see the member for So-and-So in the smoking room this morning, but not since.

The two or three men in the front continue to talk; the men scattered about get together in twos and threes and tell things that make each other laugh; others, who are isolated, fold their arms on their desks, drop their heads and doze, and wake up to ask boys to bring them drinks of water.

There is more doing at a township council meeting per minute than in the Parliament of Canada per hour.

You can make a cement for mending china by mixing plaster of paris with the white of an egg.

Fourth Sermon In The Series

Canon Davidson last evening preached his fourth in the series of sermons on "Concrete Christianity" before a large congregation, the subject being "Worship."

Practical Christianity lay in the doing of duty to God and to man. Of these the duty to God had been put first, both by Moses and Jesus Christ, and a direct and concrete expression of this duty was found in Worship. We practically expressed our belief in God, as God by giving to Him what we would deny to any created being. We might bow to man in respect, but we knelt before God in worship.

This was commanded, not as any tax or offering for God's supposed benefit. Looking down lovingly upon us and desiring our welfare, God bids us attain it by coming into fitting contact with Him, which meant worship. The Divine blessing came to man in the attitude of worship as it could not come otherwise. God does not need our worship, but we need to give it. Just as in the nature of God two elements were revealed, transcendent greatness, majesty and holiness on the one hand and transcendent love on the other, so two corresponding factors, reverential fear and a grateful love, the latter predominating.

While our main aim was for the advance of the spiritual side, the reasonable development of the outward expressions of reverence and love was to be cultivated because the outward reacted powerfully on the inward. Like outside acts of conduct and deportment it had a value in contributing to the beauty of life.

Worship was a definite concrete part of the business of life to be done in the best possible way in the light of to-day, and this necessitated outward changes from time to time.

Worship was a lofty and unselfish act for the glory of God in which the true worshipper was raised nearer to Him who was worshipped. Its chief side was the spiritual side, for true worship must be "in spirit and in truth." This did not call, however, for anything bare, dreary or abstract, but something in which our spiritual faculties were employed and which was instinct with spiritual life. The spiritual should be more and more brought out.

Truly spiritual worship was a preparation and training for heaven. Whatever its other occupations might be, reverent, loving, congregational worship was revealed in the Book of Revelation as a leading one. Learning to enjoy it here we would be in a measure ready for it hereafter.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

The market opened strong with gains in several of the leading issues. The most talked of was that of New Haven which advanced to 71 on the announcement of a satisfactory plan of segregation which removes any chance for a suit and also one of the most serious of the things that is holding the railroad list back.

American stocks in London showed a better tone, and in the afternoon were 1-8 to 1-2 above parity in some of the best issues. The standard stocks are in a very strong technical position, they respond very little to bad news of which there has been much along superficial lines during the week just ended. There are bright prospects for a good crop, easy money and settlement of many of the superficial and vexatious questions of a political character not far distant, the best judgment is that business will revive in the course of the next few months. Therefore we expect the market to start any time. The best absorption is going on in Great Northern and Union Pacific. We are informed that Steel is good. The information channels on Reading are very bullish. Our reports from Boston experts indicate an attitude of bullishness on the copper stocks. Specialties may be bought for a turn when they are made bullish by active.

Premier Asquith says: No action will be taken against Ulster or any individual leaders.

We look for a bull market up to the end of the month.

Now is the time to buy good dividend paying stocks.

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

by Mr. Hull, than the thanks of the Association be tendered to Mr. Buck, the retiring president, for the faithful services he had rendered while occupying that position. Mr. Buck acknowledged this appreciation and promised to continue his interest in the Association. A resolution was passed on motion by Mr. Buck that the sympathy of the Association be extended to the family of the late Hon. Sir George Ross. It was carried unanimously.

Resolution of Confidence.

The meeting saw two resolutions put on the books, and the manner in which they were received was most enthusiastic.

That the Liberals of East Peterborough in convention assembled desire to express their confidence in N. W. Rowell as leader of the Liberal party in the Ontario Legislature, and that we heartily endorse his progressive platform on moral and temperance lines as well calculated to advance the best interests of the people of the province.

Confidence in Laurier.

Moved by J. E. Richardson, seconded by Jos. Johnston:

That the Liberals of East Peterborough place on record their confidence in the brilliant leadership of their great chieftain, the Right Honourable Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and pledge their strong and hearty support in his campaign against trade restrictions and in his statesmanlike efforts toward the organization of a Canadian navy.

An Enthusiastic Reception.

There is no doubt of the Hon. W. A. Buchanan's popularity in Norwood. Time after time has he received an enthusiastic welcome in his old home town, but never one warmer or more spontaneous than that which greeted him in the Norwood Town Hall on Saturday evening. The hall was crowded to the doors with an audience that cheered to the echo, when the Federal member from Medicine Hat appeared on the platform, and again when he began to speak.

A striking feature of Mr. Buchanan's address was his refutation of the arguments used by the Conservative party concerning the reciprocity agreement and his counter claim that the future prosperity of the last great West was dependent upon legislation designed to create a wider market for the Canadian farmer.

The Canadian West.

"The West is a young man's country," said Mr. Buchanan. Many of you have relatives or friends in the west, and I believe that you all desire that the West shall prosper. We have a period of depression in the west, and the great majority of the people out there believe that had the electors endorsed the reciprocity agreement in 1911 we would not have had a wave of depression in nineteen hundred and thirteen and fourteen. You would have seen the price of farm commodities going up instead of down. What did we find when the United States government revised the tariff, enabling Canadian cattle to enter the United States free of duty. The value of cattle to the Canadian farmer increased. That shows that the arguments presented by the Liberal party in 1911 were sound. We want tariff relief in the West. We want wider markets. We have been advised to go into mixed farming. We have been doing this and find that the same argument prevails."

Want Tariff Removed.

"I am a low tariff advocate," said Mr. Buchanan with considerable emphasis. "I am prepared to stand for a fair tariff that will not injure the manufacturers of the East and at the same time will work out for the common good. We want the tariff removed from farm implements. There was a time in the history of Canada when nearly every county possessed an implement industry, but of late years the implement manufacturers have been merging for their own interests. The high tariff on implements enables the manufacturer to compete in all parts of the world but not in Canada. We want free wheat. This is a very important necessity. If we remove the duty on wheat, the United States government will do the same. We have been told that were the tariff removed we would not get as high prices for our goods. That has not been proved. The United States market has been opened and we have got better prices as a result. Why do I speak of these things of Western Canada? Because I am a citizen of Western Canada and of Canada as a whole. What we are asking for now, is a wider market. It is in the interests of this country that we should have an open market.

Signs of Stagnation.

"In the Canadian west to-day, as well as throughout the length and breadth of Canada we find signs of stagnation. People are leaving the West in large numbers. This is a condition that will eventually extend to Eastern Canada unless steps are taken to introduce a remedy. The Government of Ottawa is afraid o f moving one iota, continued Mr. Buchanan, because is is afraid of offending the protective interests. In order to have prosperity, we must have a government that is looking after the whole of Canada. The present government is known in Ontario as a Conservative government. In Quebec it is known as a Nationalist Government. There is no question about the hyphen. It is a double-barrelled government, or in other words a Nationalist - Conservative government. The Senate has frequently been accused of holding up legislation introduced by the government. Take the Highways bill for instance. The Liberals demanded that a clause be inserted which would ensure an equal distribution of money for the improvement of highways, and not unequal distribution, favouring provinces that condescended to come under the wing of the Conservative government by returning a Provincial Conservative government. This, the Hon. R. L. Borden and the Hon. Frank Cochrane refused to obey. They claimed that it was their intention to have the clause inserted, but they refused to indicate their intention in writing.

Senatorial Restraint.

The proposed tariff revision legislation was killed in the Senate because the Conservative party refused to agree to the appointment of an impartial commission. The Liberals favoured a measure compelling industries to expose their books so that a competent investigating commission could determine whether or not there was sufficient justification for the protection that was asked for. The Conservatives would not accept this proposal, consequently the bill was turned down and the Senate was blamed.

"Then we come down to dear old navy," said the speaker. "I was not in the House in 1909 when the Hon. George E. Foster, the Hon. R. L. Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier clasped hands in recognition of their approval of one policy for the protection of the shores of Canada and of Imperial defence. Since that, we have learned that the Conservative party has deserted that policy and have attempted to divide public opinion on the matter. There is a party of demagogues in Toronto who think that Canada should bow down to the will of Downing Street, while in Quebec, Bourassa stampeded the habitants in believing that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was too Imperialistic. Such a thing did not happen in the west. We are too big out there."

Were Ashamed.

Resuming his address, Mr. Buchanan said that the men whom the Conservatives were ashamed of in 1911 had since been appointed to Cabinet positions. The Premier was not compelled to take the Nationalist members into the Cabinet unless it was by reason of some pre-arrangement arising out of a plan to attack Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the grounds that he was too Imperialistic. A government that was united was succeeded by a government that favours in Quebec what it does not favour in Ontario.

"We can maintain our own standing as regards the militia and we can do the same for a Canadian navy. The Liberal party stands for a navy built by Canadian workmen and controlled by Canadian people. (Cheers.)

"We have been told that the Liberal party is corrupt. I do not claim a clean sheet for any party, but at the same time we are proud of the Liberal administration. The Hon. R. L. Borden promised us a clean administration yet the first bye-election since the return of the Conservative Government was featured by bribery and corruption of the worst kind.

A Big Return.

Mr. Buchanan referred to the bye-election in Macdonald, where the Conservative candidate was afraid to go to court. "Then," said the speaker, "we have the case of a subsidy that was granted to a well known Conservative in New Brunswick for the construction of a piece of railway, and which netted the Conservative in question the sum of $80,000. The Conservative member for New Brunswick got up in the House and endorsed the charge that was brought against his fellow Conservative. The speaker also enumerated a couple of questionable land deals that were consummated in the west.

"The man who holds up his hands to such methods as that is no longer a Canadian," said Mr. Buchanan. He ought to go and live in Russia." (Cheers.) "I will not say that the record of the Liberal party is unblemished. It is the principles of the Liberal party that I am proud of. The Transcontinental railway is another proof of the confidence that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had in the possibilities of Canada. A partizan commission is said to involve a reckless expenditure. A well known Conservative of Montral in an address to the student of McGill University declared that he was ashamed of the report. The Transcontinental is a railway that will stand for years. It represents the last word in railway construction. What we want is more intelligent voting. There are too many people who are satisfied to be led away.'

Mr. F. D. Kerr's Address.

We are here to discuss questions of public interest, said Mr. F. D. Kerr on rising to speak. Let us discuss for a few moments questions concerning what the Conservative electors got as compared with what they ofught for. How did the Hon. R. L. Borden succeed in ousting an administrative body that advocated a wider market as a means of strengthening and increasing the trade of Canada. It was whispered up and down the country that people must vote against Sir Wilfrid Laurier because of his race and religion. I trust that the time will come when such a narrow point of view will not prevail. This country is too large and the men within its boundaries are too big to view with a spirit of tolerance such a limited vision of Canadian politics.

Introduced Confidence.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's initial entry into power as leader of the Dominion government was followed by the exit of a corrupt and dishonest government. Sir Wilfrid introduced enthusiasm and confidence among the people of Canada. Assisted by able and upright men, legislation was enacted together with an immigration policy which in effect proved to be the means of opening up the great Canadian west. And in 1911, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who I submit was one of the greatest statesmen of his day, went out of power because he and his cabinet saw that this Canada needed a wider market. They voted him out of power not because he was corrupt and dishonest, but because his viewpoint was wider and much more clearly defined than ours.

The Nationalists.

"Come with me to Ottawa," said the speaker and see what you have got in exchange for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Allan Aylsworth and men of that calibre. You have voted into power French Nationalists, such as P. E. Piondin, Deputy Speaker in the House of Commons, who is reported to have said, "You couldn't get justice under the Union Jack unless you shot bullet holes through it." You voted out a Frenchman and that is what you get, a French Nationalist. Then you have the Hon. L. Pelletier, Postmaster General, who is stated to have said that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was selling his country to the English. He is the man who introduced the bi-lingual post cards throughout the length and breadth of Canada while they were never known under the Laurier administration. (Cheers.)

A Query.

"Did you get what you voted for on the treaty question?" inquired Mr Kerr. You voted to let well enough alone. You voted against Sir Wilfrid Laurier because he was not building a big enough navy and handing it over to the British Admiralty. If Sir Wilfrid had rmained in power we would have had a Canadian navy, built by Canadian workmen, manned by Canadians and under the control of a Canadian government. Sir Wilfrid has viewed these questions with the eyes of a statesman; others have viewed them with partizan eyes. Canada at the present time is undergoing a a period of stagnation."

"In conclusion," said the speaker, "I ask every man to remember these things, and ask himself the question, 'Does he stand for fair play and honest government.' The party that stands for equal rights and fair play, is the party to whom we should pledge our support." (Applause.)

Sam Clarke's Remarks.

Mr. Clarke said he heartily agreed with the resolutions that had been passed. Very few really appreciate the estrenuous work and the continuous fight that the leader of the Opposition in the Legislature has to put up. The same applies to the old war horse (applause) in Ottawa. But he's used to it. He fought for years and he fought well. There's not a dirty spot on his record.

Strength of Leaders.

Mr. Clark said that the Liberal party could lay claim to leaders whose records were of the cleanest. In the Legislature there were George Brown, Edward Blake, Pardee, Fraser, Mowat, Ross. I never heard of a cancerous growth in one of them. It's a good record, going back over 35 years. Some of the boys in the Liberal party went astray, and the whole party was held responsible for it, but I think that not one of these leaders was responsible for any member who fell.

The Leader of the Opposition.

Our new leader of the Opposition, Mr. Rowell, was not known in politics outside of being a good, honest follower of the Liberal party. If ever there was a man who took to the job with as little tuition it is Mr. Rowell. He is equal to any man in the House with all their experience. We must have good leaders. We have one of the cleverest we have ever had in the Provincial House.

The Evanturel Episode.

Mr. Clarke dealt with the Evanturel episode. When Gustave came to the caucus of the Liberals after the famous letter was read, he was asked what he had to say. "I made a big mistake," he said. "I did not quite understand what I was doing." Mr. Rowell did not hesitate. No matter what the House intended to do, and although the party was but a handful, Evanturel had to go.

In contrast with this action was the whitewashing of Howard Ferguson, who held a brief from the Federal Government in connection with the Trent Canal investigation. As a member he could not accept this, but the Government brought in a bill which they rushed through and dragged the Lieutenant-Governor from his bed, in the early hours of the morning, to sign it. Evidently there must have been something serious, judging by the haste they displayed in preparing the whitewash. Howard was cleansed. He is all right now and will take a job from the House when ever one is offered, for Howard knows pretty well where to look for dirt.

Abolish the Bar.

Mr. Clark stated that Mr. Rowell leaves no doubt as to his attitude on the abolish-the-bar platform. If you want N. W. Rowell as the leader of the Liberal party you've got to endore his policy, for he believes in it and swears by it. He is bound to lose some of his old-time followers, but there is his great big, broad principle. It is not a question of roads and bridges, not equalization of taxes but the great question that aims to give a new moral tone to this Province.

Mr. Clark referred to the revenue producing acts which the Liberals had founded when in power, the succession duties, the duties from manufactories, the finding of silver in the development of the Temiskaming railway. On the other hand we have the reckless expenditure of the present government. This new Government House will run, he said, to a million and a quarter dollars. They are even sending the Minister of Public Works to Europe to look over furnishings for it. And those who will be entertained there are the upper 500 of Toronto and other centres of the Province.

The Government boasts of its prison farm. At Guelph, those scoundrels who break the laws are treated like gentlemen. The place will cost close to a million, with its big barns, and ornate grounds. Why do we want such extravagance? The Government is going to extremes. There is no occasion for undue hardness, but the idea of punishment is not carried out at Guelph. The criminals are treated better than law-abiding citizens, and the quarters are a temptation to them to return.

Drink Money.

Mr. Clarke emphasized the high plane which Mr. Rowell is taking upon the question of the bar. He feels he is right and will go ahead whether he is returned with ten or fifty followers. When we come to decide a question from the standpoint of dollars and cents we lose some of the sweetest things in life. It is a question as to whether the curse of drink shall remain for the thousands for the sake of material interests of the dozens. Rowell is right. He stated to one deputation that he would stake his whole political life to abolish every bar in this Province.

Not Two Men Drunk.

I have not seen two men with any semblance of liquor on them, to-day. Is that not better for the future? We're on the uplift; the good of the home is in the ascendancy. I had as good a meal in Norwood to-day as I could wish for. We will have this all over the Province. If fifty per cent of those now out of work had saved the money they spent in recent years on drink they would have sufficient means to carry them for the next two years.

POLICE COURT NEWS

In Police Court this morning, Henry Wyatt, was assessed $5.75 for creating a disturbance.

William Rose was fined $2 for being drunk.

Edward Herran was placed on the blacklist.

A local man was find $10 and costs amounting in all to $13.75 for being under the influence of liquor while on the blacklist.

SPOKE ON UNEMPLOYMENT QUESTION

At St. Andrew's Church last night Rev. Jas. Rollins preached a most interesting and practical sermon on the question of work, wages and unemployment. Mr. Rollins preached from the texts, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread," Genesis, 3:19. "The labourer is worthy of his hire," Luke, 10:7. "The labourer is worthy of his reward," I Timothy, 5: 18. The Examiner will publish a complete report in to-morrow's issue of Mr. Rollins' sermon.

VOTER WOULD BE DISILLUSIONED

OTTAWA, March 21.—It would give an awful shock to the rural voter if he were suddenly transported to the House of Commons gallery and saw the way his representative in Parliament does not attend to business. You can imagine Mr. Voter, looking vainly for the man in whose favour he exercised his franchise. He had an idea that he would see legislators at white heat, his own unsullied champion among them, fighting the great battle of right (as seen by partizan eyes) against wrong.

For instance, say, Mr. Voter has been much worked up over a certain indefensible act of the partof a fishery inspector in his neighbourhood, who for $25 per annum sees that the district observes the regulations.

Mr. Voter comes to see the thunderous look and flashing words that will describe the wrong till a crowded assembly trembles and cheers. He actually finds about a dozen or so men scattered about in a wilderness of chairs. Four or five in the front hear what is going on; the rest do not—and don't seem to give a snap whether they ever do. Somebody says something and somebody else nods his head in reply across the open space in the middle.

Mr. Voter asks a gentleman in uniform when the House is going to sit. He is told it is sitting; that the somnolent body before him is the Parliament of Canada engaged with the Act to Consolidate and Amend the Fisheries Acts.

Among the Missing.

Where is his representative Mr. Uniform does not know. He did see the member for So-and-So in the smoking room this morning, but not since.

The two or three men in the front continue to talk; the men scattered about get together in twos and threes and tell things that make each other laugh; others, who are isolated, fold their arms on their desks, drop their heads and doze, and wane up to ask boys to bring them drinks of water.

There is more doing at a township council meeting per minute than in the Parliament of Canada per hour.

You can make a cement for mending china by mixing plaster of paris with the white of an egg.

Fourth Sermon In The Series

Canon Davidson last evening preached his fourth in the series of sermons on "Concrete Christianity" before a large congregation, the subject being "Worship."

Practical Christianity lay in the doing of duty to God and to man. Of these the duty to God had been put first, both by Moses and Jesus Christ, and a direct and concrete expression of this duty was found in Worship. We practically expressed our belief in God, as God by giving to Him what we would deny to any created being. We might bow to man in respect, but we knelt before God in worship.

This was commanded, not as any tax or offering for God's supposed benefit. Looking down lovingly upon us and desiring our welfare, God bids us attain it by coming into fitting contact with Him, which meant worship. The Divine blessing came to man in the attitude of worship as it could not come otherwise. God does not need our worship, but we need to give it. Just as in the nature of God two elements were revealed, transcendent greatness, majesty and holiness on the one hand and transcendent love on the other, so two corresponding factors, reverential fear and a grateful love, the latter predominating.

While our main aim was for the advance of the spiritual side, the reasonable development of the outward expressions of reverence and love was to be cultivated because the outward reacted powerfully on the inward. Like outside acts of conduct and deportment it had a value in contributing to the beauty of life.

Worship was a definite concrete part of the business of life to be done in the best possible way in the light of to-day, and this necessitated outward changes from time to time.

Worship was a lofty and unselfish act for the glory of God in which the true worshipper was raised nearer to Him who was worshipped. Its chief side was the spiritual side, for true worship must be "in spirit and in truth." This did not call, however, for anything bare, dreary or abstract, but something in which our spiritual faculties were employed and which was instinct with spiritual life. The spiritual should be more and more brought out.

Truly spiritual worship was a preparation and training for heaven. Whatever its other occupations might be, reverent, loving, congregational worship was revealed in the Book of Revelation as a leading one. Learning to enjoy it here we would be in a measure ready for it hereafter.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

The market opened strong with gains in several of the leading issues. The most talked of was that of New Haven which advanced to 71 on the announcement of a satisfactory plan of segregation which removes any chance for a suit and also one of the most serious of the things that is holding the railroad list back.

American stocks in London showed a better tone, and in the afternoon were 1-8 to 1-2 above parity in some of the best issues. The standard stocks are in a very strong technical position, they respond very little to bad news of which there has been much along superficial lines during the week just ended. There are bright prospects for a good crop, easy money and settlement of many of the superficial and vexatious questions of a political character not far distant, the best judgment is that business will revive in the course of the next few months. Therefore we expect the market to start any time. The best absorption is going on in Great Northern and Union Pacific. We are informed that Steel is good. The information channels on Reading are very bullish. Our reports from Boston experts indicate an attitude of bullishness on the copper stocks. Specialties may be bought for a turn when they are made bullish by active.

Premier Asquith says: No action will be taken against Ulster or any individual leaders.

We look for a bull market up to the end of the month.

Now is the time to buy good dividend paying stocks.

HOW ST. PATRICK'S DAY WAS CELEBRATED BY THE PEOPLE OF ENNISMORE

Masses in Morning Were Well Attended—Total Abstinence Society Elected Officers.

A SPLENDID PLAY

As is customary, the people of the little green isle, on the shore of Chemong Lake, celebrated the feast of their Patron Saint in a manner both befitting and honourable.

Two masses were celebrated, the first at seven o'clock, by the pastor, and the second at nine o'clock, by Rev. Father Cote, of the Cathedral staff. The last was a High Mass, at the close of which Father Cote delivered a most eloquent, instructive, and touching sermon, on Ireland's Patron Saint, and the fidelity of Ireland's sons and daughters in their attachment to the See of Peterborough, their never failing love for the dear Isle of the Shamrock, their respect and reverence for God's anointed ministers, and their world-renowned charity, generosity and brotherly love. He dwelt at considerable length on the remarkable purity of our Irish girls in every quarter of the world, and closed an excellent discourse, to which the congregation listened with most rapt attention, by appealing to the people of Ennismore to lead lives of sobriety at all times, and to encourage their children to persevere in the noble work of higher education.

At both Masses large numbers received Holy Communion. At the close of the sermon the Total Abstinence pledge was given to a large number of the men of the parish, after which the election of officers for the year 1914 took place. The election, which was keenly contested, resulted as follows:

President—Daniel Crough.
Vice-President—Jos. Killen.,
Secretary—Peter Galvin.
Treasurer—John Gannon.
Committee — Eugene Murphy, Thomas Flood, J. K. Galvin, P. J. Scollard, W. J. Scollard and Jas. Maloney.

In the election for President Daniel Crough and Jas. Killen were tied but as Mr. Crough held the position last year, rather than upset the government, Mr. Killen waived this claim to the President's chair. The officers for this year, as in the past, are good, solid, reliable men, and St. Martin's T.A.B. had never better prospects for a successful year.

In the afternoon, Kathleen Mavoureen was presented by way of matinee, in order that all the school children and any old people of the parish who would not care to be out after nightfall, might have a chance of hearing this beautiful Irish drama. That the children of the different schools had an intelligent understanding of the plot and incidents of the play, was evidenced the next day when the teachers asked their third and fourth classes to give a synopsis of the Irish drama as they had seen and heard it the day before. Many of the compositions were truly remarkable, and showed how closely and carefully the different parts were followed, and how appreciative the little children are of those who took their parts well.

A POPULAR PRESENTATION.

In the evening the play was again presented, but this time to an audience all too large for the spacious hall. The surrounding country was represented, and seats were out of the question. An hour before the curtain went up, not a seat was to be had, but all who came got in, and sat were or stood where best they could. Notwithstanding the immense crowd, packed in as they were, the most perfect order prevailed until the curtain went down for the last time at 10.30 p.m.

The story of the Irish drama has already appeared in the coulmns of this journal, and need not be here repeated. The cast of characters was as follows:

Bernard Cavanagh—Jas. Guiry.
David O'Connor—Ed. O'Donoghue.
Father O'Cassidy—P. J. Scollard.
Terrence O'Moore—Peter Galvin.
Bill Button Cap—Fergus Crowley.
Captain Clearfield—Henry Murphy.
Black Rody—David Scollard.
Red Barney—Ronald Galvin.
Darby Doyle—John Young.
Mr. McCubbin—Earl Hickson.
Denis—Stafford Killen.
Turnkey—Ed. O'Donoghue.
Lard.
Meg Marshough—Lyde Killen.
Kity O'Laverty—Vivian Galvin.
Miss Dorothy Kavanagh—Mary O. Sullivan.

The orchestra for the evening was under the management of Mr. J. K. Galvin, assisted by Messrs. John Flood, Joseph O'Connor, Clayton Telford and Patrick Cadigan. Mrs. John P. Flood and Mary Ann Crough Mar. Clayton, Telford and Mrs. John O'Donghue.

Song—Ring me up Heaven, Please Central—Sammy Killen.
Song, Daddy—Ethel Kennedy.
Song, The Lass I Loved in Killarney—Lottie O'Donoghue.
Song, They are Proud of the Irish Now—J. K. Galvin.
Song, A Little Bit of Green—Mrs. John O'Donoghue.
Song, Son of an Irishman—Harold Killen.
Quintette, Ship Ahoy—Clayton Telford, Will Telford, Jas. Conway, Fred Joppling and Jas. Cullen.
Song—They have won every nation's battle but their own—Clayton Telford.
Quintette "Good-bye, Boys — Telford Bros, Fred Joppling, Jas. Conway, Jas. Cullen.

WILL BE REPEATED.

The play was a great success—a success in every respect, and at the solicitation of many unavoidably absent, and many anxiously present, the actors have kindly consented to reproduce the play Easter Monday night. The burden of the play fell on the shoulders of three, Agnes Scollard as Kathleen Mavourneen, Peter Galvin as Terence O'Moor, and Jas. Guiry as Bernard Kavanagh, and it is needless to say that they proved themselves quite able for their work, and won golden opinions from all present. Agnes Scollard was a perfect Kathleen, the bright, cheerful Irish colleen, led to forsake her true lover Terence, by flattery, false promises and what most young girls sigh for, rich dresses and glittering jewels. She realises her mistake when she finds herself married to a man who does not love her, and whom she has learned to hate. In the third act the whole machinery, which the hateful Squire has called into action, to rid himself of the accursed marriage, is placed visibly before us, the foul murders, the lonely scene, mountain grave, the villainous Squire, and the broken-hearted girl, once bright and jovial. The scene is thrilling. Gloomy gorges, fantastic peaks, midnight shrieks, rise up before us, and lend terror to the impending murder. But Terence is on hand—and amidst confusion worst confounded, slays the murderers, rescues Kathleen, sends the Squire to his just reward, and is led off a prisoner by the soldiers.

The audience is held spell-bound, and the vociferous applause which Terence receives as he gasps for breath at the feet of his fainting sweetheart, shows what doubts and fears and anxieties alternately swayed the hearts and filled the minds of the audience.

The prison scene in Act IV. is most pathetic, and the painful separation the former is led out to die an infamous death upon the gibbet, called into requisition numerous handkerchiefs, and half subdued stifled sob showed how finished was the work of the two clever actors. Both Agnes Scollard and Peter (illegible) deserve all kinds of praise for the excellent manner in which they took their respective parts.

The difficult part of the villainous Squire fell to the lot of James Guiry, and was handled in such a clever style as to render him an object of intense hatred by the large audience. In look, word and action he played the part, and played it faultlessly. His sister Dorothy's character proved stately and overbearing, was well portrayed by the graceful, clever acting of Mary G. Sullivan. As Kathlen's father Ed. O'Donoghue, the plain, honest farmer, called forth rounds of applause, and he was equally successful in Act III. as Captain of the Soldiers, and in Act IV. as the Turnkey. We hope to see more of Edward in future plays, as he has a true conception of what is required of him in any part.

The grave-diggers, led by Black Roddy, the prince of scoundrels, though in daily life the most honest and unassuming of young men, were truly heartless and devoid of conscience. The mountain scene formed one of the most picturesque and thrilling positions of the whole play, and David Scollard, John Young and Ronald Galvin, though appearing on the stage for the first time, did ample justice to their difficult and rather repulsive parts.

Fergus Crowley as Bill Button, and Vivian Galvin as Kitty, kept the audience in uproar for fully fifteen minutes. Kitty, as maid to Mrs. Bernard Kavanagh, was perfect in every respect, and her English sweetheart, Bill Button, was properly sat upon, as his dirty face and ragged clothes richly deserved. Lyde Killen made an excellent Meg Marslough, a roving gipsy. Henry Murphy as Clearfield, did some very clever acting. Earl Hickson, as gaoler, and Stan Killen as Kathleen's general servant were quite equal to their tasks.

Last, but by no means least, P. J. Galvin as Father O'Cassidy, was grace, ease and dignity combined. What a valuable acquisition was lost to the Church the day P. J. decided to lead the life of a merchant. How gracefully the red robes of a Cardinal would lie on the expansive shoulders of our genial postmaster.

The whole entertainment was of a high order and thoroughly enjoyed. The Bridgenorth Quintette were well received, and Mrs. Clayton Telford had to return to the piano no less than four times to play encores for these highly entertaining young men. Mrs. Clayton Telford's songs were most appropriate and well sung. Between the acts the orchestra rendered most acceptably the popular Irish airs. Little Sammie Killen, a child of five years, brought down the house when he sang in clear dulcet tones, "Ring me up, Heaven, Please Central."

Both Revd. gentlemen spoke most enthusiastically of their appreciation of the whole evening's entertainment, the clever acting, the beautiful singing and the grand order that prevailed throughout. In the audience were noticed many from Peterborough, Emily, Bridgenorth, Young's Point and Lakefield.

The performance was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem by the actors.

Mr. Fred Roy, Peterborough's popular photographer, had his man on the ground, and a flashlight was taken of the actors and members of the orchestra.

YOU CAN'T EARN MONEY WHEN YOU'RE LAID UP

There are a lot of people in this town who cannot afford to be sick. Perhaps some of you feel that you can, but certainly some of you can't, for as soon as you are sick, your wages stop and worry and debts begin to pile up. The sensible thing for you to do, as soon as you feel run-down and worn out, no matter what the cause, is to take something just as quick as you can to build up strength and health. Make yourself more comfortable and provide against serious sickness.

We don't believe there is any other medicine made that will do as much towards saving your health and thus helping you save your money as Russell Cleve Oil Emulsion. It is a medicine that gets right at the trouble and relieves it by toning the nerves, enriching the blood, and giving new strength and health to the whole body. It doesn't do this by means of alcohol or habit-forming drugs, because it contains none. Its strength and health-giving power is due to pure Cleve Oil and the Hypophosphites, long endorsed by successful physicians, the one for the blood value, the other for its tonic value. Here, for the first time, they are combined, and the result is a real nerve, blood and body-building medicine—a real strengthener that we are proud to tell you about. You don't need to hesitate in using it, because if it doesn't do all we say it will cost nothing you in every way. It will cost you nothing. If it doesn't satisfy you, stamp and mail again, come back and get your money. It will be given to you without word or question—should only at the most three, 7,000 Russell Stores, and is this guaranteed by us. $1.00.

DEMAND IS DENIED

Hon. Mr. Hanna Professes to See No Agitation for Tax Reform

McCORMICK BILL DEBATED

TORONTO, March 24. — Dogged denial of the demand for a change in tax reform is to be the Government's reply to the arguments of the Opposition again this year. So much was shown in Mr. Hanna's speech yesterday when R. J. McCormick, of Lambton, introduced his amendment to the Assessment Act, providing a greater measure of local option in taxation methods.

Mr. Rowell, in a vigorous presentation of the Liberal case, cited the number of influential bodies and even Conservative papers which had advocated reform and concluded:

"My hon. friend has a good deal of courage to get up and say to this House that the public are satisfied with the existing law and that there is no demand for a change."

The present age, he said, was one of improvements, and in Alberta and New Zealand, where the scheme outlined in the bill had been adopted, it had proven a great success. Was Ontario going to stand still and let all other places pass her? The Government was holding back progress, and whereas people were now being herded in large cities, taxation could provide a solution for the majority of their troubles. The rich farmer was benefiting at the expense of the poor one. In his own township the building of a silo brought $100 additional in assessment, and the same with any house addition. Municipalities with the power in their own hands could help the situation wonderfully.

The Provincial Secretary, in reply, said that although several bye-elections had occurred during the year he had not known of one in which the subject had been made an issue. If it had been mentioned it was only as a part of the old policy and had not been pressed. He believed that not a half dozen votes had been cast in opposition to the law as it stood.

There was further no demand in cities for a change and no complaint had reached his ears as to the law, and particularly the way it was being administered, said Mr. Hanna. If there was any doubt as to the way the law worked he would refer persons to the annual report of the city in which it was set forth as a criticism that the present act did not allow an assessment on buildings and lands at a higher rate.

The Minister summed up by saying that there had been no complaints during the year, and that the problem was by no means a live issue.

Mr. Rowell, who followed, expressed regret at the unsympathetic attitude of the Government and insisted that there was a real demand throughout the province for a change in assessment. The Government entirely misunderstood the attitude of the people if they thought that general satisfaction prevailed. The Government amendment of last session had increased rather than remedied the difficulties in the laws. The present act conferred upon them a limited further power of self-government which they were well capable of exercising in their own interest for the public good, and the Legislature would be doing useful public service in enlarging their powers.

In reply to Mr. Hanna's statement that there was no demand for a change, Mr. Rowell instanced the resolution of the Toronto Board of Trade, which had been confirmed by the Assembled Boards of Trade of the entire province, also the position taken by the Manufacturers' Association, which had suspended further action in the matter because the Government failed to give the matter the consideration it merited. Conservative papers, too, he said, had urged reform.

New York papers continue to warn young lawyers to keep away from that city, and the young lawyers evidently continue to refuse advice.

To Assist Mackenzie.

TORONTO, March 24. — L. C. Fritch, chief engineer of the Chicago Great Western Railroad, has been appointed assistant to the president of the Canadian Northern Railway. Mr. Fritch will assume his new duties (illegible) April 1, with headquarters in Toronto. His duties will be to assist the president in all matters pertaining to the operation of the road and will not be confined to any particular department.

It is believed that the appointment of Mr. Fritch is the first step in the (illegible) of the C.N.R., and the new financial deal to be made with the Government.

FERGUSON'S SALARY FOR TRENT AFFAIR

$15 a Day and Expenses—Judges Increasing and Litigation is on the Decrease

OVATION TO PUGSLEY

OTTAWA, March 24.—The House spent practically all of yesterday's sitting in committee of supply. The salaries and pensions of judges were the principal items under investigation and elicited a prolonged discussion. From Quebec and Nova Scotia came a request for increase in judicial salaries. On the other hand Hon. H. R. Emmerson, speaking for New Brunswick, said that litigation had been continuously on the decrease for more than a quarter of a century past and yet nearly every year saw an increase in the number of judges.

There was some discussion as to the salaries of the Ontario county court judges, and Mr. Proulx of Prescott, declared that here should be no readjustment of judicial salaries until all fees were abolished. He said the county judge had a good many duties imposed upon him by the Legislature, but for all these he was paid in fees.

At the opening of the House G. W. Kyte (Richmond, N.S.) quoted again from The Yorkshire Post to the effect that Col. Sam Hughes had given assurance to the Ulster Orangemen that no obstacle would be thrown in the way of the thousand picked Canadians who are to join the Carson army in May.

The Prime Minister said that the Minister of Militia had been indisposed for some days, but would probably be in his seat to-morrow, and added: "I had occasion to send some message of sympathy to my colleague. In reply, he took occasion to say that the remarks attributed to him by The Yorkshire Post are entirely without foundation."

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, ex-Postmaster-General, took occasion to sound the Minister of Justice in the House yesterday as to his views regarding appeals to the Privy Council.

He asked Mr. Doherty if the Government had any intention of changing the present procedure of appeal to the Privy Council, and whether the Minister had intimated to Lord Haldane that Canada was in favor of having the Privy Council cases heard on this side of the ocean.

Mr. Doherty assured him that his fears had no foundation, and that the Government contemplated no change of procedure. Speaking as a lawyer, he said, he was in favor of having certain Privy Council appeals heard in Canada, as there were often local conditions which could not be appreciated when heard in evidence thousands of miles away.

Hon. William Pugsley took his seat immediately after dinner, for the first time this session. He has lost considerable flesh, but his general appearance does not betoken ill-health. He was greeted by a great demonstration from the Liberal benches.

In answer to questions from the Liberal benches, the Acting Minister of Railways stated that the amount due Mr. George Howard Ferguson, M.P.P. for Grenville, for his services in connection with the Trent Valley Canal investigation was $985, of which $550 was for 37 days' service at $15 per day, $370 for expenses and disbursements, and $60 for preparing the official report to the Government. Mr. Ferguson, the Minister said, was appointed by order in council on Oct. 14, 1913, as a commissioner to investigate charges in regard to the purchase and use of explosives on the canal. On Nov. 28 another order in council was passed extending the scope of his commission to include investigation of all kinds of irregularities. Nothing has as yet been paid to Mr. Ferguson.

The Department will be asked to move toward standardising of the varieties of seed corn.

Aviator Killed.

BASEL, Switzerland, March 24.—An aviator named Borrer was killed Sunday during a flight at the aviation meeting. His machine had reached a great height, when it was seen suddenly to dip forward. The spectators thought he was about to loop-the-loop, but they were horrified a few moments later when the machine plunged straight downward and was dashed to pieces against the earth.

BATTLE ACROSS RIVER.

U. S. Soldiers Reply Effectively To Fire of Mexicans.

EAGLE PASS, Texas, March 24.—American soldiers and Federals engaged in a battle Sunday at McGee crossing, three miles above Del Rio, on the Rio Grande, in which several Federal soldiers are reported killed. A patrol from E Troop of the 14th Cavalry returned the fire of the Mexican across the Rio Grande, and for ten minutes the shooting continued. One of the Americans was injured.

Forty Constitutionalist soldiers had been cut off by the Federals on the river bank. After fighting for nearly half an hour, the Constitutionalists tried to cross the river and surrendered to the American troops. The Federals continued firing at the Constitutionalists in the water, and even after they had reached the American bank and surrendered.

The commander of the American cavalrymen signalled repeatedly for the Federals to cease firing, but his signals were disregarded. Finally he ordered his men to return the fire. A number of Federals were carried away after the firing ceased.

Approved at Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Frank approval of the action of the American troopers who returned the fire of Mexican Federals at Del Rio Sunday was expressed here yesterday in official circles. News of the incident was received at the War Department as an incident of border patrol work, and created no great stir. Army reports told of the exchange of shots, and announced that 29 Constitutionalists had been taken into custody after 15 had been killed as they fled across the Rio Grande from the Federals. There was no intimation, however, of any Federals killed or Americans wounded.

Japanese Cabinet Crisis.

TOKIO, March 24.—The Japanese Diet was prorogued yesterday by the Emperor of Japan, owing to the inability of the House of Peers and the House of Representatives to agree on the appropriations for the navy. It is believed that the Cabinet will resign.

"THE MAYOR'S WIFE"

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

Nixon, whom I dared not watch, did not serve with his usual precision,—this I perceived from the surprised look cast at him by Mayor Packard on at least two occasions. Though to the ordinary eye a commonplace meal, it had elements of tragedy in it which made the least movement on the part of those engaged in it of real moment to me. I was about to leave the table unenlightened, however, when Mrs. Packard rose, and, drawing a letter from under the tray before which she sat, let her glances pass from one gentleman to the other with a look of decided inquiry. I drew in my breath and by dropping my handkerchief sought an excuse for lingering in the room an instant longer.

Will—may I ask one of you," she stammered with her first show of embarrassment during the meal, "to—to post this letter for me?"

Both gentlemen were standing and both gentlemen reached for it; but it was into the secretary's hand she put it, though her husband's was much the nearer. As Mr. Steele received it he gave it the usual glance natural under the circumstances,—a glance which instantly, however, took on an air of surprise that ended in a smile.

"Have you not made some mistake?" he asked. "This does not look like a letter." And he handed her back the paper she had given him.

With an involuntary ingathering of her breath, she seemed to wake out of some dream and, looking down at the envelope she held, she crushed it in her hand with a little laugh in which I heard the note of real anxiety for the first time.

"Pardon me," she exclaimed; and, meeting his amazed gaze with one equally expressive, she carelessly added: "I certainly brought a letter down with me."

Bowing pleasantly, but with that indefinable air of respect which bespeaks the stranger, he waited while she hastened back to the tray and drew from under it a second paper.

"Pardon my carelessness," she said. I must have caught up a scrawl of the baby's in taking this from my desk."

She brought forward a letter and ended the whole remarkable episode by handing it now to her husband, who, with an apologetic glance at the other, put it in his pocket.

I say remarkable, for in the folded slip which she had passed back and forth between her and the secretary, I saw, or thought I saw, a likeness to the paper she had brought the night before out of the attic.

If Mayor Packard saw anything unusual in his wife's action he made no mention of it when I went into his study at nine o'clock. And it was so much of an enigma that I was not ready to venture a question regarding it.

Her increased spirits and more natural conduct were the theme of the few sentences he addressed me, and while he urged precaution and a continued watch upon his wife, he expressed the fondest hope that he should find her fully restored on his return at the end of two weeks.

I encouraged his hopes, and possibly shared them; but I changed my mind, as he probably did his, when a few minutes later we met her in the hall hurrying toward us with a newspaper in her hand and a ghastly look on her face.

"See! see! what they have dared to print!" she cried, full of anguish, into his bewildered face.

He took the sheet, read, and flushed; then suddenly grew white.

"Outrageous!" he exclaimed. Then tenderly, "My poor darling! that they should dare to drag your name into this abominable campaign!"

"And for no reason," she faltered; "there is nothing wrong with me. You believe that; you are sure of that," she cried.

I saw the article later. It ran something like this:

"Rumour has it that not even our genial mayor's closet is free from the proverbial skeleton. Mrs. Packard's health is not what it was,—and some say that the causes are not purely physical."

He tried to dissimulate. Putting his arm about her, he kissed her fondly and protested with mingled energy and feeling:

"I believe you to be all that you should be—a true woman and true wife."

Her face lighted and she clung for a moment in passionate delight to his breast; then she caught his look, which was tender, but not altogether open, and the shadows fell again as she murmured:

"You are not satisfied. Oh, what do you see—what do others see, that I should be the subject of doubt? Tell me! I can never right myself till I know."

"I see a tougled face when I should see a happy one," he answered lightly: then, as she still clung in very evident question to his arm, he observed gravely: "Two weeks ago you were the life of this house, and of every other house into which your duties carried you. Why shouldn't you be the same to-day? Answer me that, dear, and all my doubts will vanish. I assure you."

"Henry,"—drooping her head and lacing her fingers in and out with nervous hesitation,—"you will think me very foolish,—I know that it will sound foolish; childish even, and utterly ridiculous; but I can explain myself no other way. I have had a frightful experience—here—in my own house—on the spot where I have been so happy, unthinkingly happy, Henry—do not laugh—it is real, very real to me. The spectre which is said to haunt these walls has revealed itself to me. I have seen a ghost."

CHAPTER IX.

SCRAPS.

We did not laugh; we did not even question her sanity; at least I did not,—there was too much meaning in her manner.

"A spectre," her husband repeated with a suggestive glance at the brilliant sunshine in which all stood.

"Yes." The tone was one of utter conviction. "I had never believed in such things—never thought about them, but—it was a week ago—in the library—I have not seen a happy moment since."

"My darling."

"Yes, yes, I know; but imagine! I was sitting reading. I had just come from the nursery, and the memory of Laura's good-night kiss was more in my mind than the story I was finishing when—oh, I can not think of it without a shudder!—the page before me seemed to recede and the words fade away in a blue mist; glancing up I beheld the outlines of a form between me and the lamp, which a moment before had been burning bright ly. Outlines. Henry,—I was conscious of no substance, and the eyes which met mine from that shadowy, blood-curdling something were those of the grave and meant a grave for you or for me. Oh, I know what I say! There was no mistaking their look. As it burned into and through me, everything which had given reality to my life faded and seemed as far away and unsubstantial as a dream. Nor has its power over me gone yet. I go about amongst you, I eat, I sleep, or try to; I greet men, talk with women, but it is all unreal, all phantasmagoric, even yourself and your love and, O God, my baby! What is real and distinctive, an absolute part of me and my life, is that shape from the dead, with its threatening eyes which pierce—pierce—"

She was losing her self-control. Her husband, with a soothing touch on her arm, brought her back to the present.

"You speak of a form," he said, "a shadowy outline. The form of what? A man or a woman?"

"A man! a man!" With the exclamation she seemed to shrink into herself and her eyes, just now deprecating and appealing, took on a hollow stare, as if the vision she described had risen again before her.

In spite of himself and the sympathy he undoubtedly felt for her, an ejaculation of impatience left her husband's lips. Obligations very far removed from the fantasies of a disturbed mind made these unsubstantial fears of hers seem puerile enough to this virile, outspoken man. No doubt she heard it, and to stop the matter-of-fact protest on his lips added quickly:

"Not the form, face and eyes of a man, as they usually appear. Hell was in his gaze and the message he gave, if it was a message, if it was a message, was one of disaster, if not death. Do you wonder that my happiness vanished before it? That I can not be myself since that dreadful day?"

The mayor was a practical man; he kept close to the subject.

"You saw this form between you and the lighted lamp. How long did it stay there and what became of it?"

"I can not tell you. One moment it was there and the next it was gone, and I found myself staring into vacancy. I seem to be staring there still, waiting for the blow destined to shatter this household."

"Nonsense! give me a kiss and fix your thoughts on something more substantial. What we have to fear and all we have to fear is that I may lose my election. And that won't kill me, whatever effect it may have on the party."

"Henry,"—her voice had changed to one more natural, also her manner. The confidence expressed in this outburst, the vitality, the masculine attitude he took were producing their effect. "You don't believe in what I saw or in my fears. Perhaps you are right. I am ready to acknowledge this: I will try to look upon it all as a freak of my imagination if you will promise to forget these dreadful days, and if people, other people, will leave me alone and not print such things about me."

"I am ready to do my part," was his glad reply, "and as for the other people you mention, we shall soon bring them to book." Raising his voice, he called out his secretary's name.

As it rang loud and cheery down the hall, the joy and renewed life which had been visible in her manner lost some of their brightness.

"What are you going to do?" she gasped, with the quickness of doubt and strong if reasonless apprehension.

"Give an order," he explained; then as the secretary appeared at our end of the hall, he held out the journal which had been taken from his wife, and indicating the offensive paragraph, said:

"Find out who did that."

Mr. Steele with a surprised look ran his eyes over the paragraph, knitting his brows as he did so.

"It is calumny," fell from Mrs. Packard's lips as she watched him.

"Most certainly," he assented, with an energy which brought a flush of pleasure to the humiliated woman's cheek. It will detain me two days or more to follow up this matter,' he remarked with a look of inquiry directed at Mayor Packard.

"Never mind. Two days or a week, it is all one. I would rather lose votes than pass over such an insult. Pin me down the man who has dared attack me through my wife, and you will do me the greatest favour one man can show another."

Mr. Steele bowed.

"I can not forego the final consultation we had planned to hold on the train. May I ride down with you to the station?"

"Certainly; most happy."

Mr. Steele withdrew, after casting a glance of entirely respectful sympathy at the woman who up to this hour had faced the world without a shadow between her and it; and, marking the lingering nature of the look with which the mayor now turned to his wife, I followed the secretary's example and left them to enjoy their few last words alone.

Verily the pendulum of events swung wide and fast in this house.

This conclusion was brought back to me with fresh insistence a few minutes later, when, on hearing the front door shut, I stepped to the balustrade and looked over to see if Mrs. Packard was coming up. She was not, for I saw her go into the library: but plainly on the marble pavement below, just where we had all been standing, in fact, I perceived the piece of paper she had brought with her from the dining room and had doubtless dropped in the course of the foregoing conversation.

Running down in great haste, I picked it up. This scrap of I knew not what, but which had been the occasion of the enigmatic scene I had witnessed at the breakfast table, necessarily interested me very much, and I could not help giving it a look. I saw that it was inscribed with Hebraic-looking characters as unlike as possible to the scrawl of a little child.

With no means of knowing whether they were legible or not, these characters made a surprising impression upon me, one, indeed, that was almost photographic.

I also noted that these shapes or characters, of which there were just seven, were written on the face of an empty envelope. This decided any doubts I may have had as to its identity with the paper she had brought down from the attic. That had been a square sheet, which even if folded would fail to enter this long and narrow envelope. The interest which I had felt when I thought the two identical was a false interest. Yet I could not but believe that this scrap had a value of its own equal to one with which, under this misapprehension, I had invested it.

Carrying it back to Mrs. Packard, I handed it over with the remark that I had found it lying in the hall. She cast a quick look at me, gave me another look and tossed the paper into the grate. As it caught fire and flared up, the characters started vividly into view.

This second glimpse of them, added to the one already given me, fixed the whole indelibly in my mind.

While I watched these cabalistic marks pass from red to black and finally vanish in a wild leap up the chimney, Mrs. Packard remarked:

"I wish I could destroy the memory of all my mistakes as completely as I can that old envelope."

I did not answer; I was watching the weary drop of her hand over the arm of her chair.

"You are tired, Mrs. Packard," was my sympathetic observation. "Will you not take a nap? I will gladly sit by you and read you to sleep."

"No, no," she cried, at once alert and active; "no sleep. Look at that pile of correspondence, half of it on charitable matters. Now that I feel better, now that I have relieved my mind, I must look over my letters and try to take up the old threads again."

"Can I help you?" I asked.

"Possibly. If you will go to my room up-stairs, I will join you after I have sorted and read my mail."

I was glad to obey this order. I had a curiosity about her room. It had been the scene of much I did not understand the night before. Should I find any traces there of that search which had finally ended over my head in the attic?

I was met at the door by Ellen. She wore a look of dismay which I felt fully accounted for when I looked inside. Disorder reigned from one end of the room to the other, transcending any picture I may have formed in my own mind concerning its probable condition. Mrs. Packard must have forgotten all this disarray, or at least had supposed it to have yielded to the efforts of her maid, when she proposed my awaiting her there. There were bureau-drawers with their contents half on the floor, boxes with their covers off, cupboard-doors ajar and even the closet shelves showing every mark of a frenzied search among them. Her rich gown, soiled to the width of half a foot around the bottom, lay with cut laces and its trimmings in rags under a chair which had been knocked over and left where it fell. Even her jewels, had not been put away, but lay scattered on the dresser. Ellen looked ashamed and, when I retired to the one bare place I saw in the bay of the window, muttered as she plunged to lift one of the great boxes:

"It's as bad as the attic room up-stairs. All the trunks have been emptied on to the floor and one hold her best summer dresses. What shall I do? I have a whole morning's work before me."

WAS SUBJECT TO SEVERE BRONCHITIS.

Doctors Only Gave Temporary Relief.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup CURED HIM.

Bronchitis is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather, and is a very dangerous inflammatory affection of the bronchial tubes. Neglected bronchitis is one of the most general causes of consumption, so cure it at once by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Mrs. C. G. Dring, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"Our little boy has been subject to severe bronchitis ever since birth, and different doctors claimed to be only able to relieve him temporarily. A neighbor advised us to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I got a bottle, and after the third dose noticed a decided change, so kept on with it, and a couple of bottles were enough to completely cure him. Now we always keep a bottle on hand, and give it to him as soon as we notice him troubled with a cold, after which it disappears as if by magic. We recommend it to all our friends who find it is just as good as I say."

Be sure and get the genuine "Dr. Wood's" when you ask for it. Put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WOULD TAX ACCORDING TO ABILITY TO PAY

Herbert Samuel Says That is the First Test of Fairness—Taxation on Personalty

In the course of a debate in the British Parliament Mr. Herbert Samuel said that within the last 30 years in England and Wales the expenditure on main roads, police, poor relief, and education had risen from £19,000,000 to £53,000,000, and, while there was a larger assessable value, and an increased subvention from the Exchequer, the burden on the local rates had become very heavy. The increase had been largely due to the higher standard, for the public rightly needed more. It was not ultimately an evil that a larger proportion of the growing wealth of the community should be spent socially through the State and local authorities instead of being spent individually. A great deal of that expenditure, and a great deal of the expenditure which the House was asked to find for armaments, was beneficial and advantageous to the community as a whole, and its growth was not a matter to be regarded as an unmixed evil. We had an immense deal of most devoted labor being given by the members of the local governing authorities both in town and country to the improvement of the environment of the people, not only by country gentlemen, whose work had been rightly praised, but in the towns also.

Fundamental Principle

It was impossible to praise too highly the amount of voluntary unpaid labor thus willingly given by no fewer than 100,000 people in the United Kingdom—that was apart from the parish councils. If, however, we were to enable local authorities to improve still further our system of education, to strike even more efficiently at the causes of ill-health, if we were to enable them to develop our towns on worthy lines, we must not only enlarge the powers of the local authorities, but also give them more elbow-room in matters of finance. It had been suggested that national services should be taken over by the Imperial Government, but that would not be consistent with local management. Where they had local management there must be local responsibility for raising the money required for carrying on those services. We had come to a moment when the whole system of local taxation must be reviewed in the light of the fundamental principles of taxation. And the first of those principles was that the contribution, whether for national or rural purposes, must be according to ability to pay. That was the first test of fairness.

Taxes From Personality

One method of reform must be to secure a larger measure of contribution to local taxation from personalty. In the view of the Government the same principle applied to land, in a large degree, as to licensing. Apart from the improvements which the efforts of expenditure of the individual owners might have made the value of land itself was a socially created thing to a larger degree than any other value. Therefore the Government held that, supplemental to the first principle that men should be taxed according to their ability to pay, there was this principle, that land and other socially created values might justly be made the objects of special legislation. To the Government it appeared that the right method at which they should aim was neither a single tax on land values nor a single tax on incomes, but that our local system of taxation like our Imperial system, should be a mixed system and combine within itself the various elements each of which were just, and each of which might be made the source of a proper and useful revenue to the local authorities. The broad lines on which the Government would proceed had been indicated by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and had been received with approval from all quarters of the House. To this great and difficult question the energies of the Government would this year in a very large measure be devoted.

Heart Disease.

Mrs. J. D. Talbut, Owen Sound, Ont., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from heart disease, and leaking valves. I have had resource to every kind of treatment I could think might help me, including the skill of several doctors. I was advised by a friend, who had suffered untold pain and misery, just as I had, and had been cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, to give them a trial, so I decided to do so. I am delighted with the result, as I am now completely cured, and can eat and sleep as I have not done for years.

NEARLY DIED OF STONE IN THE BLADDER

GIN PILLS SAVED HIM

513 James St., Hamilton, Ont.

"Five years ago, I was taken down with what the doctors called Inflammation of The Bladder—intense pains in back and loins, and difficulty in urinating, and the attacks, which became more frequent, amounted to unbearable agony. I became so weak that I could not walk across the floor.

My wife read in the papers about GIN PILLS and sent for a box. From the very first, I felt that GIN PILLS were doing me good. The pain was relieved at once and the attacks were less frequent.

In six weeks, the Stone in the Bladder came away. When I recall how I suffered and how now I am healthy and able to work, I cannot express myself strongly enough when I speak of what GIN PILLS have done for me." John Herman. 178

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

This recipe makes 16 ounces of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pinex is one of the oldest and best-known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

LEATHER FROM FISH SKINS

Many Food Fish Are Used For Fine Leather

Many kinds of leather are got from sea creatures, some of which are very curious and beautiful. The skin of sharks is a beautiful burnished gray or bluish color. The surface resembles finely grained leather, inasmuch as it shows many tiny prickles set all one way. This property of shark skin renders it especially valuable to the manufacturer of "shagreen." Since the skin is at once tough and easy to work, it can be used for any purposes where decorative effects are desired.

The sturgeon furnishes a valuable and attractive leather. It has been found that when the bony plates are removed, the patterns remain on the skin, just as the patterns of alligator scales remain on alligator leather, a circumstance that adds greatly to the value of the product. From the sturgeons that abound on our Pacific coast and in the great lakes we get a tough leather that is used for the making of laces to join leather belting for machinery. It is said that the lacing frequently outwears the belting itself.

There is found in Turkish waters a strikingly unattractive fish called the angel fish, classed among the littoral sharks. This fish yields an extremely high quality of green leather much esteemed in the Ottoman dominions.

In Russia certain peasant costumes are trimmed with the skins of a food fish, the turbot, and in Egypt men wear sandals made from the skins of fish caught in the Red Sea. In our own country, too, the cod has been used in a similar manner, for in bygone days a good many shoes and gloves have been made in Gloucester from the skin of the humble cod.

Eelskin is used for many purposes, among them the manufacture of leather binding for books and for braiding into whips.

Bridging the Ganges

A group of English engineers has been accorded the contract for bridging the Ganges of northern India, which issues from an ice cave at the foot of the Himalayan range of mountains. This bridge, which is over a mile in length, is to carry the Eastern Bengal State railway over the Ganges from Dalmukolia to Sara Ghat. Spanning the river, the bridge will be carried on steel trestles, which in turn will be supported on massive steel grilles in granite piers. The contract consists of fifteen main spans, each 359 feet long and 52 feet high, and weighing 1,300 tons, and will require an expenditure of about $1,250,000.

PITCHING THE CAMP

A Space is Scooped Out Three or Four Feet Deep

The moment the halt is called there ensues a scene of hustle and activity. Your Indian in winter is a far different being from the shiftless, indifferent loafer who lies about the summer wigwam. He must exert himself or freeze. As it is nearly sunset all hands must make the most of the short twilight minutes. Snowshoes are kicked off and used as shovels. A space only large enough to accommodate the members of the party when stretched at full length, side by side, is scooped out to a depth of three or four feet. Some of the men fell nearby trees, and a three-foot barricade is built to windward. While the others are scattered about the woods felling and gathering firewood, the guides carpet the interior of the camp with spruce boughs. Then, as the firewood comes in, they pile it in front of the shelter, crib fashion, the full length of the camp. For kindling, the top of a dead spruce cannot be beaten, and quickly the huge pile of resinous wood is lit, at both ends and in the middle. In a few minutes there is a roaring blaze, breast-high, that drives one back to the bottom of the camp. With his mittened hands he is forced to shield his frost-bitten face from the terrific heat, and yet, at the same time, his back, exposed to the north, is freezing. When a sufficient quantity of wood has been gathered for the night, and one must not neglect to include a supply for the breakfast fire, the drivers drop their axes and give a little attention to their dogs, now well cooled off and shivering in their harness. The wearied brutes are released from the laden toboggans, and tied to convenient trees, out of reach of each other. Were they allowed to roam untethered, there would be but little sleep for the traviler. The night would be one continual battle amongst the savage brutes, and when the wolf-blood surged uppermost trapper and hunter might easily fall prey to the half-starved "huskies."

Baby's Message of 1891

A letter which was posted on October 18, 1891, addressed to Captain Harrison, of the ship Cambois, at Elsinore, Denmark, has been returned unopened, without any explanation. Captain Harrison was drowned at sea before reaching his destination. Enclosed with the letter was a pencilled note in baby handwriting from the captain's daughter, now a woman.

"While on a trip with a survey party in Northern Ontario two years ago, I contracted rheumatism through exposure and sleeping in damp clothes. When I returned home I was very bad, and the pain in my joints was something awful. I was advised to try Weeden's Kidney Pills, and after taking four boxes my rheumatism was entirely gone. Last year I was up on the survey party again, but I was never without a box of Weeden's Kidney Pills, and have never had the slightest return of it.

Nervous Prostration And Heart Trouble

For Three Years Doctors Struggled With This Disease, and In Vain---Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The complete breakdown of the nervous system as in nervous prostration is usually the result of overwork, worry or "burning the candle at both ends."

There are always warnings if you will only recognize them. You find yourself easily fatigued and annoyed. Little things make you irritable. You do not enjoy your work or find yourself forgetful and lacking energy. Headaches may return about the same time each day; there may be nervous indigestion and distress caused by even the simplest food. Gloomy forebodings and hysteria are other symptoms. You may look strong and well and yet be on the verge of nervous collapse.

When threatened by nervous breakdown begin at once the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and escape such serious developments as nervous prostration, locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

Mrs. H. C. Jones, South Lake, C.B., writes:—"I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years, I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors without satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and was completely cured by the treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my house work with pleasure and comfort and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

A WEAK CHESTED BOY

"My boy Frank seemed weak-chested and took a very severe cold," writes Mrs. D. Stevens, Ningra, Man. "The many medicines used did not seem to benefit him, until we tried Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and found it to be exactly what was wanted to cure him." No treatment is so thorough and effective as a cure for croup and bronchitis.

Two Wits and a Street.

Craven street, Strand, London, once produced quite a competition among epigrammatists. James Smith, one of the authors of the "Rejected Addresses," who died there in 1839, wrote:

In Craven street, Strand, ten attorneys find place,
Fly, Honesty, fly; seek some safer retreat,
For there's craft on the river and craft on the street.

To which Sir George Rose retaliated:

Why should Honesty fly to some safer retreat,
From attorneys and barges, 'od rot 'em—

"The Finest Speech in English."

The finest speech in English of the last half century was delivered at Gettysburg—a speech made by a man who had been a country farmer and a district lawyer—which ranks among the glories and the treasures of mankind I escape the task of deciding which is the masterpiece of British eloquence by awarding the prize to Abraham Lincoln.—Lord Curzon at Cambridge University.

A Terrible Oversight.

It was some time after the New Year's resolutions had all been made and broken that an acquaintance of ours met another acquaintance of some other fellow's on the street. This second person was in a deplorable condition mentally, morally, physically, etc.

"Why, my dear fellow," said our acquaintance, "it really shocks me to see you like this. I thought you joined a total abstinence society on Jan. 1."

"I did," wept the other, with feeling. "I did! But whadda y' think? I forgot to pay my dues this month!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Bridal Tourists.

The bride looked on the mountains,
The river's golden strand,
Italian garden fountains
Were dinkling near at hand.
She spake with cooing kindness,
"How fair these vistas are!"
The bridegroom in his blindness
Bowed down beneath the car.

From thence did he deliver
Some words about a chain,
Such words as made her shiver
With an astonished pain;
Then to the balmy breezes
She hummed these lines and smiled:
"Where every prospect pleases
And only man is riled."
—Frederick Moxon in Judge

FOUR WINTERS OF RHEUMATISM

TILLSONTOWN, ONT., May 21st, 1913.

"Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism. It was the only medicine that made any impression on me. I was a terrible sufferer from Rheumatism. I was laid up for four winters with Sciatica and Muscular Rheumatism, and was completely crippled.

Some neighbor of mine told me that "Fruit-a-tives" helped him, and I started in to take them. I used "Fruit-a-tives" faithfully for two years, taking them every day as I saw they were doing me good, and the results were marvellous.

For over two years, I have been completely free from any Rheumatic Pains whatever, and I give "Fruit-a-tives" the credit." W. H. RACHER.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Bowen Grit

"But, grandfather!" she began, appealingly.

"Don't grandfather me. I mean just what I say. If I ever catch that young scoundrel again on these premises you know what will happen. Now go into the house and do your work and never let me hear of your speaking to him again!"

With drooping head and dragging footsteps Lucy went into the kitchen. Blindly she started washing the dishes. Two big tears were rolling down her cheeks and, unheeded, dropped softly into the foaming suds.

"Oh, why is he so stern?" she sobbed. "Here I am 19 years old, and he won't even let a soul glance at me, and Billy is such a nice boy."

The tears started afresh, and for a few minutes Lucy gave herself up to bitter weeping. Suddenly she stopped, for she heard voies outside. Forgetting her grief for the moment, she tiptoed noiselessly through the woodshed to the barn. Cautiously she peered through a ragged knothole. There was Grandfather Bowen leaning on his hoe and talking in low tones to old Jake Brown, who lived a mile down the road. There was nothing strange about that, for he often came up to talk about the crops and the weather and to impart choice bits of gossip that came to his listening ears. But what was it grandfather was saying?

"I'm willing she should have him. He's as smart a young feller as there is around these parts. I've known his family for years and he's got the best of blood in him. But what I'm driving about is this. Lucy has always done just as I wanted her to ever since she was a little thing, toddling around, and I'd like to see her have a little spunk.

"It don't hurt the best of us. I'd give a good deal to know if she has any of the old Bowen grit in her make-up. Our family, away back, has always been mighty proud of that grit and I'm just as taken with it as the rest.

"So I'm going to set up every opposition I can in the way of Lucy and Billy's courtin' and marryin' and see if she has the spunk to win out.

"Any how, Bowen grit or not, it will prove to me if she really loves him. She shan't marry the man who she does not love."

Grandfather shook his grey head fiercely. "She and Billy don't have the slightest idea that I know about the license he has been carrying for a couple of weeks in his pocket. Trust me for finding that out," he gloated with a chuckle. "Now the time has come for Lucy to show the stuff she's made of. If she wins out I'll give them $100 for their wedding trip."

Could she believe her own ears? Lucy quickly stifled a cry of joy and softly went back to the kitchen. Gaily humming a tune, she soon finished her work, and then went upstairs to her little room under the eaves to think.

"But I'm not much better off than I was before," she reasoned, an anxious frown gathering between her eyes. "Grandfather is so very shrewd I never can get ahead of him. Anyhow, he likes Billy, and that is a big consolation. But how can I manage it?"

Days followed. It was three weeks now since grandfather made his threat and Billy had not made his appearance. Lucy was beginning to fear that he, too, had no spunk. Still her heart was full of sunshine and she firmly believed that there would be some way to unlock the gate of happiness.

As she sat by the window sewing, glancing occasionally at the riotous beauty of the old-fashioned flower garden, she espied a familiar figure coming up the road. It was Billy.

A sudden thought came to her. Grandfather was asleep in his room. He always slept an hour at least. She would go quietly down and meet Billy.

And oh! It was the day for Elder Lyman to come down to Deacon Butterworth's, who lived next house down the road to Billy.

Lucy darted from the house down the road. She should have started by this time. Yes, there's the team now.

Breathlessly she told him all, what she had overheard and her plan.

Elder Lyman could marry them under the old elm tree while grandfather was sleeping. The elde had now reached them. He readily agreed to marry them.

"But who shall we have for a witness" asked practical Billy.

Utter despair came over Lucy's face, to be quickly dispelled. A heavy figure was coming slowly down the road. It was "Black Nannie," the peddlar woman, bending clumsily under the weight of her heavy pack.

Soon they were in their places, ready to begin the brief ceremony. At the first word Lucy sent a fearful look to Billy. Grandfather was calling loudly, "Lucy, Lucy!"

"Quick! Into the old henhouse!" said Billy. "He has not seen us. We can be married while he is hunting."

Hurriedly they rushed into the low structure, bumping their heads and stumbling over and upsetting pans of water and feed. There, bending beneath the low roof they were married, with the squawking of hens for the wedding music.

"What's all this squawking about?" he demanded in angry tones, yet a queer light was shining in his keen eyes.

"May I introduce my wife, Mrs. Watson" began Billy blandly. His honest face was glowing with happiness. "We were married in the old henhouse. Won't you congratulate us?"

"Congratulate you? Indeed I will!" said Grandfather Bowen. And as he shook Billy's hand with a grip that made him wince his hearty laugh rang loud and long. "Married in a henhouse, were you? Well, well!"

He then turned to Lucy, took her in his arms and patted her shoulders and said gruffly:

"Lucy, my girl, you're a chip of the old block. Congratulations!"

A few minutes after Zam-Buk is applied to a cut, a burn, a scratch, or any sore place, the pain is stopped. Mothers should never forget this, because it is one reason why Zam-Buk is the best thing for children's injuries. It stops their crying and gives them ease. Right from the instant of application healing begins, and Zam-Buk heals quickly. Note these statements from reliable persons, some of whom you may know.

Baby's Sore Healed.—

"My baby girl had a bad sore on her skin, which was very painful, and caused her to be very restless. We put on some Zam-Buk, and in a wonderfully short time it gave her ease. In a few days the sore was completely healed."
Mrs. E. Jessop,
Yorkton, Sask.

Rusty Nail Pierced Finger.—

"I ran a rusty nail under my thumb nail while at work. The pain was terrible and I feared blood-poisoning from the dirty, rusty nail. I bathed some Zam-Buk and ran it into the wound, and it stopped the pain almost instantly. It kept away inflammation and in a few days the wound was quite healed."
Mrs. A. E. Gunn,
Gimli, Man.

A Bad Burn.—

"In moving some wood in the stove, I burned my thumb very badly. In a few minutes it was covered with a big white blister, and the pain was very bad. Zam-Buk was applied, and in quick time it gave me ease."
H. E. Jessop, Organist, Cranbrook, B.C.

Take this Advice!

If you have some sore place, some skin disease, some cut, or burn or wound, why continue to suffer pain? Every hour you suffer is an hour wasted. You cannot do your best work in pain; you cannot enjoy your leisure. Zam-Buk saves far more than it costs, by saving you time in this way.

Zam-Buk is a "short cut" to skin healing. There is nothing which heals so quickly and so surely. Use it for all skin troubles and diseases, Eczema, Ulcers, Blood Poisons, etc., and for Piles. All druggists and stores, 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

THE LUCKY CALL

A country curate visiting his flock,
At old Rebecca's cottage gave a knock.
"Good morrow, dame, mean not any libel,
But in your dwelling have you got a Bible?"
"A Bible, sir?" exclaimed she in a rage,
"D'ye think I'm turned a pagan in my age?"
"Here, Judith, and run upstairs, my dear,
'Tis in the drawer, be quick and bring it here."
The girl returned with a Bible in a minute,—
Not dreaming for a moment what was in it;—
When lo! on opening it at the parlour door,
Down fell her spectacles upon the floor.
Amazed, she stared, was for a moment dumb,
But quick exclaimed, "Dear, sir, I'm glad you're come!
'Tis six years since these glasses first were lost,
And I have missed 'em to my poor eyes' cost!"
Then as the glasses to her nose she raised,
She closed the Bible—saying "God be praised!"

MAY HOLD CONFERENCE.

Imperial Naval Gathering Is Now a Possibility.

LONDON, March 24.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A colonial conference of the Home Government and of those of the Dominions over seas on the question of naval defence of the Pacific, is now within the realm of possibility. This was made clear by Premier Asquith yesterday when in reply to Capt. Faber, he admitted that the Colonial Office had opened negotiations with the Governments of Australia and New Zealand regarding the holding of such a conference at an early date.

In view of the fact that Government refused quite recently to hold a conference which was to include Canadian participation, it is inferred the new turn of events are entirely due to pressure from the Antipodean Governments.

(The Modern Beauty)

Nothing is quite so annoying to a woman as ugly fuzzy growths on the face, and while the electric needle brings relief, it is no more effective than a simple paste made with powdered delatone and water. After this treatment the skin should be washed to free it from the remaining delatone and it will be soft, clear and hairless. Be sure, however, that you get the real delatone.

POLICE FIGHT STRIKERS.

Train Fired On By Men and One Man May Die.

BUFFALO, March 24.—Four men were shot, one fatally and several were injured yesterday in two clashes between rioters and special deputies guarding the plant of the Gould Coupler Works at Depew where a strike has been in progress for some weeks. Stanislaus Sholonski, claimed by his friends to be an innocent bystander, was shot in the head during the first and most serious trouble, early in the day, when a mob of 200 men held up a train bearing workmen to the plant and fought a half hour's pitched battle with the deputies. He died at the hospital yesterday.

The first outbreak occurred when a Lackawanna train of 11 coaches, bearing about 700 workmen was within a mile of the plant early in the day. A mob of about 300 threw obstructions on the rails and when the train came to a standstill poured a fusillade of revolver shots and stones into the windows of the cars.

Half a dozen special deputies returned the fire and it is claimed that several of the mob are hit and at once carried away by others in the crowd. The men in the train were ordered to lie flat on the floor and all who did so escaped injury. After 30 minutes of shooting a sheriff's posse arrived and charged the crowd, dispersing it.

The second exchange of shots occurred near the plant after dark last night. A party of special deputies patrolling the outskirts of the plant was made the target for a fusillade of shots from an unoccupied building nearby. Officer Doherty was hit in the cheek, but not seriously injured.

New York Gunman Issues Statement Accusing Others.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal and sentenced to die in the electric chair in the week beginning April 13, the four gunmen in the Hang Sing death house issued a statement "to the public" yesterday. Alleging that they were left to die unjustly, while former Lieut. Charles Becker obtained a new trial, they had their counsel, Charles G. Wahle, give out their appeal for "justice" and "fair play," which they had already prepared when he visited them Saturday. They reiterated their innocence, and charged Harry Vallon and "Bridgie" Webber with the Rosenthal murder.

"Lefty Louie" Rosenberg, 22, the youngest of the four, wrote the statement, and it was signed by the others through the heavy bars of their cells as the guard held it for them.

Sectionmen May Strike.

MONTREAL, March 24.—The result of the recent conference between the officials of the Sectionmen's Union and the C.P.R., when it was decided to leave the demand of the men for an increase in pay until May 1, has been submitted to a vote and 85 per cent. of the 4,000 men interested have favored the taking of immediate action. At the C.P.R. head offices yesterday nothing was known of the decision of the sectionmen.

Valuable Papyrus Missing.

PARIS, March 24.—An Egyptian papyrus of great value is missing from the Louvre. It was presented to the museum in 1887 by Adolphe Cottang, a noted Egyptologist. He asked to see it recently. No one knew anything about it, and could it be found. The papyrus is a magnificently illuminated example of "The Book of the Dead."

He was a brother of James Watt, barrister, of this city, and was for several years editor and proprietor of the Meaford Monitor. BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, backache, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grape and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

FIRE IN WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG, March 24—Fire broke out at 4.15 yesterday afternoon in the Scott block, Main street, valued at $115,000, carrying insurance of $55,000. The whole interior of the building, which is a six-storey brick structure, divided into office suites, was destroyed, bringing the total estimated loss up to $250,000. Among the tenants were: Canadian Northern Railway special agents; the C. N. R. general claims department; Rembrant Co., photographers; F. W. Scott; C. & J. Jones; Western Investment Co.; Western Woodenware Co.; Thomas Boyle, Irish railways and general contractors agency; L. P. Beaubien, barrister; J. N. Carter, contractor; Geo. H. Hees, Son & Co.; Winnipeg Scenic Co.; Sanitary Supply Co.; Benj. J. Curry, dentist; J. B. Duncan, contractor; C. N. R. telegraphers; Mackenzie & Mann Telegraph Construction Co.; Harvey Bros., manufacturers; C. H. Keaney & Co.; Gate City Brick Works; Manitoba Sunday School Association; Western Teachers' Bureau; North Empire Fire Insurance Co., and the J. D. Clark Co.

There were several narrow escapes owing to the fact that the elevator in the building collapsed at the first descent loaded with passengers, no one being injured in the collapse, Dr. McNat, dentist, in the office of Dr. Carr..., was badly injured in the back as the result of the strain caused by jumping 45 feet from the fourth storey into a life net. At midnight the fire was practically under control, and no casualties could be proven, although one or two had been reported missing. It was believed, in view of the fact that the firemen had not seen any bodies, that these persons may have remained in the crowd of spectators.

FIRED IN ALGONQUIN.

Was Woodbine Hotel Tragedy Caused by Miner's Quarrel.

TORONTO, March 24.—Although the origin of the Woodbine Hotel fire is still a profound mystery to the Toronto authorities, a story is circulating in several camps in eastern Ontario which may throw some light on the problem if thoroughly investigated by the police.

According to this story there were present in the hotel at the time of the fire two men who were deadly enemies. An encounter some months ago was the basis of this feud, the result of which was that one of them is said to have declared he would "get" the other.

When the two met under the same roof in the Woodbine Hotel it is said that the day of revenge was taken by the one to be at hand. At any rate, there was a fire, and there are five dead, the name of one of whom is connected with the feud and its threatened sequel.

Mounty Ejected Committee.

TORONTO, March 24.—Pandemonium reigned in the Council chamber yesterday afternoon when Mayor Hocken called in the police to eject Controller Church, who persisted in disregarding the former's ruling on a point of order raised by Controller McCarthy, who objected to Controller Church's continued statement to the effect that he interfered with the officials of the Treasury Department. Controller Church finally subsided and the policeman retired to his post as doorkeeper again.

Carveth Gets Two Years.

TORONTO, March 24. — William Carveth, one of the three young men who were arrested on Sunday night on a charge of automobile thefts, was sentenced to two years in the Kingston Penitentiary in the police court yesterday. The other two men who were arrested in connection with the thefts were discharged, as they had been merely riding in the stolen cars and had nothing to do with the actual theft. The mother of young Carveth thanked which sentence was imposed.

How To Look Years Less Than Your Age

The most aged face will look years younger after the use of ordinary discolored wax for from ten days to two weeks. This remarkable substance, because of its peculiar absorptive power, actually removes the thin veil of faded or withered tough cuticle, a little at a time. Gradually the fresher, more youthful skin underneath is revealed. This absorption process being a purely hygienic one, an entirely natural complexion is acquired—quite different from the artificial complexion, which appears anything but lifelike, though often bearing painful evidence of deliberation. An ounce of mercolized wax obtainable at any drug store, is sufficient to rejuvenate any complexion. It is put on like cold cream at bedtime, and removed mornings with warm water.

To eradicate such age marks as wrinkles and furrows, make a wash lotion by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. This has wonderful astringent and tonic properties, quickly effaces all kinds of wrinkles, no matter how caused, making the skin firm, smooth and young looking.

TOO MUCH TIME WASTED.

Wilson Wants Congress to Hasten With Panama Repeal.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—While President Wilson has no doubts about the passage of the administration bill to repeal the Panama tolls exemption, he is anxious that it be brought to a vote promptly. He has been advised that a vote probably will be taken as soon as the rivers and harbors bill has been disposed of.

The President said yesterday it looked to him as if there had been filibuster on the rivers and harbor bill to delay the vote on the toll question, but said that minorities always filibuster. He denied a charge made on the floor of the Senate that he had attempted to limit the toll debate in the House. He said that while he had no part in suggesting a rule to limit debate, and he hoped there would be none.

In reply to questions as to whether he thought any improper influence were being brought bon against the repeal, the President declared that he had not sought to find and did not suspect them.

Not Divided In Death.

BROCKVILLE, March 24.—James Dempsey and his wife, a couple age about 65 years, residing in the Township of Kitley, where the ferme farmed successfully for many years, died within twenty-four hours of each other of pneumonia after less than one week's illness. Mrs. Dempsey passed away on Saturday and was followed early Sunday morning by her husband, who sank gradually after learning of the death of his wife.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, March 24.—Corn today jumped higher than at any time since Dec. 12. The market for hogs was stronger and prices advanced 25c to 50c per 100 pounds for Ontario stock, there being no Manitobas on the market.

MEDICINE IN AFRICA.

Health Plays a Large Part With the Black Aborigines.

As might be expected, the African native is a person of great "suggestibility" in respect to health and disease. If he thinks he is going to die says a recent writer. Die he will, and very promptly, even if he has the most trivial complaint. If he thinks he is going to get well, he is apt to do so in the face of extraordinary odds.

Three things were likely to be the matter; too much meat, fever, or putrefaction from slight wounds. To these, in the rainy season, would be added the various sorts of colds. The means either Epsom salts, quinine, or a little excursion with the insect and permanganate. The African traveler gets to be a very proficient medicine man within those narrow limits.

No matter what the matter was the proper thing for the sufferer to do was to throw a red blanket over the head and to assume as miserable an attitude as possible. A sore toe demanded just as much concentration as a case of pneumonia.

Sick call was cried after the day's work was finished. Then Miganda our head man, lifted up his voice.

They all squatted miserably, oh, very miserably, in a row. The head man stood over them rather fiercely. We surveyed the lot contemplatively, hoping to heaven that nothing complicated was going to turn up. One of the boys hovered in the background as dispensing chemist.

"Well," said F. at last, "what's the matter with you?"

The man indicated pointed to his head and the back of his neck, and groaned. If he had a slight headache, he groaned just as much as if his head had been splitting. F. asked a few questions, and took his temperature. The clinical thermometer is in itself considered big medicine, and often does much good.

"Too much meat, my friend," remarked F. in English, and to his boy in Swahili, "bring the cup."

He put in the cup a triple dose of Epsom salts. The African requires three times a white man's dose. This, therapeutically, was all that was required; but psychologically, the job was just begun. Your African can do wonderful things with his imagination. Therefore the white man desires not only to enliven his patient's fatalonal economy with Epsom salts, but also to arouse his faith. To this end F. added to that triple dose of medicine a spoonful of chutney, one of Worcestershire sauce, a few grains of quinine, and a crystal or so of permanganate. This assortment the patient drank with gratitude — and the tears running down his cheeks.

F. clapped his hand on the back of the other's neck.

"I think," he remarked, contemplatively, in English, "that you're a liar, and want to get out of carrying your load."

"I'm pretty sure you're a liar," observed F., in the pleasantest conversational tone, and still in English, "but you may be merely a poor diagnostician. We'll see."

So he mixed a pint of medicine.

He then proceeded to concoct a mixture, the awfulness of which is the exact measure of his imagination. The imagination was only limited by the necessity of keeping the mixture harmless. Every hot, biting nauseous horror in camp went into that pint measure.

"There," continued F., "if you drink that and come back again tomorrow for treatment, I'll believe you are sick."

Without undue pride, I should like to record that I was the first to think of putting into the draft a peculiarly nauseous gun oil. Thereby I acquired a reputation of making tremendous medicine.

Brushing It Gently.

The somewhat careless major of an English regiment stationed in India returned to London after an absence of several years. His sluggish liver needed touching up, he thought, and so he went to a famous physician for advice and paid his advance charge.

"Major," said the doctor, "you are in a serious condition, but I think we can pull you through. You must purchase a tub four feet wide and two deep. Then you must fill it with tepid water."

"Not boiling, doctor?"

"No; merely tepid. Then you must stand in it and with a sponge moisten your body. Having done this, you must apply some saponaceous matter."

"Yes," said the doctor. "Having thoroughly scoured yourself, you must dry all with a rough towel."

"Well, it is open to that objection," replied the famous physician, "but I feel, sir, that you need it."

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and consequently all forms of stomach trouble are, more than one of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates many foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well-fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to eliminate from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and stomach sweetener. It has no direct action on the stomach, but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of bisurated magnesia whenever needed, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

Sterne's Destitution.

Laurence Sterne, the writer, was the victim of the intensest poverty. A little time before his death, being in a state of destitution, he went one evening to borrow £5 from his friend Garrick. Upon arriving he heard music and knew that a party was going on. He heard the merry laughter and, gently replacing the uplifted knocker, retraced his steps.

We never feel our miseries so keenly as when contrasted with the joys of others, and it is only then that we realise Wordsworth's picture:

And homeless near a thousand homes
I stood

First Hunger Strike.

Cleopatra seems to have been the first hunger striker. Shakespeare represents her as saying when she was captured:

Sir, I will eat no meat; I'll not drink, sir;
I'll not sleep neither; this mortal house I'll ruin.
Do Cæsar what he can. Know, sir, that I
Will not wait pinioned at your master's court.

ECZEMA AND SORE EYES

"My daughter suffered from inflamed eyelids and eczema on her head," writes Mr. H. W. Lean, Port Plantard, Nfld. "The child was in a bad state and suffered greatly. The doctor failed to help her, and on recommendation of a friend, I used Dr. Chase's Ointment, which made a complete cure. With a grateful heart I write you this letter."

Alleviating a Burn.

For slight burns put the part instantly in cold water or cover it with moistened baking powder and then a wet cloth. When the skin is destroyed the point to be attained is to exclude the air. Do that by covering the burn with sweet oil, vaseline, linseed oil, carron oil, lard or with flour spread thickly on a linen cloth or on cotton batting.

An excellent covering for burnt surfaces is made by mixing common whiting (used in kitchens for polishing purposes) with sweet oil or cottonseed oil or even water to a thick paste. With this the burn is carefully covered by means of a feather, taking care not to break the blister; then the whole part is covered with cotton cloth and kept clean and moist.

Monument to Good Women.

In the Lady Chapel of the new Liverpool Cathedral there will be magnificent stained glass windows in commemoration of the deeds of good women. Famous women of the Old and New Testament are to be included, but there will also be memorials of good women of modern times—Mary Collet, Grace Darling, Josephine Butler, Elizabeth Fry, Ann Clough, Mary Somerville, Mary Rogers, the steward ess of the Seguia, Queen Victoria, the mammoth Wesley, and others.

Boy Scouts on March.

The Australian Boy Scouts are something more than juvenile fireside soldiers. Recently a party of the Brisbane corps arrived in Tenterfield, having walked all the way, nearly 200 miles, in eleven days, some rough country being covered in the journey. During the trip the party wore out two pairs of boots each. The boys range in age from 14 to 16 years.

DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR CAN BE STOPPED WITH HERPICIDE

Every woman who is obliged to wear false hair, or man a toupee, feels that it is a misfortune. What makes the burden so doubly hard to bear is the knowledge that the loss of natural hair could, in most instances, have been easily avoided.

The main enemy of good hair is the dandruff germ. This is now a well established scientific fact. There is one remedy on the market which, used regularly, will clean the scalp and keep out every trace of dandruff.

This remedy is Newbro's Herpicide, long known as "the Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer." By keeping the scalp clean, Herpicide not only prevents the hair from falling out but allows it to grow as nature intended. Begun in time and its use persisted in, this valuable remedy insures a nice healthy head of hair.

Herpicide imparts a life and lustre to dull, dead, brittle hair, making it light, fluffy and beautiful.

Newbro's Herpicide is 50c. and $1.00, may be had by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

A neat sample and booklet on the care of the hair will be sent to anyone upon receipt of 10c. in postage or silver. Address The Herpicide Co., Dept. E., Detroit, Mich.

NEW OFFICERS AND ENTHUSIASM AT BOARD OF TRADE ANNUAL MEETING

Mr. Basil Hall Elected President —Outlines a Proposed Plan of Action for Boards During Coming Year.

AIM AT 2000 MEMBERS

Mr. Basil Hall was elected President of the Peterborough Board of Trade at a meeting that was held last evening in the City Council Chamber. Mr. C. H. Pennefather, the retiring President of the Board, upon calling the meeting to order, announced that the object of the meeting was for the purpose of reorganizing the Board of Trade and if possible arrange for the appointment of a permanent secretary. The latter would be paid a fixed salary and would be expected to collaborate with the Industrial Commissioner and with any civic organization having similar aims and objects. "The Peterborough Board of Trade has been in existence for sixteen years, and unfortunately it has not received the support of the business men," said Mr. Pennefather. "A meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade held in Toronto recently was attended by over one hundred and fifty delegates. It seems that Peterborough was lamentably lacking on that occasion."

Last Year's Record.

One of the projects accomplished by the Board of Trade during the past year was the matter of having the Toronto morning papers delivered at an earlier hour in the morning. The Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mr. Pennefather waited upon the railway authorities in Toronto and secured their consent to an arrangement whereby the early morning papers would arrive in the City several hours earlier The Board also claimed credit for having created some activity in real estate circles. A few days ago a meeting was held in the Bank of Montreal chambers, when twenty-four young men of the City pledged their support to the reorganization of the Peterborough Board of Trade.

Tendered Resignation.

Mr. T. O. Quartermaine handed in his resignation as secretary of the Board of Trade, having served sixteen years in that capacity. He was tendered a vote of thanks for his long and consistent service and made a life member of the Board. A vote of thanks was also recorded on behalf of Mr. Pennefather, the retiring President of the Board.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected for the current year: Mr. Basil Hall, President; Mr. W. C. Ackerman, Vice-President; Mr. James Hamilton, Treasurer; Mr. Norman Allison, Secretary, pro tem. The President, Vice-President and Secretary were named as a committee to select twenty members to constitute an executive council. They were asked to report back at a meeting to be held on Tuesday, March thirty-first.

The President's Address.

Mr. Basil Hall, the newly-elected President, outlined a tentative policy which was submitted to the Board in the following terms:

PRESIDENT HALL'S PROPAGANDA.

President Basil Hall submitted the following propaganda for the year's work, which went to the Executive Council to report on :—

We are here to resurrect the Board of Trade and to unite the forces of many men to advance the interests of business in this city. You have splendid organizations of business men, notable among which are the Retail Merchants, Manufacturers, Commercial Travellers and Trades and Labor Associations, to carry on particular branches of the work we hope to assist, encourage and develop. An active Board of Trade, and by active I mean one composed of busy, successful men, filled with enthusiasm for the work being done or to be done can accomplish much for a growing city such as ours. And can be one of the chief factors in the development of the city. It can give a great deal of help to merchants, manufacturers and workmen and others, and indeed fill a long-felt want in providing a channel through which different bodies, organizations and individuals can pull together.

Board of Arbitration.

At the annual meeting the Board may decide twelve members to form a Board of Arbitration, and any three of such members have power to arbitrate upon and make their award in any commercial case or difference voluntarily referred to them by the parties concerned; and have power to examine on oath any of the parties or witnesses. The award of the arbitrators is binding on the parties according to the terms of the submission which they are required to make.

The Board may also appoint five persons as a board of examiners to examine applicants for the office of inspector of flour and meal or any other article subject to inspection.

The Council has power to license weighers in grain elevators in the municipalities. These functions are seldom exercised.

THE GOVERNMENT IS CRITICIZED FOR NOT PUNISHING THE OFFICERS

Liberals Papers Say That Officers Who Resigned Should Have Been Summarily Dealt With--British Press Comments on the Situation.

Examiner Special:

LONDON, ENG., March 24.—(Special cable.)—To-day the Asquith government is being criticized by friends more than foes as a result of the reinstatement of the officers of the regiment at Curragh Camp. The Manchester Guardian, the most influential Liberal organ outside of London, tells the Government this morning that its duty was plain. The officers should have been tried by court martial and punished as military discipline dictates. It says. "There is no sign of mutiny extending beyond three useless but ornamental cavalry regiments, and even if there was, it should have been punished as long as the government had the physical strength to do so." The Daily Mail says: "Though every army officer is dismissed, we will have no mailed hand raised in menace against parliament." The Westminster Gazette, which is usually the cabinet mouthpiece, says the situation is so perilous it cannot be allowed to drift.

BERTHA M. CLAY'S DEATH REVEALS THE FACT THAT THE WRITER WAS REALLY A MAN

In the passing from the literary horison of Bertha M. Clay, the world once more called on to face the fact of her immense popularity and the effect of her writings on the lives of millions of readers, in direct contradiction to all laws of literary taste and the art of character delineation. And that mammoth being whom really clever writers say they understand —the common people, will mourn this loss. As everybody has connected Bertha M. Clay with Charlotte M. Braeme—quite another writer altogether, Miss Braeme may with Mark Twain say that the report of her death is greatly exaggerated. She has died in triplicate, inasmuch as Bertha M. Clay in the flesh was Thomas W. Henshaw. Had he chosen to write his 200 volumes of fiction under his masculine title it is probable that they would eventually have been loved quite as much, since he has for companion Charles W. Garvice. But as Mr. Henshaw was a business-like Englishman, well past middle age, he evidently considered that a feminine name would be needed to give passport to his works.

As the thrills and careers of his duchesses are usually followed by between chocolate creams in an atmosphere of boudoir caps and boarding schools, he was probably wise in his choice. And yet there was a charm about his "Dora Thorne," "Wife in Name Only," and many such idealistic heroines that will linger in some sentimental minds long after Cinderella, Tom, and Nora have been forgotten with many shivers. They carried with them all the old world, Victorian, roses and early morning sunrises, with their unimpeachable morals and the villain never escaped with an iota less punishment than was his due.

As an author he worked, it is said, with the tireless energy that comes when inspiration is not used as a guide. He had no temperament and could always be counted on by his publishers to turn out four novels each year; being busily engaged at the time of his death in turning out the novels expected by his contract. Since the name adopted by Mr. Henshaw has the inverted initials of Charlotte M. Braeme, uneasy suspicion lies on his motive in the choice of name. Some also suspect that the works of May Agnes Fleming, Laura Jean Libbey, and some of the same calibre may have all emanated from the one brain. So over the grave of the much-mourned author of "Lady Audrey's Secret" there may in the future be waged another famous war in which the Bacon-Shakespeare issue will pass into oblivion. Despite the genuinely affectionate regard in which the books of Bertha M. Clay, or Thomas W. Henshaw have been held, it may be startling to some of her Toronto admirers to know that these works have been barred from the shelves of the Toronto Public Library merely because of their poor sales having found no decrease in their

Will Women Get The Vote This Session?

Special to The Examiner:

PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS, Toronto, March 24.— When the Women's Franchise Bill, comes up in the Legislature to-day (Tuesday) what will happen to them? This is the most interesting question for the moment in Provincial politics.

Will the Government accept the Elliott Bill which grants the Municipal Franchise to married women, otherwise qualified, i.e., by owning property, by paying income tax, etc., and the Johnston Bill, which merely includes married women owning property, or will they reject the former more comprehensive Bill and accept the latter and more restricted one, or will they reject both? It is the principle of the Elliott Bill that the voters of Toronto adopted with such an overwhelming majority at the recent Municipal elections and which has been endorsed throughout the provinces.

All sorts of rumours are current. It is generally believed that the Opposition (Elliott) Bill will be thrown out. There seems to be considerable doubt as to the Johnston Bill, which is introduced by a private Conservative member.

This is certain. The liquor interests are opposing both Bills, for if they pass, Local Option, with so many women's votes added, could be carried in a considerable number of additional municipalities. The liquor men are more afraid of Elliott's Bill than of Johnston's, since the latter would probably enfranchise only about half as many as the former.

THE PETERBORO' PRIVATE HOSPITAL READY TO OPEN

QUALIFIED NURSES

The Peterborough Private Hospital, situated at the south-east corner of Brock and Rubidge Streets, opposite St. Andrew's Church, will be open to visitors for the first time to-morrow afternoon and evening. Formerly the residence of Mr. John Crane, it has been transformed into a thoroughly equipped hospital with a limited accommodation and under competent direction. That there has been a demand for an instittuion of this kind is manifested by the fact that three patients had to be turned away during the past week for the reason that the preparations for opening had not been completed. A fourth was accepted several days ago, and after Wednesday it is apparent that the hospital will have a wide appeal to those patients who prefer the close attention and privacy that will be provided.

For the immediate opening six rooms have been comfortably and attractively furnished. Decorators have painted and papered the walls in mild tones, and the general appointments have an appearance of utility and design adequately combined for hospital purposes. In this respect the new hospital presents an air of quiet refinement suggesting home rather than an hospital. The furnishings are all new and appropriate for their use.

Operating Room.

All the rooms admit sunlight at some periods of the day and the operating room on the south-east side is thoroughly equipped. A complete sterilizing apparatus has been installed. This room is finished in white, and is airy and bright. Patients arrange for their ow medical attendants.

The private hospital is the idea of Miss Keller and Miss Thompson, experienced nurses late of St. Luke's Hospital, New York. Miss Thompson while visiting in Peterborough at Christmas, was advised by several doctors that there was a need for an hospital of this kind, and as she and Miss Keller had intended to open one in some city, Peterborough was decided upon. They have both had extensive experience and in addition to other diplomas they have the registration of the Board of Regents for New York State. Miss Keller's previous work included five years in the operating room at St. Luke's hospital, where Miss Thompson also graduated. The latter is also of the Sloan Hospital for Women, New York. From the standpoint of qualifications, both young ladies are well equipped for their future work in Peterborough.

The hospital provides for enlargement when further additions are necessary, and in this respect local nurses will be engaged when additional services are required.

One of the facilities of the Hospital is a system of electric bells from each room, with the register in the office on the ground floor. General hospital work will be accepted and no particular specializing will be made in any direction. The new hospital is splendidly located with spacious grounds and every comfort, too, for convalescents. The general public is invited to examine the building on Wednesday. A notice to this effect may be found in another column.

ULSTER MAY BE DISCUSSED IN THE HOUSE

Col. the Hon. Sam. Hughes Will Ask If Government Would Permit An Armed Contingent To Go

AN INTERESTING POINT

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., March 24. — It is expected that before the orders of the day are called in the Commons this afternoon, there will be some talk on Ulster. It is expected that Col. Hughes will be in the House, and he will be asked for a statement as to whether he said the Canadian government would permit an armed contingent to go to Ulster. The government will aso be urged to state what general stand in view of the action of its ministers it takes on the whole question of Ulster troubles. A number of the Opposition intend to ask if the government believes in the principle that when England is at war, Canada is at war, and if so, whether it is the intention to offer the services of a Canadian contingent to fight on the side of the Crown.

COCOA DEMONSTRATION

An expert lady demonstrator for Baker's ceelbrated Cocoa, will be at the grocery store of E. F. Mason this week and next, for the purpose of demonstrating the superiority of this world-renowned cocoa. She will be pleased to have the ladies call when down town and be served with a cup of delicious cocoa free, and at the same time show how the cocoa should be made, and give recipes for making varied dainty dishes with the cocoa. 3d-70.

COIN IN POST IS PROHIBITED

Unless Sent by Registered Mail

TORONTO, March 23.— The transmission of coin or bank notes in unregistered letters is prohibited, according to a despatch from Ottawa.

"I can say nothing about the order until I get a copy myself," stated Supt. Major G. Ross this morning. "They have a similar enactment in France at present," he said, "and the reason is of course to prevent losses in the mail."

The order, it is understood, has been issued on account of frequent losses of money in the ordinary mail matter.

"It is our custom," stated Mr. W. Lemon, deputy postmaster, "to urge our patrons not to send money loose through the mail. The department has issued similar warnings, and we have various posters urging that any article of value whatever be registered. The articles in the parcel post mail especially must be registered at present, as there is no insurance yet."

"There has always been a particular objection to coins being sent in the ordinary letters, as they frequently break through and are lost while in transit. Bank notes, being sometimes of considerable value, should not be entrusted to the mails without registration.

"We do not lose very much registered matter," he stated, "as we can trace it up with little difficulty, while an ordinary letter affords no clue."

OFFICERS PLACATED AND RETURN TO POSTS

Defection of Officers Likely to Have a Far-reaching Effect—Carson Impressed With the Government's Message.

ORDERS MISUNDERSTOOD

Examiner Special:

LONDON, March 24. — The defection of the army officers who refuse to serve in Ulster is now a closed incident, but its consequences are likely to prove far-reaching. Premier Asquith and Col. Seely, Secretary of State for War, made explanations before an excited and turbulent House yesterday that the whole affair was the result of a misunderstanding.

This misunderstanding, it was inferred, although they did not directly say so, was due to misconstruction of the Government's plans by the commanding general, Sir Arthur Paget, whereby he informed the officers in Ireland that they were to move on Ulster for a (peaceful) campaign.

Gen. Paget and three senior officers from the Curragh camp — Gen. Gough, Col. McEwen and Col. Parker —were summoned to London for a conference. According to official statements the misunderstanding has been cleared away, and these officers returned to Ireland last night. Prior to their departure they said they were entirely satisfied with the results of their visit. The terms on which the officers remain at their posts were not disclosed, but the general belief is that they were assured that they would not be compelled to fight against the Ulstermen. This is considered a distinct surrender by the Government.

The Unionists firmly believe that the Government has participated in a fiasco. They think that the two most enterprising spirits of the Cabinet, David Lloyd George and Winston Spencer Churchill, were the chief movers in the plan and that the Government proposed a wholesale movement of troops in Ulster to overawe the covenanters by the display of superior force and the arrest of their leaders and that the plan was frustrated only by the opposition of the officers.

Liberal newspapers of high standing and influence, like The Daily Chronicle and The Daily News, print bitter denunciations of the officers as part of the Tory aristocracy which insists upon the prerogative of ruling the country against the will of the people and demand the democratization of the army and that the system of officering it from the sons of the rich be superseded by a system whereby officers may be promoted from the ranks.

The labor papers are equally bitter and demand to know by private should not have the same privilege of refusing to fire upon workingmen when called upon to suppress strike riots.

Carson Is Impressed.

"Hour by hour I am becoming more impressed with the Government's message of peace to Ulster."

Sir Edward Carson is still at Craigavon, which is surrounded by sentries. He received yesterday a number of battalion commanders of his army and sent long despatches to his lieutenants in London. He says he will not leave Belfast until the crisis is over.

Volunteers patrolled the streets yesterday, having first received explicit instructions from their commander to deal promptly with any of their own men acting in a disorderly manner, and to give the police immediate assistance in any such case. The city is absolutely quiet; but great interest was displayed in the Parliamentary statements by the crowds which remained around the bulletin boards of the newspapers most of the night.

"THE EMPRESS" IS NEW NAME

Selected for the Former National Hotel Which Mr. George Graham Will Open This Spring

'PHONE IN EVERY ROOM

As far as the name is concerned the National Hotel will soon be forgotten. The name chosen by Mr. George Graham is "The Empress Hotel," and in its appointments will be the best hostelry between Toronto and Ottawa. The interior is being entirely rearranged, and the architect's plans are beginning to take form. One of the conveniences will be a complete house telephone system with a 'phone in each room, and a local switch-board in the rotunda.

The Government Owes Ferguson Nearly $1000

OTTAWA, March 23. — Government officials were ordered by Parliament this afternoon to prepare a return chronicling the payments from the public treasury made to Mr. G. Howard Ferguson, the Provincial member absolved by the Ontario Legislature under special legislation in its recent all-night session, after he had forfeited his seat under the statutes as they existed.

Mr. E. Proulx (Prescott) presented the following questions to the Government:

"What investigations and other work have been entrusted by the Government, or any department thereof, to G. Howard Ferguson, member for the electoral division of the county of Grenville in the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario?"

"How much has the said G. Howard Ferguson been paid by the Government, or any department thereof, for fees and disbursements since September 21, 1911, and how much is still due and owing to him?"

"How much has been paid to the said G. Howard Ferguson by the Government, or any department thereof, since September 21, 1911, in connection with any other matter whatever?"

Hon. Dr. Reid asked that the questions be withdrawn and a motion for an order for a return substituted.

"Is the information really as voluminous as that?" queried Hon. Mr. Graham.

In answer to a further question by Mr. F. F. Pardee, the Acting Minister of Railways stated that the amount due Mr. Ferguson for his services in connection with the Trent Valley Canal investigation was $985, of which $550 was for 37 days' service at $15 per day, $370 for expenses and disbursements, and $60 for preparing the official report to the Government. Mr. Ferguson, the Minister said, was appointed by order in Council on October 14, 1912, as a Commissioner to investigate charges in regard to the purchase and use of explosives on the canal. On November 28 another order in Council was passed extending the scope of his commission to include investigation of all kinds of irregularities. Nothing has as yet been paid to Mr. Ferguson.

OLD EAST CITY SCHOOL TO BE A PARISH HALL

The old East City town hall building on the property purchased for Separate School purposes, will be used as a parish hall in connection with the Catholic parish which Bishop O'Brien has outlined. It is understood that this building was formerly used as a school until the larger public school was erected. It was then devoted to school board and public meetings, but when a new town hall was built, the old one-story school was used as a kindergarten. With the construction of the big new Public School on Hunter street east, the whole lot was sold. Not a few prominent citizens received their early education in the little building proposed as a parish hall and among them Mr. E. R. Wood, named as a probable Canadian High Commissioner, is said to have been introduced to his three R's, and was taught by his late father in the same building. It is probable that the latter also introduced him to the birch of the olden days used when pupils were delinquent.

NEW RURAL MAIL BOXES TO BE PARCEL SIZE

Rumour at Ottawa Says One Hundred Thousand Have Been Ordered.

The Post Office Department, it is expected, will soon replace the rural mail boxes, which at the present time are large enough only for letters and very small parcels, with larger ones, which will have room for all but the largest parcels. This action has been necessitated by the introduction of the parcels post system.

A report is current in Ottawa to the effect that a contract has been let for the supply of 100,000 of these boxes, which will cost approximately $4.25 each. The company to which the contract has been given is not officially named, but it is thought to be the International Mail Equipment Company, 129 Adelaide Street West, Toronto. This Company had the contract for the supply of the present rural mail boxes.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

The Board of Trade has been literally rejuvenated, and it is not too much to say that the change has not been premature. Young blood has been infused into the Board, young hands are at the tiller and young blood officers the craft. The old Board has, as can be said without reproach, not quite lived up to its opportunities and its duty. A Board of Trade is intended to be a civic factor in promoting especially the commercial and industrial interests of its constituency, of the community it represents. The leading members of the old board, did a graceful action in virtually turning over the Board to the younger members of our business guild, but in so doing they did not relieve themselves from responsibility. There is much in the saying, "Old men for counsel, young men for action." A properly balanced board of trade must have the elements of act ion and counsel judiciously blended. The lessons of experience, conduce to sound judgment. Young men may be better fitted for executive duty than older men. But to secure the best results the cooperation, counsel, advice and judgment of the elders must be combined. Because the younger business citizens are taking an ostensibly more prominent part in the activities that the Board is intended to exercise, the older members cannot be spared. There must be cooperation. It will be only by all the elements cooperating that the desired and expected good can be accomplished. It is evident that it is desirable to popularize the Board of Trade, make its meetings so interesting and live that not only members, young and old, will be attracted and interested, but that also the public interest will be enlisted. A Board of Trade is not a close corporation, but, properly regarded, an initiative and executive agency in promoting interest in trade, commerce and industry that involve the interest and cooperation of the entire community and city. Therefore the general public has a special interest, and is morally an informal part of the Board of Trade.

Now that the new executive of the Board of Tarde is in the saddle, booted and spurred, it is hoped that it will ride forth to conquest. There is, in addition to official organization, need for supplementary organization that will find the Board something to do; and we can trust the board to do it. The Board must have something definite to engage its attention in order to have something profitable and productive to engage its activity. The officers and members must think before they can act effectively. Evidently the first thing the rejuvenated Board should do is to find itself; to know what it means; to discover the work it is expected to do and do it in as thoroughly direct a business way as is expected from a body that is intended to promote our business interests. The public has reason to expect much of this year's Board of Trade, and we are sure that it will justify expectation.

A FUTILE COMMISSION.

At the time of the appointment of the Borden government commission to investigate the high cost of living it was pointed out that the commission was inadequate, as it consisted of departmental officers, whose other demands on their attention would tend to prevent anything like thorough or efficient investigation. As expected, the commission has ceased for three weeks from the labours of finding out what causes, other than the tariff, are responsible for the steady increase in the high cost of living. Members of the commission are at present engaged in attending to their regular duties as departmental officials, from which positions they were taken to conduct the investigation entered into by the Government, as a convenient way of shelving temporarily the public demand for a removal of some of the tariff burdens now affecting the general consumer. A week or so hence the Commission will leisurely resume its work by going to Western Canada.

It is quite evident that the Government does not want any report from the commission to be presented to Parliament this session. It is also quite evident that no tariff changes for the benefit of the general consumer are to be expected. The attitude of the Government against the Liberal proopsals for free food stuffs, free wheat, and free agricultural implements has already been made abundantly clear. But there are increasing evidences that the clamorous "infant industry" of the iron ad steel men is to be fed again. There are authorative whispers now going the rounds of the stock markets and of the circles interested in securing increased protection for the Big Interests, that when the budget is brought down in the Commons shortly, there will be as big an increase in the protect ion on iron and steel as the country can be induced to stand for, without causing too much of a revolt.

Meanwhile, however, the latest figures published by the Labour Department show that while the cost of living in Canada is higher now than it was at this time last year, there has been a marked decrease both in Great Britain and the United States. Tariff revision downwards in the United States is having the logical and expected effect in lowering the cost of living to the common people. Bradstreet's index number for the United States, indicating the average cost of commodities of general use, was $9.4592 in February of last year. For February of this year it dropped to 8.8691. In Canada the index number for February was 136.1. For February of last year it was 135.8.

The moral to be drawn will doubtless be conveniently overlooked by the Government and by the Commission at the behest of the Government.

RUNNING SLACK.

Signs are not wanting that, although the provincial government continues to do good work, as in the introduction of the compensation bill, there is a gradual slackening of the tone, a relaxation of the high tension which kept all things moving, as it were, towards the golden year. Whether it be a loosening of discipline or an accretion of barnacles or the slipshod methods of over-confidence or the contempt that comes with familiarity, all governments seem to tread the same path. It was hoped that the Whitney Government would be different, but there are signs which are evident enough. When a government does things which it would not tolerate for a moment if it were in opposition instead of in power, it is time for it to consider its ways.

It only takes a turnover of a few per cent., two or three in a hundred, to upset the strongest government. It may seem very dreadful that two or three per cent. of the voters should hold the government in the hollow of their hands. It seems so incredible that governments pay no attention to them and gradually come to devote all their considerations to their own professed supporters. Then the incredible thing happens.

There are a lot of people in Ontario wondering why Mr. G. Howard Ferguson is so indispensable to the government that special legislation has to be passed to save his political life. Mr. Ferguson's personal merits are quite aside from the question. Either he should not have been appointed, or he should have resigned his seat when appointed. The other course was to have repealed the law before the appointment, not after the law was violated. The opposition "has it" on the government, and will no doubt make the most of the opportunity. At the best it represents the slackening up of the system. The government would not have so acted in 1906.—Toronto World, Conservative.

A BOOMERANG SCANDAL.

The Trent Valley scandal is proving quite a boomerang. While it is true some of the irregularities disclosed occurred under the late Government, no evidence has been produced to show that any Liberal minister or any official at Ottawa either connived at or condoned the offences. The local officials at Peterborough were alone culpable. On the other hand, the investigating commissioner, Mr. G. Howard Ferguson, Conservative M.P.P. for Grenville, in making his report, could not gloss over the fact that one of the main charges of graft referred to occurred under the present Government. The first six pages of his report deal with a "rake-off" in connection with the purchase of dynamite for use in canal construction during 1912, under the administration of Hon. Frank Cochrane. Mr. Ferguson states that prior to 1912, Canal Superintendent McClellan had purchased dynamite from the Kingan Hardware Company of Peterborough.

After the change of government the patronage was shifted to Daniel Cinnamon, a hardware merchant at Lindsay, and a constituent of Col. Sam. Hughes. Three purchases of dynamite, aggregating five tons, were made during 1912 for use at Lindsay, in Col. Sam's home town. It was found that there was a very considerable shortage in supply, in comparison to the amount charged up to the Government. From the evidence taken by Mr. Ferguson it appears that while Cinnamon was nominally vendor to the Government, he merely acted as a go-between and the dynamite really came from the Kingan Hardware Company. The latter company sold to Cinnamon for 23 cents a pound, and he charged the Government 27 cents a pound. Mr. Ferguson says "Cinnamon's part of the transaction merely consisted in making out an invoice, adding five cents per pound to Kingan's price, and taking this rake-off for profit to himself." Cinnamon was the man to whom the present administration had given the patronage. In its essentials the story reads remarkably like a "Bonnie Bel-Air" transaction.—Montreal Telegraph.

"CASCARETS" RELIEVE SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Get a 10-cent box now.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, indigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children— their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

GRIEVED TO DEATH

GENEVA, March 20.—"Pike," the pet bulldog of George Humphrey, who died recently, grieved to death for his master on Saturday. Members of the Humphrey family assert that no other cause could have been responsible for the dog's death.

"Pike" and Mr. Humphrey were great companions, the canine following his master about the streets on all occasions. Following the death of Mr. Humphrey, the dog, which had always been exceptionally lively, seemed to lose all interest in the comps he always loved to engage in. He refused to take food, and lay incessantly on a mat which he had occupied nights for a number of years. All attempts to get the dog to eat were fruitless. Members of the family maintain that "Pike" knew his master was gone forever.

The dog had been carefully trained by Mr. Humphrey, and had become quite expert as a baseball player, a game which master and pet had played many times. "Pike" also knew how to strike the keys of a piano so they would record sound.

To clean steel knives, mix baking soda with the brickdust, and use half a raw potato to rub them with.

If the hot water bottle is not badly worn you can mend it with surgeon's plaster, available at any drug store at 5 or 10 cents a box. Cut a strip of and place it over the leak.

When your oven is in use, try baking potatoes on the top of the stove. Put them on an asbestos mat and cover them up closely with a large kettle. Turn them a couple of times while baking.

THE LIFE BUOY OF THE AEROPLANE—PARACHUTE DESCENT FROM AN AEROPLANE BY M. BOURHIS — Last August the well-known aviator, M. Pegoud, made a descent from an aeroplane in a parachute invented by Mr. Bounier. M. Pegoud descended slowly and safely. Recently M. Lemoine took up a passenger, M. Bourhis, who was attached to the parachute. At a height of 1,500 feet M. Lemoine, the pilot, released the parachute, which carried M. Bourhis out of his place. Held up by the parachute the latter was carried by the wind at the rate of some forty miles an hour to a point about half a mile distant from where he left the aeroplant, and fell into the Seine, from which he was rescued without difficulty.

MUST NOT SEND COINS IN LETTERS UNREGISTERED

New Regulation of the Postal Authorities to Take Effect Soon

TOO MANY COMPLAINTS

Hereafter it will not be possible to send $1.49 or $2.67, or similar sums, through the mails without doing one of three things: registering the letter, buying a postal note, or getting a post office money order. By a new regulation, which will come into force shortly, the sending of coin or bills in unregistered envelopes is prohibited.

The main reason for the order lies in the constant complaints received at post offices of the loss of money from letters. Every day the inspectors in the Toronto post office get two or three letters from people who have failed to receive the money friends were sending them. Nearly always the money was sent in plain envelopes which were not registered. The post office authorities can do nothing, of course, in such cases, but that does not prevent a feeling of irritation on the part of those who have sustained the loss.

LOOSE COINS CAUSE TROUBLE.

Loose coins are a fruitful source of trouble. When the letter passes through the electric stamping machine which puts the postmark on it, a small tear is almost always made by the edge of the coin pressing against the envelope. Not infrequently the coin drops out altogether. Every little while quarters and nickels are found in the bottoms of mail sacks and post boxes.

In future when coins are sent through the post, they must be placed in carriers which will prevent any break in the smooth flatness of the envelope. The letters must be registered. Registration, which entails an extra charge of five cents, insures the contents of the letter up to $25.

DIFFICULT TO SPOT THEM.

The post office authorities recommend the use of postal notes or money orders wherever possible. Postal notes for amounts ranging from 20 cents to $10 can be got for a small extra commission. Money orders can be bought for any amount. Records of the purchase of notes and orders are kept, and in case one of them goes astray, the sender can be reimbursed.

According to the post office inspectors, amounts sent in unregistered letters are usually small, rarely more than $5. They have not yet received advice from Ottawa as to how letters containing money are to be intercepted. Letters with coins in them could be recognied easily, but the discovery of bills enclosed in correspondence would be a difficult matter. They say, however, that secret service men connected with the department at Ottawa have means o determining the contents of letters.

CHANGE OF NAME OF THIS BIBLE CLASS

The Men's Bible Class of the George Street Methodist Sunday School, formerly known as the "Inthon" Class, feeling that the name "Inthon" did not convey the real meaning of the workings of the class, decided that a change of name would be in the interests of the same.

Therefore it was resolved that in future the class should be known as the Men's Social Bible Class."

A hearty invitation is extended to all men of the City to meet with us in the Church Parlour, Sunday next, March 29th, at 3 p.m.—C. E. Wiley, Class Secretary.

More About Real Estate Speculation

Mr. F. E. Ellis Replies to Mr. Austin's Last Letter

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Austin has intimated that he wishes to close the debate on the real estate question, which we have been conducting through your columns. Mr. Austin, I am sure, will accord me the usual privilege accorded to opening debaters of answering briefly the points brought out in his last letter. I realize that all your readers may not be as interested in the land question as are Mr. Austin and I and the subject may pall on them.

On my part, the whole object of the debate has been to show up the evils of real estate speculating. I have given statistics and definite instances to prove that the real estate speculator makes it more difficult for the farmer to establish a home for himself because so much of the good land favourably located is in the hands of the speculator. I have also endeavoured to show that slum conditions in our cities are largely traceable to the greed of the land monopolizer. Neither of these contentions has been adequately met by Mr. Austin. Personalities are no more an answer to the great questions we have been discussing than is the classifying of the writer along with socialists, nihilists and anarchists.

In his last letter Mr. Austin invites me to put on my spectacles and find any "stealing" in the following transaction: In 1905 the Company with which Mr. Austin was connected bought 12,800 acres of unimproved prairie land from the C. P. R. at $7 an acre. In 1908, after paying taxes on the property, it was sold to the L. L. Company of St. Paul at $11, and they in turn sold it to settlers at an average price of $15.

Public Values Appreciated.

Is this stealing? Mr. Austin could not have cited a finer instance of where public-created values have been appropriated on an extensive scale for the benefit of a private individual. On the 12,800 acres Mr. Austin made $4 profit an acre, or $51,200; say, $50,000 after taxes and incidental expenses were met. How was this value created? The people of Canada made the first contribution towards that land value when they assisted railroad companies in extending their lines into the country. The rest of the value is due wholly to the demand of the inflooking settlers for farms. In other words it is community value. Everyone in Canada contributed just as much towards that value as did Mr. Austin. The people who created the value get a few hundred dollars in taxes, while Mr. Austin got $50,000. A working man laying aside $400 a year of his earnings would have to put in 125 years of hard toil and strictly economical living to have as much to the good as Mr. Austin cornered in three years without creating any wealth whatever. Are we not justified in calling such a transaction legalized theft?

The Burden to the Settler.

If we follow this transaction out a little further we find that with the seven dollars' profit made by the C. P. R., the $4 profit to Mr. Austin and the $4 profit to the L. & L. Company, a farm of 160 acres would cost the settler $2,400. The majority of settlers going into that country have but little capital. If they are exceptionally fortunate they may be able to put $500 ahead each year. In other words, these settlers would have to toil and sweat for five years to pay off speculators who neither work nor toil; and the irony of the thing lies in the fact that the land values for which they are paying, they, themselves, largely created.

Mr. Austin commends Henry George on that part of his platform which calls for a lightening of the tax on improvements and the placing of them on land. If half a loaf is good, why isnot a whole loaf better? If it is well to shift a tax from buildings to land why not all taxes on improvements to land? And of these the greatest is the protective tariff. Mr. Austin claims that absolute free trade would close every factory in Peterborough, "for we could not compete with the Chinese and the Japs." It was news to me that our manufacturers were afraid of either of these peoples. The argument that I have usually heard in the protectionists' press is that we cannot compete with the great industries of the United States or the pauper labour of Europe. Is it not strange that so many Canadians believe that our prosperity hinges on the protective tariff when as a matter of fact only is employed in protective industries.

An Unhappy Reference.

Mr. Austin was most unhappy in selecting Peterborough as the City to be doomed by free trade. If Mr. Austin will consult the tariff schedule he will find that the principal output of the De Laval Co., cream separators, is already on the free list, and has been for several years. And yet the De Laval Co. is prospering without the protective tariff. If they can, are we not justified in assuming that other manufacturing concerns should be able to stand on their own feet also?

One point further I would like to mention; We single-taxers are not "chasing a rainbow," Mr. Austin. The number of leading men who have endorsed Single Tax is sufficient proof of its merit. It is only about a quarter of a century since "Progress and Poverty," the single tax hand book was published. To-day "Progress and Poverty" has the largest circulation of any book on economics in the world. It has been printed in fifteen different languages. In the British House of Commons there are 117 Single Tax members. There are a goodly number in both the Congress and Senate at Washington. There is not a single civilized country in the world to-day which is without an active Single-Tax organization.

Mr. Austin and I are both willing to continue the debate another winter, but whether or not we may depends largely, Mr. Editor, on your courtesy. We must thank you for the space that you have given us for this discussion. The question is a great one and both Mr. Austin and I, all being well, will live to see much single-tax legislation incoroprated in the law of the land.

BLIND HYMN WRITER BEGINS 95TH YEAR

Special to The Examiner:

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 24.—Fanny Crosby, the famous blind hymn writer, entered upon her ninety-fifth year to-day, having been born March 24, 1820. Miss Crosby makes her home with a niece in this city. This afternoon a reception was given in her honour by the members of the Fanny Crosby Circle of King's Daughters. From all parts of the country hundreds of felicitous messages arrived during the day congratulating the famous hymn writer on her birthday.

Miss Crosby, whose full name is Frances Jane Crosby Van Alstyne, has been by far the most prolific and meritorious writer of hymns of the present age, having written more than 5,000, of which many have won universal popularity.

She has been totally blind since her infancy. At the age of 15 she was sent to the Institute for the Blind in New York City to be educated. She made rapid progress in all branches that a few years later she was appointed a teacher in the institution. She remained there about ten years.

Even during the earlier student days Miss Crosby had shown considerable ability as a writer of verse and later several volumes of her poems were published. One of her poems which first attracted public attention was written by her in welcome to Henry Clay on the occasion of a visit of the celebrated statesman to New York.

Miss Crosby's first songs were of a secular nature and it was not until he had reached the age of forty-five that she wrote her first hymn. Born with great poetical gifts and filled with ardent fervour, she put her whole soul into her hymns and it is not surprising that ther simplicity, tender sentiment and melodious beauty have won world-wide popularity.

The most popular among the thousands of Miss Crosby's hymns undoubtedly are "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," "Jesus, Keep Me Near the Cross," and "Jesus the Water of Life Will Give." Two of her secular songs which were vastly popular in their day were "Hazel Dell" and "There's Music in the Air."

Many stories have been told to illustrate the facility with which Miss Crosby did her work of composition. Once, while a pupil at the Institution for the Blind she was required to write some lines of blank verse. She neglected her task until her teacher reminded her and told her she would not get her dinner until she had written the verses. In less than an hour Miss Crosby had commenced and completed the poem.

"Safe in the Arms of Jesus," which is probably the most popular of her hymns, was composed by her while W. H. Doane, who had written the music for many of her hymns, was waiting to take a train. He was sitting at the piano, softly playing the music for which he wished her to find words and in twenty minutes the famous hymn was completed.

At ninety-four years of age, Miss Crosby is in the enjoyment of remarkable vigour mentally, though there has been a noticeable increase in her physical infirmities of late. Nevertheless, her condition the past year has been such as to permit her to appear as a public speaker at several places in New York State and New England.

NEW RESORT ON STURGEON LAKE

Greenhurst, the new summer resort next to Thurstonia, promises to be a popular spot this year. Four new cottages are already a certainty for the coming season. Mr. Thurston has erected a large boarding house, and cottages are also to be built by Mrs. Cathro, Mr. John Glass and some Toronto people.

Sturgeon Point will also boast of a number of pretty new cottages, one of which will be built by Mr. W. McLennan. It is likely that a number of new cottages will be built on the pretty wooded lots at Graham's Landing at the north end of Sturgeon Point.

Objects of the Board.

The objects of the Board as stated in its by-laws are to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to correct abuses, and generally to protect the rights and advance the interests of the mercantile classes.

These general objects, as you will note, are wide, and under them may be reasonably included a number of ancillary and similar aims and objects which have occurred to me and which I will endeavor to tabulate and explain:

First—We should collect and keep recorded all kinds of information relating to the affairs of the municipality, familiarizing ourselves with the work and difficulties of the City Council and County Council; and being able to assist them when necessary and to advise them and also our government representatives of the needs of the citizens as a whole, or of organizations of citizens or individuals.

Secondly—To advise with and look after the needs of merchants, manufacturers or others, acting for them as an association of merchants, manufacturers, &c., as the case may be, met together for their common welfare. I would like to suggest in this connection that the retail merchants, manufacturers, commercial travellers, builders and labor associations become affiliated with the Board and nominate and elect representative members of their bodies to the Council with the idea of becoming branches of the board and working through it to accomplish their objects. Or that the managers of all industries be made ex-officio members of the Council.

Municipal Advertising.

The third aim I have in mind is to adopt and carry out a scheme for advertising the advantages of the municipality. There is a great need for some organization to take up this work. The City Clerk has been very active in this respect, but to carry on the work as it should be done requires a great deal of time and perseverance—more than one man can possibly give. And besides this, a work in which every citizen is vitally interested, and which will be more successful the more people there are engaged in it. There is lots of room for us to work with Mr. Armstrong to help this matter along. I would suggest that as a start we undertake the publication of a booklet or pamphlet containing a modern map of the city, together with information showing its growth, its low assessment, power advantages, business openings, rail and water facilities, manufacturing and residential advantages, its summer resorts, etc. And if the funds are available to advertise these advantages in some widely circulated advertising medium.

Fourth—To open an office where trade periodicals, architects plans and other valuable information could be kept for use of the members of the Board and the public generally.

Fifth—To establish a fund for procuring new industries which by reason of their being already located in the Province cannot be bonused by the municipality and for beautifying and improving the city generally.

Public Playgrounds.

Sixth—To urge the establishment of parks and public play-grounds and to encourage and promote athletics and outdoor exercise. There are numbers of vacant lots in and around the city lying idle until they are required for building. If the owners of these lots would send to the secretary particulars of their size, location and condition of surface, with an expression of their willingness to let them be used for playground or ball fields until equired for other purposes, the board could undertake to see that they were put to such uses by distributing the information to the parties interested.

Seventh—To take up with the proper authorities such questions as unfair freight rates, changes in time tables of railroads, boats, improved mail, passenger, express or freight service and all matters of a public or partly public nature.

2,000 Members.

To accomplish these object we require to have a numerically strong organization. It is only through force of numbers that we can carry sufficient weight to make the resolutions of our board the active agents we all wish them to be. It is proposed we have a campaign to enroll two thousand members for the Board of Trade this ear. Surely there are two thousand business and professional men and property owners in this city of nearly twenty-five thousand people who have the interests of the city and their own interests sufficiently at heart to subscribe two dollars each for this work. With four thousand dollars in the treasury we can have an active, energetic competent secretary and carry out a number of the objects we will set ourselves to accomplish. We can open an office and lay the foundation or a fund for acquiring new industries am informed that we have lost several very active industries owing to the fact that the city was unable to offer any financial aid to them in moving their plant from other Ontario cities where they have been located and are under disadvantages which a move to Peterborough would have removed. These were good industries employing many men. Some of them went to towns whose boards of trade gave them the necessary help. Our board could do nothing; we had no money. Opportunities such as these will come again, and I'd like to see the Board of Trade in a position to take an active part for the advancement of the city when they do come.

I would like to see an office opened where plans of this city, information about the city's natural advantages, factory sites, power, transportation, labor and other items of interest to employers of labor would be readily accessible to any such men when they are in the city. Also it has been suggested, and wisely, that a committee should be formed to receive, entertain and escort these men on behalf of the board while here. Personally, I heartily endorse this proposal as I believe such a committee could be a great help to our already over-worked Industrial Commissioner, and would give a decided impression that Peterborough is a wide-awake enterprising city, where any manufacturer would be advancing his own interests in locating.

Permanent Secretary.

I should like to see a permanent secretary secured, who, on payment of a sufficient salary, could devote his whole time to the affairs of the board; or if the city appoints an assistant Industrial Commissioner, who would be able to perform the duties of secretary. I should like to see a first-class man appointed who could fill the two positions.

Mayor Buller's Remarks.

His Worship Mayor Buller in a very brief address, said that there was no reason why a good live Board of Trade should not materially assist in promoting the growth of Peterborough. He outlined his plan to inaugurate an Eastern Municipal Association, also a radial line to connect with the outlying towns. If the young men would work in with the new President of the Board of Trade, much good could be accomplished for the City of Peterborough.

Ex-Mayor Bradburn.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn was glad to see that a revival was taking place among the members of the Board of Trade. A good deal of work could be done by the Board of Trade in the matter of looking after prospective manufactures.

He would give the mechanics of the City an opportunity of becoming members of the Board of Trade. (Applause.)

A Voice From the South.

Mr. R. C. Braund spoke a few words of encouragement to the Board of Trade. He urged every member of the Board to get behind and push.

If a man is going to succeed he must work, said Mr. J. M. Greene. If the Board of Trade is going to be a success every member must put his shoulder to the wheel.

The Dust Nuisance.

Mr. J. W. Worth advised the Board to give some consideration to the question of improving the social conditions of the City.

The amelioration of the dust nuisance, together with a means to prevent accumulation of garbage and other refuse throughout the City, where possibilities that lay within the province of the Board of Trade, according to Dr. Amys, who promised the Board his support.

Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., congratulated the members of the Board in their endeavour to reorganize the Board and give material and practical effect to its objects.

The Garbage Question.

Mr. W. H. Denham, local manager of the Quaker Oats Company, said that he had been a member of the Board of Trade since coming to Peterborough. The Board of Trade had depreciated to an insignificant basis. A Board of Trade with two thousand members would add very much to the strength of the civic administration as a whole.

He was not in accord with some of the projects fathered by the City Council. The City expended considerable money to beautify the City and yet compelled people to stick their garbage out along the streets. He did not object the people exposing their garbage in Quaker Oats boxes, providing they did not use them more than once. (Laughter.)

Buy Ty Cobb.

Reverting to baseball, Mr. Denham submitted that baseball had accomplished more for the City than any amount of money spent in advertising could have done. Just such things as baseball keeps Peterborough before the public eye. Some cities had contributed sums of money to promote the interests of baseball. "If we were to receive twenty-five hundred dollars from the City," said Mr. Denham, "we would not know what to do with it."

Dr. Cameron moved that a five days' membership campaign be inaugurated. This was endorsed by the meeting.

It was moved by Mr. S. R. Armstrong, seconded by Ald. J. J. Duffus, that the recommendations introduced by the President of the Board of Trade and other officers be referred to the City Council for their consideration.

Mr. T. Q. QUARTERMAINE,

Who has tendered his resignation as secretary of the Peterborough Board of Trade, after sixteen years' service in that capacity. At a meeting of the Board, which was held last evening, Mr. Quartermaine was made a life member.

INSPECTOR CONDEMNED CONCRETE IN A MILL

Campbell Flour Company Now Sues Contractors and Architects.

An action was started yesterday in the Non-Jury Assize Court, Toronto, in which the Campbell Flour and Milling Company are suing jointly, Ellis and Connery, Architects, and Bowes and Francis, Contractors, for $40,000 apiece.

Plans for the construction of a new mill in West Toronto were purchased from Ellis and Connery by the plaintiffs while Bowes and Francis secured the contract to construct the building at a contract price of $26,856.

During the course of construction the concrete which was being put into the building was found to be not up to specifications and the city inspectors condemned the building. Since then nothing has been done to it.

Plaintiffs claim damages against the contractors for putting in poor concrete while they are suing the architects for alleged breach of faith in allowing the inferior concrete to be used.

Mr. Justice Latchford is hearing the case.

THE HOUSE OF VALUE

The Making Of A Gentleman

A Few Thoughts For the Young Man Who Desires to Make the Best of Himself

One of the first principles conducive to a happy life is, in fact, to be ready to take every man with a discount—to count up the points that please us and set them against the points that displease us; and if, the good points predominate to be satisfied. If you get 60 or 75 per cent. of what you would like to have in a man, it is time to thank God for it. And justice requires that you should credit him with all that you find creditable, and that you should put up with the rest without repining—still more without encroaching on his liberty and trying to make him miserable just because he is not in all respects what you would like him to be. A great help to this philosophy is to reflect that while you are painfully conscious of the faults of others, others are also painfully conscious of your faults, which are just as distressful to them as their ars to you.

And so it comes to this. One of the elemental parts of a gentleman under the heading of justice is to have a good humoured tolerance of others; a kindly concession to them of the liberty which you claim for yourself, a spirit of give and take and of fellowship in infirmity which prevents you from imposing yourself upon others, just as you would not like others to impose themselves upon you.

Encroachments on Reputation.

Such tolerance of the points of elemental justice to which a gentleman must aspire—namely, to respect the personal rights of others in points where they differ from yourself. Another elemental point is to respect other people's reputation. Those who abstain from external interference with the ways of others, without being actuated by the spirit of tolerance, are very liable to compensate for their self-restraint in one way by giving way to license, in another by the more indirect way of injuring their neighbour's reputation. Actuated by dislike, we get our metaphorical knife into a man, and stab him with the dagger of the tongue. We slander him, and besmear him with the insinuations of evil actions, or evil motives; we embitter his friends and relations against him, and deprive him of his good name. What is the difference? Murder and burglary and embezzlement are vulgar, and slander is not! Morally, the one is just as criminal as the other, only our social code, our public conscience is too coarse to recognize the parity:

"Good name in man and woman
Is the immediate jewel of the soul.
Who steals my purse steals trash—
'tis something, nothing
'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands:
But he who filches from me my good name,
Robs me of that which not enriches
him,
And makes me poor, indeed."

Slander, calumny, detraction, backbiting, are essentially criminal because they are essentially unjust; therefore they are not less ungentlemanly than burglary and murder. Any man who wishes to attain the first and most radical degree of gentlemanliness will think seriously of this.

Playing the Fair Game.

Thus under justice as the quality of a civilized being, we include everything which concerns due respect for the personal rights and liberties of others, consideration for their feelings and interests, tolerance for their defects, and a general spirit of good will and of fair play for all, giving to every man his due chance in life entering into fair competition where need requires, but playing the game fairly, and not trying to bluff or bully or domineer over him—yielding graciously to his superiority where this manifests itself, prepared to suffer defeat with equanimity and without malicious resistance, and without trying to take advantage some other way in the spirit of revenge.

A good illustration of this point is found in the department of sport. The chief educational value of games is precisely to give exercise to this spirit of justice and fair play. The rules of the game are laid down and it is a point of honour for every player to observe them; while foul play of any kind is considered a disgrace before the whole field.

The game is a contest of sterling merit, not of cunning or trickery, or violence; and the spirit of a good sportsman is to take victory without offensive exultation, and to take defeat without gloom or resentment—to take discredit to himself and to give credit to another with evenminded impartiality; to play a winning game with sobriety and moderation, and above all to play a losing game in good humour and perseverance—content to take second place with honour, rather than first place with dishonour.

The football field is in this way a complete epitome of life, and is a remarkable test of a man's character as to whether he plays the game of life fairly or unfairly—whether he is actuated by impulse and passion and selfish interests without consideration for others, or whether he is actuated by principle and reason and justice with full consideration for others—in short, whether he is a civilised gentleman or a savage.

MME. CAILLAUX, WHO KILLED M. CALMETTE—This is a good picture of the wife of the French Minister of Finance, who, because of the editorial opposition of the Figaro to her husband, entered the office of the paper and shot dead M. Gaston Calmette, the editor. After the murder the Minister of Finance resigned, and a reconstruction of the French Cabinet resulted. As the woman was led to the police station through a cheering crowd to-day, she shouted: "Now can people say any more that my husband and I lead an unhappy married life."

"WHO PULLS THE STRINGS?" SUBJECT

Splendid Discourse at Park Stree Church Last Night

A good interest in the special revival meetings at Park Street Baptist Church is being maintained, the Church last evening being crowded to the doors. Evangelist Pugsley delivered a stirring address on the subject of "Who Pulls the Strings?" Life was made a shipwreck, remarked Evangelist Pugsley, in the majority of cases because people were not governed by their own best judgment, but were led about by others, or to use a familiar phrase, they had no backbone. The sermon last evening was full of practical illustrations from life. The discourse was a strong appeal to the Christian people for more consistency of life and a greater efficiency in service, and to the unsaved, to embrace Christ as the only hope of salvation. At the close seven confessed Christ. These were nearly all adults, several of them being heads of families.

Rev. Mr. Cunningham of the Free Methodist Church was present last evening and took part in the opening exercises.

This will be the last week of the meetings and everyone is invited to come and bring a friend.

Will Appeal To Country

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., March 24.—There is a strong feeling throughout the country to-day that the British Government will, in view of recent events, pass the Home Rule Bill and other important measures on hand, and immediately appeal to the country. This rumour was given more credence this afternoon when it was known that Premier Asquith had a hasty conference with King George at Buckingham Palace. It was stated that the conference was in regard to dissolution of Parliament, but no admission to that effect could be obtained in authoritative Government circles.

VICTIM OF ACCIDENT

On Sunday evening John McInnis, son of David McInnis, who resides about six miles east on the Ops-Emily boundary, was the victim of an accident which might have been attended with fatal results. He was driving to Lindsay in company with a companion named Middleton, and when about three miles east of town, they saw a runaway approaching. McInnis jumped out to hold his horse and when the runaway horse approached, it bore down on him. The shaft penetrated his overcoat, tearing it to ribbons and he was knocked down and rendered unconscious. Mr. Middleton lifted him into the cutter and hurried him to town. Dr. Rich attended the injured young man, who sustained three severe cuts in the head, three or four inches in length. Today the injured man is progressing nicely.—Lindsay Post.

PETERBOROUGH REPRESENTED ON THE CIRCUIT OF NEW RACING ASSOCIATION

Mr. J. M. Brooks is President —Circuit Will Open in Peterborough During Week of July 15th

ENTHUSIASM SHOWN

Peterborough is to be represented on the circuit of the Central Ontario Racing Association which was organized at an enthusiastic meeting of lovers of light harness horse-racing in the Orillia House yesterday. Representatives were present from eight or nine towns, and it is expected that the circuit will include ten places. Mr. J. M. Brooks was the Peterborough delegate present. Great interest was shown in the project by those present, and the success of the scheme would seem to be assured.

Each town will put up around $1,000 in purses, and with a good circuit it is expected that a classy field of horses will be seen.

Mr. Brooks was elected president of the Association, and Dr. T. C. Moore, of Orillia, secretary. The executive will consist of a representative from each town on the circuit.

Peterborough will see the first racing under the new Association in the week of June 15 to 20th. Belleville will follow, and then will come Cannington, Lindsay, Bracebridge, Huntsville, Burke Falls, and the other towns.

The new organization should be a winner judging by the interest displayed yesterday.

P. A. C. MEETING TO-MORROW NIGHT

The members of the Peterborough Athletic Club are reminded of the meeting in the Y.M.C.A. to-morrow night, when reports will be received from those who have been handling the subscription lists. The meeting will be called at 8 o'clock, and it is important that as many members as possible should be on hand. There are several important matters to come up.

Interest In Proposed Tournament

A Number of Local Boxers Would Like to Take Part

The suggestion that the Peterborough Athletic Club might stage a boxing tournament this spring has already been well received and Secretary Dobson has had three or four entrants. Several of these are old country boxers and another is a well known local hockey player. In a city the size of Peterborough, there must be enough men proficient in the manly art to permit of a first class programme being arranged. It is up to the unitt artists themselves. If enough of them send in applications the Athletic Club will undoubtedly arrange for a tournament. Any one interested should write Secretary M. L. Dobson of the Peterborough Athletic Club as soon as possible.

HOT AIR.

"My wife made it hot for me this morning."

"How was that?"

Lacrosse On The Boom

Secretary Doyle of the Ontario A. L. A. Has Been Active

TORONTO, March 23.—Secretary Doyle of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association has been active during the past week in the Saugeen district, and his efforts have been well rewarded. He visited many towns to learn, instigate or improve the conditions of lacrosse in that vicinity. Fergus, which has in the past been an active centre in Canada's national pastime, was his first stopping place. All those interested in the game were present at a meeting at which Mr. Doyle explained the movement to boom lacrosse throughout Canada, especially among school children. An intermediate team in the O. A. L. A. and four school league teams will represent Fergus this season. At Elora his efforts were rewarded by the same allotment of teams as promised by Fergus.

Hanover, another good lacrosse town, which has had championship teams on several occasions, took a keen interest in Mr. Doyle's visit. Lacrosse, despite the falling off in other sections of the Province, has held its own in Hanover. The meeting there was largely attended. An intermediate and junior team in the O. A. L. A. and a town school league of eight teams were the reward of the Secretary's visit. At Walkerton, where lacrosse has been dead for some time, nothing definite was arrived at. However, efforts are being made to rejuvenate the game there. Paisley, Port Elgin and Southampton will all have O. A. L. A. intermediate teams, while the former will be represented by at least two or three school teams.

Two school leagues will be formed with teams in Chesley, Walkerton, Paisley, Port Elgin and Southampton and the game should certainly take a new lease of life in that section of the Province. At every town Mr. Doyle visited those in attendance at the meetings were in favour of the idea to reduce the number of players to ten men, especially in the school leagues. If this reduction is made at the annual convention of the O. A. L. A. on Good Friday the playing field will in all likelihod also be shortened.

Dr. W. C. Powers of Port Elgin, a cousin of Eddie Powers of the Toronto D. L. A. team, will be a candidate for the O. A. L. A. Council. Woody Tegart of Toronto and W. H. Merklinker of Hanover have already made known their intention of running for the office of Second Vice-President.

Mr. Doyle will make an invasion of the eastern section of the Province this week, visiting Belleville, Trenton Brockville, Gananoque, Arnprior, Renfrew and Pembroke.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

London Advertiser: Arriving in town Saturday evening, Dr. Reisling, manager of the London Canadian League team, will remain over until this evening in order to confer with the local directors and go over the training trip and opening day arrangements with them. The genial doctor is looking fine and has taken off a little weight since last he visited London.

NEW PLAYERS TO REPORT APRIL 7.

Manager Reisling has practically completed the London club roster, and he is only waiting for reporting day to roll around in order to get first-hand information on the bunch he has chosen to represent London this season. He has 21 players on his list, and of these the majority of the youngsters and new players will report at Marietta on April 7. Last year's members of the team will not report until a week or so later. By that time Manager Reisling will have weeded out the rookies, and his squad will likely be cut down to 15 or 17 players. He intends to have all his outfielders report early, and expects to have these players rounded into nice shape before the league season opens. He has a number of good men signed up for the outer gardens, and it will likely take him longer to pick out the good ones for these positions than for the other positions on the team.

THE LONDON CLUB ROSTER.

Catchers—Jack Danford, Cy Reidy and Jack Snyder.

First Basemen—Louis Elorbaum and Jim Malley.

Second Baseman — Eddie Linnebern.

Shortstop—Roy Whiteraft.

Third Basemen—Mike Mullen and Emil Rychner.

Outfielders—Ed Lamy, Jack Long Joe Munn, Raymond Okey, Elli Manning and Williams.

IMPROVING THE DAIRY HERD

In connection with the grading up of a dairy herd a great deal has been accomplished by finding out through the cow-testing work just how much fat each cow in the herd produces and then disposing of the lowest producers. But there is another factor in the improvement of the herd which many farmers do not give the attention to which they should, and that is in regard to the sire used.

Many farmers are using mongrel, or scrub, sires. Just so long as they continue to do this, very little improvement can be expected in the offspring, and we have to-day as a result of the continued use of underfed, under developed, inferior sires, a class of cattle which are, on the whole, too small to consume a fair quantity of food and convert it into milk. Many people object to certain cows because they are heavy feeders, but if they are the right kind of animals they will produce a larger amount of milk, and our experience goes to prove that the more milk a cow produces, other conditions being equal, the larger the profit will be for the food consumed.

But the small, underfed sires are not all mongrels by any means. Unfortunately we often see pure-bred animals which have not received the feed and attention which they should have and are small, undersized, inferior animals; and this brings us to an important point, and that is that a sire should not be purchased just because he is a pure bred. We often see farmers who have made up their mind they are going to use a pure-bred sire, buy some small, inferior animal just because it is registered, and come home rejoicing. In the course of time, when the offspring do not come up to their expectations they get discouraged, and say that grades are just as good as pure-bred animals, as it is possible in a case like this for them to be.

How To Select.

In selecting a pure-bred sire first be sure that he is a strong, well-developed animal, and then ask for his breeding or pedigree. If it is an Ayrshire or Jersey, find out whether its dam is entered in the Record of Performance and if so, what their record is, and find out if the sire's dam is entered, and what her production is. If it is a Holstein find out the same things as you did in the case of the Ayrshire and Jersey, and in addition, find out if the ancestors of the Holstein are also entered in the seven day test, the thirty day test, and the eight months'. Just as an instance of official backing, J. K. Moore & Son of the Central Smith Cow Testing Association, sold last Fall to Mr. Clayton Telford of the Enniskmore Association, a sire, the dam of which, in a seven-day test, produced 417.8 lbs. milk, and 17.3 lbs. butter.

Work, Wages And Unemployment Discussed By The Rev. Jas. Rollins

Gen. 3:19—"In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread."

I. Timothy, 5:18—"The Labourer is worthy of his reward."

I. In discussing the question of work, wages and unemployment, said Mr. Rollins, I am labouring under no delusion. I do not expect my remarks to be entirely satisfactory to any large number of my audience. Those who expect me to give a panacea for all the troubles that come to the employed and the employers, the capitalist and the labourer, will be disappointed. I have no ready-made, triple plated, patented arrangement which will settle all the difficulties and heal all the heart burnings over night. If I can in any measure get you to recognise certain great principles and unite in approving of them, and if in addition to that I can in any measure help to create an atmosphere in which these principles can be sympathetically discussed and fairly applied, I shall have done not merely what it is my privilege as a minister to do, but also what it seems to me I am under obligation to do.

Principles.

II. I would remind you that principles are quite wonderful things; they are no respecters of persons; they are not in the slightest overawed by Trade Unions, Capitalists, City Corporations, Science, Religion, or anything else. They are not merely like a two-edged sword; they are like a four-edged sword—a hundred-edged sword. They cut every way; they are capable of being applied in a hundred directions. If you get hold of an idea and you find that it works beautifully in one direction, but it is incapable of application in a thousand directions, it is a mere selfish opinion; it is not a principle at all. Ideas and opinions pass; principles persist. Principles are like the law of gravitation. They tug at everything, they tear down what is not right. That is the basis of all true optimism.

Principles are in the region of human conduct, human activity, human enterprise; what the laws of nature are in the material universe. Violate them and you come to grief yourself and bring others to grief along with you. There are many people who would, if they could, suspend the law of gravitation. Almost every man whose wall is out of plumb, would, if he could, suspend the law of gravitation. But, seeing that he can not, he sets to work and helps gravitation to tear down his wall that is out of plumb, and rebuilds it. He thinks that is a wiser course than to let gravitation pull it down about his ears some night when he is asleep. That is the kind of service that requires to be rendered in the region of work and wages, to-day. There is need of reconstruction. We need a renaisance in the direction of work and also in the direction of wages.

Work.

III. It is an almost universal experience that people who loose their health say we did not realise the immenseblessing and many-sidedness of health until we lost it. That is true also of work. "In the sweat of thy face shall thou eat bread." That is not a penalty, it is a gospel. Work, under proper conditions, is of the very highest value, physically, mentally, morally, religiously. Work was designed for the health, happiness, and well being of the whole man and of all men.

Work is God's great method of giving us two great things—a life, and a living.

These two cannot be separated. They go together. We have attempted to separate them and that is part of the cause of our coming to grief.

Commerce was made for man, not man for commerce. You know the cynical remark that one hears again and again: "I am not in business for my health." What is implied in a remark of that kind is that the man is in business, above all else, to make money, and that he simply is going to make money. If certain principles stand in the way, so much the worse for the principles. Ah, my brother, my brother! It is just the other way. If you violate pinciples so much the worse for you. Those principles will get hold of you. They will take laughter out of your soul, and fulness of being out of your life and honour out of your name, and tear your character shred from shred, and send you out into the great beyond, a naked soul, and your children will regard neither your money nor your name as a thing to be prized.

Living Wage.

IV. There is a demand to-day for a minimum wage. What is needed is not a minimum wage, so much as a living wage; a wage that will let the whole man live in order that the whole man may serve. You cannot divide a man into water-tight compartments of body, mind, and spirit, and pay him for one compartment.

Skill.

V. Whether we like it or not, wages will always have some relation to the amount of skill required in the doing of the work for which we are paid. The only way by which unskilled labour will ever get the same wage as skilled labour will be by everybody becoming skilled labourers and then when you want a drain dug you will have to employ artists and not artisans. It is, however, more economical to pay artisans who know how to do the work and who have the strength, a price which will enable them to live, than to employ artists, such as jewellers, and bankers, and preachers, and aldermen, the prices that prevail in their several callings, while they dig drains.

Chose the Hard Thing.

I would say to the young people here to-night: Choose for your life work some difficult thing that is, of course, also a useful thing. If it takes five years to learn it is better than if it takes only four years. If it takes ten years it is better than if if it takes only nine. You will have all your life afterward just that much more elbow room and a reasonable chance of getting a living wage.

VI. Wages will always have some relation to the real worth of the service rendered. A worker should contribute not only so much physical activity—so many pieces of a certain article—but he should also contribute a certain kind of spirit; a spirit that is helpful to the development of the institution in which he works.

This is where things have gone seriously wrong in the industrial world, and I think both sides are to blame.

Master and Man.

Before the introduction of machinery master and man worked side by side. The man learned his trade from his master. In the days of his apprenticeship he lived in the same house as his master, and ate at the same table. There was comradeship, mutual recognition, mutual respect. They had most things in common.

The introduction of machinery and manufacturing on a large scale has changed all that. Master and man are as necessary to each other to-day as ever they were; but they do not recognise it as they once did.

(a) The master has an understanding with other masters. He expects them, in a measure, to stand by him if things come to grief between him and his men.

(b) The men have their union, from which the master is excluded. They have an understanding that they will stand by each other as against the master. They have an understanding with those who work for other masters that if the worst comes to the worst they will all stand together.

Inflamable Material.

There is a lot of inflamable material lying about. There is an atmosphere charged with a very considerable amount of distrust. A man said to me the other day: "Yes, the inflamable material is there and you are the man who is going to set a match to it." I was so amazed that I could not think for a moment. Had I had my wits about me I would have said that the biggest duty lying right athwart the path of capital and labour to-day is to get the inflamable material out of the way and a fire-proof building in its place. The inflamable material is being put out of the way to some extent. There is not as much inflamable material lying around as there was ten years ago; but even the present atmosphere is not a very favourable one for the discussion of work and wages, especially as between master and man.

Passing Phase

The present situation will not be permanent. It is a passing phase of a great problem. The only satisfactory thing about it is that it is a passing phase. The present situation is one that neither our fathers nor ourselves are able to bear. Men are making a certain amount of money out of their work. Employers are making some money, too; but neither of them is very happy. They are for the most part, getting any happiness they have from the product of their work and enterprise, rather than in the actual doing of the work itself, and when they come together to discuss work and wages none of them have that happy expression which wins the prize for the baby in the baby show.

More Happiness.

It seems to me that it would be a profitable investment to get a little more happiness somehow into the situation, even if it costs some money. Since a happy man is almost certain to do more work, and better work, than an unhappy one, extra pay in so far as extra pay will do it will, in all probability, be more than evened up by extra work—extra efficiency.

Cooperation.

VI. The next phase of the situation will be co-operation. Trade unions, from which employees are excluded, and selling prices which are regarded as something too sacred for ordinary mortals, and are the guarded treasures of the head office. These will both pass out of existence as barbaric institutions, and work will be a life as well as a means of livelihood. The man, body, mind, and spirit will be in it.

Cost of Living.

VIII. The cost of living will also always have some bearing on the question of wages.

There is a minimum amount of things that are absolutey necessary. If you attempt to live on less you handicap yourself so that you are no longer an efficient worker. Commercial enterprises must be willing to increase the cost of their product; rather than lower the efficiency of the producers.

If the cost of the necessities of life increase the worker will require more money for the old amount and old quality of work, in order to meet the increased demands upon him. All these things will have to be dealt with wisely and sympathetically, as between employer and employed in the best spirit of a helpful cooperation.

Present Prices.

The Unemployed.

9. What is the situation as to the unemployed? There are about 1,200 men connected with trade unions, and of these it is estimated that nearly one-third are out of work, which includes the building trades, which are always slack at this season of the year. In the City at the present time there are probably 700 people more out of work now than in a normal winter. The city is supplying food and fuel regularly every week to 45 families. There are quite a number who are getting occasional assistance. The 45 families are, for the most part, people whose credit was bad, even when they had work. They are, for the most part, people whom the trades people do not feel justified in carrying.

Situation Creditable

That there are so few speaks well for the working people. There is evidently considerable thrift and integrity among our people. There is evidently a very creditable amount of consideration and kindness among our trades people. Some have been able to draw on the accumulated savings of the years when work was plentiful. Others who are not in a position to do that have been so honest and prompt in their dealings with the merchants that they are being carried through this period of stress. Very few of those who have received charity have desired it in the form in which it has been given, i.e., in the form of orders for food and fuel. They have asked for work rather than charity. Mr. Miller estimates that in the 85 families receiving weekly assistance there are 75 healthy men able to work, who, he thinks were quite willing to pay for what they got with their labour. On many of our streets at the present time two people cannot walk side by side. The snow plow did not always run straight. It made a path partly on the sidewalk and partly in the ditch. A few dollars spent in shovels which would have been the property of the City, and a little organization would have kept the foot walks of winter where they belong in summer. These 75 men would have been healthier and hardier and they would have had more self-respect than they have to-day.

The Future.

10. What of the future. There is every indication that as soon as the milder weather comes, building operations will be renewed, and that an active season is in store for men who can work in that line. Lying all about us are vast stretches of farm land. Much of it is being only practically worked. Those who are out of work would do well to try to get work out in God's open for a while.

I have been at some pains to find out what the men, who are close up to the manufacturing end of the situation, are thinking, and they are pretty well agreed that there will not be much improvement for three or four, or possibly five, months. One does not like to say that, but there is no gain in ignoring things as they are.

Periods of Depression.

These periods of depression are so widespread, so many factors are involved in causing them that very little concerted action seems to be taken on a large world-wide scale to prevent their coming. Men will yet match their skill, their brains, their capacities, against that problem, and while they may not solve it all at once, much will be done to lessen it. In the meantime we need some stern prophet to preach to us the duty of providing in the fat years against the lean years.

The Immediate Need.

XI. What we need at the present moment to realize is that this widespread depression is on. Many have had little work for months, and in their ordinary occupations will not have steady work for months more.

The City does a large amount of work every summer. This work is spread over a period of six months, usually. There is more work to be done than usual this summer. Plans should be made to enter upon this work at the earliest possible moment, and all who are willing to work should be given employment. If the work is completed in three months, instead of six, and the present depression has not lifted, it might be possible to do the work which would be paid for by the sale of debentures, and which, under ordinary circumstances would not be taken up until next year, to go on with that work this year. It may not be the best time to sell debentures, but if you can lessen your charity account sufficient to meet your loss on the sale of debentures this year, instead of next, you will have broken even and rendered a great servic to people who should be treated with both kindness and consideration.

Watching City Council.

Many who feel more diffident than I do about urging their views upon the City Council are watching eagerly to see if they are planning any measure of relief, and I would urge upon that body to make known at the earliest possible date any plans which they may have under consideration.

The Ban On "The Menace"

Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, March 24.—That eighty per cent. of the government employees of the post office department are of Roman Catholic religion, was the statement made by Mr. J. F. Cross, editor of the Canadian "Menace" as to the cause of his publication being banned from the Canadian mails for its violent attacks on the Roman Catholic Church. "I have authority that bears out this statement," said Mr. Cross in the course of an interview, "and it was at the instigation of the Catholics that we are denied the privilege of sending the "Menace" through the mails, but the fight has just begun, and to-day twenty-five thousand letters are being written from people all over Canada to their representatives in the Dominion parliament to find out the reason why the "Menace" has been prohibited."

The table decorations were in pink and white streamers formed an important part of the decorations. The birthday cake, which held nine candles, supplied the light, while lunch was being served.

Ice cream was also indulged in during the evening. As each little guest departed she was given a fancy pink and white bag full of candy by little Maxwell Fry.

The only case that came up for disposal before Magistrate Dumble this morning was that of a local liquor store keeper, who was charged with supplying liquor to a minor.

If You're Not 21 Don't Teach Drink

The charge against a local liquor store keeper was proceeded with this afternoon at the police court before Magistrate Dumble.

The first witness was the youth who had obtained the liquor, and who was apparently under the age of twenty-one years. He said that was in the City last Saturday and met a friend of his, who asked him to get a bottle of liquor. This he did, cognizant of the fact that he was breaking the law. His age is 18 years.

Cross-examined by Mr. G. M. Gordon, counsel for the defendant, he said he was not under the influence of liquor on the day in question, but still could not tell whether the man who served him was light or dark, white or bald. He met another friend, whose name was mentioned, but he was not drunk, and he got a bottle, which in Mr. Gordon's opinion, was rather a peculiar coincidence, as the party in question generally carries a "chip."

The next witness, a Smith township resident, the youth who prompted the idea of getting the liquor, told the court a similar story as the last witness.

Cross-examined by Mr. Gordon, he said he had used whiskey before. He said he suffered from asthma and had to take it.

The court—Oh, you have to take it!

Witness—Yes, it does me good.

The court—Makes you feel good I'd think.

P. C. Patterson in giving evidence, said that he and P. C. Reid, on duty on George Street, and were informed that some young men were creating a disturbance in the back yard of the Windsor hotel. They went to the place named and found second witness there and took him into custody because he was seedy looking.

He is seedy looking now, said Mr. Gordon.

Several witnesses then swore they would take defendant to be over age, and as this constituted the Magistrate's ruling, the case was dismissed.

The Board of Trade Re-organization

A Writer Who Believes Peterborough Should Have a Strong Body

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—We all must feel keen interest in the resurrection of the Peterborough Board of Trade. You will find an active Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce in almost every live centre of the country east or west, and such a board commands the support of the whole people, who are all benefitted by the growth and prosperity of the city we live in.

The place the Board really on its feet and in a position to help the city it must have money, and I would suggest a plan worked successfully in other cities, to make two classes of members, honorary and active, or as you may determine and make the fees five dollars and two dollars respectively, surely very small for such an object in these days of the low value of money. Of course the officers and council of twenty would be both honorary and active and would expect to be liable accordingly. In the west no business or professional man, nor very few mechanics (unless he were a transient), would decline to become a member of the Board of Trade, and would take a live interest in their meetings also. The wide influence of the Press is fully taken advantage of, and I say you have as loyal and enterprising paper here as in any place its size in Canada. And with committees under captains of enthusiasm, tact and executive ability, no one should be offended by being overlooked.

There are towns in America whose greatest asset is their ability to pull together and where a knocker is asked to get out of town. Peterborough has advantages equal to any inland city in Canada and the first work of the new Board co-operative with the Mayor's scheme for a union of Eastern Ontario municipalities would be renewed influence for the completion of the canal and if it were completed the immense expense of the Georgian Bay canal would be saved the country.

Yours truly,
J. S. BELL,
451 Water Street.

LIBERALS AND SUBSIDIES TO RADIAL LINES

Special to the Examiner.

Parliament Buildings, Toronto, March 24—What will the Government do with the resolution of Thomas Marshall, Liberal Member for Monck, asking the House to memorialise the Dominion Government to grant Hydro Radials the same subsidy as those given to steam railways?

A deputation from Ontario municipalities will wait upon the Federal Government this week with a similar request and the Government, therefore, will likely take some action within a day or two.

If Mr. Marshall, supported by the Liberals in the House, forces the hands of the local Government this time, he will merely be repeating what he did last Session, On April 9th he moved a resolution emphasizing the need of cheap and convenient electric transportation, and urging the Government and the Hydro-Electric Commission to take up the project. The Government did not accept the resolution at the time, but later, just before the close of the Session, passed a Bill giving the Hydro-Electric Commission power to proceed with the Radial Railway proposition in conjunction with Municipalities.

Mr. Proudfoot is another member of the Opposition who has given special attention to the power problem. More than a year ago he urged the construction of Radials by the Hydro Commission. All these measures have been supported by the Liberal members both in and out of the House.

LENT, 1914.

Wilt turn aside from pleasure's empty toys
Into that garden where perennial flower,
The blossoms sweet of love, and strength and grace?

Guard well these hours, so shall thy soul grow pure,
Gain wisdom, love, faith, hope and charity;
Thou shalt be wise to battle and endure,
To love and work, to watch and wait and pray.

The call to work comes to thee clear and strong,
"Daughter arise!! Thine hour of life is come."
Hasten to service in earth's stress and throng,
Cast up an highway for thy coming king.

Full soon these Lenten hours will pass away,
The Easter call to work ring on thine ear,
Wilt thou forsake Him now to drift, to play,

Orchard And Garden Notes

A garden well planned is half made.

Test all seed that is to be sown now.

Group vegetables of like culture as near together as possible. Keep the vines together, roots together, etc.

Home-made paper pots are of much value in garden work. They must have drainage provided to be entirely satisfactory.

In planning the garden, lay out everything in long rows. Beds suffer more from drought and are much harder to cultivate.

Stock Markets

You will probably see further bullish operations in the stock market which continues to reflect an oversold condition throughout the interest list. Slow improvement that is termed in some quarters, a creeping bull market, is expected in conservative quarters to form the spring rise. The demand from the short interests appears to be increasing, and the demands for that account will be rapid if the favourable. New Haven news and the Wilson pushing of the rate decision may be added either features of constructive character. There is a greater tendency to carefully weigh the evidence for and against the rails, as again the industrial stocks. Stocks like Union, Pacific, Reading, St. Paul, Great Northern, Atch., Southern Pacific and North Western, should be bought regardless of the rate matter. Copper shares are in favour. Specialties of worth may be raised during this improvement, and they should be bought for turns when made active. A.C.P. was strong and should be bought on recessions.

PEOPLE MUST RULE

King and Army Adversely Criticized in British House

THE POLITICAL POT SEETHES

LONDON, March 25. — Westminster continues to be a seething caldron over what the Liberals now denounce as the "mutiny of the army aristocrats" against democratic government. The fact has been established from all obtainable evidence that Gen. Hubert Gough and the other officers of the Third Cavalry Brigade demanded and obtained written assurances, which had been drafted by a lawyer, that they would not be ordered to fight Sir Edward Carson's Ulster volunteers, and that these assurances were obtained largely through the personal intervention of the King.

The throne, which has traditionally kept out of party controversies, both because of aloofness and also as a point of honor, with public men and newspapers, is involved in the discussion as it had not been before during King George's reign or that of his most diplomatic father. The section of the Liberals who opposed what they denounce as a surrender to the military oligarchy are criticizing the King with the greatest freedom.

The Laborite, John Ward, in the course of a speech on the army appropriation bill, said that the Conservatives, by approving the rebellion of the officers, had "started to smash the British army." The House, he said, had to decide whether it was going to maintain the discipline of the army as a neutral force, or whether the Parliament elected by the people should "absolutely, without interference from the King or the army, make the laws of the realm."

When the speaker uttered in stentorian tones "without interference from the King or the army," giving a calculated and dramatic pause at the word "king," half the House was on its feet cheering. All the Labor members and all the Home Rule Irishmen, and not only they, but many of the Liberal members, stood and shouted for a considerable space of time.

Parliament has not witnessed such an obviously hostile criticism of the throne in the memory of the oldest member, nor even in the past century.

Plot Revealed Says Redmond.

LONDON, March 25.—"The Ulster Orange plot has now been completely revealed," said John E. Redmond, the leader of the Irish Nationalist party, in a statement yesterday to The Associated Press. "Sir Edward Carson," he said, "and his army have not, and never had the slightest intention of fighting. As a fighting force against the regular troops they could not hold out for a week."

Mr. Redmond continued: "The plan was to put up the appearance of a fight and then by society influences seduce the officers of the British army. By this means they intended to intimidate the Government and to defeat the will of the British people. The action of the commanders of some of the crack cavalry regiments officered by aristocrats has now fully disclosed the plan of the campaign.

"It is whether a democratic Government is to be brow-beaten and dictated to by the drawing-rooms of London and by that section of officers of the British army who are aristocrats and violent Tory partisans. The cause of Irish freedom has in this fight become the cause of popular freedom and ordered liberty throughout the world. It is impossible to doubt what the result of such a fight will be.

"The second reading of the Home Rule bill will be taken Monday and the bill will be proceeded with until it finds its place on the statute books!"

GUILTY OF MURDER.

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict Against Montreal Bandits.

MONTREAL, March 25. — A verdict of murder against Arthur Foucault and Joseph Beauchamp, two of the alleged bandits who shot a couple of policemen two weeks ago, was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday. Alphonse Foucault and Ismael Bourrat, the other two riders in the death sleigh that figured in the shooting, are still at large, each with a price of $1,000 on his head.

Arthur Foucault and Beauchamp declined to make any statement at the inquest, but with the confessions they made on arrest, the police think they have enough evidence to secure conviction.

St. Thomas Man Acquitted.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., March 25.—In the assize court yesterday, J. Kettlewell, after a trial which lasted all the afternoon and until 11 o'clock last night, was acquitted by the jury of a serious charge preferred against him by a young girl.

Chief Justice Meredith Ill.

KINGSTON, March 25.—Owing to illness, Chief Justice R. M. Meredith was unable to come to Kingston yesterday to open the spring assizes. The court was formally opened by Judge Price and then adjourned until to-day.

TO SAVE HER HUSBAND.

Mme. Caillaux Thought He Would Slay Calmette.

PARIS, March 25. — Mme. Caillaux's fear of the consequences of the publication of some private correspondence in The Fiagro led to her assassination of Gaston Calmette, its editor, she told the examining magistrate yesterday.

She also had been obsessed with the idea that her husband might be driven to commit the crime and decided to do it herself.

"In my delirium, I already pictured to my mind the figure of my husband on the prisoner's bench," she said in her evidence yesterday, "and I was already confronted with the consequences of such a frightful tragedy. What added to my anguish was a deep personal conscientious scruple, for there was no use concealing from myself that I should be the involuntary cause of this terrifying drama."

FIRE WAS HARMLESS.

U. S. Soldiers Missed Every Time Says Mexican General.

EAGLE PASS, Texas, March 25.—Gen. Gujuardo, commanding the Mexican Federal garrison at Piedras Negras, denied yesterday that any of his soldiers were killed by the fire of the Americans in the fight with American soldiers at McKee's Crossing Sunday.

The Federals who fired on the American troops at Las Vecas, four miles from McKee's Crossing, and a force of several hundred Constitutionalists are encamped a few miles up the river.

FORCES LINING UP.

Fight Over Canal Tolls Will Be Hardest In Years.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Congress is on the verge of the most vigorous legislative struggle that has enlivened its proceedings in many years—the contest over the administration proposal to repeal the provision of the Panama Canal Act granting toll exemption to American coastwise ships.

Plans for taking up the Sims repeal bill were completed in the House yesterday, and Democratic leaders aligned on both sides of the issue have marshaled their forces and prepared their arguments. It was generally conceded that the bill would be called up for general debate by Thursday and that it might be reported some time to-day when Representative Henry, chairman of the rules committee, proposes to submit a rule to limit general debate on the measure to fifteen hours. A vote on this rule when reported will, in a measure, test the strength of the opposing forces.

"Let me help you," I proposed, rising with sudden alacrity. My eyes had just fallen on a small desk at my right, also on the floor beneath and around it. Here, there and everywhere above and below lay scraps of torn-up paper; and on many, if not all of them, could be seen the broken squares and inverted angles which had marked so curiously the surface of the envelope she had handed to Mr. Steele, and which I had afterward seen her burn.

"A baby can make a deal of a mess," I remarked, hurriedly collecting these scraps and making a motion of throwing them into the waste-paper basket, but hiding them in my blouse instead.

"The baby! Oh, the baby never did that. She's too young."

"Oh, I didn't know. I haven't seen much of the child, though I heard her cry once in the nursery. How old is she?"

"Twenty months and such a darling! You never saw such curls or such eyes. Why, look at this!"

"What?" I demanded, hurrying to the closet, where Ellen stood bending over something invisible to me.

"Oh, nothing," she answered, coming quickly out. But in another moment, her tongue getting the better of her discretion, she blurted out: "Do you suppose Mrs. Packard had any idea of going with the mayor? Her bag is in there almost packed. I was wondering where all her toilet articles were. That accounts—" Stopping, she cast a glance around the room, ending with a shake of the head and a shrug. "She needn't have pulled out all her things," she sharply complained. "Certain, she is a mysterious lady,—as queer as she is kind."

CHAPTER X.

A GLIMMER OF THE TRUTH.

This was a sentiment I could thoroughly endorse. Mrs. Packard was certainly an enigma to me. Leaving Ellen to finish her work, I went upstairs to my room, and, taking out the scraps of paper I had so carefully collected, spread them out before me on the lid of the desk.

They were absolutely unintelligible to me—marks and nothing more. Useless to waste time over such unmeaning scrawls when I had other and more tangible subjects to consider. But I should not destroy them. There might come a time when I should be glad to give them the attention which my present excitement forebade. Putting them back in my desk, I settled myself into a serious contemplation of the one fact which seemed to give me a partial if not wholly satisfactory explanation of Mrs. Packard's peculiar conduct during the last two weeks—her belief that she had been visited by a spectre of an unholy, threatening aspect.

That it was a belief and nothing more seemed sufficiently clear to me in the cold-blooded analysis to which I now subjected the whole matter.

Phantoms have no place in the economy of nature. That Mrs. Packard thought herself the victim of one was simply a proof of how deeply, though perhaps unconsciously, she had been affected by the traditions of the house. Such sensitiveness in a mind naturally firm and uncommonly well poised, calls for attention. Yet a physician had asserted that he could do nothing for her. Granting that he was mistaken, would an interference of so direct and unmistakable a character be wise in the present highly strung condition of her nerves. I doubted it. It would show too plainly the light in which we regarded her. I dared not undertake the responsibility of such a course in Mayor Packard's absence. Some other way must be found to quiet her apprehensions and bring her into harmony again with her surroundings. I knew of only one course. If the influence of the house had brought on this hallucination, then the influence of the house must be destroyed. She must be made to see that, despite its unfortunate reputation, no spectre had ever visited it; that some purely natural cause was at the bottom of the various manifestations which had successively driven away all previous tenants.

Could I hope to effect this? It was an undertaking of no small moment. Had I the necessary judgment? I doubted it, but my ambition was roused. While Mr. Steele was devoting himself to the discovery of Mayor and Mrs. Packard's political enemy, I would essay the more difficult task of penetrating the mystery threatening their domestic peace. I could not fail; a few inquiries would assure me of the folly or the wisdom of my course.

Having reached this point and satisfied myself as to my real duty, I rose to leave my room for another word or two with Ellen. As I did so my eyes fell on the shade still drawn between me and the next house. The impulse to raise it was irresistible. I must see if either of the two old faces still occupied that gable window. It was not likely. It was not in ordinary human nature to keep up so unremitting a watch. Yet as the shade flew up at my touch I realised that my astonishment would have been great and my expectations altogether disappointed if I had not encountered the fixed countenance and the set stare with which I had come to connect this solitary window. Miss Charity was there, and, though I now knew what underlay her senile, if not utterly mad watch, the impression made upon me by her hopeless countenance was as keen as it had ever been, and lent point and impetus to the task I had just set for myself.

It was apparent that Mrs. Packard had forgotten or changed her mind about joining me in her own room, but nevertheless I went out, to discover what possible duties she might have laid for me. Ascertaining from Ellen that Mrs. Packard had engagements which would take her out at noon, I waited for that hour to pass, then excused myself and went out also.

The owner of the house also whose shaded history I was now determined to learn was John Searles, a real estate agent. To his office in Main Street I at once proceeded, not without doubts and much inward trepidation, but buoyed up by the assurance of Mayor Packard's approval of any attempt, however far-fetched or uncompromising, which held out the least possibility of relieving Mrs. Packard from her superstitious fears and restoring the peace and happiness of the household. If Mr. Searles should prove to be an approachable man!

I had never seen him or heard him spoken of, or I should not have encouraged myself with this hope. At my first glimpse of his tall, gaunt figure, hard features, and brisk impatient movements, I knew that my wit and equanimity would be put to their full test in the interview.

He was engaged, at my entrance, in some harsh dispute with a couple of other men, but came forward quickly enough when he saw me. Recognizing at once that any attempt at ingratiation would fail with this man, I entered at once upon my errand by asking a question direct enough to command his attention, if it did not ensure the desired reply.

"Mr. Searles, when you purchased the house on Franklin Street, did you know enough about it to have an answer ready for any one who might declare it haunted?"

The abruptness of the attack produced its effect. Annoyance swept every hint of patience from face and manner, and he exclaimed in a tone which conveyed, only too openly, how disagreeable the subject was to him:

"Again!"

I smiled. It would not do to show how much I felt the total lack of sympathy in his manner.

"You will have trouble," said I, "until it is proved that the occurrences which have provoked this report have a very natural and quite human source."

"Who are you?" he asked, "and why has Mrs. Packard made you her messenger instead of coming herself?"

"I am her companion, engaged by Mayor Packard to stay with her during his contemplated absence. I am here instead of Mrs. Packard because it is she herself who is the present sufferer from the disagreeable experiences which attend life in the Franklin Street house."

"Mrs. Packard?" His tone betrayed a complete incredulity. "Mrs. Packard? a woman of such strong good sense! I think you must have been misled by some foolish attempt at humour on her part. Does she know that you have come to me with this complaint?"

"She does not. She is not in a condition to be consulted on the subject. I am Mayor Packard's emissary. He is very anxious about his wife." Then as Mr. Searles continued unmoved, I added in a straightforward manner, and with all the earnestness I felt: "Mrs. Packard believes herself to have come face to face with an undoubted spectre in the library of the house they have rented from you. She related the circumstances to her husband and to myself this very morning. It occurred, according to her story, several days ago; meantime her manner and appearance have shown a great change. Mayor Packard is not the only one who has noticed it. The whole household has been struck by her condition, though no one knew its cause until to-day. Of course, we do not believe in the spectre; that was purely hallucination on her part. This we no more doubt than you do."

"Then what do you want here?" he asked, after a moment of harsh scrutiny.

"Proof which will convince her that it was an hallucination and without the least basis in any spiritual fact," I returned. "If you will give me a few minutes of your time, I will explain just what I mean and also make known to you my wishes. I can wait till you have finished your business with the gentleman I see over there."

He honoured me with a look, which for the first time showed any appreciation of my feelings, and pushing open a door near by, called out to some one within:

"Here, Robinson, talk with this lady. Her business is not in my line." Then, turning to me with a quick, "Step in, Madam," he left me with the greatest abruptness and hurried back to the gentleman awaiting him on the other side of the room.

I was considerably taken aback by this move, but knew no other course than to enter the room he had pointed out and pursue my conversation with whomever I should find there.

Alas! the gentleman who rose at my entrance was also one of the tall, thin and dyerrous type. But he was not without heart, like the other, as was soon made apparent to me. Very few human faces are plainer than the one I now searched for the encouragement of which I stood in such sore need, but also very few have the attraction of so pleasant a smile. Its affable greeting was followed by the hasty pushing forward of a chair and a kind inquiry as to what he could do for me.

My answer woke an immediate interest. "My name is Saunders," I said. "I am at present an inmate of Mayor Packard's house—a house belonging to Mr. Searles, and one which has its drawbacks."

The meaning look with which I uttered the last sentence called forth an immediate answering one. A flash of excitement broke over his features and he cast a quick glance at the door which fortunately had swung to at my entrance.

"Has—have they—has anything of a disagreeable nature happened to any one in this house?" he asked with ill-concealed perturbation. "I did not expect it during their tenantry, but if such has occurred, I am obliged to Mrs. Packard for letting me know. She promised, to you see, and—"

"She promised!" I cried.

"Yes; in a joke no doubt, being at the time in a very incredulous state of mind. She vowed that she would let me know the very day she saw the lights or encountered any thing in the house, which could be construed into a spiritual visitation. Has such a manifestation occurred?" he agerly inquired. "Has it? has it?' Am I to add her name to the list of those who have found the house uninhabitable?"

"That I am not ready to say," was my cautious response. "Mrs. Packard, during the period of her husband's candidacy, would scarcely wish to draw public attention to herself or these supernatural happenings by any such move. I hope that what I say to you on this subject will go no further."

"You may rest assured that it will never become public property," he assured me. "One person I am bound to tell; but that is all. That person is too much interested in the house's good name to spread so damaging a story. An experience, more or less disagreeable, must have occurred to some member of the family," continued Mr. Robinson. "Your presence here assures me of that. What kind of experience? The manifestations have not always been of the same nature."

"No; and that is what so engages my attention. These experiences differ so much in their character. Do you happen to know the exact nature of each? I have a theory which I long to substitute. May I trust you with it?"

"You certainly may, Miss. No one has thought over this matter more earnestly than I have. Not because of any superstitious tendency on my part; rather from the lack of it. I don't believe in spirits. I don't believe in supernatural agencies of any kind; yet strange things do happen in this house, things which we find it hard to explain."

"Mrs. Packard's experience was this. She believes herself to have encountered in the library the spectre of a man; a spectre with a gaze so terrifying that it impressed itself upon her as an omen of death, or some other dire disaster. What have your other tenants seen?"

"Shadows mostly; but not always. Sometimes the outline of an arm projecting out of darkness; sometimes, the trace of steps on the hall floors, or the discovery in the morning of an open door which had been carefully closed at bedtime. Once it was the trailing of ghostly fingers across the sleeper's face, and once a succession of groans ring from the lower halls and drawing the whole family from their beds, to find no one but themselves within the four walls. A clearly outlined phantom has been scarce. But Mrs. Packard has seen one, you say."

"Thinks she has seen one," I corrected. "Mayor Packard and myself both look upon the occurrence as a wholly imaginary one, caused by her secret brooding over the very manifestations you mention. If she could be convinced that these manifestations had a physical origin, she would immediately question the reality of the spectre she now believes herself to have seen. To bring her to this point I am ready to exert myself to the utmost. Are you willing to do the same? If so, I can assure you of Mayor Packard's appreciation."

"How? What? You believe the whole thing a fraud? That all these tenants coming from various quarters manufactured all these stories and submitted to endless inconvenience to perpetuate a senseless lie?"

"No, I don't think that. The tenants were honest enough, but—Who owned the house before Mr. Searles?" I was resolved to give no hint of the information imparted to me by Mrs. Packard.

"The Misses Quinlan, the two maiden ladies who live next door to Mayor Packard."

"I don't know them," said I truthfully.

"Very worthy women," Mr. Robinson assured me. "They are as much disturbed and as completely puzzled as the rest of us over the mysterious visitations which have lessened the value of their former property. They have asked me more than once for an explanation of its marked unpopularity. I felt foolish to say ghosts, but finally I found myself forced to do so, much to my lasting regret."

"How? Why?" I asked, with all the force of a very rapidly increasing curiosity.

"Because its effect upon them has been so disastrous. They were women of intelligence previous to this, one of them quite markedly so, but from that day they have given evidence of mental weakness which can only be attributed to their continual brooding over this mysterious topic. The house, whose peculiarities we are now discussing, was once their family homestead, and they shrink from the reproach of its unfortunate reputation. What! you don't think so?" he impetuously asked, moved, perhaps, by my suggestive silence. "You are suspicious of these two poor old women? What reason have you for that, Miss Saunders? What motive could they have for depreciating the value of what was once their own property?"

So he knew nothing of the lost bonds! Mrs. Packard had made no mistake when she assured me of the secrecy with which they had endured their misfortune. It gave me great relief; I could work more safely with this secret unshared. But the situation called for dissimulation. It was with anything but real openness that I declared:

"You can not calculate the impulses of an affected mind. Jealousy of the past may influence these unfortunate women. They possibly hate to see strangers in the rooms made sacred by old associations."

"That is possible, but how could they, shut up in a house, separated from yours by a distance of several feet, be held accountable for the phenomena observed in 393? There are no means of communication between the two buildings; even the doors, which once faced each other across the dividing alley, have been closed up. Interference from them is impossible."

"No more impossible than from any other outside source. Is it a fact that the doors and windows of this strangely haunted house were always found securely locked after each occurrence of the phenomena you have mentioned?"

SUFFERED AGONY WITH NEURALGIA

CAMPBELLVILLE, ONT., May 5th. 1913.

"I cannot speak too highly of "Fruit-a-tives". For over thirty years, I have suffered from Chronic Neuralgia and Constipation, experiencing untold agony. I would not have my present health if it was not for "Fruit-a-tives" and I am glad of the opportunity of giving you this letter about such a splendid remedy as "Fruit-a-tives", for the guidance of other women who may be similarly affected"

WAS TROUBLED WITH BOILS AND CARBUNCLES.

There is no more frequent source of illness than that arising from bad blood, for when the blood becomes impure, it is only natural that boils, pimples or some other indication of bad blood should break out of the system.

Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still at the same time are very painful, and the only way to get rid of them is to cleanse the blood of the impurities. Cleanse it thoroughly by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, that old and reliable blood medicine that has been on the market for nearly forty years.

Mr. James Wilds, Plaster Rock, N.B., writes:—"I was greatly troubled, a few years ago, with boils and carbuncles, and the doctor told me I was in a bad condition. My appetite failed me, I began to lose strength, and was pretty well run down when one of my friends recommended Burdock Blood Bitters. After using three bottles I began to feel like another man. My troubles soon left me, and to-day I can certainly give Burdock Blood Bitters a high recommendation to my friends."

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

"Let me help you," I proposed, rising with sudden alacrity. My eyes had just fallen on a small desk at my right, also on the floor beneath and around it. Here, there and everywhere above and below lay scraps of torn-up paper; and on many, if not all of them, could be seen the broken squares and inverted angles which had marked so curiously the surface of the envelope she had handed to Mr. Steele, and which I had afterward seen her burn.

"A baby can make a deal of a mess," I remarked, hurriedly collecting these scraps and making a motion of throwing them into the waste-paper basket, but hiding them in my blouse instead.

"Oh, I didn't know. I haven't seen much of the child, though I heard her cry once in the nursery. How old is she"

"Twenty months and such a darling! You never saw such curls or such eyes. Why, look at this!"

"What?" I demanded, hurrying to the closet, where Ellen stood bending over something invisible to me.

"Oh, nothing," she answered, coming quickly out. But in another moment, her tongue getting the better of her discretion, she blurted out: "Do you suppose Mrs. Packard had any idea of going with the mayor? Her bag is in there almost packed. I was wondering where all her toilet articles were. That accounts—" Stopping, she cast a glance around the room, ending with a shake of the head and a shrug. "She needn't have pulled out all her things," she sharply complained. "Certain, she is a mysterious lady,—as queer as she is kind."

CHAPTER X.
A GLIMMER OF THE TRUTH.

This was a sentiment I could thoroughly endorse. Mrs. Packard was certainly an enigma to me. Leaving Ellen to finish her work, I went upstairs to my room, and, taking out the scraps of paper I had so carefully collected, spread them out before me on the lid of the desk.

They were absolutely unintelligible to me—marks, and nothing more. Useless to waste time over such unmeaning scrawls when I had other and more tangible subjects to consider. But I should not destroy them. There might come a time when I should be glad to give them the attention which my present excitement forebade. Putting them back in my desk, I settled myself into a serious contemplation of the one fact which seemed to give me a partial if not wholly satisfactory explanation of Mrs. Packard's peculiar conduct during the last two weeks—her belief that she had been visited by a spectre of an unholy, threatening aspect.

That it was a belief and nothing more seemed sufficiently clear to me in the cold-blooded analysis to which I now subjected the whole matter.

Phantoms have no place in the economy of nature. That Mrs. Packard thought herself the victim of one was simply a proof of how deeply, though perhaps unconsciously, she had been affected by the traditions of the house. Such sensitiveness in a mind naturally firm and uncommonly well poised, calls for attention. Yet a physician had asserted that he could do nothing for her. Granting that he was mistaken, would an interference of so direct and unmistakable a character be wise in the present highly strung condition of her nerves. I doubted it. It would show too plainly the light in which we regarded her. I dared not undertake the responsibility of such a course in Mayor Packard's absence. Some other way must be found to quiet her apprehensions and bring her into harmony again with her surroundings. I knew of only one course. If the influence of the house had brought on this hallucination, then the influence of the house must be destroyed. She must be made to see that, despite its unfortunate reputation, no spectre had ever visited it; that some purely natural cause was at the bottom of the various manifestations which had successively driven away all previous tenants.

Could I hope to effect this? It was an undertaking of no small moment. Had I the necessary judgment? I doubted it, but my ambition was roused. While Mr. Steele was devoting himself to the discovery of Mayor and Mrs. Packard's political enemy, I would essay the more difficult task of penetrating the mystery threatening their domestic peace. I could not fail; a few inquiries would assure me of the folly or the wisdom of my course.

Having reached this point and satisfied myself as to my real duty, I rose to leave my room for another word or two with Ellen. As I did so my eyes fell on the shade still drawn between me and the next house. The impulse to raise it was irresistible. I must see if either of the two old faces still occupied that gable window. It was not likely. It was not in ordinary human nature to keep up so unremitting a watch. Yet as the shade flew up at my touch I realised that my astonishment would have been great and my expectations altogether disappointed if I had not encountered the fixed countenance and the set stare with which I had come to connect this solitary window. Miss Charity was there, and, though I now knew what underlay her senile, if not utterly mad watch, the impression made upon me by her hopeless countenance was as keen as it had ever been, and lent point and impetus to the task I had just set for myself.

It was apparent that Mrs. Packard had forgotten or changed her mind about joining me in her own room, but nevertheless I went out, to discover what possible duties she might have laid for me. Ascertaining from Ellen that Mrs. Packard had engagements which would take her out at noon, I waited for that hour to pass, then excused myself and went out also.

The owner of the house also whose shaded history I was now determined to learn was John Searles, a real estate agent. To his office in Main Street I at once proceeded, not without doubts and much inward trepidation, but buoyed up by the assurance of Mayor Packard's approval of any attempt, however far-fetched or uncompromising, which held out the least possibility of relieving Mrs. Packard from her superstitious fears and restoring the peace and happiness of the household. If Mr. Searles should prove to be an approachable man!

I had never seen him or heard him spoken of, or I should not have encouraged myself with this hope. At my first glimpse of his tall, gaunt figure, hard features, and brisk impatient movements, I knew that my wit and equanimity would be put to their full test in the interview.

He was engaged, at my entrance, in some harsh dispute with a couple of other men, but came forward quickly enough when he saw me. Recognising at once that any attempt at ingratiation would fail with this man, I entered at once upon my errand by asking a question direct enough to command his attention, if it did not ensure the desired reply.

"Mr. Searles, when you purchased the house on Franklin Street, did you know enough about it to have an answer ready for any one who might declare it haunted?"

The abruptness of the attack produced its effect. Annoyance swept every hint of patience from face and manner, and he exclaimed in a tone which conveyed, only too openly, how disagreeable the subject was to him:

"Again!"

I smiled. It would not do to show how much I felt the total lack of sympathy in his manner.

"You will have trouble," said I, "until it is proved that the occurrences which have provoked this report have a very natural and quite human source."

"Who are you?" he asked, "and why has Mrs. Packard made you her messenger instead of coming herself?"

"I am her companion, engaged by Mayor Packard to stay with her during his contemplated absence. I am here instead of Mrs. Packard because it is she herself who is the present sufferer from the disagreeable experiences which attend life in the Franklin Street house."

"Mrs. Packard?" His tone betrayed a complete incredulity. "Mrs. Packard? a woman of such strong good sense! I think you must have been misled by some foolish attempt at humour on her part. Does she know that you have come to me with this complaint?"

"She does not. She is not in a condition to be consulted on the subject. I am Mayor Packard's emissary. He is very anxious about his wife." Then as Mr. Searles continued unmoved, I added in a straightforward manner, and with all the earnestness I felt: "Mrs. Packard believes herself to have come face to face with an undoubted spectre in the library of the house they have rented from you. She related the circumstances to her husband and to myself this very morning. It occurred, according to her story, several days ago; meantime her manner and appearance have shown a great change. Mayor Packard is not the only one who has noticed it. The whole household has been struck by her condition, though no one knew its cause until to-day. Of course, we do not believe in the spectre; that was purely hallucination on her part. This we no more doubt than you do."

"Then what do you want here?" he asked, after a moment of harsh scrutiny.

"Proof which will convince her that it was an hallucination and without the least basis in any spiritual fact," I returned. "If you will give me a few minutes of your time, I will explain just what I mean and also make known to you my wishes. I can wait till you have finished your business with the gentleman I see over there."

He honoured me with a look, which for the first time showed any appreciation of my feelings, and pushing open a door near by, called out to some one within:

"Here, Robinson, talk with this lady. Her business is not in my line." Then, turning to me with a quick, "Step in, Madam," he left me with the greatest abruptness and hurried back to the gentleman awaiting him on the other side of the room.

I was considerably taken aback by this move, but knew no other course than to enter the room he had pointed out and pursue my conversation with whomever I should find there.

Alas! the gentleman who rose at my entrance was also one of the tall, thin and dyerrous type. But he was not without heart, like the other, as was soon made apparent to me. Very few human faces are plainer than the one I now searched for the encouragement of which I stood in such sore need, but also very have the attraction of so pleasant a smile. Its affable greeting was followed by the hasty pushing forward of a chair and a kind inquiry as to what he could do for me.

My answer woke an immediate interest. "My name is Saunders," I said. "I am at present an inmate of Mayor Packard's house—a house belonging to Mr. Searles, and one which has its drawbacks."

The meaning look with which I uttered the last sentence called forth an immediate answering one. A flash of excitement broke over his features and he cast a quick glance at the door which fortunately had swung to at my entrance.

"Has—have they—has anything of a disagreeable nature happened to any one in this house?" he asked with ill-concealed perturbation. "I did not expect it during their tenantry, but if such has occurred, I am obliged to Mrs. Packard for letting me know. She promised, to you see, and—"

"She promised!" I cried.

"Yes; in a joke no doubt, being at the time in a very incredulous state of mind. She vowed that she would let me know the very day she saw the lights or encountered anything in the house, which could be construed into a spiritual visitation. Has such a manifestation occurred?" he agerly inquired. "Has it? has it?' Am I to add her name to the list of those who have found the house uninhabitable?"

"That I am not ready to say," was my cautious response. "Mrs. Packard, during the period of her husband's candidacy, would scarcely wish to draw public attention to herself or these supernatural happenings by any such move. I hope that what I say to you on this subject will go no further."

"You may rest assured that it will never become public property," he assured me. "One person I am bound to tell; but that is all. That person is too much interested in the house's good name to spread so damaging a story. An experience, more or less disagreeable, must have occurred to some member of the family," continued Mr. Robinson. "Your presence here assures me of that. What kind of experience? The manifestations have not always been of the same nature."

"No; and that is what so engages my attention. These experiences differ so much in their character. Do you happen to know the exact nature of each? I have a theory which I long to substitute. May I trust you with it?"

"You certainly may, Miss. No one has thought over this matter more earnestly than I have. Not because of any superstitious tendency on my part; rather from the lack of it. I don't believe in spirits. I don't believe in supernatural agencies of any kind; yet strange things do happen in this house, things which we find it hard to explain."

"Mrs. Packard's experience was this. She believes herself to have encountered in the library the spectre of a man; a spectre with a gaze so terrifying that it impressed itself upon her as an omen of death, or some other dire disaster. What have your other tenants seen?"

"Shadows mostly; but not always. Sometimes the outline of an arm projecting out of darkness; sometimes, the trace of steps on the hall floors, or the discovery in the morning of an open door which had been carefully closed at bedtime. Once it was the trailing of ghostly fingers across the sleeper's face, and once a succession of groans ring from the lower halls and drawing the whole family from their beds, to find no one but themselves within the four walls. A clearly outlined phantom has been scarce. But Mrs. Packard has seen one, you say."

"Thinks she has seen one," I corrected. "Mayor Packard and myself both look upon the occurrence as a wholly imaginary one, caused by her secret brooding over the very manifestations you mention. If she could be convinced that these manifestations had a physical origin, she would immediately question the reality of the spectre she now believes herself to have seen. To bring her to this point I am ready to exert myself to the utmost. Are you willing to do the same? If so, I can assure you of Mayor Packard's appreciation."

"How? What? You believe the whole thing a fraud? That all these tenants coming from various quarters manufactured all these stories and submitted to endless inconvenience to perpetuate a senseless lie?"

"No, I don't think that. The tenants were honest enough, but— Who owned the house before Mr. Searles?" I was resolved to give no hint of the information imparted to me by Mrs. Packard.

"The Misses Quinlan, the two maiden ladies who live next door to Mayor Packard."

"I don't know them," said I truthfully.

"Very worthy women," Mr. Robinson assured me. "They are as much disturbed and as completely puzzled as the rest of us over the mysterious visitations which have lessened the value of their former property. They have asked me more than once for an explanation of its marked unpopularity. I felt foolish to say ghosts, but finally I found myself forced to do so, much to my lasting regret."

"How? Why?" I asked, with all the force of a very rapidly increasing curiosity.

"Because its effect upon them has been so disastrous. They were women of intelligence previous to this, one of them quite markedly so, but from that day they have given evidence of mental weakness which can only be attributed to their continual brooding over this mysterious topic. The house, whose peculiarities we are now discussing, was once their family homestead, and they shrink from the reproach of its unfortunate reputation. What! you don't think so?" he impetuously asked, moved, perhaps, by my suggestive silence. "You are suspicious of these two poor old women? What reason have you for that, Miss Saunders? What motive could they have for depreciating the value of what was once their own property?"

So he knew nothing of the lost bonds! Mrs. Packard had made no mistake when she assured me of the secrecy with which they had endured their misfortune. It gave me great relief; I could work more safely with this secret unshared. But the situation called for dissimulation. It was with anything but real openness that I declared:

"You can not calculate the impulses of an affected mind. Jealousy of the past may influence these unfortunate women. They possibly hate to see strangers in the rooms made sacred by old associations."

"That is possible, but how could they, shut up in a house, separated from yours by a distance of several feet, be held accountable for the phenomena observed in 393? There are no means of communication between the two buildings: even the doors, which once faced each other across the dividing alley, have been closed up. Interference from them is impossible."

"No more impossible than from any other outside source. Is it a fact that the doors and windows of this strangely haunted house were always found securely locked after each occurrence of the phenomena you have mentioned?"

WAS TROUBLED WITH BOILS AND CARBUNCLES.

There is no more frequent source of illness than that arising from bad blood, for when the blood becomes impure, it is only natural that boils, pimples or some other indication of bad blood should break out of the system.

Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still at the same time are very painful, and the only way to get rid of them is to cleanse the blood of the impurities. Cleanse it thoroughly by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, that old and reliable blood medicine that has been on the market for nearly forty years.

Mr. James Wilds, Plaster Rock, N.B., writes:—"I was greatly troubled, a few years ago, with boils and carbuncles, and the doctor told me I was in a bad condition. My appetite failed me, I began to lose strength, and was pretty well run down when one of my friends recommended Burdock Blood Bitters. After using three bottles I began to feel like another man. My troubles soon left me, and to-day I can certainly give Burdock Blood Bitters a high recommendation to my friends."

SUFFERED AGONY WITH NEURALGIA

CAMPBELLVILLE, ONT., May 5th, 1913.

"I cannot speak too highly of "Fruit-a-tives". For over thirty years, I have suffered from Chronic Neuralgia and Constipation, experiencing untold agony. The Neuralgia settled in my lungs and I took bottle after bottle of medicine without relief. The doctor told me I would not get better but "Fruit-a-tives" proved that the doctor was wrong, by giving me quick relief and finally and completely curing me.

I would not have my present health if it was not for "Fruit-a-tives" and I am glad of the opportunity of giving you this letter about such a splendid remedy as "Fruit-a-tives", for the guidance of other women who may be similarly affected"

MRS. NATHAN DUNN.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine made from fruit juices and is particularly suited to women because of its mild action and pleasant taste.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or may be obtained from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Weak Heart

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, the heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which does no bad after-effect. Such is which contains no dangerous narcotics or alcohol.

It helps the human system in the constant manufacture of rich, red blood. It helped the stomach to assimilate or take up the proper elements from the food, thereby helping digestion and curing dyspepsia, heart-burn and many uncomfortable symptoms, stops excessive tissue waste in convalescence from fevers; for the run-down, anaemic, thin-blooded people, the "Discovery" is refreshing and vitalizing.

In liquid or tablet form at most drug stores or send 50 one-cent stamps for trial box to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO BE A GENTLEMAN?

Noted Writer Defines the Meaning of the Word

A gentleman is one who strives to be truthful, courageous and honorable in word, thought and act; clean in mind and in body, and unselfish, considerate and courteous in his relation to others. By the word courteous I do not mean an over-parade of politeness. On the contrary, the man who is too ostentatiously polite is seldom sufficiently "sure" of himself to be quite a gentleman. Your truly courteous man quietly and unobtrusively stands back to let a woman or an old man precede him in entering an omnibus or tram car. Your merely polite one possibly waves an effusive hand and protests "Ladies first," or "After you, sir." One very pretty instance of tact and courtesy comes to my memory as I write. A train which happened to be very full was just starting, and a hunchbacked man with crutches was anxiously but unsuccessfully looking for a seat. "There is room for one in here," said a young fellow sitting near the door. As a matter of fact, there was no room, but as the hunchback entered, the young fellow quietly slipped out. He knew that the hunchback, handicapped by crutches, was in likelihood of being left behind. Ostentatiously to have given up his own seat would have drawn some attention to the other's deformity, so, as I say, he slipped out without comment to find another seat, or possibly to stand for the remainder of the journey.

His cap had possibly cost him six pence-halfpenny, and had seen its best days. He was dressed in a soiled and shoddy suit, and his unblacked boots were badly patched. But as I standing just outside the carriage out of which he got, and so seeing and hearing everything, threw open the door of another compartment, so that he might jump in, I raised my hat as punctiliously to that gentleman as if he had been the great Chesterfield himself, of whose last spoken words on earth, "Give Dr. Dayrolles a chair," the comment was made: "Superb! The man's breeding does not desert him even in death."—Canadian Courier.

How cut laid to 4 years of suffering

Mr. J. H. Brownell, a Justice of the Peace and station master at Wellington, on the P. E. I. Ry., says: "Four years ago I fell on a freight truck, sustaining a bad cut on the front of my leg. I thought this would heal, but instead it developed into a bad ulcer, and later into a form of eczema which spread very rapidly and also started on the other leg. Both legs became so swollen and sore that I could only go about my work by having them bandaged.

"I consulted two doctors, and tried all the salves, liniments and lotions I heard of, but instead of getting better I got worse.

How Zam-Buk cured.

"This was my condition when I got my first box of Zam-Buk. Greatly to my delight that first box gave me relief. I continued to apply it to the sores, and day by day they got better. I could see that at last I had got hold of something which would cure me, and in the end it did.

"It is now over a year since Zam-Buk worked a cure in my case, and there has been no return of the eczema."

Purely herbal in composition, Zam-Buk is a sure cure for all skin diseases, such eczema, chapped hands, ulcers, blood-poisoning, varicose sores, piles, ringworm, scalp troubles, cuts, burns and bruises. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

RELIGION IN FRANCE

Eminent Divine Considers It Will Not Not Return to Monarchy

There are ten million out of a total population of forty million people in France who receive communion, while more than thirty million out of the forty contribute in one way or another to support the Roman Catholic Church throughout the Republic, stated the Rev. Canon Degranges, while on a visit to Montreal. He also referred to the awakening of Catholic sentiment amongst the better families, and to-day a good many of the sons of the best families of the Republic are recruiting for the priesthood.

The question was put to the Canon as regards the future form of government for his mother land, and he said that he did not look for the restoration either of the monarchists, as represented by the Duke of Orleans, or of the Empire, as represented by Prince Victor Bonaparte.

The idea of a priestly life in France, he added, is not to play a part in political affairs, but to loyally serve the Government of the peoples' choice. Catholics do demand, however, the re-opening of relations with the Vatican, as the present state of affairs places the Catholic Church of France at a great disadvantage alongside those of Germany and other countries.

The relations of the Catholic people with church property, he considered, should be modified. The Canon cited the case of Quebec, where the Protestants have their own schools and the Catholics theirs.

There is an indication, he said, that the directing minds of the French Republic are coming to see that the state cannot live independently of the Church, and that religion is absolutely necessary to the soul. He believed in fact, that men like Poincare, Ribot, Briand and many others, admit this truth, although they will not avow it openly.

THE MEN CANADA NEEDS

In a foreword to special supplement devoted to Canada and its development, Leo Scheff refers with pardonable sarcasm to the lurid warnings of the prophets who fear that all the bright hopes as to Canada's future have been quenched, and that the Dominion has arrived at the end of all things. Mr. Scheff says that the peccadilloes of a young and vigorous community cannot banish a country's natural wealth and inherent possibilities. The future is Canada's, but not everybody can share it. It is not a country for the no'er-do-well, the born tired, or the get-rich-quick-without-much-work type. It is well that this should be kept ever before the people of the motherland. There is a tremendous lot of work yet to be done on the land in the making of Canada, and the folk we need to do it are the shirt-sleeve masses, not the speculative classes who create booms and haunt city streets.—Toronto Globe.

Cinemas Give Musicians Work

There is a scarcity of musicians in Birmingham owing to the large number of picture palaces which have been built there during the last few years (seven seventy new hold licenses) and which need an orchestra of three, four, or even more players. Strenuous efforts are being made to obtain instrumentalists, and a Birmingham palace made unsuccessful application to a professional violoncello player in Germany to come over at a salary of $25.00 a week. Several amateur orchestral societies are threatened with extinction, some of their players having given up their ordinary callings for theatre engagements.

World's Output of Iron

According to a return of the British Board of Trade, the world's output of iron ore in 1913 was about 142 million tons, a figure which represents an increase of 10 per cent. on the previous year's production. The principal producing countries were the United States, Germany, France, the United Kingdom, and Spain, in the order named.

America, Germany, and the United Kingdom accounted for about seven-ninths of the world's output of pig-iron, estimated at seventy-two million tons, and for three-fourths of the aggregate production of steel amounting to about fifty-five million tons.

SLASHING THE PICTURE FAILS TO AROUSE THE NATIVES OF LONDON

Few Persons Outside of Art Circles Are Deeply Stirred by the Act of the Malignant Suffragette—Hotel Proprietors Are Likely to Suffer by Closing of the Galleries.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

EXCEPT in art circles it is curious to observe the general apathy with which London has taken the outrage in the National Gallery, where the suffragette May Richardson slashed the Rokeby Venus, which cost $225,000, and the closing of all the galleries for fear of further suffragette raids. The average London native seldom sees the galleries. It is travellers in London who will be the sufferers as a result of the senseless vandalism.

Hotel managers chiefly are alarmed and are wondering what will happen with the closing of all places of interest, including the museums, the State apartments at Windsor and other public places, for it is Americans who are the chief patrons of these places. The last time the authorities took a similar step, it is remembered, many Americans who were in Europe gave London a miss, so all are now wondering if they will do the same again when London has got nothing to show them except the theatres and music halls, many of which are closed the better part of the summer. So London stands to lose many thousands of dollars through one fanatic's malevolence.

There was only one largely attended social function in London in the week, this being Mrs. Lewis Harcourt's first fortnightly "at home," when there was a constant stream of peers and peeresses and all the notable persons, chiefly supporters of the government, all afternoon. It was a very brilliant spectacle. The double drawing rooms at No. 14 Berkeley square were gay with fragrant azaleas, tulips and lilies. Mrs. Harcourt wore a modish dress of the new chiffon moire which resembles velvet, a narrow fur edging the collar and a wide tartan ribbon encircling the waist.

The out of town chief event was the National Hunt steeplechase at Cheltenham, which, owing to the wonderfully warm weather, drew a record crowd of notable persons. The Earl and Countess of Coventry came from Croome Court with a party and the Earl and Countess of Suffolk brought a party from Charlton Park. Others with parties included Princess Hatzfeldt, the Duke of Richmond, the Earl of Essex, the Earl of Sefton, the Earl and Countess of Bathurst and the Marquis of Cholmondeley. In fact, never before was such a crowd of titled personages seen at these races, fashionable though the event be.

Meanwhile the King and Queen keep busy doing their best to make things lively and also calling on the poorer class of their subjects.

A lifting of the pall of pomp and solemnity from Buckingham Palace seems beginning. It is known that there already have been parties for young people at the Palace and after Lent there will be more, but there is more entertaining at the present than there has been for years.

The King's small bachelor dinners are to be extended and a series of dinners given both by the King and Queen to their intimate friends will be a feature of the season. There were two last week and on another evening the King and Queen met a company of select friends at dinner at the house of Lord and Lady Granard, at No. 5 Halkin street, the residence which Mr. Ogden Mills rebuilt and presented to his daughter as a wedding gift.

Only one table was used for the distinguished company of thirty-five. The Queen was escorted from the reception room to the dining room by Lord Granard, Lady Granard leaning on the arm of the King. Lady Granard wore a lovely dress of pale mauve charmeuse embroidered with pearls and diamonds.

On another afternoon the King, accompanied by the Queen, Princess Mary and Prince Waldemar of Denmark, went to the hunter show at the Royal Agricultural Hall, when the King presented the championship cup given by himself to the winner.

On another day Queen Mary, on charity bent, went herself to the St. Agnes Home at Croydon, where there are 250 crippled girls, and brought joy to many young hearts with that gentle sympathy as characteristic of her. The Queen walked round the wards, talking now with one little girl and now with another. In the basket making room many cripples were busy making toys and baskets with cane.

"I must have two of these little chairs," said the Queen, picking up two doll house chairs made of cane. Looking round the room she noticed one tiny girl, Kathleen Unwin, was making a basket. Crossing to her, the Queen asked:—

"Doesn't the cane hurt your fingers?"

"Isn't the sun shining in your eyes?" asked the Queen while she smoothed the pillow.

"Yes, ma'am, it is," was the answer.

"Shall I move you round?" asked the Queen.

The girl replied that she would like it, and the Queen gently turned the child round in a more comfortable position.

All the girls felt quite at home with the "gentlema'am," as they described the Queen.

"I'm so proud that I hardly know what to do with myself," said Kathleen Unwin. "Fancy the Queen speaking to me!"

But it will not be until after Easter that London will wake up. Whatever may be the cause, very few Americans who have come over recently have remained in town, but the increasing list of balls and small dances contemplated after Easter will make an exacting programme. Already not a single free night remains in May, and June is almost booked up.

Countess Torby, who has not hitherto given a ball in London, is giving one for her daughters on June 11.

Another interesting ball will be that of the Eighty Club, with Mrs. Lewis Harcourt as hostess. It is many years since Lansdowne House has been the scene of a big ball, so that a ball there is eagerly welcomed by the youthful members of society. The ball will be given to celebrate the début of Lord and Lady Lansdowne's eldest granddaughter, the second child of the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, Lady Maud Cavendish, who is a handsome, dark haired girl who has enjoyed the society of Princess Mary since her nursery days.

Of even greater importance will be a ball at Devonshire House for the coming out of Lady Maud Cavendish, when the King and Queen and Prince of Wales will attend.

PRINCESS YOLANDA'S OUTDOOR TRAINING A STUDY ON THE SEA SHORE

The King of Italy's eldest child is here seen riding bareleggod on the beach. The sisters and their brother are being brought up with a considerable amount of open air training. Princess Yolanda (who also enjoys the possession of the names Margherita Milena Elisabetta Romana Maria) is now twelve years old.

MYSTERY OF A MISSING BARONET

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

"NO information can be obtained by the Registrar as to Sir Henry Burnaby. It is not known whether he is alive."

This is a note appended to the baronetcy of Burnaby, of Broughton Hall, Oxfordshire, in an official roll of the baronets, which has just been issued.

What has become of Sir Henry Burnaby, of Broughton Hall? Is this another tragedy of the "Lost Sir Massingberd" type; or is Sir Henry wandering, an old man of nearly ninety, somewhere in Spain, where he had relatives, and among whose people he found his wife?

The baronetcy appears in the latest issue of "Debrett" without any indication that the holder of the title is missing. That Sir Henry Burnaby has disappeared, however, there cannot be any doubt.

"If any one can find him I shall be very much obliged," said Mr. R. F. Reynard, Assistant Registrar of the Baronetage, to a reporter. "I have inquired in every likely direction, but can find no trace of him or even of any of his relatives."

Mr. Reynard added that Sir Henry Burnaby was the only baronet of whom he might say that he was "really lost."

"Others are missing," he said, "but I know they are alive somewhere."

Sir Henry Burnaby, who has never assumed the title, was formerly in the navy. He was born in 1838, so that if he is still living he will be eighty-five years old. No heir can be traced, but he had Spanish relations, for in 1883 he married Carmen Maria, only daughter of the late Señor Mariano Torrento, of Madrid.

HOW "OBEY" CREPT IN MARRIAGE CEREMONY

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

THE researches initiated by the Bishop of Oxford into the word "obey" in the marriage service are now nearly complete.

Before the Bishop of Lincoln brought up the question of the deletion of "obey" in the Canterbury Convocation, the Bishop of Oxford asked Dr. Percy Dearmer, vicar of St. Mary's, Primrose Hill, to investigate the point.

"The Church of England," said Dr. Dearmer to a representative of the press, "is the only historic Church which has unequal vows in its marriage service. The word 'obey' is quite exceptional in Christian liturgies. As far as I have discovered, up to the thirteenth century there was no example of unequal vows. The man said what the woman said. In the late Middle Ages they began to appear in certain North German service books and in certain English ones, but they do not appear in the Roman Catholic books nor in those of the Eastern, the Greek and the Russian creeds.

"Before the Reformation there were a number of books in use in England; the principal were those of York, Sarum and Hereford. The only one which contained the principle of unequal vows was that of Sarum, yet the Reformers, who wanted to do away with mediæval abuses, adopted that very one.

"Now that the history of 'obey' is known I do not think it has any chance of standing."

FARMERS PROTEST AGAINST TREES

London, March 21.
(Special Dispatch.)

A CAMPAIGN to alter the scenery of the whole face of England has been much discussed and, in fact, begun by farmers.

Quite a violent protest against hedges and hedge timber was made by the chairman at a meeting of the Hertfordshire Farmers. One man estimated that every tree did him $1 a year. Nothing grew at all within range of its roots. The tree simply stood there "eating its head off" and benefiting neither landlord nor tenant. A well known Hampshire farmer, Edwards the hedge, as a waster of ground, a nursery of weeds and a harborer of grain eating sparrows and rats.

A farmer of about three hundred acres estimated a direct loss of fifteen acres, say £30 a year, from hedgerow and trees, and an indirect loss of £12 by reason of the poor produce in their neighborhood. If the effect of the hedge as a base for the operations of sparrows and vermin be considered at least another £12 would be added, making a total of £54, or about one-fifth of the rent.

A definite suggestion for the taxation of every tree over a certain age has been suggested. The credit side of the [illegible] the hedge and tree as a [illegible] shade and a thing of beauty was maintained; and yet [illegible] Britain the government is now planting trees for the sake of economy at the request of the farmer! Who is right?

DRESS LESS IF YOU'D BE MORAL

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

ARE we overclothed? Sir Thomas Dewar is of opinion that we are, and in an interview with your correspondent stated that his big game hunting expedition to British East Africa, from which he has just returned, was largely due to his wish to escape from civilisation with its many barbarities.

"We dwell in a vicious atmosphere, in small rooms, over here, we patronise overheated restaurants, and, though we eat three meals a day, we go only about one mile in exercise," said Sir Thomas. "Out there in British East Africa one native on one meal a day, composed of water flour often half mud and a handful of maize flour, is able to run fifty miles a day in Nature's open air, and I kept fit [illegible] during my stay, perfectly fit. That is why I am making [illegible] expedition—to the White Nile—this time in November.

"The finest and most moral tribe I met on my expedition," continued Sir Thomas, "are the Kavirondo. Men and women alike wear only a happy smile and a good conscience.

"Yet their morals are amazingly high, and I have come to the conclusion that it is when the desire begins to wear clothes that the trouble begins.

"One of the great demands of the child of the Mafeking to-day is for gramophone records of the songs of Alfred [illegible] in other words, Harry Lauder."

A SHRINKING ARMY.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

SERIOUS depletions in the strength of the army are shown by the annual report on the British Army for the year ending September 30, 1913.

The total strength of the regular and special reserve, [illegible] &c., was 718,286, as against an establishment of 804,730, or a shortage of nearly one hundred thousand.

With regard to the regular army, the total strength, exclusive of men serving on the staff and in sundry miscellaneous establishments, was 247,280, the lowest figure in the decade for which figures are given, and comparing with [illegible]

To complete the establishment, 9,000 of all ranks were wanted, as compared with 3,677 in 1912.

The special reserve stood at one short, or 17,287 below establishment. The Territorial force numbered 269,620 officers and men—a shortage of 63,969.

There was a serious slump in recruiting. Last year 39,621 recruits enlisted, or 7,000 fewer than in 1912. The recruits for the special reserve, numbering 18,054, showed a decrease of 2,997.

Wireless Craze Grips London

Aerials Everywhere in English Capital and Societies Are Formed to Boom Hobby.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

WIRELESS telegraphy is supplanting pigeon keeping and music as the favorite hobby of the suburban artisan. Everywhere in London aerials may be seen, and people are "picking up" the messages that are borne in the air. So popular has the new hobby become that eighteen months ago a wireless society was founded in London. That society now boasts of some five hundred members, and similar clubs have been established in Derby, Manchester, Liverpool and Croydon.

"Wireless is booming as the best hobby," said a prominent member of the Wireless Society of London to your correspondent. "Four years ago only about a hundred people applied for licenses in the course of a year—now at least a thousand send in applications annually. In order to check the numbers the government charged a guinea for a license, but that had no effect. Now no one is granted a license unless they are qualified in some respect. In the past there was occasionally some confusion caused by the indiscriminate use of wireless, but now that has been successfully averted.

"The members of the society [illegible] constantly in wireless communication with one another. With the receiver clapped on, indeed, you feel that you have your ear to the keyhole of the world. People are not by any means getting sick of the hobby. There is, you see, much to be accomplished on the experimental side, and many of our members have patented valuable inventions.

"A complete outfit that will send ten miles and receive from Paris or Berlin costs thirty dollars—while it could be made from spare parts for ten dollars. One set—which will send from one room to another—can be bought for five dollars. The police keep their eyes open very wide for unlicensed operators. They often call at a house and ask to see the license, and if it is not forthcoming notice is given to remove the apparatus within a certain period."

BARREL ORGAN AT A BALL

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

DESCRIBING the annual Savoy fancy of the Continental edition of the Daily dress ball at Cairo, the correspondent Mail says:—

When the fun was at its height the door at the far end of the hall was unceremoniously jerked open and a barrel organ was wheeled through the crowd into the middle of the room. The Italian organ grinders—with military mustaches—had a weary looking fellow with a scraggy beard, but with a voice reputed to outrival Caruso's, a pavement artist who mechanically exhibited his wares, and the prettiest of little monkeys ever possessed by the street music fraternity. Of course it was at once surrounded by a bevy of beautiful ladies, who petted and cooed until the Italian organ grinder snatched him back—out of sheer envy.

The organ grinders struck up a beautiful old fashioned tune which captivated the dancing spirit of every one present. Spontaneously the men seized their partners and whirled dreamily round while the orchestra looked on in silence. And when the time came to an end the dancers insisted on an encore!

Coat of Arms of County Council

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

THOUGH warned not to make itself ridiculous by assuming "airs of ancient lineage," the London County Council has decided to decorate itself with a coat of arms. It recently supplied an official automobile to its chairman, Mr. Cyril Cobb, and it was from the chairman that the proposal came. He wants a coat of arms on his automobile.

It was one of the funniest debates, conducted in all seriousness, that ever raised the dust in that sedate body of peers, baronets, knights and parvenus, the parvenus being much in the majority; hence the determination to have a coat of arms, which is to have the Tower of London as a prominent feature, originally established as Major Lavita Sp[illegible] remarked, a menace to London's citizens, and the motto is to be "The sweetness of the place keeps us back."

Viscount [illegible] ridiculed the idea, saying that, on the contrary, "sweetness is far from being the distinguishing element of London; in fact, it is a fortunate circumstance that everybody is glad to get out of it."

Mr. W. C. J[illegible]son, the deputy chairman, voted against the principal, comparing the council to a "newly rich man going to Wardour-street to buy old furniture and pictures of his ancestors."

Major Gray was for the coat of arms, denying that it was anti-democratic. "America," he said, "dotes on the English peerage, and he asked triumphantly, "was not the 'Star Spangled Banner' copied from the coat of arms of George Washington?"

But the parvenus were impervious to ridicule. Their hearts were set on the Tower of London for a device, and "The sweetness of the place" for a motto, and so it will be.

"This," said Mr. C. J. Matthew, K. C., "is one of the effects of our having become carriage folk. Next will come the race and robes."

WOMEN PHYSICIANS POPULAR IN LONDON

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

FIFTY years ago there was not a single female physician in the United Kingdom. To-day more than seven hundred women are qualified medical practitioners, and the total will soon reach four figures.

"There is a great and increasing demand among women for the woman physician," said a Harley street woman specialist to a correspondent. "They simply won't go to a man. It is not that they think men less efficient than women, but women feel more comfortable in consulting their own sex, and the women out-patients of the hospitals are quite as sensitive as their richer sisters.

"Facilities for training are very good nowadays, but the difficulty is that, once qualified, women get no fair opportunity of holding the higher positions at hospitals."

"There is a wide field open to women physicians among the poor of their own sex. Established less than a year ago in two humble shops in Newington Causeway, the South London Hospital for Women, to-day is known throughout the home counties, and its out-patients come from Essex, Hertford, Kent and Surrey, Woolwich and Battersea, Hackney and Greenwich, Deptford and Kensington.

Danish Prince Is Farmhand

Nephew of Queen Alexandra Is Learning Agriculture in Gloucestershire Fields.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

PRINCE ERIC OF DENMARK, a nephew of Queen Alexandra, is living the simple, hard working, hard playing life of an English farmer's son at Fairford, in Gloucestershire. His father is Prince Waldemar, Queen Alexandra's youngest brother.

He is a third son, and destined, like the scions of English royalty, for a sphere in accordance with the tastes and pursuits of his country. In Denmark these are farming. So twenty-year-old Prince Eric is learning wheat growing, cattle raising, dairy farming and pig keeping in the British way, which the Danish Minister of Agriculture most admires.

Many day Prince Eric may be seen at work like a farmhand. Fairford folk were eager to fête him and spoil him, but hours of leisure are passed with the farmer's family or on an excursion to a football match, for the Prince is an ardent footballer, or on a family call to see Queen Alexandra at Sandringham, at none of which he is in danger of being spoiled.

Denmark's Minister of Agriculture, who counselled this life for Prince Eric, allowing his own daughter to be general servant to a middle class English family, that she may be practically expert in household duties and so avoid the pitfalls before the mere theorist.

INSTANCE OF DOG'S MATERNAL LOVE

With Litter of Puppies Makes Eight Mile Journey Four Times to Bring Them Home.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

THERE lived in the village of A——, says the Cologne Gazette, a countryman who kept a watchdog. The village lies high among the hills of Southern Westphalia, and the air is shrewd, the roads bad, and sometimes almost impassable, as is often the case in mountainous regions.

One day this countryman had to go to a neighboring village on matters of business. The road was in a wretched condition and the distance there and back was upward of eight miles. His dog was with young, so he left her behind to spare her the strain of the long journey. But when he had travelled a considerable distance from home, suddenly the dog put in an appearance and insisted on accompanying her master.

After doing his business the countryman was starting on his way home, when he noticed that his dog had meanwhile given birth to a litter of puppies. He was a man of tender heart, and thinking the journey back would be too much for the dog in her condition he left her behind, intending to fetch her and her puppies home at some future convenient time.

In passing through his yard next morning he came upon the dog lying in a corner of the stable. The brave creature, impelled by the strength of her maternal love, had gone backward and forward four times in order to bring all her puppies home, seeking in this way to reconcile her duties to her master and her puppies. Of course, she was in a pitiable condition, absolutely exhausted, and her feet a mere mass of sores, but she recovered.

Bookbinding and Illuminating Art Revived by English Craftsmen

Two Men at Work Eighteen Months in Producing a "Romeo and Juliet," Which, with Four Hundred Precious Stones in the Morocco Cover, Sold for $5,000.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

A LITTLE band of craftsmen is reviving the superb bookbinding and illuminating which were once the pride of the nuns and monks who dwelt in old English monasteries. They do not devote a lifetime to a "Horae Beatae Mariae Virginis," but will spend many months in transcribing and binding a "Romeo" or an "Omar Khayyam."

The latest production—and the masterpiece—is a "Romeo and Juliet," which has just been sent off to a Continental collector. It has been prepared by Messrs. Riviere & Son, whose manager told a correspondent that it represented the work of two men for eighteen months.

"The illuminating," he said, "was executed by Alberto Sangorski, who is one of the very few artists who understand this work. The borders and miniatures are all quite original. How does it compare with the old 'Horae?' Well, in those days the borders were certainly very fine, but people's faces were not so good as these in the 'Romeo.' Illuminating has come to the front again only within the last few years, and it is going to be very popular.

"As for the binding, there are four hundred precious stones glittering in the pink Levant morocco. Altogether the book is our masterpiece. We have sold to a Continental collector, but we could easily have disposed of it in New York. It is improbable that, unless specially commissioned to do so, we shall produce another book in expensive for three or four years. There is, however, always a [illegible] for such a volume. The difficulty is to produce it. Some of the best examples are bought by American millionnaires. 'Omar Khayyam' and Walton's 'Compleat Angler' are both popular subjects for expensive binding. I certainly think that modern bookbinding is more accurate than the old. The technique is better, but whether it will stand the test of time so well is another matter. A separate leather case is always provided to contain a richly bound book."

It is understood that the price realized for "Romeo and Juliet" was about $5,000. There certainly has been a great revival of interest recently in bookbinding. One of the best examples of ancient binding is now in the possession of the Society of Antiquaries. It is the Winchester Domesday Book, of the twelfth century, and is bound in "blind" stamped dark brown morocco. Whether it is preferable to the present style is a matter of taste, but most collectors prefer the ancient. It is mellow and not too bright and dazzling. An illuminated fifteenth century "Horace" recently in the market was priced at $4,750.

Difference of Opinion.

Washington Star:—"There is only a slight difference of opinion between myself and the political economist," remarked Mr. Dustin Stax, blandly.

"And what is that?"

"He thinks my business should be managed for the benefit of the public, while my idea is that the public should be managed for the benefit of my business."

Heard on the Train.

Boston Transcript:—"Not married yet! Why, I heard months ago that you were engaged to a certain young lady in Malden."

"No. I was engaged to an uncertain young lady in Malden and that's why I'm not married."

King George Has Collection of 2,000 Famous Walking Sticks

(Special Dispatch.)
London, March 21.

A CABLE despatch from New York published in the London newspapers tells how President Wilson has been presented with Andrew Jackson's heavy stick, which recalls that King George is among those who treasure sticks of the famous. No fewer than two thousand of these, which belonged to his father, are now in his possession.

King Edward, like many famous men, regarded his stick almost as a friend, and was rarely seen without one. His favorite was regularly carried by Queen Victoria. This remarkable stick was fashioned from a branch of the Boscobel oak which once concealed Charles II. when escaping from Cromwell's soldiers. Queen Victoria had it altered somewhat, and a little tiger from Seringapatam was inserted as a knob. Naturally enough, this is greatly treasured by King George.

Mr. Howell, of Messrs. Henry Howell & Co., the largest stick manufacturers in the world, discussing sticks of noteworthy men, said:—"Most intellectual men have a perfect battery of walking sticks, and they show an extraordinary affection for them—regarding them, indeed, as companions. Some men have a special stick for every suit.

"King Edward liked the round hook shape, though at present the straight top, tipped with silver or gold, is fashionable. The late King gave the round hook shape a [illegible] impetus in popularity.

"The ancient Egyptians used sticks with knobs and hooks, exactly the same as the present, and they were universally fashionable with them. In later days they were introduced into fashion by Henry II. of France. Women in olden days, as at present, were generally keen on walking sticks. The Queen Elizabeth put boys to an unpleasant use. The strong minded monarch employed them for beating her maids of honor.

"Charles the First's walking stick played an ominous trick, for during the fateful trial at Westminster Hall its head fell off. Henry VIII. was fond of a stick, and Cardinal Wolsey's patronage as ecclesiastic also established with twisted sticks. Johnson's was of a sturdy nature, but Goldsmith's malacca cane, now in the Kensington Museum, had some charming gold mounts. In the club room of the Royal College of Physicians there is preserved a gold headed cane, which [illegible] of the doctor's profession, [illegible] used by the celebrated Dr. Radcliffe, who attended Queen Mary; also [illegible] by four other eminent physicians.

"One of the most [illegible] existence is owned by a [illegible] the Glory, and was made [illegible] ears placed on a short [illegible] sticks are more popular than ever, also because they promote physical development. The latest styles are straight, with [illegible] a hook, and are ornamented at the top with plain gold or with gold and ivory. They are much in demand for wedding presents. The King, Mr. Winston Churchill and Lord Rosebery are all fond of carrying sticks as walking aids."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

HELEN DROPS HER HANDKERCHIEFS

The most interesting visitor at the Hoher Spitz Hotel, until Captain Adamant arrived there, was the Hon. Helen Careening, only child of the late Lord Traquair, and his American wife, Mariquita Vannorden. Helen inherited not only the traditional Traquair beauty, but her mother's fabulous millions.

At their first meeting recognition dawned in Helen's eyes, and she said sweetly:

"Surely—it is Captain Adamant?" she said. "I heard you lecture at the Royal Geographical."

"I saw you on the platform with the duke," he said. "You are Miss Careening."

Helen's cheeks dimpled suddenly, mischieviously. "I wasn't labelled!"

"But I asked your name," said the man, quite simply.

"Helen," timidly volunteered Lady Jane Balham, Helen's cousin and chaperone. "Captain Adamant, is not like the rest of them. He would not understand coquetry."

"You waste your pity this time, Cousin Jane," said Helen. "I didn't come her to play with Captain Adamant. I called to—" she broke off short, but her eyes glowed, and a little, tender smile crept about the corners of her lips, the smile of a woman who knows she has happiness in her gift—and does not intend to withhold it.

"Oh, Jane! Don't look at me with such saucer eyes!" she said. "Sit down again and tell me how pretty I am, and that you're quite sure I shall bring it off."

Jane sat down again. Presently she recovered her powers of speech.

Then you knew he would come here?" she accused. Helen nodded.

"Overhead the Duke tell Major Darwin — they both thought it such an odd choice for a man who spends his days 'round about the equator. I'd made up my mind about him at once, you know—when he lectured—and this seemed such a very convenient meeting-place because, of course, he must never guess I came to—find him." She laughed again, very softly and sweetly. "He would be so frightfully shocked, he would think it quite—unwomanly. I am sure he is terribly old-fashioned, men from the wilderness always are!"

Lady Balham squeezed the strong slim fingers. "I'm sure I hope you'll be very happy, dear. I thought he had a good face—"

Miss Helen Careening had been an object of hourly interest to the 147 other visitors at the Grand Hotel. Captain Adamant and Miss Careening were still more thrilling. They tobogganed together, skated together, went skiing together, and it was even reported that they played bridge in the evenings in Miss Careening's private sitting room.

All this sounded promising to lovers of romance. On the other hand, practical people pointed out that it was frankly incredible that the Hon. Helen Careening should ever dream of stooping to a mere captain from a marching regiment, the son of a poor country parson, even though he had made a considerable name for himself in the hinterlands of West Africa.

His eyes spoke, but his mouth hat like iron when they did so, and Helen, who usually slept like a child, tossed more than one long night, wondering why he set this watch upon his lips?

He loved, and knew she loved, and yet — he would not speak. The riddle grew into terror lest he meant to go back to Africa—alone.

Helen took her skis and slipped out of the hotel by herself to think this over late one afternoon.

Her eyes filled with tears, but she held them back angrily, and when the mist cleared from them grew conscious that Adamant was at her side. He asked no permission, but took her hand as though it were his right and they flew onward together. Adamant began to speak. He told her of his plans for his work in Africa, plans in which she evidently had no share.

"You are very eloquent to-day, Captain Adamant!" at length she said in a haughty voice that this man had never heard from her lips, though other men knew it well. It seemed to pass him by, for he smiled a little and said:

"Don't you think it should make a man eloquent to have a woman like you listen to him?"

He looked at her, and his eyes caressed her, but his lips shut in the way she knew, and Helen's spirits rose in anger; how dared he play with her so!

And she spoke slightingly. "You should find a wife, if you feel the need of an audience to trying in your backwoods." She noted with satisfied pride that her tone was perfect—just the princess advising her page. But Adamant smiled a little.

"Unfortunately no woman has ever—thrown me the handkerchief," he said.

"Do you mean you are waiting for some woman to propose to you?" she asked.

"Not some woman—one woman—" he began slowly.

Helen interrupted.

"Surely the man must do the wooing?" But though she counterfeited careless amusement, dimly she began to understand, and her heart beat.

"When the man has something to offer," he answered her curtly, bringing out his words with visible effort. "When he has nothing to give—when he can only ask sacrifices from the woman he loves—when she stands above him like a queen . . . then it is his part to wait in silence, and see if she will stoop as queens must do and raise him to her side."

"Has the man nothing to give?"

"His whole heart!" said Rex unsteadily. "His first love. But what is that? It is woman's prerogative to be loved. She should have more than that, and this man has nothing to offer except a life of exile, a life of hardship in a lonely land that drains a woman's youth and beauty."

She felt his eyes upon her, but still she could not look at him. He spoke again, and his voice was hoarse.

"I saw you when I lectured!" he said. "The duke asked me to Trevor—I heard you would be there—I came here to avoid you, because already I loved you too much to ask you anything at all. I found you here before me — and I would have gone next day, only—only——" he halted. Helen forced herself at last to meet his glance.

"I drop my handkerchief!" she said gravely.

Radway's Ready Relief

Chas. E. Stilborn, 27 Elm St., writes: "For years I have been suffering from asthma and bronchitis. A week ago I purchased a bottle of Radway's Ready Relief and have taken a teaspoonful to relieve bad cough each night. The relief I have experienced is marvellous. I can honestly recommend it."

Yearn For Food Don't Spurn It

Unless you have a real hearty desire for food you should by all means take no chances of stomach trouble, for loss of appetite means a signal of distress from a deranged digestion.

When the stomach wants food it signals this mind through the nerves, and these excite the taste buds in the mouth which at once secrete large quantities of saliva. This is called "mouth water," and all of us know when our "mouths water" we want food.

"There's an appetite that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets gave me."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets very quickly restore appetite by making the stomach want food. The stomach readily recovers from indigestion, dyspepsia, etc., as soon as it is enabled to digest food. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after each meal quickly digest that meal and thus wonderfully rest the stomach.

In a short time the digestion assumes its normal condition and then appetite—and a good appetite, too—is the natural consequence. One may actually fatten a few. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets place them in a close tube with meat, grains, vegetables, etc., and these tablets will digest the contents of the tube without aid.

Just think then how quickly and efficiently they act when they are mixed with the food in one's system and what a great relief it is to the digestive apparatus to have its fluids so enriched.

Go to your druggist to-day and obtain a 50 cent box and make the actual test yourself after you have eaten a large and hearty meal.

TORREON TOTTERING.

JUAREZ, March 25.—Gomez Palacio was in the hand of the rebels yesterday, according to information given out at the office of Gen. Chao here, and Gen. Benavides, at the head of the Zaragoza brigade, was moving against Torreon.

Later unofficial advices say the rebels were fighting yesterday in the very streets of Torreon, the great objective point of the campaign. A message has been received from Col. Trevino, an officer on the staff of Gen. Eugenio Aguirre Benavides, to his brother in this city, which says that Benavides had taken two cuartels or barracks in the city of Torreon. The telegram added:

If Trevino's private message does not prove misleading, it is said to show that Gen. Villa, after his long and careful preparations, has conducted a whirlwind campaign. Beginning Friday he swept down from the north and took Bermejillo, about 30 miles north of Torreon. Without halting his forces he pressed southward and drew in from other directions under Gen. Velasco and his Federal troops were cut off from the outside world.

Thus in five days, if Trevino's report proves true, Villa has all but accomplished the object of his first campaign. He has been quoted repeatedly as intending to start from Torreon on the 707-mile trip to the City of Mexico.

No statement of casualties in the desperate street fighting in Gomez Palacio Monday night was available.

In the fighting at Gomez Palacio Monday night the rebels captured much of the Federal artillery on Cerro De La Pilar, the mountain near Gomez. They also captured the field furniture and bedding of the Federal commander-in-chief, Gen. Velasco, who was in personal charge of the defense of Gomez Palacio.

Good Rhodes' Eggs.

Cecil Rhodes used to take a coop of hens on board to provide fresh eggs on his numerous voyages between England and South Africa. But those were three weeks' journeys, and not a mere five day crossing of the Atlantic. Hence another prominent South African passenger was asked why he did not follow Rhodes' example and provide himself with the luxury of new laid eggs at sea. "Oh, I don't bother to take a coop of fowls on board," he replied, "but I tip the steward who looks after Rhodes' hens, and I get Rhodes' eggs."

Superstitions of Sailors.

Sailors are full of superstitions. You cannot shake them. You would find it practically impossible to convince sailors that ill luck does not cling to a vessel whose name has been changed or that a craft whose name ends up in "a" does not rest under an evil spell. Persist and you will be asked about the Victoria, sunk in the Mediterranean; the Spitfire, lost off the Channel islands; the Arequipa, ashore on the west coast of America; the Cobra, a destroyer, which broke her back on her maiden voyage in the North sea and the Hannibal, burnt in the harbor at Malta. Of course there are hundreds of records about which bear the unlucky first letter and in which it is safer to travel than on the railway but the list of names is a formidable one.

Then sometimes it is a member of the crew to whom a particularly evil influence is attached; sometimes it is a passenger. But if you want to see a sailorman shiver with superstition let there be some hitch in the outside ceremony of launching. It nearly breaks the native boy's heart.—London Tit-Bits.

YOUTH IN OLD AGE

Possible With Proper Care.

A few generations back a man at 50 was considered old, gray-bearded, and waiting for death. Note the change to-day; at a meeting of the Medico-Legal society it was stated that a man of 50 ought to have forty good years ahead of him and, thus at ninety he is in the fullness of maturity.

What if you have seen sixty, or even seventy birthdays — temperate habits, fresh air and exercise, with a simple diet and a sufficient amount of sleep will guard your health.

If perchance, your circulation is poor, if you become run down — weak and no appetite—nothing in the world will tone up those tired backaching organs—enrich the blood and create strength so quickly as our delicious cod liver and iron tonic Vinol.

We ask every feeble, discouraged old person in this vicinity to try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it fails to give satisfaction.

Professor Blackie's Opinion.

A serious minded lady once tried to lure Professor Blackie into giving his opinion of Sankey's hymns at a time when they had an enormous vogue. The lady was giving the professor lunch, and he tried to fob her off by praising a Stilton cheese on the table. Some time after the lady sent him a copy of Sankey and a piece of the cheese, hoping thus to draw him. She succeeded to the extent of these four lines of verse:

Thrice blessed is she that hath done what she could
To make a lean man fat and a bad man good—
For the body, cheese; for the soul, Sankey;
For both, thankee.

SCIATICA AND LUMBAGO, QUICKLY CURED BY "KEPHALDOL."

A druggist in Toronto said that he was asking an Old Country customer of his about KEPHALDOL TABLETS. This customer told him, "I suffered from severe Rheumatism and Sciatica for twenty years, hardly ever being free from these troubles. I read about KEPHALDOL in the Glasgow papers and sent home for some. Three hours after taking two tablets, the pain was almost gone, and after taking six or seven, I hadn't a bit of pain."

This druggist went in to see his doctor about his wife and asked him if he had ever heard of KEPHALDOL. The doctor said, "Yes, I understand KEPHALDOL is a reliable sedative and anodyne, relieving pain without affecting the heart or vital organs. Since KEPHALDOL has been introduced into Canada, I have prescribed it in cases of severe Headaches and Neuralgia, and just recently succeeded in helping a most severe case of La Grippe with it."

Since then, this druggist has ordered KEPHALDOL and recommended it to those of his customers who wanted something to relieve pain. If you are unable to get KEPHALDOL Tablets at your druggist's, send 50c. to Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour Street, Montreal.

"Our Wretched Sense."

How can we—we who have gained for ourselves health and comfort and knowledge—how can we stand patiently by and see our brother diseased and miserable and ignorant? How can we hear our luxuries as long as a child is growing up in savagery whom we might have saved, or a woman is drooping from sorrow and overwork whom we might have cherished and helped? We are not our own—we are parts of the whole. Generations of workers have toiled for us in the past, and we are in return to carry our wretched sense of to our miserable corner, sharing and giving nothing? Woe upon us if we do.—Mrs. Humphry Ward in "The History of David Grieve."

The Count's Hedge.

The Hague was originally a mere hunting station of the counts of Holland. Its name, freely translated means "the count's hedge." The little town first rose to importance in 1527, when it was made the seat of the supreme court of Holland. In 1584 it became the place of assembly of the states general and the residence of the stadtholders, since when it has been the diplomatic conference place of Europe.

THE LURE OF MAGIC.

Ambition takes queer very differently. One would enter parliament and one would have a play accepted at the court; one would reach the north pole, and one would live at Chislehurst, while a fifth would be happy if only he had a motorcar. Speaking for myself, my ambition has always been to have a conjurer perform under my own roof, and it has just happened. I obtained him from the stores.

I have never been so near magic before. Like all great men when one creeps closely in touch with them, he was quite human, quite like ourselves: so much so indeed that in addition to his fee he wanted his cab fare both ways. It is very human to want things both ways.

I have been wondering how long it would take me to learn to be a conjurer and if it is not too late to begin . . . I don't want to be a finished conjurer. I merely want to do three tricks with reasonable dexterity. Of course if one can do three tricks one can do thirty, but it is large, and three only. I have in mind—first, I want to borrow a watch and put it in a pestle and mortar and grind it to powder and then fire a pistol at a loaf of bread and find the watch whole again in the midst of the crumbs; second, I want to borrow a tall hat and throw in flour and break eggs into it and stir it all up and hold it over a spirit lamp for a second and then produce a beautiful warm cake; third, I want to find sovereigns in old men's beards and little girls' hair.

Tricks with cards and money and so forth I don't mind about, because I would always rather see them done than do them, there is such fascination in the clean, swift movement of the conjurer with cards, his perfect mastery of his fingers, the supple beauty of his hands. And tricks with machinery I would gladly forego.

My conjurer's most popular trick was, of course, that which calls upon the co-operation of a rabbit. I wrote to him in advance to insist on this. No mad white at a children's party produces a live rabbit, particularly when it is very small and fizzing and also black and white, in making a mistake. No matter what has gone before, this apparition will seal his popularity. The end crowns the work (as I could say in Latin if I liked).

It was not only to the children that this trick was welcome, but to his elderly literary friend of mine with whom I have collaborated more than once and into whose life I hoped to put a little brightness by inducing him to bring the tall hat which the wizard should borrow. The thought filled him with excitement. It was bringing radiance indeed into his life to know that this old hat, which had done nothing more romantic than keep his head warm all these years, was to be used for magical purposes and have a real rabbit evaporated from it.—From "Character and Comedy," by E. V. Lucas.

London Shops and Clerks.

In the stores in London the clerks first attracted my attention, but I may say the stores and shops themselves after New York, printed small and old New York is to me now. The upper floors to the more important shops in an considerable. In London it struck me that the space was not much and that the woodwork and walls were dingy. One can tell by the feel of a place whether it is exceptional and profitable, and all of these were that, but they were dingy. The English clerk, too, had an air of civility—I had almost said servility—which was different. They looked to me like individuals born to a condition and a point of view, and I think they are. In America any clerk may subsequently be anything he chooses (ability guaranteed), but I'm not sure that this is true in England. Anyhow, the American clerk always looks his possibilities—his proud future. The English clerk looks as if he were to be one indefinitely.—Theodore Dreiser's "A Traveler at Forty."

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 25, 1914

TURNS N. T. R. FINDING INTO A BOOMERANG

Hon. Geo. P. Graham Riddles the Staunton-Gutelius Document to Pieces in the House.

MISLEADING FIGURES

OTTAWA, March 25.—It was not a defence; it was an attack. By the time Hon. George P. Graham stopped at midnight last night after a four-hours' analysis of the Gutelius-Lynch-Staunton report on the National Transcontinental Railway, there was not a finding of the partisan investigators that had not been riddled, not a criticism of the late Government or of the National Transcontinental Commission that had not been shown to be unjust, and scarcely a point in the whole report that was not turned against its own authors and against the Government which had inspired it.

The debate arose out of the railways and canals report presented by Acting Minister R-16.

Hon. Dr. Reid said he was glad to report satisfactory progress upon the new Welland Ship Canal.

In the case of the Trent Valley Canal the Government hoped soon to have a Lake Ontario outlet.

Turning to railways, Dr. Reid first dealt with the Intercolonial. The revenues for the fiscal year ending the 31st instant were estimated at $13,-623,272, and the expenditures at $13,328,000. This would mean a surplus for the year of about $300,000, which would be passed to the equipment renewal account.

The Prince Edward Island Railway for the fiscal year showed a deficit of $140,000, because of increases in wages and higher prices of fuel.

On the Hudson Bay Railway, the total amount expended to date was $5,881,873. The road would be open for business by the summer of 1915.

Turning now to the National Transcontinental Railway, Dr. Reid said that the expenditures up to Dec. 31 last were $140,562,147, to which he declared should be added the cost of the Quebec bridge—$17,000,000, and the $7,000,000 paid to the stockholders of the old Quebec bridge for scrap iron in the bottom of the St. Lawrence river.

He said $20,745,658 would be required to complete the road, making the aggregate cost of $167,307,800. To this amount the doctor added interest upon money expended during construction, which made the total of $181,787,611. When the G. T. P. started to pay rental it would amount to $7,337,000 per annum.

"Even though the company is even able to pay this incredible rental," Dr. Reid continued, "the country would continue to lose money because all the money invested in this enterprise had cost the Government at least three and a half per cent., and the Grand Trunk Pacific is only to pay three per cent."

The cost of the eastern division, however, from Moncton to Winnipeg had been to enormous that the Government had investigated the matter and found beyond peradventure that $40,000,000 had been wasted through the incompetency of the National Transcontinental Railway Commission appointed by the Laurier Government. Had the Grand Trunk Pacific built the entire road as a business proposition it would have cost a hundred million dollars less than the Government had managed to squander upon it.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham accused the acting Minister of Railways of deliberately misleading the House by padding his figures in order to discredit a great national undertaking. The acting Minister had not scrupled to add $41,000,000, the interest for the first seven years of operation, to his estimate, for which he knew there was not the slightest foundation.

"He did this," said Mr. Graham, "in the teeth of the statute which says no such interest shall be included."

Mr. Graham then referred to the report of the Gutelius and Lynch-Staunton commission as one prepared by partisans for party purposes. The commission, he said, consisted of a Conservative politician who acted as a Conservative politician throughout and a hired man borrowed from the Canadian Pacific, who did the bidding of the Canadian Pacific throughout. The counsel, however, he said, received two instructions from the Government. The first was to indict the Liberal party, the second was to knife the Grand Trunk. Mr. Staunton had always resented the first instruction and Mr. Graham had never forgiven the latter. Whichever it was that was G. T. P. was trying to float a bond or raise money, an unofficial intimation went this blighted out to the Tory press, which was cabled also to London and telegraphed to New York.

Mr. Graham said that the shocking unfairness of Hon. Mr. Reid was shown when he charged the Quebec bridge to the N. T. R., which had been projected, financed and built under construction before the N. T. R. was ever dreamed of.

Mr. Graham then dealt point by point with the charges of extravagance in the report. He did not propose to defend the expenditure of $3,000,000 on the Winnipeg entrance, but to boast of it. During his regime efforts by selfish interests had been made to alter the route, but he had resisted every attack on it. As for the Transcona shops, he held that the Government had not only power to build them but also to equip them. The present Government was doing the same thing at Quebec and if it was illegal at Transcona it was illegal now. As for the cost of the shops Major Leonard's own expert approved them highly as better and cheaper than the C. P. R. shops at Winnipeg.

He also went into the subject of curves which he justified on engineering grounds.

When finally he charged the Government with deliberately circulating a false report the Speaker interrupted Hon. Mr. Graham and a babble arose over the point of order and the debate became confused.

Mr. Graham suggested that the matter was so completely mixed up that it might be as well to adjourn and, there being no objection, the debate was adjourned upon his motion.

The House then adjourned immediately. Mr. Graham will conclude his speech to-day, and will be followed by Solicitor-General Meighen.

CLASS STRIFE HAS DEVELOPED

Actual Question of Home Rule for Ireland Has Been Overshadowed by New Situation.

WHO SHALL RULE?

Special to The Examiner:

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., March 25. — "His Majesty's Government must retain the right to use all the forces of the Crown in Ireland and elsewhere to maintain law and order, but there is no intention to take advantage of this right to crush political opposition to Home Rule in Ireland." This paragraph in "white papers" laid on the table in the House of Commons this afternoon, by War Secretary Seeley, represents the extent of the Government surrender to army officers, in the condition which has now developed into a bitter class strife overshadowing the actual question of Home Rule for Ireland.

The statement in question is from Colonel Seeley's reply to Brigadier-General Gough, and other officers who resigned the commands rather than serve in forcing Home Rule on Ulster. In to-day's newspapers and on the streets the question is not that of Home Rule, but, as to who shall rule the Parliament elected by the people, or an aristocracy of any army in which the King has taken more than the usual prerogative for interference, according to the Labour party. In the meantime there is no confirmation of the reported resignation of Colonel Seeley, a war secretary. A momentous session of the Commons is expected this evening.

A BIG NIGHT WITH THE K.O.P.

Degree Work and Reception to Visiting Members in Castle Hall Last Night

ENJOYABLE BANQUET

Marathon Lodge of the Knights of Pythias at their regular meeting held last night in Castle Hall, Simcoe street, gave another evidence of their hospitality when apart from the usual business they provided a splendid reception for a number of visiting brothers. Page rank was conferred upon six newly elected members, and at the conclusion of the degree work an enjoyable banquet was held. Among those who were present from out-of-town were: Mr. Fred Oberndorffer, of Kingston; J. A. McLean, of Lindsay; Wm. Bell, of Lindsay, and Messrs. Gordon and Heffernan, also of Lindsay. At the conclusion of the banquet a toast list was honoured. Brother Albert Finnie, C.C., acted as chairman, and proposed the customary toast to the King, to which Ald. G. N. Gordon, of Marathon Lodge, responded with a splendid speech.

A violin solo by Mr. Chas. Seymour was warmly received and an encore demanded.

The toast to the Grand Lodge was proposed by Brother Oberndorffer, with the response of Brother W. Tremain.

A song with banjo accompaniment by Brother Frank Clark was much appreciated. He responded with a banjo selection.

The toast to the Visiting Brothers was proposed by Bro. John I. Allen, and in reply Bro. J. A. McLean, of Lindsay, paid a great compliment to the members of Marathon Lodge upon their growth and spirit of fraternity.

Bro. W. Allen's vocal solo was thoroughly enjoyed.

The toast to the Newly Initiated was proposed by Bro. H. P. Morgan. Bro. A. Hastill made a neat reply.

Bro. Oberndorffer stated that the list would not be complete without a toast to Marathon Lodge which, he stated, was widely known for its splendid hospitality. He congratulated the local Knights upon their reception to the visiting members.

Bro. Finnie and Bro. E. N. Williams responded with appropriate speeches.

The toast to the ladies was proposed by Brother Norman Allison. Brother Albert Fowler in responding paid a glowing tribute to the gentler sex. The meeting terminated with the singing of the National Anthem. Altogether it was a most enjoyable evening, and one of the occasions which make the proceedings of Marathon Lodge interesting for the members.

SHOOTING TALK WAS COMMON

Two Cases in Police Court To-day in Which the Charge Was One of Threatening to Use Fire Arms

AN AMUSING EPISODE

A short, but busy session was conducted at the police court this morning before Magistrate Dumble.

After the usual docket of drunks had been disposed of, the following case occupied the attention of the court for some little time.

Threatened to Shoot.

Mrs. York, prisoner's daughter, stated that a week ago last Monday defendant had threatened to shoot both her husband and herself. Former threats had been made, but no actions had materialised, but both complainants were afraid that he might do them harm.

Mr. Gordon in pleading for prisoner, said that he was willing to get out of town and go to his people in Uxbridge. There was a possibility that the man was mentally affected, and had been since his son was drowned some little time ago. And for that reason he asked the court to stretch the strings to the fullest extent.

The Magistrate took a lenient view of the matter, and as both parties were satisfied if he would get out of town and not return, he was allowed to go on that understanding.

More Shooting.

A further charge of alleged threatening to shoot was then called. In this case, Thomas E. Harrison was charged with threatening to shoot Chas E. Beatty. By mutual consent of counsel, and Crown Attorney, the case was enlarged for one week, bail for $100 being supplied by accused.

During the ensuing case, a continual titter was heard in court, and it was noticed that even the Assistant Crown Attorney was highly amused.

A resident from a rural district was charged with acting in a disorderly manner yesterday. After soliloquising for a while he pleaded "not guilty."

P. C. Patterson, sworn, said "at at 5.40 last evening, he was on duty at the corner of George and Hunter Street, when a young girl came up to him and asked him if there was any other way into East City excepting the Hunter Street bridge. He asked the reason for this, and was told that the young girl, who from evidence was said to be about 14 years of age, was afraid to go that way, as there was a man who wanted her.

The following story, which was told P. C. Patterson, and which was gathered partly from evidence in the case this morning, will give some idea as to what took place:

The lady in question was standing in front of the 'Times' bookstore when defendant came up to her and asked if her name was Perkins. She replied in the negative, and a further query, of whether they were in front of a bookstore followed, to which he received a reply in the affirmative. He then asked permission to escort her to her home, which privilege was refused. Not content with being turned down once, he solicited her company for a walk that evening. The girl, badly frightened, made her way down George Street, where she finally met P. C. Patterson. The constable then followed him up and took him into custody. When he arrived at the station, Detective Newhall asked him why he had interfered with the young lady. Defendant replied that he had mistaken her for another "Mary Perkins," who, from a description, that he gave of her, was some 100 lbs. heavier than the girl whom he had accosted. In the opinion of the Magistrate, he must have been near sighted. As a further explanation he said that he wanted to walk with her, because he wanted to get acquainted, as he wanted to marry some person.

Defendant intimated that he would like to make a statement.

"Do you want to ask the detective any questions?"

Defendant—I guess not.

Magistrate—Then you can come into the witness box and guess.

The Magistrate gave him a lecture to the effect that he would not be permitted to salute girls on our streets.

Witness—If you will let me go on suspended sentence I will never salute another girl in Peterborough.

Magistrate—You are fined $10.

Defendant—Yes, exactly.

The Court—And $3.75 costs.

Defendant— Yes.

The Court—And in default of payment, 20 days in jail.

Defendant—I have the money. I shouldn't have done it.

The Court— I know you shouldn't have done it.

He still persisted in making unfounded explanations, when he was suddenly stopped by the Chief saying, "Take him down."

Needed Counsel.

Patrick Lavery, a resident of East City, was charged with unlawfully carrying a lady's gold watch. He elected to be tried summarily, and entered a plea of "not guilty."

Magistrate Dumble wished to leave court at 11 o'clock and the case was accordingly adjourned until this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

WILD SCENES IN THE BRITISH HOUSE TO-DAY

Resignation of Col. Seely, Secretary of War, Formally Announced—Churchill Threatened With Eviction.

RESIGNATION REFUSED

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., March 25—Amidst the wildest confusion in the House of Commons, during which Winston Churchill, the First Lord of the Admiralty, completely lost his composure, and was rebuked by the Speaker, the Asquith Government to-day fought for its life. The resignation of Colonel Seely, as Secretary for War, was officially announced, but Asquith said it had not been accepted. Seeley heatedly declared that suggestions to the effect that the King had interfered in any way were entirely without foundation. He accepted to the full the responsibility for the Army officers' resignations, and the terms on which they returned to their posts. Churchill admitted when questioned, that a squadron of battleships had been ordered to the Irish coast, but was recalled later.

The Commons was thrown into a pandemonium when L. S. Amery asked Churchill if he had not hoped that his alleged precautionary measures would lead to bloodshed.

"I repudiate this hellish insinuation," said Churchill, as he advanced towards Amery with clenched fists.

In a moment the members of both sides were on their feet surrounding Churchill and Amery.

It looked like a pitched battle. Order was finally restored by the speaker and desperate efforts, said Churchill was threatened by the speaker with eviction from the House for unparliamentary language.

Colonel Seeley made a pitiful spectacle as in answer to severe cross-questioning, he exonerated the cabinet war council, Sir John French and General Paget from all responsibility. He declared he had inadvertently misled the cabinet with honest intent.

After Seeley's statement, Premier Asquith took the floor and deprecated the "improper attempt" to drag the King into the conflict. "His Majesty has at all times observed every rule of a constitutional monarch," said Asquith.

Premier Asquith said he refused to accept Seeley's resignation, and added that they would never submit to dictation of army officers.

NEW HOTEL FOR HUNTER ST.

Vacant Lot Has Been Sold and Rumour Has It That Modern Fire Proof Building Will be Erected

AN IMPORTANT DEAL

The large vacant lot on the north side of Hunter Street, west of the Bell Telephone office, has been sold by Ex-Mayor W. H. Bradburn. The Examiner learned this much to-day, but was unable to get any information as to the identity of the purchaser or the object in taking over the property.

"You can say the lot is sold," remarked Mr. Bradburn.

"Who is the purchaser?" inquired the Examiner.

"I cannot give you the name to-day" was the reply.

"Well, what is the lot to be used for?"

Rumour in connection with the property has it that a large, modern, fireproof hotel is to be erected on the site, which is regarded as ideally located for such a purpose. The transaction was put through by Mr. C. J. Carroll.

The name of Mr. Fred Blastorah, proprietor of the Palace Hotel, is connected with the rumour, but a positive verification of the rumour that he is behind the deal could not be secured. It was stated that he intended to erect the proposed building and apply for a transference of his license, but Mr. Blastorah was out when the reporter called, and nothing definite could be learned.

MR. BURNHAM'S QUESTIONS

In the House of Commons on Monday the Federal member for West Peterborough asked the following questions of Hon. Mr. Hazen:

1. When is a game or sporting fish a commercial fish?

2. Is the district of Northern Central Ontario, including Peterborough, Haliburton, etc., counties and the district of Muskoka, comprising at least 10,000 square miles of territory and 1,500 lakes and rivers, which provide fish for food for 10,000 people, within the jurisdiction of the Department of Marine and Fisheries as to hatcheries, restocking, supervision, etc.?

The Minister's reply was as follows:

1. It is not easy to give a definition in each case, as there may in certain cases be an overlapping. Speaking generally, however, commercial fish are those that are caught by regular fishermen as a means of livelihood, while sporting fish are those that are caught by sportsmen for pastime or pleasure. The principal sporting fish in Ontario are speckled trout and black bass.

2. Since the 1898 Privy Council decision in the Fisheries Reference, the fisheries of Ontario have been supervised by the provincial Government. Last year an arrangement was made with the provincial Department of Fisheries—which received the revenue from the fisheries—whereby the Department of Marine and Fisheries will confine its fish breeding operations to the stocking of waters resorted to by regular fishermen to earn their livelihood, while the provincial department will attend to the stocking of the sport fishing waters of the province.

Street Paving Propaganda

The Board of Works Committee of the City Council will be asked to prepare a list of the streets to be paved during the present year. In another month the tar gang will be here and the spring paving programme for 1914 will be under way. Mr. Gleason of the firm of Foley and Gleason, has made several trips to Peterborough within the past few months. He believes that it will be possible to commence paving operations some time in April. The contractors will employ about twenty men at the commencement, gradually increasing this number until the gang is brought up to full strength. The paving on George Street will be continued to the C.P.R. station, and on Charlotte Street to Park Street. Portions of Aylmer and Water streets will also be treated to a coat of concrete and asphalt.

Commissioner Rees Back

Commissioner David M. Rees, head of the Salvation Army in Canada, has returned to his Toronto Headquarters from England, where he has been in conference with General Bramwell Booth.

In October last it became necessary for the Commissioner to relinquish his command temporarily owing to serious illness. In the interim Colonel Sydney Maidment, the Chief Secretary, has been in control of affairs. With the complete restoration and return of the Commissioner, he will resume his position as second in command.

Lunches about for noon, held together by pieces of spring metal have been invented.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

One would consult in vain a dictionary of synonyms to find the Horticultural Society differentiated; but, in fact, the Peterborough Horticultural Society is a synonym for a more beautiful city. Any resident of long standing will recognise how greatly the beauty of the city has been developed within a few years through the agency of the Society.

Now that spring is almost here, now that the snow is melting under the warm gaze of the ascending sun, and all the activities of spring are taking shape and motion, the society and what it stands for come to mind. It stands to reason that the larger the membership of the society the wider its influence, the wider the range of results.

It only costs a dollar to become a member, and much more than a dollar of value is received—the Canadian Horticulturist, 60 cents per year, an autumn distribution of bulbs for winter flowering in the house, and a spring distribution of plants, shrubs, and seedlings. The spring distribution is now on, and it is desirable that choice should be promptly made and new subscriptions paid. Those who have not paid subscriptions and made their selections from the liberal programme of choice presented, are urged to do so without delay.

These things are only a part of the functions of the society. It is a leader in promoting the beauty of the city in regard to everything that grows. It has, heretofore, largely confined its attention to flowers and lawns, but the society might well take a larger interest in our trees. We are recognized as having in Peterborough the finest and most equally distributed stand of street shade trees of an city in the country. But there is need for improvement in this regard.

In many streets of the city trees have died or been destroyed, and unsightly gaps among splendid rows of large trees are to be seen. In many streets the anxiety for shade has prompted the planting of street trees at too close distances. These need thinning—and the work should be done—not by the lumberman's axe—but by somebody with taste and skill, and appreciation of the best results.

The vacancies should be planted with proper trees; trees should be planted in new streets, and the whole matter of pruning trees should be subjected to some competent authority. As it is now telegraph and telephone linemen, without authority, and contrary to the law, break, slash, and mutilate our trees. Our city fathers send out a man, or men, to prune on rational trees, who does not, judged by results, understand his business. Ability to prune an orchard does not argue ability to prune shade trees. In the first case the object is to reduce foliage; in the second case, the object is to promote the growth of foliage—shade.

The Horticultural Society might well include our street trees, their proper care, their planting, in its programme of activity. Then we could insist upon the work being done properly, with the aesthetic effect—and not the city pay check at the end of a week of perfunctory chopping and sawing—its main object.

Now, as to tree planting. As has frequently been pointed out in the Examiner, the city, as a corporation, has never planted a street tree—the work of beautifying public places with trees—properly the responsibility of the civic authorities—has been done by private enterprise. The result is that our lines of street trees are lacking in uniformity. Street trees must necessarily be in straight lines, and in tree planting, where we must seek uniformity, there should be uniformity.

If the city or some competent body like the Horticultural Society had or had had charge of street tree planting, we should have had better lines of better trees. We could not have had part of the trees inside the pavement and part outside, we should not have had different varities of trees — from scrub to stately — planted in the rows.

When tree planting is being done it should be well done, and the variety suited to the locality.

There is no denying the shade qualities of the maple, but it is unsuited for many parts of the city. Why do we see, on many streets, maples gain a good size, and then suddenly die? The reason is that the habit of growth of the roots of the maple is directly downward. A maple planted where there is a subsoil of gravel, thrives for a time; but when the roots go deeper—through the surface soil—they strike the dry gravel where there is no plant nourishment and of course the tree dies.

Nothing can be better than maples where there is good depth of soil; but for shallow soil the Canadian elm is the only tree. The elm tree is known as a surface feeder. There are elms in the city fifty or sixty feet high—with trunks two or three feet in diameter, growing over gravel subsoil, on which a maple would have died before it was twenty feet high. A farmer with varying kinds of soil on his farm adapts his seed to the soil. The same principle should obtain with trees.

In all these things the Horticultural Society might take a more active interest; and the society should embrace nearly all our citizens. In this way we should secure the cooperation that alone can secure the ideal city beautiful. In this regard the society might induce the City Council to take a greater interest in the work of city beautification, an interest that in the past has been virtually entirely lacking.

The city beautiful, apart from street surfaces, road making, would cost comparatively little. We dump from $15,000 to $20,000 on our streets every year. It disappears without adequate results. One-tenth spent in beautifying streets, planting trees, etc., would add immensely to the beauty of the city, and that is not to be despised. Any expenditure for anything that will make Peterborough a pleasanter and more desirable place to live in is money well spent.

We spend—in the aggregate—millions of money in providing churches, schools, a first-class fire department, good sanitation, and keeping the city clean in order to make Peterborough a good and pleasant city to live in. If we spent a hundredth part in making the city beautiful we should be cooperating with the God of nature, who provides, trees, plants and flowers, sunshine and rain, to make the world beautiful. Trees and flowers are the only glories of Eden that have survived the fall of man.

THE RIGHT KIND OF IMMIGRANTS.

The new German immigration into the irrigation belt in Alberta is the kind Canada is in need of. A number of German noblemen have bought 90,000 acres of land there, and are to colonise it with Germans. They have already under construction a hotel, a produce packing plant upon which $250,000 has been expended, creameries, elevators, and numerous houses. In May all will be ready for them to arrive. If Canada gave more encouragement to this kind of colonisation, there would be no such anomaly as was presented last year, when, although the total immigrants were 90,000 in excess of the previous year, there was a falling off of 10,000 in the homestead entries. — Montreal Herald and Telegraph.

WHITEWASHING THE MUD-THROWERS BY PANIC ACTION

Attempts on the part of Conservative politicians to "throw mud" at the administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier have invariably resulted in the necessity of taking strenuous steps to apply the "whitewash" to themselves. There has been an ugly boomerang attached to every effort to make political capital along this line, from the initial revelations concerning Mr. A. B. Morine, who received the first Borden appointment at the head of the Hunt-for-Scandal Commission, which resulted in the Commissioner leaving Canada for good, down to the recent and scandalous scenes of the past week in the Ontario Legislature when in defiance of the rules of the House the Conservative majority spent all night in steam-rollering through a measure to protect Mr. C. Howard Ferguson from the statutory consequences of his conduct.

Mr. Ferguson's case was a specially significant one. Here was a lawyer politician who set about to hunt for law-breakers while he was breaking the law himself. He was more concerned with the discovery of irregularities in the conduct of officials on the Trent Canal during the regime of the Liberal administration, than he was over the similar and more serious irregularities which have been carried on since the advent of the Borden administration. The evidence taken by Mr. Ferguson, as presented in his official report to the Government, shows that for the most part he was very careful to confine his questions to witnesses to what happened prior to Septmber 21st, 1911. He combined the qualities of partizan-investigator in that order of precedence.

That the investigation should have been held is evident from the irregularities disclosed. That Mr. Ferguson should have been chosen as the investigator destroyed its real purpose. It became not an investigation of wrong-doing on the part of public servants, but a still hunt for political capital.

Mr. Ferguson violated the law of ed, is the politician who came so zealously to the defence of Hon. W. J. Hanna, in the Legislature, when the Provincial Secretary became involved in the yet-to-be-explained negotiations with Contractor Taylor who furnished Mr. Hanna with a campaign contribution of $500. Mr. Ferguson's zeal for full publicity of facts and for the public welfare was not made apparent at that time.

Mr. Fergusan violated the low of his own Government in his eagerness to avail himself of the emoluments and opportunities which the commission of the Borden Government offered him. He disqualified himself under the Revised Statutes of Ontario from further holding his seat in the Legislature. He became liable to a penalty of $2,000 per day for every day on which he had occupied his seat in the Legislature since his acceptance of the commission in 1912. When confronted with the serious consequences of his action, the Ontario Government, the members of which he had so vigourously aided in their hour of need, rushed in panic to his rescue and sought to legislate against its own enactments with a view to "saving" the politician-investigator. In defiance to the rules of the Legislature, against the protests of Liberalism, the gag and the steam-roller were ruthlessly applied to save this politician from the inevitable results of his own acts.

The whole spectacle has a very unpleasant savour. It illustrates the reckless disregard of British ideals of fair play and decency which have obtained in Canada under the party-first regime of the Borden administration. It will, howver, do much to arouse public sentiment to the necessity for stern and drastic reform, if Canada is to have her good name protected and a high standard of morality in public life preserved.

POINTS ABOUT SUGAR-MAKING

The tapping of the trees in Canada seldom commences before March. It should be done when indications point to warm, sunny days and frosty nights.

At the beginning of the season all sugar utensils should be cleaned, even though they were well washed at the close of the previous season. Discard rusty utensils. Remember that freshly painted buckets have a tendency to taint the sap.

Sap is forced from the tree by internal pressure. A very small opening will relieve that pressure, causing the sap to flow as rapidly as from a larger hole. A three-eighths to a one-half inch bit should be used, boring slightly upward about one and one-half inches deep in a medium-sized tree and two inches in a large one. Tap about 30 inches from the ground, where the bark has a healthy appearance.

Galvanised iron buckets should never be used. They discolor the sap. Old-fashioned wooden buckets also tend to discolor and sour the sap.

Covers for buckets have been in almost constant use for 20 years in Vermont, but are being adopted slowly in Canada. In stormy seasons they are decidedly useful.

As the season advances and the days become warmer, fermentation is sure to take place in the vessels. Draw the spouts and ream out the holes so as to expose a fresh surface of wood. At this stage all utensils should be scalded or washed with hot water.

The sooner sap is turned into syrup or sugar the better will be the product. For this reason gathering should be commenced as soon as there is a quart or two in the buckets. Heavy tin is the best material for gathering pails. For convenience in gathering sap, these pails should have wide bottoms and narrower tops.

The hauling tank is best to be circular in form and made of heavy tin or galvanized iron, with a reinforced wood bottom. A tank holding 75 or 100 gallons is a convenient size for a 1,000-tree grove.

A double cloth strainer should be over the entire top to keep out dirt. Thoroughly cleanse this cloth after each gathering. As the sap leaves the gathering tank for the storage vat, strain again through two or three plies of cloth.

Good fuel is of utmost importance. The quick flashing blaze can only be obtained with dry fuel. Ten cords of mixed hard and soft wood for 1,000 trees or 35 cords for 4,000 trees are recommended by experienced makers.

Duke, millionaire tobacco manufacturer, was destroyed.

"How will you have yousah aigs?" One morning a man had ordered sausage, rolls and coffee. When the waiter asked "How will you have yousah aigs?" the man replied: "You may eliminate the eggs this morning."

The waiter looked at him and went to the kitchen. Returning shortly, he said: "Eh, mister, how did you-all say you would have yousah aigs?"

The man replied "I said you could eliminate the eggs." Back went the waiter to the kitchen, but returned again pretty soon and said: "Say, mistah, we's got a splendid chef who has wucked in most ob de largest an' best places in de North, an' he says he dun hab no tools to 'liminate any aigs."

Four Superb Clydesdale Stallions

Mr. R. C. Grandy, of Cavan imports Some Splendid Horses

Mr Robert C. Grandy of Cavan arrived home Saturday evening from Scotland with four superb specimens of Clydesdale stallions, ranging in age from four to seven years. These animals possess the qualities sought after by the breeders and purchasers of heavy horses, viz., action, style, and substance. Any lover of horseflesh will be amply repaid by a visit to the farm of Mr. Grandy, whose enterprise in this connection is highly commendable.

TO DISCUSS FIXED DATE OF EASTER

BRUSSELS, March 23.—A proposal to have the world adopt a fixed date for Easter will be discussed and acted upon at the biennial meeting of the International Congress of the Chambers of Commerce, which is to meet in Paris next June. Such is the announcement made by the permanent committee of the Congress which met in Brussels to-day to approve the programme prepared for the Paris meeting.

The fact that the variable date for Easter causes much embarrassment and loss in certain lines of trade is responsible for the movement to have the festival celebrated on a fixed date. It is suggested by the supporters of the movement that the fixed date could be brought about by regulating Easter by the sun instead of the moon.

The programme prepared for the meeting of the Congress shows that numerous other important subjects will be brought up for consideration. Postal money orders and checks, bills of lading for steam navigation insurance policies in international traffic, dock warrants, arbitral procedure, and the utility of the proposed international action regarding unfair competition are among the questions that will receive attention.

A possible source of discussion relative to competition may be the operations of great combinations such as the Standard and Russian oil companies, the German syndicate which controls the trade in potash and other concerns whose field include the world. The British system of marine insurance, evolved by centuries of experience, will be closely examined for models to improve the phraseology of policies.

The programme, as prepared by the committee, indicates that American thought and practice have largely influenced conditions under which trade and commerce are carried on. The United States and Great Britain, for example, have made the largest use of the postal money order and the bank check, and the Congress may consider plans for broadening the service rendered by both and making them better understood. The need of uniformity, or at least, a better understanding, is illustrated by the fact that under Article 16 of The Hague convention the death of a maker of a check has no influence upon the validity of the check, where as, according to English law the check becoes void on the death of the signor.

One object of the coming meeting will be to constitute the Congress an active influence between the biennial meetings. The plans in this direction will be framed along the lines of the work accomplished by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which is able to back up its resolutions with a permanent organization.

It is expected that the commerce and trade bodies of America will take an important part in the sessions in Paris. The international Congress and its work are well understood in the United States, since the last meeting of the organization was held in Boston, in 1912. It is expected that the coming meeting will be attended by a large delegation of representative American manufacturers and business men.

The French Government, in co-operation with the business organizations of France, is preparing for the elaborate entertainment of the visitors. The delegates from abroad will be regarded as the guests of the Republic, and the two weeks following the sessions of the Congress will be given up to more or less formal visitations at Lyons, Grenoble, Valence, Dijon and other places of historic interest and industrial importance. Excursions also will be arranged to point in Italy, Switzerland, Germany and other countries.

PETERBOROUGH HEALTH ASSOCIATION

There is a certain romance about Christian and humane work when the scene is far away across seas and under the blazing skys of distant and different countries. The word of Christ, however, was that in extending His Kingdom the work should "begin at Jerusalem," and the proverb is that "Charity should begin at home."

It would surprise many in Peterborough if they would acquaint themselves with some conditions which exist within the city limits, and the need of material and scientific help that presents itself at our very doors.

One of the nurses of the Health Association is now caring for a tubercular patient—a man about thirty-five years of age, who with his father, has been living in one room of a dilapidated building that has no indication of being a home. The father and son have been cooking, eating and sleeping in this single room, the windows of which have been nailed down.

The father's efforts were necessary to provide an existence for himself and his afflicted son. The bed on which they slept was infested with vermin, and the food provided entirely inadequate under the circumstances. Behold the change wrought since this case has received the ministry of the Association. The place has been cleaned. The windows are opened and a plentiful supply of fresh air furnished—the old bed has gone up in smoke and a new, clean, outfit has been loaned. Milk and eggs are furnished as they are required, and an atmosphere of hope has been inspired.

Surely this is the work to which the Master directed his followers, and surely it should have the heartiest support of all who love their fellowmen.

This is only one of many cases. Two are in comfortable homes and require no material assistanece, but are rejoicing in thes cientific instruction that has been given them, and that makes such a difference to the present comfort and the hope of the ultimate recovery of th patients.

Another case has been very interesting to the writer; where a girl of tender years has been supporting herself and helping to support others until smitten with this trouble. The directions of the nurse are being followed, and every effort is being made to bring about the recovery of this brave girl.

No one in Peterborough need look far for a place to bestow gifts that will be carefully handled and will be a real benediction to those who are most needy.

Peterboro' Band Will Make English Corps Look To Their Laurels

The British War Cry has the following interesting reference to the visit of the I.C.Cs in England and the Canada Contingent:

As may be imagined a strong force will sail from Canada and Newfoundland for the I.C.C. The present estimate by Canada's Chief Secretary is over 500 Salvationists, and there is no doubt many of the recent settlers in the Dominion will avail themselves of this opportunity of seeing the Old Land, the old Corps, and the old comrades next June.

The force will also possess some very spectacular and interesting features. To begin with, there will be a contingent of Red Indians from British Columbia. We question if any phase of heathen work possesses a stranger or more thrilling history than the Army's operations among these Sons of the Forest. We understand that some of these red men come from the Glen Vowel Settlo-

FOUNDING A SETTLEMENT.

What a story it is of the founding of that settlement. This is it in brief: Two or three Indians of a certain tribe went, during the salmon fishing season, to work in one of the canneries. They got saved at a Salvation Army Corps. On their return to their native village in the forests of Northern British Columbia they told their tribesmen what God had done for them and how saved men ought to live. A number of the warriors and squaws professed Salvation. Then the Salvationists denounced the 'pot laches' (degrading feasts) and evil tribal customs. So the chief and headmen rose in wrath and drove them out into the wilderness. The Indian agent thereupon gave them a settlement in a lovely glen where they could worship God after the manner of The Salvation Army. An officer was sent to take charge of the community, which is now a most thriving one. They have a sawmill, orchards, frame houses instead of teepees, a school house, a fine Salvation Army Hall, a brass band—and no policemen.

When they got saved they abandoned their war-paint, their tomahawks, their eagle's feathers, and scalping knives; they will, however, when they tread the paved stones of the Strand, at the I.C.C., be in all the panoply of the noble red men.

Newfoundland is the oldest British colony, and the conditions of climate, industries and travelling necessitate very picturesque dress and impediments. There will be a dozen of more Newfoundland officers under Brigadier Morehen, and when we warrant that when the Brigadier has got through with his dogs, seals, cod fish, and travelling stores we shall had had a liberal education in Newfoundland's potentialities and Salvation Army development.

There will also be a party of French-Canadians, who will talk to us in their charming patois, and please our eyes with their old-world customs.

STRONG IN BANDS.

The Canadian Contingent will be strong in the direction of bands. The Territorial Staff Band, gay with bright scarlet tunics and black facing, is coming. When dear Commissioner Rees was in London last summer he told us that this band was having daily practices, and the players were nearly bursting themselves to get to a dazzling stage of proficiency. Chalk Farm, Congress Hall, Tottenham I—look out for your laurels! There is also the Peterborough Band. This is a fine musical organisation. In fact, the Peterborough municipality is so proud of the Salvation Army Band, that, we understand, it is paying a substantial sum toward defraying the cost of the visit. It is possible that a band composed of musicians from the prairie cities of the Far West will also come.

Accommodation for this large party has been secured on five steamers.

"Half-Baked" Was Subject

Evangelist Pugsley Preached Strong Sermon at Park St. Church

Evangelist Pugsley preached a strong sermon in the Park Street Baptist Church last night on the subject, "Half Baked," from the text, Revelations, 3:16. He made an appeal to the people to be out and out for God, saying that no man could be a success in Christian life unless he was willing to pay the price. The half-hearted man was the most miserable man on earth. The speaker gave some practical illustrations from Christian life and the business world showing that the only men who were a success were whole-hearted. At the close of the esrvice five responded to the appeal.

Mr. G. W. Mulligan sang a delightful solo that was in itself a strong appeal.

Considerable damage along the river bank was caused by the shock. Divers will ascertain the exact results to the channel bottom when the ice goes out.

Hon. G. P. Graham Is Making A New Record

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, March 25.—It is expected that when Hon. George P. Graham has completed his speech this afternoon on the Transcontinental Commission report, he will have about established the record in the Commons in recent years for length of speech. Already Mr. Graham has spoken for five hours and it is not expected that he will be finished until six o'clock this evening.

NEW SWITCH SYSTEM

The Canadian Pacific has just installed at the Windsor Station, in Montreal, an elaborate electrical interlocking switch system, which not only does away with uncertain hand labour, but provides the maximum of safety, while at the same time guaranteeing rapid movement, each of which is absolutely inter-related and inter-dependent so that no separatist action could possibly be taken. All the signals and levers and the machinery are, as the name of the installation denotes, inter-locking. The housing of the machinery is at the end of Mountain Street, just outside the enclosed yards.

The man at the levers, of which theer are 88, looks before him at an illuminated diagram on which he sees the whole trackage leading into the station and which are on each side of the main double track. The moment a train approaches, it is put out by the lever, on the proper track, but the movement which does this is an inter-locking one. That is to say, it effects certain positions with respect to other movements in the yard. There is no isolated action. Every portion of the machine is related to every other portion. Action is quick and concentrated, but each individual movement has a corresponding relation to the tracks and switches over the vast system of criss-crossing which has made of the C. P. R. yards a wonder for the elaboration and vastness which mark them.

Illuminated Diagram.

Each of the 8 levers has its mission. Each has relation to the safety of each passenger train; each guarantees that no switch can be turned under any train coming in or going out; each has its unquestioned duty, which it performs with independence (as it would seem), though it is really related to every other lever on the board.

The illuminated diagram fascinates as it shows, without looking near the yards at all, the whole of the trackage—eleven tracks in all — with the positions of the several trains on each. When the tracks are all clear, then the diagram shows a clear light across the whole trackage. Suddenly a black body obstructs the light; moves into it; wipes it out; makes a dark and sinister shadow across the particular track. The man at the lever has seen it—he heard the signal before he used his eyes—and provides for the final destination of the train which, coming in on the main line has to steer its way most carefully through the maze of tracks on each side of it as it nears the outer yards.

LINDSAY MAN WAS COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

On a Charge of Putting Drugs in a Glass of Beer--Wine Clerk Gives Evidence---McGillivray Waived Further Examination.

LINDSAY, March 25.—The police court session was held in the Town Clerk's office yesterday, when Lester McGillivray came up for trial, the charge against the prisoner being intent to commit an indictable offence. The charge was laid under sections 276 and 278 of the criminal code, which are almost similar in meaning.

The court room was crowded with the usual morbid crowd, who gather on such occasions. Mr. G. H. Hopkins, K. C., acting crown attorney, appeared for the Crown, while Mr. G. A. Jordan defended McGillivray.

The Only Witness.

Mr. Joseph Jacque of the Hotel Grand, was the only witness heard whose evidence in answer to Mr. Hopkins' question was as follows: "I am a bartender at the Hotel Grand and recollect McGillivray and Gostlin being in the hotel on the night of March 4th. It was about 8 o'clock in the evening, both men were in the bar-room and I was attending bar. James Gostlin treated the crowd, including the accused, Les. McGillivray. I think the whole party took beer. Gostlin had a glass of beer. McGillivray took his beer and dropped back from the bar. He put his hand in his vest pocket and pulled out a smallbottle and came back to the bar where Gostlin was standing. Gostlin's glass was on the bar in front of him, and was half gone, he Gostlin, having drank it. Some one called Jas. Gostlin and he turned around and Lester McGillivary had this bottle in his hand and he made three or four dashes of the contents of the bottle in Gostlins glass of beer. I said 'My God Les, what are you trying to do to poor old Jim, and McGillivary said it was good enough for him; it's only jalap.'"

Witness then grabbed the glass and threw the contents into the sink. "I smelt the glass; it had an awful odour. Mr. Wm. Graham smelled and tasted the stuff, and it nearly strangled him. McGilivary made for the back door and I told the men to catch him, that he put the stuff in the beer. Joe McConnell was the man who caught McGillivary."

Mr. Hopkins—"What did you do with the glass?"

Produced the Bottle.

"I put the glass aside, and I then gave it to Constable Short. The glass produced in court is like the one I took off the counter. I afterwards smelled the bottle which was taken from McGillivary and both smelled the same. Mr. Wm. Graham or Joe McConnell handed me the bottle, which was taken from McGillivary. I put the bottle alongside of the glass and handed it over to Constable Short about ten minutes after it happened. I had a talk with McGillivary after I got the bottle, and he went to the 'phone and 'phoned the Chief's Office. No answer from the Chief's office he 'phoned the Chief's house, but he was out. Some one remarked, what are you trying to do Les, and he replied that 'I am going to soak Joe McConnell and Wm. Graham for stealing my bottle.' He then called up several other places to get the Chief or Constable Short. Constable Short came in a few minutes later, and I told him what McGillivary had done. I handed Mr. Short up the bottle and he smelled it, so he said, "I'll take care of this bottle." I also gave him the glass. McGillivary asked to get the bottle back."

Mr. Hopkins— "Had McGillivary any money on him?"

A Big Roll.

"Yes, he was in several times that evening and had a big roll of five and ten-dollar bills in his hand. McGillivary was catching hold of Gostlin and trying to get him away with him during the evening."

He bothered Gostlin so much that Mark Watters said he would give him a slap in the mouth if he did not get away.

This concluded the evidence for the Crown.

Mr. Jordan said the defendant waived further examinations and was therefore sent up for trial before a court of competent jurisdiction, which will consist of a trial by jury, but in the meantime the prisoner can receive trial before Judge Harding, when arrangements can be made for a speedy trial, which may be held inside of ten days.

Continues All This Week and up till April 1st, during Stock-Taking.

With Infantry And Cavalry

While the social season is still in full away among the military men, most of them manage to spare one evening a week to attend the drills that have just recently commenced. It is a matter of material benefit, and it keeps the men in good training, and the practice received will stand them in good stead.

Lieut-Col. Clegg, Officer Commanding 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, has announced that the regular drill season will start two weeks from last night. On the other hand, the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons have had a class at the local armouries for the past month. Both of these popular regiments have started recruiting classes, and in the case of the latter mentioned, it is hoped that 'ere long a City squadron will be inaugurated in Peterborough.

Col. Clegg, in speaking of the recruiting for the 57th, says that since starting, they have secured about 50 members for the Regiment, and all these candidates were good men, it being the object and intention of the commanding officer to enlist none but good men this year. The same sentiments have been expressed by the commander of the 3rd Dragoons. Dr. J. H. Eastwood, medical officer of the 57th Regiment, is present at the armouries on each drill night, for the purpose of passing candidates. The standard height is 5 ft. 6 in. for an infantry man, and if a man is not that tall, he is rejected unless his chest measurement is, particularly good, when he is admitted half an inch below that height.

The arrangements are, so far as can be ascertained, completed for camp, and there is now no doubt that the men will be transported to the military camp at Petawawa, on June 13th. As all who have ever donned a uniform know, this feature of the life, is one of the joys of soldiering, and the man who has not had the pleasure has missed something that is worth while.

Another pleasure that is in store for the volunteers of this City is a trip. While nothing definitely has been given out, it is an assured fact that the men will be taken somewhere at the expense of the regiment.

Sergt. Instructor Dunkerley has charge of the recruits that have been secured for the 57th, and, as an officer was heard to say last evening, "He is licking them into shape." The squad on parade last evening, though they had but one drill previously, were an intelligent set of men, and tacked on to their work well.

With the 3rd Dragoons, active military matters are booming. The class at the local armouries is well attended, and the men who are taking the class, go to Toronto, to the Stanley Barracks on April 10th, to pass for either officers or non-commissioned officers. A class, in connection with the same regiment of cavalry, is being held at Millbrook, that is B squadron, where a very enthusiastic class has been formed.

Should a City squadron be formed, it is hoped that the brightest of Peterborough's young men will come forward and join the regiment, which will be the only City squadron in the Dominion, outside of the Governor-General's Body Guard, Toronto. The full dress uniform of the parent regiment in England, would be supplied, and the scarlet and yellow would certainly be an attractive dress uniform, together with the helmet decorated with the Prince of Wales' feathers.

One of the companies of the 57th will hold a supper in one or two weeks' time.

GEORGE STREET EPWORTH LEAGUE

Will Be in the Hands of the Missionary Department on Monday Next

The George Street Epworth League held a very successful meeting on Monday evening. The programme was in the hands of the Christian Citizenship Department and was very interesting. Part of the entertainment consisted of impromptu speeches made by the members, who had their subjects chosen for them, some of which were very amusing. An excellent cornet solo was rendered during the evening by Mr. Ernest Oke, accompanied by Miss McKee.

Next Monday, the Missionary Department will have charge of the proceedings, and all members are requested to be present.

Execution at Boston.

BOSTON, March 25.—Wm. A. Dorr was executed in the electric chair at the Charlestown State Prison early yesterday for the murder of George E. Dorr was said to have expressed remorse on account of the death of Marah and deep sympathy for his family.

CHANGE IN THE REGISTRATION ACT

Members Confer With the Hon. W. H. Hearst

TORONTO, March 25.—Those members of the Legislature in whose ridings there is registration for election purposes held a conference this morning with Hon. W. H. Hearst, and, as a result of this, the Registration Act will be amended so as to permit one registration, either provincial or Dominion, where the election comes on within a year after the registration.

Under the present conditions, the Dominion may use the provincial lists, but the Ontario Government may not use the Dominion lists, and for this reason the act is being changed so as to make one registration do for the two elections where they come within a year.

There is also the suggestion that the candidates for seats in the Legislature be compelled to put up the election deposit of $200, the same as in the Dominion elections.

Compensation Bill

Legislature Almost at One on Important Measure

MAY COME IN FORCE JAN. 1

TORONTO, March 25. — At the very latest date the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Act becomes operative on Jan. 1, 1915. Indications, however, point to the machinery of the new court getting into motion as early as November, and if the Government finds it possible to have all things in working shape by this latter date there will be no delay in the proclamation. This was the nature of an announcement by Hon. I. B. Lucas, Provincial Treasurer, in the House yesterday afternoon when the bill appeared upon the order paper for the second reading. Before the day was over the measure got away to a flying start with both Government and Opposition members joining in the support of the measure and pledged to a non-partisan discussion of its details.

The subject was introduced by a motion of Hon. Mr. Lucas calling for the adoption in supply of the clause which called for an annual payment towards the administration of the commission of a sum not exceeding $100,000, the same to be drawn from the consolidated revenue fund as the lieutenant-governor might direct.

The Provincial Treasurer who has piloted the measure through the House thus far, drew attention to a press criticism concerning the day of proclamation. In a purely non-partisan spirit he would state that any delay was due entirely to the necessity of organization before operation could be thought of. The hope was to bring it into force this year, but the recommendation of the commission itself would necessarily have to be considered. To end the discussion and fix a date he was prepared to move in committee that at the very latest the new year would be chosen but that if at all possible he would advise the first day of November.

Mr. Rowell asked whether the sum mentioned would cover the total expense. The reply was that the amount would likely be exceeded to a small extent but the hope was that it would be very small.

Mr. Rowell called attention to a change in the final draft. While he had understood the Meredith draft to apportion compensation as the difference between the earning capacity of the man before and after injury he understood that it was now changed so that the basis was but 55 per cent. of this difference. He wished to know the reason for the new arrangement.

The Provincial Treasurer stated that the change had been made merely for the sake of clearing up the point in question. It had always been the intention to adjust it this way. It would never be feasible to allow a claim for full damages under such a scheme because the laboring man was supposed to contribute by gaining only the 55 per cent. He was thus actually giving 45 per cent.

Mr. Rowell then stated that in addition to being sorry that the workman was apparently going to be held again under an inactive law he still could not see the justification for the change in compensation. The British act had apparently been followed in spirit, but their point in this connection had been ignored.

Hon. Mr. Lucas said the labor men in a conference with himself had united in expressing their commendation of the clause under question.

W. S. Brewster (S. Brant) entirely favored the bill. Moreover while workmen had commended it, manufacturers also had shown remarkable sentiment, and in the city of Brantford not one employer had opposed it.

W. D. McPherson (W. Toronto) said all parties affected had been heard fairly, and now there was the spectacle of both employer and employe agreeing. Employers deserved special thanks for their willingness in supplying statistics.

J. C. Elliott (W. Middlesex), Geo. Pattinson (S. Waterloo), and E. A. Peck (W. Peterboro), also spoke and the second reading was passed without division.

HURRAH!

Whistle, whistle and sing right happily,
You can feel it in your bones, though you cannot see,
Something seems to hold you tight,
In a grip of untold glad delight.
You want to take every person by the hand,
And play up mad to beat the band.
It's in the blood, we are all the same,
Spring is here, spring fever is to blame.

Merrily, merrily, spring do we meet,
Winter is fading away, has to take a back seat,
We fickle people are tired of its snow,
Tired of its frost and the cold winds that blow.
Our hearts are yearning for the song birds again,
For the warm rains and the bright sunshine,
Fo the flowers growing on bush and on vine.
Spring is the herald for the glad summer time.

So it is through all the days of our life,
We must take a back seat sometimes in the strife,
But like the seasons, year after year,
We must keep on and fight our way clear.
We may be pushed back many times from our goal,
Fight many good fights, pay many hard tolls,
If we fight on in a straightforward way,
We surely will win to our goal some day.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE GREAT FLOOD OF 1913

Twelve Months Ago To-day When Water Reached Record-breaking Heights

Special Wire to The Examiner:

DAYTON, O., March 25—One year ago to-day marked the beginning of the great floods which devastated almost the whole of Ohio and Indiana and parts of Pennsylvania, New York West Virginia, Kentucky, and several other States. In the loss of life and property Dayton was by far the greatest sufferer of any of the cities that were covered by the raging waters. In twelve months the City has accomplished wonders in rebuilding the structures that were destroyed by the flood and the great fire which accompanied it. To-day the citizens of all classes joined in solemn services in memory of the men, women and children whose lives were lost in the catastrophe. At the same time flags were displayed in many buildings in celebration of the progress that has been made in rehabilitating the City.

It was the middle of March of last year that the Central States were swept by a series of terrific cyclones and tornadoes, which were followed by five or six days of torrential rains. As late as the evening of March 24 the situation was not regarded as alarming, although floods were already imminent over the northern slops of the Ohio basin in the States of Ohio and Indiana. The downpour of rain throughout this section was the heaviest ever known.

During the night of March 24 all of the stream of Ohio and Indiana passed their flood stages, and within 24 hours many of them reached record-breaking heights. On the morning of March 2, one year ago to-day, the people of Dayton awoke to find that the Miami River had reached a height of 8 feet above the highest figure previously recorded.

The breaking of the levees resulted in the inundation of two-thirds of the City, including the whole of the business section. Many places were under 20 feet of water. For several days some 75,000 people were marooned in the upper stories of buildings. Many fires broke out and great suffering was caused by lack of food, shelter and dry clothing. When the waters finally subsided and the City relieved by outside help it was found that scores of lives had been lost and millions of dollars in property destroyed.

Shaping The Son's Career Is Fascinating Task For Father

It is a fascinating calling, the business of being father to a son. Challenging the necessity and the wisdom of any fundamental division of parental responsibility as between motherhood and fatherhood, it is proper to emphasize the peculiar opportunities that are a father's in the upbringing of that father's son.

Not many years ago a youngster whose thought processes very early searching, put to his father this question: "Which ought I to love more, mother or you?"

The particular father sounded in his answer a fortunate note, "My boy, look upon your mother as the sweetest, the most beautiful creature on earth. Remember your father as your best friend, your chum."

The whole plan of campaign of that parent was developed along this line. In the woes which seemed to the child real, where the tenderness of a mother's affection wrought its softening work, the boy was taught thither to turn. When sterner problems were faced, where virility in counsel made its demands, the father constituted the gracious court of appeal. It was inevitable that were developed in the boy a repose born of assurance that life was well, and could not be otherwise.

It is logical that the career of a son should be shaped largely by the intercourse held between that son and that son's father. From the days when the son advances from babyhood to boyhood, with all that the latter implies through youth into early manhood and thereafter, the ideas of the father may be made to influence the ideas of the son, and the evolution is fascinating.

To quote one father: "I shall never forget the apprehension which was mine when he (the son) propounded this question: 'What is a vulgar fraction, father?' On an earlier day my young mathematician did me the honour to propose that I glance through his home work. It was long division, he said.

"Now in my time,' the father went on to say, "it had been the practice in this process to embrace the dividend within a parenthesis whose convexes bulged in. The divisor nestled in the minister concave, and the quotient, when I got it, occupied a corresponding position in the concave on the right. My boy's work was distinctly not orthodox. The dexter wing of the parenthesis was missing altogether. Above the dividend was a hair line, merging deftly with the left parenthesis, for all the work like the impossible sign of a malformed Radical. By discreet questioning I learned that this strange new line separated the quotient from the dividend. The boy stood hard by, avowedly expecting his father to perform the little task of inspection. There were similar moments of diversion in connection with matters geographic and otherwise. Gradually, however, there developed an entente cordiale."

The charm of the relations which existed between that father and that father's son is manifest. When the grammar school was left behind the parent made his way with the boy through the mazes of higher mathematics and other advanced studies with a painstaking care that postulated for the boy many fundamentals, among them these: the tireless patience of the father; the latter's intimate concern with the interests of the son; the boundless sacrifices of time and effort that the father was willing to make in behalf of his boy; the imperative necessity of doing well everything that was to be done; the rewards which were sure to come fast upon fidelity and finish. In matters academic the story written to the end would tell a tale of achievement on the part of this father and this father's son.

In the particular case the father forgot not his own athletic days, and his boy's outdoor activities were made a matter of fatherly concern quite as intimate, equally penetrating. In the early stages of baseball enthusiasm it was this father who taught this son to "stand up to the plate" and to "get into the ball" when at bat, to "meet the ball" instead of waiting for it, when playing the field, to "run a hit out" every time. This son learned from this father some of the finer points of tennis, how to play the opponent "off his balance," how never to permit that opponent to work the son "out of position." All of the finer points of the game within the ken of this parent were imparted to this parent's son. And with it all the lessons of fair play, gentlemanliness, sportsmanship, were instilled consistently.

For two years, nightly, when conditions permitted, this father spent with this boy the last half hour of the youngster's day in unique work. The boy, clad in pyjamas, met in gladiatorial combat his father, attired befittingly. The boy called it "Our rough-house." On the bed, on the floor, about the boy's own room, father and son wrestled and struggled in friendly rivalry, playing the game of give and take. And the boy was made to understand that unnecessary roughness was sure to be met with retaliatory tactics, not viciously, but appropriately. It was during those happy half hours that this father and son came to know one another in a most delightful fashion. The long walks, the earnest talks, the exchanges of confidences, of hopes, of aspirations, brought their certain joys, and the time came for the boy to leave for his preparatory school.

There could be no tugging at the heart strings, the speculation as to the outcome of that son's "away from home life," and the story of the succeeding days was exactly the story to be expected.

The correspondence, not more generous between the son and father than between son and mother, brought to the father the great fruition of the days that had gone before. Candour, consideration, economy, rectitude, achievement were reflected and recorded in that correspondence. And when, as a part of wisdom, financial retrenchments became advisable, this son of this father stood shoulder to shoulder with his parent, facing the problems, one after another, courageously, enthusiastically, gladly.

Reformatory May Go To Cobourg

TORONTO, March 25—The Ontario Government may sell the present Mercer Reformatory property, nine acres in extent, and transfer the inmates to the building at Cobourg, now used as an asylum. The Cobourg patients woul dbe taken care of at the new provincial asylum now in course of erection at Whitby.

A statement containing this intimation was given to the House last night by Hon. W. J. Hanna, during the consideration of the estimates rearing with the Toronto asylum vote. The Minister explained, in answer to questions, that the Government had a plan in mind that, if adopted, would provide funds to go on with the new Whitby institution, replacing the Toronto asylum.

It was proposed, explained the Minister, that when the Whitby asylum was ready the patients now at Cobourg would be moved there. The Cobourg building would then be available for housing the inmates of the Mercer, which could be disposed of.

THE TRENT CANAL "RAKE-OFF" WAS NOT QUITE ONE-SIDED

The Government Party Out Its Share —Dynamite Rake-off Went Into Good "Tory" Pocket

The Tory Press has been displaying profound ignorance as to the rake-off and its philosophy. All over the country articles have been published showing how certain officials of the Trent Canal operated the rake-off in collusion with dealers in supplies. It was assumed that the transactions took place entirely under the Liberal administration, and that the moment the Conservatives came in dishonest officials suddenly became honest and trespassed no more. Believing or professing to believe this, The Sydney Daily Post says:

"The sworn evidence taken by Commissioner Ferguson discloses that there was graft in the purchase of the explosives used in the canal, a select ring of Liberal politicians appropriating the rake-offs. The Commissioner finds that there was collusion between Inspector McClellan and one Kingan, from whom the explosives were purchased, with a view to the distribution of the profits among Liberal heelers. The evidence shows that Kingan purchased the explosives at nineteen cents at the mill, turned them over to one Cinnamon for twenty-two cents, who again turned them over to the Government at twenty-seven cents. There was also an infamous and shameless system of corrupt padding of the pay lists for the purpose of defrauding the Government. Grocers, liverymen, hotelkeepers, florists, jewellers, brokers, coal merchants, auctioneers, bank managers, and station agents were all included in the certified lists as labourers who were alleged to have been working on the canal, and large sums of Government moneys were paid over to them in consequence of this system of dishonesty and fraud."

The Post and other Conservative papers which have published the details of this particular transaction in dynamite will be startled to learn that it took place not under the Liberal Government, but under that of Mr. Borden, and that if any share of the profits of the transaction went to "heelers" they were Tory heelers. The facts are set forth in the Ferguson report, but naturally the Tory investigator did not labour the point that the Laurier Administration went out of office in October, 1911, and that it was in 1913 Mr. Daniel Cinnamon of Lindsay, an elector in the Hon. Sam Hughes' constituency, who must have been put on the patronage list by the Minister of Militia himself or his patronage committee, got a chance to make "easy money" out of dynamite. In this typical Tory take-off the profit seems to have been made not only by boosting the price, but by supplying less dynamite than was called for. Three purchases of dynamite were made during 1912, aggregating five tons in all. There was a considerable shortage of the amount supplied as compared with the amount charged to the Government. In one instance the shortage was a thousand pounds. Cinnamon was merely a nominal vendor. He got the order and passed it on to the Kingan Company of Peterborough, who had supplied the dynamite before the change of Government. The Kingan Company sold it at twenty-two cents a pound and are understood to have made three cents a pound profit. Cinnamon sold the dynamite to the Government at twenty-seven cents a pound. Of this transaction Mr. Ferguson says, "Cinnamon's part merely consisted of making out an invoice adding five cents per pound to Kingan's price, and taking this rake-off for profit for himself. There was clearly collusion between McClellan and Kingan." The rake-off was a Tory rake-off taken by a protege of the Hon. Sam Hughes at a time when the Hon. Frank Cochrane was Minister of Railways and Canals. If the rake-off was divided with any political "heelers," they, too, must have been friends of these honourable gentlemen.

Here is an excessive, probably even an illegitimate profit of $500 on a small transaction involving less than $3,000. What must it be on Government supplies all over the country? The facts disclosed in the Trent Canal investigation indicate that the rake-off is neither Liberal nor Conservative. It is a bi-partisan trick, which can be operated just as well with Liberal officials and Conservative contractors as with officials and contractors both belonging to one party. How much longer are Canadians going to stand for it? It permeates the whole system of public affairs. What difference in essence is there between the petty pickings of the officials and dealers along the Trent Canal and the magnificent rake-off of the builders of the Canadian Northern Railway, who let contracts to themselves at non-competitive prices, and, according to R. S. Bennett, M. P., carried off millions either in common stock or cash as excessive profits on this construction work? Is it not time for The Sydney Post and its contemporaries, instead of lying about this Trent rake-off, to rouse public opinion against the vicious notion that it is not theft to take the money of the people without giving an honest return for it? — The Globe.

JUDGE HUYCKE AND POLICE COMMISSIONERS

To the Editor, the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—At a meeting of the Ministerial Association held March 24th, 1914, it was resolved to send to you and to the Secretary of the Police Commissioners, the following extract from the Review of Saturday, Feb. 21st:

"It is my duty to use my own best judgment in the same way as in the trial of an action, civil or criminal. A judge should be absolutely independent, uninfluenced and uninfluenceable, should not regard or be subject to, or even listen to, any outside influence or interference. I tried to hint or even state this to the Ladies' Deputation, but it was certainly either misunderstood or ignored. This being my duty as judge, and ex-officio Police Commissioner, I propose doing my duty as I see it, and refuse to move even a hair's breadth from the line of duty, notwithstanding deputies and petitions, mass meetings and resolutions, innuendo and misrepresentation, coarse abuse and brazen falsehood, yellow pulpiteers and deeper yellow irresponsible scribblers,—any or all of these do not move me one iota. I try to make them of no effect; but if they have any effect at all it must be to injure and destroy the object they so unwisely and illegally endeavour to promote and advance. I say illegally advisedly. The Code makes it a criminal offence to influence a juror on a case, it is not less so, and a contempt of court to endeavour to do so with a judge, only it is, I trust, less rare generally."

The use of the word "illegally" in the above raises a question of such importance that the following communication was addressed to the Attorney General:

To the Honourable J. J. Foy, Attorney General, Toronto.

Dear Mr. Foy,—The question has arisen in the City of Peterborough as to whether a Police Commission, one member of which is the County Judge, may properly be approached through petitions or otherwise on questions pertaining to police protection.

Does the presence of the Judge on the Commission bring the Commission under the rule by which it is improper for an individual or for individuals to approach a Judge acting in the judicial capacity?

We are most anxious to have your decision in this matter for our guidance.

Yours faithfully,
J. N. CLARRY,
Sec. Ministerial Association.

The following reply was received:

Dear Sir,—I have your letter of the 17th instant addressed to the Attorney General, and in reply may say that I am not aware of any reason why the Police Commission should not be approached through petitions or otherwise on questions pertaining to police protection.

Yours truly,
J. R. WAINWRIGHT.

Thanking you for your valuable space.

J. N. CLARRY,
Sec. Ministerial Association.

Blood was like Water Was given up to die of Anaemia by two doctors

A Letter of Unusual Interest Describes this Remarkable Cure

You will learn by reading this letter how medical doctors knock proprietary medicines and try to keep people from using them and learning of their value.

This letter also shows how medicines of proven merit often cure the most complicated cases after doctors had given up hope. In this case two doctors said Mr. Hyndman could not get better, and, in fact, he daily grew weaker so long as he followed their treatment. This is a remarkable victory for Dr. Chase's Medicines and you will find the details of the case interesting.

Mr. T. Hyndman, Farmer, Rupert, Que., writes:—"I had been gradually failing in health for two years and tried many remedies, among others I used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and found them doing me good. Some neighbors told me the Doctors said they were dangerous so I quit their use and went to the doctor. Under his treatment I got so weak I was unable to raise my head from the pillow, and he told me that I had Anaemia of the blood and could never be better again, so I sent for another doctor and he told me the same. I could not take their medicine and was continually vomiting, so I gave them up and said 'kill or cure I will again try Dr. Chase's medicines.'

I used altogether fourteen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and six boxes Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and now I can work from six o'clock in the morning until seven at night and I don't poke at it either. Any man that works a farm knows what kind of a job it is. I honestly believe that I owe my life to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Pills, and I praise them everywhere I go. Many of the people here use them to keep the system in good condition and prevent disease."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has no rival as a means of enriching the blood and building up the system. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Write for booklet.

PETERBOROUGH'S PITCHING STAFF NOT CAUSING MANAGEMENT ANY WORRY

While the majority of the Canadian League teams are worrying about their pitching staffs the Petes' management are not "bibbling" much about the local box squad. The only anxiety is over Bob Sterling, who has not yet come to terms. The big curve-ball pitcher was one of the mainstays of the team last year and the fans will hail with delight an announcement that he has signed his contract. With Sterling in line, Blount would have last year's pitching staff complete as a nucleus, while he has added a top-notch twirler in Louie Schettler, whose record speaks for itself. In 1912 he won ten out of 13 games in the Central League, won by Shaughnessy's Fort Wayne team, and last year he grabbed 12 out of 15 in the Inter State League, giving him a total of 22 wins and 6 losses in the two years. Then Blount has three or four young pitchers with good records to look over.

Last year's four finished the season in grand shape. Belting and Cresswell were ill in mid-season, but they wound up in fine style. Cresswell's parting performance of the season was a double victory over Hamilton.

BELLEVILLE BASKET BALL TEAM COMING HERE

A good game of basketball is scheduled for the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium on Saturday night when the fast Belleville Y.M.C.A. team will be here to clash with the local Y.M.C.A. five. The Easterners are said to have a crack team and from all reports the Petes will have their work cut out for them to hold the Bay of Quinte bunch. A big crowd of basketball fans will likely take advantage of this opportunity.

School Lacrosse Is Flourishing In The West

TORONTO, March 25.— "The success of the school lacrosse movement in B.C. has been far beyond anything I had ever dreamed of," writes Joe Lally from Vancouver. "It looks to me as if lacrosse will be placed on a firm basis in every town in that Province.

"We have organized New Westminster and have matters under way in Vancouver, which give promise of establishing lacrosse in every school in that city.

"My only fear is that, according to present indications, we may be short of sticks because it looks as if we will be able to place at least 1,000 dozen of these boys' sticks between Victoria and Winnipeg, and Ontario is certainly going to take more. I have written our factory to get all the men possible and to work overtime in order to get out our orders. The prairie and B.C. sticks will be shipped first, as their season is ahead of ours in Ontario and this may help out."

Calgary will be ready for the arrival of Mr. Lally, which will be in about three weeks. There is no reason why thirty good school teams cannot be formed there.

OUTRAM WINS BIG HANDICAP

ATHLETIC CLUB MEET TO-NIGHT

Members of the Peterborough Athletic Club and all wishing to join are reminded of the meeting in the Y.M.C.A. to-night at 8 o'clock. A report will be given on the result of the canvas for funds and other important business will come up. It is desirable that as many members as possible should be on hand to-night.

CRESSWELL IN GOOD SHAPE

Pitcher Stan Cresswell arrived home yesterday after spending the winter on the north shore. The big southpaw looks fit and well. He has put on weight during the winter and says he is in fine shape. He will spend the next few weeks at his home here, leaving to report at Youngstown on April 15th.

SECRETARY DOYLE WILL VISIT THIS CITY RE LACROSSE

Mr. L. Dobson has received a letter from Secretary Doyle of the Ontario Lacrosse Association to the effect that he will visit Peterborough during the present or next week. It is likely that a meeting of the local committee will be held before the date decided upon in order to assemble the information gathered during the past few weeks. All those interested are asked to watch for further announcement pending a reply from Mr. Doyle. Owing to a protracted absence from his office he had not received Mr. Dobson's letters until a few days ago.

Toronto, March 24.

Sporting Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I thank you for challenge inserted, and note that same is taken up by Jack Forbes. In reply to same I want Forbes to understand fully that if he wants to meet L. Hack again he will have to weigh in at 6 p.m. the night of bout, at 130 lbs., or forfeit $50.

Hack has a reputation to defend, but very often has to go out of his class to get bouts, and to a man like Forbes, 8 lbs. is a big handicap to give way.

Thanking you in advance, I beg to remain, yours,

H. MORT.

MERCANTILE HOCKEY LEAGUE.

There will be a meeting of the Mercantile Hockey League in the Y.M.C.A. Rooms on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

BIDGETS WHO WILL GUARD KEYSTONE FOR BOSTON

The combination of Walter Maranville at shortstop and Johnny Evers at second base gives Manager George Stallings of the Boston Braves a pair of guardians for the keystone station which will probably rank with that famous duo of the Philadelphia Athletics, Eddie Collins and Jack Barry. Maranville, a youngster, is one of the fastest men that has ever played in the infield. Evers, the veteran, is just as speedy as ever and the quickest baseball thinker that ever engineered a double play. It is expected that Maranville will prove to be an even better partner for Evers than was Joe Tinker. Experts agree that Evers and Maranville are the boys who are going to be responsible in a large measure for the splendid showing that their team is certain to make in the 1914 National League race. Walter Maranville is shown herewith on the left with Johnny Evers next to him.

LEGISLATURE SIMPLY REFUSES TO CONSIDER TAX REFORM

Rowell Points Out Weakness in Contention Raised by Hon. W. J. Hanna in Regard to the Pellatt Case.

SAYS NO DEMAND FOR IT

TORONTO, March 24.—There will be no assessment reform during the present session of the Legislature. That was the decision arrived at yesterday afternoon after a prolonged debate during which the Hon. W. J. Hanna called upon the Government ranks to kill a measure which had been submitted by the East Lambton Lambton Liberal, Mr. R. J. McCormick. The text of Mr. McCormick's bill was to make it possible for each municipality to secure local option in taxation. According to the terms of his bill, any municipality, upon petition of five per cent. of the ratepayers, could compel their local council to take a plebiscite upon the question as to whether or not improvements should be taxed upon a lower basis than land.

In the presentment of his measure, the Lambton Liberal pointed out that it was in response to an urgent petition from his constituency. If the tax was taken off improvements, he declared, the handicap upon new buildings would be removed, and the Province would speedily see better looking farms and nicer cities and towns. Further, it was but sane reasoning that the general health of the public would be improved. With the penalty removed for erecting proper homes, the slum districts would soon disappear, and the Province generally would benefit. If the Government wished, he could point to specific cases where farmers lived for years in squalid houses simply because they feared the taxation on improvements.

HANNA IS HUMOROUS.

Little encouragement came from the Hon. W. J. Hanna, who treated the bill quite humorously. It was rather funny, he thought, to see this old bill cropping up session after session, the only change being that it was a different Liberal who introduced it each year.

"That is the only change in the whole situation since a year ago," the Minister went on, "the change in the name on the back of the measure.

"I have been greatly interested in this matter, during the past summer, particularly in following the discussion regarding the specific case here in the city of Toronto, which assessment was worked upon the wording of the Act."

Though not naming the case, the Hon. Mr. Hanna went so far as to make it quite legible with the wording, "the big house on the hill." The Government had been censured for not assessing that building for the full cost of putting it there. City officials had decided to hold the assessment down to the amount by which the castle increased the value of the land.

NOT A LIVE ISSUE.

"If the legislation which is now so keenly pressed by the Opposition was in force," the Minister declared, "and that property was assessed upon a straight land valuation, the city of Toronto would have lost even the taxes on an assessment of $100,000. That is an extreme case, but we must not judge all cases by extreme ones. I do not recall a single case in any of the bye-elections since the session of 1913 where the so-called assessment reform was made an issue. I venture to say that not half a dozen votes were balloted during any of those elections upon the question of tax changes, or in opposition to the law as it now stands. No complaints have come to me, from the country, from the towns or villages about the law as it stands to-day and as it is being administered.

PETITIONERS FRIGHTENED.

The reply of the Opposition leader was a somewhat heated one, a reminder to the Government that the same interests which were advancing the cause of taxation reform a year ago were still behind the movement but the only reason the Government had been pressed with petitions and complaints was because the petitioners of a year ago received such a brusque reception that they hardly felt it in accord with their dignity to lay themselves open to more rejections. The fact that the Administration had frightened people off in this manner could not be taken as any indication that the same objectionable conditions no longer existed.

He had hoped, Mr. Rowell continued, that the Cabinet, after a year of reflection, and a year to see how ineffectively the law was working out the proposed reforms of the petitioners, would be prepared to come forwtrd and give sympathetic consideration. As he summed them up the Hon. Mr. Hanna had advanced three arguments: 1. That the present law was satisfactory; 2. That the point had not been a bye-election issue; and 3. That the Declamatory Act had improved conditions.

"Taxation reform was not made a controversial issue simply because the Government speakers did not attempt to answer any of the arguments we advanced."

THE WORKINGMAN HIT.

The Opposition leader answered the Provincial Secretary's argument regarding the Pellatt mansion by declaring that the Minister had looked at the question from the wrong angle. The present law, he pointed out, exempts improvements when they do not add to the selling value of the land. Therefore, he argued where a building was so costly as to be out of all proportion to all adjoining buildings, it could not add to the selling value of the land, because there was no person who would buy. As usual it was the workingman who was hit. It was the house for the average worker which nearly always increased the value of the land by the full cost of the building because the house was of staple design and size, and would, therefore sell easily. On the other hand, when dwellings reached the building cost of $20,000 or $50,000, they could not increase the selling value of the land by that amount, simply because the market of buyers for that grade of dwelling was greatly limited. Which ever way they chose to look at it, the worker was taxed for the full price of his house, while the more wealthy man was not.

Backing up the cause of the labourer in this "respect" was Mr. Allan Studholme, Labourite from East Hamilton.

STUDHOLME'S CHALLENGE.

While the energetic Labourite decried the Administration, Government members grew apathetic and drifted out of the House until only fourteen were left. Upon the fourteen Mr. Studholme centred his challenge to take a trip with him downtown. There, he declared, he could show them slum conditions which existed nowhere else upon the continent.

"But you won't go,' he threw at them, "for you know that seeing is believing. You would rather keep the worker in the tenement house than turn over your hand to the extent of passing a bill which would let him remove these conditions himself."

In the early part of the afternoon, Mr. N. W. Rowell attempted to take upon the Government the responsibility for fathering the taxation reform bill of the Manitoulin member, Mr. R. R. Gamey, but the Hon. Mr. Hanna refused to be trapped into an admission.

The Opposition continues to ask questions about the movements of Provincial Inspector W. K. Snider, in Welland, Peel and Huron prior to the vote on the Canada Temperance Act. But Mr. Hanna told them he had no further information to give. But that won't content them. They'll want to know something else to-morrow. Dr. McQueen, North Wentworth, for instance, asked the Government what action would be taken in the matter of the license inspector for North Waterloo. Mr. Hanna snapped out, "No action." And Mr. Bowman was promptly snubbed for asking, "per the order paper, if the Government meant to introduce any anti-treating legislation.

"That question should not have been on the order paper. It refers to policy," said Mr. Hanna.

To ascertain the why and the wherefore of the decline in rural population, Lt.-Col. Mayberry asks the Government to appoint a commission—"a non-partisan body of practical men," he called it.

HOW HE GOT TO THE TOP

"Young man, if you want to work for the C.P.R. you had better shed some of that superior toggery," said Sir Thomas (they Mr.) Shaughnessy to an exquisite in top hat, frock coat and lavender gloves, who away back in the eighties had presented him with a letter of introduction from Lord Mount Stephen. The young man had imagined that by dressing as a "toff" he would ingratiate himself into the favour of the head of the C. P. R., whom he found, much to his surprise, working in his shirt sleeves.

That young man, Mr. Randolph Bruce, was married this week to Lady Northcote, whose mother was the adopted daughter of Lord Mount Stephen.

The father of the young man who presented himself some twenty years ago to Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, was the parish minister of Glenrinness, where Lord Mount Stephen was born. He was a civil engineer by profession. As Lord Mount Stephen had done so well, he thought that he might have a chance, too; but when he got out here and found that the C. P. R. was through to the Coast he was afraid that he had come out too late. Nevertheless, shedding the swell toggery and getting employment on the survey, by the C. P. R., he made a good beginning. Then he was haunted by the desire to go mining. He prospected, and found ore in the Columbia Valley, but had no way of getting the ore out at the time.

Later the C.P.R. came in with the Kootenay Valley railway, which it is now prosecuting with vigour. Mr. Bruce, however, made an interesting discovery. He found that the land in the valley was capable of producing the most admirable vegetable and fruit products. He bought more. In all, he bought, bit by bit, 70,000 acres. Then he sold out and made his pile. He has still mining interests in the valley, which is one of the loveliest spots in the Province, and to this he intends to bring his bride, whom he met in England, through Lord Mount Stephen.

Lady Northcote has a brother, Viscount St. Cyr, who is lecturer in history, at Oxford—an exceedingly brilliant man.

Mr. Bruce is regarded as an old C.P.R. boy by the officials, who are much interested in his good luck, his material good fortune, which was made possible first of all by his connection with the C.P.R. and his happy marriage to a member of an old and aristocratic family. Mr. Bruce, himself, at a C.P.R. family dinner last year, in London, told the story of his first meeting with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy.

MADE HOLE IN HIS SUSPENDERS AND FRICTION SET HIM ON FIRE

Employee in Explosive Plant Although Clothed in Asbestos Met Terrible Death.

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT

NORTH BAY, March 24.—William Stuart, aged nineteen, died at North Bay Hospital as result of burns received in the factory of the Cheddite Explosives Company, at Widdifield, twelve miles from here, where he was employed. From the evidence of fellow-workmen, at the inquest held tonight before Coroner, Campbell Stuart was making a hole in his suspenders, which being impregnated with chloride and highly inflammable, ignited from friction.

His outer working clothes were asbestos material, but his underclothing caught fire, and, being full of chloride, burned so quickly that he was frightfully injured before he had time to take measures of safety. He jumped into a tub of water placed there for the purpose, but the damage had been done.

Precautions taken at the cheddite factory is an evidence of how dangerous the work is, not from explosion alone, but from fire, as everything becomes saturated with the explosive ingredients, so that slightest friction, even such as tearing a piece of cloth, will start a fire. One of the boasts of the company, however, is that the explosive will not burn without exploding. Employees upon entering the building must strip to the skin, pass into another room and under the shower bath, then into a third room where their working clothes are put on, and only then can work-rooms be entered. Coming out the same procedure is followed, making four shower baths per day for each employee.

Stuart was driven twelve miles to North Bay Hospital, but his life could not be saved.

Miss Edna Bullock of Otonabee is at present visiting in the Village, the guest of Mrs. G. Bullock.

On Monday, Mr. Harry Dunford had the misfortune to receive a severe cut in the back of his head, as the result of a runaway accident.

The regular meeting of the High School Literary Society was held in the rom of Form II. on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The feature of the meeting was the final debate between Third and First Forms, on the subject "Resolved that the execution of Charles I. was unjust." The speakers for the affirmative, Messrs. J. P. Sherin and W. J. Lemay, upheld the honour of the Third Form. Miss B. Ritchie and Mr. R. MacDonald of the 1st Form, spoke on the negative side.

While the judges, viz., Misses E. Sherin and V. Burgess and Mr. L. J. Garvey were arriving at a decision Mr. C. S. Carter, Principal of the L. H. S., addressed the meeting, on points of interest to the Society.

The judges announced that the Third Form had the better of the argument, whereupon Mr. C. S. Carter presented the beautiful silver debating trophy, the donation of Miss M. Young, former assistant teacher, to the leader of the affirmative side.

Mr. W. Lemay, leader, responded in a few suitable words.

The meeting was closed by an enthusiastic rendering of the High School "yell."

On Friday evening, March 20th, a decidedly pretty and interesting event took place at "Hillcrest," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Payne, Strickland street, when a miscellaneous shower was given, in honour of Miss Mary Spence.

The personal lady friends of the bride-elect, to the number of about thirty, were present, and truly her high esteem in the hearts of all was evinced by the 'shower" of gifts bestowed. These tokens of appreciation, preceded by a short address, were graciously received by Miss Spence.

After the serving of a light luncheon a time was spent in music and social intercourse. At the conclusion of a very pleasant evening an unanimous vote of thanks was tendered by the guests of the host and hostess.

The regular Citizenship meeting of the Epworth League of the Methodist Church was held in the basement of the Church on Monday evening, March 23. The meeting was led by the Fourth Vice President, Mr. V. E. Bullock.

The Bible lesson was read by Mr. R. Robinson and the topic "A Delinquent Boy," presented by the President, Mr. R. MacDonald.

Mr. E. Milburn gave a beautiful rendering of a solo, "Heaven is My Home."

Miss E. Balsdon rendered a violin solo.

The meeting was closed by the League Benediction.

"THE NEW MINISTER" WAS PRESENTED AT LAKEFIELD

With over a hundred friends aboard the special train carrying "The New Minister" caste, invaded Lakefield last evening and put on their performance in the Town Hall under the auspices of the Ladies' Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church. The hall was packed to capacity, standing room being at a premium and judging from the continuous [illegible] of appreciation which greeted their efforts, this company of young people will surely receive a warm welcome should they at some future date put on a similar entertainment.

At the close of the evening's performance Rev. Mr. McCorkindale voiced the appreciation of the Missionary Society for the kindness of the Young People of Knox Church in giving their services, and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered. Refreshments were afterwards served to those taking part, and this act on the part of the ladies was much appreciated by all participating.

In passing special mention is due to this comparatively new musical organization which has been quietly developing in the south section of the City. All the members are actively connected with Knox Church Y. P. G. or choir and have certainly enjoyed a very pleasant and profitable season's work. Mr. George Kenyon has proved himself a very efficient musical director while to Mr. C. H. Williamson the credit of organization must be given. Already plans are being formed for larger and better efforts in the future, and judging from the ambition and enthusiasm already displayed, big things may be anticipated.

School Friend Was Remembered

On Eve of Her Departure for Grimsby

Mrs. Payne, 108 Dufferin Street, gave a tea on Monday in honour of Miss Stella Comrie, on the eve of her departure from Peterborough. After spending an enjoyable evening they all proceeded to Miss Comrie's home, 391 Concession Street, and Miss Mae Newman presented her with a lovely manicure set and Miss Elva McIntyre read the following address:

Dear Stella,—We, your school friends have heard with deep regret of your intended departure from Peterborough. Your removal from our midst will be a distinct loss to your school friends and you will make a vacant place, which will be hard to fill. Dear Stella, you have always been a true friend to us all, both in our social and school life. You well deserve the name "Happy." You have certainly set us a good example by showing us that it is always best to look on the bright side of things. We now ask you to accept this little present in remembrance of your school friends and we pray that God may abundantly bless and prosper our dear "Happy" in her new home in Grimsby.

Signed on behalf of the School,
Mae Newman,
Elva McIntyre.

Miss Comrie, although taken very much by surprise, made a very suitable reply.

Stock Markets

A. E. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

You will probably see bullish spinal work continued with reactions of moderate extent in specific instances where vulnerability appears. The best stocks should be bought on soft places, for the trend upward is maintained. The market could be raised on the short interest now from five to ten points in the judgment of competent market advisors.

Eyes are turned on Washington, both bull and bears feel that their attention should be centred there. Good buying is reported in Bethlehem Steel on recessions.

The absorption of Union Pacific is of high grade. We find good buying of Great Northern, U.S.S. being sold by the room crowd. Reading is oversold by the shorts according to floor gossip.

Some buying of Atch. and Southern Pacific, Chicago and N.W., is for London account. Amalgamated Copper is well taken. Sentiment is friendly to electric stocks. The now dividend payers are at a point that appears a good purchase.

C.P.R. is a buy at present levels according to reports from them that know. Corn products should be a sale at/about 9.

20 active railroads declined 1-2 of a point.

London settlement concludes tomorrow.

LONDON, March 26. — The view of the Liberal morning papers in that though yesterday was the blackest day the Government had experienced in its whole existence, and, in the words of The Daily Chronicle, "It seemed as if its life was worth 48 hours' purchase," now the air has cleared and the Government is rehabilitated and in a stronger position than ever.

The Chronicle remarks that in the face of the common danger from the Tories and the army combining together, Labor is now making common cause with Liberalism, and whenever the general election occurs, instead of engaging in a fratricidal strife, Liberals and Laborites will stand shoulder to shoulder in the defence of civil authority and the rights of a free democracy.

The Morning Post, still insisting on the existence of a plot and urging the Unionists in Parliament to compel the Government to divulge the nature of the verbal instructions given to Gen. Paget, argues that Col. Seely's real motive and only reason for adding the two clauses to the guarantee given to Gen. Gough was to prevent the disclosure of the plot.

SEVEN HOUR ADDRESS

OTTAWA, March 26.—Hon. G. P. Graham concluded at six o'clock last night a speech which, lasting over seven hours, comprises a convincing and complete reply to the two years of effort on the part of the Government and of their sixty-thousand-dollar partisan advocates, Messrs. Gutelius and Lynch-Staunton, to discredit the National Transcontinental Railway and the Liberal party, regardless of facts, fairness, logic, or national consequences.

It was a thorough and finished production, and even the Ministerial members admit that it is the Commissioners and the Government which are now on the defensive, rather than the Liberal party and the men who evolved the conception of the finest transcontinental line on the continent, and who, up to the end of 1911, had carried it through honestly and successfully.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham, resuming his speech, said the commissioners had published to the world a solemn finding that "neither the National Transcontinental Commissioners nor the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., nor anyone connected with the work appeared to think that economy was necessary or even desirable."

Mr. Graham said this startling indictment of hundreds of Canadian engineers and officials in the employ of the Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific was the most outrageous assault upon the good name of this country that could be conceived of.

Its effect had been to hurt Canadian credit and to absolutely cripple the Grand Trunk Pacific in its efforts to complete the great national highway. Every Canadian who went to England, to borrow money for legitimate purposes had this report thrown in his face. Its publication and endorsement by the Government at a time of financial stress like the present was an unspeakable outrage against which bankers and business men all over the country were vigorously protesting.

Dealing with the question of capitalization per mile Mr. Graham said it was not at all high considering its perfection and he had no hesitation considering the C.P.R.'s grants and subsidies, the N. T. R. was less heavily capitalized than the older line.

In conclusion, he urged the Government to stop degrading the standard of the National Transcontinental and moved a vote of censure on the Government for accepting the report of the N. T. R. commissioners.

W. S. Middlebro (Con., N. Grey) replied to Mr. Graham.

The object of building the National Transcontinental, he said, had been to create a corporation which would reduce and regulate freight rates. The Laurier Government had held out the lure that this road would be a real competitor to the Canadian Pacific. Naturally, if it was to be a real competitor the cost had to be kept down, so that the amount of fixed charges would not interfere with cheap and efficient operation.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had told Parliament and the country that the road would not cost over $13,000,00. True, he explained this afterwards by saying that $13,000,000 would be the equivalent of the seven years' contribution to be granted to the Grand Trunk Pacific. In other words, the country was to borrow money to build the road at 3 per cent., and collect 3 per cent. per annum upon the amount so borrowed and invested from the Grand Trunk Pacific. Thus one hand would wash the other, except that for the first seven years the Grand Trunk Pacific would pay no rent, and the Government would be out the interest upon its investment during that period.

Mr. Middlebro proceeded to prove that, including interest, the road would actually cost the country before any rental could be collected, $273,000,000, or $31,000,000 more than the entire national debt. He then said that if the Grand Trunk Pacific ever undertook to operate the road it could not be called upon to pay more than $5,400,000 per year, or 1.62 per cent. for the money, which cost the Government of Canada 4 per cent.

Mr. Middlebro severely scored the contract made by the Laurier Government with the G. T. P. "We were dealing with a straw company, whose entire paid-up capital was less than $200,000," he said.

Mr. Middlebro said the westerners might as well make up their minds to pay excessive freight rates in perpetuity. How could the G.T.P. ever reduce rates when it was capitalized at $103,000 per mile? When the Canadian Pacific opened its transcontinental line in 1886, its capitalization was only $37,000 per mile.

F. B. Carvell (Carleton, N.B.) followed Mr. Middlebro. He said the commissioners had been selected as executioners, not as judges.

questions of [illegible] over-break. Mr. Carvell demanded to know why the Government had not taken some steps to recoup itself against contractors who had profited by false and fraudulent classification. When the Government came into power they probably had in their hands $1,000,000 belonging to M. F. Davis. Why did they not hold on to this $740,000 and make Davis sue for it? Why did they not now bring suits against Davis and other wealthy men?

"The fact is," Mr. Carvell declared, "that the Government does not believe in the report of Lynch-Staunton and Gutelius, and Lynch-Staunton and Gutelius don't believe in it themselves."

H. B. Ames (St. Antoine, Montreal) moved the adjournment of the debate.

OTTAWA, March 26.—The debate in the Senate was resumed by Senator Choquette of Quebec on his bill to amend the criminal code by forbidding newspapers to reproduce portraits of persons charged with crime.

In reply to Senator Dennis of Halifax, who last week made a speech against the bill, saying the bill proposed to heap approbium on the heads of the publishers and booksellers of Canada, and said there was no demand for Senator Choquette's bill. Senator Choquette read a letter from the secretary of the Retailers' Association, written from Toronto. The letter said that the booksellers of Canada were in favor of the bill. Senator Choquette read a letter from a man "who had been on the Supreme Court bench of Nova Scotia for 24 years," and who approved his bill. From all other parts of the country he had received letters of commendation.

Senator Coffey adjourned the debate.

THRICE FOUND GUILTLESS.

Senators Refuse to Hear Charges Against Woman Again.

OTTAWA, March 26.—The Hamilton divorce case met another defeat in the Senate yesterday.

Senator Kirchhoffer, chairman of the divorce committee, moved to restore the Hamilton divorce case to the order paper, from which it was removed last week when a motion for the adoption of the report failed to carry.

Senator Davis said the Senate had defeated this divorce application for three successive years. The last defeat occurred only a few days ago, yet the chairman of the committee was not satisfied. He thought the application had been given ample consideration and moved the six months' hoist.

Senator Cloran supported Senator Davis' amendment, declaring that after having three times in three successive years been found guiltless, Mrs. Hamilton was still being hunted.

The motion for the six months' hoist was carried by 27 to 23.

Ambassador Page Honored.

ABERDEEN, Scotland, March 26.—The degree of doctor of literature was conferred yesterday on Walter Hines Page, American ambassador to the court of St. James, at Aberdeen University. While the ambassador was being capped the "Star Spangled Banner" was played on the organ.

POINTS CLEARED UP

Compensation Act Reaches the Committee Stage.

TAX REFORM IS UP AGAIN

Debate on McCormick Bill Is Adjourned and R. Magean Introduces a New Measure Providing Local Option For Northern Counties — Bill For Fire-Marshal Is Introduced.

TORONTO, March 26.—In the progress of the Workmen's Compensation Bill through committee in the evening session, some light was directed on several of the more important clauses.

The delay of proclamation until Jan. 1, 1915, at the latest brought some comment from the Opposition. The Treasurer again explained that the organization was the cause. The Government named the board and they in turn appointed their officers. It was further stated that the labor delegates had approved the date settled.

Mr. Rowell moved that the date be set at Sept. 1st, but on a vote the motion was lost.

Mr. Rowell further urged that collective liability should be made more universal by putting all industries under schedule one, but this was also lost on vote.

Mr. Rowell also took the ground that the Government should see that medical men should have their services remunerated without any serious loss to the workingmen, and suggested something along that line.

The reply was that nothing was to be taken from the workingman, but that now he was assured of a certain and steady income. The board had power to make him act fairly and honestly with the doctor.

Dr. McQuesten (Wentworth) said many countries set aside a specified sum and urged it here, but the clause was carried as it stood.

The clause allowing the commissioners to sit for ten years unless removed for "cause" created some discussion. It was urged that no good man from a high court bench would consider so short an appointment without a serious consideration.

Mr. Rowell wanted to do away with all costs in connection with the board, which, according to the act, was left at the tribunal's discretion. The clause was held over for further consideration.

Two assessment measures were discussed and a third was introduced yesterday afternoon. Of the two debated, that of R. J. McCormick was left over for further consideration, while that of R. H. Gamey (Con., Manitoulin) was withdrawn.

In support of Mr. McCormick's bill providing a lower assessment on improvements, T. Marshall (Monck) cited instances of assessors hearing of new bathrooms added to private homes and raising the yearly tax on that basis. The whole question of the present system was that neglect of property meant a saving in taxes and ambition brought a penalty.

Wm. Proudfoot (Huron) claimed that the Government members were muzzled and that their position was indefensible.

J. C. Elliott said Toronto, Ottawa, and London had spoken strongly for local option privilege.

On motion of Henry Elliot (South Huron) the debate was adjourned.

Mr. Gamey's measure, in which during other things he advocated compelling every man to make a sworn statement of his resources under penalty of a fine, half of which was to be paid to persons who laid complaints, was explained at length, but at a suggestion from the Provincial Secretary, Mr. Gamey withdrew it, "with regret, in view of the position of the Government."

Mr. Magean's new assessment bill aims to apply local option only in the newer parts of the province.

Acting Premier Foy introduced a bill for the appointment of a fire marshal for the Province of Ontario, whose duty it will be to investigate fires, especially those which appear to have been caused by carelessness or design.

The act provides that for the purpose of providing a fund for the remuneration of the fire marshal and other officers each insurance company shall pay an additional tax not exceeding one-third of one per cent. of the gross premiums received during the previous year.

To See Premier Borden.

OTTAWA, March 26.—Hon. Adam Beck and a dozen of the western Ontario members of the huge Hydro-electric delegation which will wait on the Government to-day arrived here yesterday. They are seeking Federal subsidies for electric railways similar to those given steam railways.

It is said that the delegation will number over 2,000.

Warning of Derelict.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Warning of a derelict in the steamship line between New York and Europe was sent broadcast yesterday by the wireless at Brooklyn navy yard. A message from the Kron Prinzessin Cecilie to the branch hydrographic office here said that Tuesday she has passed, in latitude 40.12N., longitude 66.50W., a spar attached to a wreck. The position is a little to the south of the eastbound land, and the derelict was drifting to the northeast.

Torreon's Defenders Make Better Defence Than Expected.

EL PASO, Texas, March 26.—Meagre advices from the front yesterday were mixed in character, but out of the medley, schooled observers here said they drew the conclusion that the rebels met at Torreon and Gomez Palacio an enemy in no wise inferior, and that their attack had been checked at the onset of the battle proper.

Rebel officers at Juarez, as well as refugees in this city, say they place more reliance on despatches from legitimate correspondents at the front than on so-called official despatches. One of the correspondent yesterday wired:

"Villa says wires will be open when he reaches Torreon."

In the course of the day no other press despatch was received, but this one, it was said, plainly carried the inference that the attack on Torreon had only begun.

Rebel advices here yesterday were that Villa was attacking the outskirts of Torreon and that two-thirds of the rebel army, under the direct command of Gen. Benavides, were thus engaged.

Unconfirmed rumors had it that Villa had executed 240 Federal prisoners, and that in one assault 58 Federals were killed and 100 wounded.

The Constitutionalist sympathizers place a gloomy construction on the failure of detailed newspaper despatches to get through.

Add distilled water until the whole amounts to six ounces. Rub this mixture into the roots of the hair every night.

TO CLEAN ALUMINUM.

Having watched a friend cleaning the aluminum parts of his automobile with an emulsion of equal parts alcohol and olive oil, I straightaway tried the same method on my aluminum kettles and pans with equal success. I had found it hard to renew aluminumware after it had become discoloured—as others have, too, no doubt.

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

"So I have been told by every tenant I have questioned, and I was careful to question them, I assure you."

"That settles the matter in my mind," I asserted. "These women know of some means of entrance that has escaped general discovery. Cunning is a common attribute of the unsettled brain."

"And they are very cunning. Miss Saunders, you have put a totally new idea into my head. I do not place much stress upon the motive you have attributed to them, nor do I see how the appearances noted could have been produced by these two antiquated women; but the interest they have displayed in the effect these have had upon others has been of the most decided nature. They have called here after the departure of every fresh tenant, and it was all that I could do to answer their persistent inquiries. It is to them and not to Mr. Searles I feel bound to report the apparition seen by Mrs. Packard."

"To them!" I ejaculated in amazement. "Why to them They no longer have a proprietary interest in the house."

"Very true, but they long ago exacted a promise from me to keep a strict account of such complaints as were raised against the house. They, in short, paid me to do so. From time to time they have come here to read this account. It annoys Mr. Searles, but I have had considerable patience with them for reasons which your kind heart will instantly suggest."

I thought of the real pathos of the situation and how much I might increase his interest by giving him the full details of their pitiful history, and the maddening hopes it engendered of a possible discovery of the treasure they still believed to be hidden in the house. What I said, however, was this:

"You have kept an account, you say, of the varied phenomena seen in this house You have that account now?"

"Yes, Miss Saunders."

"Let us look it over together. Let us see if it does not give us some clue to the mystery puzzling us."

He eyed me doubtfully, or as much so as his great nature would allow. Meantime, I gauged my man. Was he to be thoroughly and unequivocally trusted? His very hesitation in face of his undoubted sympathy with me seemed to ensure that he was. At all events, the occasion warranted some risk on my part. At least I persuaded myself that it did; so without waiting for his reply, I earnestly remarked:

"The matter is more serious than you suppose. If the Mayor were not unavoidably called away by his political obligations, he would add his entreaties to mine for a complete sifting of this whole affair. The Misses Quinlan may very well be innocent of inciting these manifestations; if so, we can do them no harm by a little confidential consideration of the affair from the standpoint I have given you. If they are not, then Mr. Searles and Mayor Packard should know it."

It appeared to convince him. His homely face shone with the fire of sudden interest and resolve, and, reaching for a small drawer at the right of his desk, he opened it and drew forth a folded paper which he proceeded to open before me with the remark:

"Here is a report that I have kept for my own satisfaction. I do not feel that in showing it to you I am violating any trust reposed in me by the Misses Quinlan. I never promised secrecy in the matter."

I glanced at the paper, all eagerness. He smiled and pushed it toward me. This is what I read:

First tenant, Mr. Hugh Dennison and family.

Night 1: Heard and saw nothing.

Night 2: The entire household wakened by a scream seemingly coming from below. This was twice repeated before Mr. Dennison could reach the hall; the last time in far distant and smothered tones. Investigation revealed nothing. No person and no trace of any persons, save themselves, could be found anywhere in the house. Uncomfortable feelings, but no alarm as yet.

Night 3: No screams, but a sound of groaning in the library. The tall clock standing near the drawing-room door stopped at twelve, and a door was found open which Mr. Dennison is sure he shut tight on retiring. A second unavailing search. One servant left the next morning.

Night 4: Footfalls on the stairs. The library door, locked by Mr. Dennison's own hand, is heard to unclose. The timepiece on the library mantel-shelf strikes twelve; but it is slightly fast, and Mr. and Mrs. Dennison, who have crept from their room to the stair-head, listen breathlessly for the deep boom of the great hall clock—the one which had stopped the night before. No light is burning anywhere, and the hall below is a pit of darkness, when suddenly Mrs. Dennison seizes her husband's arm and, gasping out, "The clock, the clock!" falls fainting to the floor. He bends to look and faintly, in the heart of the shadows, he catches in dim outline the face of the clock, and reaching up to it a spectral hand. Nothing else—and in another moment that, too, disappears; but the silence is something awful—the great clock has stopped. With a shout he stumbles downward, lights up the hall, lights up the rooms, but finds nothing, and, no one. Next morning the second servant leaves, but her place is soon supplied by an applicant we will call Bess.

Night 5: Mrs. Dennison sleeps at a hotel with the children. Mr. Dennison, revolver in hand, keeps watch on the haunted stairway. He has fastened up every door and shutter with his own hand, and with equal care extinguished all lights. As the hour of twelve approaches, he listens breathlessly. There is certainly a stir somewhere, but he can not locate it, nor quite satisfy himself whether it is a footfall or a rustle that he hears. The clock in the library strikes twelve, then the one in the hall gives one great boom, and stops. Instantly he raises his revolver and shoots directly at its face. No sound from human lips answers the discharge of the weapon. In the flash which for a moment has lighted up the whole place, he catches one glimpse of the broken dial with its two hands pointing directly at twelve, but nothing more. Then all is dark again, and he goes slowly back to his own room.

The next day he threw up his lease.

Second tenant: Mrs. Crispin.

Stayed but one night. Would never tell us what she saw.

Third tenant: Mrs. Southwick. Hires Bess for maid-of-all-work, the only girl she could get.

Night 1: Unearthly lights shining up through the house, waking the family. Disappeared as one and all came creeping out into the hall.

Night 2: The same, followed by deep groans. Children waked and shrieked.

Night 3: Nothing.

Night 4: Lights, groans and strange shadows on the walls and ceilings of the various hallways. Family give notice the next day, but do not leave for a week, owing to sickness. No manifestations while doctor and nurses are in the house.

House stands vacant for three months. Bess offers to remain in it as caretaker, but her offer is refused.

Police investigate.

An amusing farce.

One of them saw something and could not be laughed out of it by his fellows. But the general report was unsatisfactory. The mistake was the employment of Irishment in a task involving superstition.

Fourth tenant: Mr. Weston and family.

Remain three weeks. Leaves suddenly because the nurse encountered something moving about in the lower hall one night when she went down to the kitchen to procure hot water for a sick child. Bess again offered her services, but the family would not stay under any circumstances.

Another long period without tenant.

Mr. Searles tries a night in the empty house. Sits and dozes in library till two. Wakes suddenly. Door he has tightly shut is standing open. He feels the draft. Turns on light from dark lantern. Something is there—a shape—he can not otherwise describe it. As he stares at it, it vanishes through doorway. He rushes for it; finds nothing. The hall is empty; so is the whole house.

This finished the report.

"So Mr. Searles has had his own experiences of these mysteries!" I exclaimed.

"As you see. Perhaps that is why he is so touchy on the subject."

"Did he ever give you any fuller account of his experience than is detailed here?"

"No: he won't talk about it."

"He tried to let the house, however."

"Yes, but he did not succeed for a long time. Finally the mayor took it."

Refolding the paper, I handed it back to Mr. Robinson. I had its contents well in mind.

"There is one fact to which I should like to call your attention," said I. "The manifestations as here recorded, have all taken place in the lower part of the house. I should have had more faith in them, if they had occurred above stairs. There are no outlets through the roof."

"Nor any visible ones below. At least no visible one was ever found upon."

THESE TWO YOUNG WOMEN

Tell How They Suffered and How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Their Health and Stopped all Pains.

Zanesville, Ohio.—"I would have cramping spells, distressed feeling in the lower part of my back, headaches and felt weak and was very irregular. After taking five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with Liver Pills for constipation, I felt well and strong and have no more female troubles. I hope every suffering woman will give your medicine a trial. I give you permission to publish what your remedies have done for me."—Mrs. ROY SIMMS, R. No. 6, Box 34, Zanesville, Ohio.

What Ten Dollars Did.

Danville, Va.—"I have only spent ten dollars on your medicine and I feel so much better than I did when the doctor was treating me. I don't suffer any bearing down pains at all now and I sleep well. I cannot say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills as they have done so much for me. I am enjoying good health now and owe it all to your remedies. I take pleasure in telling my friends and neighbors about them."—Mrs. MATTIE HALEY, 501 Colquhone Street, Danville, Va.

"What about the woman, Bess?" I asked. "How do you account for her persistency in clinging to a place her employers invariably fled from? She seems to have been always on hand with an offer of her services."

"Bess is not a young woman, but she is a worker of uncommon ability, very rigid and very stoical. She herself accounts for her willingness to work in this house by her utter disbelief in spirits, and the fact that it is the one place in the world which connects her with her wandering and worthless husband. Their final parting occurred during Mr. Dennison's tenancy, and as she had given the wanderer the Franklin Street address, you could not reason her out of the belief that on his return he would expect to find her there. That is what she explained to Mr. Searles."

"You interest me, Mr. Robinson. Is she a plain woman? Such a one as a man would not be likely to return to?"

"No, she is a very good-looking woman, refined and full of character, but odd, very odd,—in fact, baffling."

"How baffling?"

"I never knew her to look any one directly in the eye. Her manner is abstracted and inspires distrust. There is also a marked incongruity between her employment and her general appearance. She looks out of place in her working apron, yet she is not what you would call a lady."

"Did her husband come back?"

"No, not to my knowledge."

"And where is she now?"

"Very near you, Miss Saunders, when you are at your home in Franklin Street. Not being able to obtain a situation in the house itself, she has rented the little shop opposite, where you can find her any day selling needles and thread."

"I have noticed that shop," I admitted, not knowing whether to give more or less weight to my suspicions in thus finding the mayor's house under the continued gaze of another watchful eye.

"You will find two women there," the amiable Mr. Robinson hastened to explain. "The one with a dark red spot just under her hair is Bess. But perhaps she doesn't interest you. She always had me. If it had not been for one fact, I should have suspected her of having been in some way connected with the strange doings we have just been considering. She was not a member of the household during the occupancy of Mrs. Crispin and the Westons, yet these unusual manifestations went on just the same."

"Yes, I noted that."

"So her connivance is eliminated."

"Undoubtedly. I am still disposed to credit the Misses Quinlan with the whole ridiculous business. They could not bear to see strangers in the house they had once called their own, and took the only means suggested to their crazy old minds to rid the place of them."

Mr. Robinson shook his head, evidently unconvinced. The temptation was great to strengthen my side of the argument by a revelation of their real motive.

Once acquainted with the story of the missing bonds he could not fail to see the extreme probability that the two sisters, afflicted as they were with dementia, should wish to protect the wealth which was once so near their grasp, from the possibility of discovery by a stranger. But I dared not take him quite yet into my full confidence. Indeed, the situation did not demand it. I had learned from him what I was most anxious to know, and was now in a position to forward my own projects without further aid from him. Almost as if he had read my thoughts, Mr. Robinson now hastened to remark:

"I find it difficult to credit these poor old souls with any such elaborate plan to empty the house, even had they possessed the most direct means of doing so, for no better reason than this one you state. Had money been somehow involved, or had they even thought so, it would have been different. They are a little touched in the head on the subject of money; which isn't very strange considering their present straits. They even now show an interest in other people's money. They have asked me more than once if any of their former neighbours have seemed to grow more prosperous since leaving Franklin Street."

"I see; touched, touched!" I laughed, rising in my anxiety to hide any show if feeling at the directness of this purely accidental attack. But the item struck me as an important one.

Mr. Robinson gave me a keen look as I uttered the usual commonplaces and prepared to take my leave.

"May I ask you intentions in this matter?" said he.

"I wish I knew them myself," was my perfectly candid answer. "It strikes me now that my first step should be to ascertain whether there exists any secret connection between the two houses which would enable the Misses Quinlan or their emissaries to gain access to their old home, without ready detection. I know of none, and—"

"There is none," broke in its now emphatic agent. "A half-dozen tenants, to say nothing of Mr. Searles himself, have looked it carefully over. All the walls are intact; there is absolutely no opening anywhere for surreptitious access."

"Possibly not. You certainly discourage me very much. I had hoped much from my theory. But we are not done with this matter. Mrs. Packard's mind must be cleared of its fancies, if it is in my power to do it. You will hear from me again, Mr. Robinson. Meanwhile, I may be sure of your good will?"

"Certainly, certainly, and of my co-operation, also, if you want it."

"Thank you," said I, and left the office.

Nerves Were So Bad

THOUGHT SHE WOULD GO OUT OF HER MIND.

Diseases of the nervous system are very common. All the organs of the body may be sound while the nerve centres may be affected.

Many women become run down and worn out by household cares and duties never ending, and sooner or later find themselves with the nerves shattered, and the heart action weakened.

On the first sign of any weakness of either the heart of nerves, flagging energy, or physical breakdown, do not wait until your case becomes hopeless.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will at once quieten the nerves, strengthen the heart and build up the entire system.

Mrs. Archie Goodine, Tilley, N.B., writes:—"When I was troubled with my heart two years ago, I was very bad. My nerves were so unstrung that sometimes I would almost go out of my mind. I doctored myself with everything I could get, until at last I got four boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and they have cured me. I cannot speak too highly of this wonderful remedy, and will recommend it to all sufferers."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GETTING DOWN TO FACTS.

A young fellow who was an inveterate cigarette smoker, went to the country for a vacation. Reaching the small town in the early morning, he wanted a smoke, but there was no store open. He saw a boy smoking a cigarette, and approached him, saying:

"Say, my boy, have you got another cigarette?"

"No, sir," said the boy; "but I've got the makings."

"All right," the city chap said. "But I can't roll 'em very well. Will you fix one for me?"

"Sure," said the boy.

"Don't believe I've got a match," said the man, as he searched his pockets.

The boy handed him a match.

"Say," the boy said, "you ain't got anything, but the habit, have you?"

THOUSANDS OF SUFFERERS

Bless The Day They First Used GIN PILLS For The Kidneys.

Galette, Ont.

"My husband used GIN PILLS for Backache and Kidney Disease. The pain in the back was dreadful and the kidneys failed to do their work properly. As he became worse, we found it necessary to begin treatment, and unfortunately wasted time and money on remedies that were little or no good. After taking one dose of GIN PILLS, he found them to be exactly what he needed, and after taking two boxes of GIN PILLS, was completely cured. We heartily recommend GIN PILLS at every opportunity to our friends and relatives". Mrs. JAMES B. MILFORD.

Loss of Life in Industry

"Few people have any conception of the heavy toll of human life levied every year by the two great industries of the mines and railways," says the London Daily Graphic.

"According to Mr. J. H. Thomas, during the ten years 1902 to 1912 there were no fewer than 4,923 railwaymen killed—a figure which works out to about 490 a year.

"In the case of mines the record is even more grave. A recently issued Parliamentary Paper shows that in coal mines deaths reached the total of 1,310. This figure means that on the average four men are killed every day in the mines of the United Kingdom. A great nation ought not to look on complacently while her sons are compelled to sacrifice their lives in their daily work on the scale disclosed.

England's Oddest Manor.

There is an English parish, only forty-eight miles from London, where roads, shops, lamps, telephones, motor-cars and postoffices are unknown. It is Elmley, and it is an island, says the Boston Transcript. The island has an area of 2,000 acres and is the property of Oxford university.

Some time ago the island was the home of thirty-five men, women and children. The inhabitants are mostly "lookers" or shepherds of large flocks of sheep. The oldest man of the village is in his seventieth year. He has never seen a motor-car.

The school and church are the two chief landmarks on the island. The reason they were built in such a sparsely populated spot is that in winter it is almost impossible to leave the island. The mud is literally knee deep, and the ferry that runs to and from the island is dangerous. A novel method of obtaining the services of the ferrymen, who live opposite the island, is by opening the white door of a hut facing the shore. The ferrymen on the lookout know that the open door is a signal for the ferry. At night a lighted candle held aloft serves the purpose of the open door.

Detective Stories as Told by Real Detectives

RUNNING DOWN THE SLAYERS OF "PADDY THE PRIEST"

His Eyes Were Glued on the Ladderlike Stairway.

CROUCHED in the darkest corner of a damp and stinking black cellar far over on the west side of New York city a murderer toyed with the pair of magazine pistols that were primed for instant use. His eyes were glued on the ladder-like stairway that led into his burrow, and, solemnly he swore he'd kill the first man who attempted to enter the cellar that morning.

For two hours the murderer lurked in his foul smelling lair. He, together with the accomplice who stood at his side when he killed his man, had made their way to the cellar from the roof of a building several doors from the scene of the killing. The slayer had urged his accomplice to make a run for it an hour or two before dawn, he preferring to lay low until he could walk forth in broad daylight to the dive a friend of his kept, where he knew he would be stowed away safe from all prying eyes.

As the slayer crouched in his corner he deliberately set to work to destroy every particle of telltale evidence that he might have about him. He had fired three shots at the man he had just killed. Therefore it was expedient to remove the three empty shells from his revolver, wipe out its barrel and thus destroy all evidence of its having recently been fired. The empty shells were tossed into a corner of the cellar, and then the slayer [illegible] his pockets in quest of letters, [illegible] that might tend to shed light on his past in the event of his capture.

A well worn and much thumbed memorandum book was found in an inner pocket. Jotted upon its leaves were many names and opposite some of them were addresses. Two names—John Mulraney and John J. Dowling—appeared more frequently in the book than any others, and under the circumstances that book had much better be reduced to the tiniest scraps of paper possible. Page by page, seemingly, the slayer tore that book to bits. The little particles of paper were strewn broadcast, and as they lay scattered about the cellar floor the murderer remarked with a chuckle:—"The guy what tries to put them pieces together will tackle a job worse than a Chinese puzzle. It just can't be did, that's all there is to that!"

At fifteen minutes after two o'clock on the morning of October 4, 1913, Lieutenant Daniel Kerr, in charge of the Fourth Detective district, with headquarters in the West Forty-seventh street police station, was awakened to learn that Patrick McBreen, known from one end of the city to the other as "Paddy the Priest," had been held up by two burglars in his saloon at No. 771 Tenth avenue and mortally shot. "Paddy the Priest" was widely known for his charities and was highly thought of on the west side. The acting captain of detectives, hastily donning his clothes to get out and take personal charge of the man-hunt, as soon concluded that with a victim de regular as "Paddy" he would have little trouble in running down his slayer, for every man and woman in that part of the city would aid in the search.

No sooner had the murder been reported at Police Headquarters than George S. Dougherty, then Second Deputy Police Commissioner and in charge of the Bureau of Detectives, was apprised of it. He called Acting Captain Kerr on the telephone and told him he would be with him in less than an hour. Despite the fact that Dougherty had to come all the way from his Sheepshead Bay home, he was true to his word, and when his motor car halted before the door of the saloon where the killing had been effected he leaped out to join Kerr and Detectives Barber, Fitzpatrick and Burgess, who were already at work in search of clews.

The murderer, or murderers, had made a clean job of it. There wasn't a possible clew to be picked up in that early morning search, and not a stain, footstep, finger print nor any of the other agencies so strongly relied upon by police could be found to aid the detectives. Here was a case that would require no end of hard work to unravel and, as Dougherty and Kerr agreed, one in which only detective work of the highest order could bring results.

About ten hours after the murder had been committed Kerr turned up two men who admitted that the, had seen two other men enter the saloon a few minutes before the "Priest" was stuck up and shot down.

"Would you know them two men if you saw them again?" the detective asked.

"Would we know them? Well, I reckon. One of them guys was so tough he'd barmaid stiff if he caught a glimpse of his own mug in a looking glass. The other fellow was tough, all right, too, but the other was the limit."

The detective got a fair description of the two men he wanted and at once spread the police net far and wide. "Paddy the Priest" died a few hours after being removed to the Flower Hospital and without gaining consciousness. Apparently there wasn't a single eye-witness to the actual killing, said the detectives. All only a hazy description to work upon.

A search in the immediate vicinity of the murder had been instituted. All the residents had been interviewed, and there was none who could tell of the presence of a single suspicious person in that neighborhood. All who lived thereabouts could readily account for their movements and even the men who admitted that they had seen the two men enter the saloon had a well substantiated alibi and could account for their movements, as there had been a fire in the neighborhood and they had aided the firemen at this blaze.

From the description given him by these two men the detective went to Police Headquarters and after scrutinizing scores of photographs in the Rogues' Gallery finally picked out one as that closely answering the description of "the tough guy." Certainly the face depicted on the little card was tough enough to please any one, and, as Kerr expressed it, "If the man who killed 'Paddy' was tougher looking than this chap, then I know I have my work cut out for me in taking him."

The portrait selected by the detective was that of John, or "Happy Jack," Mulraney, a well known burglar and only out of Auburn Prison after a six years' term, less than a month. This photograph was shown to the men who had described the two men entering the saloon just before the murder, and each said he was positive that that was one of the men, although they would prefer to see "the mug in person."

Thirty-six hours after the murder of "Paddy" a woman living at No. 503 West Fifty-third street told Detective Kerr that while cleaning up her cellar she had found three empty cartridge shells lying in a corner and a number of little scraps of paper which she had no recollection of having seen there before. The detective was in that cellar within ten minutes, and on hands and knees he covered every inch of it, until he had every tiny scrap of paper that could be found lying loose, as well as the three shells. One glance at the shells was sufficient to prove that they were of the same calibre as the bullets which killed "Paddy the Priest." This was either a clew or a coincidence. In either event the detective intended to play it for all it was worth.

After hours of toil Detective Kerr had several pages of the memorandum book pieced out, and upon them appeared the names of John Mulraney and John J. Dowling. As soon as he spied the name Mulraney he knew he was on the right track, for had he not picked out Mulraney's photograph from the Rogues' Gallery on the description a stranger had given him?

"Grab Mulraney and we will have 'Paddy's' slayer!" was the order Kerr issued to his men when he returned to his quarters in the police station.

It was only a question of a few hours before a complete line was got on Mulraney's haunts and his comrades. A "stool pigeon" was pressed into service, and it was the detective's orders that no arrests were to be made until both men could be picked up simultaneously. Matters had become slightly complicated when it was learned from the "stool" that a third man had figured in the murder. Still another order was issued that "all three must be pinched" and the arrests should be made at the same time.

"There can be no getaways in this case," the detective in charge told his men. "And when we grab them all together there will be comfort on the [illegible] while [illegible] up [illegible]

[illegible] complete our case. We are up against it as it is, and we won't borrow trouble. I ran across the name of 'Marty' Fay in that book also, so suppose you be on the lookout for him. He's a bad one, anyhow, and will bear watching."

The trail was picked up in Harlem. Detective Barber learned that the names of Mulraney, Dowling and Fay were well known in the vicinity of Lexington avenue and 100th street, and that they frequented many of the saloons of that vicinity. Three hours after the police were in possession of this information a "stool pigeon" was buying drinks for the three men wanted, and nine days after the murder a squad of detectives closed in on the quartet at Park avenue and 100th street and, after a sharp, decisive struggle arrested Mulraney, Dowling, Fay and Charles Sulzer, the latter was the "stool pigeon," so of course he was released at once.

Mulraney and Dowling flatly denied any knowledge of the murder of "Paddy the Priest." Each denied emphatically that he had been in that part of the city on the night of the murder or that he knew anything about the memorandum book that had been found. It was simply a case of identification now, and the two men who had seen the slayers enter "Paddy's" place were so positive they would know them at sight the detectives grinned easily and felt sure that their labors were at an end. A confession would speedily follow the identification, they argued.

The prisoners were taken to the West Forty-seventh street police station. Dowling, it seems, had no criminal record, although both Mulraney and Fay had done time for burglary. Harry Murray and John Hickey, the two identifying witnesses, were sent in. The suspects were placed in line with several other prisoners, and Murray and Hickey were asked if any of those before them were the men they had seen enter "Paddy's" place. Both men eyed Mulraney narrowly, but finally, turning away from the line, said to the detectives:

This came as a crushing blow to the detective in charge of the case. The description given him by these men fitted Mulraney to a nicety. Furthermore, they had looked Mulraney's photograph over and positively identified it. There was some sinister force at work, and the detective detailed two men to shadow the witnesses after they left the police station. An hour later one of these detectives reported that Hickey had said to a friend after leaving the line up:—

"Those are the 'guys' that killed 'Paddy,' all right, but I would just as lief put my head in a noose as to identify them. I wouldn't be alive two hours to tell the tale."

Somehow had got to the witnesses in the brief space, and so frightened them that no matter what offers of protection the police offered them they couldn't be induced to identify the men they knew to have murdered the man both these witnesses had been deeply obligated to.

Without interruption Mulraney and Dowling were grilled by detectives for forty-eight hours. There was no let-up to the inquisition. When one detective, worn out by his task, gave in another was there to take his place. Although time and again the prisoners were directly taxed with the murder and care taken to convince them what a conclusive case the police had against them, Mulraney would invariably cry out, "Well, if you have got such a d—— fine case what in —— are you bothering us for? We want to go to sleep, so get out and give us a chance!"

Convinced beyond a shadow of doubt that they had the right men the detectives knew in their hearts they hadn't a case that would stand up five minutes after a lawyer got busy. There wasn't a single eye witness to the killing so far as they knew, and, further, the cartridge shells and the torn memorandum book were the only evidence they had so far. This wouldn't take them very far in a court of law, and two of their prisoners they well knew were sufficiently well versed in criminal procedure to realize that the police were up in the air unless some one of them caved in and gave up the true story of the killing.

Three days after his arrest Dowling lay worn and exhausted in his cell. He had been grilled so long that he was verging on hysterics and, as he put it, he didn't care whether he got clear of the scrape or not so long as the detectives would let him alone and permit him to sleep. At dusk that afternoon, when the slanting shadows in his cell were fashioned into fantastic shapes and every sound played upon his jangled nerves with the startling crack of a pistol shot, Dowling caved in and sent for Kerr.

"I am all in," Dowling said. "I want to tell you all about this murder, and the sooner I can do it an' get to sleep the better. I've got some kids home, and unless I get this thing out of my system God only knows what will happen to them. My dead wife is haunting me already, and God knows I can't stand any more o' it."

Inspector Hughes, then in charge of the Detective Bureau, and Detectives Kerr and Barber entered the prisoner's cell, and he, starting at the very beginning, told this story:—

"'At midnight, October 4, I met 'Happy Jack' Mulraney and 'Marty' Fay at 100th street and Park avenue. 'Happy Jack' says to me, he says, 'Come on over to the west side and where he can grab some good clothes.' And say, I needed some wardrobe in the worst way. The saloons were closed, so we didn't try to get a drink any place on the way, for it was after one o'clock already. We went to Goodman's tailor shop, at the southwest corner of Fifty-third street and Tenth avenue.

"'Happy Jack' had the happy notion of putting three or four suits on each of us and walking out like a lot of lords. Besides that 'Jack' had seen the tailor putting a wad of money in a pasteboard box which he slung to the top shelf of his shop.

"We gets into the courtyard and 'Happy Jack' climbs the rainpipe to the window ledge. But the iron bars across the window were too strong and, besides, there was only a narrow foothold of less than six inches. We gave it up and all three of us, 'Happy,' myself and Fay, came out to the street again. That other fellow wasn't in it at all. He wasn't with us."

Dowling was referring to the stool pigeon who was arrested with him, Fay and Mulraney.

"While we were standing over at Fifty-third street and Tenth avenue the fire engines came along. We jumps over to Fifty-seventh street where the fire was and leave Fay to the shuffle. Then 'Happy Jack' and me starts down Tenth avenue. As we come to Paddy's place and Jack peeps in, he sees the barkeep checking up the cash register. He says to me, he says:—'Here's where we gets a piece of change. You grab the coin while I take care of the barkeep.'"

"It was 'Paddy' himself who stood before the cash register. 'Happy Jack' shouted:—'Up with yer hands!' and 'Paddy' turned with a smile, evidently thinking some of his friends was playing a joke on him."

"Paddy" had for years boasted that his priestlike appearance and the many charities that he and his brother subscribed to from the five "stores" they conducted were ample protection against any trouble, and that he would never become embroiled in any rumpus in any of the saloons he ran.

"But we weren't joking, and this 'Paddy' soon found out. He looked down the barrel of a long, blue steel revolver, while a magazine gun rested in 'Jack's' other hand. Both were loaded and both were ready for business if 'Paddy' as much as winked an eye. There were two men in the saloon at the time. They were scared stiff, and when we told them to stand with their faces to the wall they wheeled around so quick they nearly rubbed all the skin off their noses. They was the guys what looked us over the day we were pinched. We recognized them, and they recognized us all right, but they knew what was good for them and naturally wouldn't squeal. 'Happy Jack' knew who they were when he first saw them, and a friend of his took them a little message from 'Jack.' They knew their business.

"While 'Jack' kept his gun trained on 'Paddy' I went to the cash register and emptied it. As I started out from behind the bar 'Paddy' reached for his, and as he did so 'Jack' started his getting gun to work. Three shots rang out in quick succession, and as 'Paddy' fell with his chest torn open by 'Happy Jack's' bullets the two guys we had stuck up against the wall started out the front door. We knew it would be dangerous to follow them, so we beat it upstairs and making our way to the roof cast about for an open scuttle to some house that would let us out on a side street. We found it all right. 'Jack' and me landed in the cellar, and there 'Jack' decided to stay, insisting that I should get away as best I could. That's about all there is to it. This is the first time I ever got in bad, and had my wife lived chances are I would have been at home with her instead of loafing around when 'Jack' proposed we go grab some clothes. But I am all in now and I want to sleep, so get the hell out of here all of you and let me grab a few winks."

Dowling was snoring before the cell door could be locked after the three detectives. At last the case was complete and it was only necessary to clear up a few minor details before the police would be ready to go to court and stand the acid test which some shrewd lawyer might seek to apply to them.

Mulraney stuck stolidly to his flat denial of all that Dowling had confessed to for several days. Then he, too, showed signs of weakening and confessed, his statement bearing out in detail all that Dowling had told the detectives.

While awaiting trial Dowling became seriously ill, was removed to Bellevue and there died in the insane pavilion. Mulraney was tried, convicted and sentenced to die, but Jack wasn't a man to go quietly to the electric chair without putting up a last desperate fight for his life.

From the death house in Sing Sing Jack sent out a message that he had been convicted on the confession of Dowling, who had died a lunatic. Furthermore, the confession that he had signed, he said, was made only after he had been drugged by the police, and he had witnesses there in Sing Sing to prove that a man named Clark had killed Paddy, and that he, Jack, at the moment was lying in a drunken stupor in a Harlem saloon. This message became so insistent and in time created such an impression that Governor Sulzer finally issued a stay and later District Attorney Whitman and Judge Rosalsky were directed to investigate Mulraney's charges.

Brought from the death house in Sing Sing to New York city, Mulraney gained a new lease on life, the county hoarded that he would "beat the rap" and that he would "get the guys who framed him." Despite the fact that a number of prisoners were brought down from Sing Sing to testify in Jack's case he could not make good, so he was returned to the death house, and left it a few weeks later to climb through that door leading to the death chamber which forever shuts out the light of day to all unfortunates who approach their doom.

The arrest, conviction and electrocution of Happy Jack Mulraney will always stand out as one of the best examples of real, almost pure detective work ever done in this city. From a seemingly hopeless start the detectives in charge soon drove a strong case against a man whom they only knew by reputation and from a meager description could ever witness had given. Principal and accomplice, they were gathered in the police dragnet and both paid the penalty due to the electric chair, the other in a straitjacket in a madhouse.

The detectives in the case were highly commended by their superiors and a grateful and appreciative public applauded.

How Paris Cares for Its Trees

THE raising, planting and upkeep of the trees which so beautify the streets and boulevards of Paris are under the direction of the prefecture of the Department of the Seine, in which Paris is situated. A special administrative department of the prefecture, known as the "Direction administrative des services d'architecture et des promenades et plantations," is in exclusive charge of this undertaking, which, in a city like Paris, assumes very large proportions. For instance, on January 1, 1912, the total number of trees on the streets, boulevards and squares of Paris was 86,085; the total number of men employed throughout the year in planting, transplanting, watering and removing dead trees was 120, and the total cost of maintaining these trees was estimated at 500,000f. ($96,500).

Not House for Plans.

On an average 1,100 to 1,200 new trees are planted every year to replace those which have died, been overthrown by carts, automobiles, &c., or which have been removed for other reasons.

The city of Paris has large and varied plantations just outside the fortifications, where flowers, exotic shrubs and trees are raised. One hundred and three hothouses for plants, exotic shrubs and flowers are heated from one central heating plant, distributing hot water through a nine and one half mile system of pipes. The object of this central heating organization is not, as the head gardener explains, with a view to economy, in fact, such a system is far more costly than separate installations for each group of hothouses, but is thus arranged to avoid the necessity of a special [illegible] which are more or less a public resort and show place.

In the tree and hardy shrub section of the plantations, which are at some distance from the flower and exotic plant collection, are dwarf pyramid elms and chestnuts carefully grafted to produce a double flower and on which no chestnuts ever form. This feature of the chestnut is extremely valuable in cities, where mischievous school children would do much harm to trees bearing fruit or nuts by throwing sticks and stones to knock them down.

The transplanting of small trees is easily accomplished, while for tall and heavy trees the depot of the city of Paris, in the heart of the Bois de Boulogne, has curved machinery, including 15 tree conveyors of varying sizes and models, ranging from those capable of conveying a 30 or even 40 foot giant down to those for handling a 10 or 12 foot tree.

Conveying the Trees.

The conveyor most generally used is a four wheeled wagon about six feet high provided with a windlass on either side. The wagon, the front, back and sides of which form a rectangular parallelogram, is backed toward the tree to be removed, and the rear beam is taken off, thus allowing an entrance for the tree into the centre of the wagon. The back of the wagon is replaced and the tree thus locked by windlasses until it is clear of the ground. After removal to the spot where it is to be replanted the operation is reversed. A similar wagon is provided with a crane fixed in front, which lifts the [illegible] of the tree which is being conveyed to permit it passing under bridges, telegraph wires and other obstacles.

The usual proceeding when trees are transplanted is to place around, or rather above and below, its roots a vertical square of brick piping, the lower side of the square which passes either completely below or at least through the roots of the tree being about twenty-three and one-half inches below the surface of the earth. The piping, the diameter of which is usually one and one-half inches, the length of each joint being from twelve to fifteen inches, lets out the water at each joint, and thus thoroughly soaks the earth around the roots. Watering is carried on through two orifices at each upper corner of the square of piping.

A Gardener's Views.

The system, however perfect it may be for insuring the successful transplanting of a tree, is said to be far from satisfactory after the first few years. The head gardener of the city of Paris states that, as a rule, after three or four years the piping becomes dislocated either through the spread of the roots or the sinking of the earth around the tree, or both. It is still used, however, on account of the excellent results it gives when the tree is first transplanted.

When a tree has been in the ground for two or three years the earth around it is cleared out in the form of a basin, the greatest depth being from five to six inches and the diameter of the basin six feet, three inches, and, consequently, around the tree, in place of a grating, through which the tree is watered, with an ordinary hose pipe, the basin being filled up to the level of the surrounding pavement. The resulting root [illegible] these [illegible] development of the tree, which is being conveyed to permit it passing under

THE NEGLECTED WIFE

The Neglected Wife was running away! Running away with the Other Man into a beautiful world of romance, full of flowers and sunshine—and all sorts of other things with charming names.

As she moved about the pretty room which she and the Neglected Husband had furnished together hardly a year ago, she told herself that he would thoroughly deserve what he was going to get. Would he miss her, she wondered, pausing an instant in her occupation. No—her hardened—his work was enough for him! Why, for the last month she had scarcely seen him.

It was too bad! Not for this had she married! True, he had warned her that a doctor's life was a busy and exacting one, but never had she thought that things could be as they were.

She lashed herself into a fury, still moving about her task. What did he care for her work? It was his own that was so importane. He hardly knew that she had any work. What was her pretty talent for writing to him? He seldom had time for more than an indulgently smiling glance over the graceful trifles of verse which some day were to make a book and their author's name at the same time—the Other Man had said so.

As a matter of fact, there was nothing in them to read otherwise than with smiling indulgence, for in all her butterfly days the poor, pretty little Neglected Wife had never once seen life as it is. But this she did not know. And the Other Man was perhaps more complimentary than truthful.

Now all was done. One last look round, and then—to make the plunge.

But as she took the last look, a sound in the hall downstairs made her start. Had some one thrust the latchkey in? Yes; the outer door shut with a bang, a voice called her name, quick footsteps sounded on the stairs, and her husband was in the room.

"We've saved her, Ruby!" he said excitedly; "we've saved her. She'll live, thank God! And thank God the strain is over! But we have won." He pushed the hair off his forehead with a gesture of relief.

"What—what do you mean? Who will live?"

"The case I told you of, child! Sure, you've not forgotten? The case I've been so desperately anxious about this last month. Lord! but I have had a time of it."

He broke off and drew back, seeing she was not listening. "Sorry, little woman," he concluded, "I shouldn't talk shop, should I? But I'm a bit beside myself. Forgive me. Are you going out?"

"Yes," she said, hardly knowing what she did say. "I'm going to the Chilords." But the lie hurt her, for she was not a bad woman—only a vain and foolish one.

His face fell. "Must you go? I hoped you would be at home. I've got an evening off. Colquhouns I back again! going to look after his own patients and mine, too, for once. It's such a long time since we've had an evening together. Can't you stay," he asked wistfully.

But his words only helped her to rally resentment to her aid.

"No," she answered, bitterly. "I can't stay. I'm going out. It is not my fault that we've not had evenings together. Day after day I spend mine alone, and you never ask me how I spend them. And when you do come in all you think of is your patients, I don't count. I've had more than enough of it!" She turned away and began moving blindly about the room again.

He looked at her dazedly for a few moments. Then—"You are unjust!" he said; turned slowly from her, and went downstairs.

Five minutes later she also stole down, handbag in hand, and out into the raw murk of the evening. The sitting room door was ajar as she passed and she saw him sitting there alone. His face seemed to have grown older and stormier than it used to be.

As the cab jingled away with her she took a letter from her bosom, longing hungrily for the familiar thrill with which letters in this handwriting had never failed to supply her hitherto. The writer was a master of his craft.

But for once he failed to hit the mark.

The little runaway wife, searching for the thrill which should bring her comfort, searched in vain to-night.

Somehow, the "building of a nest beneath southern skies" seemed to her at this moment a thing less desirable than the going back into an ordinary homely room in the "land of gloom," where a tired man was sitting lonely and dull, brooding over a fire which he was almost certainly letting go out.

Ah! There ahead glittered the lights of the station. How near they were! The Other Man would be awaiting her there.

"I—I think I'll get down here," she gasped.

She left the amazed driver looking wonderingly at just double his proper fare, crossed the road, and in five minutes' time was hurring back over the way she had come, as fast as the fastest taxi would take her.

The latchkey was still in her pocket. She slipped it in, crept lightly through the hall—the sitting room door was shut now—upstairs to her room.

How strangely unchanged it looked—considering that a century had passed since a silly woman had left it and started off on the road to—what? But the silly woman had come back—came back home.

She unpacked the little bag with impatient hands, hiding it away. She tore off the unsuitably dark garments, put on her daintiest house frock, combed out her curly hair, fastened the sparkling earrings into her little pink ears.

Then she went down.

He did not look up as she opened the door, but when a bright little vision passed him to go down on its knees, hearth brush in hand, between him and the forgotten fire, his whole face changed.

"Childie! You!" he exclaimed. "I thought it was one of the maids. You've come back—I am glad! What happened?" Nothing—happened she said rather breathlessly, "I just—come back. I thought you would be lonely—and — cross — and—and I knew you'd—let the fire out—and—"

But tears were splashing on the hearth brush and the shovel, and the fire was not getting made up properly after all. So the neglectful husband leaned forward and drew the neglected wife up bodily into his arms.

"Look here, little woman," he said, "you and I have been going the wrong way to work lately, and it's got to be different. I've been seeing it all since you said what you did just now. I've been a thoughtless brute, very likely, wrapped up in my own profession. But you haven't troubled as you might to enter into the difficulties or understand what the strain of it is sometimes. We've been drifting toward shipwreck, dear, but there's not going to be any shipwreck if my wife will help me steer. See, little one. Will you help me steer?"

"Oh, I will, I will; yes, I will," she sobbed hysterically, winding her arms tightly round his neck.

Marvels of the Grand Canyon.

The Grand canyon cannot be described in measured terms. Every beholder sees it in a different form, just as the rolling clouds suggest different resemblances to the eyes of the beholder. Begin with the thought of the canyon thirteen miles wide, a mile deep, the Colorado river, 200 feet wide, imprisoned down in the depths between lofty walls of weather stained granite and rushing wildly on its way.

It is buried so deep that only now and then can you get a glimpse of what looks like a little, dark ribbon of gray. Above the black granite walls of the river you see what you can easily imagine to be row after row of red brick skyscrapers projecting from the sides of the canyon at acute angles and always pinnacled by imposing towers.

The height of these prodigious skyscrapers and towers cannot be measured by the imagination. They seem to rise a few hundred feet, in reality they tower thousands of feet from the foundation walls. The colors are marvelous.—Leslie's.

A Day in the Open.

Our anxieties are nearly all artificial and are bred indoors, under the stifling oppression of walls and roofs, to the maddening clangor of pavements, and a day in the open will often dispel them like a bad dream.

With more air and sea and ground we find fewer instances of immorality and despair. For a return to nature is a return to good nature.

True, we cannot at once inconsinently leave our tasks and wander at will into the green world whenever the wind sets from a pleasant quarter; but for all that there are many steps that we may take toward re-establishing our divine heritage and rightful portion in the delectable commonwealth of out of doors. And the best use we can make of it will surely consist in wholesome normalizing exercise—not necessarily in living out of doors more than we do at present, but in living there wholesomely and naturally.—Bliss Carman in "The Making of Personality."

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy
A Family Supply, Saving $5 and Fully Guaranteed.

Sixteen ounces of cough SYRUP — as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of an obstinate cough more quickly, usually ending it inside of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for croup, whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help cure a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe is now used by thousands of housewives throughout the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

When Buttons Were Big.

Rachaumont writes in his "Secret Memoirs," Nov. 13, 1786: "The mania for buttons is today extremely violent. They are not only of enormous size, some of them as big as six pound crowns, but miniatures and pictures are made upon them, and this ornamentation is extremely costly. Some of them represent the medals of the twelve Cæsars, others antique statues and still others the Metamorphoses of Ovid." Imbay, in his biographical notes, says that while he came to Paris he worked for a living by making copies of Vanloos and Bouchers on the lids of snuffboxes and that for these medallions he was paid from 6 to 8 francs each. "As it was still the fashion," he said, "to wear buttons as big as a five franc piece upon which cupids, flowers and landscapes were cut in cameo, I went into that business. I got 12 sous for each."—Philadelphia Ledger.

One of the feminist writers complains that no woman ever attained eminence by being a fine housekeeper or a good mother. But what is the use of eminence, anyway?

When we read of these failures in which the liabilities are from five to ten times the assets we feel that this old world of ours is really very innocent and trustful after all.

The building of a motorcar in eleven minutes at Manchester, England, may break the American record, but we shall not despair until we hear that the stop watch shows that it took an American a larger number of seconds than it took an Englishman to sell it.

Ace of a Mandate.

Where is Carmania? Translate it into Kirman and a few who are up to the affairs of the middle east could identify the Persian province. Most of us know so little of that part of the world. But the chief town, Kirman, also known as Carmania, was the scene in 1795 of one of the most terrible events ever in the history of Asia. Agha Mohammed, founder of the Kajar dynasty, then besieged and took the place and, raging at the escape of his defeated rival, with three followers ordered 70,000 eyes of the inhabitants to be brought to him. He counted them, with his dagger point and said to his minister, "If one had been wanting I would have made up the number with your own eyes."—London Standard.

Two Doctors Said He Had Consumption.
DR. WOOD'S
NORWAY PINE SYRUP
CURED HIM.

Mrs. John Elliff, St. John's West, Ont., writes:—"My little boy was very bad with whooping cough and severe cold. I went to two doctors with him, and they said he had Consumption. I could get no relief for him, he would cough all night long, with a dry hacking cough. I was persuaded to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and was surprised to see the first bottle did him good. I have had five bottles, and they cured him, he rests well at night now, and is well and hearty. If he gets a cold we always give him Pine Syrup and he is soon better. I did not think I could raise him, but I am thankful to say Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup saved him from being a consumptive."

Too much stress cannot be laid upon the admonition to all persons affected by the earlier stages of throat and lung trouble, as failure to take hold at once will cause many years of suffering, and in the end that terrible scourge "Consumption."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is without an equal for all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

YOUTH GOES TO PRISON.

Slayer of Martin Lucky To Escape Chair, Says Judge.

The youth was convicted of murder in the second degree, for which he will serve from 20 years to life, with hard labor.

Despite his obstinacy in refusing to plead guilty to murder in the second degree on the pretext that he would rather go to the electric chair than spend twenty years in prison, sentence was elected when his life was saved, and imited yesterday as sentence was pronounced.

In sentencing the prisoner, Justice Davis said: "Schaeffer, you are undoubtedly guilty of murder in the first degree, but I am glad to know that the jurors did not wish to send you to the death chair because of your youth. You are a fortunate young man."

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from 15-40 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so no longer is a source of irritation thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

A Medical View of Bathing.

Whether or not we believe that cold baths have virtues which hot bathing never possess, it is far better to preach the most advanced gospel of cleanliness than none at all. The person who bathes frequently is a cleaner person both physically and mentally than he who does not, and if our desire is today to bring about a higher morale among the people at large let us not cavil at a soap because forsooth it may be a little too strong in alkali or at large quantities of water, even though applied to the body oftener than once a day. For let no one think for a moment that human nature is so virtuous, with the idea to keep clean as it will ever have a needlessness to care to use too much soap or water.—Dr. Phillip Skrutzka in Interstate Medical Journal.

The Victoria Cross.

England's prized Victoria Cross is only won under circumstances of the deadliest peril to its owner. The cross itself is of bronze, cast from cannon taken at Sebastopol inscribed with the words, "For Valour." It is the proudest decoration a British subject can wear. The Duke of Newcastle, secretary of state for war in 1854-5, is credited with having originated the idea of the cross after the Alma, being anxious to institute an English order which all ranks might win and be proud to wear, like the French Legion of Honor. The cross confers on all below colonels of the rank an annuity of £50.

How to Shed a Rough, Blotchy or Faded Skin

(From Beauty's Mirror)

This is what you should do to shed a bad complexion: Spread evenly over the face, covering every inch of skin, a thin layer of ordinary mercolized wax. Let this stay on over night, washing it off next morning. Repeat daily until your complexion is as clear, soft and beautiful as a young girl's. This result is inevitable, no matter how clouded or withered the complexion. The wax literally absorbs the slimy surface skin, exposing the lovely young skin beneath. The process is entirely harmless, so little of the old skin coming off at a time. Mercolized wax is obtainable at any drug store; one ounce usually sufficed. It's a veritable wonder-worker for rough, chapped, red, dried, blotchy, pimpled, freckled or sallow skin.

Pure powdered saxolite is excellent for a wrinkled skin. An ounce of it dissolved in a half-pint witch Hazel makes a refreshing wash-lotion. This removes the skin quite thin, and smooth; indeed, the very first application erases the finer lines; the deeper ones soon follow.

A BRACELET-DE-RAIGE of finely-pointed crepe with raised-brocade-pattern, the slight tunic of tulle to match being edged with pearls, as is the wide band of diamonds, which forms the main part of the corsage. There is a narrow sash of black chiffon with a wide butterfly bow at the back.

Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by stopping with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean, stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good, and never gripe or sicken.

"Well, you shouldn't get angry about it, Nellie," said her husband soberly. "You ought to have more sympathy."

"Sympathy!" she echoed. "What do you think I sympathy for Jim Fletcher?"

"No, for the eggs." he replied. "Think how long they must have been trying to be good."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Fantastic Freezing.

One morning last winter I put out a saucerful of water in the garden to freeze, and about ten minutes afterward it had a skin of ice on the top. I then left it and returned in an hour and a half's time, when there was a tall pillar of ice sticking straight up from the surface, up the center of which was a string of air bubbles, forming a tube. It was not placed under anything from which water might drip on to it. I have tried to find out the cause and have not succeeded.—London Strand Magazine.

A MONTH IN GAOL

A Local Man Sentenced This Morning for Threatening Bodily Harm to His Wife

TO-DAY'S COURT CASES

In Police Court this morning, a local man was fined $5.75 for being in charge of a horse and sleigh, and not being able to drive the same to the public safety. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

Another local man was sentenced to spend one month under the fatherly eye of gaoler Nesbitt, for threatening to do grievously bodily harm to his wife. The information also charged him with starving her, knocking her down, several times, and doing nothing to support his family. Giving evidence, the complainant said that on Tuesday night last her husband threatened to cut her throat, and had made similar threats on previous occasions. He was under the influence of liquor. She also said that he did practically nothing to support her and her family. He had been under the influence of drink since last Friday.

"Are you making this application to save yourself from him," asked the Court.

"I am making it to save the life of myself and children," replied the witness.

The Judge has power to let him out of jail, if at any time he can find sureties that he will not molest his wife any more.

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD" COMING SOON

In regard to the famous old play, 'The Old Homestead,' which will be seen at the Grand Opera House on April 2, the Detroit Free Press says:

Was it old Enobarbus who said of the Siren of the Nile "she makes hungriest where most she satisfies"?

In any case the phrase fits 'The Old Homestead.' This New England play was written as a continuation of, or sequel to, "Joshua Whitcomb,' in which Denman Thompson starred during a period of several years, and it was first acted in Detroit on the night of January 3, 1887. Since that time its fame has spread everywhere.

The creator of it has passed from this world to the world that sets this right, yet his play survives, and its place in our hearts is as secure as it was in the time of Mr. Thompson's widest personal popularity.

"The Old Homestead' is this week's bill at the Lyceum theatre, where it was acted yesterday afternoon and evening to a multitude of sympathetic and responsive spectators. The present representative of Joshua Whitcomb is E. L. Snader, who has had considerable experience in the character and whose embodiment is entitled to take rank with that of any of his predecessors, not excepting Mr. Thompson, himself. And there is distinctive merit in the Cy Prime of Harry S. Robinson, the Happy Jack, the Rover of Fred Clare, the Eb Gaffney of Robert Davis, the Aunt Tilda of Mrs. Maggie Breyer, with whom older playgoers associate many agreable experiences; the Ricksty Ann of Miss Jane Evans, the Annie Hopkins of Miss Billie Ferrier, the Nellie Patterson of Miss Lenie Francis, and the Seth Perkins of Charles H. Clarke. There is also attractive singing by a double quartette of men singers, comprising Donald Campbell, Charles Ingoldsby, Fred Clare, Gus Kammerlee, Robert Davis, William F. Brandt, Will-Raymond and Theodore Hoffman.

The kind of realism that suggests the imaginative and the poetic is exemplified in the Whitcomb Homestead scenes—one in summer, 'when all natur's green,' and the other in the tingling New England winter, when the blazing hearth and the merry sleigh bells are among the pleasantest of sights and sounds — and in that life-like view of the section of Broadway the most striking architectural feature of which is Grace Church.

OTTAWA INVADED BY BIG DEPUTATION OF ONTARIO DELEGATES

Parliament Hill Taken by Storm---Three Special Trains Bring in Representatives of Ontario Towns to Urge Hastening of St. Lawrence River Work and Subsidies For Hydro Railways.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 26.—Ontario took Parliament Hill by storm today, when an army of 1500 strong from all parts of the province assembled to petition the Government to hasten the work of deepening the St. Lawrence River and to assist in the building of a net work of Hydro-Electric radials by granting them the usual government subsidy to railways of $3,200 a mile. This morning they continued to arrive and go. Chateau Laurierwards to the Parliament Buildings. Horny handed sons of the soil, merchants and citizens of smaller towns and cities, reeves, mayors, councillors and aldermen, all bravely sporting ribbons telling their place of domicile, joined in the throng. Three special trains and sections of the regular trains brought the delegates to the Capitol. The Memorial of Great Waterways Union was presented to Premier Borden by M. D. S. Dewoiler of Berlin, President of the Union. The memorial urged "the development of an ocean waterway from Montreal to the Upper Lakes via the St. Lawrence and Welland route, which is nature's own route," and the granting of the usual liberal subsidy to the projected municipal radial railways. The deputation also urged that the Georgian Bay scheme had many impracticable features which the St. Lawrence proposal would overcome.

Mayor Buller, of Peterborough, and the Mayor of Stratford, and others in the deputation spoke. Premier Borden was greeted by three cheers and a tiger.

"You have brought to us to-day a great many proposals," he said. "If they should be adopted they would be far-reaching in their operation. Naturally you will understand that as these proposals were not submitted to me in advance, and as I had no opportunity whatever of considering them with my colleagues, I cannot do more to-day than to tell you that these proposals will receive grave consideration.

Hon. Adam Beck, the next speaker, was greeted with loud cheers while the delegates stood to their feet and waved their hands.

"I commend to you as chairman of the Power Commission, the memorials presented," he said to Premier Borden. "And trust you will give them your earnest consideration.

The province, he said, did not ask for favours. They were prepared to pay such rentals as the Government imposed for the use of waterways in the development of power.

"We make humble request to use the Welland Canal," said Mr. Beck. "We also ask for permission to build a transmission line across the St. Lawrence river near Morrisburg."

He asked the Government to help the Hydro-Electric in their work of retention of the boys and girls on the farms. Some remedy must be made for the deplorable telephone conditions in Ontario. A system of radials would help solves the high cost of living problem, and would make farm life attractive. They had in mind power at cost to the farmers.

MARCHIONESS OF LONDONDERRY WON OFFICERS

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Eng., March 26.—(Special cable.)—Several newspapers are commenting to-day on the fact that within a fortnight the history of two great nations has been written by women, Madame Gailliaux of France and the Marchioness of Londonderry, who, by their acts, nearly overthrew governments. It is now freely admitted that it was the frequent visits of the Marchioness to Curragh Camp that won the officers to her cause, namely Ulster, and it is also declared that it was her representations to the King which caused interest in the officers cases.

A Meeting In The Interest of Children

A meeting of all those interested in the welfare of children is called for this evening in the Y.M.C.A., when the question of adequate and suitable playgrounds for the children of the City will be discussed. The meeting is under the auspices of the Local Council of Women and representatives have been asked to attend from the Board of Trade, Big Brothers' Club, Y.M.C.A. and all other similar bodies.

CORDOVA RESIDENCE WAS DESTROYED

By fire, Together with Contents—House was Not Insured.

CORDOVA, March 26—Wm. Teal's residence at Cordova was totally destroyed by fire together with nearly all the contents. Teal was chopping wood in the yard and his wife and children were in the kitchen, when a neighbour passing by saw smoke issuing from the roof. She told Teal that the house must be on fire, but he went on chopping, saying, he guessed not. In a few minutes, however, he found out that the main part of the house was a mass of flames. He carried no insurance and is left in rather poor circumstances as a result.

Downie Street Creek Cuts Loose On Another Rampage

The Downie Street creek is on another red-visioned rampage according to reports from the neighbourhood of Donegal and McDonnel street this afternoon. The trouble is said to be south of Blodgett's canal, which was built last year to drain the property north of Edinburgh street, is reported to be working well, but ice is said to have blocked the drain near McDonnel street. Shortly after dinner to-day the water began to back up and spilled over the road and the nearby lots. Jas. Dunnett's property at the corner of Donegal and McDonnel streets is submerged, and the house surrounded by water. Stables and outhouses are as isolated as islands. Two lots facing Donegal street are under water and the outlook is wet. City Engineer Parsons was summoned to prescribe first aid.

HOUSES BURNED IN HAVELOCK

Buildings Destroyed Were Among the Oldest in Havelock.

HAVELOCK, March 26.—Fire broke out in the old frame house at the corner of Ontario and Concession Streets and totally destroyed the building, together with the small vacant residence adjoining. Both houses were owned by Mr. G. A. Graves, who lived in the rear of the corner one, the front being occupied by Mr. H. Meads, and no insurance was carried on either. When discovered, the fire was only a small blaze, and had apparently been the work of an incendiary, but owing to the fact of their being no water available, the flames quickly spread beyond control. Nearly all the household effects of both Mr. Graves and Mr. Meads were saved. The two burned buildings were among the oldest in Havelock.

CELEBRATION IN PETERBORO'

Committee Appointed to Enlist Citizens Who Will Arrange for Adequate Celebration of 100 Years of Peace

MAJOR HAMILTON'S ADDRESS

Following Major C. F. Hamilton's explanation of the preparations for the celebration of the termination of the first century of peace between the United States on the one hand and on the other Great Britain and Canada, it was unanimously decided at a meeting of representative citizens held in the Council chamber last night that Peterborough should co-operate with the Canadian Peace Centenary Association by holding a great demonstration some time in 1915.

Mayor Buller, Col. Clegg and Basil Hall were appointed a nominating committee to select a general committee which will arrange and supervise the celebration which is proposed to be held in this City. Their duty will be to secure the co-operation of a representative group of citizens and residents of neighbouring municipalities who will arrange the details of the demonstration to be held here.

Evidence of Interest.

The Council chamber was comfortably filled, the assembly including a number of ladies, when Mayor Buller called the meeting to order and introduced Major Hamilton, who is honorary secretary of the Canadian Peace Centenary Association.

Major Hamilton stated that Mr. E. H. Scammell, secretary of the Association, was unable to be present on account of a conflict in his dates. The treaty of Ghent ended the war of 1812-14 between the United States and Canada. One hundred years of peace had elapsed since the Christmas eve of 1814 when the pact was closed.

"I do not say," Major Hamilton remarked, "that it has been a century of unbroken concord and amity. We know that the interests of the two countries clashed and that there has been some bad feeling, but some means of settling their differences have been found other than the dreadful arbitrament of war. The separate independence of each country has been recognized, the temper of two great peoples has cooled, and it is in the interests of Canada, the Mother Country, the United States and of humanity in general that they should continue in this harmony.

Where the Idea Originated.

I am inclined to think that the first movement for the celebration of the centenary came from the United States, but one of the first to suggest it was the Hon. W. L. McKenzie King, who on two occasions put forward the idea.'

Prominently Supported.

Major Hamilton illustrated the splendid reception of the proposals by the fact that the committees in England, in the United States and in Canada include some of the first citizens of those countries. The Canadian body was organized in 1912. Sir Edmund Walker is the president and the general committee includes Hon. Geo. H. Perley, Hon. McKenzie King, Senator Dandurand, Senator Jaffray and others.

Will Erect Monuments.

In commemoration of the close of the first century of peace it is proposed to erect significant monuments. Three principal ones will be raised, one in old London, another in Washington, and the third in Ottawa. A number of minor piles are proposed for different points along the 3,000 miles of frontier which does not bristle with fortifications as do frontiers in other parts of the world.

Construct Motor Roads.

A motor road is contemplated from Quebec to Florida, and on the Pacific coast a similar highway is proposed to extend probably from Vancouver to Los Angeles. Peace archways where these roads cross the boundary are included in the idea.

A water gate in the form of two massive monoliths in the Detroit river are also under consideration.

Church Services.

For the reason that all men in the country would be unable to attend the big demonstrations held in the large

HAVE MEMBERS OF THE ARMY COUNCIL HANDED IN THEIR RESIGNATIONS?

It is Said That This has Been the Result of Premier Asquith's Declaration---Trouble in South of Ireland Now as a Result of Developments.

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, March 26.—(Special cable.)—Prospects are a little quieter today in political circles. It is rumoured that Sir John French and other members of the Army Council have resigned, following Premier Asquith's declaration, which practically ignores the promises that the Army Council signed, sealed and delivered to Curragh officers. At the war office to-day there is a conference of the leading officers, presumably in regard to the situation. Prominet Nationalists say that the Curragh officers' incident will make trouble in Southern Ireland, where the Nationalist Irishmen are speaking very disrespectfully of the King and the Government, and the utmost caution is needed to prevent insurrection.

PREPARE FOR A 26 MILL TAX RATE FOR THE PRESENT YEAR

It looks like a 26 mill tax rate in spite of the paring and shearing to which the various estimates have been subjected during the past six weeks by the Council. Ald. Anderson, chairman of the Finance committee, is expected to have something to present to the Council at the regular meeting in April and it is generally believed that the rate will be advanced one mill. It is not readily apparent how the Council can avoid the increase without additional and material cuts in the demands from the Council's committees. As it is the Board of Works does not present any wealth of working capital for the summer. The estimate for this year is $750 higher than last year, but there is a salary increase of $3,000, and there is $3,000 less for stone and gravel. Besides, there is no provision for the proposed street repair work which was boosted at a Board of Works meeting a short time ago. The whole committee agreed that this idea was a good one, and should be entered upon to some extent. With no money on the sheet, the work can scarcely be put into effect.

Mayor Buller has expressed himself very strongly against an increase in the tax rate, and some of the aldermen are just as strongly opposed to it. But from what can be learned, only a drastic slashing of the demands can keep the rate near the 25 mark. In the meantime the citizens will await the report from the Finance committee, for it is known that Ald. Anderson as Finance Minister has been going over the ground and should be ready with a announcement for the next meeting. It looks like even money that the rate will be nearer 26 than 25 mills unless the estimates are given another treatment of the surgeon's knife.

Belfast's Lord Mayor Is Dead

Special to The Examiner:

BELFAST, Ireland, March 26. — Political differences are forgotten to a certain extent here to-day in civic mourning for Lord Mayor McCordie, an outspoken Orangeman, but respected highly by all classes as a man who always put the welfare of Belfast before any political preferment. Even the flags of the Nationalist headquarters are at half mast, and it is thought that Saturday's great funeral procession will include contingents from both parties and be a splendid harbinger towards peace in Ulster.

CASES AT NORWOOD DIVISION COURT

Were Disposed of by His Honour Judge Huycke.

NORWOOD, March 26.—A. Wallar of town vs. W. H. Haughton of town and Henry Whitney of Belmont, a suit for $87.72 on a note, was one of the cases at the Norwood Division Court. Judgment was given for the amount of the claim with costs. C. A. Ghent of town for the plaintiff.

LIEUT.-COL. ARTHUR F. BAILEY
Commander of the 4th Hussars, "The Queen's Own," is one of several commanders who resigned his post rather than fight against Ulster in the present situation.

Body Found On Railway Track

Special Wire to The Examiner:

CHATHAM, March 26.—The mutilated remains supposed to be those of James A. Sturgis, recently released from jail, were found on the Pere Marquette tracks, near Darrel, this morning. It is supposed he committed suicide by lying on the tracks when the train came.

WOMAN WHO LIVED ALONE HAD BEEN DEAD 24 HOURS

Mrs. Joseph Frenell, who lived alone at 505 Rubidge Street, several houses north of Murray Street, was found dead, fully dressed, on her bed this morning. Dr. Mann and Coroner Greer were summoned and the cause of her death was pronounced due to heart disease. It was also stated that Mrs. Frenell had been dead at least twenty-four hours.

Neighbours stated that she had been in good health and went out working, regularly, but during the past week had complained of la grippe. From the fact that she was dressed in her ordinary clothes, and had not retired, it is concluded that she may have felt a weak spell and laid down on the bed to rest. Several of the neighbours had become somewhat auspicous as to her well-being on account of the signs of quietness about the premises. The discovery of the woman's death is reported to have been made by Mrs. Burns. The deceased is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Vase and Miss Maria Frenell.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

SUMMER COTTAGE DESTROYED BY FIRE

House Was Occupied by Mr. F. Hart, Who Lost Greater Portion of His Household Effects.

SANDY LAKE, March 26.—Messrs. Terryberry and Simmons are mourning the loss of their ranch house at Sandy Lake, which went up in smoke on Saturday morning of last week. The house was occupied by Mr. F. Hart, who lost the greater portion of his household effects. The loss on the building was covered by insurance.

FRENCH HAS RESIGNED

Chief of the General Staff of the Army Has Retired, It is Officially Announced This Afternoon

A DISORDERLY SESSION

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, March 26.—Later—It is officially announced that General French has resigned. He was chief of the general staff, and practically commander-in-chief of the British Army.

General French has served in the British Army since 1874. He commanded a dashing cavalry brigade in the South African war, and distinguished himself in many other campaigns. He spent some months in Canada reporting on the Canadian militia about three years ago.

A DISORDERLY SESSION.

LONDON, Eng., March 26.—There was another heated and disorderly session of the Commons this afternoon, but on the whole the Asquith Government's replies to the questions hurled by the Opposition were soothing to the Liberals and Labourites. All talk of compromise on the Home Rule Bill is suspended for the present. The Conservatives hold that the recent revelations indicate that a compromise is impossible except it involved the unconditional exclusion of Ulster. The Liberals say this would be surrender.

TRANSIENT TRADER AT HAVELOCK

A local merchant, who has recently commenced business, has decided to test the Transient Traders by-law by refusing to pay the $50 license fee. Constable Post has entered an information in the case, which will probably be tried here this week before County Magistrate Edmison.—Havelock Standard.

In connection with the above case County Magistrate Edmison told an Examiner reporter this morning that an information had been laid by the Havelock constable, before W. Mathieson, J. P., at Havelock, and had been forwarded to him. He thought that the information was defective, and returned it, suggesting amendments that should be made, or a new information taken out. The defendant claims that he is not a transient trader.

GOOD FISHING.

At a meeting of the Canadian Institute in Toronto, on Monday night, a scathing arraignment was made of the Government for the way in which the fisheries of Ontario were allowed to be virtually destroyed. Waters that at one time were alive with fish now yield only "fishermen's luck." Fish have been caught wholesale, without regard to the close season. Fish by the millions, ready to spawn and produce countless millions, have been taken; political wire pulling has been allowed to juggle with the close season, to the infinite injury of fishery interests The Dominion Government has shelved a bill to prevent pollution of streams and the destruction of fish and human life; and with all this contributing waste there is no systematic provision for propagating fry and restocking the waters. This city and district have a special interest in this matter, and if our rejuvenated Board of Trade wants a subject to fight about in the public interest, it might tackle the problem of the profitable employment of fishing tackle. The popularity of our near-by fishing resorts cannot be maintained if we allow the fishing to be destroyed.

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?

The world at large and a good many persons who do so much talking have need for some of the thirst for information of the Peterkin of Southey's poem, "Now tell us all about the war and what they killed each other for." Great Britain and Ireland are seething with excitement; we have a great deal of foolish talk of Ulster resorting to arms, of army officers committing mutiny and all sorts of tremendous happenings. What is it all about? It has for back ground threatened rebellion, threatened armed resistance to constituted authority, the denial of the supremacy of parliament, the constitutional voice of the people. Parliament proposes enacting a measure giving self government to Ireland; a numerically and territorially insignificant section of Ireland, thinks it objects to Home Rule. Agitators with personal or party axes to grind, have inflamed public opinion in Ulster by preaching rebellion and armed resistance to constituted authority—the king and parliament—with no other justification than their prejudice and bigotry. Constituted authority, the king and parliament, cannot allow this; and because it is proposed to meet force with force, to maintain the dignity of the crown and prerogative of parliament, by the means that have been forced upon them by the action of the firebrands, a few officers must mutiny — make themselves guilty of breach of the first law of a soldier, obedience. This cannot be allowed. The army, if a few partisan officers can be considered to represent the army, cannot be allowed to flout and defy parliament, the mouthpiece of the people's will. To allow such things would be to turn the dial back two hundred and fifty years, to the days when a Col. Pride and an Oliver Cromwell kicked out parliaments at their will, with their dragoon boots. The question has arisen, shall the army or parliament rule Great Britain? Shall the people be compelled to substitute a military dictatorship for parliamentary rule? No; no; a thousand times no. The people of Great Britain have fought, kings have lost their heads for the free institutions they now enjoy? Better things are to be hoped for, better things are assured. A corner of the united kingdom and a few gold-laced officers will not be allowed to nullify the will of the people as expressed by their representatives in parliament. The Home Rule bill will be passed and Ulster must accept it as the expression of the blood-won principle of the rule of the majority. To keep alive a fancied grievance, to prolong a partisan agitation ,the agitators have rejected generous overtures of conciliation, and the will of parliament, the will of the people, must prevail. There's little probability of bloodshed; the proverb, "threatened men live long," still holds.

A VERY IMPORTANT MATTER

We printed in the Examiner on Wednesday the copy of a resolution of the Toronto Board of Trade calling the attention of the Ontario Government to the advisability of appointing a commission to inquire into the whole subject of legislation in regard to matters affecting municipalities. This subject is a most important one. There is little doubt that the whole matter of municipal and allied powers of legislation should be revised. Conditions have greatly changed within late years. Progress in this and other countries demonstrates that municipalities require new powers or more strictly defined powers in dealing with the more modern problems of civic administration and development. There is necessity of providing means of cooperation between the Legislature and the Government, Boards of Trade and municipalities, that will result in the coordination of action that is essential. As it is we go grubbing along without definite plan and without definite powers of action. Within late years the idea of municipal ownership of public utilities has become, if not an obsession, a popular feeling If we knew, through the report of a commission like that proposed what is be best means of applying this principle, and the extent of its practicability, we should avoid many mistakes, by learning from the experience of others. We all know that there is dissatisfaction with the results of municipal government as it so largely obtains; and that there is a great deal of talk of the merits of government by commission. A report from a commission to throw light upon the subject, and show to what extent the advantages claimed for it are superior, or otherwise, to prevailing forms and practices, would be enlightening. There is no doubt that a commission appointed to study and report upon the whole question of municipal legislation regarding matters in which bodies like Boards of Trade are interested, would be of inestimable value Such a report could, and no doubt would, be the basis and forerunner of legislation that would define and amplify the powers of municipal councils and the organizations that work with them, in promoting the wider and more successful application of administrative action in the welfare of civic communities. The idea of the creation of a government department having general municipal jurisdiction seems to be a good one. At present the responsibility is so divided, the modes of procedure so complex, that municipalities desiring to take action in regard to some proposed enterprise, are discouraged in advance by the technical and other petty difficulties that bar the way to prompt and direct action. It is hoped that the Government will take the matter seriously. We need improvement in the way of doing many things; we need a basis of intelligent legislative action in dealing with municipal and civic problems; and the report of a commission like that suggested would be of incalculable advantage. We need to get out of the rut; we need to give new inspiration in the form of greater knowledge, and ampler and more workable powers to councils and boards of trade, to do more and better work, which they will do if their legislative equipment is simplified and enlarged. The greatest good resulting from the report of such a commission would be the cooperation and unity of action thereby engendered between legislative, and civic bodies, boards of trade, etc., in promoting the common good.

GETTING RID OF THE LIBERALS

No government since confederation is, perhaps quite free from the reproach of having displaced officeholders of opposing political faith on trivial grounds, but the present administration at Ottawa has set a pace in the matter of dismissals that would have appalled the most conscienceless of the politicians of the past. In the House a few days ago Mr. Nantel, Minister of the Interior, admitted with the utmost sang froid that if an officeholder were known to be a Liberal it was sufficient to warrant his dismissal. Yet the gentleman who is head of this administration gave the first solemn pledge before the last election that if he were returned to power he would remove the civil service from party politics, and give every officeholder a square deal.—Vancouver Sun.

SIR WILFRID ON HOME RULE.

"Canada is to-day what it is because British statesmen of the past were wise enough to give the Dominion home government.

"I am firm in my belief that when the day comes when Ireland has a government responsible to the people, as the government of Canada is, the result will be the same as it has been in Canada. As far as I, myself, am concerned, I am satisfied, just as I am satisfied of my own existence, that the progress and future of Canada will rest on the same basis as that on which rests Canadian liberty, and that is all you Irishmen can ask for."—Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the banquet of St. Patrick's Literary and Scientific Association, Ottawa, March 17, 1914.

DESTROYING THE INDEPENDENCE OF PARLIAMENT

Scarce had the echoes of the charge which drove Mr. Evanturel from his place in the Legislature died away ere it was discovered that the man who preferred that charge had committed an act which carried with it forfeiture of his own seat. Mr. Ferguson of Grenville was the man who laid the charge against Mr. Evanturel, and Mr. Ferguson's violation of the law consisted in accepting pay from the Dominion Government for investigating irregularities on the Trent Valley Canal, while holding a seat in the Legislature of Ontario.

The law, in order to assist in ensuring that a member's course in the Legislature shall not be influenced by personal gain, debars all members from accepting employment, in return for payment, either from the Government of Ontario or the Government of the Dominion. At least this was the law until last week. The provision was a righteous one. The necessity of prohibiting members of the Legislature from accepting offices of emolument in the gift of the Government of Ontario is obvious. With such a provision out of the way there would be nothing to prevent the filling of the House with office holders and then representative government would be a farce. It is bad enough as it is, but with such a system as that in effect the Government of the day would have as complete control of its following as a corporation has of its hired employees. It is of almost equal importance that members of the Legislature should be prohibited from holding offices of emolument from the Dominion Government. Without provision for this there is nothing to prevent the Dominion Government from serving as paymaster of the supporters of the Ontario Government, with which it is in close alliance, and thus making the supporters of the Ontario Government almost as subservient there as if they were in the employ of that Government itself. Yet legislation permitting this evil was passed just as soon as the position in which Mr. Ferguson had placed himself was made known. A bill was jammed through the Legislature in one day which not only relieved that member of the penalties he had incurred, but relieved others who had made themselves liable to like penalties as well. Furthermore under the same measure it is made lawful in future for members of the Legislature to accept payment for services rendered the Dominion Government. Whenever, in days to come, a mercenary member of the Legislautre supporting Mr. Foy and his colleagues, begins to show signs of becoming restive it will be possible to quiet him simply by asking the Dominion Government to appoint him to some commission of enquiry at so much per day. Thereafter, his restiveness will be changed to quiet subserviency.

There is little to choose between the action of those responsible for this change in the law and the course of Mr. Evanturel in seeking to use his position as a member of the House in making personal profit out of serving the liquor interest. Service rendered the Dominion Government for pay may be on a different moral plane from serving the liquor interest of the Legislature can accept either the one service or the other without destroying his usefulness as a representative of the people in that Legislature. A more deadly blow at independence in the Legislature was never struck than that which was delivered last week.—Weekly Sun.

An exceedingly good concert was given in the Town Hall on Friday night by Round's Ladies' Orchestra, under the auspices of the local chapter of the Daughters of the Empire. The programme was enjoyed by quite a large number and the applause given showed the appreciation of the audience. The orchestra immitations, "The Sleigh-ride," and "The Clock in a Jewellery Store" were exceptionally good. The selection on the 'cello by Miss Edith Chapman, and the violin solos were delightful, and were heartily aplauded. Miss Ada Chapman as a pianist displayed rare art, and the trombone duet by her and her sister, were greatly enjoyed.

Miss Brewster, violiniste, was also the elocutionist of the evening, and her witty recitations delighted all.

In every respect the programme was a great success, the numbers being varied and without hesitation, thus sustaining interest and appreciation throughout.

Mr. Rounds certainly understands his work and should he and his orchestra, all of whom are expert musicians, ever return to Norwood, no doubt a crowded hall will welcome them.

The proceeds amounted to $67.00.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Richardson went to Kingston on Monday.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

A special session of the Police Court was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, to dispose of a case in which a local man was charged with stealing a gold watch.

Mr. J. Wearing, Assistant Crown Attorney, conducted the prosecution, and Mr. McElderry appeared for the defence.

Mrs. F. Finnie gave evidence as to the identification of the watch, and said she had lost it in January, 1913, and was sure it was hers, although some marks had been erased.

Detective Newhall disposed as to recovering the watch.

The defence submitted that the watch had been found, and had been in the man's possession openly for upwards of two years, and for that reason, contended that no criminal intent had been displayed. After hearing all the evidence Magistrate Dumble reserved his judgment for one week.

Seems to be a hitch somewhere in the proposed bout between Champion Willie Ritchie and Jimmy Duffy of Lockport. Ritchie claims to know nothing about the match.

VISITS BROTHER AFTER ABSENCE OF 38 YEARS

James Conquergood, of Steelton, Drops in Unexpectedly—Will Remain For a Few Days

HIS IMPRESSIONS

LINDSAY, March 26.—After an absence from this section of the country for thirty-eight years, Mr. Jas. Conquergood, of Steelton, Ont., dropped in unexpectedly on his brother, Mr. P. Conquergood, Adelaide Street, last night, and will spend a week or ten days in town and vicinity.

The brothers were born on a farm in Fenelon township, but when quite young James after accompanying his father to Bruce County, left for the West and roamed about that great and glorious country until hit by Cupid's dart. After marriage he settled down and for eight years past has been filling an important position with the Algoma Central Railway, which is in reality owned by F. H. Clergue, the steel magnate of the Canadian Soo.

The Dividing Line.

Steelton, which derives its name from the fact that its chief industry consists of mammoth steel industries, is situated close up to the Canadian Soo, the dividing line between a public highway. Years ago, as the story goes, Sault Ste. Marie looked with disfavour on Steelton and would not even include the then small hamlet in the corporation for fear of having to extend expensive improvements to Steelton. Later on, however, with the coming of the big Clergue steel industry, Steelton was selected as the Stamping Ground.

Then it was the village authorities succeeded in getting incorporated as a town, before the Soo authorities could include Steelton as in their corporation, the result being that the enormous taxes of the steel industry rolled into the coffers of Steelton. The town thrived until to-day it has a population of 6,000. The steel industry alone gives employment to 6,000 hands, many of whom live in the Canadian Soo.

Is an Engineer.

The Algoma Central Railway, which is owned by the Steel Company, runs from the Canadian Soo to Bearst, and connection is made with the Canadian Northern, the C.P.R. and G.T.P., thus giving the line lots of prestige. Mr Conquergood is engineer on the line, which boasts of three passenger trains and one or two freights.

TAPLEY GETS LONG TERM

Montreal Man Must Go to Prison For Thirty Years for Incest.

MONTREAL, March 26.—W. H. Tapley, usurer, found guilty on March 17, at the Assize Court, of incest and other unmentionable crimes, was yesterday morning sentenced to thirty years in the penitentiary by Justice Lavergne. The evidence upon which Tapley was convicted was supplied by his 14-year-old daughter.

When he learned his fate the prisoner collapsed. As Tapley is nearly 60, the sentence means life imprisonment for him.

Tapley last Saturday attempted to commit suicide by biting through his arm in an attempt to sever an artery. Yesterday morning he pleaded that he was not strong enough to appear in court to receive sentence and it was necessary to use force to get him there.

Tapley's callous methods as a money lender were mainly responsible for the Ottawa Government passing the usury law some years ago making it a penal offence to charge more than twelve per cent. interest on loans. Tapley had been in the habit of exacting 300 per cent. from his clients.

SINGLE TAX

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—With many others of your readers, I have followed with interest the recent debate conducted in your columns on single tax and land speculation.

Mr. Ellis' advocacy of single tax as the cure for many present day economic ills has particularly interested me, and I hope that he may find time to answer, what appears to me, a real weakness of the single tax theory.

Single tax adherents argue that as land values arise from the presence of all, therefore the land belongs equally to all.

Is this a logical conclusion? It seems to me that the land belongs equally to all if its value is contributed equally by all, which is not the case. The presence of some individuals in a locality, actually lowers the value of land and they surely have no right to the land.

It is questionable to my mind whether land has any value at all apart from improvements. A farm on the prairie is valueless until capital and labour be expended upon it. Is not the value of a vacant lot in a city dependent rather upon what can be done with it by the expenditure of capital and labour than on the value of the land itself?

To put all taxes on the lot is virtually to tax the capital and labour that will be expended upon it in the future, and therefore single tax is as much a tax on labour as any other tax.

If this be true, the foundation of single tax is weak and the system is worthless.

Oriental Hotel May Provide More Sample Rooms For Travellers

The management of the Oriental Hotel are considering the increasing of their sample room accommodation for the convenience of commercial travellers. The Oriental has been growing steadily in its trade, and is showing a full register these days. The sample rooms at the Oriental have been sufficiently large for past business, but with the growth of the city the commercial trade has been developing. It is to keep pace with this increase that additional sample rooms are under contemplation for the Oriental.

TIME FOR ACTION SAYS TAX PAYER

Harvey Rate Payers Are Tired of Excuses on Bridge Question

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir—There is a strong feeling in the Township of Hervey, among the taxpayers, that they have not received the proper treatment, re getting a new bridge across Gannon's Narrows.

When a section goes ten days without mail service, and suffers other inconveniences, there is no doubt of the necessity of a new bridge.

It is understood that the Government will stand a share in cost of a new bridge, providing the Township will do likewise; but Mr. Shaw, for some reason, has seemingly made no effort to seek that aid, merely getting an order from the Council for repairs

Something should be done at once to relieve present conditions. In this age of improvements and progression it seems ridiculous that a section of the country should be cut off from its metropolis on acount of conditions which can be remedied if properly looked after.

Society Contest For Sacred Heart Lawn Social Next June

A joint committee of the C.M.B.A. and Catholic Order of Foresters was held last night in the T.A.S. rooms to consider plans for a society contest in connection with the annual Lawn Social at the Sacred Heart Church grounds. The committee is representative of the south end branches of the societies, but the contest will apply to the societies in both parishes. The idea was regarded as a good one and a plan was mapped out. There are several months to intervene before the social draws near, but the committee decided to make the preparations early.

Examinations of Local Officers in Staff Course Work

Bishop, R.C.H.A.A., are in the city to-day, for the purpose of conducting examinations of the theoretical portion of the staff course, which is being taken by the following officers: 9rd Dragoons, Lt.-Col. She Has The Very Best Of Reasons

Why This Manitoba Lady Recommends Dodd's Kidneys Pills.

Mrs. Bourbonierre had many troubles, all of Which were Caused by Sick Kidneys, and She Found a Simple and Complete Cure.

St. Rose du Lac, Man., March 25.—(Special.)—Mrs. D. J. Bourbonierre, an estimable lady of this place, is losing no opportunity to praise Dodd's Kidney Pills to her friends. And she has a reason. Here it is in her own words.

"I suffered very much from my Kidneys," Mrs. Bourbonierre says. "I was tired and nervous, my appetite was uncertain and my memory was failing. I had heart flutterings, my back was sore and I was troubled with headaches. Rheumatism was finally added to my sufferings and I was in a bad way indeed.

"I tried one medicine, but it did me no good, and then I was advised to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I am very glad that I did, for now after taking four boxes I am a well woman again."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Mrs. Bourbonierre because all her troubles came from sick Kidneys. Sick Kidneys cannot do their work of straining the impurities out of the blood, and the result is sickness, depression and lassitude all over the body. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured the Kidneys; the purified blood did the rest.

BITTER STRUGGLE IN CONGRESS

Over Repeal of Panama Canal Resolution

Examiner Special:

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 26.—Congress to-day responded to President Wilson's appeal for the repeal of tolls where an exception was given United States coastwise vessels in the Panama Canal bill. The Sims repeal resolution brought up in the House developed the bitterest struggle since the Democrats secured control of Congress. The final vote will be taken Saturday or Monday. It is expected that Canada's defeat of the reciprocity proposals will be cited as a reason for discrimination in favour of U.S. vessels against those of Canada and Great Britain.

THE REASONS WHY OUR FISHERIES ARE GOING BAD

Inaction and Mis-action of the Dominion Government Severely Censured

There was a serious note running through the address of Mr. C. W. Nash Monday night at the meeting of the Canadian Institute; so serious indeed that, despite the rich humour and the unfailing laughter, it must have caused the more sober-minded of the audience to think deeply of the sad state of the fisheries of the land. Although the title of the address was "Some Ontario Fishes and Their Habits," it finally resolved itself into a scathing arraignment of the way in which the fisheries of Ontario were allowed to be depleted by the inaction of the Dominion Government.

The streams which at one time were filled with fish are now almost empty, or indeed quite so. This had been caused by the pollution and filling-in of these streams, and the cutting down of trees along the banks. Fish were caught wholesale, with no regard to the close season, and people were wondering now why it was there were no fish in Ontario streams. "We have taken fish that were going to spawn and killed them by the million," said the speaker. He made a slashing onslaught on the methods employed by fishermen to pull wires politically to have the close season extended, and stated that it was always the same old reason—a bad season. He deprecated the movement which was on foot at present to get the Dominion Government to extend the open season for pickerel on account of the bad season last year. "They are always having bad seasons," said the speaker, with grim humour.

Mr. Nash advocated the most stringent laws with regard to the close season. He believed in the artificial propagation of fish, but while that was extremely useful, it could never take the place of natural increase. The pollution of the lakes was a matter that would have to be faced by both countries before long. The result in damage to the fisheries of the lakes was incalculable. The saddest features of the whole business, in the opinion of the speaker, was that there was no public opinion at all up on the great question of preserving the fisheries. At one time within the recollection of the speaker every stream within easy reach of Toronto was a trout stream, now there was nothing to be found in them.

No Home Cooking In The Ideal Home

So Says Mrs. Gilman Whose Distinctly Modern Ideas on Woman and the Home Startle New York

We are going through a transition period at present when we are completely overturning all our mothers and grandmothers views on matters pertaining to women.

Women's activities are being widely discussed but the most advanced and explosive ideas have been brought forward by Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, who after years of study of economics, after lecturing frequently on the subject and writing books on "Women and Economics," "The Home, Its Work and Influence," etc., is regarded as a reliable authority on good sense in such matters.

But a good many of even her staunch admirers are inclined to balk at statements made by her recently in an address in New York on the general subject "The Larger Feminism" and the specific topic "The Home, Past, Present and Future, in Fact, Fancy and Feelings."

No Kitchen.

"The home of the future will have its grass plot and its hearthstone and its children, but no kitchen. The housewife of the future will do her ordering the night before from a laboratory indorsed by doctors and experts. There will be dozens of laboratories, and she can patronize the best. The food will be delivered hot in thermos boxes. The system is already in use in Germany.

So said Mrs. Gilman.

"The home is the structural base of present civilization," she continued. "For its permanent, comfortable status every normal human being should marry, and stay married if possible; every couple should have children if possible and every family should have a separate home, and that in a detached house with a garden, if possible. Every child has a right to grass and trees and flowers."

Only Trained Industry.

But according to her belief none of the work of the home should be done by the mother. Here are some of Mrs. Gilman's points:

"Industry was born in the home, but as soon as it was able it walked out and men with their outside powers developed it."

In the same way, home cooking, home dressmaking, home millinery, according to the speaker, should be done away with.

"The home as a place of industry is crippled, abortive, primitive, unsatisfactory. One-half of humanity spends its time waiting on the other half. To get the best results work should be done by trained people — that would bet rue domestic economy. Our present way of living costs us more than twice as much as a better way ought to cost!"

"Of course," she granted, "the majority of men cling with racial devotion to the idea of a private female cook in the kitchen; but after a few generations of scientific food and better digestion they will think no more of 'home cooking' than of the departed spinning wheel."

Laundry, house cleaning and all such things should also be done by specially trained professionals, she urged, and then "the home will be a real home, a place of rest where fathers, mothers and children may gather from business and school—a place to enjoy and delight in.

Critical Remarks.

As might be expected Mrs. Gilman's statements have called forth critical remarks from the New York press. The "Evening Post" wants to know, since no woman is to do her own work, where are all the workers to come from, and facetiously says:

"Apparently women are to be emancipated in order that they may do each other's cooking. Mrs. Smith will kiss her children good-by and go out to cook Mrs. Brown's dinner. And Mrs. Brown will kiss her children good-by and go out to cook Mrs. Smith's dinner. Being obliged to keep professional hours, however, the chances are that they will have no time to kiss the children good-by."

The Evening Mail, calling Mrs. Gilman the "Bernard Shaw of America," clings to the home cooking—just as Mrs. Gilman prophesied the men would.

DON'T WANT TO BE CURED.

A London doctor claims to have discovered a cure for love sickness. That will be like those anti-bad-habit remedies—hard to market because the patient prefers the disease.

PRIDE ONE OF GREAT HINDRANCES TO CONVERSION

Evangelist Pugsley preached a strong sermon last evening. The evangelist claimed that Naaman, the Syrian was one of the most stubborn fellows, in the Bible, won for God. He was proud and haughty, but finally stepped down, casting aside pride, prejudice and pre-conception, and plunged into the Jordan. The biggest hindrance was pride. A lady, it is said, once asked a minister whether a person might not be fond of dress and ornaments without being proud. The minister replied: When you see the fox's tail peeping out of the hole, you may be sure the fox is within.

It was a sermon packed full of practical truths and all were delighted. Rev. J. E. Webb of Murray Street Church was present and offered the opening prayers; also Rev. Ireland of Brickenorth M. E. Church took part in the service.

The Male Quartette sang and all were delighted with the service. Five persons requested prayer.

Do not fail to be present Friday night to hear a special sermon on "Wobblers". All welcome.

NOON HOUR SERVICE BY REV. PUGSLEY

Evangelist Pugsley and Pastor Conners held a very interesting service at Ackerman's factory at noon, Wednesday. The men were delighted with the able address of Rev. Conners and Rev. Pugsley. The Evangelist's chorister, Gilbert Peter, led the singing. The little Bilhorn organ was a delight to all.

DAMAGES FOR MILLING CO.

TORONTO, March 26. — Justice Latchford this afternoon awarded the Campbell Milling Co. $19,500 damages against Ellis & Cannery, architects, and Bowes and Francis, contractors, in respect to the faulty construction of a concrete grain elevator. This amount is less some $5,000, which the Campbell Company at present owe for the work done.

SEELY BLUNDERED IN GIVING GUARANTEE TO OFFICERS OF ARMY

Premier Asquith and Cabinet Withdraw Promises Made by the War Secretary.

YESTERDAY'S CRISIS

LONDON, March 26. — The Government published yesterday its promised statement of its dealings with the revolutionary officers of the third cavalry brigade, and the House of Commons held another heated and disorderly session. Between the documents presented and the various statements drawn from the Cabinet Ministers, the vital facts of the affair were made clear. They reveal a comedy or tragedy of errors perpetrated by Col. Seely, Secretary of War, and Sir Arthur Paget, commanding the troops in Ireland.

Col. Seely took all the blame upon his own shoulders. He frankly declared that he had made a great mistake. His written assurance to Gen. Hubert Gough that the Government "must retain its right to use all the forces of the crown in Ireland or elsewhere to maintain order and support the civil powers in the ordinary execution of their duty, but has no intention whatever of taking advantage of this right in order to crush political opposition to the policy or the principles of the Home Rule Bill," was given without the knowledge of the Cabinet, and contrary to its policy.

The War Secretary tendered his resignation to Mr. Asquith, but the Premier refused to accept it. The Government has withdrawn Col. Seely's guarantees, according to a statement made by Viscount Morley in the House of Lords, and Sir Edward Grey told the House of Commons that the Government's decision would be made known to Gen. Gough to-day. Thus the situation with respect to Gen. Gough and his 59 comrades who sent in their papers, is still in a state of suspense.

The most important revelations of the day were to the effect that the Government did not plan an important military and naval demonstration upon Ulster. Winston Churchill yesterday confirmed the reports that he had ordered the Third Battle Squadron and a torpedo flotilla to Irish waters, but explained that when the military arrangements had been successfully carried out he countermanded the orders by wireless, an explanation which the Unionists received with jeers.

The blunder Gen. Paget made appears to have been in giving a practical ultimatum to the officers of the cavalry brigade, to say whether they would take active service in Ulster or accept dismissal.

The Cabinet on Monday framed a general statement of the officers' position and duty under the law, and Col. Seely freely admitted his error in yielding to Gen. Gough's demand for a written assurance that the army would not be used to suppress the covenanters.

Premier Asquith's statement that the officers should return to duty unconditionally were made in good faith, since he learned of Col. Seely's amendments to the Cabinet memorandum only Tuesday afternoon. The Prime Minister made plain the Government's position regarding the army to the House of Commons, declaring that he would not assent to the claim of any body of men in the service of the crown to demand assurances of what they would be required to do in circumstances which had not yet arisen.

Sir Edward Grey spoke even more strongly. He said:

"The Government is prepared at any moment to use force to whatever extent is required to make the will of the country prevail. That is a contingency which cannot arise for a long time, and we still labor to avoid it."

Much of the oratory of the debate in the House of Commons last night consisted of fiery denunciations of the military aristocracy. The Government were placated by yesterday's revelations, but there remains a very strong and outspoken dissatisfaction with the whole affair among the Radicals and Laborites. Many think that the matter would have been allowed to rest except for the almost unanimous attacks by the Liberal press and boastings of the Conservative press over what they speak of as Gen. Gough's victory.

All talk of a compromise on the Home Rule Bill is for the time suspended. The Conservatives hold that recent events have shown that no compromise is possible, except on the unconditional exclusion of Ulster. The Liberals say that would not be compromise, but surrender.

Col. Seeley's transfer to another Cabinet post is predicted and the announcement and acceptance of the resignations of Gen. Paget and Gen. Gough would be no surprise.

A TRIPLE EXECUTION

Special to The Examiner:

ATLANTA, Ga., March 26.—The first triple execution that has taken place in Georgia in many years is to be held in the county jail here to-morrow. The condemned men are William and George Hart and Robert Paschal, all negroes. The crime for which they are to pay the death penalty was the murder of Mrs. Seth Irby near Louisville, Ga.

Some of the most fashionable women are again wearing large picture hats.

The fan should match the evening toilette or emphasize a distinctive colour note.

MILLARD'S BICYCLE AND REPAIR SHOP

Enlarged to Double Its Former Capacity—New Showrooms for the Harley Davidson Motor Cycle, etc.

H. T. Millard's bicycle and general repair shop has recently undergone extensive enlargement and improvements. The adjoining store to the east has been leased and fitted up so as to provide increased accommodation for exhibiting the Harley Davidson motor-cycle, for which he has been appointed Peterborough agent, as well as to provide a new show room for bicycles, bicycle supplies, etc. A large entrance has been made to connect the two stores in order to afford greater convenience in handling his increasing business.

The Harley Davidson motor cycle has had a very successful sale and Mr. Millard is now well prepared to demonstrate its many superior qualities to prospective buyers. Mr. Millard continues to be Peterborough's representative for the "Ivanhoe" bicycles. He is also adding a new steam vulcanizer for repairing auto tires, which should prove of great value to car owners, as it will save them the price of many a new tire.

Mr. Millard is a thorough mechanic and an expert in repairing bicycles, motor cycles and other intricate machinery. He will make a specialty of sectional vulcanizing of auto tires. Because of his thoroughness as a business man, the demands for his goods and services have grown to such an extent that he was compelled to enlarge his premises, which have been established now for so many years at No. 226 Hunter Street.

SALT RHEUM FOR 6 YEARS

Zam-Buk Has Cured Him

For over six years Mr. William H. Birt of Pisquid, P.E.I., suffered from salt rheum. He says: "The disease attacked my arms and hands, and the fore-finger of my right hand was the worst.

"I was engaged as a blacksmith by the Bruce Stewart Co., of Charlottetown and sometimes every stroke of the hammer would cause the finger to bleed freely. I tried various oitments and salves, and then went to several doctors in and around Charlottetown.

"One medical man, after treating me for some time, said he did not think I could ever be cured. Another put my finger into some fluid, which seemed to burn it terribly and then put a 'straight jacket'—as I called it—on the finger for two days. Trying one thing and another I spent over $50.00; and all in vain.

"I saw an account of some of the great cures which Zam-Buk has worked and decided to try it. The first box did me a lot of good, and the finger showed traces of healing, so I kept up the Zam-Buk treatment and a few boxes worked a cure. There has been no return of any trace of the disease, so I know the cure is permanent, and I am so thankful for my cure that you are at liberty to use these facts as you like.

Reader, if you have any skin disease, cut, burn, cold sore or skin injury, try Zam-Buk. It is absolutely unique as a healer. Druggists and stores everywhere at 50c box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

EMIGRATION FALLS OFF.

Big Decrease in the Numbers Leaving the Old Land.

LONDON, March 26 — Emigration returns for the last few months show a remarkable decrease compared with last year in the number leaving for Canada, the comparisons showing:

	1913	1912
December	1,868	3,070
	1914	1913
January	1,936	3,571
February	4,458	8,359

Figures for Australia and New Zealand show an even more remarkable reduction. It is probable that the gloomy letters to the press on the experiences or prospects of emigrants which have been common recently, are largely responsible for these reductions.

Owing to the present unrest, emigration propaganda work in Ireland is at present at a standstill. Some twenty lectures on Canada which would have been delivered in the next few weks have all been abandoned.

DID $1,000 DAMAGE TO THIS POLICEMAN

Jimmy Clabby, the Prize Fighter, Beat up Officer Who Lost Thirty Pounds

Los Angles, Cal., March 26. — It cost Jimmy Clabby, the middleweight prizefighter, $1,000 yesterday to avoid legal punishment for having beaten Charles Laurance, a policeman, in a street brawl on January 26th.

Clabby and Arthur McQueen, his trainer, pleaded guilty when they appeared for trial in Police Court, and Judge White admonished them to pay for the damage done to the policeman, who declared he had lost 30 pounds as a result of the assault made upon him.

Clabby's attorney asked the policemen how much damage was done. Laurance demanded $2000, but compromised at half that amount.

Clabby and McQueen will be given suspended sentences.

CELEBRATION IN PETERBOROUGH

cation it is proposed to hold thanksgiving services in all the churches on that particular day. All the religious bodies will be requested to co-operate in this regard.

The School Children.

Particular attention will be devoted to the school children for the reason that they will be the adults of to-morrow. For example, pamphlets may be published dealing with the circumstances which lead to the various treaties by which disputes between this country and the United States were settled. The co-operation of the Educational Department's assistance is assured for this feature of the work. There 3,100 towns and cities of the same name in the two countries. It is proposed to have the children, say of Trenton, Ont., exchange a memorial shield with the children in Trenton, N.J. The design of the shield would be appropriate and there are various suggestions by which this idea could be elaborated and made more interesting. The children could by a pageant or some programme involving action participate in the celebration would be emphasized to them.

Public Demonstrations.

Public celebrations will be one of the principal methods of celebrating the centenary. Already one hundred places in Canada have decided to arrange for big demonstrations. Local affairs are to be locally controlled and provided for. Peterborough people will not be alone interested. It is proposed to hold a big affair in which the surrounding country may participate. This has to be entirely worked out.

Government Support.

In all three countries the movement has received warm Governmental approval. Premier Borden promised $25,000 to meet the preliminary expenses incurred.

No Definite Date.

There is no definite date on which an international celebration will be held. The treaty of Ghent was signed on Dec. 24, 1914, and it was ratified on Feb. 17, 1915. It is not desirable that either of these dates should be chosen in Canada, although the winter would not interfere with celebrations in the southern states. It may be that a continuous celebration could be arranged leading up to Feb. 17th, and in the summer of 1915 the big public affair could be held.

Mayor Buller read letters of regret from Rev. Canon Davidson, G. C. Wainwright and Judge Huycke, who were unable to be present, but who offered their heartiest support.

Every One in Favour.

Rev. H. J. Keith—Said he hoped the suggestions presented would be carried out. He thought the whole citizenship would support it. "I think I can speak for all the churches. A special offering might be taken up on some Sunday. I think not one of the churches will object."

Duncan Walker—I am heartily in accord with the idea. I don't think a winter date would be favourable. It would be preferable to hold it in the summer, for instance on the 24th of May. Peterborough is favourably situated to be the centre of a big celebration.

W. H. Bradburn—I am in hearty sympathy with this movement, and I believe Peterborough should fittingly celebrate this day. When a committee is being formed I would suggest that men from Lakefield, Millbrook, Norwood and other points be included. All these places will not be able to hold big celebrations and they might come in with us.

Colonel Miller—I will be pleased to assist in making this affair the success Peterborough deserves. It should be a celebration surpassing anything we have ever seen.

J. John—Mr. John expressed himself in favour of the movement and believed the citizens of neighbouring towns would co-operate with Peterborough.

Dr. Morrison—Was heartily in sympathy with the proposal and made several suggestions in regard to the form of the celebration.

Basil Hall—I am in hearty accord with the proposed celebration. Peterborough is ideally located in this district for a big event. I feel that the Board of Trade will willingly share in the preparations.

Alderman Duffus—Said he considered that nothing should be left undone towards making the celebration a memorable one. As the largest centre between Toronto and Ottawa, Peterborough should make a special effort that the local celebration may be a grand one.

F. D. Kerr—It is gratifying that men who know at first hand the horrors of war also have the courage to uphold the peace movement. I speak of Major Hamilton, the distinguished war correspondent of the Boer War, Colonel Miller, and Mr. Reg. Turner. It is satisfying to know that these and other military men are willing to support the movement. Personally, I am in hearty accord with the movement.

W. G. Morrow—I am entirely in favour of the idea of the celebration.

Major Clegg—I think the celebration could be carried to a great success. I think I can speak for the military men of Peterborough and promise their best support.

John Smith—Old Ashburnham will do its share. I am heartily in support of the movement.

F. H. Dobbin—Suggested reciprocal visits on the part of the civic bodies of cities in the two countries. On the day of a celebration in Peterborough, the Mayor and Council of Rochester should be invited here, and possibly Peterborough's city fathers might visit the Flower City. At any rate the presence of the visitors would lend flavour to the local celebration.

Alderman Anderson—The ground has been well covered by previous speakers. I am in hearty accord with the idea, especially if there is no danger of adding another mill to the tax rate.

Upon the suggestion of Major Hamilton, Mayor Buller invited one of the ladies to speak. Mrs. (Rev.) J. C. Davidson, president of the Peterborough branch of the National Council of Women, expressed her approval of the proposal, and bespoke the assistance of the Women's Council in the celebration.

Mayor Buller—Closed the meeting by remarking that the Council would be willing to do all in its power to make the celebration a worthy one. He called for three cheers for the King, which were warmly given.

On motion of Mr. Jas. Hamilton, seconded by Mr. Reg. Turner, a vote of thanks was tendered to Major Hamilton.

Caillaux, is one of the notable murders of modern times, involving as it did the death of one of France's greatest journalists, the political ruin of M. Caillaux, and the reconstruction of the French Cabinet. The trial, too, threatens to disclose other matters that may involve members of past Administrations.

A MAN OF THE STREET PREFERS HOME TALENT

Editor Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I observed by last night's Examiner that the Ministerial Association, or some members of it, placed an extract in the press from Judge Huycke's letter, and what was supposed to be an answer to it. It is quite apparent that some of the ministers do not understand or appreciate the fine points of a legal argument. It just shows how sore some persons will get when things do not go their way. The peace and quietness which the public have been enjoying since the Women's Council and the preachers, or some of the preachers of the town, have quit engaging in fireworks, has been refreshing.

It would be very interesting to know what the lawyers of Peterborough think of self-constituted public benefactors who go to Toronto to obtain lawyer's services to fight a hotel-keeper when he is seeking a license, instead of spending a dollar with some lawyer who probably is supporting one of the churches as far as he is able. Out of some twenty-five lawyers, we would almost think there would be one good enough and honest enough to be trusted with a dollar for his advice in such a matter.

I think perhaps, that my views will not be appreciated, but I am taking the liberty of giving them, feeling that I have almost as much right to live in the City of Peterborough as some of the ministers.

Yours truly,
A Man on the Street.

It's difficult for the average man to live up to the opinion he has of himself.

Not even an expert artist has ever discovered a woman who was deaf to flattery.

Action To Recover Sum Of $304.25

Mrs. Mary Pierre, 613 Union street, is the plaintiff in an action to recover the sum of $304.25 from one E. Sarzan, 262 Simcoe street. The case which was heard by His Honour Judge Huycke in the County Court, arises out of a transaction that was consumated in September last when Mrs. Pierre, it is stated, disposed of her grocery and restaurant business and incidentally allowed the defendant to secure possession of the fixtures. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for Mrs. Pierre, and Mr. D. W. Dumble for the defendant, Sarazan.

A Frequent Visitor.

According to the evidence adduced, Mrs. Pierre came to Peterborough in May last and opened a grocery and restaurant business at 239 Hunter street, between Aylmer and Bethune streets. It was here that she became acquainted with Sarazan, who was a frequent visitor to the place. When business depreciated to an almost unknown quantity, Sarazan offered to buy the groceries and fixtures. He also spoke of getting married until the goods passed into his possession, when he announced that he already had a wife and family, and Mrs. Pierre would have to look after herself.

Was Dated Back.

Plaintiff's counsel elicited the fact that Sarazan visited the restaurant on Sunday, September 28th, when the agreement giving Sarazan possession of the good, was drawn up and signed. Mrs. Pierre claimed to have signed the agreement without reading it. Mr. Gordon reviewed the list of goods that passed into Sarazan's possession when the agreement was endorsed by the parties interested. The agreement was dated back to August 13th, which was a week day.

"Thought He Was Honest."

"Why did you let him have these goods?" enquired Mr. Gordon.

Mrs. Pierre—"I thought he was an honest man. He was courting me at the time."

"What was there to induce you to let him have all this stuff on the instalment plan?"

"Because he promised to marry me and told me he was a rich man."

"Did you go to Sarazan's afterwards about the goods?"

"Yes. I called on him regularly. Each time he told me he would have the money in a few days, and that it would come through the Bank of Montreal."

"Did you ever get any money for the goods?"

"No. Not a cent."

Business Failed.

The agreement respecting the sale was produced in Court. To Mr. Dumble Mrs. Pierre stated that the bargain was made in the presence of her son who was thirty years of age. Witness gave her age as 49 years. She admitted that the business failed for want of patronage, and that she was indebted to a number of merchants in the city. She expected Sarazan to liquidate these debts when he secured possession of the goods. The fixtures mentioned ranged from a garbage can to an electric sign.

Goods Depreciated.

Mr. M. T. Butcher, a local furniture dealer, and who made a valuation of the goods mentioned in the bill of sale, was next called. A curtain pole that was originally purchased at $1.75, was marked down to twenty-five cents. A five dollars refrigerator was valued at a little over one dollar. Witness explained that the striking depreciation was due to the fact that the articles had been exposed to the elements and were otherwise in a poor state of repair.

The case is proceeding.

THE LARGE HOUSE "CALLED"

Why do we need such large houses in the country. I have always noticed a tendency on the part of farmer neighbors to try to build houses that try to match in size the vastness of their surroundings. The result is a great big barn of a place that it would take a regular genius of a housewife to make attractive inside, whatever one may think of its appearance outside. Likewise, such a house is a woman killer.

I quite realize that a small house with big barns in the background suffers by comparison with the latter. This only applies, however, where trees are lacking, and the house and barns stand out in all their bareness. The smallest house does not look out of place in company with the largest barns if the house is sheltered by trees, and draped with vines.

I believe that the small house is a homier house and a cosier house. It certainly represents less work to keep it in order, particularly should the kitchen be small. I know that many housewives would object to a small kitchen, but our own is only 10x10, and Mrs. Armstrong has room to spare. In a small kitchen everything is close to everything else, and there are no unnecessary steps.

Of course our kitchen is not a combination of kitchen and dining room. We have a dining room and we use it every day; it was not reserved for the minister or other special company. It is my sincere belief that we farmers make a mistake in eating in the kitchen and reserving the dining room for special occasions. We lose respect for ourselves. We come to consider though we would never admit it in so many words, that the company is a little better than we are. And, worse still, we will give our children the same opinion.

The one big thing in our house is the living room. It is 20x15 ft., and is not too large for the living room or the farm. At one end is a big fire place with chimney nook seats adjoining. We regard this fireplace as the very heart of the home.

THE PARLOR OLD FASHIONED

Do I seem to be getting away from my idea of a small house? Not at all. The old fashioned house had both a sitting room and a parlor. The latter institution we have done away with. We live in the living room ourselves, and our company is entertained in the same room. It's a great, big, homey room, and we like it.

I was once expounding my ideas along this line when I was taken off somewhat like this: "How are you going to provide sufficient bedrooms in a small house, for a bedroom, you know, has to be large, or the sleeper would smother."

I suppose that had I given this good lady an opportunity to expound her views further she would have explained that night air is very injurious and that on no account should a window be raised to ventilate a small room. Our bedrooms are no larger than is required for the placing of a bed and a dresser, or about 12x13 ft. We always sleep with the windows up, winter and summer, and night air has never affected us. We have the healthiest family I know of in a day's journey.

I have many other ideas on this subject of small houses, but probably this is enough for a starter. These suggestions are respectfully submitted as the ideas of a "mere man."

HELLO! GIRLS THE "BACHELOR" THANKS YOU

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,— I thank you for your space, and my correspondents for their practical instructions. I think a cup of really good coffee is an ambrosial nectar "fit for the gods" and equally fit for the goddesses.

The best cup of that delightful, fragrant and aromatic beverage which I have tasted in this City was dispensed at a gathering of the "King's Daughters," to which I was fortunate to receive an invitation, held, to the best of my recollection last winter, in one of the assembly rooms at the Public Library.

While drinking this with infinite satisfaction and enjoyment, as I argued within myself that if I could only find a life partner who would make me such an insidious and entrancing beverage, I should be the happiest man upon earth, for I reckoned that if she could make such a cup of coffee she must be able to do all things well, and, given a chance of such an one, I should no longer have to subscribe myself as a BACHELOR.

GOOD PROGRESS IN ATHLETIC CLUB CAMPAIGN

Members Report That a Considerable Sum Has Been Raised --Should Get the $400 Aimed at Before Next Meeting

At a meeting of the Peterborough Athletic Club in the Y.M.C.A. last night at which Dr. McPherson presided and some twenty-five members were present, reports were received from those who had been canvassing for funds and the result was decidedly encouraging. The first week's campaign was a success as a substantial start has been made. It is thought that another week's work on the part of the members will give the club enough funds to warrant securing club rooms at once. It was decided to conduct a vigorous campaign during the next week with the object of completing the raising f $400, the sum aimed at, by next Wednesday night. The public have enthusiastically endorsed the proposition and every one approached has been anxious and willing to help. It is simply a question of the canvassers seeing enough people and with a systematic campaign during the next few days this can easily be accomplished.

At last night's meeting Dr. McPherson outlined the plans of the club for the benefit of new members. While the scheme was a tentative one at present and the details would have to be worked out later, Dr. McPherson made it clear that the Athletic Club would not enter teams in local leagues, and that the members would be free to play with any clubs they desired in City competitions. The president referred to the success of similar clubs in other cities and said that he could see no reason why the club should not eventually have athletic grounds of its own.

Mr. Horace Walkey of the Bank of Montreal staff was unanimously elected treasurer of the club.

A letter was read from Mr. Frank Doyle, secretary of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association, in reply to communications from Secretary Dobson, in which Mr. Doyle stated that he would willingly come to Peterborough to address a meeting. The members of the club were informed that Mr. Doyle had been wired to and had replied that he would be able to visit manager were delegated to secure a hall for the meeting.

This date was decided on by last night's meeting and the secretary and were delegated to secure a hall for the meeting.

It was also resolved to hold a short meeting of the Athletic Club at the conclusion of the lacrosse meeting next week, when reports will be received in regard to the funds campaign.

BRANT IS SOLD

Former Peterbore' Shortstop is Purchased by the Fort Wayne Club.

Don't be surprised if you see Shortstop Harry Brant cavorting around the Canadian League diamond this year and not in a Peterborough uniform either. The following despatch gives the reason:

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 25.—Harry Brant, shortstop on the Peterborough (Ont.) club for the last two seasons, and drafted by Chattanooga last fall, has been purchased by the Fort Wayne club of the Central League

Manager Shaughnessy of Ottawa was very sweet on Brant last season, and there is a Damon-Pythias friendship between 'Shag' and the Fort Wayne management—two good reasons why you may expect to hear that Shortstop Harry Brant has been secured by the Ottawa Club.

BASKET BALL TEAM GOES TO PETERBOROUGH

The Y.M.C.A. basketball team are going to Peterborough Saturday night to play the Y.M.C.A. team of that City. The Peterborough team is very fast and a good game should result. The boys are asked to stay oved until Monday and a good time has been promised them. Roy Moon, Willie Finkle, Jim Alexander, George Kechteson, Elwood Robinson and Mr. Powers and possibly an extra player will make the trip. The Peterborough boys will play the return game in Belleville about the second week in April The Belleville Y.M.C.A. team along with the High School team are going to Kingston next week to play their return game with the Y.M.C.A. team of that town. It will be remembered that the Bellewhen Kingston played here. And are when Kingstonp layed here. And are hoping that they are repeaters.

STILL CURLING IN LINDSAY

LINDSAY, March 25 — Only two games took place Tuesday at the curling rink. Hec. Cuthbert won from Skip Higinbotham a rink to the tune of 'an to seven. The game took place in the afternoon.

In the evening the McFadden and Carley rinks played, McFadden winning out by a six-point margin.

BASEBALL

Ottawa Free Press: Dave Hilliard, the big Peterborough fence buster, drafted by Toledo, says Frank Dolan of Ottawa, robbed him of a five-base hit last year. The incident happened in Ottawa when the Peter were having a rough old argument with the Shaughnessy. A man was on third with two down when Hilliard pried off a wallop that was labelled for the Bank Street Bridge. Dolan was playing very deep, almost back to the grass in right field. The drive was about 12 feet high and just starting to take on height as it speeded up. Guy made one gigantic leap, cut his golved hand and ping,—the ball hit and stuck there. Hilliard already had it added to his home-run record, and was pounding down leveled second when the war whoops from the crowd apprised him he was out.

The Cleveland American Association team, on whose line-up are Dave Gilhooley, of last year's Peter, and Charley Nagle, of this city, London Courier, have become the Bompa Pompas, 3 out of 4 games.

my McEvoy, last year with Berlin, is with the Athletes; Renfer, of Ottawa, with the Nashville team; Trout, of Peterborough; Bradshaw, of Berlin; Herbert, of Ottawa, and Killilea, of Hamilton, with the Torontos. McNeal, of Peterborough, with Buffalo; Hilliard, of Peterborough, and Oskee Neale, of London, with the Cleveland American Association. Dunlop, of London, with the Cleveland Americans; Garlow, of Hamilton, with the Boston Nationals, and Wright, of St. Thomas, with Providence.

"Rube" Marquard has been doing some fine flinging for the Giants on the Spring trip.

Pitcher Nap Rucker, the Brooklyn star attributes his fine early-season condition to handball, which he played regularly all winter.

First Baseman Williams of the Yanks, received a gold watch from his friends in Galveston, which is his home town, when the Yankees played there recently.

Outfielder Chappell has proved to be the heaviest hitter among the White Sox in the games on the Pacific Coast.

Newark is tave continuous baseball, now that the Long Branch team of the New York and New Jersey League has been transferred there.

"Molly" Mollwitz, under study for Vic Saier, is sowing considerable big league stuff at first base for the Chicago Cubs.

Manager Charley Dooin of the Phillies will carry four pitchers besides himself this season. But even with so many backstops, the Phils cannot afford to lose Killifer to the Feds.

With Kenetchy at first, Viox at second, Wagner at short, and Mowrey at third, the Pittsburg Pirates will begin the season with what looks to be the strongest infield in the National League.

Infielder Joe Judge, who is showing such speed with the Boston Red Sox, is only 20 years old. He jumped from the amateur ranks to the big show in one leap.

Connie Mack's Philadelphia champions are playing in tip-top form this early in the season and other American League maangers are beginning to sit up and take notice. The Mackmen are a hard outfit to beat.

The Chinese ball players who recently landed in San Francisco, have mapped out a seven months' tour, in the course of which they will play in all parts of the United States and wind up with a few games in Cuba.

The absence of Johnny Bates from the Cincinnati line-up may cripple the Reds. John is kept at his home in Steubenville by the serious illness of his wife. It probably will be several weeks before he will be able to rejoin his team.

TOMMY'S SPRING FEVER

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

CHATHAM, March 24.—It is quite probable that the Ottawa club will do their spring training in Chatham. The manager of the club has written, stating that if certain changes are made in the diamond on Tecumseh park the club would likely come here. The management appreciates the fine weather conditions and more especially the mineral baths.

The city council will be asked to either "skin" the infield or else level up some places that are now a little rough, and it is felt that this will make it satisfactory to the baseball people.

BRANTFORD, March 24.—Manager Deneau of the local Canadian league team, has received word from Hal Chase, of the Chicago White Sox, that there is a big left-hander he can have, and this man has been signed, Deneau has also signed an outfielder named Carr and an infielder named Betts. This brings the list of recruits and regulars from which the team for this year will be selected up to 24.

Ottawa are negotiating for two of Cleveland's young pitchers to bolster up their staff. McManus is coming back, and they have closed with an Indian shortstop named Cafalu. He was with the Cleveland Federals last summer.

LONDON, March 24.— "Well, it's good-bye for a little over a month," were Manager Reisling's words when he boarded the train for Detroit last night and home via Columbus, Ohio. "The next time you see me I will have a baseball aggregation with me which should be a credit to London and one which will be fighting all the time for the pennant, if my calculations do not go amiss."

Manager Reisling put all details in fine shape for the 1914 spring training of the London baseball club during his short stay here, and when he left last night a big hamper of uniforms and playing paraphernalia were safely put away in the baggage coach ahead. While the duds were checked through to Marietta, Ohio, where the squad trains, commencing on April 7, the Doc will spend most of his time up to April 1 at home putting things in shape for his absence at his home at Caldwell, Ohio, until after Labour Day.

He will meet Heine Steiger, the big southpaw twirler, this evening at Detroit, when the train arrives, and go over 1914 plans with the pitcher who tamed the Ottawa Senators last autumn.

Steiger will be asked to report early this season and to work out his own training methods, as it was shown last year, that the erstwhile big leaguer needs plenty of careful practice to become good

If individual playing ability goes to make up a winning baseball club, Manager Reisling should succeed in his first attempt as a pilot of a Canadian league team, as he has corraled what looks like the most formidable club ever mustered together to wear London uniforms. He has planned and worked hard to get his all-star cast into the fold, and now the big task of whipping them into a pennant winner will be left to his ability as a leader. The local directors believe that in Reisling they have hit upon the man who will bring home the honours for which they have been so near and yet so far for the past three seasons.

To meet Manager Reisling, not in the capacity of a baseball leader, one would not gather from his conversation that he is such, since he is shy on what usually goes with minor league baseball managers, much to his advantage.

Brantford Expositor: Very encouraging to the fans will be the latest word from Manager "Rube" Deneau. He does not promise a pennant, but he does give encouragement to the hope that the team will be a first division one, and a contender all the time. "I have the best team since I came into the Canadian league,' says he, but he adds the rider that he can't tell what the other fellows have. He is wise.

"I have not had my calliope open," he further says, "for the fans are from Missouri." In the first he is not in the same class with the other managers in the league, all of whom, according to their talk, have pennant-winning teams already. But, though the man who toots his horn the loudest gets the most attention, the one who keeps working is the one who lands on top. Local fans will approve of "Rube's" attitude and will look confidently to him in the future.

The howl from Ottawa that the other clubs in the league are no good for trades, wanting everything for nothing, leads "By Jinx" in the London Advertiser to remark: "The Ottawa club is bemoaning the fact that the rest of the Canadian league clubs seems to take the mere mention of swapping players as a sort of April

BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP DEPENDS UPON GAMES WITH THE BELLEVILLE TEAM

The Belleville Y.M.C.A. team who play the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. basketball team here on Saturday, have defeated all the eastern and lake-shore teams and the championship of Eastern Ontario will therefore depend upon the series between Belleville and Peterborough. Th return game will be played in Belleville on Good Friday. The Y.M.C.A. team has been chosen as follows:

Defence—Cunningham, Peever.
Centre—Flowers.
Forwards—Long, Bartlett.

The game should be by long odds the most interesting basketball game of the season.

HASTINGS ATHLETES ARE SURELY BOOMING THEIR LACROSSE TEAM

From the size of the gathering and the enthusiasm shown by those present at the lacrosse meeting in the Council Chamber last Friday night it looks as though Hastings was back on the map of the lacrosse country. Officers were elected and delegates chosen to attend the meeting of the Ontario Lacrosse Association in Toronto, to arrange groups, and put the good old game back in its rightful place of true athletics.

The old players will turn out to help the 'youngsters along, and though Hastings may not have a team as good as in the old days this season, we are at least starting even with our neighbours, and all depends on bringing the youngsters along in the right way.

It looks as though Norwood, Havelock, Campbellford, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc and Tweed are going into line and we can expect a good season.

The following officers were elected:
Hon. Pres.—A. B. Spellman.
Hon. Vice-President—Alex. Wilson.
President—Dr. Wade.
1st Vice-Pres.—J. F. McCarthy.
2nd Vice-Pres.—W. Runnels.
3rd Vice-President—M. Baker.
Secretary—J. J. McPhee.
Treasurer—F. H. Hill.
Hon. Members—Messrs. W. Fowlds C. Fowlds, Wm. Baker, C. B. Beamish, P. M. Howard, A. Greenley, J. F. Jones, Dr. Hess, A. U. Bailey, Ed. Barigan, A. Stephen, H. Lambert, Dr Edmison, J. Burns, F. Hubbs, L. Kelley, A. Chapman, T. Coughlan, W. Wallace Staples, J. J. English, Geo. Hormel, Dr. Wilson, T. Learmonth, W. Gould, Tim Crowley, W. Turner, E. Tate, S.Hatherly.

Messrs. J. F. McCarthy and E. Vernon were appointed delegates to attend a meeting of the O. A. L. A. in Toronto on Good Friday.—Hastings Star.

French Poet Dead.

MARSEILLES, France, March 26.—Frederic Mistral, the celebrated provencal poet, died here yesterday in his 84th year. In 1904 Mistral divided the Nobel prize for literature with Echegaray, the great Spanish dramatist. Most of his works were written in the Provencal dialect. His best known poem was Mireille written in 185.

FROM THE FARM AND BACK TO IT—A STORY FOUNDED ON FACT

RALPH SMITH is one of our most prosperous farmers, who in early life came with his wife from the Emerald Isle and settled in Leeds county, not far from the bank of our great St. Lawrence river. His means were limited; but he had plenty of pluck. He had come to Canada to seek a home; and with this aim in view, and by dint of perseverance, sacrifice and economy combined with good business abilities, is now one of our most wealthy and influential farmers. He was diligent in business and has reaped the reward of well-doing. He is now in the evening of life, resting on his oars.

But let us retrace our steps a few years to Mr. Smith's middle life. He had three sons, all fine boys, not afraid of work. But the fond parent decided he was going to educate at least one son, so he could earn his living by his brain, rather than by the sweat of his brow, as he had been forced to do. True, work was in abundance for all, and more sacrifice was needed. Nevertheless the youngest, a bright lad of 14 summers was the chosen one. He had completed his common school education so was placed in a high school of a near-by town. This was very much against Raymond's will, for he loved farming, the outdoor life and detested books. But father's will was law so he set to work, and in due time received his diploma.

SUBSISTANCE LIFE NOT SATISFACTORY

At the beginning of the new year he was engaged to teach in a distant school. He struggled through the first year, merely putting in an existence, for try as he might to like his work, the schoolmaster's life did not appeal to him. He loved the physical labor, he longed for the freedom of the farm. Still his path had been laid out for him. He was to earn his livelihood by his education. So as he had proven himself to be an efficient teacher, he was hired the second year This year dragged on more slowly than ever. The school-room seemed a veritable prison His health became very much impaired on account of the sedentary life At last the year was at an end, and so were Raymond's days of teaching He decided there and then to quit this life. Instead of making this profession a stepping stone to a higher one, he was going back to the soil Accordingly he returned to the home he had been so loth to leave years before.

Raymond's older brothers were married and had received their portions, and father was now only too glad to give the farm into the hands of Raymond, who gladly took upon himself the responsibility of the old large farm. He set to work with a whole heart, his health steadily improved, success crowned all his efforts. Besides the regular farming he had a great love for bees; so he began first on a small scale, gradually increasing until now he is one of our most successful apiarists, as well as agriculturists.

It is 15 years since he turned the key in the door of the old red schoolhouse, and he has never for a moment regretted the step. This is the kind of men our country needs, the kind to advance the cause of agriculture. Raymond has proven to his own satisfaction that his father's calling was good enough for him. The independence of the farm appeals to him, he healthful work and also the finances. He thinks the farm is Canada's gold mine, but willing workers are needed.

THE CANNY SCOTS.

A Scotchman had contracted a debt. When it became due he had no means with which to meet it. He worred a great deal, but no feasible plan of raising the money to meet the obligation presented itself.

At last he decided that he would get a pistol, go out on the highway, hold up the first traveller that came along, take his money from him, and with it pay his debts. So Sandy got a gun and went out on the highway. And when the first traveller came along he pointed the gun at him, and said: "Gie me your money or I'll blow your brains out." The traveller saw that Sandy was green at the business, and began to parley and bargain with him.

"My good man," he said, "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll give you all of the money I have in my possession with the exception of £5, and I will give you that if you will give me the pistol."

"I'll do it," said Sandy. "It's a bargain."

The traveller handed over his money and Sandy handed over the pistol; but no sooner had the man secured the gun than he turned it point blank at Sandy and said:

"Now, sir, I want you to give me back the money you have taken from me or I'll blow your brains out."

Sandy looked at the traveller for a few seconds with a canny Scotch smile and slowly replied: "You may blow away; there's no pouther in it."

In evening gowns the neck line is cut square, pointed or heart shaped.

The rough coat suit with a mannish air has passed out of existence.

It is rumoured that buttoned shoes will be most worn the coming spring.

The darker the suit the brighter should be the colour used for the blouse.

There is a disposition among the furriers to bring the [illegible] into fashion.

A FAMILY-SIZED FRUIT PLANTATION

Is rhubarb a fruit? This is, I know, a disputed point. If it is, I wish to state that we have raw fruit—luscious, health-giving fruit—right from early spring to late fall. The system by which we manage our fruit plantation is simplicity. It is work well worth while when we consider that our table through the summer months is always fit for a prince of the royal blood—and all because my husband believes in making the farm produce every good thing that it will.

When we came to this place some years ago there was a fairly good orchard, but there were no small fruits of any kind. The very first season we ordered a half-dozen heads of rhubarb, several hundred strawberry plants, 12 red currant bushes, 8 black currants, 12 gooseberry bushes (American varieties), and then sufficient raspberry, blackberry, and himbleberry bushes to set out 50 feet of hedge. Finally we added half a dozen grape vines and our fruit plantation was complete.

Our fruit plantation is on one side of our vegetable garden. The whole thing is kept under cultivation, a fine dust mulch being preserved all summer. Everything is set out in rows. After a day's work cultivating in the field my husband will leave the field a little early and run through the fruit plantation with the cultivator. This does not necessitate any extra hitching up, and takes but a short time. The biggest mistake that I have observed in setting out a family-sized fruit plantation is that the berry bushes are set along in rows close to the fence where, if they are cultivated at all, it must be by hand, and hence they are neglected.

We appreciate the good things of our garden, and in a few years are looking forward to still greater blessings in that direction, as we have berries, plums and pears coming into bearing. Apples we have already. We are quite agreed that we get more satisfaction and more direct returns in dollars and cents from our fruit plantation than from any other part of the farm.

DAIRY FARMING AND FRUIT GROWING

"We have been keeping a pure bred sire for many years," said Mr. R. W. Ireland, of Prince Edward County, whose large orchards were described in Farm and Dairy last week, "and have worked our herd up to the point where we consider that they will compare very favorably with many pure bred herds. Our daily records for the last year for instance, show that one grade cow has produced 15,600 lbs. of milk and our mature cows will average about 8,000 lbs. We have a two year old heifer that from present indications will give us at least 8,000 lbs. this year. We have been going in largely for summer dairying in the past but from now on we will endeavor to have as many cows freshen for winter milking as for summer. We have a cement silo, 14x36 feet, and we plan to build another the same size in the near future. We would not attempt to enter on winter dairying without silage for feed."

ADS TO SHOW RETURNS

Mr. Ireland is an observant dairyman. As a result of his observations he has come to the conclusion that Prof. Barton's contentions that no heifer should be bred to freshen under two and one-half years old, is just about right. He has noticed in his own herd that two year old heifers in milk receive a set back in their development from which they never recover. From now on Mr. Ireland will plan to have spring heifers freshen in the fall and fall heifers in the spring.

Since coming to the farm the Irelands have built the fine new home seen in the illustration herewith. It is a home complete in every sense of the word with such modern conveniences as running water, a bathroom, and hot water heating. All the furnishings have been made on the principle that nothing is too good for the farm home.

Like most successful farmers, Mr. Ireland is a constant reader of agricultural literature, all the leading farm journals finding a place in his library. And one of the most appreciated of these is Farm and Dairy. Mr. Ireland is the kind of farmer that we are proud to number among Our Folks.—F. E. E.

Stock Markets

MARKET OPINION.

There is really so little to write about, a letter to-day will not prove very interesting to stock traders. All the market moved in a downward direction and may continue to do so until lower prices are reached. The market has just had a good rally. Cotton advanced 60 to 80 points, wheat and corn about 5 points from their low of a few months ago. It appears as if the market will sell lower before selling over this week's high price. After this setback look out for an active bull movement.

New York News says: "We see no reason this morning to change our opinion of the market, and we continue to advise our clients to take the selling side on every bulge."

VILLA RETREATING.

Defeat of Constitutionalist General at Torreon Is Confirmed.

MEXICO CITY, March 27.—Confirmation of the reported defeat of Gen. Villa's army at Torreon by Federal forces under Gen. Velasco, was given in a message received at the Mexican war office at noon yesterday.

The rebel losses are placed at 700 men killed.

The rebels are said to be retreating to Termocillo, a town on the railroad 30 miles north of Torreon.

At the war office it was said that the message was sent from San Pedro de Las Colonias, a town 37 miles northeast of the battlefield, and was sent by a federal officer.

THE REASON FEWER PEOPLE TAKE "SALTS"

We find the use of salts and other harsh physics is becoming less every year because more and more people are using Rexall Orderlies, which we and they firmly believe to be the best bowel remedy ever made. They taste so much like candy that even the children like them. At the same time they act so easily and naturally that there is no purging, griping or pain. They promptly remove the constipation and, by soothing and strengthening the bowels, make it less liable to occur again. We have the utmost faith in them. We know what they are made of and the pleasant, beneficial results that always follow their use.

You needn't take our word for it. If Rexall Orderlies don't help you—if they don't entirely relieve all your bowel troubles—come back and tell us and we'll give back your money. In vest pocket tin boxes; 10c, 25c, 50c.

WHY REBUILD IT?

Better Make N. T. R. First Class at Start, Says German

COL. SAM HUGHES EXPLAINS

OTTAWA, March 27. — With the galleries filled by the Ontario H. Ireradials and great waterways delegates the House of Commons resumed the debate on the National Transcontinental report yesterday and continued it until eleven o'clock when an adjournment was moved by J. E. Armstrong of East Lambton.

Col. Hughes was the centre of a stormy discussion at question time. While speaking to a question of privilege he took occasion to denounce the newspaper reports referred to in the House the other evening, which quoted him as having assured the Ulstermen that no obstacle would be thrown in the way of a thousand picked Canadians sailing from here to join the Carson army in May. The article, he said, had been concocted and sent out from the "Bocsorium" or slanderbund operated by the Opposition.

This brought Mr. Fred Pardee to his feet. The article he had read to the House was taken from The Montreal Star. He insisted that the Minister of Militia withdraw the offensive statements, which he knew to be false.

For a few minutes the Opposition showed some of the spirit of the navy debate of last session, but Col. Hughes, at the request of Mr. Speaker, withdrew his remark.

The House reverted to the debate upon the Gutelius-Staunton report on the National Transcontinental, which was resumed by the Solicitor-General.

Mr. Meighen defended Mr. Gutelius from a charge of incompetency. He had been engaged in railway construction continuously from 1888 to 1903.

Mr. Meighen then discussed the N. T. R. entrance into Winnipeg, which he said went through St. Boniface on the top of an embankment 22 feet high, coming into Winnipeg on a sky line. No spur lines could be built up to this absurd embankment.

The Transcona shops, he said, had been built twice as large as they should have been. The shops at Quebec, although having to handle more work than the shops at Transcona should handle, had only cost $3,000,000, while the shops at Transcona had cost the enormous sum of $4,500,000.

It was childish to compare the capitalization with the capitalization of roads like the Pennsylvania or the New York Central. The N. T. R. ran through a wilderness and had no assets beyond its tracks and sleepers.

The Gutelius-Staunton report," said Mr. Meighen in closing, "stands undisturbed, unmolested, notwithstanding the vitriolic attacks made upon the commissioners by the ex-Minister of Railways and Canals. He has not scrupled to apply almost any term to those men which might throw discredit upon them, but he has been unable to point to a single finding in their report which was not sustained by the evidence."

William Manly German (Lib., Welland) replied. He said the National Transcontinental had cost a good deal of money, but the country had gotten value for it. It always cost more to get a first-class article. In building a railway it often happens that the promoters through lack of capital were compelled to build a cheap road and then practically rebuild it from end to end. Mr. German reminded the House that President Chamberlain, of the Grand Trunk Pacific, had notified Major Leonard of the N. T. R. commission that the G. T. P. would not take over the National Transcontinental if the standard of construction was degraded by the introduction of velocity or momentum grades. That warning was still in effect and now, after many denials and subterfuges, the Solicitor-General of Canada had stated yesterday on the floor of the House that there were hundreds and hundreds of momentum grades between Superior Junction and Quebec. He had placed the strongest possible brief in the hands of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

BIG ARMY MEN QUIT

Generals French and Ewart Leave War Office Council

COL. SEELY MAY ALSO GO

LONDON, March 27. — That the Government is still facing a situation of extreme difficulty is proved by the fact that Premier Asquith was not in a position last night to make his promised statement in Parliament, and it was consequently postponed until to-day.

The air is full of extravagant rumors, among the most credible being the report that Col. Seely is, after all, to quit the War Office, by an exchange of portfolios with Lewis Harcourt, Secretary for the Colonies.

The only new items in the situation were to be found in the resignation of Field Marshal Sir John French Chief of the Imperial General Staff, and Sir John Spencer Ewart, adjutant-general, from the Army Council. The rumor persists that other members of the Army Council have resigned, but this cannot be confirmed.

Negotiations and conferences between Buckingham Palace, the War Office and Downing Street were carried on throughout the day, and it was shown that the strongest efforts were being made to induce Field Marshal French and Gen. Ewart to reconsider their action. The Prime Minister called a hurried meeting of the Cabinet at his residence after it was decided to postpone the statement to Parliament.

Later it was announced, with a show of authority, that both French and Ewart had at last consented to withdraw their resignations, but at midnight Gen. French said his resignation had neither been accepted nor withdrawn.

It is generally believed, however, that it will be found that Col. Seely has again resigned, and that his resignation has been accepted; that Lewis Harcourt has been selected to replace him, and that Lord Emmett, Under Secretary for the Colonies, will be promoted Colonial Secretary.

Another Cabinet Council will be held to-day before Parliament assembles, so it is quite possible that there will be other, perhaps unexpected, changes in the kaleidoscopic situation.

Much interest is being shown in the almost daily conferences between Chancellor Lloyd George and James Ramsay MacDonald, the Independent Labor member, which is interpreted in some quarters as meaning a new coalition between the Labor party and the extreme Radicals, who place the land question and social reform in the forefront of the battle.

In Ireland no change has occurred. Belfast remains quiet, and although it is asserted that the officers at the Curragh camp are determined to resign because of the repudiation of Col. Seely's guarantee by the Government, no actual resignations, so far as is known, have occurred.

Field Marshal Sir John French was one of the signatories of the memorandum of Brigadier-General Hubert Gough giving guarantees to the army officers that they would not be ordered to fight the Ulster Unionists, and regarded the repudiation of the document by the Government as a slight to himself.

How You Can Remove Unsightly Hair or Fuzz

(Beauty Secret)

By having a small package of delatone handy, you can quickly banish ugly, unsightly hairs wherever they may appear. Just enough paste to cover the hairy surface is made with some of the powdered delatone and water. This is applied for about 3 minutes, then removed and the skin washed. This simple method not only banishes every trace of hair or fuzz, but leaves the skin firm smooth and free from blemish.

"THE MAYOR'S WIFE"

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

CHAPTER XI.

BESS.

On my way back I took the opposite side of the street from that I usually aproached. When I reached the little shop I paused. First glancing at the various petty articles exposed in the window, I quietly stepped in. A contracted and very low room met my eyes, faintly lighted by a row of panes in the upper half of the door and not at all by the window, which was hung on the inside with a heavy curtain. Against two sides of this room were arranged shelves filled with boxes labelled in the usual way to indicate their contents. These did not strike me as being very varied or of a very high order. There was no counter in front, only some tables on which lay strewn fancy boxes of thread and other useless knick-knacks to which certain shopkeepers appear to cling though they can seldom find customers for them. A woman stood at one of these tables untangling a skein of red yarn. Behind her I saw another leaning in an abstracted way over a counter which ran from wall to wall across the extreme end of the shop. This I took to be Bess. She had made no move at my entrance and she made no move now. The woman with the skein appeared, on the contrary, as eager to see as the other seemed indifferent. I had to buy something and I did so in as matter-of-fact a way as possible, considering that my attention was given more to the woman in the rear than to the articles I was purchasing.

"You have a very convenient place here," I casually remarked, as I handed out my money. With this I turned squarely about and look directly at her whom I believed to be Bess.

A voluble answer from the woman at my side, but not the wink of an eye from the one whose attention I had endeavored to attract.

"I live in the house opposite," I carelessly went on, taking in every detail of the strange being I was secretly addressing.

"Oh!" she exclaimed in startled tones, roused into speech at last. "You live opposite; in Mayor Packard's house?"

I approached her, smiling. She had dropped her hands from her chin and seemed very eager now, more eager than the other woman, to interest me in what she had about her and so hold me to the shop.

"Look at this," she cried, holding up an article of such cheap workmanship that I wondered so sensible an appearing woman would cumber her shelves with it. "I am glad you live over there," for I had nodded to her question. "I'm greatly interested in that house. I've worked there as cook and waitress several times."

I met her look; it was sharp and very intelligent.

"Then you know its reputation," I laughingly suggested.

She made a contemptuous gesture. The woman was really very good looking, but baffling in her manner, as Mr. Robinson had said, and very hard to classify. "That isn't what interests me," she protested. "I've other reasons. You're not a relative of the family, are you?" she asked impetuously, leaning over the table to get a nearer view of my face.

"No, nor even a friend. I am in their employ just now as a companion to Mrs. Packard. Her health is not very good, and the mayor is away a great deal."

"I thought you didn't belong there. I know all who belong there. I've little else to do but stare across the street," she added apologetically and with a deep flush. "Business is very poor in this shop."

I was standing directly in front of her. Turning quickly about, I looked through the narrow panes of the door, and found that my eyes naturally rested on the stoop of the opposite house. Indeed, this stoop was about all that could be seen from the spot where this woman stood.

"Another eye bent in constant watchfulness upon us," I inwardly commented. "We are quite surrounded. This house should certainly hold treasure to warrant all this interest. But what could this one-time domestic know of the missing bonds?"

"An old-fashioned doorway," I remarked. "It is the only one of its kind on the whole street. It makes the house conspicuous, but in a way I like. I don't wonder you enjoy looking at it. To me such a house and such a doorway suggest mystery and a romantic past. If the place is not haunted—and only a fool believes in ghosts — something strange must have happened there or I should never have the nervous feeling I have in going about the halls and up and down the stairways. Did you never have that feeling?"

"Never. I'm not given to feelings. I live one day after another and just wait."

Not given to feelings! With such eyes in such a face! You should have looked down when you said that, Bess; I might have believed you, then.

"Wait?" I softly repeated. "Wait for what? For fortune to enter your little shop door?"

"No, for my husband to come back," was her unexpected answer, uttered grimly enough to have frightened that husband away again, had he been fortunate or unfortunate enough to hear. "I'm a married woman, Miss, and shouldn't be working like this. And I won't be always; my man'll come back and make a lady of me again. It's that I'm waiting for."

Here a customer came in. Naturally I drew back, for our faces were nearly touching.

"Don't go," she pleaded, catching me by the sleeve and turning astonishingly pale for one ordinarily so ruddy. "I want to ask a favour of you. Come into my little room behind. You won't regret it." This last in an emphatic whisper.

Amazed at the turn which the conversation had taken and congratulating myself greatly upon my success in incurring her immediate confidence, I slipped through the opening she made for me between the tables serving for a counter and followed her into a room at the rear, which from its appearance answered the triple purpose of sleeping-room, parlor and kitchen.

"Pardon my impertinence," said she, as she carefully closed the door behind us. "It's not my habit to make friends with strangers, but I've taken a fancy to you and think you can be trusted. Will—" she hesitated, then burst out. "will you do something for me?"

"If I can," I smiled.

"How long do you expect to stay over there?"

"O, that I can't say."

"A month? A week?"

"Probably a week."

"Then you can do what I want. Miss—"

"Saunders." I put in.

"There is something in that house which belongs to me."

I started: this was hardly what I expected to hear her say.

"Something of great importance to me; something which I must have and have very soon. I don't want to go there for it myself. I hid it in a very safe place one day when my future looked doubtful, and I didn't know where I might be going or what might happen to me. Mrs. Packard would think it strange if she saw where, and might make it very uncomfortable for me. But you can get what I want without trouble if you are not afraid of going about the house at night. It's a little box with my name on it; and it is hidden—"

"Where?"

"Behind a brick I loosened in the cellar wall. I can describe the very place. Oh, you think I am asking too much of you—a stranger and a lady."

"No, I'm willing to do what I can for you. But I think you ought to tell me what is in the box, so that I shall know exactly what I am doing."

"I can't tell; I do not dare to tell till I have it again in my own hand. Then we will look it over together. Do you hesitate? You needn't; no inconvenience will follow to anyone, if you are careful to rely on yourself and not let any other person see or handle this box."

"How large is it?" I asked, quite as breathless as herself, as I realized the possibilities underlying this remarkable request.

"It is so small that you can conceal it under an apron or in the pocket of your boat. In exchange for it, I will give you all I can afford—ten dollars."

"No more than that?" I asked, testing her.

"No more, at first. Afterward—if it brings me what it ought to, I will give you whatever you think it is worth. Does that satisfy you? Are you willing to risk an encounter with the ghost, for just ten dollars and a promise?"

The smile with which she said this was indescribable. I think it gave me a more thrilling consciousness of human terror in face of the supernatural than anything which I had yet heard in this connection. Surely her motive for remaining in the haunted house had been extraordinarily strong.

"You are afraid," she declared. "You will shrink, when the time comes, from going into that cellar at night."

"I shook my head; I had already gained both my will-power and the resolution to carry out this adventure to the end.

"I will go," said I.

"And get me my box?"

"Yes."

"And bring it to me as early the next day as you can leave Mrs. Packard?"

"Yes."

"Oh, you don't know what this means to me."

I had a suspicion, but held my peace and let her rhapsodize.

"No one in all my life has ever shown me so much kindness! Are you sure you won't be tempted to tell any one what you mean to do?"

"Quite sure."

"And will you go down into the cellar and get this box for me, all by yourself?"

"Yes, if you demand it."

"I do; you will see why some day."

"Very well, you can trust me. Now tell me where I am to find the brick you designate."

"It's in the cellar wall, about half way down, on the right hand side. You will see nothing but stone for a foot or two above the floor, but after that comes the brick wall. On one of these brick s you will detect a cross scratched. That's the one. It will look as well cemented as the rest, but if you throw water against it, you will find that in a little while you will be able to pry it out. Take something to do this with, a knife or a pair of scissors. When the brick falls out, feel behind with your hand and you will find the box."

"The ghost will protect you!"

Again that smile of mingled sarcasm and innuendo. It was no common servant girl's smile, any more than her language was that of the ignorant domestic.

"I believe the ghost fails to walk since the present tenants came into the house," I remarked.

"But it's reputation remains; you will not be disturbed."

"Possibly not; a good reason why you might safely undertake the business yourself. "I can find some way of letting you in."

"No, no. I shall never again cross that threshold!" Her whole attitude showed revolt and bitter determination.

"Yet you have never been frightened by anything there!"

"I know; but I have suffered; that is, for one who has no feelings. The box will have to remain in its place undisturbed if you won't get it for me."

"Positively?"

"Yes, Miss; nothing would induce me even to cross the street. But I want the box."

"You shall have it," said I.

She may be growing from girlhood into womanhood—passing from womanhood to motherhood—or later suffering from that change into middle life which leaves so many wrecks of women. At any or all of these periods of a woman's life she should take a tonic and nervine prescribed for just such cases by a physician of vast experience in the diseases of women.

Miss Elizabeth Lordahl of Berkeley, Cal., in a recent letter to Dr. Pierce said: "I was completely broken down in health, I was aching and had pains all over my body and was so nervous that I could scarcely speak to anyone. I had the good fortune to meet a nurse who had been cured by Dr. Pierce's Prescription. I have never had an occasion to consult a physician since—am in excellent health."

THE EDITOR'S DREAM.

Entitled "Little Boy Blue."

I dreamed that I was the editor
Of a Christmas magazine;
And I wanted to make it the finest one
That the world had ever seen;
But I felt somehow I had fallen down
Until, with the make-up due,
Gene Field stepped in with a manuscript

I've dreamed that I was a millionaire,
That I was a ruling king;
I've dreamed that I was another Burns,
Adrift in the fields of spring;
But I hold this closer to my heart,
With the Christmas make-up due,
When I dreamed I was the editor,
Reaching for "Little Boy Blue."

The million packet soup

This soup, of which millions of packets have already been sold; this soup, which has taken over a quarter of a century to perfect; this soup, which is prepared from the finest of Irish garden-grown vegetables—surely it is worth making the right way.

Boil it for half-an-hour at least. Give it plenty of time to cook. It's worth it.

Edwards' Soup is good as a soup by itself, it is good as a strengthener of other soups; good as a thickener of gravies; good for hashes, good for stews—too good to be spoiled by insufficient boiling.

EDWARDS' DESICCATED SOUPS

But you must give them half-an-hour—worth it.

Three varieties—Brown, Tomato and White. Your Grocer has them. 5c packet, and 15c. tin; but the 25c. tin comes cheaper.

SAW DEAD HUSBAND IN MOVING PICTURES

Lady Scott, Wife of Antarctic Explorer, Faces Trying Ordeal

Lady Scott the other night, for the first time, saw Mr. Ponting's pictures of her late husband's expedition to the Antarctic. She had long wished to see them, but had not hitherto felt equal to facing the trying ordeal.

She went to the Philharmonic Hall, Great Portland street, London, and as a member of the general public saw the exhibition of Mr. Herbert Ponting's remarkable pictures. Accompanying her were Mr. McKenna (Home Secretary) and Mrs. McKenna, and Mr. Harold Baker.

The news that Lady Scott was present gradually spread through the hall and created a marked impression. The final scenes of the tragic expedition were received with an intense hush.

The portraits of the "five heroes," which are shown at the end of the series, are usually received with rounds of cheering. On this occasion there was a sympathetic silence. At the close of the exhibition Lady Scott hurried from the hall.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

CURED A BAD ATTACK OF

ECZEMA.

All skin diseases such as Eczema, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Rash, Boils, Pimples, and Itching Skin Eruptions, are always caused from the blood being in a bad condition, and it is impossible to eradicate them from the system unless you put your blood into good shape. This you can very easily do without the slightest trouble by using Burdock Blood Bitters.

It drives out all the humor from the blood, and makes it pure and rich, and not only are the unsightly diseases removed, and a bright clean complexion produced, but the entire system is renovated and invigorated at the same time.

Mrs. G. A. Day, Somerville, N.B., writes:—"Last spring I had a bad attack of Eczema. I tried several patent medicines as well as the medicine of a physician, but they seemed to make the disease worse. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and I did so with the result that in two weeks time the sores began to disappear. I continued to take it until I had taken three bottles and they worked a complete cure."

SCILLY ISLES NOW BLOOMING

Tons of Flowers Being Sent to the London Market

The flower harvest in the Scilly Isles is in full swing, and the islanders are already assured a profitable season. The services of every available adult has been requisitioned for cutting, packing, and transporting the beautiful blooms.

Last week 115 tons of blooms were sent to the mainland. This week that figure will probably be exceeded, and by the time the huge gardens have been stripped of their yield over 1,000 tons of flowers will have been disposed of.

With greater skill in growing and packing the demand for Scilly flowers has grown enormously. The other day 44 tons of blooms were sent across by steamer to Penzance, and hurried thence to London by special train. These flowers will be on sale in the markets of England.

Last year the crop was a great failure. This year even the islanders are astonished at the luxuriance of the gardens.

To the huge floral export of the Scillies now has to be added the produce from West Cornwall. There the farmers have discovered that the lands facing south are wonderfully fertile for early spring flower productions, and tons of violets and wallflowers are being dispatched to London.

SAW DEAD HUSBAND IN MOVING PICTURES

Lady Scott, Wife of Antarctic Explorer, Faces Trying Ordeal

Lady Scott the other night, for the first time, saw Mr. Ponting's pictures of her late husband's expedition to the Antarctic. She had long wished to see them, but had not hitherto felt equal to facing the trying ordeal.

She went to the Philharmonic Hall, Great Portland street, London, and as a member of the general public saw the exhibition of Mr. Herbert Ponting's remarkable pictures. Accompanying her were Mr. McKenna (Home Secretary) and Mrs. McKenna, and Mr. Harold Baker.

The news that Lady Scott was present gradually spread through the hall and created a marked impression. The final scenes of the tragic expedition were received with an intense hush.

The portraits of the "five heroes," which are shown at the end of the series, are usually received with rounds of cheering. On this occasion there was a sympathetic silence. At the close of the exhibition Lady Scott hurried from the hall.

ECZEMA.

All skin diseases such as Eczema, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Rash, Boils, Pimples, and Itching Skin Eruptions, are always caused from the blood being in a bad condition, and it is impossible to eradicate them from the system unless you put your blood into good shape. This you can very easily do without the slightest trouble by using Burdock Blood Bitters.

It drives out all the humor from the blood, and makes it pure and rich, and not only are the unsightly diseases removed, and a bright clean complexion produced, but the entire system is renovated and invigorated at the same time.

Mrs. G. A. Day, Somerville, N.B., writes:—"Last spring I had a bad attack of Eczema. I tried several patent medicines as well as the medicine of a physician, but they seemed to make the disease worse. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and I did so with the result that in two weeks time the sores began to disappear. I continued to take it until I had taken three bottles and they worked a complete cure."

SCILLY ISLES NOW BLOOMING

Tons of Flowers Being Sent to the London Market

The flower harvest in the Scilly Isles is in full swing, and the islanders are already assured a profitable season. The services of every available adult has been requisitioned for cutting, packing, and transporting the beautiful blooms.

Last week 115 tons of blooms were sent to the mainland. This week that figure will probably be exceeded, and by the time the huge gardens have been stripped of their yield over 1,000 tons of flowers will have been disposed of.

With greater skill in growing and packing the demand for Scilly flowers has grown enormously. The other day 44 tons of blooms were sent across by steamer to Penzance, and hurried thence to London by special train. These flowers will be on sale in the markets of England.

Last year the crop was a great failure. This year even the islanders are astonished at the luxuriance of the gardens.

To the huge floral export of the Scillies now has to be added the produce from West Cornwall. There the farmers have discovered that the lands facing south are wonderfully fertile for early spring flower productions, and tons of violets and wallflowers are being dispatched to London.

Voice Harmony as Basis of Love Test

College Professor, After the Study of More Than One Thousand Cases, Declares That Those Whose Voices Are Akin Should Become Matrimonial Partners.

Numerous Instances of Happy Marriages Between Famous Singers Are Cited to Prove Master Musician's Theories Are Well Founded.

MORE than "sweet bells jangled out of tune" are singers united in matrimony whose voices do not blend. This is no mere convenience of harmonizing for concert or opera purposes. It goes further than any artistic or commercial mesalliance, striking at the root of conjugal happiness.

The authority for this statement is Professor T. R. Fitz, until recently head of the musical department of the State Teachers' College, at Greeley, Col., and he speaks out of a wide experience. Music is the great soul test, he insists. Therefore it, rather than personal appearance, should be made the basis of a love match if an enduring happiness is to result.

Professor Fitz does not say that both parties to the marriage contract should be musical, much less singers, but he implies as much. The important thing, however, is that if both are singers their voices should be of the right mating quality. Most persons would take it that this meant a contrast, that a basso should marry a soprano and a tenor a contralto, as we say that light and dark in complexion should wed, but Professor Fitz holds to the contrary opinion.

After a study of 1,000 cases he has come to the conclusion that those whose voices are akin should become matrimonial partners, pairing off tenors and sopranos and bassos and altos. The voice, he says, is the great index of character, and it is because of that that he considers it so important for the persons having the right kinds of voices to get together.

This opens a wide vista of new responsibilities and opportunities for those who are contemplating matrimony, and are not to be bulked by Punch's famous advice unless it is supported by more definite and cogent reasons. While Professor Fitz's dicta doubtless apply primarily to the singing voice, the principle ought to hold good for speaking voices as well, and, besides, almost every one can sing enough to have his voice tried out and find what the complementary quality of his partner's should be.

In the Oscar Saenger studio the question was put to a teacher of experience, "What do tenors usually marry?"

"Contraltos" came the prompt response.

Just then Mr. Orville Harrold came in with his two dogs, Duke and Happy. The teacher looked at him, paused and said, "Mr. Harrold's wife has a fine soprano voice."

"Are they happy together?"

"Oh, yes, indeed."

"Well, they're mated according to Professor Fitz's theory. Do you think of any other instances?"

"Yes, there's Bernice de Pasquali, soprano, and her husband, a tenor. By the way, have you ever noticed how happy and jolly tenors are? You hardly ever see a gloomy one. You can always joke with a tenor."

"That fits in with Professor Fitz's statement—'Tenors are shrewd, successful in business, good mixers, cordial and sympathetic.'"

"By the way," called the teacher, "Mr. and Mrs. Saenger carry out Professor Fitz's theory. She had a low contralto voice and he a barytone. I suppose I have just taken it for granted that persons having voices of contrasting qualities would be sure to marry. Facts don't seem to bear it out."

In looking over the field of famous singers, Professor Fitz's theory seems to find ample confirmation.

Take the most famous soprano the world has known, Adelina Patti, the daughter and sister of musicians. She has been three times married, twice to men of title. Her second husband, Ernest Nicolini, was a tenor of ability with whom she sang on extended concert tours. They lived happily together from the time of their marriage in 1886 until his death in 1898.

Lilli Lehman, an eminent soprano, also married a tenor, Mr. Paul Kalisch, with whom she sang several times in the United States.

Although Emma Eames now sings only at entertainments for charitable purposes, hers is one of the familiar names in the concert and operatic world. True to Professor Fitz' theory of the fitness of things, she is married to a tenor, Mr. Emilio de Gogorza.

One of the most interesting marriages in the musical world, tending to prove the theory that sopranos and tenors not only have an attraction for each other, but that their union will be a happy and successful one, is that of Mme. Marie Rappold and Mr. Rudolph Berger, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, of New York. Although Mme. Rappold is of Belgian birth, she had her training in America and was, up to the time of her debut, the only person having such training to make her début in a leading part of an opera in the United States. Several years ago she sang Elsa to Mr. Rudolph Berger's Lohengrin at the Berlin Royal Opera. He is considered, by the way, the best interpreter of Lohengrin now on the operatic stage. Last June Mme. Rappold and Mr. Berger were married, and any one who doubts the theory of Professor Fitz might be converted were he to hear this happy and talented soprano and tenor at the New York Metropolitan Opera House.

A few evenings ago just before Mr. Berger was to sing he went to the Saenger studio for an hour's work. Mr. Harrold passed him going out as he was going in for the same purpose, and the leading tenors from the two opera houses shook hands and exchanged jokes as they went their ways. Mr. Berger's humor is none the less keen because his English is still a little limited.

That these two men with their heavy evening's work before them should have taken the extra hour for singing will surprise persons who think of the great singers refraining from all exertion and sparing themselves in every way physically and mentally before they appear before the public in an elaborate performance. These men not only put the extra strain upon their voices, but one of them had been attending a social function.

Again this goes to prove the Fitz theory that tenors are good mixers.

Another couple who are exponents of the affinity between tenors and sopranos are Giovanni Zenatello and Maria Gay, both of whom are brilliant and dramatic opera singers.

Some one has cruelly said that sopranos should not marry, that few of them can run the risk of affecting the quality of their tones by such an interruption and a few cases have been pointed out in which soprano singers have seemed to suffer loss, both of popularity and of art, at least for a time, but there are so many more cases where famous sopranos have increased their reputations as singers after marriage that it would seem not to be a valid theory.

To be sure, Miss Geraldine Farrar, when asked about marriage at one time, replied that she had no time for it because she was always too busy getting ready for a new opera or recovering from one that she had been singing in.

That is where Miss Mabel Garrison, who has recently had her opportunity to sing in grand opera, was wise. She married her professor of harmony in the Peabody Conservatory, Baltimore, before she grew too busy. Besides, a professor of harmony ought to be able to attune himself to a soprano whatever his natural voice might happen to be.

"The girl with the contralto voice makes the best mother; she lives longer, is true, honest and dependable," says Professor Fitz. If that is true, the contralto who finds a congenial basso for her mate seems to have doubly good fortune in store for her.

When one thinks of contraltos who are mothers, he is indeed confronted by the fact that they do seem to be notable in the matter of maternal devotion. Mme. Schumann-Heink is almost as widely known for her love and loyalty for her very large family as she is for her ability as a singer.

And when one speaks of Mme. Homer there instantly arises a picture of her beautiful home life, the composer husband, who has dedicated some of his most exquisite songs to her, and the lovely children (including the twins) with which they are blessed. Here is surely a contralto who fulfils Mr. Fitz's contention that she makes a wonderful mother.

The latest contralto to claim honors as a mother is Miss Margarete Matzenauer, whose twin-spotted baby was born about a month ago in Boston. She is singing again, all the more beautifully for the mother love in her voice. Alas, that her marriage should violate Professor Fitz's principle! Her husband, Mr. Edoardo Ferrari-Fontana, has a decided tenor voice. However, their romantic courtship and marriage during a South American tour may have been so exceptional that the ordinary rule was suspended for their benefit. At least there have been as yet no indications that their union in the least happy because their voices vary so greatly.

At the Century Opera House, in New York, a couple, mated according to the Fitzian theory has been having a successful season. Mr. Herbert Waterous, basso, and Miss Jayne Herbert, his wife, are not only congenial but they have three fine boys—Herbert, Donald and Allen—who do credit to the best type of contralto mothering. Mr. Waterous received all his musical training in America. He has sung in such widely differing parts as Donner in Wagner's "Rheingold" and Ford-Falstaff in an all star production of the "Wreckers." Both he and his wife have sung in concert and are favorably known throughout the West. Their home is in Chicago, but while enjoying the good fortune of singing in the same company in New York this winter they have made for themselves a home in that city.

Mme. Gadski is only a soprano, yet there is no more home loving person in the operatic world, and she is as devoted a mother as if her voice had a lower range. There must be some exceptions.

Professor Fitz is now in New York, where he expects to spend at least two years in musical work. This will give him an opportunity to investigate at close range the application in the East of the theories he has evolved in the West. Meanwhile persons about to marry may make use of the tuning fork if they are in doubt about the quality of the voices of those whom they would make their life partners.

"It's as handy as cupcakes," said a soprano who is married to a tenor.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Read This Before Christening the Baby.

DO great men possess middle names or do greater men not have middle names?

This question, which has been discussed frequently by those who are interested to discover the whys and wherefores of personal eminence, has lately arisen in connection with the birthday of Benjamin Franklin. A correspondent has written to ask this paper if it is not an established fact that the greatest men of history have not had middle names.

Supporting this theory there are to be cited the names of Christopher Columbus, Martin Luther, Napoleon Bonaparte, William Shakespeare, John Bunyan, Abraham Lincoln, Oliver Cromwell and George Washington.

On the other side of the question, however, there are Marcus Tullius Cicero, Peter Paul Rubens, Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, Otto Eduard Leopold von Bismarck, William Ewart Gladstone, Armand Jean du Plessis Duc de Richelieu, Publius Virgilius Maro and Marcus Aurelius Antoninus.

Among the great soldiers, at least of modern times, there seems to be quite a liking for middle names. Ulysses Simpson Grant and Robert Edward Lee are among those who may be instanced. If Ludwig van Beethoven speaks for musical genius devoid of middle names there is Johann Chrysostom Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and Wilhelm Richard Wagner to uphold the banner for the other side of the argument. Franz Hals, James Watt, William Harvey and Herbert Spencer are a strong quartet for the middle nameless side of the question, but Caius Julius Caesar, François Frederic Chopin, William Makepeace Thackeray and Charles John Huffam Dickens as representatives of the other side are by no means to be disregarded.

Among great financiers Cornelius Vanderbilt and Jay Gould would seem to suggest that the man without a middle name is more apt to achieve a fortune than the man with a middle name, but the names of John Jacob Astor and John Pierpont Morgan at once come to mind to contradict this thought.

In the world of sports the array of names on each side of the issue is equally confusing. There are Christopher Mathewson, Cornelius McGillicuddy (Connie Mack), Clarke Griffith, Hugh Jennings and Napoleon Lajoie among the baseball high lights who confess to no middle name, while opposed are John J. McGraw, Frank Leroy Chance and Byron Bancroft Johnson.

Wilbur Wright and Orville Wright and Count Ferdinand Zeppelin seem to suggest that men without middle names are more popular in motor [illegible] Edward Hanlan, oarsman; Francis Ouimet, golfer, and Devereux Milburn, polo player, hold the banner for the same name men in other sports, and Charles Edward Brickley, football; Maurice [illegible] McLoughlin, tennis player, and John L. Sullivan are an equally strong middle name team. Among artists of to-day Auguste Rodin and John Singer Sargent strike a balance while among educators there may be instanced for consideration Seth Low, Charles William Eliot, Nicholas Murray Butler, Arthur Twining Hadley and William H. Maxwell.

Among the churchmen of the day Cardinal James Gibbons and Cardinal John Murphy Farley present an impartial view of the situation, while the annals of the stage are equally non-committal with the names of Richard Mansfield and Johnston Forbes-Robertson. Among statesmen and political lights of the present day there are William Jennings Bryan, John Purroy Mitchel, Elihu Root, Joseph Hodges Choate and Robert Adamson, arrayed for and against the middle name.

And, of course, there is T. Woodrow Wilson, whose life might have gone in entirely different channels if he had been known as Thomas W. Wilson.

At the Social Centre—Some Interesting Statistics

THAT the social centre idea has come to stay is indicated in a report just compiled by Clarence Arthur Perry, of the Russell Sage Foundation, New York city. Mr. Perry shows that in places where the movement has already started the rate of growth is much higher than the rate at which it spreads in new localities. In other words the actual results of the social centre are more effective in getting public support than the words of its most enthusiastic champions.

The report is getting on a more solid basis. Seventy-one cities had, during the winter of 1912-13, paid workers for some form of social center activity, 141 opposed centers by [illegible] schools, and the annual expenditure for the maintenance of school centers had grown from $34,000 in 1912 to $121,575 in the past year. There are 1,967 paid workers reported. This, with the volunteer workers, brings the number of persons engaged in social centre direction considerably above the 2,000 mark.

That the general social and recreational possibilities of the "wider use of the school plant" movement are making a constantly greater appeal may be seen from the fact that in 351 schoolhouses there were public entertainments and lectures, in 696 school buildings there were open meetings of adults to discuss local problems, athletics or folk dancing in 344 schools and social dancing in 191.

A notable development of "wider use" in 1912-13 was for election and other civic purposes. Balloting direct at the voting places in 25 school houses [illegible] ballot boxes sent for registering voters and political rallies to the number of 481 took place in school edifices.

Mr. Perry reports great difficulty in obtaining exact statistics of social centre activities. Little uniformity of agreement exists as to what constitutes a social centre. Even the name itself is not constant—the institution is variously reported as "recreation centre," "civic centre," "social and recreation centre," "evening centre," "community centre," &c. Some cities have social centre activities going on six nights a week; while others open their school buildings once or twice a month.

"We should, however, look beyond the mere figures in judging social centres," says Mr. Perry. "Centres of individual growth and refinement of civics and social interaction—that is what these places are, and no system of numerals can ever be devised that will convey an adequate notion of the civalizing influences which radiate from them."

A Paradox.

"It takes a long, strong climb to reach success."

"Yes, and the only way to reach it is by keeping on the level."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A LITTLE PLOT THAT WORKED

Mildred drew her dustcloth from its box beneath the counter and glanced across to where her roommate, Mame Conway, was already arranging ome new pictures just brought in from the framing department.

"It's no use talking to her," she whispered. "She's as happy as a bird and simply refuses to think about anything sensible. I wonder, sometimes, whether I'm worrying about Mame or just thinking about myself."

Many times since Mame had declared her intention of marrying Dick Harris had they been over the same arguments. "It is too big a risk,' Mildred repeatedly cautioned "You don't know a thing about him, except that he is respectable and good to look at. You do not know the first thing about his mode of living—if you hate it, as you probably will, how do you know he will give it up for you? Don't you take the risk, Mame."

"Why should I hate his way of living?" that obdurate young person invariably insisted. "I think it is goisg to be lovelyto have a whole big house and a yard full of flowers and a horse of my own to drive. Only think of that, Mildred Hust. Oh, and a place for you, you old kill-joy, where you can have cream and eggs and pine-scented air, and get colour in your cheeks and as fat as butter."

At this point Mildred always found it difficult to retain her composure. "Do you uppose I shall inflict my presence upon your paradise?"

"That was in the bargain when I told Dick I would go," Mame always declared. "Why, I have picked out the very room you are to have, with morning sunshine and a view of the hills!"

"That all sounds very nice. But when you have to take care of your big house and cook for the men and churn the cream, you'll not be so anxious for a permanent guest."

"But how I should love it," Mildred thought passionately, bringing her thoughts back from those futile arguments. "I am afraid my objections are nothing but selfishness, after all. I don't dare think of winter without Mame. I've never been happy or known what companionship meant until I found her. It does not seem as if I should ever have the heart to go on without her."

The girl's hands trembled a little over her task and her shoulders drooped listlessly. Mame, glancing across with anxious solicitude, noted her inattention. "And she used to be just crasy over the pictures," she thought. "She ought not to be shut in this store another week. I'll not be going until the New Year." A pretty flush suffused her face at the thought. "But when I go she is going, no matter what she says."

The day dragged interminably. It was almost closing time when Mildred noticed the young man standing near her counter. "He looks like the ugly giant in the fairy story," she decided, glancing at his shoulders, and the scowl on his good-looking face. "Probably he is waiting for his sister or—his wife." But she did not look about to see, for she knew Dick Harris was lingering over the counter acrosss the way, and the sight of Mame and her [illegible] made the girl feel suddenly old and tired and lonely.

"Sorry to have kept you waiting, old man," she heard Harris say, apologetically, striding across breathlessly.

"I don't mind waiting—what I hate is seeing you make a fool of yourself," growled the young man in true ugly-giant fashion.

"'Fool of myself?' See here, Ned, that is putting it pretty strong. Come over and get acquainted—you'll feel different when you know Mame."

"I've nothing against the girl; no doubt she is the angel you think her to be. But honestly, now, Dick, would anyone except a fool suppose that a girl like that is going to be contented out on your farm? I hope you are prepared to sell out on get divorce inside of five years, that's all."

Mildred's indignation choked her. "Of all disagreeable creatures. As if any fellow is not fortunate who gets Mame Conway. Why, she is simply crazy about going to Ned's farm." And two angry tears splashed on the hands that were arranging the water-colours.

Mame was in high spirits on the way home. "It's queer how I have changed," she said. "Remember how I used to hate the city and the noise and the grind. Now I almost love it, because I keep saying, 'Only three months more and I'll be out of it for good—if I live through another holiday rush.'"

"And that reminds me, Mildred. I've two pieces of news. Young Bannon says they are going to give five of the girls in the picture department a 'month's vacation without pay,' and you are on the list."

Mildred shivered a little in the warm air. Her name on the list—that meant she was no longer one of the indispensables; never before had she been laid off in slack season. Four weeks without pay, and all her expenses going on just the same.

"Here is the other piece of news." Mame drew her within her own door and deposited her in a comfortable chair. "You are to have a real vacation. Dick and I planned it to-day. You are going to his Aunt Margaret's. There is no one there except his cousin, Ned Goodwin, who was with him to-day. You are to take along just piles of things to sew for me. Dick is coming on Sunday, and he is going to take you back with him, and that's all there is to it."

The one-month layoff lengthened into two. Mildred grew strong and brown and hungry. On every trip to the city Harris carried a bag of the wonderful things she had sewed and brought back more materials.

"But our fine plans are no use at all," he told Mame dolefully. "They both act possessed to see the worst of the other. I don't see what ails them; they are both usually so decent."

"And it would be so lovely for all of us," lamented Mame disconsolately. "It does not seem as if I could ever leave Mildred here; she isn't fit to live alone in the city, and she is too independent to live with us. Why did they not act sensible and fall in love with each other!"

"Well, we cannot make people get married against their wishes," said Harris sensibly. "So I expect you had better send for Mildred."

"And have her know I have deceived her—she could have come back a month ago. She will never forgive me."

Mildred was sewing before a cheery wood fire when Ned Goodwin brought the card demanding her immediate return to the city. For the first time during her stay the young man lingered voluntarily in her presence.

"Do you wish to go back" he asked in so queer a tone that she looked up in amazement. "But that is not a fair question," he interrupted himself. "What I really want to know is, will you stay Will you marry me, Mildred?"

"Oh, no," whispered she; "you cannot be in earnest."

"If I were less in earnest I could tell you about it better," he smiled, and she noted how winning was his expression.

"But Mame would never forgive me; you have no idea how I have opposed her marrying Dick."

"I'm afraid I can imagine by what I've said to Dick myself. It has looked different to me since you have been here. See here, Mildred, I love you and I'll never let you go unless you say you do not love me and never can."

"But, dear me," admitted Mildred, "I have wanted to hate you more than any other person I ever saw."

A disconcerted young man presented himself to Mame Conway next morning. "Great Scott, girl," he explained, "it worked after all. They're going to be married to-morrow without anybody's consent. And you are to go back with me. Ned is opening his house, and Aunt Margaret is making cake. And we are invited to eat Thanksgiving dinner with them next week. You never saw anything like the air they have assumed!"

"Married," wailed Mame, sinking into a convenient chair, "two months ahead of us. I never in my life heard anything so mean!"

Yearn For Food Don't Spurn It

Unless you have a real hearty desire for food you should by all means take no chances of stomach trouble, for loss of appetite means a signal of distress from a deranged digestion.

When the stomach wants food it signals the mind through the nerves, and these excite the taste buds in the mouth which at once secrete large quantities of saliva. This is called "mouth water," and all of us know when our "mouths water" we want food.

"There's an appetite that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets gave me."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets very quickly restore appetite by making the stomach want food. The stomach readily recovers from indigestion, dyspepsia, etc., as soon as it is enabled to digest food. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after each meal quickly digest that meal and thus wonderfully rest the stomach.

In a short time the digestion assumes its normal condition and then appetite—and a good appetite, too—is the natural consequence. One may actually fluidize a few Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, place them in a glass tube with meat, grains, vegetables, etc., and these tablets will digest the contents of the tube without aid.

Just think then how quickly and efficiently they act when they are mixed with the food in one's system and what a great relief it is to the digestive apparatus to have its fluids so enriched.

Go to your druggist to-day and obtain a 50-cent box and make the actual test yourself after you have eaten a large and hearty meal.

APPEAL BY WIRELESS.

King George Will Send Out Message Asking Help for Blind.

LONDON, March 27.—The King's appeal on behalf of the National Institute for the Blind will be sent by wireless telegraphy Saturday night to every vessel in the world equipped with the Marconi installation. The undertaking, which is of a magnitude never before attempted, is made possible through the Marconi Company. C. Arthur Pearson, honorary treasurer of the Institute, will first forward the appeal over the land lines to the Marconi station at Poldhu, which transmits news and private messages to ships. The ships where an ocean newspaper is published, have a receiving range from Poldhu of 1,500 miles. At the same time the appeal is forwarded by the Marconi transatlantic to Cape Cod, which carries on a service similar to that at Poldhu, thus Poldhu and Cape Cod between them will cover the North Atlantic with the message. From these stations the appeal will be received by all ships adapted for receiving long-distance messages. It will be addressed to the captain of every ship, who will be asked to help organize a collection aboard, and in giving publication to the appeal in the ocean newspaper. The wireless operator will retransmit the appeal to every other ship he meets which is not adapted for receiving messages from Cape Cod or Poldhu. In this way every ship on the North Atlantic will receive the King's appeal.

Within a short time it will also have traveled over the Pacific, South Atlantic and Indian Oceans, thus there will be formed a world-wide wireless appeal for aid to the blind throughout the Empire.

MANY IN RACE.

Montreal's Civic Candidates Prepare For a Hot Contest.

MONTREAL, March 27.—Two candidates for one $12,000 job as mayor, sixteen for four $7,500 jobs as controllers and 75 for 31 $1,000 jobs as aldermen have filed their nomination papers and deposited each $200 for the civic elections which will be held Monday, April 6. The mayoralty aspirants are Major George W. Stephens, ex-chairman of the harbor board, and Ald. Medaric Martin, M.P.

The Citizens' Association, which fought hard for the adoption of the board of control system here, has made up a slate of Controller Ainey, Ald. Emard, D. M. McDonald and A. V. Roy for commissioners. Five aldermen go in by acclamation, leaving 26 seats to be contested. In centre ward six candidates will fight it out whilst four men appear in each of four other wards.

Politics Unsettled.

WILDEMSTAD, Curacao, March 27.—The political situation in Caracas is reported to be extremely unsettled. Many prominent persons have been placed under arrest, including Col. Samuel McGill, instructor-general of the Venezuelan army, who however, was afterwards released. Gen. Manuel A. Natos, former Minister of Foreign Affairs, and two of his nephews, are said to have become fugitives.

EATING RELIEVES STOMACH TROUBLE

A Prominent Physician's Advice.

"Eat good foods and plenty of them. Dieting, in many cases, is almost criminal. Get back to normal. To do so you must have the proper quantity of nourishment. You need it for brain or physical work. Probably there is nothing the matter with your stomach except acidity. That is merely an abnormal secretion of acid in the stomach. Neutralise that acid and your stomach trouble will end at once. Neglect may mean ulcers if not cancer of the stomach. Do not take patented medicines or pepsin tablets for dyspepsia. Simply take a neutraliser of acid. Decidedly the best neutraliser is ordinary druggist's bisurated magnesia. You can get it at any drug store for a few cents. Take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water after each meal. The relief will be immediate."

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers

If you have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in glass of water before breakfast for few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

CLERKS GET INCREASE.

Postal Employes Provided For In Hon. L. P. Pelletier's Bills.

OTTAWA, March 27.—Hon. L. P. Pelletier gave notice yesterday of resolutions upon which bills will be based providing for an increase in salaries to clerks in city postoffices, offices of postoffice inspectors, offices of superintendent of railway mail service, money order exchange offices, and of railway mail clerks.

For the clerks in the first four-named services the salaries are to be $600 to commence with, with an annual increase of $100 per year. No maximum is mentioned. Railway mail clerks, when appointed on probation, get $600 per year, and on confirmation $700 per year, with an annual increase of $100 until a maximum of $1,400 is reached. Temporary mail clerks are to get $600 a year and mileage allowance. A temporary mail clerk is eligible for the annual increase until his salary amounts to $1,000, but it is not eligible for an increase above $1,000 until he passes the qualifying examination. Salaries of all clerks who on April 1, 1914, are getting less than $600, will at that date be increased to that amount.

UNFAIR TO DOMINIONS.

Australia Must Have More Than Japanese Defence Says Cook.

LONDON, March 27. — Premier Cook of Australia delivered an important speech yesterday, in which he discussed Churchill's recent statement, and expounded the Australian attitude towards Imperial defence in the Pacific. "We are told by Imperial statesmen," he said, "that the Pacific is being made safe and secure, not by the might and majesty of the British fleet, but by the Anglo-Japanese treaty. I hope Australia will always be on friendly terms with Japan, but when Australia is asked to rely on the Japanese treaty for defence of the Pacific a very serious situation is created.

"Churchill has departed from the agreement by which the Imperial Government undertook to send to the Pacific ship for ship with Australia. Churchill has proclaimed that ships of inferior calibre will do for the Pacific. Australia is entitled to something more than that statement. She is entitled to free and full discussion of the subject of Imperial defence with every unit of the Empire."

OPENS UP NOSTRILS, CLEARS HEAD, ENDS COLDS OR CATARRH AT ONCE

Instantly Relieves Swollen, Inflamed Nose, Head, Throat—You Breathe Freely—Dull Headache Goes—Nasty Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

Earthquake Causes Panic.

Grandma Used Sage Tea To Darken Hair

She Mixed Sulphur With It to Restore, Colour, Gloss, Thickness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn grey, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, grey or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, grey, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all grey hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

TORONTO, March 27. — Positive identification of the fifth body taken from the Woodbine Hotel ruins was made at the morgue yesterday; it is that of Charles Thurston, of Brampton.

SEE IF THE CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

Mother! Don't Hesitate! If Cross, Feverish, Constipated Give "California Syrup of Figs"

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

IF MEALS HIT BACK AND STOMACH SOURS

"Pape's Diapepsin" Ends Indigestion, Gas, Dyspepsia and Stomach Misery in Five Minutes

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

Asaff was shot through the head and robbed and his body secreted under a pile of brush.

MILITANTS WON THE DAY.

Furniture Attack Scattered the Lawmakers of Poplarborough.

LONDON, March 27. — An extraordinary suffragette disturbance occurred yesterday at a meeting of the Poplarborough Council, which had voted adversely to letting out council halls for suffragette meetings.

With shouts of "Cowards," and other offensive epithets, a large number of women invaded that section of the hall reserved for the councillors. Bombs containing evil-smelling chemicals were exploded by the score; a bag containing similar substances was thrown from the gallery; bags of flour and stones were flung at the members. The councillors were seen struggling with the infuriated women, many of whom were armed with bludgeons and bottles.

The police were sent for, but for some reason refrained from interference.

Finally the council beat a retreat, leaving the women in possession of the hall.

Shots To Create Scandal.

PARIS, March 27.—"Why did you buy a revolver" Henri Boucard, the examining magistrate yesterday asked Mme. Caillaux, who underwent examination for the fourth time, "if your object in calling on M. Calmette was to talk about letters which you feared would be published?"

"I prepared for eventualities," Mme. Caillaux replied. "If he did not give me satisfaction, I meant to shoot him to create a scandal."

Strange Facts About Sleep.

No scientist can explain what sleep really is. Most human beings sleep on their sides, with the knees drawn up; elephants always and horses commonly sleep standing up. Bats sleep head downward, hanging by their hind legs. Birds, with the exception of owls and the hanging parrots of India, sleep with their heads turned tailward over the back and the beak thrust among the feathers between the wing and body. Storks, gulls and other long legged birds sleep standing on one leg. Ducks sleep on open water. To avoid drifting shoreward they keep paddling with one foot, thus making them move in a circle. Sloths sleep hanging by their four feet, the head tucked in between their fore legs. Foxes and wolves sleep curled up, their noses and the soles of their feet closed together and blanketed by their bushy tails. Hares, snakes and fishes sleep with their eyes wide open. Owls, in addition to their eyelids, have a screen that they draw sideways across their eyes to shut out the light, for they sleep in the daytime. No one knows whether insects sleep or not. Man is the only animal that ever sleeps on its back.—New York World.

Troubled With Weak Back and Kidneys For 10 Years.

Many people fail to understand the significance of a lame, weak, sore or aching back.

When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning that the kidneys are affected in some way.

Take notice to the warning and cure the backache on the first sign, for if you don't do this, serious complications are sure to arise and perhaps develop into Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of kidney trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills will strengthen the weak back, and prevent any form of kidney trouble entering the system.

Mrs. Ed. Boyer, Nokomis, Sask., writes:—"I have been troubled with weak back and kidneys. I had terrible dizzy headaches, and could not sleep at night. In this way I suffered for ten years, until I read about Doan's Kidney Pills. I purchased two boxes, and as they helped me, I sent for two more; they put me on my feet, and I have been able to work ever since."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents a box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

THE CITY WILL ASK FOR WIDER POWERS

Copy of the City's Private Bill Which is Being Submitted to the Legislative Assembly of Ontario

TO CHANGE NAME

Appended below is a copy of a private bill respecting the City of Peterborough, and referring to the Hydro-Electric scheme as proposed for this City. The bill is now before the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, and will come up for consideration at the present session of the Provincial House. The first section of the proposed Act, constitutes a measure to change the name of the Peterborough Water Commissioners to that of the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

Wider powers in the matter of securing possession of the distributing system of the Peterborough Light and Power Company is also sought after.

The Bill.

The Private Bill contains the following:

Whereas the Corporation of the City of Peterborough has by petition represented that by section 6 of chapter 83 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario, passed in the Seventh year of the Reign of His late Majesty King Edward VII, the Water Commissioners of the City of Peterborough were constituted a body corporate under the name of The Peterborough Water Commissioners and by section 9 of the said chapter 83 it was enacted that the Corporation of the City of Peterborough might manufacture, generate, receive, rent, lease, transmit, deliver, use, supply, sell and distribute gas and electrical power or energy or either of them for all public and private purposes, upon such terms and subject to such conditions as to rates and otherwise, as the Hydro-Electric Power Commision of Ontario might from time to time prescribe, and that the management, control and operation of such business, appliances and plant should be vested in The Peterborough Water Commissioners, and it is enacted by The Public Utilities Act that where the corporation of a city has entered into a contract with the Hydro-Electric Power Commissionof Ontario for the supply of electrical power or energy, a commission shall be established for the control and management of all works undertaken for the distribution and supply of such electrical power or energy, or such control and management shall be entrusted to an existing Public Utilities Commission and the said corporation having heretofore entered into a contract with the said Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for the supply of electrical power of energy, it is desired to declare that The Peterborough Water Commissioners are an existing Public Utilities Commis-

SPOKE TO THE MANUFACTURERS

Mr. H. R. Poussette, Dominion Trade Commissioner Also Addressed Board of Trade Council.

AN IMPORTANT MISSION

Mr. H. R. Poussette, Dominion Trade Commissioner, was in the City yesterday on a mission to the local manufacturers, having been sent here by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Mr. Poussette interviewed a number of the manufacturers, personally, and last night addressed the Council of the Peterborough Board of Trade, giving a most interesting address on the subject of how our exports in manufactured articles could be developed.

This morning Mr. Poussette addressed a meeting at the Oriental Hotel of those manufacturers whom he had personally been unable to see. Mr. Poussette imparted much useful information and advice during his visit.

The Army Must Obey The Gov't Says Asquith

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., March 27. — Amidst against united demonstrations of the Liberals, Nationalists and Labourites, Premier Asquith intimated in the Commons this afternoon that the Government had taken a fresh grip on the army situation and under its direction the Army Council had issued new orders that left no doubt as to the control of the army by Parliament. Premier Asquith said there would be no room for misunderstanding on the part of the officers after reading the new orders. It was intimated that they took the form of an ultimatum to all interested that they must consider themselves available for services anywhere under the Government without regard to recent events or agreements. Any officers not desiring to serve under this condition might hand in their resignations, and they would be considered by His Majesty immediately. Premier Asquith's bold announcement of policy was received with unparallelled enthusiasm on the streets of London. It is thought that this straight statement has caused French and Ewart to waver as to their decisions to stay with the army.

THE HENRY HOPE FACTORY

The work of installing the machinery and equipment in the above plant is nearing completion. In a week or two its walls will resound with industrial activity, and Peterborough's latest acquisition will be turning out daily several tons of steel sash and skylights. The latter is essential to the construction of fireproof buildings such as are being erected to-day throughout the Dominion. The building in which this class of goods will be manufactured, is practically fireproof. It is what is known as slow burning mill construction. All the sash and skylight used in its construction is the product of the Henry Hope and Sons. The best system of lighting possible in factory construction has been carried out and the plant when completed and equipped will be the most modern of its kind and will be capable of turning out a product consistent with the standard long established by the parent plant, namely, the Henry Hope and Sons of Birmingham, England.

KITCHENER AS NEW WAR SECRETARY

Reported That He Will be Recalled From Egypt to Succeed Col. Seely

TO-DAY'S DEVELOPMENTS

Special Cable to The Examiner:

DUBLIN, Ireland, March 27.—That Lord Kitchener, now Civilian Administrator of Egypt, will be recalled to England immediately and asked to accept the post of Secretary of War, in succession to Col. Seeley in the Asquith Government, this is the rumour emanating from Curragh Camp this morning and in conversation with the officers who apparently have authority for their statements, your correspondent found it was considered by them quite probable. In this event, it is stated that French and Ewart would retain their positions on the Army Council. Kitchener was always known as a Unionist in sympathies, but as a strict disciplarian, famous for brooking no interference with his duty to his superiors, he would rule the army with an iron hand and permit no truckling to politics. In some sections of the army he would be popular, in others not.

Throughout Ireland this afternoon there is a feeling of relief from tension of the past few days. Though neither side shows signs of yielding, there seems to be abroad more of a spirit of concession and compromise than has existed for days.

LONDON, Eng., March 27. — The Asquith cabinet met this morning, and between meetings Colonel Seeley and Sir John French had a conference. French was summoned to the cabinet meeting for a few minutes. It was supposed the Government is endeavouring to have him withdraw his resignation.

ST. RAILWAY CO. WATER STREETS FOR 30c MILE

Proposal Reported to Have Been Made Board of Works—City to Own the Track Sprinkler

SOME ADVANTAGES

It is understood that the proposal of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company to arrange with the City for an electric truck sprinkler to water the streets on which the car lines are laid, has reached concrete form. On enquiry it is learned that the company has made an offer to the Board of Works to water the particular streets at thirty cents a mile, the City to purchase and own the sprinkler, which would cost about $4,000. The capacity of the sprinkler would be 2,500 gallons, and it is equipped with a pressure appliance, by which the pavement could be flushed by the force of the water applied. This would simplify the present pavement cleaning method and would doubtless lessen the present cost entailed in keeping the pavement presentable. As the section of paved streets increases the usefulness of the sprinkler in this direction alone would be extended. It is the method applied in the larger cities and has been most effective. The force pump on the sprinkler would make it an auxiliary to the fire department, particularly for fires located in the central part of the City. The capacity of 2,500 gallons would limit the assistance of the apparatus for fires, but it would still be an aid. It would throw a stream of water 60 feet high. The Company's offer of 30 cents a mile for operation applies to work actually done, i.e., the extent of street watered.

The sprinkler would solve the question of the frequent watering of the principal streets and would likewise be a boon for the citizens in the outside sections who are patrons of the street cars. It would mean practically dustless cars, and that is a feature which would be appreciated by many residents along the line.

NO CHANGE IN ARMY SITUATION SAYS ASQUITH

Cabinet Awaits the Decision of Generals French and Ewart Re Resignations

LOSS WOULD BE FELT

Special Cable to The Examiner:

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., March 27.—Premier Asquith appeared before the Commons this afternoon and announced that there was so far no definite statement to be made as to the army situation. It is understood that the cabinet is still waiting the decision of Generals French and Ewart as to whether thy will insist in resigning from the service. Premier Asquith admitted that the loss of these men would be a serious result to the army and country. While admitting that the generals were justified in signing the Gough memorandum "in view of the genuine, but mistaken belief that he was acting with the cabinet acquiescence" they must abide by the new orders which were issued by the cabinet to-day.

HOW THE TURNBULL CO'Y SET A GOOD EXAMPLE

"Stand By the Town," their Slogan in the Employment of Labour and Purchase of Material For Their New Steel Building.

It is a good thing to preach; it is a better thing to practise what one preaches. Quaint old Chaucer, nearly six hundred years ago, hit the nail on the head in describing the model "preste"—

"He preach-ed Christ and his apostles twelve,
And what is more, he practised it him selve."

Our merchants appreciate the force and fairness of the slogan: "Stand by the town; do your shopping at home." And at least one merchant is practising what he preaches. Mr. F. J. Might, in the construction of the new Turnbull building, corner George and Simcoe streets, arranged with the builders, the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, not only that the new building should be as strong and solid as steel and stone could make it, but also that every ounce of material possible, every fitting and fixture possible, should be provided in Peterborough; and that all work done should, as far as possible, be done by Peterborough mechanics and workmen. And this principle of fair play—this principle of "boosting home industry," of "shopping in Peterborough"—has been carried out. Consistently, Mr. Might of the Turnbull Company can now expect that the Peterborough public would do likewise.

The following details show how the interests of Peterborough people were consulted in the construction of the strongest, most substantial store structure in Ontario. Contracts have been awarded to—

The Peterborough Furniture Co.—For supplying the counters and shelving.

The Peterborough Hardware Co.—For supplying the plate glass, heavy wired glass (fire proof), chip and ornamental and factory glass.

Grant & Thorpe, of the Peterborough Electric Installation Co.—For supplying the Tungsten electric lamps and electric fixtures of the latest modern designs and improvements.

The F. R. J. MacPherson Co., Limited—For the electric wiring of the entire building, embracing a conduit system, absolutely fireproof and with special controlling features of the newest and safest kind.

C. A. J. Duranceau—For the steam heating of the most highly approved efficiency.

H. Baker of the Peterborough Planing Mill—For supplying the stairs, window sashes and window frames.

Archie Moore—For the tar and gravel roofing.

It is estimated that a monetary expenditure of many thousands is represented in the above contracts, every dollar of which our City merchants and manufacturers will receive. In some instances these contracts necessitated the increasing of the staffs of local firms, and not only helped to keep factories going at a dull season, but gave employment to additional mechanics who were out of work.

It is this example which has been followed by The Turnbull Co. that will help to make Peterborough grow into a city of the first class. Business men, manufacturers and consumers must all co-operate. It will create opportunities for our City's advancement and the development of its energies. Buying our necessities at home and patronizing our own home industries is what makes the home town prosper.

Widows Get Nothing For Loss Of Husbands

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, March 27.—Chief Justice Falconbridge to-day dismissed the actions of the widows of Robert E. Birch and Alexander McDougall, who each claimed ten thousand dollars' damages from the Chatham "Planet" because their husbands, for many years employees of that paper, lost their lives in a fire in May last. Plaintiffs charged that the building was old and flimsy, and that it lacked fire escapes. Judgment held that the non-compliance with the Factory Act was not proved as the direct cause of death. The fire chief had recently inspected the building and had not ordered more fire escapes.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday afternoon the temperature was up to 55 degrees, the highest for some months, in fact since early last fall. Robins also made their appearance yesterday in numbers, and their merry "Cheer up" was to be heard in all parts of the city. Robin was about ten days late in arriving this spring, as compared with last spring. The spring freshers were also some days later than usual.—W. P.

Session Will Not Terminate Until Middle Of June

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, March 27.—From present appearances, former prophecies of a short session will not be fulfilled, and it is beginning to look as though the legislators will not get away from the Capital this session until well on in June. There are signs that there will still be some stormy days in the House before the close.

ANNUAL MEETING OF RURAL PUBLISHING CO.

The annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Rural Publishing Company, was held this afternoon in the company's offices, at the corner of Hunter and Water streets.

The reports of the auditor and managing director were considered, the election of officers took place, and such other business as could be properly brought before the annual meeting was dealth with. The names of the officers present to-day were: Hy Glendinning, of Manilla; J. M. H. Scott, of Exeter; Wm. R. Hooper, N.Y.; J. C. Kirkwood, and H. B. Cowan.

The names of the officers for the current year will be published to-morrow.

HENS RETURNING TO HOUSEHOLD DUTIES

New laid eggs can be bought now for 23 and 25 cents per dozen. Such an announcement causes grave anxiety at the Meteorological Bureau; for it is obvious that if a warm spell followed immediately after a deluge of eggs, the city might be turned into a gigantic omelet—a second Pompeii.

Fashions in eggs vary. Canada pretends to eat nothing but new laid eggs, whereas every householder knows that to qualify for the market, an egg must reside in cold storage, for at least one month.

The Chinese regard eggs as we do wine. The boast about the vintage and the bouquet, which means the smell. An egg from bin 43 in a Mandarin's cellar may be 43 years old. Then it is a great delicacy.

England is catholic in her tastes. A grocer's shop in the suburbs of London will be flanked by the eyes of hoges of eggs. The first box is labelled "new laid." The last box is marked "just fresh." One look is sufficient for most people.

HAVE YOU GLIMPSED THIS MAN AND WOMAN?

After Two Years, Search for English Pair is Taken up by Relatives.

MONTREAL, March 27. — Mystery surrounds the disappearance of two people who are missing after crossing from England to this country and detectives are now searching for a man, missed by his sister two years ago, and a young woman, reported as missing to-day.

After two years' separation Clara Gerard of Montreal, is searching for her brother William, who left Liverpool for Canada, shortly after the death of his wife. The last heard from him was a letter to his stepmother giving an address in Toronto, but letters sent to him brought no reply. The missing man is dark, of medium build, 28 years of age, with a small scar on his cheek.

The missing young woman is Ethel Hickin, who was last heard from when she took a steamer from England for Canada. She has brown hair and blue eyes, the right one being artificial and is of medium build.

PUBLIC RECREATION ASSOCIATION FORMED

Nominating Committee Appointed at Enthusiastic Meeting Held in the Y. M. C. A. Last Night—Proposal Met With General Favour

SUGGESTION OF THE WOMEN'S COUNCIL

Civic spirit has apparently taken on a new lease of life in Peterborough during the past week. The Board of Trade has received an injection of the corpuscular energy and ambition of youth, and has already begun to stout, bright-eyed and alert, after a rather protracted period of somnolence. Last night saw the inception of an organized playgrounds movement, the supporters of which believe will be favourably received by the entire body of citizens when the present tentative plans begin to assume a positive form.

Last night's meeting was held in the board room of the Y. M. C. A., and was attended by about thirty ladies and gentlemen, who are interested in the question of providing properly supervised recreation grounds for children. Its result was the nomination of a committee composed of Mrs. Jas. Kendry, Mrs. J. C. Davidson, Mr. Jas. Connal, Ald. Stratton, Mr. Jos. W. Worth, and Dr. Cameron, to organize a thoroughly representative committee, from which will be formed a Public Playgrounds or Recreation Association.

The meeting was the inspiration of the Playgrounds Branch of the Womens Council, of which Mrs. A. Mowat is the convenor. In explaining the objects of the gathering Mrs. Mowat stated that since the branch was formed, a year ago, few results have been achieved. That the provision of recreation for the children was of general interest was demonstrated by the action of the Big Brothers' Club which, during the winter, arranged for free skating and tobogganing at Jackson's Park, by ex-Mayor Bradburn's offer of a lot for a public rink, and other minor evidences. It was felt that to make material headway something should be done to elicit wider attention and support.

Mr. Jas. Connal was elected chairman of the meeting.

Ald. Stratton.

Speaking as a member of the City Council, Ald. Stratton stated that a Committee had been selected to deal with the question of securing a public swimming place. The Y.M.C.A. had offered to provide a supervisor if the City undertook the other arrangements. Nothing had been done in regard to public playgrounds, but there was no reason why Peterborough should not obtain accommodation of this kind for the children.

Mr. Thompson Leaving.

Mr. Connal referred to the offer made on several occasions by the Y. M. C. A. to this City. The physical director, Mr. J. J. Thompson, is leaving Peterborough and the Association at the present time is scarcely in a position to carry out the previous offers. Negotiations are in progress with a very capable man in Winnipeg, one who has had extensive experience with supervised play grounds, and it may be that he will be secured.

What Boys Do.

Dr. Middleton said it would be too bad to let another summer pass with out something being accomplished. He had read of a report from Milwaukee, where the boys of three schools had been asked what they did during their spare hours. Of the boys in one school, 76 said they worked, 149 played and 190 did nothing; in another, 166 worked, 131 played, and 226 were idle; in the third, 89 worked, 163 played and 296 said they did nothing. Dr. Middleton said it was too bad that any of the boys and girls should have really nothing to do. He considered that Mr. Thompson would make an ideal supervisor. He is highly regarded by the boys of the City is wiedly known and would carry more weight than a stranger.

Assistant Would be Needed.

Mr. Connal stated that if the physical director were chosen an assistant would have to be secured on account of the many duties that fall to the head of the physical department of the Y.M.C.A. The Association has the facilities for handling the work. Any child found physically weak in any particular way could be given special exercises in the gymnasium.

Board of Trade Interested.

Mr. Worth, speaking as a representative of the Board of Trade, said that the playgrounds question had been placed on the programme outlined by the Board, which would heartily co-operate in any movement undertaken. He spoke of the Swedish system of training which he suggested might be taken up in connection with the work.

Mrs. Kendry stated that the representatives of four organizations had spoken and all were in favour of the idea. She suggested that the whole matter be entered into and some means of action evolved.

The rest of the discussion resolved itself into a means of taking the initial steps.

Physical Welfare Important.

Dr. Frederick remarked that there was a time when to get a mental education meant a struggle. Physical development was easily opened. Now the tables are reversed. Every provision is made for the mental development of the youth, but it is not easy to secure a good physical training. And the latter is of great importance to the children. He suggested the appointment of a steering committee to deal with the question.

Dr. Cameron.

Dr. Cameron said he was pleased to know the suggestion had come from the Women' Council. He remarked that the discussion was verging too much toward the side of athletics, and outlined what St. John's (N.B.) had done in providing recreation grounds for the children. The grounds of three schools were utilized. They were equipped with apparatus useful for children, not excluding sand piles for the little ones. A fourth grounds was independent, and more of a flower garden, cared for by children. The grounds were open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. during the three summer months, and were in charge of Public School teachers, who were remunerated for their services.

Get Information.

Dr. Cameron suggested that a committee be selected and information regarding what other cities had done be secured. It was very important that all the citizens be represented. In the matter of funds from the City Council they will not likely give anything this year and probably next year, too. Connection with the Y. M. C. A., he said, was a very good idea, but if the movement is launched as an independent affair it may gain a wider sympathy.

Mr. Harry Beal promised the support of the Horticultural Society. Mr. Dunford bespoke his interest, and support, and Mr. A. B. Cunningham suggested that the scheme be not too elaborate in the beginning. There was a class of citizens who, if nothing direct was to be derived by them, would have nothing to do with the proposal.

"Let us take up the things we can handle," he said, "and we can elaborate on them as we progress".

Ex-Ald. Gillespie.

Mr. George A. Gillespie said he heartily approved of the idea. He felt that the cost should be borne by the whole City, and should come out of the estimates next year, if not this. Mayor Butler gave his promise last year of assistance to such a movement. It was hardly fair to approach the same body of citizens upon every occasion that financial aid was required.

Opinions of the Ladies.

Mrs. Kendry—We want the children to have a place to play, under good supervision. If we attempt too much now the people will think we are trying to force some elaborate plan upon them.

Mrs. Mowat remarked that in some centres the playgrounds are utilized by men for suitable sports.

Mrs. Stevenson said she had seen men and boys playing ball on the streets for want of better grounds.

What the Police Do.

Dr. Frederick pointed out that there was no suitable swimming place One location, near the dam, was not safe. From other localities the police chase the boys. Also when the children play on the streets the 'cops' chase them away, and when they play in the parks they are chased back to the streets. The children should be given a fair chance to play.

Several Motions.

In the appointing of a committee to take up the question a deadlock was imminent for a time. Dr. Frederick proposed that the Committee be composed of a member of each association represented. Mr. Dunford seconded it.

Mr. Worth was the representative of the Board of Trade. He said he was not sure that the Board would, of itself, appoint him, and therefore moved an amendment that the President of each Association represented form the Committee.

To lubricate, or rather to follow the proceedings, Mr. Cunningham was appointed Secretary of the meeting. Finally the two resolutions were written and it was found that they were practically identical and the motion was about to be accepted

DIFFERENTIAL POLITICAL CAPITAL.

A nice discrimination in throwing brick bats is sometimes shown. A few days ago the Dominion Government received a protest from Orange lodges at Collingwood, as one would expect, against the use of the French language on Government stationery, post cards, etc. This was done by the French Nationalist, Postmaster General, in the highly British and imperialist Borden Government, which the brethren waved into power by the free use of the flag. The matter was brought up in the House and Mr. Wilson of Laval elicited the information that while protests had been made by the Orange lodges against the use of French on post cards and against bilingual schools, there had been no protest against Hon. Speaker Sproule, ex-Grand-master of the Grand Lodge, reading the prayers every other day in French. The reason, perhaps, why no protest was made against his praying in French, is that spoken French words are evanescent and die with the speaking, while French on a postcard assumes a documentary and permanent, and, consequently, pernicious, form. Besides, it would be a case of real hardship to compel Speaker Sproule, after severe study and coaching, in order to learn the prayers in French—thus exceeding the demands of the French Nationalists in the Cabinet and behind Mr. Borden—to refrain from their use; and, perhaps, another reason is that Speaker Sproule's French is so bad that it cannot be recognized as French, and is, consequently, harmless. But why this differentiation in the attempt to make political capital? A complaint is lodged against Hon. M. Pelletier, a Frenchman and a Nationalist, who only did what was to be expected of him—have postal cards printed in French. Why jump on him and spare Hon. Speaker Sproule, who had been brought up better and should know better than touch French with a very long pole, let alone address the Deity in a forbidden and anathematised tongue? It's very funny, any way, this making fish of one and flesh of another.

NO TAX REFORM.

A government that does not progress, stands still, or, rather, retrogrades; it falls behind as the world moves onward. The Whitney government is a splendid sample of doing things slowly. It took seven years to revise the statutes. It has kept a compensation law dangling in the trammels of delay for seven long years; and a complement to its inaction in this regard consists in its decision that the act shall not come into force till January 1st of next year. Of course, the government thinks that the widows and orphans of workmen killed in the course of employment, having waited seven years for a workable compensation act, will only suffer one seventh as much in waiting another year, and so the date of the act coming in force is stretched forward nearly a year, about the only forward movement the government has shown in connection with the matter. Another example of reactionary or stagnatory attitude is that of the Whitney government in relation to legislation giving municipalities the power to impose differential taxation on land values and improvements; that is, to tax it they see fit lands at a higher rate than the buildings and other improvements placed upon them. The government refuses to consider this reasonable proposal. The suggested legislation does not provide for generally arbitrarily imposing such conditions; it simply confers upon municipalities the power of adopting this form of assessment, and they are free to use or not use this power, a condition that virtually puts it in the power of the ultimate elector to decide for himself what form of taxation he prefers. The excuse made is that there has been no demand for such legislation. This is a remarkable excuse, in view of the fact that Tory Toronto, which sends eight members to the Legislature, voted by an overwhelming popular majority for legislation giving them the right to shift taxation from buildings to land. Yet not one of Toronto's eight members opened his mouth to advance the will of the people. These members don't represent their constituents, but their party, and when the party ignores the people the members take sides against the people and in the interests of the party. It required, one would think, a great deal of brass on Mr. Hanna's part, to say that there was no demand. Why, the Canadian manufacturers have demanded it; the Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario have demanded it. The demand for it has come from the Dominion Grange, and Labour organizations have demanded it. The Conservative and Liberal Press has demanded it. All these interests having demanded assessment reform of this character may not count with Mr. Hanna, but they may and will count at the ballot box when again the people are choosing the trustees of their interests.

CLEANING UP WEEK.

One of the latest civic features is a "clean-up week," when everybody co-operates in trying to get rid of that which is unsightly and in bringing about "the city beautiful."

"Edmonton is among the first, if not the first, of Canadian cities to go into the scheme, and on May 4 next the entire population, under the leadership of the Edmonton Industrial Association, which is composed of 600 active business men, will start the campaign.

"The association will cooperate with the public works department in cleaning several hundred miles of paved and graded streets and lanes, and the ground on vacant propergrains, grasses, root crops and flowties will be ploughed and seeded to ers and shrubbery adapted to that part of the country. The Horticultural Society also will assist. The committee having charge of the work will encourage the painting of houses and the repairing of walks andf ences wherever necessary and assist residents in all parts of the city in beautifying their places. A complete survey is being made, so that not a nook or corner will be overlooked. W. J. Magrath, president of the Edmonton Industrial Association, has pledged the entire membership of that organization to assist one or more days during the week, and it is expected that Mayor McNamara will proclaim a public holiday, so that all may particlpate."

This campaign or something like it, might be conducted with advantage in Peterborough. With general cooperation we might easily be, especially during the summer, a clean city in something more than the mere sanitary sense. We can be a tity and beautiful city. We can have our streets kept clean any way. One way to prevent the most fruitful source of disfigurement of our streets, is to forbid with the idea of preventing, owners of property throwing the cuttings and rakings from lawns and the weeds from flower plants upon the street. This slovenly, not to say slatternly practice, is accountable for making our streets frowsy and ugly. But can this be prevented? One would think so. The City Council might make a decree that it would be a punishable offence to cast such litter on the streets, and it would be obeyed. The Council must cooperate with the citizens of taste and refinement who wish to keep our public places neat, clean and attractive. The residence streets with their boulevards are really public parks — extension of our parks proper. They conduce to the public enjoyment if they are kept clean and neat. No householder has any more right to throw his lawn litter upon the street than he has to throw it upon his neighbour's lawn. The way Edmonton does it is—"every body cooperates." There's the secret of the city beautiful, all working together.

GOVERNMENT NOT KEEN ON HYDRO RADIALS

Special to The Examiner:

PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS, Toronto, March 27.—For some reason or other the Conservative Government in Ontario is not very keen on the project of Hydro radials. During the recent debate on the subject in the House, induced by the resolution of Thomas Marshall, Liberal member for Monck, calling for Federal Government subsidy for Ontario Hydro radials, the Government member showed absolutely no enthusiasm. Hon. Adam Beck was in Ottawa at the time but the other two members of the Hydro-Electric Commission, Hon. Colonel Hendrie and W. K. McKnaught, sat speechless during the whole debate although they were urged to express an opinion. It looks, therefore, that the rumours of cleavage between Beck and his colleagues in his Commission, which have been current for some time, have at least some foundation.

The final wording of the resolution as amended by J. A. Ellis, Conservative member for West Toronto, was weaker than the original, but was accepted unanimously by both Government and Opposition. It was the latter, however, who took the initiative in regard to Hydro radials this year, as they also did last year.

Mr. Boswell has emphasized an important point, the necessity of having the fullest data on hand in regard to the territory and transportation prospects before Hydro radials are built in various parts of the Province. In this work the municipalities can co-operate most effectively with the Commission in supplying and gathering together complete information and statistics.

"ARE THESE FOR ALL?"

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,— Would you be good enough to answer the following questions through your columns. First to explain conditions: At a breakfast table five persons were seated. A plate containing a variety of cakes and buns was in the centre of the cable. One person reaches forward for one of the buns; which was the only one of that kind, saying—"Are these for all." Would you consider these words good English? That is, should any person have occasion to say it was not good language, or that they did not understand. I appreciate the fact that a foreigner of other language than English-speaking might not understand, but even a foreigners brought up all ways, with English speaking people. If you will give this answer space you will greatly oblige,

Yours very truly,
Subscriber.

Peterborough, March 27th.

The expression, "Are these for all" is perfectly good English as it stands; that is if it is properly applied—subject to the idea in the questioner's mind, or to what he referred to.

A REAL NERVE AND BODY-BUILDING MEDICINE

We believe Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion is the best remedy made for toning the nerves, enriching the blood, building up wasted tissues, renewing health, strength and energy—the best medicine you can use if you are run-down, tired-out, nervous and debilitated, no matter what the cause. It doesn't depend for its good effect upon alcohol or habit-forming drugs, because it contains none. It may not make you feel better in a few hours, but it will make you feel better, we are sure, just as soon as the tonic and food properties it contains have a chance to get into the blood and, through the blood, into the rest of the systems. Pure Olive Oil and the Hypophosphites have long been endorsed by successful physicians, but here, for the first time, they are combined into one preparation which, as a nerve-food and a builder of strength and health, we believe, has no equal.

If you don't feel well, begin taking Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion today, and build your health and strengthen your system against more serious illness. To convalescents, old people, puny children and all others who are weak, run-down or ailing, we offer Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion with our personal guarantee that, if it doesn't make you well and strong again, it will cost you nothing. If we didn't have the utmost faith in it, we wouldn't offer it with this guarantee, nor even recommend it to you. We are sure that once you have used it you will recommend it to your friends, and thank us for having recommended it to you. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. $1.00.

KEPHALDOL

"IS ABSOLUTELY MARVELLOUS AS A PAIN KILLER."

Mrs. Beatrice Cassey, of Swalecliff, England, knows what it means to be laid-ridden with pain. She also knows now how easily the tortures of Rheumatism and Lumbago may be overcome. She says, "My experience with KEPHALDOL as a pain-killer is absolutely marvellous. I had a fearfully acute attack last year of Neuritis, Sciatica and Lumbago, and suffered in bed for many days. Finally, I heard of KEPHALDOL, which did wonders for me. I shall always feel most grateful for what it has done, and I am most happy to let others know of its wonderful effects as a pain destroyer."

KEPHALDOL is the only pain reliever that does not affect the heart. It acts directly on the nerve centres, easing and quieting the pain. KEPHALDOL is the favourite combination of nerve stimulants and tonics prescribed by the famous Doctor Stohr, of Vienna, the great nerve specialist.

KEPHALDOL is now sold in Canada by druggists in 50c. tubes or may be had by sending 50c. direct to Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour Street, Montreal.

THE CITY WILL ASK FOR WIDER POWERS

sion within the meaning of the said Public Utilities Act and to change the name of The Peterborough Water Commissioners to that of Peterborough Utilities Commission, and that such commission should have and exercise all power and authority conferred on the city under the said Acts or heretofore vested in the said Peterborough Water Commissioners; that by an agreement entered into between the Corporation of the City of Peterborough and The Peterborough Light & Power Company, Limited, incorporated in By-law Number 1497 of the City of Peterborough, it was agreed that if the city should purchase or proceed to acquire the works and property of The Peterborough Light & Power Company, Limited, or any part or parts thereof, that in determining the price to be paid therefor, either by arbitration or otherwise, nothing should be taken into account or allowed to the company for prospective profits because of the granting to or enjoyment by the company of any rights conferred on the company by said By-law Number 1497 ;that by chapter 117 of the Statutes of the said Province passed in the second year of His Majesty's reign, as amended by chapter 114 of the Statutes passed in the third and fourth years of His Majesty's reign, the corporation was authorized to enter upon, acquire, take possession of, expropriate, and use any land, property, erections, machinery, works, plant and appliances of The Peterborough Light & Power Company, Limited, or any part thereof, in the City of Peterborough at the time of the passing of the said chapter 117 used or operated under By-law Number 1497 and the agreement set out therein, or used or operated in connection therewith or as a part of the system, plant, or appliances used or operated within the City of Peterborough for supplying electrical power or energy to customers of the company, paying for what was acquired or taken possession of such sum as might be agreed upon or settled by arbitration and upon acquisition and payment for the property expropriated, the rights, privileges and franchises of the company under the said By-law Number 1497 and the agreement set out therein, or to the use of the streets of the said city or any of them were to cease, determine and be at an end; and that the council of the said city has passed a by-law which before the final passing thereof was submitted to and approved by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, exercising the said right of expropriation and being unable to agree with the said company as to the sum to be paid therefor, the corporation and the company have each appointed an arbitrator to fix the said sum, but such sum has not been fixed; and that since the passing of said chapter 117 the company claims to have acquired a dam and power-house with equipments thereof, within the city which it was not intended by either of said Acts that the city corporation should acquire and that the same should be so declared and also to have it made clear by what means and in what manner and within what period the said property might be taken possession of by the city corporation and to provide means by which the said corporation might ascertain certain detailed information relating thereto from the company and the time within which the powers conferred by the said Acts may be exercised should be extended and to define what is intended to be an exercise of the said powers; and whereas it is expedient to grant the prayer of the said petition:

Everybody Has Two Brains Centres of Nervous Energy

Enormous Amount of Blood Consumed in Supplying Nerve Force to Mind and Body

Everybody has two brains, one to think with and the other to control the workings of the heart, lungs, stomach and other vital organs. This mechanical brain is situated low down in the back of the head and is the great centre of the nervous system which, through its ramification of branches, reaches every part of the human body.

Any lack of nervous energy is soon apparent in disorders of the bodily organs. Weakness of the nerves which control the digestive fluids means indigestion and similarly other derangements arise.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has fully established its reputation as a means of restoring vitality to the nervous system and thoroughly curing such ailments as sleeplessness, irritability, nervous headache and indigestion, partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia.

Mrs. Wm. Hay, Spy Hill, Sask., writes: "I am glad of an opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for it restored my nervous system when I was badly run down. So greatly did this treatment benefit me that I have recommended it to friends and know they have obtained good results from the use of the Nerve Food many times. In my opinion there is nothing like it for building up a run-down system."

It is said that one-fifth of the blood in the human body is consumed by the brain in the manufacture of nervous energy. Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies the ingredients from which rich, red blood is formed, it is the greatest of nerve restoratives.

BUILDING BY-LAW WILL BE PASSED

Lindsay Will Also Appoint a Building Inspector

LINDSAY, March 26.—The question of the passing of a building by-law and the appointment of a Building Inspector has been given considerable attention of late by Ald. G. H. M. Baker, who introduced the matter at the Council meeting. He pointed out that during the coming season considerable building will be undertaken, and it was imperative that such a by-law should be passed.

Deputy-Reeve Smale remarked that if we did not get better results from such an inspector than did the City of Toronto, the work would not be satisfactorily performed.

Alderman Baker pointed out that Town Commissioner Williams would make an excellent official. The present building by-law was out of date.

The following resolution, introduced by Messrs. Baker and Smale, was carried unanimously:

That a by-law be drafted requiring al parties in erecting new buildings or altering or rebuilding old ones, after April 14th, to take out permits from the corporation, and that the building erected or altered after above date shall conform to the building permit by-law of the Town.

Ald. Baker and the Town Commissioner were empowered to confer with the Town Solicitor in framing the by-law.

SALAD DRESSING THAT WILL COST ABOUT 10 CENTS.

Here is a salad dressing that will cost you about 10 cents, and the best I ever tasted, and it will keep in your ice chest if kept in a jar with cover. Beat half cup vinegar in a double boiler, mix two level teaspoons mustard, two level teaspoons salt, three level teaspoons sugar and less than a quarter teaspoon cayenne pepper. Add two eggs to dry ingredients and beat well, then add one cup of thick cream, beat again and add to hot vinegar. Cook until smooth and thick. Strain and cool.

DELICIOUS CAKE.

One of my neighbours recently gave me this recipe for cake; it is very nice and easy to make: One cup flour, one cup sugar, one teaspoon baking powder, sifted three times, butter size of an egg, melted in a cup, then break two eggs into a cup and fill with milk. Pour into sifted flour and sugar, add flavouring and beat well. Bake in loaf as for layer cake. Do not think that it will be just as good if the flour and sugar are not sifted three times, for it will not.

Rolled Oats Macaroons.

Three eggs, 1 cup white sugar, 1 heaping tablespoon butter, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup our, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 cups rolled oats. Chop walnuts and after dropping by teaspoonfuls on well buttered paper, put walnuts on top and bake.

Cambridge Crew The Favourites

Examiner Special:

LONDON, March 27.—Oxford and Cambridge will grapple to-morrow in their annual rowing race, on the Thames. The contest will take place over the usual course from Putney to Mortlake, a distance of over 4 1-4 miles.

Drawn fine by weeks of training, and keyed up to the highest pitch, the rival eights will battle for aquatic supremacy in what promises to be a close and interesting contest. The Cambridge men are favourites in the betting. But the Oxonians have a reputation for showing poor form until just before the big race, and then winning out. Mindful of this fact, many persons are confident of the ability of the Oxford crew to wear down their opponents in the latter part of the race.

Bridgenorth News Gatherer is a Naturalist and Welcomes the Spring

Examiner Special:

BRIDGENORTH, March 27. — Spring has put in an appearance. Two robins were seen yesterday chirping merrily on an apple tree.

The crows are very numerous. No doubt they are looking for a dead carcass, but the farmers are feeding their cattle too good to have them starve to death for the crows.

The roads have broken up and the wheels are to be seen on the way to the city.

Councillors Telford and Jobe are having some of the snow drifts shovelled out so as to make the roads more fit for travel. This is a step in the right direction.

There have been two good runs of sap. So we can look for some maple syrup on the market for Saturday.

It is the intention of the Methodist Church to erect new sheds this summer. The young folks held a social last evening to raise money to help it along. The evening was spent in a social way with speeches, readings and recitations, etc. The Rev. Mr. Ireland occupied the chair, and a very profitable time was spent.

ICE JAMMED UNDER BROCK ST. BRIDGE WAS DYNAMITED

Street Commissioner Evans had a few lively moments under the Brock Street bridge that crosses the creek. The floating ice formed a little dam and in a short time there was a real old pile up half way under the bridge. The water was spreading on the north side and it was not until the ice heap was given a treatment of dynamite that the situation was relieved, Mr. Evans secured a punt and poled his way up on the south side, inserted a stick of the explosive, attached a fuse and got back to safety. The ice and water than raced through in a flood.

MEN CROSSED ON ICE YESTERDAY WHERE THERE IS OPEN WATER TO-DAY

The ice is beginning to move with rapidity out of the river. Yesterday morning the men were crossing, as they have done all winter, just above Burnham's Point, in the vicinity of the George Street docks. This morning there was quite a stretch of open water practically from the C.P.R. bridge out into the Lake.

alone, for the reason that the amendment covered the same ground.

Several of those present pointed out that the iron should be struck while hot, and nothing that might cause a delay in action should be raised.

Mrs. Kendry moved, seconded by Mrs. Davidson, that the Committee be composed of Mr. Connal, Mr. Stratton, Dr. Cameron and Mr. Worth, and the mover and seconder of the motion. The amendment passed and the meeting concluded.

A few moments later Mrs. Kendry discovered that she and Mrs. Davidson were on the committee, and although she stated that she meant Dr. Frederick and Mr. Dunsford, the gentlemen would not reconsider the point. The new organization will probably be known as the Public Recreation Association. This name was given the preference at last night's meeting.

Celebrated His 50th Anniversary

Dr. Ford, of Norwood, Has Recovered From His Illness of Last Year

NORWOOD, March 26—On Tuesday of this week Dr. S. P. Ford celebrated his fiftieth anniversary of active practice in medicine. The Doctor graduated in the Spring of 1864, and came to Norwood that Fall, having been engaged here in his chosen calling ever since. So closely allied has the Doctor been with the business and social life of the community for the past half century that he is a veritable encyclopaedia on any matter pertaining to the district. Friends at a distance will be pleased to learn that he is still enjoying good health and is able to attend to his duties as a practitioner, having fully recovered from his illness of last year.

ANNIVERSARY OF BATTLE OBSERVED

Special to The Examiner:

DADEVILLE, Ala., March 27. — The centennial anniversary of the Battle of Horseshoe Bend, in which Gen. Jackson defeated the Greek Indians, was observed with appropriate exercises to-day as the scene of the battle on the Tallapoosa River in this county. The battle was fought March 27, 1914. It was the bloodiest engagment of the Creek Indian war, and the victory of the Americans forever broke the power of the Indians in the South. In connection with the centennial a movement has been started to convert the battleground into a national park or reservation. A bill to accomplish this purpose is now pending in Congress. It is also planned to erect a monument in the park in memory of the soldiers who fell in the battle.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Will you kindly correct the following errors in your report of Dr. William Caldwell's will:

Miss Annie Aaldwell (his full name) was left the household furniture and the use of his residence, and not Mrs. E. A. Brodigan.

Mr. C. A. Brodigan was left $18,000 and not $3,000.

By making the above corrections you will confer a favour on

Yours truly,

S. Henderson,

TAKES LAST LOOK AT FRIEDMANN PATIENTS

NEW YORK, March 27.—Dr. A. M. Stimson, passed Assistant Surgeon of the United States Public Health Service, has just made a final examination of patients who took the Friedman "tuberculosis cure."

A preliminary report has been made and the results published of the Friedmann investigations.

Surgeon General Rupert Blue has reported to the Secretary of the Treasury as follows: "While the studies of the board assigned to that work have not yet been completed, the preliminary report shows that the extravagant claims made by its sponsors for the treatment have not been confirmed by the board. The observations of the patients in the New York hospitals are being continued."

NOTED ATTORNEY ACCUSED OF BRIBERY

Special to The Examiner:

GRAND FORKS, N.D., March 27—Tracy R. Bangs, at one time United States district attorney for North Dakota and a former supreme chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, was arraigned in Court here to-day for a preliminary hearing on a charge of bribery in the McLain Coope murder trial, two years ago. Bangs is one of the best known lawyers in the North West. He has been attorney for the defence in many noted murder cases and three years ago he successfully defended Judge Cowan in impeachment proceedings.

Bangs was the attorney for McLain Cooper when the latter was tried here in 1912 on a charge of murder. Cooper, who was but 19 years old at the time, was accused of having shot and killed Charles Ross, who had served as foreman on the Cooper farm, near Hillsboro. The case was brought to this county on change of venue. At the trial young Cooper alleged that he had fired the fatal shot in self defence. The Jury was out 36 hours and returned a verdict of not guilty.

Recently J. A. Sullivan, who was the bailiff in charge of the Jury at the Cooper trial, made an alleged confession to the effect that the jurymen had been plentifully supplied with liquor while they were considering the case and that money had been used to influence their decision. As a result of the story told by Sullivan the State's Attorney, swore out warrants for Bangs and five others, alleged to have ben implicated in the attempted bribery. Among those accused are Harry Cooper, the wealthy father of McLain Cooper, J. C. Mann who is alleged to have been the 'go-between' in the transaction, and McLain Cooper, the defendant at the trial. Since his acquittal the latter has been engaged in fruit farming in Oregon.

ANOTHER REFORM MEASURE DEFEATED

No Change in Present Method of Taxation—Bilingualism on the Tapis

DETENTION HOSPITALS

TORONTO, March 27. — Another effort to grant a measure of reform in taxation to the people of Ontario has been defeated in the Legislature. Robert J. McCormick's measure was squelched yesterday like its predecessors after H. Eilber, stated for the Government that it would be dangerous to alter the present system. The bulk of the day was taken up by the French-Canadian members seeking data regarding the operation of the bilingual school regulation. After seven hours' debate it was granted.

Henry Eilber (Con., S. Huron) resuming the debate on the McCormick bill said the present law was not one to be lightly tampered with. It was vitally bound up with the whole municipal organization of the province and a slight change might throw the whole into chaos.

To remove the tax on buildings, he argued, would include also those of the merchant and hotelkeeper. Huron had a total assessment of $42,000,000. If the building tax were removed the sum of $76,000 would have to be made up in some way, and that would require an additional tax of 2.92 mills. It meant that if the tax on the towns and villages went down that on the farmers would have to go up.

W. E. N. Sinclair (Lib., Ontario) replied briefly. The assumption of the Government speaker was entirely wrong, he said, and Mr. Eilber notwithstanding he was sure that the organization of manufacturers and farmers were not so foolish as to be misled. The Government was apparently only willing to toy with the question.

The vote was then taken and the bill defeated by a vote of 95 to 15.

The question of bilingualism was raised during the afternoon and from then until after midnight the French-Canadian members took occasion to air their grievances. Mr. Z. Mageau (Sturgeon Falls) moved for a return of all correspondence and documents relating to the operation of regulation 17. The debate which followed was participated in by Mr. Damase Racine (Russell), Mr. Napoleon Champagne (E. Ottawa) Dr. Forbes Godfrey (W. York), Mr. McCrae (Sudbury), Hon. J. O. Reaume and Mr. Rowell.

Dr. Pyne said: "The policy of the Government in regard to English-French schools in this province is to carry out and give effect to the resolution unanimously adopted by this House on the 22nd of March, 1911. Regulation No. 17 is looked upon as fair and reasonable to all concerned, and the Government proposes to carry out the declared intention of this Legislature in regard to the use and efficient teaching of the English language in the public and separate schools of this province.

The return was granted.

The problem of handling persons suspected of insanity and who have heretofore been committed on occasion to jails is promised a solution in one of a series of bills which the Provincial Secretary laid upon the table for first reading. In short, provision is made that reception hospitals for the insane shall be established, and that while under Government control the municipality shall pay towards the maintenance of them such sums as the Government sees fit, these sums to supplement an appropriation from the Legislature.

A special fund, to be known as the "reception hospitals for the insane fund," is to be set aside and used for this purpose only. The scope of the act covers all cases where persons thought to be insane have been apprehended. They will be taken in charge in these places until their mentality is known, and if found to be not needing attention will be given back to the charge of those who asked the investigation.

To encourage co-operation in the establishment of industrial farms, a bill was introduced which will allow that where the Government appropriates land for that purpose the compensation will be based on the last assessment roll plus thirty per cent.

An amendment to the present act governing sanatoria for consumptives changes the rate paid for maintenance of indigent patients from seventy cents to one dollar per day.

A bill introduced in the Legislature yesterday by Geo. H. Gooderham aims at the better prevention of ticket speculation.

This act aims to penalize any person being the holder of a ticket for any theatre, opera house, public hall, show, game, grand stand, race meeting or exhibition, who endeavors to sell the same for a price higher than he paid for it, or if he purchases or attempts to purchase tickets not intended for his own use or for free distribution.

Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, introduced his redistribution act in the Legislature yesterday afternoon. In doing so, he said that the Government would make changes only where there was strong reasons for doing so.

In reply to Mr. Rowell, Mr. Hanna said that the changes named in the bill were not great, but there would be a slight increase in the number of seats in the House.

"That will all be made plain when the committee goes into the matter, replied the Provincial Secretary.

Preparations For Paving

The Tar Gang Will Be Under Way in a Week or Two

Six natives of Sunny Italy arrived in the city yesterday. Four of the members of the party, it is said, walked all the way from Toronto. They are here for the purpose of securing employment with the paving contractors. The latter expect to commence operations within a week or two, providing the weather conditions are favorable. Those sections which were paved last fall are already beginning to show above the winter's accumulation of snow and ice. It has been demonstrated that the ice will leave the paved streets sooner than the macadam road. It also eliminates the mud problem.

Representatives of the firm of Foley & Gleason are expected in the city some time next week when preparations will be made for the construction of additional pavement. It will take several days to get the asphalt plant ready for use.

FARMERS' ORGANIZATIONS OF ONTARIO AMALGAMATE

NORWOOD, March 26 — An important movement was launched on Friday at Toronto when the representatives of two hundred Provincial agricultural organizations took steps towards the formation of a protective and trading head for all the farmers of Ontario, the organization to be known as the United Farmers of Ontario. The amalgamation was brought about with a view of working towards the betterment of agriculture in all its branches. The Association is patterned after the Farmers' Associations of the western provinces. Among the names of prominent farmers of the province, chosen as officers, we note that of Mr. G. A. Brethran, of Norwood, who has been honored with the position of 1st Vice President. Mr. E. C. Drury of Barrie is the President.

REV. DR. RAMSAY WILL VISIT THE CITY

Attractive Services in Knox Church on Sunday Next

The services in Knox Church Sunday next, morning and evening, will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Ramsay, of Toronto, one of the prominent leaders and preachers of the Presbyterian Church. Until recently he was minister of Knox Church, Ottawa. He has accepted an appointment in connection with the Home Mission Offices, Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Keith will visit Omemee, Mount Pleasant and Bethany appointments on that day, according to the arrangement of the Presbytery. These appointments have been requested to express an opinion on the closing of Mount Pleasant or remaining as they are, a condition to which Omemee has objected.

Knox Church Sunday School will hold an open session Sunday afternoon to which all classes and friends are invited. Mr. Jas. M. Gerard, Superintendent of Missions, has arranged a most attractive order of service in which he will be assisted by Mr. Geo. Kenyon and the Young Songsters' Orchestra of the Salvation Army.

General Greely 70 Years Old

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 27— As vigorous and active as many men of half his age, Maj. Gen. Adolphus Greely, famous as a soldier and Arctic explorer, reached the 70th milestone of his life's journey to-day. Since his retirement from active service, six years ago, Gen. Greely has made his residence in this City. Much of his time, however, has been spent abroad, where he has interested himself in the study of aviation, military affairs and geography and kindred sciences.

Gen. Greely is a native of Newbury port, Mass., where he was born on March 27, 1844. He served in the Union Army from 1861 to 1865, and was the first man who entered the civil war as a private soldier to attain the rank of Brigadier-General in the regular service.

More than 30 years ago Gen. Greely attracted world-wide attention by a polar expedition of which he was the chief. This expedition sailed northward in 181. It contained 25 members of whom only seven came back. Two relief expeditions failed to find the Greely party, and when finally rescued by the third expedition, sent under command of Capt. Winfield Scott Schley, the survivors of the party were nearly crazed with hunger.

Prior to going to the Arctic region Gen. Greely was an officer of the signal corps and had built thousands of miles of military telegraph lines in Texas and the south west. In 186 he was made the head of the signal corps which at that time also included the weather bures. During the war with Spain he built telegraph lines and cables in Cuba and the Philippines and later in Alaska and China.

Valuable old lace ought never to be trusted to inexperienced hands—even your own, careful as they may be. For old, valuable lace can hardly be replaced and is well worth the cost of a reliable cleaner's bill.

SANITARY INSPECTOR OF SMITH TOWNSHIP IS ON THE JOB

Bridgenorth, March 26.

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—Would you kindly allow me space in your valued paper to reply to a letter that appeared in the Daily Examiner on Monday evening, March 23th, signed Chemong.

It was stated in the letter that a horse had died and was left in a place that when the spring freshets came the germs would be carried through the streams into Chemong lake.

The horse in question died in January when the ground was frozen so hard that it was next to impossible to bury it. I can safely state that the horse has been disposed of in a manner that is satisfactory, and that the cottagers of the park may rest assurer that all is in a sanitary condition.

JOHN N. TELFORD,
Sanitary Inspector of the Township of Smith.

DECISION IN PIERRE-SARAZEN LITIGATION

The case which neard before His Honour Judge Huyeke, yesterday, in which Mrs. Mary Pierre, of 613 Union Street, sought to recover $304.25 from one E. Sarazen, 222 Simcoe Street, was concluded yesterday afternoon.

Judge Huyeke, in giving his decision, said: "I find that the original contract cannot stand. I find it was drawn on a Sunday. The defendant cannot say that it was not made on a Sunday. He simply says: I don't think it was. That makes the contract as void. I do not find that the $50 limit is substantiated. The finding I make is: that Sarazen did take over these goods from the plaintiff and that he was to sell these goods to the best advantage possible and, if necessary, to keep some of them for his own use. As a trustee, he was to take a fair and reasonable price for these goods. There are certain goods he has yet been unable to sell. The plaintiff should not be required to take the goods back, unless they are in the same condition as they were at the time they left her custody. I would suggest that the parties look at these goods, and if they are in the same condition, I think that the plaintiff should take them back. His Honour then asked Mr. G. N. Gordon, counsel for plaintiff, and Mr. D. W. Dumble, representing the defendant, so and look at the goods. "If they have been taken reasonable care of, I think they will take them back." I therefore declare that he is liable. Judgment for the amount was, however, held over till the earlier part of next week.

The first witness called, yesterday afternoon, was John Doherty, who spoke as to making a valuation of the goods in question, in company with Mr. Butcher. They were, in his opinion, in a bad condition.

Abraham Chernikoff was next called, and sworn in the Hebrew way, on the Old Testament, and wearing his hat; said he bought a number of articles from the defendant, and they were badly used.

The defendant, E. Sarazen, was next placed in the witness box, and was submitted to the following cross-examination by his Counsel:

Mr. Dumble—Did you go there three times a day for your meals?

Witness—No, sir.

Mr. Dumble—How many times a day did you go there for your meals?

Witness — Sometimes once, and sometimes twice.

Mr. Dumble—Did you go there to court her?

Witness—I don't think so.

Mr. Dumble—Did you talk love to her.

Witness—I don't remember.

Mr. Dumble—Did she talk love to you?

Witness—She might have done so.

Mr. Dumble—Did you go out walking with her at night?

Witness—Yes, on business.

By Mr. Sarazen's statement, a verbal agreement to sell the goods was made before the written contract. He agreed to give her whatever he sold the goods for. Some of the goods he sold for $38, and admitted liability to that amount, and said he was prepared to pay it to her creditors.

Mr. Dumble—She says that you got on the soft side of her, and induced her to let you manage her business after you had promised to marry her. Did you promise to marry her?

Witness—No, sir.

Mr. Dumble—Are you liable for breach of promise?

Witness—No, sir.

Mr. Dumble—Have you a wife

Witness—Yes, sir.

A considerable amount of evidence was taken, after which Mr. Gordon and Mr. Dumble presented their arguments before His Honour, following which he gave the above decision.

New York Begins A Big Celebration

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, March 27.—The chartered commerce of New York, and, in fact, practically that of the North American continent, began three hundred years ago to-day, when the United Netherlands granted the first charter for regular commerce with what is now New York. The tercentenary is to be observed with a celebration in keeping with the importance of the event. The celebration will continue over a period of six months and its various features will commemorate the history and progress of the nation and particularly its commercial achievements.

The celebration was formally opened with services of thanksgiving held in the churches to-day. During the spring and summer the programme provides for commemorative exercises in the public schools and a series of exhibitions of the material resources of the entire country.

September has been selected as the most suitable month for holding the outdoor features of the celebration. Early in that month a great musical festival will be held to commemorate the 109 years of peace between the English-speaking peoples. The latter part of the month will be given over to elaborate parades and pageants. One of these will be a pageant of States, in which each State is expected to have a float illustrating its history and its resources. There also will be a great naval parade similar to that seen here during the Henry Hudson celebration. A great industrial parade is also to be a feature.

Interspersed in the programme are arrangements for various local features, including celebrations at all of the cities along the Erie Canal, the Hudson River and the southern tier of counties in New York State.

The Evils Of The Flowing Bowl

Nelson Sucee, who appeared in police court two days ago, charged with being drunk and who was told to get out of town, again occupied the box before Magistrate Dumble this morning. He faced a similar charge, pleaded guilty, and will be escorted to the first G.T.R. train for Tweed.

Edward Shields, an old man, who was fined $2 to be paid in ten days at yesterday's session, and who was told to go to his people in Cavan, evidently found the enticing liquor too strong for his will power and got drunk again. Now he has eleven days to pay $4 in. If he appears again, he will be sent up as a vagrant.

John Robinson, who also appeared a day or two ago on a drunken charge, was present again this morning. He was very shaky, and at the Chief's request for a remand for one week, was granted. Magistrate Dumble said that when he got sobered up, he was either to get out of town or behave himself in a better manner.

The charge of stealing four traps, which was preferred against a local man was dealt with this morning. After a large amount of evidence, the Magistrate said that in his opinion the case was, as is applied in the Scottish term, "Not proven." Mr. G. N. Gordon, defending the prisoner, then moved for the discharge of the prisoner, which was granted.

Medals Presented By Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P. Are On Display

The medals presented to the Junior City Hockey League by E. A. Peck, M.P.P., are on display in Clark's window. They make a splendid souvenir for the winners and will be fitted as watch fobs. Each medal is inscribed and the entire eight will be presented to the Boston Exploits in the near future.

MR. BUSKIN BACK AGAIN

George Buskin, Agent and Missionary of the Evangelical and Colportage Mission is making his 30th annual visit to Peterborough on behalf of the work. He has entered upon his sixtieth year in Christian work. He has been imprisoned four times for "highway" preaching, and has travelled from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, supplying Biblical literature, in many languages, and has also published, in five languages, many thousands of copies. The donations of Peterborough to the work last year were $24, which is gratefully acknowledged.

GROCERS DISCONTINUE GIVING COUPONS WITH CASH PURCHASES

Many of the grocers of this City have decided to discontinue the practice of giving coupons with cash purchases and honouring them with premiums. While the action may have been strictly within the Trading Stamp Act, still to be absolutely safe in their position the grocers feel that the best method is to do away with the system entirely. The penalty for an infraction of the Trading Stamp Act is very severe and the authorities are said to be determined upon enforcing the Act. As one grocer stated they wish to be on the safe side.

STORMY SESSION OF THE MERCANTILE LEAGUE

There was a stormy session of the Mercantile Hockey League last night at the Y.M.C.A. when the executive and representatives met to wind up the affairs of the League for the season. The trouble arose over the division of the gate receipts, or rather over the arrangement made that the receipts of the three play-off games should be divided only among the Bankers, Test and Tool Room, the three teams participating. Representatives of the other three teams, the De Laval, Plumbers and Examiner teams expressed their opinion of this "rake-off" arrangement in no uncertain terms. In spite of the indignation shown, however, President Nelson declared that the balance of $66.20 on the first five games would be divided among the six teams comprising the league, while the balance of $32.60 from the last three would be divided only among the Tool Room, Test and Bankers.

PETES REPORT 15th OF APRIL

Manager Blount Has a Big Squad Ready—Sterling is Expected to be in Line Soon—Catcher Miller is a "Phenom"

There is nothing new at baseball headquarters this morning except that several applications have been received from semi-pro players asking for a trial. These rookies will hardly get a chance, as Manager Blount has signed up a big squad of players, and his roster is practically completed.

There is no word from Blount in regard to Pitcher Sterling. The club has made a proposition to the big fellow, however, that he will hardly turn down, and he should be back in the fold any time now.

The Petes will report at Youngstown two weeks from next Wednesday, which will give them three weeks' training before the bell rings. Travelling Secretary Dobson and Pitcher Stan Cresswell will comprise the contingent from here, and they will leave for the south two weeks from Tuesday, arriving at Youngstown on the 16th.

Muly Miller, the catcher whom Blount has signed, is an experienced backstop, who has seen plenty of service. He caught for Erie in the Central League two seasons ago, being behind the bat in 94 games, and last season he was with the Youngstown Inter-State League team. Blount considers that he will be a valuable asset to the club and that his handling of young twirlers will strengthen the pitching staff.

Hockey Club Executive Met

Outstanding Debts From Previous Year Were All Wiped Out

A meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club was held last evening at Warne's drug store, for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the Club for the season. President L. J. Picard was in the chair. Secretary-treasurer J. P. Bond read the financial statement which showed that the club had paid the outstanding accounts from the year before and all this year's expense, leaving a small balance. It was decided to hold the annual geenral meeting of the club next week. The exact date will likely be announced to-morrow.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

In connection with the sale of Harry Brant, the following from London will be of interest:

LONDON, March 26. — Knowing Frank Shaughnessy, manager of the Ottawa Canadian league club, twice champions, like the fans of the whole circuit do and cognizant of the fact that he can use a short stop of the Brant calibre and a pitcher like Fred Bramble for the coming year, makes the above paragraph appear like a long and round-about trip for both former Canadain players from Peterborough and Berlin to Ottawa by the time the fourth year of this league opens.

While Bramble has been suspended by Fort Wayne, it is believed that the big right-handed curve ball pitcher will hurl baseball this coming year at Ottawa. President Varnell, of the Fort Wayne club, has a working agreement with Shaughnessy for all oversupply players, and the fact that "Shag" will be in Fort Wayne shortly to look over some of the talent, Varnel is disposed to rid himself of, much to the Ottawa leader's advantage, gives the idea of this story all the more weight.

Brant and Bramble are two good ball players, and with a club like the Ottawas will be this year should have a great year, only it is amusing to see the methods of Shaughnessy's purpose work out so nicely. As a fox he isone of the silver-tipped variety.

Brantford Expositor: Since "Rube" Deneau became manager of the Red Sox, the fans have heard from him three times. And on all three occasions all he would say regarding his team was that "they will be theer." After all the hot air, some of the other managers have been shooting, some one will hang a crepe over their door with the epithet, "Died from Suffocation."

No use to harp on last year's ball team. This year's can't be any worse, and since we have a real manager, the fans can rest assured they will see a better brand of ball at Agricultural Park this season.

Last year's reserves will have a hard time holding down their berths with the big bunch of young blood Deneau has pulled together. Gero, if he pitches as good a brand of ball as last year, will not doubt be a fixture and Johnny Nelson can hardly be beaten at third, while Lammond, if he has grown any, which is doubtful, ought to secure a berth. Ivers and Wagner will still have a hard fight to grab a position from some of the stars Deneau has secured.

Ottawa Free Press: President J. P. Fitzgerald, of the Canadian League, will e present in person at the next meeting of the National Commission armed with population statistics of seven cities on this circuit, all duly sworn by the clerks or mayors. The president will place these figures before the commission and demand that classification be awarded the league to conform with the population. The aggregate will show 450,000, which is 50,000 over the stipulated amount. Toronto has not been included in the population as this territory is awarded to the International League exclusively.

While the clubs have been signing on Class B. teams, the benefits to be derived from Class B. rating mean much money to the league. The draft price by t hebig leagues from Class C. is only $750. From Class B. it is $1,250. Class A.A. clubs pay $500 drafting from Class C., while it costs $1,000 drafting from Class B. Hence the fight the Canadian is now putting forth for its right status.

Coupled with the Ottawa population, which is placed at 100,000, is that of Hull, making 20,000 more.

Ottawa Free Press: Peterborough has two very important positions to fill, viz.:—first base and catcher. Trout, who alternated at both last season, goes to the Toronto Canadian Leaguers.

Ottawa Free Press: Harry Brant was drafted by Chattanooga from Peterborough last year and the Peterborough magnates set up an awful howl, claiming it was really the New York Giants who had drafted him, but used Chattanooga in order to secure their man at a smaller outlay. Word is received to-day that Brant has been turned back to Fort Wayne. Peterborough will now understand they don't take them from Class C and stick them down in the Big Leagues right off the bat.

JOCKEYS HORSES HATE

When Race Horses Go Mad at Pos They Would Make Meal of Riders

Trouble in the paddock and at the post before a big race is frequently caused by a horse which has taken a sudden and violent dislike to his jockey, and there are numerous cases on well known jockeys being nearly chewed to death by their mounts.

One of the worst cases of "savaging" occurred to Otto Madden, the famous jockey, at Brighton races a few years ago. He was riding down to the starting post for the Worthing Plate, when a horse called Marigold IV overtook him, dragged him out of the saddle by the shoulder, and, seizing him by the throat, shook him as a terrier shakes a rat.

The jockey of Marigold IV., who had himself been unseated, used his whip freely on the brute's head to make him release Madden, and other jockeys coming to his assistance Marigold IV. was eventually beaten off, but not before Madden had been severely wounded.

Diamond Jubilee, the horse which won King Edward his first Derby, took a violent dislike to his jockey, Morrington Cannon. If Cannon ever went near his loose box, or the horse saw him in the stableyard or paddock, he would make frantic efforts to "go for him," and Cannon had several very close shaves from being badly mauled.

Fred Archer once had a bad tussle with a horse which tried to "savage" him, but the famous jockey succeeded in getting the better of the animal and won the race. The horse was Peter and the race was the Hunt Cup.

Peter threw Archer in the paddock before the race, and, seizing him by the arm, nearly bit it in two. Archer succeeded in beating him off, whereupon he threw himself down on the ground and screamed, lashing out at every one who came near him. Archer, however, was not to be daunted and he eventually succeeded in mastering the brute.

Lord Charles Cunninghame, a well-known sportsman who used to race on a large scale in India, had a very valuable racing pony which took a violent dislike to the "syces," or native grooms.

He absolutely refused to allow them to come into his stable, and on one occasion when two of the "syces" came in together to try to groom him he bit off one man's arm completely at the elbow, while the other only escaped with a badly lacerated ear. After that, white stable boys from England had to be specially imported to look after him.

Vedas, who became "savage" through ill-health some time before he died wore a muzzle, and the stable boy was paid extra to look after him.

Ladas, Lord Rosebery's famous race horse, was perfectly quiet under ordinary circumstances, but for some unknown reason he had a great dislike for ladies, and would "go for them" if any members of the fair sex approached his paddock.—Pearson's Weekly.

BUILDING CUP CHASERS

Some of the Rules Yacht Designers Must Bear in Mind

The conditions governing the America Cup yacht races give designers lots of latitude. According to the measurement rule, length is measured but this length is taken in such a way as to limit overhangs and should the length be greater than the rule allows the excess is penalized. Draught is limited to 16 per cent. of the load water line plus 1.75 so that the limit of draught for a yacht 76 feet on the water line is 13.75 feet. Any excess is added to length. Then to find the rating after the length has been determined length is multiplied by the square foot of the sail area and this product is divided by the cube root of the displacement. The larger the displacement, consequently, the large the sail area that can be carried and the designer decides just how big a yacht he wants to build, making it form as easy as possible and the figures out the driving power. It has been figured that the average defender measures about 103 feet over all, 14 feet draft, and spreads 7,400 square feet of canvas.

ENGLISH ATHLETE FOUGHT REAL DUEL

Nephew of Lord Chief Justice Wounded Bullying German in Clash With Swords

It is seldom that Englishmen engage in duels nowadays—at any rate, in their own country. Occasionally they get embroiled abroad, and a meeting results. Such an encounter took place in Germany, Mr. Dennis Godfrey Isaacs, son of Mr. Godfrey Isaacs, and nephew of the Lord Chief Justice, exacting satisfaction from a bullying German for an insult.

Although only eighteen years of age, Mr. Isaacs is a magnificent athlete, 6 feet in height, 183 pounds in weight, good at running, football, swimming, boxing, golf, and fencing. For three months he studied fencing under a famous Italian master.

"I was walking in the town of Freiburg," he explained, "when a German bumped into me. I took no notice beyond giving him a contemptuous glance, and was passing along when he called out, 'A foul Englishman,' in English.' As he would not apologise I struck him across the face with my glove. We exchanged cards, and my second, a Brazilian gentleman, whose name I must not disclose, called on him next morning.

"Four days later we met in the country outside Freiburg. We fought with foils, and the duel lasted about a quarter of an hour. My opponent was fencing in the French style, but I was trained in the Italian school, and my methods puzzled him. Suddenly he made a lunge at me, which I parried by changing point, bringing my sword over his, and then forcing his weapon sideways and downwards. This parry is also an attack, for my own foil was pointing straight at his heart. As his body came forward I raised my point upwards in order to avoid giving him a fatal thrust, and in so doing I exposed the under part of my forearm, receiving a wound just as my sword entered his breast.

"My injury was a slight affair, but he was seriously wounded. A doctor attended to him, and in a few days he recovered and left the country. I cannot give his name, but he was a civilian."

Mr. Isaacs supposes that if he ever goes back to Germany the authorities probably will take action against him.

PEER'S SIGNATURES REGULATED BY LAW

They Must Use Their Titles Only When Signing Their Names—Others Must Not do so

There is a curious fact in connection with the signatures of peers. While noblemen like the Duke of Westminster and the Duke of Portland always sign their names respectively "Westminster" or "Portland," Mr. Alexander Ure, who, when he was appointed Lord Chief Justice of Scotland, adopted the title of Lord Strathclyde, still continued to sign his name "Alexander Ure" although he was always addressed as Lord Strathclyde. The latter, however, was only a courtesy title until his elevation to the peerage. Had he not been included in the list of peers, his lordship would still have signed his name Alexander Ure.

This distinction is due to a Scottish Act of Parliament which was passed in 1672, in which it is declared, "And His Majesty, with consent aforesaid, declares that it is only allowed for Noblemen and Bishops to subscribe by their titles; And that all others shall subscribe their Christian names or the initial letter thereof with their surnames." Lord Strathclyde was neither a nobleman nor a bishop until he was elevated to the peerage; and, of course, was not entitled to sign "Strathclyde."

The Town Clerk of London, Sir [illegible], is permitted, in certain circumstances, to sign documents "Bell" and the explanation is as follows: It appears that the Town Clerk for the City of London for the time being appends his surname (only) to certain official documents by virtue of a City custom dating back to the early part of the fifteenth century. The first Town Clerk (or "Common Clerk of the City") to do so was John Carpenter, founder of the City of London School. He, however, only occasionally signed documents in this manner, and so did Roger Tonge, [illegible], a later Town Clerk. The first Town Clerk to use this mode of signature, habitually was William [illegible], who succeeded Roger Tonge in 1603, and the custom has been continued, with perhaps a few exceptions, down to the present day.

THE ROYAL YACHTS

Where the King and Queen Live When Afloat

King George has two special steam yachts, the "Victoria and Albert" and the "Alexandria"—the "Victoria and Albert" is the larger. The one His Majesty generally uses—the "Victoria and Albert," of over 5,000 tons—has a crew of thirteen officers and over 300 men, and when the Royal party are on board, His Majesty's entourage alone adds up to forty people. What with lords and ladies-in-waiting, secretaries, valets, ladies' maids, and cooks—not to mention the numerous guests—the Royal yacht must of necessity be a large vessel.

As compared with the Russian Royal yacht "Standart" and the German Imperial yacht "Hohenzollern," the "Victoria and Albert" is much more homelike and comfortable in its internal appearance. The first thing which strikes a stranger upon reaching the deck of the "Victoria and Albert" is that he finds himself walking on linoleum instead of planks. This linoleum, of the pattern of artificial planking, is covered with crimson felt when Royalty is on board. To those who have tried to sleep in the early morning on a passenger ship during the process of holystoning the deck above their heads the reason for this easily-washable oil cloth and noise-deadening felt will be obvious.

H.R.H. Princess Victoria still has her own cabin on the yacht. It has pretty hanging curtains to the bed, at the head of which are placed several private photographs and other personal knick-knacks which she likes to have about her. Lately Princess Mary has been using the cabin.

In the after part of the vessel are to be discovered a few undecorated cabins now used as offices. It was here that the household took their meals under the old régime of Queen Victoria.

The forward portion of the vessel is cut off completely by doors from the Royal apartments. There it is that the yacht's officers have located their wardroom. They may, of course, be invited in turn to dine at the Royal table, but as a matter of routine they must maintain their own special establishment. Apart from other reasons, this latter arrangement is a necessity, in that they live on board all the year round.

Before using a new comb, wash it in soap water, and when dry, rub with a little olive oil. It will then last twice as long.

Before frying eggs, sprinkle a little flour in the pan. This will prevent the splattering of the hot fat while frying.

Vegetable and fruit stains on the fingers can be removed by dipping the fingers in very strong tea for a few minutes and then washing them in clear, warm water.

The most difficult of all stains to take out are those made by coffee. With care, however, the stain can be removed from the most delicate silk or woollen fabrics. Rub the mark gently with a little pure glycerine, then rinse it in lukewarm water, lay a cloth over the damp part on the wrong side, and press with a cool iron until dry. Do not use more of the material than is absolutely necessary.

MILK IS GREATEST FOOD BUT PURITY IS A NECESSITY

TORONTO, March 27.—"Milk is the most valuable articles of diet that the world possesses to-day. It is the only article of diet that contains all the elements of life, and all that is essential at the beginning of life, to the development of the best manhood and womanhood," said Dr. C. J. Hastings, M.O.H., in responding to the toast of the "City of Toronto" at the first annual banquet of the Toronto Milk and Cream Producers at the Walker House last night. Mr. J. G. Cornell, President of the association, was in the chair, and there was an attendance of several hundred.

Dr. Hastings said milk produced under unfavourable conditions with regard to cleanliness was responsible for more sickness and death than all other foods combined. Experiments showed that 90 per cent. of infant mortality was directly traceable to impure milk. The greatest danger lay in milk containing the germs of bovine tuberculosis. In children 23 to 26 per cent. of tubercular cases was due to tuberculosis of the bovine type, and typhoid and scarlet fevers, diphtheria, and, in fact, cases of nearly all communicable diseases could be traced to milk.

Should Pay for Good Milk.

Professor H. H. Dean of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, in replying to the toast of the "Dairy Industry," said that the question of a pure milk supply was an economic problem. "No real progress will be made unless the consuming public will agree to pay a price sufficient to justify the production of milk of the highest quality," he said. It was unfair, he continued, to ask the producers to supply pure milk at a loss, and as long as the price is too low to pay the farmer they were going to have bad milk.

"My definition of whole or pure milk," he said, "is milk as it comes from the cow, and no man can say that milk that comes below that standard is pure milk." It was unreasonable and purposeless, he went on, to place a standard of fat on milk, because the amount of fat in cows' milk might vary from day to day.

Dishonesty of Watering Milk.

"Milk should not be interfered with," he said, and any man who adds water to it is a dishonest man, a thief who deserves the worst possible punishment." There should be no milk standard to alter the quality of the article as it comes from the cow.

Other speakers were Messrs. Geo. A. Putnam and H. B. Cowan. Entertainment was provided by Bert Harvey and company.

Milk Up Three Cents Per Can.

The association met at the Labour Temple in the afternoon, when the price fixed for the summer was $1.28 per eight-gallon can. This means three cents more than last year and one cent more than in 1912. It was pointed out that the price was advancing.

"Consistency" On The Health Association

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Much is being said recently, through the press, of the great work of the Peterborough Health Association. This is a very clever and modest way of preparing public thought for an appeal to the treasury. One writer, J. R. W., with a good degree of polish, says: "Surely this is the work to which the Master directed," etc. If this is the work of the Master, then why not make it a part of the Christian Church work and support it from that source, and refrain from appealing to the public treasury.

It is right and best to separate the Church and State; then the Church the aid of Government or Municipality thereby compelling the non-Christian and those who do not believe that this is the method of the Great Teacher, to pay taxes for this purpose. Surely a society that is of God and following the Master should do its own financing and not to covet the public funds, thereby adding more mills to the already burdened taxpayer.

Thanking you for space.

Consistency.

Brechin Hotel Fire Censure

Jury Finds Necessary Precautions Were Taken

BEAVERTON, March 26. — The adjourned inquest by Coroner Grant of Beaverton, into the cause of the fire at the Brechin Hotel and the death of Mary McCauley, Dennis McCauley, John McCauley, and Jane Callahan, on the 17th of March, took place at Brechin, J. E. Farewell, K.C., County Crown Attorney, being present, and after a full and searching investigation regarding the whole matter, the jury brought in the following verdict:

"We the jury, find that Mary McCauley, John McCauley, Dennis McCauley, and Jane Callahan, came to their deaths on Tuesday, the 17th day of March, 1914, in the Brechin Hotel, by suffocation, and being burned to death. We find the cause of the fire is unknown. We further find that all necessary precautions were taken by Thomas McCauley in regard to the safety of guests and the travelling public at the said Brechin Hotel, and from the evidence produced no censure or blame can be attached to any person."

Thomas McCauley is still in a serious condition from burns and shock, and was not able to attend the investigation.

WEDDING BELLS

DUNFORD—SPENCE.

A pretty house wedding was solemnized in Lakefield on Wednesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Spence, Queen Street, when the marriage took place of their daughter, Mary, to Mr. Harry Dunford, son of Mr. Wm. Dunford of Douro.

The ceremony was performed in the tastefully decorated drawing-room, by the Rev. Wm. Johnson, Pastor of the Methodist Church, Lakefield, assisted by Rev. H. S. Spence of Bloomfield, Ont., uncle of the bride.

The bride entered the room, escorted by her father, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Edna Payne.

The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white French silk crepe trimmed with silk brocade and overlace, and carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by Miss Eva Jory, who was gowned in white silk crepe, with tunic of brocaded marquisette with shadow lace, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom was assited by Mr. Oscar Dunford, his brother.

After the ceremony the guests, to the number of about fifty, partook of a sumptuous wedding repast, served in the spacious dining-room.

The bride and groom's popularity was amply testified by the large number of beautiful gifts received. The groom's gift to the bride was a cameo and pearl pendant; to the bridesmaid, a pearl bar pin; to the pianiste, a pearl bar pin, and to the best man, a gold tie clasp.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunford will reside in Douro, where the groom is a prosperous farmer. They enter upon their matrimonial career with the best of prospects, and attended by the sincere and hearty congratulations and best wishes of their host of friends.

A PRIZE WINNING SERMON

Rev. F. A. Conners' Effort Which Was Successful

By F. A. Conners, Pastor Park Street Baptist Church, Peterborough, Ont.

Amos 4: 12, "Prepare to meet thy God."

Are you prepared to meet God? This is a proper question, and one that demands an answer. It is a question we can answer, must answer and do answer, either in a negative or positive way. There is no neutral ground on which to stand, "He that is not with Me is against Me, and he that gathereth not with Me scattereth abroad."

We must all meet God, and for this inevitable meeting preparation is essential, if we would meet him in peace.

For convenience let me present this subject in three questions as follows:

1. Prepare to meet thy God. Why? 2. Prepare to meet thy God. How? 3. Prepare to meet thy God. When?

I. Because it is a Necessity.

(a) God has commanded me because it is a necessity.

(b) It is a necessity because God has commanded it.

God's word is to settle all questions both as to man's state and standing, both as to his condition before God and as to his acceptance with God.

This is not a question for man to debate, but a question for man to answer, and a command for man to obey. Obedience to God's command is the law of our life and the hope of our destiny.

"I will have obedience and not sacrifice."

That we are depending upon God no intelligent person will deny, and yet a great many people live and act as though they were neither depending upon God, nor answerable to Him. Such attitude can neither produce results profitable to man, nor acceptable to God.

Preparation to meet God is essential both to our happiness and usefulness here, and our happiness here after, since God is the only source of true happiness.

II. Prepare to meet thy God. How?

1. In the prescribed way. By repentance toward God and Faith in Jesus Christ.

John 3: 6-18: "For God so loved the world," etc.

John 5: 24: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that heareth my Word, and believeth on Him that sent me hath everlasting life," etc.

Acts 13: 38, 39: "Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that though this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins," etc.

I asked a farmer one day whether he had salvation in Christ. He replied, "No, indeed, Sir, I have not; but my my wife and I are both very anxious for it. There is not a day of our lives but we read a chapter in the Bible at night, and we ask God to give it to us."

"You ask God to give it to you?"

"Yes, Sir, indeed we do."

"You are entirely wrong," I added.

"Your business is to take it in God's way. God is asking you to be reconciled. What business have you asking God for salvation, or to be reconciled to you, when He says so plainly in His Word, 'Be you reconciled to God'"

"God was in Christ's reconciling the word unto Himself."

Your part is to take God at His word and to be reconciled to Him. You are to believe in Jesus that His death was sufficient for all your sins, and His promise is "He that believeth on Me hath everlasting life."

"I see it all now, Sir, I never saw it before."

Some months after I met him a happy believer by taking Eternal Life as the "Gift of God," instead of going on asking for it. He said his wife had accepted it, too, and now they didn't ask God for salvation, but just accepted it by faith and went on thanking Him for it, and rejoicing in it."

2. The Only Way.

"There is a way that seemeth right unto men, but the end therof is death."

John 14: 6: "Jesus saith unto him, I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life; no man cometh unto the Father but by Me."

Acts 4: 12: "Neither is there salvation in any other, for there is none other under Heaven given among men whereby we must be saved."

Rom 4: 5: "But to him that worketh not, but believth on Him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is accounted for righteousness."

Eph. 2: 8: "For by grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God, not of works lest any man should boast."

Rom. 11: 16: "And if by grace, then it is no more Works, otherwise Grace is no more Grace."

From where this fear and unbelief,
If God my God has put to grief
His spotless Son for me?
Can he the righteous judge of men,
Condemn me for that debt of sin,
Which Lord was laid on Thee?
Complete atonement Thou hast made,
and to the utmost farthing paid,
What e'er Thy people owed,
How then can wrath on me take place,
Now standing in God's righteousness,
And sprinkled by Thy blood?
If Thou hast my discharge procured,
And freely in my place endured,
The whole wrath divine.
Payment Thou wilt not twice demand,
First at my bleeding surety's hand,
And then again at mine."

Jesus is the only passport to Heaven. "He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber."

III. Prepare to Meet Thy God.

Is there ever a time when it is too late to prepare to meet God. From God's standpoint, No; from man's standpoint, Yes.

"He that being often reproved, hardeneth his heart," etc.

"No man cometh unto the Father of himself, except the Spirit draw him he cannot come."

"My Spirit shall not always strive with man."

"Strive to enter in at the strait gate, for many I say unto you shall seek to enter in and shall not be able."

"Seek ye the Lord while He may be found, call ye upon Him while He is near."

"Now is the accepted time and today is the day of salvation."

"To-day if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts."

"Come, for all things are now ready."

"If a man loses his earthly possessions, it is sad and calls forth much sympathy, but it can all be restored, but what about the lost soul?

"I lose your wealth is much,
To lose your health is more,
To lose your soul is such a loss,
That no man can restore."

Nothing in all God's universe so vitally important to man as this question of his Immortal Soul's salvation.

"What will it profit a man if he shall gain hte whole world and lose his own soul?"

Not of the future should we dream,
And what we're going to do,
Nor of the yesterday's unseen,
And what we have passed through,
But in the present act and think,
And make our lives to shyme,
With what our hands may find to do.
And do it, Now's the time.

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be there stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

HEIRS HAVE NO SCRUPLES.

They Will Take Checks Which Lord Strathcona Didn't Want.

MONTREAL, March 28. — During his lifetime, Lord Strathcona made two boasts: one that he never lost a paper once it got into his hands, the other that he never received payment for his services to the Canadian Pacific Railway.

His executors, in going through his papers, found on file uncashed checks from the Canadian Pacific Railway from the inception of the company until the time of his death, and they have now made claim on the company for the payment of these. The Canadian Pacific Railway announced yesterday it would honor every check, so that the heirs to the estate will receive a considerably augmented sum.

In the same way Lord Strathcona did not draw his salary as High Commissioner, and the added windfall of the heirs will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

HANNA IS RETICENT.

He Is Averse to Discussing Promises to Abolish Treating.

TORONTO, March 28.—The Opposition made an attempt yesterday afternoon to gain a direct answer from the Provincial Secretary, regarding the Government's plans for anti-treating legislation this session, but were advised to "wait and see."

Chas. Bowman (Lib., Bruce) supposed the question, and in reply Mr. Hanna claimed it out of order.

"If the honorable member will wait sufficiently long he will find out," said Mr. Hanna. "In the meantime it is not a proper question to appear on the order paper. It is never in order for the Government to be compelled to answer questions on matters of policy."

A statement of J. G. Anderson (Lib., Bruce) to the effect that all good fruit-growers, including the farm director, in Western Ontario, were ashamed of the Jordan Harbor experimental station, gave rise to remarks from the Minister of Agriculture. The Bruce member stated that although the cost had been $150,000 the farm had never justified its purchase and suggested poor management.

Hon. Mr. Duff justified the farm's existence by showing that all classes of fruits were getting attention, and that experiments had been carried out successfully. The new manager was an expert, and a trip which some of the Ministers had made to the grounds had convinced him of its bright possibilities.

Dr. Jessop (Lincoln) defended the farm and said that the work would be of great value to the growers ultimately.

Sir Lionel May Go To Brazil.

LONDON, March 28. — Sir Lionel Carden, British Minister to Mexico, yesterday cancelled his booking on board the Mauretania, on which he was to sail from Liverpool to-day for New York on his return to Mexico City. It is understood there is a possibility of Sir Lionel going direct to Rio de Janeiro to take up his post as Minister instead of returning to Mexico. Nothing has been definitely decided as to his future movements.

About Zutoo Tablets

"I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effect. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as headache. I always carry them in my grip on the road and would not be without them at any cost." A. O. MORTON, 256 Congress, St. Boston.

"THE MAYOR'S WIFE"

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

CHAPTER XII.
SEARCHINGS.

I seemed bound to be the prey of a divided duty. As I crossed the street, I asked myself which of the two experiments I had in mind should occupy my attention first. Should I proceed at once with that close study and detailed examination of the house, which I contemplated in my eagerness to establish my theory of a secret passage between it and the one now inhabited by the Misses Quinlan, or should I wait to do this until I had recovered the box, which might hold still greater secrets?

I could not decide(so I resolved to be guided by circumstances. If Mrs. Packard were still out, I did not think I could sit down till I had a complete plan of the house as a start in the inquiry which interested me most.

Mrs. Packard was still out — so much Nixon deigned to tell me in answer to my question. Whether the fact displeased him or not I could not say, but he was looking very sour and seemed to resent the trouble he had been to in opening the door for me. Should I notice this, even by an attempt to conciliate him? I decided not. A natural manner was best; he was too keen not to notice and give his own interpretation to uncalled for smiles or words which contrasted too strongly with his own marked reticence.

I therefore said nothing as he pottered slowly back into his own quarters in the rear, but lingered about downstairs till I was quite sure he was out of sight and hearing. Then I came back and took up my point of view on the spot where the big hall clock had stood in the days of Mr. Dennison. Later, I made a drawing of this floor as it must have looked at that time. You will find how it was at that time.

Near the place where I stood had occurred most of the phenomena, which could be located at all. Here the spectral hand had been seen stopping the clock. Here the shape had passed encountered by Mr. Weston's cook, and just a few steps beyond where the library door opened under the stairs Mr. Searles had seen the flitting figure which had shut his mouth on the subject of his tenants' universal folly. From the front then toward the back these manifestations had invariably peeped to disappear—where? That was what I was to determine; what I am sure Mayor Packard would wish me to determine if he knew the whole situation as I knew it from his wife's story and the record I had just read at the agent's office.

Alas! there were many points of exit from this portion of the hall. The drawing-room opened near; so did Mayor Packard's study; then there was the kitchen with its various offices, ending as I knew in the cellar stairs. Nearer I could see the door leading into the dining-room and, opening closer yet, the short side hall running down to what had once been the shallow vestibule of a small side entrance, but which, as I had noted many times in passing to and from the dining-room, was now used as a recess or alcove to hold a cabinet of Indian curios. In which of thee directions should I carry my inquiry? All looked equally unpromising, unless it was Mayor Packard's study, and that no one with the exception of Mr. Steele ever entered save by his invitation, not even his wife. I could not hope to cross that threshold, nor did I greatly desire to invade the kitchen, especially while Nixon was there. Should I have to wait till the Mayor's return for the co-operation my task certainly demanded? It looked that way. But before yielding to the discouragement following this thought, I glanced about me again and suddenly remembered, first the creaking board, which had once answered to the so-called spirit's flight, and secondly the fact which commonsense should have suggested before, that if my theory were true and the secret presence, whose coming and going I had been considering, had fled by some secret passage leading to the neighboring house, then by all laws of convenience and natural propriety that passage should open from the side facing the Quinlan domicile, and not from that holding Mayor Packard's study and the remote drawing-room.

This considerably narrowed my field of inquiry, and made me immediately anxious to find that creaking board which promised to narrow it further yet.

Where should I seek it? In these rear halls, of course, but I hated to be caught pacing them at this hour. Nixon's step had not roused it or I should have noticed it, for I was, in a way, listening for this very sound. It was not in the direct path then from the front door to the kitchen. Was it on one side or in the space about the dining-room door or where the transverse corridor met the main hall? All these floors were covered in the old-fashioned way with carpet, which would seem to show that no new boards had been laid and that the creaking one should still be here.

I ventured to go as far as the transverse hall—I was at full liberty to enter the library. But no result followed this experiment; my footsteps had fallen more noiselessly. Where could the board be? In aimless uncertainty I stepped into the corridor and instantly a creak woke under my foot. I had located the direction in which one of the so-called phantoms had fled. It was down this transverse hall.

Flushed with apparent success, I looked up at the walls on either side of me. They were grey with paint and presented one unbroken surface from baseboard to ceiling, save where the two doorways opened, one into the library, the other into the dining-room. Had the flying presence escaped by either of these two rooms? I knew the dining-room well. I had had several opportunities for studying its details. I thought I knew the library; besides, Mr. Searles had been in the library when the shape advanced upon him from the hall—a fact eliminating that room as a possible source of aproach! What then was left? The recess which had once served as an old-time entrance. Ah, that gave promise of something. It projected directly toward where the adjacent walls had once held two doors, between which any sort of mischief might take place. Say that the Misses Quinlan had retained certain keys. What easier than for one of them to enter the outer door, strike a light, open the inner one and flash this light up through the house till steps or voices warned her of an aroused family, when she had only to reclose the inside door, put out the light and escape by the outer one.

But alas! at this point I remembered that this, as well as all other outside doors, had invariably been protected by bolt, and that these bolts had never been found disturbed. Veritably I was busying myself for nothing over this old vestibule. Yet before I left it I gave it another glance; satisfied myself that its walls were solid; in fact, built of brick like the house. This on two sides; the door, occupied the third and showed the same unbroken coat of thick, old paint, its surface barely hidden by the cabinet placed at right angles to it. Enough of it, however, remained exposed to view to give me an opportunity of admiring its sturdy panels and its old-fashioned lock. The door was further secured by heavy pivoted bars extending from jamb to jamb. An egg-and-dart moulding extended all around the casing, where the inner door had once hung. All solid, all very old-fashioned, but totally unsuggestive of any reasonable solution of the mystery I had vaguely hoped it to explain. Was I mistaken in my theory, and must I look elsewhere for what I still honestly expected to find? Undoubtedly; and with this decision I turned to leave the recess, when a sensation, of too peculiar a nature for me readily to understand it, caused me to stop short, and look down at my feet in an inquiring way and afterward to lift the rug on which I had been standing and took a look at the floor underneath. It was covered with carpet, like the rest of the hall, but this did not disguise the fact that it sloped a trifle toward the outside wall. Had not the idea been preposterous, I should have said the weight of the cabinet had been too much for it, causing it to sag quite perceptibly at the baseboard. But this seemed too improbable to consider. Old as the house was, it was not old enough for its beams to have rolled. Yet the floor was certainly uneven, and, what was stranger yet, had, in sagging, failed to carry the baseboard with it. This I could see by peering around the side of the cabinet. Was it an important enough fact to call for explanation? Possibly not; yet when I had taken a short leap up and come down on what was certainly an unstable floor, I decided that I should never be satisfied till I had seen that cabinet removed and the floor under it rigidly examined.

Yet when I came to take a look at this projection from the library window and saw that this floor, like that of the many entrances, was only the height of one step from the ground, I felt the folly into which my inquiring spirit had led me, and would have dismissed the whole subject from my mind if my eyes had not detected at that moment on one of the tables an unusually thin paper-knife. This gave me an idea. Carrying it back with me into the recess, I got down on my knees, and first taking the precaution to toss a little stick-pin of mine under the cabinet to be reached after in case I was detected there by Nixon, I insinuated the cutter between the baseboard and the floor and found that I could not only push it in an inch or more before striking the brick, but run it quite freely around from one corner of the recess to the other. This was surely surprising. The exterior of this vestibule must be considerably larger than the interior would denote. What occupied the space between? I went upstairs full of thought. Sometime, and that before long, I would have that cabinet removed.

CHAPTER XIII.
A DISCOVERY.

Mrs. Packard came in very soon after this. She was accompanied by two friends and I could hear them talking and laughing in her room upstairs all the afternoon. It gave me leisure, but leisure was not what I stood in need of, just now. I desired much more an opportunity to pursue my inquiries, for I knew why she had brought these friends home with her and left herself to a merriment that was not natural to her. She wished to forestall thought; to keep down dread; to fill the house so full of cheer that no whisper should reach her from that spirit-world she had come to fear. She had seen—or believed that she had seen—a spectre, and she had certainly heard a laugh that had come from no explicable human source.

The brightness of the sunshiny day aided her unconsciously in this endeavour. But I foresaw the moment when this brightness would disappear and her friends say good-bye. Then the shadows must fall again more heavily than ever, because of their transient lifting. I almost wished she had indeed gone with her husabnd, and found myself wondering why he had not asked her to do so when he found what it was that depressed her. Perhaps he had, and it was she who had held back. She may have made up her mind to conquer this weakness, and to conquer it where it had originated and necessarily held the strongest sway. At all events, he was gone and she was here, and I had done nothing as yet to relieve the insidious dread with which she must anticipate a night in this house without his presence.

WOULD COUGH SO HARD
Would Turn Black In The Face.

A cough cold is one of the most dangerous kind. It leaves the throat or lungs, and sometimes both, affected if not taken care of immediately.

Obstinate coughs and colds yield to the grateful soothing action of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, containing as it does all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree.

Mrs. C. J. Selig, Dartmouth, N.S., writes:—"My little boy, six years old, had a dreadful, hard cough. At night time he would cough so hard he would turn black in the face, and at times he would cough nearly an hour before he would stop. I tried different cough syrups, but they did him no good. The little fellow was wasting away, as he could not eat or sleep, the cough troubled him so. I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and it did him so much good I got another. Now I am only too glad to be able to write this to tell how thankful I am, and to tell every mother to use nothing else."

Price, 25 and 50 cents.

Be sure you get "Dr. Wood's" when you ask for it. See the trade mark; the three pine trees.

SARDINES IN SHOALS

New Industry Opened on the Shores of the Sea of Galilee

A company has been formed for establishing a fish-curing and sardine factory on the shores of the Sea of Galilee.

For the past year or two great shoals of sardines have appeared in these waters, and it is thought that a remunerative industry could be formed if only a concession could be obtained for a long term of years at a uniform rate. Representations on the subject have already been made to the authorities.

The inhabitants of Tiberias, who are extremely poor, would certainly be greatly benefited as the products would be patronized by Jews and Christians alike, for, besides possessing a superior flavor, the fact of their coming from the Sea of Galilee would facilitate the disposal of them even in Western countries.

Cave-Dwellers in Arran

At Rothesay William M'Phie and Isabella Townsley, both belonging to the tinker fraternity, were charged with ill-treating and neglecting their seven children. The offence was admitted. The family were found living in a cave on the Catfool shore near Lochranza, Arran. The man and the woman were sentenced to two months' imprisonment, and the children committed to industrial schools.

THE COUNTRY CHILD AND THE SCHOOLS

A Subject Which is Attracting Attention in the United Kingdom

"How to train the Country Child" is the theme dealt with by a report of the Unionist Social Reform Committee, London, England. The report lays down as the first proposition that "the teacher is the corner-stone of the whole educational fabric," and welcomes the return of the Board of Education to "what is practically a modified form of the old pupil teacher system." It adds:

One of the most important results of returning to the pupil teacher system will be that capable village children will again be encouraged to go into the teaching profession; they provide an excellent class to draw upon and it is in every way desirable to have as many country-bred persons as possible possessing a knowledge and love of the country in the profession. Teachers often enter upon their duties without having had any real opportunity of finding out whether they are really fitted by nature, mental equipment, or temperament for the work of teaching, and it is only when they have passed through the training college and begin to work in the schoolroom that the capability is tested. Under the pupil teacher system it should always be possible to decide at the age of sixteen if the would-be teacher has no real aptitude, and so save great waste of time and energy. By pupil teachers' experience in rural schools an interest in rural subjects would be developed, and they would be more anxious to return as teachers to country schools.

Training colleges, the report insists, "often produce students rather than teachers," for the curriculum is too academic and the domination of the University "exaggerates the importance of paper qualifications."

It is a wrong point of view, the report urges, that all children in a village school should be given an education which is calculated to turn them only into good townsmen; the aim should be to make children effective citizens and life in the country more bright and real. Thus the curriculum should be adapted to local requirements; the manual method should include for boys and girls together horticulture, poultry-keeping, bee-keeping, knitting, milking, and goat-keeping. Pig-keeping should be done by the boys, but the girls can assist to prepare the food, while boys should be taught elementary cookery and simple sewing, and girls some knowledge of simple carpentry. In the advanced classes more elaborate cookery, including food values, laundry work, hygiene, and housewifery should be taught separately to the girls; to the boys wood and metal work, drawing, and carpentry, the school garden being profitably used to teach co-operation.

The continuation schools—as to which "we are decades behind other countries"—must give a large place to the literary side, as "it is of the highest importance to instil a love of literature into our rural population, for their life must not appear to be limited by eating and sleeping and earning their wages." There must be peripatetic continuation classes, seeing that "there are many rural districts where continuation instruction cannot be made compulsory for some time to come."

Kissimmee

During the Spanish-American war, a number of cowboys going by train to Tampa to embark for Cuba, stopped at Kissimmee. One asked a girl on the platform, "Say, Missie, what's the name of this joint?" She answered, "Kissimmee." The cowboy said, "You bet your life," and did it.

Jews in Canada

In 1851 there were only 661 Jews in the whole of Canada; to-day there are over 160,000, and they are coming in at the rate of 7,000 a year. In Toronto there are 10,000 Jews, and a good deal of the best town property is owned by them.

TROOPS MUST OBEY

Asquith Government Issues Flat Order to the Army

GENERALS STANDING OUT

LONDON, March 28:—The resignations of Field Marshal Sir John French and Lieut.-Gen. Sir John S. Ewart have not yet been withdrawn, and Premier Asquith, after deferring his statement twice, was able only to announce in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon that the Government still was awaiting the reply of the army officers to the Cabinet's request that they remain in their posts.

Premier Asquith reached the House of Commons straight from the second Cabinet meeting held yesterday, both of which were attended by the Chief of the General Staff, Field Marshal Sir John French. The Premier said matters in the question involved grew complex and difficult, and seemed to the Government to require very full consideration. A partial or provisional statement would be unsatisfactory.

Sir John French and Lieut.-Gen. Sir John S. Ewart, the Adjutant-General of the Forces, had intimated a wish to be relieved of their duties, he said, not because of any differences between their views and those of the Government as to the conditions under which the army should serve or should be employed in the aid of civil power, but having issued the memorandum to Brig.-General Gough, they thought this course incumbent upon them. Premier Asquith then added:

"The Government has conveyed to them its wish that as there is no difference of opinion on any ground or policy they should not persist in their request, the carrying out of which the Government would regard as a serious misfortune to both the army and the state. We still are awaiting their final reply.

"These two gallant officers believe that in the circumstances they were justified in believing their action was in accordance with the instructions of the Cabinet, and that they were transmitting those directions to the officers concerned.

"It is clear to us and to them that there has been a misconception — a genuine misconception—in regard to the intention and purport of the proceedings in Ireland, out of which these difficulties have arisen.

"In view of these misconceptions and to obviate the possibility of their recurrence in the future the Army Council has—Field Marshal Sir John French and Lieut.-Gen. Sir John Ewart being present — unanimously determined to issue a new army order."

The Premier continued: "The new order to the army is headed 'Discipline.' It has three articles, which are as follows:—

"'(1) No officer or soldier shall in future be questioned by his superior officers as to what attitude he will adopt or as to his action in the event of his being required to obey orders dependent on future or hypothetical contingencies.

"'(2) An officer or soldier is forbidden in future to ask for assurances as to orders which he may be required to fulfill.

"'(3) It is the duty of every officer and soldier to obey all lawful commands given them through the proper channels, either for safeguarding public property or to support the civil power in the ordinary execution of its duty, or for the protection of the lives and property of the inhabitants in case of a disturbance of the peace.'"

Mr. Asquith continued: "That is an order issued by the Army Council to-day, which has now been approved, and which regulates the conduct and discipline of the army in future."

An Education From a Nickel.

A young girl who lived in Mississippi asked her brother to give her the money to go to college. He told her he could not afford it and, tossing her a nickel, added, "Unless you can go on that."

The plucky girl took the five cent piece and bought some calico, from which she made a bonnet that she sold for 25 cents. With this money she bought more calico and made more bonnets. After she had made several dollars in this way she determined to raise potatoes. She did all the work in the field except the plowing. The venture was a success, and she had enough money to start at school. She did not stop work, however, and it is not surprising that a girl of so much determination was able to borrow enough money to supplement what she made.

She was graduated with honor from the State College For Women, attended a medical school, still earning all her expenses, got her degree and is now a successful practising physician in a large town in the south, and it all began with a nickel.—Youth's Companion.

PARALYSIS AND LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA

The most dreaded results of neglected nervous diseases—Study this chart and the symptoms stated here to learn if you are in danger—DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD will cure you.

To understand paralysis and locomotor ataxia, which is paralysis of the limbs, and their causes, it is well to remember that every movement of the body or its members is due to the contraction of muscle, which can only take place under the influence of nerve force. As this all-important nerve force is created in the nerve centres of the brain and spinal cord, and conducted along wire-like nerve fibres to the various parts of the body, any derangement of the brain, spinal cord or nerve fibres may result in paralysis or loss of the power of movement.

A.—The Cerebrum is the centre of intelligence and thought.

C.—The Medulla Oblongata.

E.—Cauda Equina.

Paralysis, then, is the natural result of all neglected nervous diseases.

If you find yourself nervous and irritable, oversensitive to light, sound and motion, addicted to continual movement or tapping of the fingers, twitching of the muscles, sudden startings and jerkings of the limbs during sleep; if you have nervous headaches or dyspepsia, are unable to sleep or rest, feel downhearted and discouraged, and unfit to fight the battles of life; if your nerves are weak and exhausted, your blood thin and watery, you have every reason to fear paralysis of at least some part of the body, and consequent suffering and helplessness.

Paralysis can always be prevented, and partial paralysis actually cured, by the timely use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The time to begin treatment is when any of the above-mentioned symptoms become apparent. These are indications of a degeneration of the nerve cells, and when nerve force becomes exhausted, paralysis is bound to follow.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

acts on the system in an entirely different way to ordinary medicines. It is neither a stimulant to whip tired nerves to renewed activity, nor a narcotic, or opiate, to deaden the nerves. On the contrary, it is a food cure, which forms new, red corpuscles in the blood and creates new nerve cells. Every day it is bringing back health, strength and vitality to scores and hundreds who have become discouraged through the failure of doctors and other treatments to cure them. Why not get started on the way to health at once by using this great food cure? Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or EDMANSON, BATES & CO., LIMITED, Toronto. Write for booklet on "The Nerves."

FOR RAINY DAYS.

Attach the two together with a wooden toothpick arms and legs and bits of marshmallow for feet. He will stand upright and cause no end of fun.

TO CLEAN WHITE SILK.

An easy way to clean white silk without using gasoline—is to lay it on a sheet of soft white tissue paper, cover it thickly with flour, lay another sheet of tissue paper on top, and roll it all up as tightly as possible. Leave it for a few days, and then take it out and shake it well. Be sure to use white tissue paper and not coloured for wrapping the silk.

NO WEDDING PRESENTS

Sir W. Bennett's Request to His Friends

"It is hoped that wedding presents will not be sent."

This request was appended to the announcement of the forthcoming marriage between Sir William Bennett and Miss Gladys Florence Steward Hartigan, only daughter of the Rev. Allen Steward Hartigan.

Although unusual, it is by no means the first occasion such a request has been made, the same course being adopted by Mr. A. M. Samuel when he was married just after his election as Lord Mayor of Norwich in 1912.

Sir William Bennett, who is a well known surgeon, resides in Mayfair, London. The no-presents request is based upon his opinion that such gifts are an intolerable nuisance, and that he does not want them or desire to tax his friends.

THE HERRING FISHERY

Perils That Await the Newfoundland Fishermen

The west coast herring fishery of Newfoundland, which has an important international bearing, and which formed one of the chief features of the fishery dispute between Britain and America that was under arbitration at The Hague, occupies the months of October, November, December and January in each year, until the prevalence of ice in the St. Lawrence Gulf compels its abandonment, because it is impossible for vessels to risk ingress and egress at Bay of Islands, the chief centre of the industry. By that time midwinter with all its rigors prevails, and from all the bays and harbors on the Labrador coast great quantities of ice, which forms from day to day, are torn off by the off-shore winds and sent careering about the Gulf, they in their turn making other ice, until the whole vast body of water is heavily covered with the floes.

The only ships afloat to-day that can successfully navigate these waters are the Newfoundland sealers, which enter there early in March and pursue their quest for their oily prey until the end of April, by which time spring is returning, and the heat of the sun melts the ice and opens the area to general navigation again. Usually the last of the American herring vessels leave the region about the twentieth of January, but, of course, it depends somewhat on weather conditions and the presence or otherwise of ice.

A chemist in Belgium, by taking the albumen from the residue of malt grains and putting it through a process, is said to have produced a pasty food, claimed to taste like meat, but with three times as much nourishment. The cost of the food is said to be small. Physicians in Brussels have experimented on men with it, and with excellent results.

Care Of Chinese Lillies

As there have been many inquiries concerning the growth of Chinese lilies, the following will be of interest:

The way they care for these lilies in California is very simple, and they are a common house plant. Get a rather shallow bowl, put some pieces of rock or gravel in the bottom, put in your bulbs, and nearly cover with water. Every morning tip the bowl to empty it and pour in fresh water. Don't disturb the roots any more than you are obliged to, and do not use too cold water. Set your lilies in a warm room where the sun can reach them and that is all you have to do.

One spring I had a bowl with just three bulbs of the double variety that had at one time 50 blossoms. It seemed the whole house and was very pretty. As the stalks get all you will have to tie them by putting a soft string around the whole plant.

CLEARING OUT HOME IN SPRING

Did you ever look over your house and wonder what was the matter with it? It is home, of course, and the dearest place in the world, but somehow you recognize that there is something the trouble with the artistic arrangeant of the furnishings. Possibly you have been away for several weeks in an entirely different atmosphere and you look at your own home from an entirely different standpoint, for you have gotten out of the "rut" of seeing the same thing every day, it does not seem to suit you so well as it did.

Possibly you notice for the first time that the vase over in the corner is too heavy for the pedestal on which it stands, or the colour does not harmonize with that of the chair which stands beside it. Other things seem to grate upon your artistic sense and you begin to study into it. If the rooms are furnished as the majority of rooms are, the first real cause of this lack of artistic arrangement will be found in the fact that that there is too much furniture, too many pictures, in short, too much clutter. We are entering an age of simplicity, the pendulum has swung so far toward extravagance in living, in dress, in furnishings that it must needs swing back to the opposite direction and show the beauties of the simple life.

Styles in dress are far simpler than those of a few seasons ago. "Back to the country" is a call that has been heeded by great numbers within the last few years because of the desire for the simple life which is so hard to live amid the activities of the city. Simplicity in home furnishings has kept pace and there has been many a clearing-out time to rid homes of the accumulation of years, articles around which there was a sentiment which made them valuable at the time, but which passed with the years and the articles found not only to detract from the appearance of the rooms but to be much in the way. When one has the courage to smash a few of the once-prized pieces of bric-a-brac, dispense with some of the pieces of furniture which have outlived their usefulness, or, at least their beauty, and are entirely out of tune with the other furnishings, and burn some of the pictures which one would not not want to give a child to play with, because of the detrimental effect they might have on their artistic education, then indeed is there hope of bringing the furnishings of the home where they will be a joy and a delight.

It has been said that "three moves are as good as a fire to clear rubbish out of the house," but neither one is necessary if one will put sentiment aside and go at the work systematically and with a determination to bring artistic furnishings out of chaos. It may be necessary after the clearing out process to purchase some new pieces to take the place of the discarded ones, but the home which has been collecting rubbish for years without systematic clearings every spring and fall cannot be made artistic until all undesirable pieces of furniture have been taken out. Then the few necessary pieces may be carefully and judiciously selected.

As the time for the spring housecleaning approaches it is well to look about and decide whether the furnishings are satisfactory from an artistic standpoint, and, if not, determine whether a discriminate clearing out of every object which does not offer either utility, beauty or comfort would not be the remedy.

Some Notes Of Fashion

PARIS, March 27.—The woman who wants an attractive summer gown that is a bit out of the ordinary, has the approval of such houses as Callot and Cheruit in choosing striped taffetas in white with a narrow thread of dark blue, or dark green or grey.

Callot is showing effective models in these fabrics which are intended for the spring season in Paris and will later be worn by women at fashionable summer resorts.

The idea is one that appeals to many women who do not care to have their best frock for hot weather made of lingerie materials, which need so much care and attention. They want a durable fabric in a light colour, and and these narrowly striped silks answer that demand.

These silks have nothing of the effect of Roman striping, which is so popular at the present hour; they are more like the directoire silks that have been recurrent in the fashions for a century. The especial gown that Callot made, which attracted attention, was of dark green and white silk, the entire effect being light and especially suitable to summer.

This frock had a skirt narrow at the hem, slightly broadening above the knees and with a great deal of extra length in the back, tucked up at the end of the corset to give a bustle effect. The bodice was almost Japanese in its simplicity; it was low and broad shouldered with long slim sleeves that reached to the wrist, and a high plated collar that flared straight out at the back of the neck. Beneath this was a surplice of white batiste.

THAT ROMAN TRIPE.

There is no use in avoiding Roman striping, because there is so much of it on the market. It is admirable in small doses. There are women whose figures allow them to wear whole garments of it. If you have the kind of silhouette that will permit you to sweep a skirt of striped colours, you should ask for the new Roman linen when you are making up cool summer frocks.

Paul Poiret is using it for separate skirts to be worn with jackets, also of linen, but in a solid colour. If the skirt has a strongly defined dark-blue stripe, the jacket will be of dark-blue linen. A woman can utilize this idea with a striped linen skirt and a plain tan or white jacket. As these coats are quite short, and many of them have a beaver tail or postillion back, the combination of the two fabrics and colours, is very effective.

TASK OF CLEANING LACE

Heavy lace is not so difficult to clean as fine lace. To wash it, shave castile or pure white soap into a bowl and cover it with boiling water, enough to dissolve it. Add a little borax—say a teaspoonful to a cake of castile soap. Dilute this paste with hot water to form a thick suds and put the heavy lace in this. Don't rub it between the hands, and handle it very gently, for the threads are often delicate, and easily broken. When it loks clean and of its original colour—some lace, of course, is naturally creamy and should not be whitened—rinse it in several changes of clean, warm water. Then shake out all the moisture possible, but do not wring it dry. Pin it carefully on a board, stretching each point carefully in place. Let it dry in a rom with an open window.

Very fine lace should not be washed, as the fine threads break easily. The safest way to clean this is to put it in a piece of cheesecloth and cover it with powedered magnesia. Tie the cheesecloth in a bag and let it stand for twenty-four hours. If all the soiled places are not clean, put it in more magnesia for another twenty-four hours.

Lace cleaned in either of the methods suggested needs no ironing. But when lace must be ironed, iron it under a piece of cheesecloth, with an iron only moderately hot. A hot iron might scratch it. Scorching, of course, would weaken and break the delicate threads of the lace.

A good way to wash strips of lace is to wrap them around a bottle, which has been wound with a strip of white flannel. When the end of the lace is reached, sew it neatly and firmly so that it will not unwind. Make a later of soap paste, like that for heavy lace, and dip the bottle, flannel and lace attached, into it. Pat the lace with the finger tips until it is clean. Rinse it thoroughly in clear water and then unwind it. Pin it on a board to dry.

Remember that the best way to insure long life to lace is to expose it constantly to light and air. Dust and dampness rot the threads of the lace and so make it break, but light and air help to keep it in a strong condition.

CAULIFLOWER WITH TOMATO SAUCE.

Boil a white cauliflower for 10 minutes in fresh water; drain and boil until tender in salted water. Put in to a vegetable dish, flowed side up, rug thoroughly with butter, then sprinkle with salt and pepper. Last of all pour over the cauliflower a pint of tomato sauce.

WHOLE BODY A SOLID RASH

Thick, Fine and Red. Agony of Itching and Burning Frightful. One Cake of Cuticura Soap and Box of Cuticura Ointment Cured.

Lower Onslow, N. S.—"As first we thought my child's trouble was his teeth. The whole body was a solid rash and at the arm pits and elbows and thighs the skin came off as if he had been scalded. It was a very thick fine rash, red in color and intensely itchy and burning. The skin just wiped off leaving a raw sore with little specks of yellow matter in them. The skin on every finger split down on each side and looked like a ruffle. His toes broke out in little yellow pimples and the bottom of his feet did the same and he would say he could not walk, that there were pins sticking in his feet.

"The agony of itching and burning was something frightful. If he got a chance he would scratch the skin right off and make a sore, but to prevent that I made mittens for him out of cotton. Every night from twelve o'clock until three in the morning he would have to be taken up out of bed and rocked, his sufferings were so bad.

"With no permanent cure in sight I got the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The first night the child slept the whole night through, the first night for four months. I am thankful to say the cure was complete and I just got one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Samuel Higgins, May 17, 1913.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold everywhere. For liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

When You Eat Capsicum

When is a pepper not a pepper? If you are a botanist you know that our green or red peppers are not peppers at all but varieties of the capsicum plant, and that it is only the black pepper of every day use that is really a pepper. However, for all practical purposes the sweet green pepper is what you want, and according to the announcement of the Department of Agriculture this delicious vegetable is not as widely known as it deserves to be.

Be Sure They Are Sweet.

The most important injunction to the cook or housewife who is going to use green peppers is to make sure that the peppers are sweet, for the best of grocers will make mistakes and send the hot variety when sweet peppers are ordered. So make a rule always to take a small taste of every pepper before preparing it for the table. When you are sure of their sweetness remove the stems and the tough fibre and all the seeds. Then if you are going to make a cooked dish of the peppers parboil them for four or five minutes before using.

Stuffed Peppers.

In stuffing peppers you may either cut a slice from the stem end of the peppers and stuff from the top, or you may slice the peppers in two and fill each half and then close. Either way is good.

Fish Dressing.

A good fish dressing may be made from any cold cooked fish. It should be picked off from the bones and skin and minced with a little white sauce seasoned with salt and pepper. Stuff the peppers with the mixture, sprinkle over with breadcrumbs and brown in a quick oven.

With Ham.

Here is a rule that calls for quarter of a cupful of finely chopped, cooked ham. This should be put in a saucepan with two teaspoonfuls of butter, four finely chopped shallots or a little onion and cooked gently for ten minutes. Two teaspoonfuls of flour should then be sprinkled over the ham, and after this has been mixed in a cupful of flavoured soup stock should be added. To this mixture should be added one chopped green pepper, chopped parsley, two or three chopped raw sausages, and, if desired, eight canned mushrooms chopped fine. When this is mixed, and cooked for five or six minutes longer it should be taken from the fire and added to a quarter of a cupful of breadcrumbs. Stuff it into the peppers, add a small piece of butter to the top of each, and bake in a hot oven for about a quarter of an hour.

Bacon and Peppers.

Select firm, large sweet green peppers. Wash them and remove all the seeds. Cut in rings and lay in ice water to which has been added a pinch of salt, and set away for one hour. Now fry a dish of bacon, saving the drippings. Remove the peppers from the water, dry thoroughly on a clean towel, and fry in the bacon drippings. Serve the fried pepper in a circle as border to a dish of bacon.

Pepper Salad.

Green peppers suggest themselves in all sorts of guises in salads. Their crispness of flavour and their decorative use give them high value. They may be used either in shreds or in rings, and to cut them to best advantage a vegetable shredder is useful. They can be used with lettuce alone or in combination with nuts, cheese or fruits. A particularly effective salad is made by placing a section of a grape fruit, then a strip of pepper and then a section of orange on a lettuce leaf. Chopped pepper and celery mixed with mayonnaise is a toothsome combination for a light salad.

WORTH REMEMBERING

If you have not cream to whip, use a banana with the white of an egg. Beat up till stiff and you will have a delicious substitute for whipped cream.

Wash tarnished brass in water in which potatoes have been boiled.

Grease spots on wall paper may be removed by applying powdered magnesia.

Tomatoes with centres taken out and filled with chopped pineapple, celery and walnuts, covered with mayonnaise dressing, make a delicious and dainty-looking salad.

To prevent milk from scorching, rinse the saucepan with cold water before pouring in the milk.

If you wish laundered lace to look nice, iron it while quite damp, with cheesecloth over it.

Remove rust from steel by covering with sweet oil for a few days, then rub with a lump of fresh lime and polish in the ordinary manner.

BOTTLES IN SHOES.

In packing a trunk always place bottles inside your shoes and you will seldom, if ever, have an accident. The idea is that the stiffness of the shoes will protect the bottle, and even, if contents should be spilled the shoe will probably sustain less damage than might articles of clothing. Tie a cloth over the cork to hold, and then wrap the bottle in plenty of tissue paper to keep it in place in the shoe.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

SISTERLY ADVICE

"You women certainly are the limit!" said the very young man to his married sister. There were disdain, commiseration, and suffering in his tone.

"Now, see here, Johnny," began his married sister.

"Don't call me that!" he protested. "Can't you realize that I'm growu up?"

"Usually not," declared his married sister promptly. "You've got to show me! And just now I am more than ever impressed with your general juvenile effect—if you persist in your insane notion that you're going to marry that girl."

"There you go!" ried the very young man. "It isn't what you say, but the way you say it. I'd rather hear most people call name than hear you say 'that girl'! I don't see why you should go out of your way to slam Jessie Binks—she's the prettiest thing that ever stepped, and you're just plain jealous, that's all! I know you women! Why, her eyes——"

"Oh, I know all about her eyes!" declared his married sister with some weariness. "There have been eyes in the world before, Johnny; in fact, I sailed through several years of popularity on mine. Possibly you never noted my curling lashes! You were playing marbles at the time they were reading sensations.

"Did you ever stop to think," went on Johnny's sister, "that you might get tired of seeing that cunning little trick of Jessie's three hundred and sixty-five breakfasts a year—I refer to her habit of ducking her head and peering up through her lashes as though she were concealed behind a pile of brushwood? She——"

"You're just jealous!" persisted the very young man. "I never saw anything curl the way her hair does around her ears——"

"Electric curling iron," pronounced his married sister ruthlessly. "Maybe after she had you safely married she'd even put 'em up on her curlers. Dit you ever see a lovely woman with her hair done up on kid curlers, Johnny? I thought not—there are many awful sights your sheltered life has spared you! You know she paints, of course."

The very young man gave a good imitation of apoplexy. "Well, of all the atty things!" he finally gasped. "Just because she has a glorious complexion you have to——"

"My child," his sister interrupted, with great firmness, "you are even worse than I supposed! I had no idea your trusting innocence extended so far! Jessie Binks rouges her cheeks and the tips of her ears and pencils her brow and put red on her lips and buys enough powder to do the family baking every week if it were flour! And then you—oh, dear, Johnny—I'm glad I nabbed you when I did! Of course, it's no crime, because most women paint these days, only I won't have her putting over that nature's own colouring on you! Just you get her in a good strong light the next time you are out and notice! Can she cook?"

"How do I know?" growled her brother indignantly. "Do you suppose I call on a young woman and gurgle 'Good evening! Can you bake pies?'"

"Even so, it would be better than to install a little fairy in your home who thinks meals walk out to the table by themselves. How is Jessie Binks going to keep house for you wearing a rose colour crepe de Chine negligee that costs $50 -I saw her in one the other day. You can afford only about one-half of one per cent. of a maid at your present salary, you know! Imagine Jessie scrubbing the kitchen sink——"

"Here!" howled the very young man. "Do you think I am going to make a slave of my wife? Why, she has wonderfully economical ideas! You ought to see the blouse she made out of an old evening dress! It was fine!"

"The evening dress cost $95 to begin with," said his married sister, cruelly. "And I wouldn't have worn the blouse to market in! The stitches were an inch long! Her mother darns all her stockings and washes out all her lace dewdads because Jessie doesn't like to spoil her manicure! Her father slaves himself to death and her mother goes without clothes just keep peace in the family when Jessie demands new dresses. Oh, I hear all these things! And she has a temper. She——"

"I won't hear another word," said the very young man, firmly. "I won't hear you malign a sweet, pretty little creature, with a face like an angel's. Why, her voice is like music! I——"

"Run along," said his married sister, abruptly. "I suppose your character needs the chastisement and development it's going to get! She's too knowing to have you, anyway. So don't come around later to weep on my shoulder!"

"Anyhow," remarked the very young man, in a more subdued tone, "we aren't really engaged yet!"

Weary Sufferers Welcome

Dr. Stohr's Kephaldol
Pronounced Keph-al-dole

THE GREAT UNFAILING PAIN RELIEVER

In all cases of NEURALGIA, NEURITIS, SCIATICA, GOUT, RHEUMATISM, etc., especially in acute form where maddening pain makes life almost unbearable, KEPHALDOL offers that which will evoke heartfelt gratitude—relief, prompt and certain, with speedy cure ahead.

KEPHALDOL is no injurious drug, no charlatan nostrum—thousands of medical men all over the world, including all representing the clinical opinion of Vienna (to which City belongs Dr. Stohr, KEPHALDOL'S famous discoverer) have pronounced this remedy to be a means not merely of alleviating, but of stopping pain without risk of injury to the heart or other organ of the body.

MRS. A. E. TURNER, 82a, Willoughby Street, New Lenton, Nottingham, writes:—

"I must say Kephaldol seems to charm away the pain like nothing else does. I have tried a great many things for Rheumatism, but Kephaldol eases the pain quicker than anything I have ever had."

MR. LAWRENCE WINDLEY, Cranleigh, Dane Road, Luton, Eng., sends the following letter;—

"I had rheumatism in my leg, and had to go about with the aid of a stick. I took two Kephaldol tablets at 10 a.m., and by eleven all trace of pain had disappeared and I have not had it from that day to this. All you say of Kephaldol is true. It is a pain killer. The remaining tablets I gave to a friend suffering with acute Neuralgia, and they have positively cured him."

A letter from MRS. BEATRICE COSSEY, Brookfield, Eng., is worth repeating:—

"My experience of Kephaldol as a pain killer is absolutely marvellous. I had a fearfully acute attack last year of Neuritis, Sciatica, and Lumbago, and it did wonders for me. I shall always feel most grateful for what it has done, and I am most happy to let others know of its wonderful effects as a pain destroyer."

Germany's Champion Father Has Twenty-Six Children.

BERLIN, March 28.—Ferdinand Eglinski, aged 53, a tailor in the village of Ahlbeck on the Baltic, claims to be Germany's champion father. Yesterday's Tageblatt, publishing the story of his life, relates that his successive marriages with two sisters resulted in the birth of thirty-five children, twenty-six of whom are still living, nineteen boys and seven girls. Last year six of Eglinski's sons were serving simultaneously in the army.

On the occasion of the entry of the sixth son into the army in 1912 Eglinski received a private audience with the Kaiser, who ordered him to be entertained in Berlin at His Majesty's expense for a week. After pressing a fifty-mark note in Eglinski's hand, the Kaiser clapped him on the shoulder and said: "Just keep up the good work, Eglinski." Crackling his heels, standing at salute, the principal check on Germany's declining birth rate replied: "At your service, your Majesty."

The Real Cause of Most Bad Complexions

(From Family Physician)

It is a stern fact that no truly beautiful complexion ever came out of jars or bottles, and the longer one pores on the question the worse the complexion becomes. Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It also must expel, through the pores, its share of the body's effete material. Creams and powders clog the pores, interfering both with elimination and breathing. If more women understood this, there would be fewer self-ruined complexions. If they would use ordinary mercolised wax instead of cosmetics, they would have natural, healthy complexions. This remarkable substance actually absorbs a bad skin, also unclogging the pores. Result: The fresher, younger under-skin is permitted to breathe and so show itself. An exquisite new complexion gradually peeps out, one free from any appearance of artificiality. Get an ounce of mercolised wax at your druggist's and try it. Apply nightly like cold cream, for a week or so, washing it off mornings.

To eradicate wrinkles, here's a marvelously effective treatment which also acts naturally and harmlessly: Dissolve 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel and use as a wash lotion.

WILSON WINS DAY

Result of First Battle in Toll Repeal is Personal Triumph

PASSAGE IS NOW ASSURED

WASHINGTON, March 28.—President Wilson yesterday won the opening skirmish of the greatest legislative battle of his administration when the House, over bitter protests from the recognized Democratic leaders, and almost solid minority opposition, adopted a special rule for the consideration of the bill repealing the free tolls provision of the Panama Canal Act. Speaker Clark, Democratic Leader Underwood, Republican Leader Mann and Progressive Leader Murdock were at the head of those lined up against the administration, but the House responded to the President's personal appeal for prompt consideration of the repeal bill as a means of supporting his administration's foreign policy.

Two votes demonstrated the President's commanding influence with his party in Congress. On the first test, a motion to end debate and preclude amendment on the rule carried by a vote of 207 to 176; the rule itself was adopted 209 to 173.

Nothing to compare with the scenes yesterday had occurred in the House since the famous "Cannon rules fight" four years ago. In vain Representative Underwood took the floor of the House and urged his colleagues to vote against the rule. The rank and file Democrats, after listening to three hours of passionate argument, swung into the President's column, 195 of them voting to prevent the amendment of the special rule, while but 55 followed the leaders in joining with the minority in opposition.

When the debate closed and the dreading voice of the clerk had called the roll in tense stillness, the Democratic House leaders had been repudiated, and the President's appeal answered.

To-day administration supporters consider the crucial point passed, and jubilantly predicted the passage of the repeal bill itself Tuesday or Wednesday by a majority of more than one hundred.

Final Brief In Thaw Case.

CONCORD, N.H., March 28. — The final brief on behalf of Harry K. Thaw, on his petition for a writ of habeas corpus and for admission to bail pending a decision on the matter of extradition, were filed in the U. S. District Court by counsel yesterday. The brief concludes:

"The purpose of the State of New York being to return Thaw to Matteawan, it is making a misuse of the extradition laws to accomplish its end. We confidently assert that upon the facts and authorities, Thaw should be discharged."

Sure It Was Krafchenko.

MORDEN, Man., March 28.—Practically the whole of yesterday's hearing of the case against John Krafchenko, charged with murder and robbery, was taken up by the cross-examination of William Dyck, the livery-man who said he drove Krafchenko. Dyck remained unshaken in the face of cross-examination and insisted that the passenger in question was Krafchenko.

Militants Burn Fine Home.

BELFAST, Ireland, March 28. — A militant suffragette "arson squad" is believed to have been responsible for the destruction by fire early yesterday morning of Abbeylands, a splendid country seat on Belfast Lough.

WEALTH OF HAIR

Parisian Sage Makes Thin, Lifeless Hair Soft and Abundant.

Beautiful hair, fluffy, lustrous, a abundant and free from dandruff, is one of woman's greatest charms—it's her main delight—yet so many of the fair sex who would be most attractive but for their stranded, thin and lifeless hair, go on thinking there is no remedy. Quickly put aside such thoughts. Beautiful hair is largely a matter of a little care and attention. Parisian Sage rubbed into the scalp and applied to the hair with a sponge or cloth will work wonders. Do it daily for a week then occasionally, and you will be surprised and delighted with the result—not only will the hair become abundant, soft, fluffy, radiant with life, but really doubly beautiful.

Parisian Sage supplies hair and scalp needs. It surely removes dandruff with one application and cleanses the hair of all dirt and excessive oil. It is not sticky or greasy, is delicately perfumed, and contains nothing to injure the hair or scalp. At drug and toilet counters sell it in fifty cent bottles. Look for the trade mark—"The Girl with the Auburn Hair."

Delighted users pronounce Parisian Sage the best, most pleasant and invigorating hair tonic made. Try at least one bottle. Warne Drug Co. will refund the money if you are not satisfied.

DEBATE GOES ON.

Discussion on N. T. R. Report To Be Continued Next Week.

OTTAWA, March 28.—The House occupied another sitting with the debate upon the National Transcontinental, and speeches were delivered by J. E. Armstrong (Con., E. Lambton), Mr. Kyte (Lib., Richmond N.S.), Mr. Davidson (Con., Annapolis), and Mr. Turgeon (Lib., Gloucester, N.B.)

Mr. Armstrong repudiated the doctrine advanced by Mr. Graham that the cost of all public works exceeded the estimates. Only yesterday Hon. Adam Beck, speaking in behalf of the great Ontario Hydro-radial deputation, had told the Government that $22,000,000 had been expended in developing the Hydro-electric policy in Ontario, and every expenditure had been within and below the estimated cost. A Government could get work done as cheaply and as efficiently as a private corporation if it was the right kind of Government.

Mr. Kyte read an article which appeared some time ago in The Winnipeg Telegram in criticism of Major Leonard, the present chairman of the National Transcontinental Commission. If the Minister of Public Works, he said, allowed his newspaper thus savagely to attack the chairman how could the people of the country retain confidence in him?

Mr. Davidson suggested that the blockade of the naval bill at the last session was designed to force a general election in which the Liberals would have been financed by the N. T. R. contractors in the hope of heading off the report of Messrs. Gutelius and Lynch-Staunton.

The debate will continue next week.

Chopped While House Burned.

HAVELOCK, March 28—W. Teal's residence at Cordova was totally destroyed by fire together with nearly all the contents. Teal was chopping wood in the yard and his wife and children were in the kitchen, when a neighbor passing by saw smoke issuing from the roof. He told Teal that his house must be on fire, but he went on chopping, saying he guessed not. In a few minutes, however, he found out that the main part of the house was a mass of flames. He carried no insurance.

NEGLECT THE CARE OF YOUR SCALP AND YOUR HAIR WILL BECOME A DISGRACE

HERPICIDE

The hair is more exposed and hence more liable to accumulate dust and dirt than any other portion of the body.

In spite of this the hair receives, as a rule, the least attention and no real effort is made to keep it healthy.

If the dandruff germ is allowed to work unmolested and the scalp becomes crusted with dirt accumulations, one may expect the hair to die and fall out. There is no cause for surprise in this phenomenon; it is natural and happens in every instance where the care of the hair and scalp is overlooked.

The one sure remedy which prevents the loss of hair and permits a healthy, luxuriant growth is found in Newbro's Herpicide.

The dandruff cannot remain on a head to which Herpicide is regularly applied. The hair ceases to fall. The terrible itching stops almost instantly.

That is what Newbro's Herpicide does.

Newpro's Herpicide in 50c. and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Send 10c. in stamps for booklet and sample to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

NEW COALITION URGED.

Lloyd George Urges Advisor Liberals and Laborites to Combine.

TORONTO, March 28.—The Weekly Nation, which may be regarded as the organ of Chancellor David Lloyd George's section of the Cabinet, in its issue yesterday attacks Col. Seely with great bitterness. It declares that when he left the Unionist ranks he took his old mental furniture with him and never really became a Liberal. It adds that it was a great mistake to put him into the War Office.

The Nation suggests that a man of harder muscle — like John Burns, President of the Board of Agriculture—is needed to cope with the present situation in the army. The newspaper declares that a wave of determination to put the army in its place and restore the threatened authority of Parliament has swept through the country, and adds: "If the Government will lead, well and good; if not, other champions will arise."

The proposition is then advanced by The Nation that the Liberal party should strike a bargain by ensuring the Labor party a hundred seats in the next Parliament. The Liberal leaders heretofore always have declined to bind themselves to the Labor party in this manner, but if The Nation's suggestion is adopted as an outcome of the cry of the army versus Parliament it is not improbable, as the Radical newspapers claim, that the new coalition would sweep the country.

It is said that a large section of the Unionist party realize this danger and therefore are anxious to reach a settlement of the Home Rule question by consent.

Six Seamen Safe.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Six shipwrecked seamen, part of the crew of the American schooner Julia A. Trubee, abandoned at sea March 7, arrived here from Liverpool yesterday aboard the Lusitania. The Julia A. Trubee left Perth Amboy for Pointe a Pitre Feb. 27. After passing through a terrific storm she was abandoned.

REPUBLICANS BUSY?

Anti-Royalist Agitation Brewing In British Says Paper.

LONDON, March 28.—A correspondent of The Financial News states that city circles, which are usually well informed, believe that Premier Asquith's stern repudiation of republican manifestations in the House of Commons is not merely the official utterances of the Premier, but are profoundly and personally inspired. It is beginning to be surmised that there is on foot an effort to secure a recrudescence of the republicanism rife of forty years ago. The idea is that King George has not acquired supreme personal dominance of his grandmother, nor the unbounded personal power of his father. It is conjectured that while King George is comparatively young on the throne, there is a chance to effect a coup d'etat, placing at the head of affairs a president, whose identity well informed people can guess. He would be assisted by a vice-president, whose essential qualifications would be coarse language and coarser actions. The writer admits that these conjectures need not cause anxiety, though he thinks it is worth while to know the kind of joints that are cooking in the political pots.

HAS HAD A BAD YEAR.

Diamond Mining Company Cuts Dividend to 2,500 Per Cent.

BERLIN, March 28.—The Colonial Diamond Mining Co. of German Southwest Africa is possibly the world's biggest dividend payer. It has "reduced" its 1913 dividend by 1,300 to 2,500 per cent., having paid 3,800 for 1912. In 1910 2,400 per cent. was paid, and 2,500 in 1911.

The company's capital is only $2,500. Its managing director and chief shareholder has once an humble railway official named Sutsch. He will soon be made chairman of the German Imperial Diamond Administration.

Hindu Out On Bail.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—Har Dyal, the Hindu radical, who was arrested Wednesday night by immigration officials as an undesirable alien, was released yesterday on $1,000 bonds. Over two hundred Hindus accompanied Dyal to the pier, where he boarded the Government tug for the Angel Island immigration station. Dyal's arrest is said to have followed a country-wide investigation into the actions of Hindus in the United States who are suspected of fomenting sedition against the British Government in India.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally if you eat meat regularly

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorde come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache the kidneys or your back hurts, or the urine is cloudy, offensive, full sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Corn trade expanded to huge proportions today and the market after violent changes wound up at an advance of 1-4 to 5-8c net. A BELLICOSE LODGE.

Orangemen Wanted to Hire Barrie Officer To Drill Them.

BARRIE, March 28.—An incident illustrating the interest some of the country Orange lodges are taking in the Ulster affair occurred in the north end of Simcoe county recently. One of the smaller country lodges made a proposal to an officer of the 35th Regiment that he should come out and train the Orangemen of that lodge so many nights a week, offering to pay him whatever price he asked for the work. The officer, however, promptly declined to interfere in a matter of this kind.

HIS TWIN BROTHER TOLD HIM THE CURE

Why J. C. Mapp Praises Dodd's Kidney Pills.

He Suffered from Kidney Disease, Lumbago and Rheumatism for Five Years — Now he is a Well Man Again.

Boileau P. O., Ponsonby, Que., March 27.—(Special.)—J. C. Mapp, a well-known farmer living near here, who suffered from Kidney Disease for five years, is once more a well man, and in a statement given to the press he gives all the credit for his cure to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My trouble started with a cold about five years ago," Mr. Mapp states, "and developed into lumbago and rheumatism. I had a bitter taste in my mouth in the mornings and I was terribly nervous. I was depressed and low spirited and found it difficult to collect my thoughts, while at times I was troubled with stiffness in the joints. My appetite was fitful, and I had heart flutterings that added to my fears. My twin brother, who had used Dodd's Kidney Pills and got great benefit from them, advised me to use them. The first two boxes did me so much good that I got two more, and they completed my cure. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the right remedy for kidney trouble."

Every person who has two or more of Mr. Mapp's symptoms has sick Kidneys. The right remedy for sick Kidneys is Dodd's Kidney Pills. If you don't know it out of your own experience, ask your neighbours.

LOOKS LIKE 26 MILL RATE

But Council May Hold It to 25 Mills If Board of Education Can Reduce Its Demand

ALD. ANDERSON'S REPORT

Finance Minister Anderson told the Council last night that a 26 mill tax rate for the present year was apparently inevitable.

The total of a rough estimate left about $40 short of the advanced rate of $10,196 over the 25 mill rate which the Council has by no means abandoned.

Ald. Anderson's report, on the face of it, left but little room for hope, but the City Fathers claim that Pandora left them her last treasure. The Council is in that frame of mind where it will stop at nothing to secure the desired reduction of last year's rate.

It was pointed out that some of the appropriations could be materially chiselled yet, but it is in the reduction of several outside demands that the Council looks for assistance.

They decided to ask the Board of Education to do their utmost to cut $3,000 from their demand, and the Police Commissioners are expected to help to the extent of turning back $1,000 of its appropriation.

In other words the Council is backed against the 25 mill wall, and there must be help forthcoming if the ratepayers are to retain the 25 mill rate of a year ago.

Four thousand dollars would be almost half the battle. The rest of the ng could be pruned from some of Council's expense channels, and possibly a little higher assessment here and there would also help.

Will Ask For Help.

At the conclusion of a lengthy budget debate Ald. Stratton moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus, that Mayor Butler and Ald. Anderson meet the Board of Education and Police Commissioners and request that they make the above reductions in their demands.

It was Ald. Gordon who suggested that there might be a good chance of finding a way back to the 25 mill rate. He pointed out that the Council did not spend all the City's money and therefore there must be assistance from the other civic spending bodies. Ald. Gordon felt that in this case the Board of Education should should make an effrt to do with a little less than what they asked, and possibly the Board of Police Commissioners could help in the same direction. In any case there was nothing like trying. It would ascertain whether the Council would have any assistance in trying to keep the tax rate at the desired figure.

Mayor Has Hope.

Several of the aldermen expressed their doubts that help would be forthcoming. Mayor Buller stated that there was nothing like putting the matter nicely before the several Boards. As a result action on the budget was deferred until the proposed conferences have been held. It might be added that a $2,000 reduction from a quarter mentioned by Ald. Johnston may materialise before the April meeting.

Some of the Items.

	1914	1913
Assessment and taxes	$ 3,400	$ 3,400
Admin. of Justice	6,300	6,300
Charity and indigents	6,000
Elections and by-laws	700	1,000
Fire Department	17,200	16,800
Health	2,000	2,000
Heating	500	500
Mantry Committee	1,500	1,500
Interest	1,000	1,000
Law and legislation	1,800	1,800
Market	100	100
Municipal government	5,000	5,000
Stationery, etc.	600	100
Public Library	4,000	4,000
Queen Mary Hospital	5,200	5,200

Water Commissioners	8,500	8,500
Lost on taxes	2,000	2,000
Voters' lists	625	750

The Charity Grant.

The charity item shows a big increase over last year, but $4,000 of the amount is for the cost of indigent patients at the hospital.

The Fire Department.

In the discussion before the total was arrived at and the whole problem presented to the Committee of the Whole, there were discussions on several of the appropriations.

For instance, Ald. Gordon and Ald. Stratton moved that the allowance for the Fire Department be $16,800, but this with other items was laid over. The feeling is that there is not much use in trying to put the lid on unless there will be material assistance from outside quarters.

The two aldermen claimed that there was nothing to be gained by a piecayune policy in providing for the fire department. Mayor Buller claimed that the people were opposed to further expenditure in this direction

Ald. Gordon remarked that the brigade had done good work with the equipment it had, but for years it has not been as well equipped as it should be.

While the debate was at its height, Ald. Anderson said there was nothing to be gained by squabbling over $200. It was neither here nor there as far as affecting the rate was concerned. Hence it was left over until the outcome of the conference has been received.

ACCIDENT AT BOAT RACE

Examiner Special.

LONDON, Eng., March 28.—Fourteen persons were seriously injured, some fatally and a hundred others narrowly escaped drowning when a large platform on the Thames river collapsed during the rowing of the Cambridge-Oxford boat races. Some fell to the bottom of the large barge, others into the river. The wildest panic reigned for a few minutes, but there was quick recovery and many lives saved by the courage and presence of mind of the rescuers.

WILL BE CASHED

Lord Strathcona's Cheques For C. P. R. Director's Fees Amount to Around Fifty Thousand Dollars

KEPT AS SOUVENIRS

MONTREAL, Que., March 27.—Lord Strathcona always boasted that he never had cashed in a cent from the C. P. R. in the shape of director's fees. After his death a number of cheques, amounting to around $50,000 and covering his 32 years' directorship were found among his private papers. They represented the usual payments to him as director, and had not been cashed. As the cheques were received by Lord Strathcona they were filed away with out endorsement. The executors have now notified the Company that these cheques drawn upon it are held by the estate and a formal claim has been filed.

Lord Strathcona was a director of the C.P.R. from its inception in 1881 to his death. Doctors fees for a time were $1,000 a year, but latterly they have been $2,000. The estate, it is estimated, will collect from $40,000 to $50,000 from the uncashed cheques which Lord Strathcona kept as souvenirs.

Judge Huycke Will Lecture

His Honour Judge Huycke will give an interesting lecture under the auspices of the Women's Art Association in their studio in the Public Library building on Thursday, April 2, at 8 o'clock. His subject will be "An Old Poem Made New." Members and their friends are cordially invited to be present.

CANON DAVIDSON INVITED TO GIVE NOON-DAY ADDRESS

Rev. Canon Davidson has accepted the long standing invitation to give addresses at the noon-day services at St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, beginning next Monday. These services were originated by Rev. Canon Dumoulin, well-known throughout Canada, when he was rector of the Cathedral.

The invitation to Canon Davidson to deliver these noon-day addresses is a distinct honour, and recognition of his past services. He has been similarly engaged in the past. A few years ago he delivered similar Lenten addresses in St. Louis, Missouri, and Buffalo, N.Y., and was one of the missioners at the Toronto General Mission.

PETERBOROUGH DOCTOR PERFORMED OPERATION

On Tuesday of this week Dr. Crawford underwent an operation for appendicitis. The Doctor suffered an attack while he was in New York, and the trouble has recurred a number of times since he returned home. It was decided that an operation was the only remedy.

Drs. McClelland and Moir of Peterborough performed the operation, which appears to have been entirely successful. Since coming to Marmora Dr. Crawford has made many friends who will hope for his speedy and complete recovery.—Marmora Herald.

SPOTTERS ARE DISCREDITED

Two "Detectives" Who Were Mixed Up in Norwood Case Are Censured by Guelph Magistrate.

EVIDENCE UNRELIABLE

The following despatch from Guelph will be read with interest here. Armstrong and Solomon, the two "spotters" mentioned were the chief witnesses against Mr. King of Norwood in a similar case some months ago and their testimony was discredited upon that occasion:

GUELPH, March 27.—A matter in which more than ordinary interest was displayed was heard at the courthouse here today before Judge Chadwick. It comprised two cases entered as appeals from the decision of a magistrate in a liquor case tried recently at Elora. The first was an appeal against the conviction of Harry Hastings of Elora, charged with selling liquor during prohibited hours. The second appeal was that of Inspector Graves against the dismissal of Hastings on another similar charge, the date of this alleged infraction of the law being on the 9th of March.

The chief witnesses were Henry Solomon and Frank Armstrong, two Government "spotters" who told of having secured liquor from the defendant on Sunday, Feb. 8th. A number of other witnesses were heard on both sides, after which Judge Chadwick gave his decision in favour of Hastings, reversing the judgment of the magistrate, who had ordered Hastings to pay a fine of $10 and costs. The two Government "spotters" were severely censured by the judge and characterized as unreliable witnesses. Mr. Mical Jeffrey appeared as counsel for Hastings, and judgment was given without hearing his address.

New Allan Liner Delayed

Examiner Special:

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 28.—This was the date originally fixed for the sailing of the new steamship Calgarian of the Allan Line on her maiden trip to America, but owing to the fact that some delay has been experienced in putting the finishes touches to the vessel it has been found necessary to defer her departur for several weeks. The Calgarian is a sister ship of the Alsatian and will be placed in service between Liverpool and Montreal.

WILL ENCOURAGE ELECTRIC SIGNS

Council Decides to Amend the Present By-Law—Will Mean Better Signs

BIG ONE FOR HUNTER ST.

The Council proposes to lift the lid on the electric sign by-law, to permit and encourage the erection of larger and better signs on the main streets. Messrs. Hourigan and McLean of the Scotland Woollen Mills Co., who have opened for business in the store formerly occupied by James R. Bell, Hunter street, applied to the Council for permission to erect the big sign that has stood in front of the Yonge street Arcade, Toronto. It is the figure of a man, and its nine feet in width is too much for the present by-law.

Ald. Johnston suggested that the by-law be amended.

Ald. Langford—There are no restrictions in Hamilton or Toronto.

Ald. Gordon—They look like it when you see their streets.

Ald. Duncan—There are 460 lights to this sign.

Ald. Duffus said that local merchants had been refused a similar request. In order that everyone should receive the same treatment he favoured the amending of the by-law.

Moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that the City Engineer be asked to report on the above request. In the meantime the amendment will also be made ready.

F. W MILLER GETS POSITION AT $700

Will Act as City Relief Officer and Investigate Indigent Patients' Claims—Means Great Deal of Work.

ASSIST MR. SPENCE

Mr. F. W. Miller's duties in connection with the Charity Board have increased to such an extent that the Committee of the Whole Council last night approved a recommendation from the Property Committee that his salary be made $700 a year, and that he devote all his time to City work. Mr. Miller will resign his position as Immigration Officer for this purpose. The investigation of the financial circumstances of those who enter the local hospitals as indigent patients has created a great deal of work for Mr. Miller.

Ald. Langford reported that Mr. Miller would have an office in the City buildings, and would assist Mr. Spence when possible. The arrangement means a mutual understanding between these two officials and the Council felt that both would do their best to promote the smooth working of the two departments. A by-law will be presented at the next meeting of the Council defining Mr. Miller's duties.

DUKE OF CONNATGHT HERE JUNE FIRST

His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General, has notified the Council through his private secretary, that he will visit Peterborough on Monday, June 1.

"This looks like a big thing," said the Mayor.

"It means another mill," remarked Alderman Duncan.

Alderman Anderson would not hear of a reception paid for by subscription as suggested by the Mayor. The Council intends to provide a splendid reception, but will delay its plans until further details are received. The Governor-General will make a tour of the Province.

COUNCIL TO TORONTO

Will Go In a Body to Support Hydro Bill in The Legislature—Need Full Strength

LIKELY NEXT THURSDAY

It is likely that the whole Council or as many of the Aldermen as can get away, will go to Toronto when the Hydro-Electric question comes up in the Legislature in connection with the City's private bill. It was suggested that a strong stand should be made and it was in the interest of the City that all the City Fathers should go if they can get away.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Anderson, that the whole Council go, and the motion carried unanimously.

MAJOR HAY IS IN THE CITY TO CONDUCT SERVICES

Major Hay, Superintendent of the Men's Social Work of the Salvation Army in Montreal, is in the City for the purpose of conducting the services of the Salvation Army in Peterborough, during the week-end.

The Social Department of the Salvation Army in Montreal, maintains two institutions, one accommodating 300 men and the other about 70. The former is known as the Metropole, where cheap food and lodgings for the out-of-works are provided, and is the headquarters of the social work, and for the winter and Christmas relief department. The latter is a smaller institution and is known as the industrial department, where temporary employment is provided. Here are engaged squads of tailors, boot makers, etc. Some of these workmen come from the penitentiary, and the social department gets hold of them and find that they have a new man with a new resolution. He is encouraged in his ideas, and is given temporary work in the institution.

Major Hay will speak at the public meeting to-night. To-morrow he will take as one of his subjects, "The Eastern Hold-Up."

In the morning his subject will be, "The Triumph of Devotion."

In the afternoon he will lecture on the work of the department of which he is the Superintendent, to which the title of "Derelicts of Society," is given, and in the evening he will speak on "David's Ghost."

The meetings should appeal to the public of Peterborough, as they will be of a very interesting character, coming as they will, from an officer who has had many years of experience in Salvation Army work.

In Montreal, says Major Hay, this winter has been one of the worst and hardest with which they have had to contend for a long time. Relief has been given to over 600 families, accounting for an expenditure of $7,000. A free labour bureau is one of the features of the work in Montreal, and that was the means of providing permanent employment for 5,928 men last year.

Major Hay has been appointed delegate to attend the International Congress which will be held in London in June, and which will be attended by the local band. Major Hay attended the Congress ten years ago, when he was connected with the social work in Vancouver.

Lindsay Citizen Does Not Like The Peterborough Mud

A Lindsay citizen who spent Thursday last in Peterborough, stated that the streets in the latter city were veritable quagmires. The lights, he said were not to be compared with the Kent Street magnetites and he only saw about fifty yards of street pavement. There may be reasons unknown to any why Peterborough presented such an awful appearance on that day to Lindsay's honoured citizen, who always looked upon the electric city as a model place in all respects.

Special Prayers in English Churches To-morrow for God's Guidance in the Crisis.

TRUCE AT BELFAST

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., March 28. — Today the political atmosphere seems less tense than it has been for weeks. To-morrow the Sabbath will see special services and special prayers in all churches of the United Kingdom for God's guidance in the crisis through which the Kingdom is passing.

In Belfast to-day the funeral of Lord Mayor McMordie, a stout Orangeman and anti-Home Ruler, has developed a sort of truce. The leaders of both parties attended the obsequies of the man for whom all had great respect. So far as the army situation is concerned, rumours are still strong that Kitchener will be brought from Egypt to take either the post of Secretary for War or Chief of Staff. No announcement has come from the Cabinet this morning regarding French and Ewart. It is presumed the matter will be permitted to simmer over Sunday.

TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAY "WASTE"

The Conservative orators and journals still stick to the statement that the immense sum of forty million dollars was wasted in the construction of the Transcontinental Railway. This is the summary of the report of the partisan commission that spent two years in "investigating" the construction of the Transcontinental. When it is remembered that it was the political partisan member, Mr. Lynch-Staunton, who was assigned to the work of trying to discredit the Liberal party, and that the other member, Mr. Gutelius, a former employee of the C.P.R., was expected to discredit the railway itself, we cannot be surprised that they found what they wanted to find, whether it was there or not.

The chief point made is that there has been a "waste" of forty million dollars. That's not a fair way to put it. If the Commissioners had said that the road could have been built for forty millions less than it actually has cost, they would have been right. Even a fool could have told that, without incurring a total expenditure of $100,000 on a two years' commission—in payment of the cost of a partisan investigation. The forty million dollars was "wasted" according to these partisan commissioners, in building the line too well. The lowest grades and easiest curves of any railway in Canada were built, and that, in putting a railway through a rough country, added greatly to the cost. But the work is done forever, and will be an advantage in cheaper operation, lasting as long as the line lasts. And money has been spent to make it last, practically without repairs. The bridges built are all permanent — bridges made of steel, instead of flimsy wooden trestles. In a word, throughout the whole building of the line there has been nothing scamped—no cheap building that would mean speedy renewal, or rebuilding in a few years—except on that part of the line built under the present government, where the standard of construction was degraded—the grades made stiffer and the difficulty and cost of operation increased. In a word, the Transcontinental has been built to last without patching and reconstruction.

When the C. P. R. was built it was built hurriedly and cheaply, with little attention to easy grades and curves. The result has been that millions have been spent in easing grades and reducing curves, so as to do away with great cost of operation—using two locomotives where, with a properly built line, one would serve. It is no exaggeration to state that the C. P. R. line west of Winnipeg, has been virtually rebuilt. If it had in the beginning, been built as soundly as the Transcontinental, this rebuilding and the great cost, the interim loss in more expensive operation for the past thirty years—amounting to millions—would have been saved. The commissioners say that many millions of the forty millions "wasted" would have been saved if the line, from Quebec to Moncton, hadn't been built at all. This is as foolish as the statement that if this and other parts of the line had been built more cheaply they would have cost less. The whole argument of the enemies of the Transcontinental and the Liberal party is like the talk of children. No doubt the road could have been built flimsily and cheaply—so that it would have soon to be rebuilt, with cost of operation excessive for all time. If this had been done the money spent would have been wasted, indeed.

The "argument" of the partisan commission is a slap at the City of Peterborough. Our City Council and all persons of sense know that money spent to secure permanence, whether in railway building, or street paving, is well spent. Last year Peterborough spent $22,000 in street paving. According to the absurd reasoning of Gutelius and Lynch-Staunton, there was a waste of, anywhere from $12,000 to $20,000. If the pavement had been built of concrete like Chambers street the work might have been done for $10,000 or $12,000. If it had been built cheaply, without foundation, of macadam it might have been built for $8,000; if it had been built of gravel, like many of our streets, the cost would have been $3,000 or $4,000. Then again a great deal of money was "wasted" in paving Hunter street. If this street hadn't been paved the total cost would have been less. These suppositions are absurd; but not one whit more absurd than the reasoning of the partizan commission: that if the Transcontinental had been constructed cheaply enough it would have cost less, and that therefore extra expenditure to secure a first class road was "wasted."

An example of the profit of building railways solidly is found in our street railway. Last year, from Brock street to Charlotte street, the line was solidly rebuilt, and laid with heavy, sixty-foot rails. Any one using the line from end to end can tell, with his eyes shut, when the car strikes the solidly-built, smooth-running, new section. The absence of jar and greater speed, with less bumping, are at once seen. Of course this new section cost more, but it will save the extra cost, and more, in the wear and tear on cars; fewer boxes will be broken, and the bill for repairs and renewal of cars will be less. The extra cost of making the line strong and smooth is not "waste," but money spent to build a cheap, flimsy line would be wasted.

The people should think of these things in terms of common sense. When any one makes the ridiculous suggestion that the money spent to build the best railway on the continent was "wasted," think of the illustration of the permanent pavement in Peterborough, and of the absurdity of the idea that the $22,000 it cost was wasted in securing a first-class permanent pavement. If we get a first-class article, whether a railway, street pavement, or street lighting, we must pay the price.

In the matter of railways, especially, that is the best policy. Rightly regarded the Transcontinental is an asset—not a liability. According to a statement in the Globe the completed cost of the road, ready for operation, will be $161,367,800. Of this amount $98,500,000 was paid out of current revenue during construction, leaving $62,000,000 of borrowed capital, on which interest will have to be paid. After the first seven years (when the Company pays no interest), the Government will receive from the Grand Trunk Railway, $3,600,000 a year in interest. Allowing for the accumulated interest on the actual debt of $62,000,000—about 18 million dollars—the country would have to pay out about three and a half per cent. on eighty millions of debt and accumulated interest—or a sum of $2,800,000 a year. Thus the country would net a clean $800,000 a year by way of dividend. But, as the Grand Trunk Pacific will become the lessee of a well-built line, capable of economical operation, it is expected that it will be able to pay interest at three per cent. on the amount of capital computed under the statutory agreement—180 millions. This will mean a yearly payment of interest to the Dominion of $5,400,000. This sum, after deducting the charges on 80 million (borrowed capital and seven years of accumulated interest) will leave a dividend of $2,600,000. Thus, even with money spent liberally—"wasted" — to secure a first-class railway in every respect, the country will not only reap the developmental benefit of the operation of a competing Transcontinental railway, tapping and opening up virgin teritory, but will get a handsome return for her surplus revenues invested in it.

BEFORE AND AFTER.

Reader, kindly read the following. It is well worth reading—both for its intrinsic excellence and for its sad desertion:

"Canadian justice, like British, is usual prompt and sure. But how often has it been known to overtake and seriously to pursue the election crook? I advocate the appointment of a public prosecutor vested not only with the right, but the duty of intervening where the proceedings upon any election petition were unduly delayed. He should possess the power to investigate the conduct of an election in any constituency where circumstances of a suspicious nature were brought to his attention."

These noble words were spoken by Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden in the height of heat and indignation against political corruption. They are brave words, worthy to be written in gold on our statute books. Mr. Borden uttered them when he had no power to give them effect, and he could only look in impatient regret upon the venal Laurier government which didn't do something like Mr. Borden recommended. Mr. Borden has had two years' power to give effect to the beautiful sentiments expressed in the above example of his long-distance virtue. Since Mr. Borden has had the power he has felt in his nostrils the pugnent sting of the corruption that romped seething through the Macdonald, Hochelaga and Chateauguay by-elections.. Fie, Mr. Borden, to so sharply divorce preaching from pratcice. It would take a patent medicine advertisement illustration to show the contrast between Mr. Borden "before' and 'after" gaining power, to put his virtuous platform philippies into concrete statute law.

VILLA VICTORIOUS IN THE MOST TERRIBLE BATTLE OF MEXICAN WAR

During Several Days of Fighting Constitutionalist General Loses and Regains Gomez Palacio

GOMEZ PALACIO, Mexico, March 18.—Four days of fighting, including three desperate assaults by rebels, were crowned yesterday when Gen. Francisco Villa moved into the city and established his headquarters on that side of the town looking toward Torreon and within three miles of that great goal of the campaign.

The final and deciding assault was delivered Thursday. It was preceded by a bombardment, after which the infantry and cavalry dashed into the streets.

Rifles, machetes, pistols and hand grenades were used in a hundred different encounters in the narrow thoroughfares. The grenades of home manufacture, were lighted with the cigarettes which are an unofficial part of the equipment of every Mexican soldier.

Gen. Villa does not yet know his own loss, except that it was heavy. The wounded suffered terribly from thirst, and many died for the lack of water and surgical attention.

The dead of both sides were mingled in the streets or found huddled under the piles of earth which had once been adobe houses or corrals, wrecked by rebel shells.

Veterans say that no more furious battle ever was fought in Mexico. It was a delirium. Gen. Villa did not stop to mourn his losses, but with characteristic energy, began preparations to move on Torreon. He expects to co-operate with four thousand men under Gen. Herrera, who is under orders to attack the town from the east.

Villa's first assault in force took place four days ago. There was comparatively a small number of Federals in the city and premature reports of victory were sent out. Soon, however, the Federals received reinforcements and in the desperate fighting which followed, the rebels had rather the worst of it, and Gen. Villa withdrew.

The next day (Wednesday) Gen. Angeles, the artillery commander, shelled the city all day and part of the night. Villa had learned that the Federal commander, Gen. Velasco was concentrated in force in the town and was himself in the trenches inspiring his men to do their duty and the rebel leaders under cover of the bombardment concentrated every available man for a fresh assault.

This was delivered Wednesday night, but it was [illegible] through the rebels' [illegible] roundhouse and a few other natural defences in the outskirts of the city.

Thursday night the third and final assault was delivered. Gen. Villa grimy with dust and sweat, a red bandana handkerchief about his neck, participated. He rode up and down the lines, swearing and cheering, cursing and calling on the saints. At times he apparently was calm and again furious. Through it all he urged his men forward and all seemed to realize that the attack was the last one. Human flesh could stand no more of the heat; the thirst and hunger and the cruel scenes which followed one another until the whole picture was a confused blur of blood and fire, where men in their dying agonies whined for water or cried out uncanny vivas, petitions to Our Lady of Guadalupe, and other jargon of delirium.

On the way into the city from El Verjel yesterday morning and particularly in the streets of the town itself Gen. Villa was constantly called on to return to the salutes of the wounded.

Some of these were limping, not to the rear, but to the front to catch up with their comrades. Some of them already placed on hospital trains escaped and returned to their commands.

Others regaining consciousness, as they were being borne away in litters, promptly cursed their would-be rescuers and tumbled out, joining the scattered procession following in the train of the general.

There was more than patriotism to inspire the rebel assaults, for behind them lay the most cruel desert in Mexico, and ahead the possession of the enemy, food and shelter, and the cooling streams of the irrigation ditches.

In the course of the battle there were instances of detachments, all of whose officers had been lost, running wildly about calling for new officers to lead them, or joining other commands, which were not leaderless.

Other detachments, in the excitement of the fight, failed to hear, or deliberately disregarded orders to fall back, to seek some shelter observed by their calmer officers. They dashed unheedingly into barbed wire entanglements or the enemy's trenches, and were mowed down in heaps by Federal rapid-fire guns.

DEALERS JOIN TO TRACE STOLEN CARS

Studebaker Sales Organization Works Out Plan That Baffles Thieves

HIDDEN NUMBERS HELP

Every Town Includes Somebody With Eye Peeled For Fugitive Autos

When his Studebaker "Six" fell prey to a discriminating automobile thief, Dr. H. G. Peregrine, of Seattle, notified both the police and the local Studebaker dealer.

The police threw out their usual drag net. The dealer set in motion a plan of detection, carefully worked out for just such an emergency.

Within twenty-four hours the friend, the dealer, informed Dr. Peregrine that his car was in a certain garage in Portland, where it had been stored after its arrivel by boat, several minutes before.

The car was recovered and an arrest followed.

That was quick work and represented an unusually striking instance of the facility with which a stolen Studebaker car can be traced. But the result would have been the same in the long run, regardless of the route taken by the thief. Eventualy he would have run foul of the watchful, patient, infallible system by which the movements of each Studebaker car can be traced.

By this system a car stolen last year in Minneapolis was recovered in San Antonio, Tex., and one stolen in Providence, R.I., turned up in Los Angeles. In each of these cases the cars would have been located long before, but for the fact that the thieves had kept them out of Studebaker garages they had passed en route.

Tracing of cars is done by means of a complicated system of numbers tamped on the motor, chassis and arious other parts of each Studebaker car and its equipment. Some of these numbers are hidden. Others are in plain sight, and often these are removed. But a defaced number is sure to lead to inquiry later on, and no thief, not conversant with the system of numbering, can expect to deface all the means of identification provided.

Accurate record is kept of all the numbers at the Studebaker headquarters in Detroit. The man in charge can, if given one of half a dozen numbers, identify any one of 150,000 Studebaker cars and supply the name of its original owner. A simple bulletin service from this department puts on the trail of any stolen car at least 2,000 skilled detectives. Sooner or later the thief must show up with his car at a Studebaker garage, thus ending his joy ride and paving the way for a long rest, far from further temptation.

THREE HUNDRED Y. M. C. A. BOYS AT ANNUAL BANQUET

Splendid Addres by Mr. Ball, of Toronto, at Most Enthusiastic Boys' Banquet in History of the Local "Y."

SPLENDID PROGRAMME

Undoubtedly the enthusiastic banquet held in the gymnasium of the Y.M.C.A. last night was the largest and most successful in the history of the Boys' Department of that institution. About three hundred boys gathered for the affair, and all exhibited considerable interest and pleasure during the evening. The large game room on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A. that has been for years pressed into service for like occasions had to be discarded last night as it could not be made to accommodate the throng of boys who had expressed their intention of being present at the banquet. Mr. Garnet Galley, Secretary of the Boys' Department, Mr. J. J. Thompson, Physical Director, and Mr. A. A. Hainsworth, General Secretary of the local "Y" are to be congratulated on the spirit that that institution is developing in such a large number of boys.

Last night was the occasion of the annual banquet of the Boys' Department and in preparation for this the ladies had worked effectively with the result that the feast to which the boys sat down was fit for a regal repast. That was very evidently the boys' opinion though they did not hesitate to attack the victuals on account of their quality.

Mr. P. M. McCarrell presided at the banquet and in spite of the crowd of young people the order was good throughout the programme. There were present besides the boys themselves, Mr. P. M. McCarrell, Mr. A. A. Hainsworth, Mr. Ball of Toronto, Mr. Jas. Connell, the Rev. R. G. Peever, the Rev. J. G. Lewis, Mr. C. E. Gibson, Mr. H. R. Cowan, Mr. Allan, Mr. G. Galley, Chief Thompson and Adjt. McElhenny. The ladies who attended to the wishes of those present were adept and efficient, aiding greatly in the success of the affair.

The first item on the programme was the toast to the King. This was proposed by the chairman and was duly honoured with the singing of God Save the King. Mr. McCarrell gave a brief address, and Mr. J. H. Connal, president of the local Y.M.C.A., followed with a brief resume of the activities of the Association during the past year. During his address he took occasion to congratulate the boys and the officers on the splendid success of the banquet.

Fred Soward in a neat speech proposed the toast to the Association. Harold Copp, on behalf of the Y.M.C.A., made a suitable response.

"The Ladies" were honoured in the next toast, which was proposed by Gerald McClelland and responded to by George Logan.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Ball of Toronto, was introduced by the chairman and was greeted with ear-splitting cheers by the boys. He took for his subject "Talents" and in opening referred to th two parables in the New Testament that dealt with talents. The speaker said that Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier were five talent men, but that all had been given some one or more talents. Every boy sitting at the table in front of him could do something better than the fellow sitting beside him, God did not send empty lives into this world, but each person had a talent and it was his duty to use and develop that talent. If the boys present would stand together they could eventually clean up the City and rid it of the bars and prevent the sale of cigarettes.

Referring to conspicuous cases of where men had developed their talent and used it in the service of the master, the speaker referred to General Booth of the Salvation Army and told of a young musician who spent a great deal of time in learning to play hymns. He finally became so proficient that he could almost compel one to sing a hymn by his interpretation of it on the piano. Travelling as pianist with two great evangelists, this young man led many souls to Christ. When asked for an account of his talent, he could give a very creditable one.

In conclusion the speaker asked the boys to take away one thought with them. That was to try and appreciate their own peculiar talent. They should not keep it in idleness, for if they neglected their ability to use it they would not only commit a definite He asked them to discover their own talent and develop it, and by so doing they would not only commit a definte service, but improve themselves at the same time.

During the evening the following trophies were presented:

J. M. Laing shield for all round athletic championship. Winner, Bernard Mulhern; second, Charles Moncur.

S. R. Hall Trophy for Senior School Boys—Won by Clifton Carruthers.

Gerard Trophy for Junior School Boys—Won by Stanley Anderson.

S. R. Hall Employed Boys' Basketball Shield—Won by Leaders, Maurice Pringle, captain.

J. I. Allan, Junior School Boys' Basketball Shield— Won by "Indians," Clifton Carruthers, captain.

Junior Church League Shield, presented by Mr. J. I. Allan—Won by the Charlotte Street Church, Hugh Austin, captain.

Y.M.C.A. Boys' Baseball Trophy — Won by Arthur Horsfield's nine.

"ULSTER MAN" PUTS HIS CASE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Would you kindly allow me space in your esteemed paper to draw attention to some of the remarks of the Examiner of yesterday.

The Examiner has time without number ridiculed and scoffed at the Protestants of Ulster, kicking against Home Rule, or to be controlled by a Nationalist parliament in Dublin. But let us look why, that little "insignificant section" of Ireland, as the Examiner terms Ulster, pays more than 75 per cent of all Ireland's revenue. Ulster contains the largest linen manufacturing concern in the world, the largest flax spinning industry in the world, the largest rope and cable works in the world, the largest shipbuilding firm in the world, the largest single tobacco works in the world, the largest distillery in the world.

The average number of police per 10,000 of the population for the nine counties of Ulster is 16. The average for the counties of the other three provinces is over 24, which shows it is the most law-abiding province in Ireland.

Belfast sends only four members to the Imperial parliament, yet its electorat is greater than the combined electorate of Galway City, North Kildare, Kilkenny City, King's County (2 members), Limerick City, County Longford (2 members), Newry, Queen's County (2 members), and Waterford City and County (3 members), which sends 14 Nationalists to parliament.

Ulster enjoys no ascendancy, nor do they want anything only fair play, which they know they would not get from a Nationalist assembly in Dublin.

The Examiner asserts Ulster will have to obey parliament, or in other words, the voice of the people. But the Asquith parliament is not the voice of the electorate of Great Britain on Home Rule.

For, at the last election not one single member of the government, either in speech or address, mentioned that a Home Rule measure would be introduced. However, when they found they could not run a parliament session, they bought John Redmond and his eighty votes in return that Home Rule would be granted to Ireland. Some Unionists assert that Redmond holds a written agreement to the above.

Can the Examiner inform its readers why Mr. Asquith refuses to have a referendum on the issue, to test the "voice of the people," or why they refuse to exclude Ulster, or grant a provincial parliament to Ulster, where the Protestant population is about 200,000 in the majority and to which the Unionist party will agree.

As to the concessions which the Examiner mentions, any one who has read same knows they are absurd.

The Examiner should be consistent and give the both sides of the story, as the overwhelming majority of its readers do not understand the issue. Everybody knows how the Examiner reared out when the Borden government passed the navy contribution bill, which was only fresh from the poll, and still advocates that it is not the "voice of the people." Yet it is rebellion and treason for Ulster to do what the Examiner advocates to do right here.

An Ulster Man.

364 Aylmer Street, March 28.

The Examiner lets "Ulster Man" have his little fling since it is harmless and the frequent mention of the Examiner is not without its advertising value. Ulster might have its fling too, if it did not involve rebellion against Crown and Parliament. We did not and do not disparage Ulster, nor did we call it "insignificant," but "comparatively insignificant"—in comparison with the rest of Ireland, the United Kingdom and the Empire for whose disruption the rebellion, if permitted, introduces the thin edge of the wedge. Ulster is an important part of Ireland, but one fails to see what the biggest distilery in the world at Belfast has to do with the problem of self government. Take as a whole Ulster is more than half home rule, and more than half Catholic, and there is no reason why it should be exempt from the principle of majority rule. A few agitators and a few politicians fight against Home Rule for personal or party advantage. The politicians demand submission of the question to the people and the personal profit seekers say that under no circumstances will Ulster submit to Home Rule, "And," as Hennessy would say, "there y'are."

Heard Reports Of Dominion Alliance

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. A. E. Micks, Stewart Street, on Friday afternoon, about thirty-five women being present.

Mrs. Lewis read the Scripture lesson from the Psalms.

Reports of the Dominion Alliance Convention were given by Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Knapman.

Mrs. Armstrong thanked the Society for their kindness in sending her as a delegate to the Convention. She said the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and Dominion Alliance are both working for the suppression of the liquor traffic. A resolution was passed favouring votes for women, and endorsing the action of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the Dominion in seeking legislation against the manufacture or consumption of cigarettes in Canada, and the support of the Alliance was pledged. Rev. Mr. Halpenny, B.A., Secretary of the Sunday School Association said: Temperance should be taught regularly in Sunday Schools. A motion was carried that the Executive of the Dominion Alliance, with the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and Sunday Schools, do something towards a pledge-signing campaign.

Mrs. Knapman also said a few words about the Convention. She regretted that all were not able to be there.

She said: One of the brightest speakers of the convention was Rev. R. J. Patterson of Belfast, Ireland, the funder of 'Catch-My-Pal' movement. The 'Catch-My-Pal' movement is very aggressive. All pledges are signed in public and if a member falls off the platform into the gutter again, all the members seek to lift him up. In six weeks over 600 men had signed the pledge and promised each to bring another. In Ireland alone 150,000 men and women had signed the pledge.

A vote of thanks was given to both Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Knapman for their excellent reports.

Beautiful solos were rendered by Mrs. Davidson and Miss Armstrong, also a piano duet by Mrs. Micks and Mrs. Lewis.

Refreshments were served and Mrs. Micks was thanked very earnestly for her hospitality.

Scotch People Of Peterboro' Hold Social

The Anniversary of the Caledonian Club—Large Attendance —The Programme

Last night, one of the most memorable entertainments in the history of the Caledonian Club was held, the occasion being the anniversary of that well known association of the Scotch residents of Peterborough. The event was a combined social and dance, and the spacious Woodmen of the World Hall had been secured for the purpose. Needless to say the room was crowded, and not until the last strains of the National Anthem had sounded, did one person leave the room.

President Burns, who acted as chairman, made a few brief remarks, prior to the following programme, according all a hearty welcome:

The Programme.

Song, "Nancy Lee"—Mr. J. Smith.
Song, "Thora"—Mr. J. Wilson.
Song, "The Bell at Sea"—Mr. R. D. Dickson.
Song—"Asleep in the Deep"— Mr. Wm. King.
Song, "Giving Them All a Turn"—Mr. R. Sinclair.
Whistling solo—Mr. R. Irwin.
Duet—"Life's Dream is O'er" —Messrs. Smith and Caters.
Song, "Down the Vale"—Miss Perdue.
Song—Miss Hinchcliffe.
Song, "Be Kind to Auld Grannie"—Wm. Paterson, P.C.
Encored—"The Irish Immigrant."

The unanimous opinion of all present was that P. C. Paterson's song, "Be Kind to Auld Grannie" was the song of the evening. It has been formerly demonstrated that the above mentioned member of our police force had a remarkably resonant tenor voice, but his performance last night exceeded any previous attempts he has made. The song itself was a typical Scotch air, and appealed to the people present in a very striking way. With no disparagement on the other singers of the evening, it might here be mentioned that "Be Kind to Auld Grannie" was the only song that received an encore, which was well deserved.

Refreshments.

During the intermission between the programme rendered and the dancing, dainty refreshments were served by Mr. T. Hooper, in his usual excellent manner.

Dancing.

At 11 o'clock dancing commenced, very appropriate music for which was supplied by Sinclair's band. Some 50 couples engaged in this social pursuit and enjoyed themselves to the full.

Between dances the following vocal selections were given:

Song, "Scotland Yet"—Mr. Wm. Elliott.
Song, "We Parted on the Shore"—Mr. R. Henry.
Song, "Fiona and the Dear Home land—Mr. J. Anderson.
Trio, "Willie Brewed a Peck O' Maut"—Messrs. Anderson, Elliott and Dickson.

This item also found great favour with those present, and the last verse of the Scotch comedy song had to be repeated to satisfy the demands of the audience.

Much credit is due to President Burns and the following committee for the excellent manner in which the arrangements were prepared and carried out, Messrs. R. Henry, J. Lowrie ,Wm. Petrie, R. Irwin, G. Hutton, R D. Dickson and D. Webster.

The accompaniments were played by Mrs. Moore and Mr. Haddow. The party broke up in the wee sma' hoors.

These two gentlemen along with Miss Dorothy Allan, the soprano-soloist of St. Paul's, will be the soloists of the evening.

The choir under its leader, Mr. John Allan, is busy rehearsing some splendid items, and a concert of a very high calibre may be looked for.

Boston Has Largest Fish Market

Examiner Special:

BOSTON, Mass., March 28.—Boston's new two-million dollar pier and subsidiary buildings, constituting the largest fish market on this continent, and the second largest in the world, was formally opened to-day. The new pier is to take the place of the historic 'T' wharf, where the fishing boats have tied up since the days of the Revolution.

Forty-four firms united to build the new pier and its subsidiary buildings for administration, cold storage and allied mercantile interests. The plant is larger than the immediate volume of business requires, but at the present rate of growth five years will take up the slack, and ten will perhaps find the quarters filled to capacity. The cold storage plant at the pier is declared to be one of the best equipped as well as one of the largest in the world.

Anniversary At St. James'

Rev. H. B. Kenny, of Bowmanville, will preach anniversary sermons at St. James' Church, and on Monday evening he will give an address at a congregational tea to be held in the Sunday School room. Rev. Mr. Kenny is chairman of the Bowmanville District of the Methodist Church. He is an interesting and forceful speaker, and his discourses to-morrow are being looked forward to with keen interest.

No Sprinkler

That $4,000 street railway sprinkler hasn't a snowball's chance to get going in Peterborough this summer. The Council likes the idea and takes to the sprinkling feature, but every man Jack, from the Mayor down, balks at the thought of four thousand good "iron men". At least that was the intimation during a casual discussion on the subject at last night's meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council.

Ald. Duncan stated that the work is done for nothing in Toronto, thanks to a clause in the agreement. Peterborough has an agreement, but one don't hear it groaning with clauses that bother the Street Railway Company. Ald. Duncan pointed out that the wet rails are a benefit to the Company, for the reason that they make better points of contact between the rails and the wheels and that there are other advantages.

The idea of 30 cents a mile for the streets watered loomed before the Council, or most of the members, as a mental picture of a busy little meter on a taxi-cab, working overtime to cock up a big total. No, the street railway sprinkler is a pleasant thought, and that lets it out for the present.

Their Neighbours Said Farewell

Presentation Made to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Deyell

Although the roads were in an almost an impassable condition, a goodly number of friends and neighbours met at the old Deyell homestead, on Friday evening, March 27th, to express a formal farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Deyell on the eve of their departure for their new home in Peterborough.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Deyell were presented with an address expressing the esteem and affection of the neighbourhood accompanied by a tangible token in the form of two handsome walnut chairs.

Mr. Sandy Matchett, who read the address, added a few personal reminiscences of younger days, which made a very fitting introduction. The chairs were presented by Mrs. Deyell's nephews, George and Will Hanbidge.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Deyell were quite taken by surprise Mr. Deyell in a suitable reply expressed regret at leaving the old home and the dear friends and neighbours who had not only on this occasion but during a whole lifetime shown to him and to his family such kindness and affection.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a sociable fashion, enlivened by much music and the singing of old songs.

The following is the address read to Mr. and Mrs. Deyell:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Deyell:

Your friends and neighbours in this section of Otonabee learn with the deepest regret that by your removal to reside in Peterborough we are to lose the pleasure and profit of your presence during your long life in this vicinity.

You have not only been life-long residents of this township but you are both of the second generation of your respective families. Your fathers and mothers were pioneers of this township, and during their residence they left the influence and impress of their noble lives upon the community. You have followed their footsteps as prominent members of the neighbourhood, the best of neighbors and citizens, foremost in all relating to the best interests and welfare of the church and the community, and have fololwed the examples set by your forefathers, therefore it is with the deepest regret that we regard your removal from us, and in token of our esteem we are met together to testify to our appreciation of you as fellow-citizens and our sorrow at your departure.

In evidence of our esteem and good wishes and as a memento of our old friendships and our affection and respect for you we ask your acceptance of these two chairs, which we trust and pray you will be long spared to occupy and enjoy in the declining days of your lives.

In conclusion we again express our regret at your leaving us and with it our prayers that you may have a happy life in your new home, and pleasant memories of the home and honi friends you leave behind in old Otonabee.

Signed on behalf of the community by:

George Robertson,
Sandy Matchett,

NEW STRENGTH IN THE SPRING

Nature Needs Aid in Making New Health Giving Blood

In the spring the system needs a tonic. To be healthy you must have new blood just as the trees must have new sap to renew their vitality. Nature demands it, and without this new blood you will feel weak and languid. You may have twinges of rehumatism or the sharp, stabbing pains of neuralgia. Often there are disfiguring pimples or eruptions on the skin. In other cases there is merely a feeling of tiredness and a variable appetite. Any of these are signs that the blood is out of order — that the indoor life of winter has lessened your vitality. What you need in spring is a tonic medicine to put you right, and in all the world of medicine there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills actually make new, rich, red blood—your greatest need in spring. This new blood drives out the seeds of disease and makes easily tired men, women and children bright active and strong. Mrs. Geo. Burns, Albany, P.E.I., writes: "I was terribly run down and so weak that I could hardly drag myself around. I was so nervous that I was afraid to walk across the floor for fear I would fall. Our family doctor treated me but without success and finally I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Gradually they brought me back to good health and now I am as well as ever I was and have every confidence in recommending these Pills to other sufferers."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

An Invitation To Capitalists

The special series of sermons on Social Problems by the Rev. R. Pogue in St. Paul's Church, is drawing to a close. His subject on Sunday evening will be "The Duty of Capital in the Present Industrial Order." He extends a hearty invitation to all employers of Labour who may not be worshipping at their own church to come and hear his message. He will preach a week from Sunday night on the "Duty of Labour," and has some pretty plain things to say to both Capitalists and Labourers on their mutual relations and duties. He would like to see a large attendance of all who employ labour in any way at the service to-morrow evening.

Salvation Army Band to Advertise City in Old Land

Adjt. McElheney of the Salvation Army met the Committee of the Whole Council last night in regard to the souvenir booklet, 10,000 copies of which the local corps band is preparing to take with them for careful distribution in the Old Country. It is generally known that the Band intends to share in the big Salvation Army Congress, which will be held in Lndon about the middle of June. The book is a rather large one, containing forty pages, richly illustrated and dealing with the manufacturing, residential and other features of the City. One thousand dolalrs are being expended in the publishing of this issue, and Adjt. McElheney asked for assistance from the Council toward the cost of the work. Thirty of the local bandsmen will make the trip and Headquarters have guaranteed every consideration for them.

Ald. Johnston stated that the grant to the band last summer was $225. To assist the project $500 might be given this year.

The Adjutant stated that the Band would visit some of the larger cities, and the men would personally distribute the souvenirs where they would be expected to do the most good.

To Ald. Gordon, Adjt. McElheney stated that a number of the business men o fthe City had made contributions oward their trip fund."

The request will be dealt with when the question of the tax rate is definitely settled.

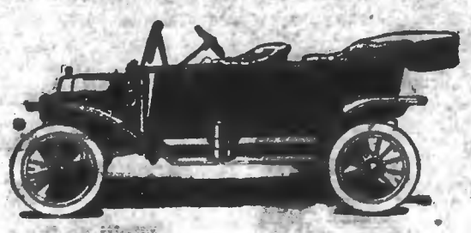
THE STORY OF THE FORD CAR IN PETERBOROUGH

How Its Enthusiastic Sales Agent Does Things In Working For And Selling Fords In This District.



The Ford Touring Car.

"I had been hustling for ten years in the agricultural machinery business before I started selling automobiles," said Ald. Jos. J. Duffus, proprietor of the Duffus Garage, Simcoe street; "and now it's a case of—'where your treasure is there is your heart, also,' —I'm a Ford car man, first, last and always."

Such was the characteristic reply of the man behind the Ford car in Peterborough, when asked for some information relative to his phenomenal success in the automobile business.

Mr. Duffus' foresight in engaging in the motor car business at the time he did, was evidence of his sagacity and faith that the automobile had come to stay—a fact which he has since seen demonstrated in a remarkable manner by the growing demand, especially for the Ford car.

From being the pioneer automobile agent in this city, with cramped showrooms on George street, where he first started, he has seen his business grow, step by step, into a turnover of many thousands of dollars, until today Mr. Duffus says in his own words:

"Speaking now from my experience of the past few years, I have personally sold between 200 and 300 cars, and handled a good many others in various remunerative ways."

Record Sales of Fords

Mr. Duffus is a born enthusiast. Everything into which he enters is characterized by the same spirit of activity, like the spark plug of a motor; and the Ford car appears to have inspired him to his best work. Last year he sold 73 cars. This year, he has already taken delivery of approximately 50 cars, nearly all of which have been sold; has on order 15 additional cars for delivery next month.

"1914," Mr. Duffus says, "is to be made a record year for the Ford—a record for the quantity of Fords sold, a record for the efficiency of service given, a record for the good will obtained."

The combined production of Canadian and American Ford factories for the week ending March 14th, is 7,239. Grand total built up to same date, 476,490 cars.

The reason why the Ford is known as the "Universal" car is because of the many uses which it is specially adapted for, in which time and money savings have proved them to be invaluable. Actual experience has shown that there are hundreds of vocations that can advantageously use the Ford. Light on its feet, quick to start, quick to stop, plenty of power for the weight, are a few of the Ford's inherent qualities.

It is doubted if even Canadians realize the magnitude of the industry that is building the Ford car in Canada. This year the production of the Canadian factory will be 20,000 Fords, valued at about $12,000,000—all "Made in Canada."

The Duffus Garage

That the friends of the Ford car in Peterborough may know how well equipped the Duffus Garage is, the following particulars will prove interesting.

The Peterborough Ford Service Station is located at No. 193 Simcoe street, and is now one of the best equipped garages between Windsor and Montreal.

The Office Staff and heads of departments are all prepared to give the very best service, having experts for sales, repairs and storing, with full lines of parts and accessories, in the most satisfactory condition.

The Sales and Storage rooms are large and well lighted, with every facility for washing and caring for the machines.

The Repairing Department is fully equipped to do any repairing on any make of automobile. The mechanics in charge are experienced in all lines of auto repairing, and are prepared to give immediate service, day or night. There is a most complete equipment of machinery, such as electric motor, air compressor, for inflating tires, for the convenience of patrons who require "free air"; drill presses, turning lathe and grinder. The garage possesses two Bowser filling stations—one on the street with a tank containten barrels of gasoline, and the other in rear capable of holding five barrels of gasoline. There is also a complete Bowser system for lubricating oils, and a proper paint room.

The building contains a commodious elevator for handling cars from ground floor to the upper stories, with safety and convenience. The garage building is steam heated throughout.

Another very essential department is the up-to-date Stock room, so arranged that all repair parts are classified in boxed shelving. In Mr. Duffus' contract with the Ford Co. he agrees to carry in stock at least $1000 worth of auto supplies for repairing the older makes of car, together with all parts for new cars. Not content with living up to the letter of the contract, he actually carries double that amount of supplies or $1,200 worth, in order to be doubly sure that proper service is given Ford patrons in the district.

Mr. Duffus employed seven skilled mechanics last year; this year he employs ten. The reputation he has earned for good work and good service has brought to his garage cars from many long distances, including Brockville, Belleville, Port Hope, Cobourgh, Hastings, Toronto and the United States.

"Buy your Ford early," is Mr Duffus' advice. Too many wait until the opening of the automobile season to buy a car. Last year the factory's entire output was sold by May 5th. There will be a big spring rush this year. It seems like good wisdom to buy your Ford now, and be sure of having it all summer.

Hicks Promises April Rains, Hail Frost And Winds

A Little of the Old Spring Stuff May Be Expected—Watch For the First Thunder and Lightning of the Year—Should Be Good Maple Syrup Weather.

SOMETHING FOR ALL TASTES

Prof. Irl Hicks predicts for April a succession of warm and cool weather, rain and hail in the usual April allowances.

A regular storm period covers the first week in April, having its centre on Friday the 3rd. During the 1st and 2nd, marked change to warmer will appear in western regions, winds will change to easterly and southerly, the barometer will begin falling, and by the 3rd, cloudiness will ensue, and areas of wind, thunder and rain will take up their march from west to east. By the 4th and 5th these areas of storm and precipitation will have reached the central valleys of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, followed on western flanks by clearing and much cooler weather. By the 5th to 7th, storm areas will reach the Atlantic coast regions, with cooler, clearer weather following into those regions immediately behind the storms. So far as may be known, there are no indications of abnormal storms or weather conditions at this time, except probabilities of very cold nights and frosts for two or three mornings, after the storms have gone east of given localities. The otulook is for generally favourable conditions for outdoor work.

Electrical Storms.

A reactionary storm period is central from the 8th to the 11th. Storm conditions will show sudden development —much warmer, south winds and low barometer, merging into electrical storms with rain, hail and wind very probable in western sections as early as the 8th. On that date the Moon is on the celestial equator, approaching perigree and full Moon on the 10th. Atmospheric conditions will be exceptionally favourable for hail storms for two or four days, beginning on the 8th. These disturbances, it must be remembered, like all other storm developments, have their origin in western extremes, early in the period, thence traversing the country from west to east during successive days of the period. Warm, "weather-breeding" days with fair weather and falling barometer and clearing, cooler weather following behind the storms. This gives each locality, let us repeat as a rule, during the time elapsing between the beginning of one storm period and beginning of next storm period, first, a few days of growing warmth, fair and falling barometer; second, areas of cloudiness, storminess and precipitation; third, rising barometer, westerly winds, and clear, cooler weather. Any one who will fix this order in his mind, and watch the storm periods, as outlined and charted in this Almanac, will invariably be prepared for the successive weather changes of each period. Sometimes this order will begin a day or so earlier, and at other times later, but such precipitation or rearddation will not break up the regular order, all of which the caretul, wide-awake observer will soon come to understand.

April Showers.

A regular storm period from the 13th to the 17th. With the exception of the expiring influence of Earth's vernal equinox, blended with the subsiding Jupiter period, there are few disturbing causes bearing on this, and the remainding periods in April. This period will come to its crisis on and touching the 14th, 15th and 16th. Look first for the change to warmer, followed by cloudiness, falling barometer and rain, winding up with rising barometer, west wind and cool, clearing weather. April showers, mixed with scattering hail storms, will visit many sections as these disturbances push their way, during the days named, from west to east across the country. Much cooler nights, attended by possible frost over central to northern sections, will follow for several days —say up to the 19th.

A reactionary storm period falls centrally on the 20th, 21st and 22nd. On and touching these days, look for a marked return of storm conditions —much warmer, south winds, decided fall of the barometer, and storms of thunder and rain. On and touching the 22nd, severe thunder gusts and violent, local hail storms will be very natural. You will experience such phenomena in your own locality, or you will hear about them on the other fellow's patch. Suppose you note this prediction and watch.

Warm and Showery.

A regular storm period extends over the last week in April, having its centre on the 28th. The Mercury period also blends with the regular Vulcan period, thus adding to the probabilities of worse than ordinary April showers at this time. The Moon's conjunction with Earth and Sun, which is the new Moon, falls on the 25th, with Moon travelling to its north declination. The temperature will rise at the beginning of this period, the barometer will fall and a series of April storms will occur progressively from west to east. Abnormal warmth will reach a crisis, culminating in fierce storms of thunder, rain, hail and wind, from the 26th to the 29th. These storms will be followed by high barometer and very cool nights—frost to the northward as we pass into May.

Seismic Forecasts.

The first seismic period for April is central on the 10th, extending from about 7th to the 12th. The quadratures of Uranus on the 10th, and Neptune on the 16th, will increase the seismic period in April will be central on the 25th, reaching from the 22nd to 28th. At least ninety per cent. of the seismic ad earthquake disturbances will be found, by careful observation and record, to fall within the periods specified in these forecasts. Volcanic eruptions and general unrest in volcanic regions, are included in what we call seismic disturbances. They are of the same general character, and are excited to activity by the same causes. Readers of this paper for thirty years past need not be told that we have, through all these seismic periods, discussed causes of the same, and called upon the people to compare the world's record of such disturbances with our forecasts. It is safe to say that, during these years in which we have issued our seismic forecasts and warning, ninety per cent. of the seismographs now in existence the world over, especially in our own country, have been constructed. We will also venture to affirm that little short of one hundred per cent. of seismic reports from seismographic stations will fall within the seismic periods pointed out in our forecasts one year in advance. The seismic periods coincide with the periods of new and full Moon. As such times the Sun and Moon act in conjunction to produce lunar waves of maximum strength, not only in the seas, but in the solid globe itself. The nearer new and full Moons approach the eclipse nodes, especially when these nodes lie on both the equator and the ecliptic, the more certain and severe will be the seismic and earthquake convulsions. When an eclipse of the Sun or Moon is followed by another eclipse at the new or full Moon next following, there is a marked tendency to seismic trouble from one eclipse to the other, even outside the regular seismic trouble from one eclipse to the other, even outside the regular seismic periods.

ANNUAL MEETING WAS HELD

Rural Publishing Company Elects Its Officers

The annual meeting of the Rural Publishing Co. was held yesterday afternoon in the offices of the company, at the corner of Water and Hunter streets, when a large amount of business was transacted.

The reports of the various officers show that last year was a very successful one from all points.

The following officers were elected; W. W. Ballantyne, Stratford, President; G. A. Gillespie, Peterborough, Vice-President; H. B. Cowan, Managing Director and Secretary Treasurer, and the following directors: J. R. Dargavell, M.L.A. Eldom, Ont.; A. C. Halman, Breslau; H. Jones, Maitland; A. J. Reynolds, Solina; J. H. Scott, Exeter, and Henry Glendinning, Manilla.

The annual meeting of the Horticultural Publishing Co. was held in Toronto on Thursday last. The following officers were elected:

W. H. Bunting, St. Catharines, President; J. H. Dunlop, Toronto, Vice-President; H. B. Cowan, Managing Director, and Secretary Treasurer, and the following directors: P. W. Hodgetts, Toronto; A. W. Peart, Burlington; P. Simmers, Toronto; and H. Jones, Prescott.

This company reported the most successful year that they have ever had, and as a consequence, a substantial sum was added to the reserve fund, from the profits accumulated.

SOME THINGS AND A FEW OTHERS

Probably Ald. Anderson whispers to himself as chairman of the Council's Finance committee—"Ain't it the little bobbies."

Kingston is boosting its tax rate two mills.

Will the critics admit that some of the recent signs of civic awakening are not a result of pulpit messages heard during the past weeks.

It must be a genius that lacks those figures on miladi's hat. A rational mind could never strike effects like some you see on the streets.

And from all appearances there is going to be no redress to the absurd fashion ideas of a year ago.

There is some satisfaction in knowing that those Troy generals would be equally squeamish if they were sent say against a section of the south of Ireland. British justice can always be depended upon.

The economy cry has been raised so often it is beginning to have a humiliating effect. Take it for granted and act accordingly, but whisper it not in the streets.

Did you notice that the ladies interested in public recreation grounds were recognized as having an idea or two worth noticing.

Is it not strange that even old timers look for the first robin as if they had not seen one in four years, whereas it is not much more than four months since they left us. Wait till the cherries ripen and the welcome to the robins will be well worn.

The same goes for dandelions. The first little yellow face decorating the green sward touches some chord away back in our emotions, but wait till they have to be dug out of the lawn.

There is not much use in speaking of Bob Rogers and dark lanterns.

There's a native stunt that goes the western idea one better.

Thursday next is set down for the hearing of Peterborough's private bill in the Legislature.

In another column it is stated that the Whole Council will go to Toronto to support Hydro bill. This does not refer to a particular gentleman of aldermanic estate.

BASEBALL

OTTAWA, March 27.—Pitcher Frank Kubat and Infielder Frank Smykal, both of whom are University of Illinois boys, signed up to-day with the Ottawa Ball Club. They were holdouts but the Ottawas finally reached their figures and they sent in their contracts. The Ottawa infield is thus complete with Crowder the only absentee from last year. —Dolan will play first, Smykal second, Tesch short and Bullock third.

Manager Shaughnessy emphatically denies the charge from Hamilton that Fort Wayne drafted Pitcher Fred Bramble from Berlin and Shortstop Brant from Peterborough, with a view to turning them over to the Senators. President Varnell asked Shaughnessy to recommend a shortstop to replace Fabrique, who went to Providence, and he at once advised him to land Brant. He also recommended Bramble, but there is no truth in the Hamilton kick that Fort Wayne bought the two men for Ottawa. Tesch was signed for the shortstop position last year and while Bramble would be welcome there is little possibility of the Ottawas getting him. Shaughnessy refuses to act as a "farm" for any big league club. The following players will report at Chatham on April 20: Manager Shaughnessy, Dolan, first base; Bullock, third base; Tesch, shortstop; Smykal second base; Lage, catcher; Kohl, pitcher; Powers, outfielder; Kubat, pitcher; Murphy, infield; Mill, pitcher; Kane, pitcher; Newman, of Toronto, a pitcher; Bernlop, pitcher; Donovan, pitcher; Burke, outfielder; Frill, shortstop and Anderson third base.

"Lefty" Rogers has been ordered to report but he wired back that he was out of the game.

WAS TROUBLED WITH

Weak and Dizzy Spells.

Heart Would Beat Something Awful.

Those feelings of weakness, those dizzy spells which come over people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They indicate an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nerves. One dizzy spell may pass off, but eventually they will come frequently, and at the same time more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills before their case becomes hopeless, for they have no equal for restoring the heart to its usual strength, and making the nerves firm and steady.

Mrs. Lea. Khasy, Mount Mountain, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with weak and dizzy spells, and my heart would beat something awful. I got so I had those spells every day. I got so I would try one medicine, and then another, but nothing did me any good until I got Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I can safely say they did me more good than anything I ever took, for I feel like a very different woman. My friends often ask me what I have been taking, and I always say 'Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.' I tell all my friends who say their heart troubles them, to take your pills."

Mattresses Thrown Into Downie St. Creek Helped Choke It

The Downie Street Creek came in for a little attention at the Council's Committee of the Whole meeting last night. Mayor Butler stated that Engineer Parsons had written to the owners of the property through which the creek flows, when it amounts to anything, asking them to remove rubbish which blocks it. His Worship stated that Mr. D. W. Dumble replied to Mr. Parsons, ridiculing the City and abusing the Engineer for pointing out such a small matter. When the freshet came the water flooded at these points and the Mayor stated the difficulty would have been obviated had the Engineer's advice been carried out.

—Ald. Duncan stated that some one had thrown three or four old mattresses into the creek together with tinsicans, ashes, etc., and the result was a blockade. He suggested that some understanding be made with the property owners to have the bed kept clean.

Peterborough's Turn Next In The Revival of Lacrosse

Lacrosse Booming Everywhere Peterborough's Turn Is Coming

Mr. Frank Doyle Secretary of the Ontario Lacrosse Association Will Be Here to Address Meeting on Wednesday.

SHOULD BE BIG CROWD

Peterborough's turn in the lacrosse revival which is taking place in the province will receive further momentum on Wednesday night of next week, when Mr. Frank Doyle, Secretary of the Ontario Lacrosse Association will visit Peterborough and address a mass meeting of enthusiasts. The Peterborough Athletic Club has arranged this gathering with the object of increasing the interest in Canada's National game. Every lover of lacrosse in Peterborough is urged to be present to hear Mr. Doyle's address. The O.A.L.A. secretary has been visiting many centres during the past month, and has been well received everywhere.

The Toronto Globe says:

The value of careful organization in the work of booming lacrosse has already made itself very apparent. When it was first mentioned that 50 dozen medals had been donated for the purpose of establishing leagues among the schoolboys one pessimistic follower of lacrosse remarked that they would probably serve all the schoolboy aggregations that could be formed in Canada for many years to come. It now appears that the medals are going to be very widely distributed by the time the snow comes again.

There is a possibility that two of the oldest lacrosse towns on the map will come back so strong this year that they will be able to establish a school-boy league between them. These towns are Elora and Fergus, the old rivals on the Grand River. The gutted stick disappeared from Elora several years ago, even though exponents of the game like Eddie Powers and Nick Carter as the best known 'old boys' from that picturesque village. In Fergus the schools think they can organise four teams, and the day has not yet come when Elora will allow Fergus to go one better than they are able to do.

If Elora had its Eddie Powers and Nick Carter, Fergus can boast its 'Bun' Clark and 'Sport' Murton. In that town, as they say themselves, thel acrosse players grow on trees. When Frank Doyle paid them a visit he found that they count upon having an intermediate O. A. L. A. team this year, utilising a great deal of their old material. It is expected that Guelph, Flora and Fergus, with one other twon, will form a district, and the winners of the group ought to figure prominently in the championship fight.

The idea of ten-men teams with shorter fields, now so much discussed originated in Fergus. J. B. Brown brought the matter to the attention of the C. L. A. in 1911, but at that time the good points of such a scheme were not fully realized, and it was defeated at the Good Friday convention.

The booming of the game in the Trent Valley district has roused interest in Hastings, the home of the Doonans, Lamberts, Coughlins and Clappers, once famous with the gutted stick. This town expects to have This town expects to have an intermediate team as well as two organizations for school boys. The mass orgsnizatin meeting was arranged for last night, when Mr. Doyle visited the town.

At Norwood, the home of Fred Doherty, the hockey player, Mr. Doyle found them ready for lacrosse. Rev. Father Kelly, who played lacrosse with Ptcerborough twelve years ago, showed himself to be enthusiastically in favour of bringing the national game into that town. Aided by Dr. Sutton and Mr. Minore, the C. P. R. agent, he will get things started there both among the men and the boys. The name of Rev. Father Kelly is being mentioned for the O. L. A. Council or the Trent Valley district may have another candidate in Mr. Percy Lancaster of Havelock. The latter is the editor of the paper in that town and has the help of such enthusiasts as Dr. Kindred, Dr. Holdcroft, Mr. Butchart, and Mr. Bob Andrews, principal of the school, the last named an old lacrosse player. Havelock will turn out an intermediate and look forward to having schoolboys in the game.

Campbellford and Stirling are also to be on the lacrosse map again this year with intermediate and schoolboy teams. In Stirling there seems little doubt that the game will come back with such a booster behind it as Mr. W. J. Whitty, who is a host in himself.

The O. A. L. A. expects to have an intermediate district composed of Southampton, Port Elgin, Paisley and Chesley, with Midmay also a prospect. It is probable that Southampton, Chesley and Paisley will work together in the formation of a school league. In Chesley the work of getting the organization going has been undertaken by Dr. Crow. Messrs. Leitch, D. J. McLachlan and W. Lutig, with Messrs. McQuarrie and Sanderson, the principals of the schools. They intend to see that the national game remains well in the foreground during the coming summer. The same spirit was found in Paisley, where a strong committee was formed. Southampton has some good lacrosse material and it will be backed by Verne McLean, Bruce Munroe and Dr. Wm. Powers, once a member of the championship Elora Rocks.

No town has made a better showing than Hanover, where they believe that they have enough boys to make up an eight-team league. This is a big undertaking for the town, but when Mr. Doyle paid them a visit he spoke to 150 lads in the schools, which looks very promising. A strong committee was formed of such men as A. S. Magee, school principal, J. S. Kuechtel and Messrs. Armstrong, Mitchell and Lorenz, who will make arrangements to meet half the initial expense that the boys will have in starting to learn the science of the gutted stock.

Lacrosse Is Booming In The Trent Valley Towns

The lacrosse boom in the Trent Valley istrict continues to gather strength. Hastings was once a fine lacrosse town, and contained several very famous players. They now count on handing sticks to the younger generation, and look forward to turning out an intermediate O.A.L.A. team as well as a couple of schoolboy aggregations.

It will e noted that the intermediates are the new teams most in evidence, but the reason for this should be obvious. In towns that have had no lacrosse for several years, enough juniors cannot be found to make a team, but the new clubs consider that senior hopes would be flying too high. Norwood had no team last year, but expects to turn out one for the coming season. It is getting very enthusiastic backing from Rev. Father Kelly, who played lacrosse with Peterborough about a dozen years ago, and who is still an athlete of some ability. There seems to be a possibility that the Trent Valley district will support Father Kelly for the council of the O.A.L.A., though the name of Percy Lancaster, editor of the paper at Havelock, is also mentioned. Whoever runs for the council from that district will be a supporter of the idea of the ten-men team playing on a shorter field.

Havelock, Campbellford and Stirling all expect to be in line once more this year. Mr. Lancaster has been working hard in the first-mentioned town, and he is getting good support. Last year he could not make a showing, but this year he hopes to see two schoolboy teams and an intermediate O.A.L.A. aggregation. The principal of the school, Mr. Bob Andrews, is himself an old player, which should help matters considerably. In Stirling, Mr. W. J. Whitty is working hard at the organization of the team, and his efforts should lead to something. Campbellford can boast the following lacrosse enthusiasts: W. A. Roe, R. P. Sarginson, D. Mitchell, W. Doxsee, Charles Nadon and C. B. Wright, and with such a bunch of stalwarts, the intermediate team as well as the boys ought to be assured.

ANOTHER FIRST SACKER FOR THE PETES

Willie O'Hearn, Lockport, N. Y. Semi-Pro Has Signed

Here is another ball player for the Petes. The Lockport, N.Y., Journal says:

Willie O'Hearn, crack first baseman of the champion North Ends, has attached his signature to the contract which calls for his initial appearance in professional baseball. O'Hearn will go to Peterborough in the Canadian League, and not to Brantford as first stated. He is one lad in many who ought to make good for he is a born baseball star. His playing on the North Ends during the past several seasons has demonstrated thi fact.

The champion North Ends have been noted for their intial sackers during the past 10 or 12 years, but never before has the crack brown and white nine seen such a star as O'Hearn, whose fielding is perfect, and when a hit means a run, Willie is there to slam it out.

It was through the efforts of Chris Clune, the well known sporting authority that O'Hearn secured his position with the Peterborough club. Clune is said to be known to every sporting man of any importance in the United States and Canada. He interested the Canadian League officials in O'Hearn. He is said to have secured many other promising youngsters positions in Big League teams.

Clune secured Lyon Brown, the East Aurora boy, a position with the New York Americans this season. Brown is well known to the baseball fraternity of this city, having pitched against the South Ends last season for the First Ward A. C.

Willie O'Hearn, the star first baseman of the North Ends during the past three years, has attached his signature to a Peterborough contract in the Canadian League. Chris. Clune, a well known former trainer among professional ball clubs, helped considerably, 'tis said, in securing O'Hearn the position. O'Hearn is certainly capable of playing the initial sack, and he should make a name for himself in baseball history.

TWO OF THE RECRUITS ON WHOM BLOUNT IS COUNTING

First Baseman Flanagan

Catcher Kelly

Both these boys were with Erie, Pa., in the Inter-State League last year, and both are young and promising. Flanagan has an ideal build for the first-base position, standing 6 feet 2 inches, and weighing 185 pounds. He is said to be mighty effective with the willow, as well as a clever fielder. Kelly is the catcher whom London was after, but Blount won out when the case came before the Commission. He is very fast and has a great whip. "You'll hear more of Mr. Kelly before the season is over," is the way Manager Blount refers to the player.

CAMBRIDGE WON THE BOAT RACE TO-DAY BY FOUR LENGTHS

Canadian Rowed Third in the Victorious Crew---Race Was a Struggle from the Start But Cambridge Drew Away in the Last Half Mile.

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., March 28.—P. C. Livingston, of Vancouver, B.C., was the hero among the many Canadians who saw the Historic Inter-Collegiate boat race at Putney to-day, when Cambridge defeated Oxford after a hard struggle. Livingston rowed third in the Cambridge crew. The Young Canadian pulled a strong steady oar, exhibiting magnificent staying powers, and was one of the least exhausted of the victorious crew when they rowed across the winning line to the accompaniment of volleys of cheering. Young Livingston is regarded as one of Cambridge's finest all-round athletes.

The race was a struggle from the start, but in the last half mile, of the four and a half mile course, Cambridge drew strongly and steadily away and made a brilliant finish, four lengths ahead of Oxford.

CURLING

The curling is over for the season, and the local lovers of the roarin' game have put away their stanes and besoms until next year. Although the curling season was rather late in starting, the curlers have had during 1914 an uninterrupted spell of ideal curling weather. The season just closed will go down in history as one of the most successful as well as the most enjoyable in the history of the club.

SONGS OF LONG AGO

Just a song at midnight
In a cabaret—
Just a bit of ragtime,
Syncopated, gay—
Makes a fellow think of
Songs he used to know,
Such as "In the Gloaming,"
Songs of long ago.

Life to-day is different
Than it used to be,
Public taste has altered,
Even musically—
And as oft I listen
To a song at eve
Somehow I've a yearning
For "Sweet Genevieve."

Doubtless I'm old-fashioned,
Sort of out of date;
Much too sentimental,
[illegible] state
For I like the old songs
That we used to know,
Like old friends, they wear well,
Songs [illegible] long ago.

Peterboro' Hardware Window Shows Big Display of Tools

The north window of the Peterborough Hardware store presents a pleasing appearance to the skilled mechanic, machinist, carpenter, or in fact to every man who uses and appreciates good tools. Half the pleasure of working is derived from the efficiency of the instruments with which the work is done. The Peterborough Hardware window is an indication of the extensive stock that is carried by the firm, and the names of the manufacturers are guarantees of the quality of the goods. The firm presents an immense stock, as complete as can be gathered. Some of the lines that will commend themselves to the artizans of the city are L. S. Starrett's tools for machinists, the well-known Stanley carpenter's requirements, the "Yankee" tools made by North Bros., showing particularly brain drills, ratchet screw drivers, etc.; also Distonsaws, the widely used Simonds goods, also Shanley electric products. The window shows some of the articles produced by all these companies in addition to others that are carried. Of the latter there are the P.S. & W. pliers for linemen and electricians. Mechanics and workmen have a big stock to choose from, and the north window will give them an idea of what the inside shelves contain.

Some Thoughts On The Greatness Of The Almighty

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Some weeks ago there was a word from a Minister on the outward reasons for faith in God, and then a voice from the pew. Both caused me some thought to which I should like to say a word:

I was born and lived on the same farm for fully sixty-seven years. As a growing lad I used to go out and roll on the grass and watch the stars in the evenings, and about fifty or fifty-five years ago there appeared what is known as a comet, nearly directly northward, evidently travelling at an enormous speed, a little south of west, having an enormous tail. I have never seen anything at all equal to it in grandeur since. I have understood since that it will return in about seventy-five years from that time. It is said that the sun is about ninety-three millions of miles from our earth, and it takes light travelling 186,000 miles per second, about eight minutes to reach our earth, but light coming from the nearest fixed star takes about four years. In watching the starry Heavens I found out what I thought was a fixed star in the north; and what has appeared strange to me, a great deal of that part of the Heavens appears to revolve around it every twenty-four hours and gain a little; with the two leading stars of the Great Dipper always pointing nearly directly to it.

Now, while on the farm I admired the horse, in fact do yet; but I have stood on the street and watched the street car pass along up and down, putting the horse entirely in the shade. Where is the power? I am told, electricity. Ask what is that and nobody can tell me. Man has learned to control, or harness it down, not fully understanding all about it, or else through ignorance or carelessness there are too many lives lost. While living on the farm we used wood for cooking and heating purposes, but now we use coal largely. We all know something about it. Has man had anything to do with creating it? None whatever. He takes it and uses it. Of course it was placed here for man's use, but surely we should thank the Giver. What appears to impress me the most is the large deposits that are being discovered in the West, where there is not much wood for fuel. Why just this week the Witness reports a discovery in Alberta, estimated at two hundred million tons; and even gas, yes, natural gas, I understand, has not only been discovered, but put to minister to the wants of man, in this Dominion. Does not all this speak of a power vastly superior to man's, in placing those things within our reach?

Now, turn to the Bible, with its teaching: "In the beginning God created the Heavens and the earth," Gen. 1st. Psalm 19, "The Heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech; night unto night showeth knowledge. There is no speech, nor language where their voice is not heard." To me there is no jar between the Word and the divine hand in nature. But when we read: "When the fullness of time was come God sent forth His Son, made of a woman—made under the law to redeem them that were under the law that we might receive the adoption of sons,' or "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life,' "infinite power and infinite love have surely reached their limit for man's good.

Of the ten commandments I would maintain only the fifth: "Honour thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.' Amongst the many other things which I failed to do there were two or three things which I did do. I joined the Church to which my father and mother belonged before I was seventeen years old; I drove them to Church till the close; yes, and at last helped to place something to mark their resting place, and my father, with almost his dying breath, (for he was only ailing about seventeen hours), declared his unshaken faith in that old Book, the Bible.

About twenty-seven years ago a number—some at least past childhood days—came to me in the Sabbath School and requested me to become their teacher, with which I complied. Oh, how that drove me by night and day to that old Book, the Bible, for which I am thankful now; yes, and they showed appreciation at different times, coming to my home and taking possession for a time, and enjoying ourselves, and leaving something substantial which I value till this day. And now spending some of my closing days here almost entirely free from ache or pain. What shall I render unto the Lord for all this goodness to me and mine.

As I have written entirely from memory and as I am aware many know much more than I, as shown by letting us know when the eclipse of the moon would occur on the 11th to the hour, and perhaps to the minute, I should like to be set right if I have been astray in some points.

Evangelist On "Wobblers"

Spoke to Large Congregations Yesterday at Park Street Church

Evangelist Pugsley spoke to large congregations yesterday afternoon and evening at Park St. Baptist Church. In the afternoon his subject was "The Day of the Lord." At night the church was well filled, the greatest interest being manifested. Mr. Pugsley's subject last night was "Wobblers," basing his remarks on second Kings, 17-21. God wants each one to weigh carefully His proposition and if He is right, accept it and stand for it at any cost. At the conclusion eight came forward and took a stand for Christ. Mr. G. Peters sang a solo that was splendidly received.

To-morrow will be a red letter day in the history of Park St. Church. At the morning service he will speak on "What Is Death?" At 3 o'clock Evangelist Pugsley will speak to men only, his subject being "Chickens Come Home to Roost." In the evening his subject will be "What Is Heaven?"

LOCAL TALENT AT PICTON

The congregation worshipping in the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, had the privilege of becoming familiarly acquainted with their fine new organ, only recently installed in its place, at last Sunday's services, while on Monday evening the general public, in large numbers, gathered, sincerely interested that this suitable addition to the musical equipment of the church had materialised so effectively and satisfactorily.

The capable musical leader, Mr. E. J. Davey, F.C.O., organist of St. John's Church, Peterborough, in recital numbers, brought out characteristics in tone and power of the organ to special advantage, and his technical mastery of the keyboard, stops and pedals, was very apparent. The various selections on the programme were heard with earnest appreciation.

In the Intermezzo, "Forget Me Not" Allen Macbeth, and "Silver Trumpets March," John Hiles, the musical sweetness and purity of tone was a predominating feature, while the "Dramatic Fantesia," by C. S. Newkomm, furnished opportunity for bringing out the power and expressive forcefulness called for in a great church organ.

The singing of Mr. John Chandler, operatic tenor, Peterborough, the assisting artist in the evenings programme, won gratifying appreciation in each of his selections. His fine voice is both strong and musical, of wide range, and his enunciation is altogether satisfactory. He was heard in "If With All Your Hearts You Truly Seek Me," from the Oratorio of Elijah, "Be Thou Faithful Unto Death," Mendelssohn, and "King Ever Glorious," Stainer.

The new organ presents a very artistic appearance and fits in harmoniously with appointments of choir and chancel in this church noticeable for quiet simplicity of details in all arrangements. It has two manuals, with console facing the congregation, and was built by the Cassivan Co. of Montreal, at a cost of $4,000.

Publication of The Assessment Is Necessary

The ratepayers of every municipality are entitled to know the assessment of each property in the municipality and to such form that they may compare their own assessment with those of others owning similar property. Frequently one hears talk about the inequality of the assessment of the farms. A lot of this talk is not based on fact, but the publication of the figures would place the property owners in the possession of the acurate figures, at least they would be more justified with their own assessment, or be in better position to appeal their case. As it is they cannot secure the necessary information without a visit to the Clerk's office and a long search through the assessment roll. The pubication of the assessment roll is certainly needed and many places are having it done. — Warkworth Journal.

Stock Markets

A. E. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

The stock market is still moving along in a very narrow channel with attacks by professionals on valuable spots and will probably show a sagging market. Lehegh Valley's action is a warning to operators to buy for long account securities, the companies of which are not exhibiting a reasonable margin of safety over dividend requirements. More liquidation is reported on Lehegh on rallies.

Floor traders are trying to break steel on the theory that its reaction has not been sufficient. On the other hand the buying of good copper stocks on reactions is of first class, but on scale down. The same may be said of the high grade earning power of railroads like U.P., Bdg., G.O. and Nfd.

St. Frances' Graduate Killed.

NEW YORK, March 30. — Arthur J. Slevin, said to be a graduate of St. Francis College, Montreal, was found murdered in the cellar of a Sixth avenue saloon, where he was employed, yesterday. He had been choked to death with a belt, and his skull cleft with an axe. The pockets of the clothes were inside out, but the police said that as Slevin was without money they did not believe robbery was the motive for the crime. An employe of the saloon is being sought for.

Slevin, 26 years old and formerly a salesman for a Chicago packing house, was said to be the son of the owner of a chain of barber shops in Boston. Letters and postal cards from a young woman living up state were found in Slevin's pockets.

Grey Hairs a Source of Discontent

Every woman wishes to look young always. Grey hairs mean the passing of youth's charm. They are the source of many a heartache to many and many a woman. But they need not be. Hay's Hair Health restores grey hair to its natural colour. It is not a dye.

By its tonic qualities, by promoting a more vigorous healthy growth of the hair, by removing dandruff, by furnishing to the scalp and hair roots a new life it brings back the real colour and lustre of the hair.

APPEAL FOR BLIND

King George's Message Flashed to Over a Thousand Ships

FOR BRAILLE LITERATURE

LONDON, March 30. — At the stroke of midnight the King's world-wide wireless appeal to ships on behalf of the blind was flashed from the high-power stations at Poldhu and Cape Cod.

The following is the preparatory message first sent to "operators on all long-distance steamers":

"Offer every ship you meet to-night's appeal to commanders for the blind. Also ask every ship to relay the appeal through to ships on every ocean.

(Signed) "Expanse."

Then at midnight the King's message itself, in the form of a "newspaper story," so as to be immediately available for publication in the steamers' newspapers, winged its way through the ether:

"To commanders of all steamers:

"King George and the blind.

"First wireless appeal on record.

"King George, in opening the new premises of the National Institute for the Blind on March 19, wished God-speed to the appeal for books in Braille for the sightless, which, his Majesty said, would 'Break down the barrier shutting out the blind from the common interest of life.'

"King George further said:

"'I am confident that your appeal for funds will stir the imagination of many who unreflectingly enjoy the blessings of sight.'

"Books in Braille are practically the only solace of the blind, and in view of his Majesty's speech, which guarantees the genuineness and urgency of this appeal, may we ask you to arrange during the voyage subscriptions to this first appeal on record made by wireless.

"This appeal is made to all on board of British ships and even to sympathetic friends on ships flying other flags, who are grateful that they are not blind.

"Kindly send proceeds to Lord Mayor's Funds for the Blind, Mansion House, London.

"This message is sent you gratis by the kindness of the Marconi Company.

(Signed) "J. Arthur Pearson, Honorary Treasurer of the National Institute for the Blind."

It is estimated that forty-five ships on the North and South Atlantic and on the Mediterranean within the 1,500-mile radius of Poldhu and Cape Cod, equipped with apparatus for receiving the message from these high-power stations, heard the King's appeal, and speedily transmitted it to at least fifty-five other steamers which were incapable of hearing from Poldhu or Cape Cod.

These hundred are continuing to relay the wireless appeal till it girdles the world, more than 1,000 ships ultimately getting it.

The appeal was heard by the White Star liner Baltic 819 miles away from Poldhu, and at Cape Cod it was picked up by the Carmania.

NOW PARIS HAS IT.

But Suffragette Meeting Yields To Simple Police Methods.

PARIS, March 30.—French suffragettes yesterday made their first attempt to hold an outdoor meeting on a street of the boulevards. The meeting had been frowned upon by the principal women suffrage associations and consequently there were few women who responded to the call for the rally.

A compact throng of male spectators was on hand for the proposed demonstration, however.

On a big board which hung from the balcony of one of the buildings, was the following inscription: "We want votes for women. We want to collaborate in making the laws we obey. We denounce with indignation the legal sham which gives us the quality of French women without the rights of citizens."

Several women made speeches, after which an attempt was made to march to the boulevards, but the demonstrators were politely dispersed by a small body of police.

REBELS FAIR BADLY

Wounded Still Pour Into Chihuahua From the Front

OROZCO MEN DESPERATE

CHIHUAHUA, March 30. — Such news as reached here from the front yesterday was unfavorable to the rebels. Wounded rebel soldiers continued to arrive by train, bringing the number now here to 536. Several hundred other wounded were being provided for at Jimines, and batches of wounded were being distributed at Parral and Santa Rosalia.

This evidence of the sanguinary at Torreon, with the suggestion that the list of dead on the rebel side necessarily would have a great tendency to make headquarters reticent about the progress of the battle. The officers admitted they have received despatches from the front, but they declined to reveal the contents.

The reports originated from one of the hospitals after more men came in, that Gen. Francisco Villa had been wounded slightly and compelled to retire from the front. The report was based merely on the word of a wounded soldier, who, however, insisted he had seen Villa wounded. He declared for moral effect the news was withheld from the rank of the rebel army.

Gen. Villa's delay in taking Torreon, it is said, has revived the belief that, should the Huerta forces drive him north, something in the nature of a northern republic embracing the states bordering on the United States will be established. The plan of separating the north from the south of Mexico has long been contemplated by some of the rebel leaders.

Unless decisive results are achieved soon the financial affairs of the rebel territory will reach a crisis, according to men in authority. Six million pesos in fiat money are in circulation in the states of Chihuahua, Durango and parts of Zacatecas, and this money is steadily decreasing in purchasing power, with no prospective reserve backing, while more is being issued.

Fate Still In Balance.

JUAREZ, Mexico, March 30. — It was believed here yesterday that the assault of Gen. Villa on Torreon Saturday night was repulsed, or at best that some incident unknown here prevented the attack.

The last word from the rebel general came at 11 o'clock Saturday night, when a telegram from him was quoted as saying that the taking of the city was not a matter of hours but of minutes.

This was premature, for even Gen. Carranza said on his arrival yesterday that he had received no word from the front, and that evidently Villa had not yet taken the Federal stronghold.

In Juarez it was confidently expected that news of the capture of the city would form the chief feature of the welcome to Gen. Carranza and the fact that no message of success of any kind was awaiting him was accepted as indicating that the fate of the city was still in the balance yesterday.

A report was received at Gen. Chao's headquarters last night that a force of Federal volunteers, or former Orozquistas, attempted to cut their way out of Torreon yesterday, but were driven back with great loss. Gen. Villa long ago gave notice that no quarter would be given any Federal volunteers found under arms, and this is prompting those in the ranks of Velasco's army at Torreon to fight with desperation. They may be killed in battle, but they know they surely will be killed if captured.

It is believed Velasco has taken advantage of this situation to force the Federal volunteers into the position of the greatest danger in the defence of Torreon.

Students Fired Upon.

MEXICO CITY, March 30. — Already small demonstrations against President Huerta have occurred in the streets of the capital. The police last night fired upon a small crowd of students who were marching and shouting "Mueras" for Huerta and making remarks derogatory to the Government.

Federal Defeat Reported.

MEXICO CITY, March 30. — Four hundred Federals have been defeated in an engagement north of San Luis Potosi, according to consular advices, which add that traffic north of San Luis Potosi has been suspended.

The occupation of Chilpancingo, capital of the State of Guerrero, by the rebels is officially admitted.

CORNEA GRAFTED ON.

Part of Pig's Eye Gives Sight to Nine Months Old Babe.

BALTIMORE, March 30. — Sight has been given to the left eye of David Kane, nine-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kane, of Gettysburg, Pa., through the grafting of the cornea of a pig's eye to the child's eye-ball, according to a statement of physicians at a hospital here. Certain tests, they declare, have brought out this fact without a doubt.

When the bandage was removed from the eye it was declared the child followed the course of a lighted candle, which was moved in front of him. Another test that brings out the fact more clearly is that the child now winks his eyelid if a finger or a small object is waved close to his eye.

The operation was performed last Monday, and the cornea of the pig's eye was used because it is said it more closely resembles the human cornea than that of any other animal.

The child's eye to-day is said to be perfectly clear and free from inflammation.

ATTACK ON ZELAYA.

MADRID, March 30.—A despatch received here from Barcelona says that an attempt was made yesterday to assassinate Jose Santos Zelaya, former President of Nicaragua, at Casa Torres, where Zelaya resides.

A man who said his name was Rosas, and who declared that he was a Nicaraguan, entered the residence of Zelaya, drew a revolver and fired at the astonished ex-President. Zelaya was not hit by the bullet. Rosas was immediately overpowered and arrested. Replying to questions put to him by the police Rosas said Zelaya when President of Nicaragua was responsible for the death of his uncle, and that he had been pursuing him ever since in order to avenge his dead kinsman.

"I HAVE GAINED FIFTEEN POUNDS

Since Taking "Fruit-a-tives" And Feel Like A New Person"

DEVEDALE, ONT., June 15th, 1913. "I am a general storekeeper at the above address and, on account of the great good I have experienced from using "Fruit-a-tives", I recommend them strongly to my customers. They were a great boon to me, I can tell you, for about two years ago, I was laid up in bed with vomiting and a most terrific pain at the base of my skull. This pain nearly drove me mad. Doctors feared it would turn to Inflammation of the Brain, but I took "Fruit-a-tives" steadily until I was cured. I have gained fifteen pounds since taking "Fruit-a-tives" and I verily believe they saved me from a disastrous illness".

"THE MAYOR'S WIFE"

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

I wondered if it would be any relief to her to have Mr. Steele remain upon the premises. I had heard him come in about three o'clock and go into the study, and when the time came for her friends to take their leave, and their voices in merry chatter came up to my ear from the open boudoir door, I stole down to ask her if I could suggest it to him. But I was too late. Just as I reached the head of the stairs on the second floor he came out of the study below and passed, hat in hand, toward the front door.

"What a handsome man!" came in an audible whisper from one of the ladies, who now stood in the lower hall;

"Who is he?" asked the other.

I thought he held the door open one one minute longer than was necessary to catch her reply. It was a very cold and unenthusiastic one.

"That is Mr. Packard's secretary, said she. "He will join the mayor just as soon as he has finished certain preparations entrusted to him."

"Oh!" was their quiet rejoinder, but a note of disappointment rang in both voices as the door shut behind him.

"One does not often see a perfectly handsome man."

I stepped down to meet her when she in turn had shut the door upon them.

But I stopped half way. She was standing with her head turned away from me and the knob still in her hand. I saw that she was thinking or was the prey of some rapidly growing resolve.

Suddenly she seized the key and turned it.

"The house is closed for the night," she announced as she looked up and met my astonished gaze. "No one goes out or comes in here again till morning. I have seen all the visitors I have strength for." And though she did not know I saw it, she withdrew the key and slipped it into her pocket. "This is Nixon's night out," she murmured, as she led the way to the library. "Ellen will wait on us and we'll have the baby down and play games and be as merry as ever we can be,—to keep the ghosts away," she cried in fresh, defiant tones that had just the faintest suggestion of hysteria in them. "We shall succeed; I don't mean to think of it again. I'm right in that, am I not? You look as if you thought so. Ah, Mr. Packard was kind to secure me such a companion. I must prove my gratitude to him by keeping you close to me. It was a mistake to have those light-headed women visit me to-day. They tired me more than they comforted me."

I smiled, and put the question which concerned me most nearly.

"Does Nixon stay late when he goes out?"

She threw herself into a chair and took up her embroidery.

"He will to-night," was her answer. "A little grandniece of his is coming on a late train from Pittsburg. I don't think the train is due till midnight, and after that he's got to take her to his daughter's on Carey Street. It will be one o'clock at least before he is back."

I hid my satisfaction. Fate was truly auspicious. I would make good use of his absence. There was nobody else in the house whose surveillance I feared.

"Pray send for the baby now," I exclaimed. "I am eager to begin our merry evening."

She smiled and rang the bell for Letty, the nurse.

Late that night I left my room and stole softly down-stairs. Mrs. Packard had ordered a bed made up for herself in the nursery and had retired early. So had Ellen and Letty. The house was therefore clear below stairs, and after I had passed the second story I felt myself removed from all human pressure as though I were all alone in the house.

This was a relief to me, yet the experience was not a happy one. Ellen had asked permission to leave the light burning in the hall during the mayor's absence, so the way was plain enough before me; but no parlour floor looks inviting after twelve o'clock at night, and this one held a secret as yet unsolved, which did not add to its comfort or take the mysterious threat from the shadows lurking in corners and under stairways which I had to pass. As I hurried past the place where the clock had once stood, I thought of the nurse's story and of the many frightened hearts which had throbbed on the stairway I had just left and between the walls I was fast approaching; but I did not turn back. That would have been an acknowledgement of the truth of what I was at this very time exciting my full faculties to disprove.

I knew little about the rear of the house and nothing about the cellar. But when I had found my way into the kitchen and lit the candle I had brought from my room, I had no difficulty in deciding which of the many doors led below. There is something about a cellar door which is unmistakable, but it took me a minute to summon up courage to open it after I had laid my hand on its old-fashioned latch. Why do we so hate darkness and the chill of unknown regions, even when we know they are empty of all that can hurt or really frighten us. I was as safe there as in my bed upstairs, yet I had to force myself to consider more than once the importance of my errand and the positive result which it might have in allaying the disturbance in more than one mind, before I could lift that latch and set my foot on the short flight which led into the yawning blackness beneath me.

But once on my way I took courage. I pictured to myself the collection of useful articles with which the spaces before me were naturally filled, and thought how harmless were the sources of the grotesque shadows which bowed to me from every side and even from the cement floor toward the one spot where the stones of the foundation showed themselves clear of all encumbering objects. As I saw how numerous these articles were, and how small a portion of the wall itself was really visible, I had my first practical fear, and a practical fear soon puts imaginary ones to flight. What if some huge box or case of bottles should have been piled up in front of the marked brick I was seeking? I am strong, but I could not move such an object alone, and this search was a solitary one; I had been forbidden to seek help.

The anxiety this possibility involved nerved me to instant action. I leaped froward to the one clear spot singled out for me by chance and began a hurried scrutiny of the short strip of wall which was all that was revealed to me on the right-hand side. Did it hold the marked brick? My little candle shook with eagerness and it was with difficulty I could see the face of the brick close enough to determine. But fortune favoured, and presently my eye fell on one whose surface showed a rudely scratched cross. It was in the lowest row and well within reach of my hand. If I could move it the box would soon be in my possession—and what might that box not contain!

Looking about, I found the furnace and soon the gas jet which made attendance upon it possible. This lit, I could set my candle down, and yet see plainly enough to work. I had shears in my pocket. I have had a man's training in the handling of tools and felt quite confident that I could pry this brick out if it was as easily loosened as Bess had given me to understand. My first thrust at the dusty cement enclosing it encouraged me greetly. It was very friable and so shallow that my scissors'-point picked it at once. In five minutes' time the brick was clear, so that I easilylifted it out and set it on the floor. The small black hole which was left was large enough to admit my hand. I wasted no time thrusting it in, expecting to feel the box at once and draw it out. But it was farther back than I expected, and while I was feeling about something gave way and fell with a slight, rustling noise out of my reach. Was it the box? No, for in another instant I had come in contact with its broken edges and had drawn it out; the falling object must have been some extra mortar, and it had gone where? I did not stop to consider then. The object in my hand was too alluring; the size, the shape too suggestive of a package of folded bonds for me to think of anything but the satisfaction of my curiosity and the consequent clearing of a very serious mystery.

Just at this moment, one of intense excitement, I heard, or thought I heard, a stealthy step behind me. Forcing myself to calmness however, I turned and, holding the candle high, convinced myself that I was alone in the cellar.

Carrying the box nearer the light, I pulled off its already loosened string and lifted the cover. In doing this I suffered from no qualms of conscience. My duty seemed very clear to me, and the end, a totally impersonal one more than justified the means.

A folded paper met my eyes—one —not of the kind I expected; then some letters whose address I caught at a glance. "Elizabeth Brainard"—a discovery which might have stayed my hand at another time, but nothing could stay it now. I opened the paper and looked at it. Alas! it was only her marriage certificate; I had taken all this trouble and all this risk, only to rescue for her the proof of her union with one John Silverthorn Brainard. The same name was on her letters. Why had Bess so strongly insisted on a secret search, and why had she concealed her license in so strange a place?

Greatly sobered, I restored the paper to its place in the box, slipped on the string and prepared to leave the cellar with it. Then I remembered the brick on the floor and the open hole where it had been, and afterward the something which had fallen over within and what this space might mean in a seemingly solid wall.

More excited now even than I had been at any time before, I thrust my hand in again and tried to sound the depth of this unexpected far-reaching hole; but the sine of my arm stood in the way of my experiment, and, drawing out my hand, I looked about for a stick, and finding one, plunged that in. To my surprise and growing satisfaction it went in its full length—about three feet. There was a cavity on the other side of this wall of very sizable dimensions. Had I struck the suspected passage? I had great hope of it. Nothing else would account for so large a space on the other side of a wall which gave every indication of being one with the foundation. Catching up my stick I made a rude estimate of its location, after which I replaced the brick, put out the gas, and caught up Bess' box. Trembling, and more frightened now than at my descent at my own footfall and tremulous pursuing shadow, I went up-stairs.

As I passed the corridor leaving to the converted vestibule which had so excited my interest in the afternoon, I paused and made a hurried calculation. If the stick had been three feet long, as I judged, and my stride was thirty inches, then the place of that hole in the wall below was directly in a line with where I now stood,—in other words, under the vestibule floor, as I had already suspected.

How was I to verify this without disturbing Mrs. Packard? That was a question to sleep on But it took me a long time to get to sleep.

"MY STOMACH IS FINE

Since Taking Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets"

Mrs. J. Marthanger, Waterloo, Ont., enthusiastically recommends Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets. Her experience with them, as she outlines it, explains why.

"I was greatly troubled with my stomach", she writes. "I had taken so much medicine that I might say to take any more would only be making it worse. My stomach just felt raw. I read of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, and a lady friend told me they were very easy to take, so I thought I would give them a trial and really they worked wonders. Anyone having anything wrong with his stomach should give Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets a trial, they will do the rest. My stomach is fine now and I can eat any food."

One of the many good features of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is that they are so pleasant and easy to take. The relief they give from heartburn, flatulence, biliousness and dyspepsia is prompt and permanent. Try one after each meal—they'll make you feel like a new person.

Weak back is caused by weak kidneys, and on the first approach or evidence of kidney trouble Doan's Kidney Pills should be used, and serious trouble avoided.

Doan's Kidney Pills go right to the seat of the trouble, cure the weak aching back, and prevent any further complications arising.

Mr. John Briggs, Whitewood, Sask., writes:—"I am sending you this testimonial out of pure gratitude, as I am not a believer in patent medicines, but I got so run down, that I became quite willing to give anything a trial. I paid a visit to our local druggist, and told him I was suffering intense agony with my back. The Desire For Harmony With God a Part of Man's Original Perfection—Some Naturally Drawn to God—Faith the First Step—Consecration the Second Step—Then Growth In Grace and Knowledge—Lessons In the School of Christ—Justice the Foundation of Character—Love the Superstructure—The Great Test of Character.

[The matter under this heading is supplied by the Pastor Russell Lecture Bureau, who conduct the Brooklyn Tabernacle (unsectarian) Bible Studies, and who have arranged for its insertion.]

March 19.—Pastor Russell preached a very interesting discourse to-day on Holiness. His text was: "As He which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation." (1 Peter 1:15.) He said in part:

The Scriptures explicitly declare that our great Creator made man in His own image and likeness, and pronounced His creature very good. But when sin entered the world, through the disobedience of Father Adam, he was cut off from fellowship with his Creator—as a part of the penalty of sin. This alienation from God must have been one of man's most grievous trials. He must have hungered and thirsted to draw near to God once more, to have the Divine protection, the Divine love; otherwise he could not have been created in the perfect image of God.

But as centuries rolled on Adam's posterity became more and more depraved and demoralized; the original character-likeness to God became blurred, faint, indistinct. So while the desire for God still remains, in some it is more pronounced than in others. In some it is so feeble that they care little for their Creator and are easily satisfied by the pleasures of the world or by the sensualities of life.

Many are separated from God through ignorance, superstition and the doctrines of demons, as the Bible declares. Misunderstanding our gracious Creator, they are thus driven away from Him. Whatever of natural inclination they have had the Adversary seeks to thwart. As St. Paul declares, "The god of this world hath blinded the minds of them that believe not, lest the light of the glorious Gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them" (2 Corinthians 4:4), should scatter the darkness and make known to them the true character of God; and thus they should be drawn to Him.

But with some of the race desire for God and righteousness has prevailed above the stupefying influence of the world, the flesh and the Devil. This class are drawn by the natural inclination of their minds Godward—desiring to be in harmony with their Creator. While these who were not born of religious parents have had a large experience with sin and alienation from God, others, born in a measure of justification, have had a measure of fellowship with God always, as children of believers. This class are in a favorable condition to be drawn of God, and to hear His voice speaking peace to them and pointing them to Jesus Christ as the Way, the Truth, the Life.

As these come to appreciate our Lord's beautiful character and His loyalty to the Father, and to understand that He came into the world to die for Adam's sin, their hearts respond with increasing gratitude to the Redeemer and to the Heavenly Father, whose Plan our Lord was carrying out. More and more do they long to draw closer to God, and to be recognized of Him as members of His family. Through the Word the Master instructs them that whoever will walk in His steps shall eventually see God in the fulness of Heavenly glory.

Still further study of the Scriptures informs this class that the next step to be taken is one of faith. "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." Those who take this step must recognize that they are sinners, under the Adamic sentence, from which no one can be freed except in God's appointed way—Jesus. Then by faith they must accept Jesus as the Redeemer of Adam and his posterity. They must perceive that His death on Calvary was a sacrificial one; and that the grand outcome of this Ransom sacrifice will be that the Kingdom of God will be established in the earth for the purpose of uplifting mankind out of sin and death conditions—back to the full image of God in the flesh.

These who take this first step may know what is the second step; and if they have sufficient faith to take this step, their sins will be forgiven and they will be granted a new nature. This second step is to accept God's invitation to "present their bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, their reasonable service." Those who accept this invitation are thus privileged to sacrifice their all of earthly time, talent, wealth, etc. When they have so done, our Lord imputes to them individually His merit, and thus makes them holy and acceptable unto God, who immediately accepts them and begets them of His Holy Spirit.

Thenceforth they are New Creatures—"old things have passed away and all things become new." They are now counted as members of His glorious Church. Their sins that are past are all cleansed; and the New Creature has no defilement of itself. But attaching to the flesh are certain imperfections, which from time to time crop out. The New Creature is to be prompt to notice these; for the New Creature is the new will which henceforth regulates the mortal body.

Apparently some of God's dear people have not realized what a contract they have on hand. Some are inclined to be careless about watching the very things which they have been told to watch. It is for all the consecrated to remember that their first obligation is in respect to their own flesh, not that of others. We may give each other valuable suggestions, but the responsibility for the body rests with each as a New Creature. And here we have the task of our lives; for in our flesh, as the Apostle says, dwells no perfection. Some have one degree of imperfection and some another; some are more imperfect and blemished in one way and others in another. But as the Scriptures continually assure us, there is none righteous, none perfect, no, not one. We all come short and need to recognize our shortcomings; and we are to fight the good fight against them.

Whoever would be of the class to which God has called us must of necessity be developed; therefore whoever God has called, accepted and begotten of the Holy Spirit are in the School of Christ. Then begin the lessons which they must learn—they must grow in grace, in knowledge and in love. As the Apostle explains, they must be transformed—be formed over. If they are not thus transformed, they will not be ready for the Kingdom to which they are called. This transforming is not a work in the flesh, although it will affect the flesh to some extent. It is the renewing of the mind—their minds must become new. Thereafter matters are to be decided, not according to their preferences, but according to certain principles—justice and love. The New Creatures in Christ have a set of new rules, altogether different from what they had before they became New Creatures.

The world has no such rules and regulations as those which are applicable to the New Creatures in Christ. Everything done by those who are in the School of Christ must be squared by the Rule of Justice. They dare not do anything that would be unjust to a neighbor, to a brother or to anybody. To the full extent of their ability the New Creatures must render justice. Many of the Lord's people apparently have not fully realized this fact—that obedience to the rules governing the new nature means absolutely the Golden Rule on their part toward all others. They must not do to others what they would not have others do to them.

Because of failure on the part of some to recognize this principle, the way of the Lord is spoken evil of sometimes. If a Christian fails to pay his debts, or if he is careless as to how he involves himself in debt, it is because this principle of justice does not stand out prominently enough before his mind. As an old creature he has perhaps been in the habit of ignoring the lines of justice and of sliding along as he may be able and of leaving others in the lurch. This will not do for the New Creature; for he has come under a set of new rules, and no matter how much the old creature may seek to shirk, the New Creature's duty is to bring the body into subjection and to see that justice rules in every act and word, and so far as possible in every thought.

To whatever extent the principles of justice control our minds, to that extent we have character-likeness to God. The cultivation of these principles in all our actions and dealings, in all our words and thoughts, must be our daily concern. It may be comparatively easy to be just so far as money is concerned, to say, I would pay to the very last penny, and would live on the plainest of food rather than be in debt; but it is not so easy to be thoroughly just in our words and thoughts. The New Creature is to sit in judgment on every word which his mouth may utter. It is no wonder that St. James says that if any man sin not with his tongue the same is a perfect man. The New Creature is to be on guard that he may be developed along this line, and must thoroughly shew the Lord that he has no sympathy with injustice.

One must be just in his thoughts before he can be properly just in his dealings. The man who thinks unjustly will act unjustly, in spite of himself; therefore the New Creature must be disciplined even to the control of his thoughts. He must never think of any one except with an unprejudiced mind, a calm judgment, seeking to give others the benefit of the doubt, if there is any doubt whatever. Additionally, he must heed the Lord's counsel that we should exercise great mercy, and that He would rather have us err in the sense of being too lenient than have us be merely just.

But beyond justice comes love, the very highest of God's attributes. God is just; but He is Love, also, which is higher, in the sense that it implies something more than mere justice. Not only will God do full justice to everybody, but He will do a little more—He will do something of love. This He shows us in His dealings with mankind. God was only just when He condemned the race of Adam as unfit for everlasting life; and He would still have been just if He had never provided redemption or any other opportunity for the world whatever.

God is more than just, however, and so in due time He provided the Redeemer. This was Grace, this was Mercy, this was Love. And Love has been working all through His great Plan of the Ages, providing first the Saviour, then making provision for the Church, that through His mercy we might come from the ranks of sinners up to the ranks of glory. To accomplish this, He has forgiven the sins of the Church, has encouraged them by assurances of His love and favor all the way, and has made all things work together for their good.

This, then, is the Love of God; and the New Creatures in Christ must have this character-likeness to God. We must have love, sympathy, and not merely justice. There is nothing of grace in the giving of justice; anything less than justice is wrong. But the Lord's people must be more than just; they are to be kindly affectioned one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake has forgiven them. Our Heavenly Father wishes His children to see that quality in His character and to copy it. This is what Jesus meant when He said, "Be ye perfect, even as your Father in Heaven is perfect." We cannot bring our mortal body to that degree of perfection where every act would be perfect, every word perfect, but the mind must be in full sympathy and accord with God and His arrangements, and each must strive to the best of his ability to bring the body into harmony with God.

As the Bible teaches, the Church class are in the School of Christ, being taught of God—His workmanship. By His providence and His Word He has been working in us, by our experiences, which He has shaped for us, and by the opportunities which He gives us. All these things are designed by the Lord to bless us and to develop us in His own character-likeness, so that, as Jesus said, we may be like unto our Father in Heaven, so that we may be holy, even as He is holy—that our intentions, aims, desires, may be of exactly the same kind as His own.

If, therefore, any one who professes to be a New Creature in Christ has in his heart a feeling of bitterness, envy or strife, let him beware! Such a condition of heart is dangerous; it is not of the Holy Spirit at all. Those who have such elements of character are not holy as the Heavenly Father is holy. On the contrary, as the Apostle explains, these qualities of character are works of the flesh and of the Devil; and to whatever extent one possesses these, they are the result of the spirit of the flesh and of the Devil at work in the heart.

But if, on the contrary, one has holiness and a fulness of desire to know and to do God's will as an increasing power in his heart, then he is indeed being sealed of the Holy Spirit of God. The character-likeness of our Father in Heaven is being impressed upon him. He is more and more coming to see things from God's viewpoint—to see as God sees, to sympathize with the things with which God sympathizes, to be opposed to the things to which God is opposed.

Of our Lord Jesus it was written: "Thou lovest righteousness, and hatest iniquity; therefore God, Thy God, hath anointed Thee with the oil of joy above Thy fellows" (Psalm 45:7)—above the angels, above the Church, making Him to be Head over all things to the Church and decreeing that all the angels shall worship Him. (Hebrews 1:6-9.) In order to copy Him we must see to what extent He loved righteousness and hated iniquity. He so hated wickedness that in every way He avoided injustice, iniquity, unrighteousness, sin; and He so loved righteousness that He preferred to die even the death of the cross rather than to resist the will of God.

This, then, is the great test of character going on with the Lord's people, and according to these lines God is dealing with them. It is not merely that they are fighting the good fight and trying to accomplish something in their flesh; for the New Creature will never succeed in getting as good control of the flesh as he could wish. But what God wishes to see in His people is that their whole hearts are set for righteousness, that they love the right and hate the wrong, and that they are striving to the best of their ability to put down the wrong and to uphold the right, especially in themselves—in their own characters and in their own acts, words and thoughts.

So shall they be the children of the Highest; and when our great Redeemer shall examine them for graduation from the School of Christ, He shall be ready to say to each, "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things."

"My life flows on in endless song,
I catch the sweet, tho' far-off hymn,
That hails a New Creation.
Through all the tumult and the strife,
I hear the music ringing;
It finds an echo in my soul—
How can I keep from singing?

"I lift mine eyes; the cloud grows thin;
I see the blue above it:
And day by day this pathway smooths,
Since first I learned to love it.
The Peace of Christ makes fresh my heart,
A fountain ever springing;
All things are mine since I am His—
How can I keep from singing!"

A WONDERFUL CURE OF AN ABSCESS BY Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mr. A. W. Dryden, Amherst, N.S. writes:—"I am going to tell you what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for us. My son "Vance," when only nine months old, got an abscess on his cheek bone. I took him to a doctor in St. John, N.B., and he lanced it, and told me it would get well in a few days, and wanted me to keep it squeezed out. It did not seem to get any better, so my wife took him back. The Doctor told her to take him home and it would soon get better. It would gather and break, and it went on that way until he was over four years old.

"He lost four pieces of bone out of where it was lanced, and two pieces came from his mouth; he has lost all of his cheek bone, and his eye was drawn down. I took him to doctors in St. John, Moncton, and Amherst, and all wanted me to let him go under an operation. He was so small I told them that if he was going to die he might as well die as he was as to go there and be all cut to pieces, so I declined to have the operation done. I told them I was going to try Burdock Blood Bitters, as I had heard my mother talk so much about it. I got a bottle, and when it was about half gone noticed it was doing good, and before many days the sore stopped running, and healed up, and the abscess has never broken out again. This happened nearly six years ago, so you can see I have great faith in Burdock Blood Bitters, and I can say with all my heart that it is the best blood medicine in the world."

Some of the Trials of Territorial Policemen in England.

The observant civilian in London and other garrison towns will have occasionally noticed, stalking in rear of an alert and grim-looking non-com. in blue uniform and scarlet cap, a brace of brawny soldiers, Guardsmen or line, wearing on their right cuffs an armlet, with the mystic letters R.M.P.

The non-com. in blue is a "Red Cap"—one of the Military Police force, whose duty it is to keep order among soldiers out of barracks, and the men in rear are his "bulldogs," stout fellows, specially picked for this duty from the troops in the district.

What is sauce for Tommy is also sauce for the Territorial, and whenever the latter is under arms, in camp, or quarters, his corps is called upon, by regulation, to provide an adequate police force, to keep him in paths of virtue and righteousness.

It says much for the "Terrier" that such duty is nearly always a sinecure. But occasionally a "job" falls in the way of the Territorial R.M.P., and then his lot is no happier than the rest of his kind.

The writer has a lively recollection of one encounter. My battalion that year was brigaded with others near a certain seaside resort, and having secured unto myself the billet of provost-sergeant, I was strolling one evening, with regulation tread, along the parade, when I spied a swaying crowd just ahead of me.

I headed towards the crowd blithely. It burst asunder at sight of me, and revealed a perspiring civilian "bobby" dancing, as it seemed, a vigorous two-step with a large and inebriated Territorial, belonging to a corps encamped some three miles away.

Spotting my police badge, my comrade in blue called on me to participate. I hesitated coyly. There was a look in his partner's eye which I did not like; the look of a vicious horse. But, as the representative of military law and order I was not only bound to aid him in his capture, but had to take the large and ipebriated Territorial into my own charge, and march him to camp as best I could.

I looked round for help, and, curiously enough, where there had been a dozen khaki-clad spectators a minute before, there was not a sign of one now to be seen.

In early days I had been something of a boxer, and to my knowledge of the fistic art I attribute the fact that at the end of half an hour I had skull-dragged my prisoner some forty yards across the marine parade and immersed him temporarily in a bathing-machine. My own piquet happened along just then, and I was able to consign my prisoner to their care.

Next night, on returning to camp, after seeing the "bounds" closed, I found the guard-tent in a state of siege with another inebriated specimen, crawling round on his hands and knees, trying to fight his way out under the bedding, and the guard outside frustrating his endeavors with tent-pegs and mallet handles.

I demanded to know whether the prisoner had been searched according to regulation, and deprived of his boots and belt. The corporal said he had not. He expressed an opinion, moreover, that it would be more than anyone's life was worth to attempt it, a view which the prisoner, with his head poked under the canvas, heartily endorsed.—London Answers.

Pioneer Builders.

A family begin one day (we'd think it quite a task)
To build themselves a house without a hammer, saw or axe,
And not a nipper or plane had they, and yet they did not fail
To build the house as they had planned—without a carver or nail.
They went to work with right good will, and when a tree they found
That they could use in building they felled it to the ground
And sawed it up in just the lengths they needed for the work.
Then put each piece together, and no one thought to shirk.
And so they built their house complete, above but underneath,
And all the tools they had to use were only just their teeth!
The beavers put their houses their to "pioneer days"
And with the "new inventions" have never changed their ways.

A PAGE OF THE BEST HUMOR OF THE WEEK

The Humane Hermit.

Once upon a time a traveler discovered a hermit basking in the sunshine at the entrance of his cave.

"I presume," inquired the wayfarer "that you were driven to abandon the haunts of men and embark in the hermit profession by reason of the weariness caused by the efforts of other people to pry into your business?"

"Not so!" replied the hermit. "I took to the wilds because I could not restrain my curiosity about other people's business."

Thereupon the traveler bowed low and said, "For once in my life I see a man who possesses a willingness to take the same medicine that he prescribes for others!"

A Good Thing.

Fuze—Has Suburbs a well-appointed house?

Shaw—He must have. Since he moved out to Caneyhurst his neighbors never think of going anywhere else when they want to borrow anything.

Foiled.

Madge—How was it you didn't have a good time at the reception?

Marjorie—I heard a story about a girl who was there, but she kept within hearing all the time, and I couldn't tell it to anybody.

Winter Training.

"You have more stamina," commented the delighted manager. "Seem to be able to go a longer route. Your winter training must have helped you."

"I think it did," said the wise pitcher. "You see, last winter I only did twenty minutes in vaudeville. This winter I was out with a five-act play."

Inspiration.

"You can't write verse on some subjects. Now, for instance, what poetry is there in a pork chop?"

"I can see you've never been real hungry."

Bad Luck!

Postman: "Bad luck, Mr. Doolan! Here's a black-edged letter for you!"

Mr. Doolan: "It's me poor brother Pat, dead! Oi'd know his handwritin' anywhere!"

One Way.

Miss Varney was trying to illustrate to her youthful Sunday school class the lesson, "Return good for evil." To make it practical she said:

"Now, suppose, children, one of your schoolmates should strike you, and the next day you should bring him an apple. That would be one way of returning good for evil."

A little girl, sitting in one of the front seats, raised her hand.

"Well, Elizabeth," said the teacher, "what is it?"

"Then," said Elizabeth firmly, "he would strike you again to get another apple."

Time Serving.

"What are you making such a fuss about? I thought being executor of an estate was a soft thing."

"Perhaps it is sometimes. But I have to wind up the affairs of a clockmaker."

Avoiding Offence.

The man glared at the telephone. He would fain relieve his mind, but there were ladies present.

"Why," he at length exclaimed, ingeniously, "should I say 'hello' when the reverse is true?"

Weakest Cog.

"What's most liable to get broke about your automobile?"

"The owner," replied Mr. Chuggins.

"She's as pretty as a picture," said the young man. "Yes," replied the young woman, with a glance at her rival's complexion, "and hand-painted, too."

Disgusted Spectator (to beady-legged half-back, who has let the ball slip through his legs): "Ye-then, stupid! Don't let them play croquet wiv yer."

Some Fish.

Cook: "The gang has the laugh on Beanbrough."

Frye: "What's the idea?"

Cook: "When Beanbrough was in Florida, he sent what he said was a postcard picture of a big fish he caught."

Frye: "Is that so?"

Cook: "Yes; but, you know, he is a trifle nearsighted, and the postcard he picked out bore the picture of a submarine boat."

The Source.

Mr. Hoyle was a most indulgent father, but of late he had commenced to think that his son Arthur was taking advantage of his generosity.

"Why, when I was your age, young man," he said one morning, after a particularly urgent demand for more funds, "I didn't have as much money to spend in a month as you spend in a day."

"Well, dad, don't scold me about it," said the youth. "Why don't you go for grandfather?"

Heroic, but Effectual.

"Doctor," said the young man about town, "I want you to tell me what to do to cure myself of smoking. I've sworn off a dozen times, but it does no good. I'm a nervous wreck."

"Why do you come to me for advice, young chap? The only way to quit smoking is to quit, and you can't do that. You lack the will power."

"Think so?"

"I know it. I'll bet you ten dollars on it—and leave it to you."

"It's a bet, doc. Good-morning."

"Good morning."

Several months later:

"Doc, I've come to bring it to you gently that you don't know it all. I have cured myself of the habit of smoking."

"Sure of that?"

"Absolutely. I haven't smoked a cigar, pipe or cigarette in three months. It's not all down for the weed."

"Then you owe me just ten dollars. Remember our little wager?"

"I do. You win. But my bill is twenty dollars. You owe me a tenner, you . . . Thanks. Good morning."

Overdue Now.

"How is Dale financially?"

"All at sea."

"Eh?"

"He says he's going to pay up everything when his ship comes in."

Her Line of Interest.

"John, did you read about this Denver millionaire giving his wife a diamond tiara?"

"No."

"It's in all the papers. Why don't you keep posted on current events?"

The Only Way.

Women are the real conservatives, after all. If they can't do things the way they've always done 'em, they are likely not to do 'em at all. Which wise reflection is prompted by a story from the athletic club.

A large crowd of the wives and unmarried sisters of the members were taking advantage of the bathing-pool facilities the other afternoon. There were so many of them that they had to dress in relays. It was while the third section was dressing that a cry went up from one of the dressing-rooms.

"What's the matter, dear?" asked one voice.

"Why, I don't believe I'll be able to get dressed in time to go shopping with you," was the voice in reply. "It must seem to be the trouble?"

"The hour is so wet in that I can't sit down to put my shoes on!"

Exceptions.

Foote, the comedian, dined yesterday at a country inn, and the landlord asked how he like[d] the food.

"I have dined as well as any man in England," said Foote.

"Except the mayor," cried the landlord.

"I except nobody," said he.

"But you must!" screamed the landlord.

"You must!"

At length a petty magistrate took Foote before the mayor, who observed that it had been customary in that town for a great number of years always to "except the mayor," and accordingly fined him a shilling for not conforming to ancient custom. Upon this decision Foote paid the shilling, at the same time observing that he thought the landlord the greatest fool in Christendom—except the mayor.

Had Better Keep Mum.

One afternoon the bookkeeper employed by a certain concern bulged into the private office and timidly approached the desk of the boss.

"Mr. Jinks," said he, after some hesitation, "during the past week I have been doing the clerk's work as well as my own, and this being payday, I thought I would remind you of that fact."

"Let me see," responded the boss thoughtfully. "You make ten dollars a week and the clerk makes five dollars. Is that right?"

"Yes, sir," answered the bookkeeper, with a hopeful expression.

"Good!" smiled the boss. "Then, as I figure it out you made half a week for yourself and half a week for the clerk. I will tell the cashier to fix the amount at seven dollars and fifty cents."

Mistress: "It is perfectly disgusting. If you continue like this I shall have to get another servant."

Servant: "And a good job too. Two servants would be none too many for this house."

The Real Question.

"My son," said the father, impressively, "suppose I should be taken away suddenly, what would become of you?"

"Why," said the son ,irreverently, "I'd stay here. The question is, what would become of you?"

Marcella: "Mr. Beanborough seems to be greatly bothered with indigestion."

Waverly: "I should say so! He refused to attend a moving-picture show the other evening because one of the scenes had a banquet in it."

Landlord: "That feller who just swaggered past? Oh, that's Bill Brown, sir' he's a terror to autymobilists, I tell you'

Guest: "Aha! the village constable, eh?"

Landlord: "Worse: he's the only motor-repair man within ten miles."

"To what do you attribute your longevity?" asked the reporter.

"My which?" queried the oldest inhabitant.

"Your longevity," repeated the reporter.

"Never had it. As far as I can remember, I ain't never had no such complaint."

First British Workman: "I see it says 'ere a workingman in France 'as just woke up abt ev a trance lastin' seventy-seven days, an' the 'is wife repeatedly called 'im by name 'e was oblivious to the fact that she was there."

Second British Workman: "Marvelous! Not a gill—Eh."

Not For Him.

Cyrus (entering a sixteenth-floor office of the Syndicate Building, perspiring and panting)—Them stairs must be sev'ral miles long!"

Occupant of Office: "Why didn't you come up in one of the elevators there?

Cyrus: "Not much! I jes see one of 'em full o' people fall down that hole there!"

Leone Duck: "Did you see the look that chaperon gave me?"

Leone Drake: "She must thing we are doing one of those new, vulgar dances."

Or Just Right.

Tommy: "Pa, what is an anomaly?"

Pa: "An anomaly, my son, is a poet with a collar that is too small for his neck."

Hooked.

Dormite: "No one could get them both out at once."

Another View.

"Muh po', b'reaved brud-ter," commiseringly said good old Parson Bagster, addressing the newly made widower, "it is a solemn thing when a man loses de wife o' his bussom."

"Yassah," replied skimpy Brother Meeks. "But sometimes it's a heap right estemmer when he don't."

All Off!

The ingame patient was seemingly fishing. A bent pin on a bit of swine, tied to what had once been an umbrella handle, was dangled above a dishpan absolutely dry within. And every once in a while the poor fellow would glance down at the floor beside his chair and move his hand as if caressing something.

"What's he think he's doing?" asked the visitor.

"Catching fish for his pet pelican there at his side," replied the attendant.

"But there isn't any pelican."

"Well, there aren't any fish."

The bride was overwhelmingly pleased with the progress she was making in cooking, and hubby was always so encouraging and so kind in making excuses if by any chance she did make a mistake when guests were present. This same opinion of her forbearing husband might have continued indefinitely had she not inadvertently made use of a bit of slang. Noticing that Harry was a trifle downcast when the dinner was about half over she exclaimed, gayly: "Cheer up, Harry, the worst is yet to come!"

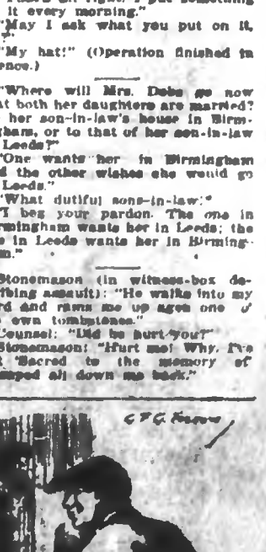
Her husband glanced up quickly and, with a despairing look, inquired: "What! have you made a pie?"

Sages assembled in the blacksmith's shop were discussing the veracity of old John Perkins, when Uncle Bill Abbott ambled in.

"What do you think about it, Uncle Bill?" they asked him. "Would you call John Perkins a liar?"

"Well," answered Uncle Bill, slowly, as he thoughtfully studied the ceiling, "I don't know as I'd go so far as to call him a liar exactly, but I do know this much—when freedin' time comes, in order to obtain any response from his hogs, he has to get somebody else to call 'em for him."

This is from Australia: "Gentlemen, a member of this house has taken advantage of my absence to tweak my nose behind my back. I hope that the next time he abuses me behind my back like a coward he will do it to my face like a man, and not go skulking into the thicket to assail a gentleman who isn't present to defend himself."



EASTER MORNING

"Gee, nine hours! I wonder how long they'd let ye eat for a nickel?"

Just a Skirt.

"Did you pass the make-up?"

"No; she must have turned down a side street."

Proverbial.

"Why is little Willie painting a big, T-I-M-E on his kite?"

"He wants to make sure it will fly."

What She Gave.

"Ah!" he sighed, "if you only gave me the least hope I——"

"Gracious!" interrupted the hard-hearted belle. "I've been giving you the least I ever gave to any man."

"I have eggs as cheap as thirty cents, ma'am, but I wouldn't guarantee 'em."

"Well, send me a dozen, please. They'll do to lend the neighbors."

"I represent the dignity of labor," said the man in his shirt sleeves.

"Yes," replied Mr. Dustin Stax; "and you can work in your shirt-sleeves and speak your mind, and quit work when your regular hours are thru. I've got to wear a high hat and guard every word I speak, and keep busy sixteen hours a day. I represent the labor of dignity."

"You 'air's getting thin, sir. Let me sell you——"

"That's all right. I put something on it every morning."

"May I ask what you put on it, sir?"

"My hat!" (Operation finished in silence.)

"Where will Mrs. Debs go now that both her daughters are married? To her son-in-law's house in Birmingham, or to that of her son-in-law in Leeds?"

"One wants her in Birmingham and the other wishes she would go to Leeds."

"What dutiful sons-in-law!"

"I beg your pardon. The one in Birmingham wants her in Leeds; the one in Leeds wants her in Birmingham."

Stonemason (in witness-box describing assault): "He walks into my yard and rams me up agen one of me own tombstones."

Counsel: "Did he hurt you?"

Stonemason: "Hurt me! Why, I've got 'Sacred to the memory of' stamped all down me back."

GOOD DEEDS AND ILL WEEDS.

Very apt was a description of the wilds of Mayo, given by an Irish farmer. He had two passengers with him, one of whom lived in a very rich grazing district. He was astonished at the bleak, miserable aspect of the country they were passing thru, and so began questioning the driver as to its quality, powers of production, and what it would feed to the acre.

"Well, sir," replied the driver, "it might feed a hare to the acre in summer, but in the winter she would have to run for her life."

Lieut.-Col. W. H. R. Pringle, M.P., tells a story about a northern member of parliament concerning whom tales were in circulation in his constituency to the effect that now and then he took too large doses of alcohol. The member went north to look into this. To his surprise he was met at the railway station by a brass band and a cheering crowd of his supporters. His chairman of committee stood him warmly by the hand.

"How about this story——" began the member.

"Not a word about that," whispered the chairman of committee; "it's made you the most popular man in the place."

An old worthy who was in the habit of calling each evening at the village inn for a "drap o' the best," found the landlord one night putting a shine on the taps. After a few remarks about the weather, he received his nightly dram. When he had gone the landlord discovered, to his horror, that he had supplied Donald with a half-gill out of the bottle of sulphuric acid which he had been using for cleaning the taps. Every moment he expected to hear of Donald's death, and his relief was great when the old worthy arrived next evening.

"Donald, what did you think o' the whisky ye got last night?"

"It was a fine dram, a good warming drink, but it had wan fault—every time I coughed it set fire to me whiskers."

The Easiest Way.

Jack: "What is the easiest way to drive a nail without smashing my fingers?"

Jacqueline: "Hold the hammer in both hands."

Visited Pa.

Ethel: "I called to see your father this afternoon."

She (fluttering visibly): "Oh, did you?"

He: "Yes. He has been owing our firm a little bill for some time."

Wouldn't Do.

"Why did you break your engagement to Cholly?"

"He has one of those whiskbroom mustaches that kept brushing my complexion off."

Benevolence.

"Why does an automobile smell?"

"To safeguard the deaf and blind."

Beyond Control.

Guest (in Buffalo restaurant)—Waiter, you made a mistake—I ordered a clear soup.

Waiter—That's the clearest we can produce today, sir; yesterday's storm ripped up Lake Erie something fierce!

Adam.

He—A poet is born, not made!

She—That's right! Blame it on the woman!

He—Since you lost that bet, I think I can claim the forfeit.

She.—I really don't know what you mean; and, besides, some one might see us.

In Luck.

He.—I call Dale a lucky fellow.

She.—In what way?

He.—He fell in love with the first girl he married.

"What became of that fellow Tweedly?" "Oh, he opened a shop." "Doing well?" "No—doing time. He was caught in the act."

ENCOURAGING HOME INDUSTRIES.

The Sculptor's Maid-of-All-Work (to importunate image-vendor): Nah, git. Yer 'eard. Bung orf. We makes them things!

How It Was.

"Your wife used to like to sing, and she played the piano a lot. Now we don't hear her at all. How's that?"

"She hasn't the time. We have two children."

"Well, well! After all, children are a blessing!"

Something Harder.

"There's nothing so hard to ride as a young bronco," said the west erner.

"Oh, I don't know," replied the man from back east. "Did you ever try the water wagon?"

"Oh, Will," she said, moving a trifle closer to him, "I am so glad you are not rich! They say that some of those millionaires receive threatening letters saying that something dreadful will happen to them if they don't pay the writers sums of money."

"Oh, is that all?" replied Will. "Why, I get plenty of such letters."

"Miss Ethel," he began, "or Ethel, I mean—I've known you long enough to drop the 'Miss,' haven't I?"

She fixed her lovely eyes upon him with a meaning gaze.

"Yes, I think you have," she said. "What prefix do you wish to substitute?"

The Dentist's Daughter (anxious to explain the presence of a young man in the passage): Oh, Ronald darling, here's father coming. Quick. You'll have to say you've come to have a tooth out.

Another One Dissatisfied.

Wife: "I wonder if Mr. Van Dusen hasn't seen better days?"

Husband: "Oh, yes! Van Dusen wasn't always married, I don't think!"

To Music.

"Here, waiter!" said the rude man in the cafe. "Tell the orchestra to play 'Carmen' while I eat this beefsteak."

"Yes, sir. 'Might I inquire why?"

"I want to hear the Toreador song. I feel like a bull fighter."

A clergyman visiting a school near Windsor, and trying to illustrate the meaning of conscience, asked a class of boys:—

"Supposing one of you stole a piece of sugar and put it in your mouth, and someone came in—what would happen?"

"I'd get a thrashing," piped a small voice.

"Yes, but your face would become red, wouldn't it? What would make it do that?"

"Trying to swallow the sugar quick, sir."

"Oh, look, Bill, what a shame—the arms are broken off."

"Tut; weather whether the Suffragettes done it?"

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

NO WEDDING BELLS

It was several months after Ananias Sline went to board with the Widow Rowell that I journeyed down to Quince Harbour to spend golden October days in the cosy home of Captain Barnabas Fish and his good wife Maria.

"And how is your friend Ananias Sline?" I asked the jovial captain as we sat around the supper table the night of my arrival.

"Ananias?"

"He is in deep matrimonial trouble!" responded the captain.

"I did not know that Ananias was married," said I.

"Hettie Rowell says the knot's to be tied next Wednesday in the First Methodist Church, but Ananias, he says, never!"

There was a knock at the door.

Maria opened it to admit a rather round shouldered, elderly woman, whose weanened face was set in a perpetual smile that showed even rows of false teeth.

"Well, Mrs. Rowell," greeted the captain as she entered the sitting room, and shook hands with me, "how goes everything?"

"Beautifully!" exclaimed the bride to be, her smile widening. "I came over to ask Maria's advice."

"What you going to wear, Hettie?" asked Maria, practically.

"White," replied Mrs. Rowell, calmly.

"And now, captain, how about you standing up with Ananias at his wedding?" The widow smiled playfully at him.

From nowhere in particular came a hollow voice that answered the widow's question.

"Pallbearer!" was the ominous suggestion.

The Widow Rowell screamed and closed her eyes. The captain glanced wildly around, and I confess that I was startled. Only Maria knitted on calmly, unconcernedly.

"Why, what was that?" I asked.

"What was what?" asked Maria in a surprised sort of way.

"I thought I heard something," said the widow.

"I heard a treetoad outside in the block bush, ma'am," said the captain innocently.

"I'm rather upset," confessed the widow, after a moment's hesitation. "I kinder thought it sounded like the warning voice of Henry Rowell. Henry was a very jealous husband, though he has no cause to be," she added hastily.

"Most husbands are jealous of their handsome wives," said the captain gallantly.

The widow simpered sweetly at him. "You are a case, Barnabas Fish!" she chided archly. "I was asking you if you would stand up with Ananias Wednesday, be his best man?"

"Pallbearer!" croaked the hollow voice.

"Will you?" persisted the widow, but her face was pale.

"Of course," said the captain in a hearty voice. "I'll stand by the bridegroom."

"Corpse!" rattled the hollow voice.

But the widow was undaunted as yet.

"We will drive around after you and Maria," went on the widow doggedly. "We're going to have Al Murray's hack"—

"Hearse!" interrupted the hollow voice.

"And I've bought the wedding ring"—

"Casket!" came the interruption.

"Ah-h-h-h-h-h-h-h!" screeched the widow and she went at once into violent hysterics.

Maria and I flew around, applying remedies to her nose, while the captain tiptoed out to the kitchen stairway that led to the loft overhead, and I heard his deep voice rumbling.

At last the widow came to, looking yellower than ever, but there was a new light in her shifty eyes. They blazed with excitement, and her hands trembled.

"Maria," said she solemnly, "I've had a warning. I shan't marry Ananias—not yet, maybe not at all. I'll wait, and you'll bear in mind that when it happens you and Barnabas will stand up with us just the same"—

"Pallbearers," came in a hoarse whisper.

Mrs. Rowell trembled, but her wide smile did not relax. It was fixed as though painted there.

"You see, I'm considerable shook up now, and I want to study up on this spirit business before I go ahead."

"Cheer up, Hettie," said the captain, grasping her hand warmly. "By next June you and Ananias will be signing papers and setting sail on a pleasant sea of—er—matrimony!"

"Maybe!" The widow's tone was enigmatic. As she opened the door to depart she added in her customary manner: "I'm glad I didn't announce it to anyone else, and I guess I'll go home and stir up some cornmeal griddlecakes for Mr. Sline's breakfast. I've got to do something to make up to him for his disappointment."

When we were alone Maria fixed her bright eyes on her husband's twinkling blue ones.

"How long has Ananias been up in the kitchen loft?" she asked.

"Since before dinner," answered the captain. "He came all a-tremble, saying he'd hang himself if he wasn't saved, and I didn't know what to do about it. It so happened the widow came in to-night, and I guess Ananias' feelings got the best of him, and he just naturally figured out a course for himself and sailed into a safe harbour. He's gone back to the widder's now, feeling pretty secure that she won't marry him yet awhile."

With the suffragists the handwriting on the sidewalk seems to have taken the place of the handwriting on the wall.

One reason why a flat is bad for family life is that the man can find nothing to do about the place except wipe the dishes for the missus.

Comb Sage Tea In Hair To Darken It

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Thick

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening grey, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even colour, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

For sale by the Warne Drug Co.

Not So Slow.

A shy young man had been calling on the sweetest girl in the world for many moons, but, being bashful, his suit progressed slowly. Finally she decided it was up to her to start something, so the next time he called she pointed to the rose in his buttonhole and said, "I'll give you a kiss for that rose."

A crimson flush overspread his countenance, but the exchange was made after some hesitation on his part. Then he grabbed his hat and started to leave the room.

"Why, where are you going?" she asked in surprise.

"To the—er—florist for more roses," he called from the front door.—London Opinion.

Defeamed Characters.

I much dislike, when reading tales
Of strife and stirring deed
And love and mysteries and veils,
In what I chance to read
To meet again and yet again
Those one cheeked girls and one eyed men

He fixed her with his baleful eye.
No word could Eunice speak.
She heaved a sad, regretful sigh;
A tear stole down her cheek"—
You've read it often, have you not,
That one eyed, one cheeked novel rot?

We truly ought to pass a law
To make those writers cease
Who still their characters will draw
With half a face apiece,
For often, reading on in haste,
We find instead they're double faced.
—Judge.

By Ticket Only.

Mrs. Lovelace had a new maid not long over from Scandinavia. She was not quick to learn, but what she did learn fixed itself solidly in her blond head. In particular she was taught to take the visiting cards of Mrs. Lovelace's not infrequent callers.

One day appeared a certain Mrs. Furbelow, a crony and familiar of Mrs. Lovelace and one not accustomed to the formality of cards in that house. The new maid refused to let her in. She blocked the door with her substantial bulk and spoke firmly.

"You must give up your ticket first," she said.—New York Post.

A YEAR INDOORS

"For thirteen months I was so bad with chronic indigestion that I could not go out of doors. Nerves were unstrung, the heart had and smothing feelings came on till I thought I would choke. Doctors' treatment failed me, so I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which I thank for my present good health. I am now doing my housework and have a family of ten."

Greatest Crisis in 300 Years is Sole Topic of Comment

PARTIES ARE IN CONCLAVE

LONDON, March 30.—What has been pronounced "the greatest crisis for statesmanship in three hundred years" is simmering over Sunday. Both Houses of Parliament will train their heaviest guns upon the whole complicated affair to-day. Passions are running high and country houses, where the politicians customarily spend the week ends, are deserted.

The party leaders are conferring in London, and urgent summonses have been sent to all members to attend. If the outcome of the crisis is to be a general election in the near future, the Radical wing of the Liberal party will form a close alliance with the Labor party, the coalition crystallizing its platform into the battle cry "Aristocrats against the people." Whatever may be the merits of the coalition it seems to hold possibilities of vote-getting, which the Conservatives shy at.

The army order which Premier Asquith announced Saturday is generally considered to have been intended as a sort of charter on which Field Marshal French and Gen. Ewart might be induced to remain in their positions. Col. Seely's tenure in the office of the War Ministry seems destined to be of short continuance.

The Westminster Gazette and The Daily Chronicle, foremost among the Liberal papers, are saying that Col. Seely must relinquish his portfolio. The name of John Burns is most discussed as his probable successor.

"That a democratic Government could be carried to such lengths as to give supervision of the army into the hands of the sturdy character, who came into the limelight first as a labor agitator, would have been unthinkable a decade ago," says one paper. "Yet the recognition of the soldier as on the same plane with the officer, in the charter rights and duties which the Government proclaimed to-day, is a long step towards the same levelling of the classes."

The King's actions and attitude during the political crisis are gradually becoming known. The attacks of the Radicals and Laborites on the King for his alleged interference in politics have subsided. The Unionists are criticising His Majesty, but quietly, among themselves, and the Unionists have the most reason to complain of the King's policy, as would appear from the most trustworthy accounts of the happenings at Buckingham Palace during the frequent conferences which the King had with the Cabinet Ministers and army officers.

The King followed his Minister's advice from the beginning of the Home Rule controversy. While maintaining impartiality, apparently he had a personal leaning toward Home Rule. The King and the members of his court were outspoken in their condemnation of Sir Edward Carson in organising the Ulster volunteer army and resented his act in reviewing the volunteers as though they were a regular military body, and in assuming prerogatives by reason of which the Liberals named him "King Carson."

Such an offence, as Gen. Sir Robert Baden-Powell discovered when he placed his portrait on postage stamps during the siege of Mafeking, is an unpardonable sin in the eyes of the court.

Opposing Parties Clash.

BELFAST, March 30.—Late last night three uniformed Ulster volunteers were attacked near Carrick Hill by a crowd of Nationalists. The police dispersed the attacking party and there were no further disorders. One of the volunteers was so badly injured that he had to be conveyed to a hospital.

Resignations Still In.

LONDON, March 30.—The Conservative morning papers assert that Field Marshal Sir John French and Gen. Ewart have decided not to withdraw their resignations, but no official announcement has been made or is expected until Parliament reassembles to-day. Brig.-Gen. Hubert Gough, commander of the third cavalry brigade, has left Curragh for some unknown place.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. AFTER COUGHING TWO YEARS

Waycross (Ga.) Woman Found Relief in Vinol.

Did you ever cough for a week? Then just think how distressing it must be to have a cough hang on for two years.

Mrs. D. A. McGee, Waycross, Ga., says: "I had a very heavy cold, which settled into a chronic cough, which kept me awake nights for fully two years, and felt tired all the time. The effect of taking your cod liver and iron remedy, Vinol, is that my cough is gone. I can now get a good night's rest and I feel much stronger in every way. I am 74 years old."

It is the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cods' livers aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron which makes Vinol so efficient for chronic coughs, colds and bronhitis—at the same time building up the weakened, run-down system.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

ST. CATHARINES, March 30.—Word has reached St. Catharines that E. A. Lancaster, M.P. for Lincoln, author and champion of the marriage bill, is ill at Ottawa. Physicians have ordered him to take a complete rest from Parliamentary duties, but he declined until yesterday to do so. His friends and relatives finally prevailed upon him to come home for recuperation.

Throughout the session Mr. Lancaster has been far from himself, and has insisted upon attending to his duties in the House and as chairman of the Railway Committee of the Commons in the face of severe nervous trouble and sleeplessness, which have reduced his once heavy frame very considerably in weight.

MOUNTAINSIDE SLIPPING.

Earthquake Causes Strange Disaster In French Valley.

BOIVE, France, March 30. — A large section of a mountain has become detached by seismic disturbances and is slowly sliding down the valley, sweeping over everything in its path. Already a number of farms and cottages have been blotted out, and the high roads from Boive and Lambuit, have been destroyed for more than half a mile.

Heavy rumblings indicate that the mass is gaining impetus, and the inhabitants are fleeing from their houses. Government engineers are seeking a means to limit the extent of the disaster.

Three Fires In 24 Hours.

TRURO, N.S., March 30. — Three fires within 24 hours caused considerable property loss to a number of owners yesterday. W. M. Lawrence's residence was damage to the extent of $1,500 and the contents $500. Fire in M. A. Ward's drygoods store caused a loss of $2,000. Yesterday morning early the firemen were again called out by an alarm for a more serious conflagration in the west end of the town. Part of the building was a boarding-house and considerable difficulty was experienced in getting all the inmates out.

KEPHALDOL

CURES COLDS AND LA GRIPPE IN HALF A DAY.

Thank the famous Herr Doctor Stohr, of Vienna, Austria, for allowing his personal prescription for relieving pain, to be sold in Canada. The Doctor has used "Kephaldol" in thousands of cases, both in private practice and in his hospital clinics. He has proved to the delight of the medicinal profession that attacks of La Grippe and Colds could be warded off and broken up in 24 hours, by using "Kephaldol" at the first sneeze or sudden chill. Two or three 'Kephaldol' tablets at bedtime and two the first thing in the morning, will usually make a complete cure, although in very severe cases, it may be necessary to continue the treatment for a short time, taking one "Kephaldol" tablet every three hours. "Kephaldol" has the pleasant property of relieving all the distressing symptoms of a "bad cold"—clearing the head—stopping the throbbing headaches—easing the pain in the back and limbs—and enabling one to eat and sleep in comfort.

Keep 'Kephaldol' in the house, ready to take at the first sign of a cold. If your druggist should not have the 50c tubes of these tablets, write Kephaldol Limited, 21 Latour Street Montreal.

STATE CHURCH WEAKENS.

German Established Religion Suffers From Desertions.

BERLIN, March 30.—What extensive proportions the "Leave the State Church" movement has attained in Germany were disclosed for the first time at a meeting of the Berlin Synod last week.

The movement is supported by free thinkers like Prof. Ernst Haeckel and Prof. Drews, and very energetically by the Social Democratic party. It was stated at the synod meeting that matters had reached a point where even the Reichstag no longer contained a Protestant majority, and considerably more than half the Imperial Parliament consisted of Roman Catholics, Jews and Socialist free thinkers who had renounced all church allegiance.

During 1913 a total of 12,781 persons were induced to desert the State Evangelical Church, and for the last six years the number aggregated more than 50,000. A speaker at the Synod meeting branded the deserters as "heathen."

The State Church authorities are feeling the effect of this on their exchequer. The German states impose a church tax amounting roundly to $5 a year, so that $250,000 of annual revenue has been lost since 1908.

The Synod adopted resolutions thanking the ministers of the church for the vigorous resistance they were offering to the movement, and appealed to the nation to support the endeavor to keep the Church of the Reformation from being engulfed.

The resolution points out that the promoters of the "Leave the Church" movement are actuated wholly by the policy of negation. They are making no effort to reform the present church or to establish a new sect. Their warfare is, therefore, ansefled as deliberately malicious and unreasonable.

A full meeting of the board will be held as soon as Edward Gohler, the third member of the commission, returns from Europe.

Jap Prince Offered Premiership.

TOKIO, March 30.—The Emperor has offered the Premiership to Prince Iyecato Tokugawa, President of the House of Peers, but it is believed that the prince will decline. Should he accept the hopes of the Radicals for a pure party Cabinet would be greatly lessened.

Since the resignation of the Yamamoto Ministry on March 24, the names of several prominent statesmen, including Okuma, have been mentioned in connection with the formation of a new Cabinet.

MRS. EDDY'S FORTUNE.

First Official Statement Made of Amount of Her Wealth.

CONCORD, N.H., March 30.—J. F. Fernand, the administrator of the estate of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, made a final settlement of his account in the probate court.

He turned over to the trustees appointed by the court the sum of $3,590,632.18. The sum of $20,000 was set aside to defend a suit brought by Geo. W. Glover and D. E. M. Foster Eddy to recover legacies of $10,000 and $5,000, respectively. At the time the will was filed there was also presented to the court a statement showing that both persons received money prior to Mrs. Eddy's death, in lieu of the inheritance fixed in the will.

The figures given out are the first official figures as to the total value of Mrs. Eddy's estate. In her will she made a few personal bequests, giving the bulk of her property to the directors of the mother church. She bequeathed $175,000 to the second church in New York to help pay off an indebtedness.

Lived in Dread of Paralysis—Nerves Upset—Could Not Sleep —Well Now—Thanks To Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Paralysis is frightfully common these days. We are living at high tension, and too often the nerves give way under the enormous strain. The only way to be safe is to be warned by symptoms, for the nervous system does not go to pieces without giving you many danger signals, if you only know how to interpret them.

When you have frequent headaches, find yourself easily irritated and annoyed, feel discouraged and down-hearted, cannot rest and sleep well, and find appetite fickle and digestion bad, you may know that the nerves are in bad condition. Don't wait for these symptoms to become chronic, but start in early with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and head off disaster.

Mr. John Matthews, farmer, Fawn Lake, Alta., writes: "I had cramps in my legs, pains in my knees and elbows, and my fingers would get cramped and numb. I could not sleep nights, and would have to get out of bed to rub the cramps out of my legs. For two years I suffered this way, and could not get relief. Then I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and did so with splendid results. I sleep well now, enjoy my meals and feel well generally. I only had cramps last winter and feel that my system has been greatly benefited by this food cure.'

Cures like this are reported almost daily in the public press, and you are invited to investigate these cases for yourself. If you cannot call personally write for particulars, enclosing stamp for reply. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

BODY OF MISSING FOREIGNER IS FOUND FLOATING IN A POND

Mystery Surrounding the Disappearance of Macedonian at Havelock is Partially Solved.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED

Examiner Special:

HAVELOCK, March 29.—At 3 p.m. to-day the body of a foreigner was found floating in the pond behind the C.P.R. shops here. The discovery was made by one of the foreign employees of the C.P.R., who notified the officers of the company, who had the body lifted from the water and handed over to the authorities pending an investigation.

The remains are thought to be those of N. Duloff, a Macedonian employed by the C.P.R., who mysteriously disappeared in the early part of December, 1913. The case was thoroughly investigated by both the provincial and C.P.R. detectives, but no trace could be found of Duloff, except part of his clothing, which was discovered stained with blood in the company's ash pit.

The general opinion at the time was that Duloff had been disposed of by some of his own countrymen, with robbery as the motive, as the missing man had drawn a large sum of money from the post office savings department.

Colour was added to the suspicion of foul play by the fact that a fellow Macedonian, on hearing of the investigation, left suddenly, and it is said journeyed to his own country.

The body to-day still bears some of the clothing, and there is a wound behind the ear that looks like a bullet hole.

An inquest will be opened on Monday.

The Marchioness of Londonderry—The woman who is said to have visited Curragh camp, and gossip in London is to the effect that she influenced the officers of the regiments there to resign rather than march against Ulster. Her husband is a former Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland. The marchioness was married in 1875. She was Lady Thereso Chetwynd-Talbot, daughter of the nineteenth Earl of Shrewsbury.

HUNTER STREET LOT HAS BEEN HELD FOR 40 YEARS BY ONE MAN

The lot on Hunter street, west of the Bell Telephone Building, recently sold by Mr. W. H. Bradburn, had not changed hands for 40 years. The ex-Mayor purchased it a comparatively short time ago and turned it over for a profit. Previously it had been standing still, as the real estate men say, for four decades, almost two generations.

CONGRATULATIONS.

According to a despatch printed in another column, we are pleased to learn that Mr. L. M. Hayes, of the firm of Hall, Hayes and Hall, has been appointed senior judge of the County of Wellington. The Examiner extends cordial congratulations. Mr. Hayes is, one may say, a lawyer by hereditary, his father, the late Mr. Hayes, having been a barrister and Crown Attorney of Perth county. Mr. Hayes has had a successful experience as a practitioner, of twenty-nine years, seventeen of which have been passed in Peterborough; he has the legal and temperamental qualifications that justify the honorable superscription that has been conferred upon him. He has been a prominent and useful citizen in a general sense, and especially in Methodist circles, educational and military interests; and the citizens of Peterborough generally will endorse our view that the congratulations are appropriate for the recorder of his native city—the recorder of the city seeking to be a property of the city.

Hunter Street Turnips To Be Fed Cattle By The Trewern Patrons

The annual meeting of the patrons of Trewern cheese factory was held on Thursday evening, March 26. Mr. G. W. Mann, who has so efficiently filled the position for the past eight years of salesman and secretary-treasurer, was again appointed. Mr. Jos Donaldson and Mr. Elmer Milburn are the auditors. There was a resolution passed that no Swede turnips would be fed by the patrons while sending milk to the factory. Mr. Chittick has engaged Mr. Earl Ball, who has been attending the Kingston Dairy School for the past three months as assistant. There are good prospects for a successful season.

LOCAL DOCTORS MET MR. PECK REGARDING THE COMPENSATION BILL

Pass Resolution at Meeting on Saturday Afternoon Asking That Provision Be Made For Fee to Physician

OVERLOOKED AT PRESENT

The Medical Association of the city presented to Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., on Saturday a resolution requesting the Legislature to provide a modest fee for physicians who render service to the injured who may come under the Workmen's Compensation Act. The bill is now under discussion before the local house, and as has been pointed out by the doctors of Ottawa, there is provision for the injured, and in the case of death for relatives near and remote, but there is no provision for the payment of attending physicians. Dr. Hammond presided at the meeting, which was held in the Public Library.

Ninety-Five Children Came

From England to the Local Barnardo Home To-day

To-day at 1.45 o'clock a party of children from England, numbering ninety-five, arrived in the City via special G.T.R. train from St. John's, and will make their temporary home in the Margaret Cox Home for Girls. The girls range from ten to fourteen years of age, and come from the village home in Essex, England. On the train were a number of boys, who went on to the boys' home in Toronto. The girls were taken from the station to the home in buses, and to all appearances enjoyed the drive and their first glimpse of Peterborough.

BIG POWER AND RADIAL RAILWAY PROJECT

SEVERAL ICE JAMS IN CREEK

Blockades at the William Hamilton Shops and Hunter Street Bridge Were Relieved Before Damage Was Done

WATER IS HIGH

The freshets have not caused any serious trouble up to the present. City Engineer Parsons stated this morning that the ice in the creek had caught in several places and threatened a flood, but both situations were relieved in time. On Saturday floating chunks caught in the timbers beneath the William Hamilton foundry, temporarily blocking the course, and some water spilled into the machine shop. No damage was reported. Again at four o'clock this morning the ice rose and was blocked at the Hunter street bridge, damming the water, some of which reached a cellar or two.

Commissioner Evans has been on the alert and although the water is high, and there is considerable ice coming down, every situation that promised trouble has been quickly handled.

Adroit Moves By Asquith

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., March 30.—One of the most adroit moves in history by a politician was made to-day by Premier Asquith when he accepted the resignation of Col. Seely as War Secretary, assumed the portfolio himself, and then by clever manoeuvre made it possible for him to go before the country for the endorsement on his cabinet's policy without dissolution of Parliament or the resignation of the whole ministry.

Although it is merely a transference of portfolios from one minister to another, and it is not necessary to go before a constituency for re-endorsement, Asquith told the Commons to-day he preferred to resign and seek re-election.

This announcement was received at first by Government supporters with silence until it was realized what really had happened, then there was a wonderful demonstration of support and enthusiasm. Asquith immediately left the Commons chamber, and it is thought he will not return till after his appeal to his constituency, East Fife, where he received a majority of 1,799 at the last election.

It is thought that the leadership of the Government in the House will be taken by Sir Edward Grey and Lloyd George, Chancellor of Exchequer, during Asquith's absence.

Asquith also announced that the resignations of Generals French and Ewart had finally been accepted.

SEELY OUT AGAIN.

LONDON, Eng., March 30.—Col. Seely has again resigned according to an announcement in the House of Commons this afternoon, and Premier Asquith will take the war portfolio for the time being.

"LIFE SAVING IN BAY OF FUNDY"

To-night in the Sunday school room of the Murray street Baptist church, Rev. C. W. Rose will deliver an address on "Life Saving in the Bay of Fundy."

Referring to the address a Woodstock paper says in part: "The address of Rev. C. W. Rose, on 'Life Saving in the Bay on Fundy,' was replete with gripping interest and not for one moment did the interest wane. His earnest, unaffected delivery and clear, mellow voice in themselves were charming. But when in addition the incidents related came from one who had been cradled to the music of the waves, and whose home was so close to the waters of the Bay of Fundy as to be often bathed with their spray and whose relatives for many years were connected with sea life, the result leaves little to be desired."

Mr. T. F. Matthews will preside at to this lecture. There is no admission fee and everybody is welcome.

Mayor Buller Busy Gathering Delegates From the Surrounding Municipalities for Mass Meeting in Toronto on Wednesday —Will Wait on the Legislature to Ask For the First Steps in Big Scheme

THE DEMAND OF THE EAST

A big meeting of representatives of Ontario municipalities will be held in the Queens Hotel, Toronto, on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of outlining a petition which will be presented to the Legislature at noon of the same day.

Mayor Buller and City Clerk Armstrong were busy this morning organizing a deputation to put forward the claims and bespeak the interests of this section of the province. The Mayor received a communication from the Western Ontario Radial Union notifying him of the meeting, and requesting the assistance of the municipalities in this vicinity.

The Mayor drew up a list, including Lindsay, Omemee, Hastings, Stirling, Havelock Norwood all told a dozen or fifteen towns and villages and the Clerk phoned the Reeves asking that they make an effort to be present at this meeting.

A Big Prospect.

It will be remembered that last week the big delegation that waited upon the Dominion Government in connection with proposed canal schemes also mentioned the question of radial lines. The next step is to lay the quest ion before the Legislature in the hope that a definite and determined step will be made to adopt a big policy for the construction and extension of radial lines throughout the province.

Power Distribution.

Coincident with the radial scheme is the widespread distribution of power. The trunk radial line would be a route for power lines which would provide electric power within a radius of fifteen miles of the line. In other words, the villages and country places, even farming communities, would be supplied. In this proposal is found the beginning of the realization of what has been regarded as a dream that farmers would have an unlimited supply of "white coal" at their disposal.

The East Must be Included.

The municipalities in Western Ontario present a unity that will demand attention. It is true also that many of the countries are more settled than are some of the counties in this part of the province. But Mayor Buller is strongly of the opinion that the construction of trunk radial lines extending east from Toronto, and running through a section not touched by the railways, is a feasible and practical proposal. He points out that the east must be included in the extension of the Hydro-Electric system, that there are rich country stretches far removed from the railway lines, and that the east should receive more attention from the Legislature.

Preparing a Map.

The Mayor discussed with Engineer Hay the topography of this section of the province and asked him to lay out a route for a trunk line in order to have something approaching a definite suggestion to present at Wednesday's meeting. There is a radial line extending north from Toronto to Sutton on Lake Simcoe. Mayor Buller considers that a line might be run east from Sutton or from a point south of it, extending east to Lindsay and then south-east through Peterborough and on to Hastings, Percy township and continuing in an easterly direction.

Branch Lines, Too.

This idea concerns only the trunk radial line. As it developed, branch lines could be constructed to advantageous points if business were promised. For instance, if the trunk line ran through Peterborough, branch lines might run north to Stoney Lake and south to Rice Lake. Branch power lines would also shoot away from the main power lines, step-down transformers reducing the current for use among the farmers of the various sections.

A Big Scheme.

In all its features, particularly with regard to the eastern counties, the scheme looms large, and Wednesday's meeting and conference with the Legislature should intimate the opinion of those acquainted with the project and its possibilities. Mayor Buller himself is a firm advocate of the proposal, but he points out that the municipalities in this section should stand together and make their case as strong as possible.

Frequently Suggested.

The whole project may be a dream, but some dreams are said to have been materialized. This particular suggestion and various details of it have been heard so frequently during the past two years that the public mind is ready to regard it as more than fancy. Hence, Mayor Buller intends, as far as he is concerned, to support the general idea, and to put forth a strong plea for the eastern section of the province.

SHOOTING AT COBOURG

Young Man Arrested on a Charge of Attempting to Shoot a Well Known Physician

SANITY QUESTION

COBOURG, March 29.—William Banford, aged twenty-four years, was committed for trial late yesterday afternoon on a charge of attempting to shoot Dr. H. C. Elliott. Commitment followed upon startling incidents earlier in the afternoon, which caused considerable excitement. Fortunately no one was injured. It is not improble that the accused man will undergo examination as to his sanity.

It appears that Dr. Elliot on going to his office, found that a door and a window had been smashed, the marks indicating them se of an axe. Chief John Ruse was called, and with Dr. Elliot made a thorough examination of the office. Nothing had been removed, and there was no clue to the perpetrator of the damage, but it is alleged that Banford is the responsible party.

A little later Dr. Elliot was approached on Division street by Banford. It is thought that the latter may have hidden in the doctor's office until the Chief left. Banford drew a revolver, at the same time taking hold of the doctor. Chief Ruse, who was on the opposite side of the street, rushed across the road and seized Banford's arm just as the latter fired his weapon. Happily the shot was deflected, and entered the sidewalk. Banford was quickly overpowered and rushed to the Police Court, where, as stated, he was committed for trial. He appears before Magistrate Boggs on Tuesday next, being held in jail meanwhile.

Banford, a former resident of the neighbourhood, returned here from the United States about a year ago, and had been working on the ferries.

THE NATIONALISTS IN IRELAND ORGANIZING VOLUNTEER FORCES

Meetings in Scores of Towns Yesterday at Which Corps Were Formed.

CABINET IS UNEASY

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., March 30.—One result of the disaffection in the British Army was shown yesterday with startling effectiveness when in scores of towns in southern and western Ireland there were meetings for the organizations of Nationalists. The Nationalists have not till now shown much military aggressiveness, but the resignations of the army officers, seemed to indicate they might be called upon to fight their own battles, and Sunday's organization movements was the result.

The Royal Irish Constabulary have so far taken no action towards preventing these meetings, the general feeling being that the Nationalists have as much right to organize volunteers as the Unionists. However, these activities are causing great uneasiness among the Cabinet Ministers, who realise that clashes between such organized volunteers may lead to serious difficulties.

MAJOR L. M. HAYES, K.C.
Of the firm of Hall, Hayes and Hall, whose elevation to the Bench is announced to-day.

ELEVATED TO THE BENCH

Major L. M. Hayes of Peterborough is Made Senior Judge for the County of Wellington

APPOINTMENT ANNOUNCED

Examiner Special:

OTTAWA, ONT., March 30.—Three County Court Judges have been named by the Government in Ontario. They are Harry Ward, ex-M.P., who has been appointed Senior Judge for Northumberland and Durham; Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., of Peterborough, and Anson Spotton, who have been appointed for Wellington. Mr. Hayes is to be the Senior Judge.

Major L. M. Hayes has been a resident of Peterborough for the past twenty-seven years, during which time he has been a member of the firm of Hall and Hayes, or as it is now known, of Hall, Hayes and Hall. e was admitted to the Bar in 1885, and came to Peterborough two years later. His father, the late Mr. Hayes, was County Crown Attorney of the County of Perth. Mr. Hayes has, during his residence in Peterborough, worthily filled a number of important positions. He has been for twenty years a member of the Board of Education, and for several terms was chairman of that Board. He has been connected with the 57th Regiment for many years as Lieutenant, Captain and Major, while he no whokls the position of Paymaster. Some years ago he received the long-service medal for twenty years' service.

WILL REMAIN ANOTHER WEEK

Sunday was truly a red letter day at Park St. Baptist Church. At the morning service Evangelist Pugsley defined the subject 'Death' in such a clear, concise way, that christ came to the alter at the close of the service, seeking life. Death is the liberator of him whom freedom cannot release, the physicians of him whom medicine cannot cure, the comforter of him whom time cannot console.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the Church was crowded with men when Evangelist Pugsley spoke on the subject of "Chickens' Come Home to Roost.' He spoke from the 7th and 8th verses of the 6th Chapter of Galations. At the close twenty men came to the front and accepted Christ.

In the evening the building was filled to its utmost capacity. Evangelist Pugsley spoke on Heaven, under three headings. First, he referred to Heaven as real, secondly, as ideal, and thirdly, as something substantial. Heaven was a prepared place for prepared people. At the close six came forward, making a total of thirty-four for the day and one hundred and eighty-one for the two weeks.

Last evening the congregation rose and asked Evangelist Pugsley to remain for another week, which he is doing.

The Choir, last night, under Evangelist Peters, sang with splendid effect "Nearer, Still Nearer."

The meetings continue all this week.

CUT FLOWERS SENT BY PARCEL POST

And Toronto Mail Order Houses Use System Continually to Fill Orders

Since the inauguration of the parcels post system it has become evident, for the present at least, the new provision will not be used as generally as was anticipated. Nevertheless there are a number of parcels that pass in and out of the local post office with almost every mail, and it is interesting to note what is being sent through the mails in this way.

Of course there are a large number of parcels that are a mystery to all but the sender and the receiver, but through various sources the postal authorities get an idea of what is going through. Meat, eggs and butter are being sent considerably to and from the City. Chickens have been sent from rural districts to this City. The Toronto mail order houses have benefitted considerably since the limit has been raised to eleven pounds. Simpsons and Eatons are the principal beneficiaries and from these two houses a large number are received at the local office.

Parcels that are to be handled with special care should be plainly labelled "Fragile and perishable," as these are sent separate from the others. Taking advantage of this a number of parcels containing cut flowers have been sent from this City to outside places. The parcels are delivered here by two parcel postmen.

DEATH OF FORMER PETERBORO' BOY

The death occurred in Toronto several days ago of Mr. Harry Brown, of Brockville and formerly of this city. Mr. Brown resided in Peterborough for several years and was popular in this city. He was connected with the Novel-Ti Company here, and when it was taken over by Hall, Ltd., he took a position with that company in Brockville. He was a membf of the Belmont Club while in this city, and his death will be regretted by a large number of local young men, who knew him during his residence in Peterborough.

DEATHS.

RITCHIE—Dorothea Wright Ritchie, widow of the late John Ritchie, of Peterborough, died at the home of her daughter, in Montreal, on Saturday, March 28th, at the age of eighty-three years.

Funeral private, at 2.30 p.m., Tuesday, from 640 Stewart Street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

MONDAY, MARCH 30, 1914

A CORRECTION.

The Examiner wishes to make a correction. In a note to a correspondent in Saturday's issue it was stated that, "taken as a whole Ulster is more than half Home Rule, and more than half Catholic." This is only partially true. Ulster sends 30 representatives to the Imperial Parliament, of whom 18 are Home Rulers. As to the predominence of religious faith, fifty-six per cent. of the whole of Ulster is Protestant, and 54 per cent. Catholic. Mistaking a figure 3 in making addition, for a figure 8, led to the error of statement, which, in the interest of fairness, is hereby corrected. Nothing is gained by deliberate mis-statement, and when inadvertent error is committed, prompt correction is the best reparation.

WE CAN DO IT.

The largest steamer on the Great Lakes will be launched in April. It is now building in the Port Arthur yards, and the christening ceremony will be performed by a former Peterborough lady, Lady Frederick Taylor, wife of the general manager of the Bank of Montreal. Mr. Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Mr. Borden, won't believe this. Churchill said Canada could not build ships, while Mr. Borden was slightly more patriotic, and declared that Canada could not build ships in twenty-five or fifty years. Yet it is true, Canada has built this ship at Port Arthur and also many other great ships, and we can build all the ships that we require, if the government would only take the initiative, set the example and give the stimulus and the encouragement. We should build more, even a navy of our own.

A LONG, GOOD LIFE.

The intelligence of the death of Mrs. John Ritchie, at the venerable age of 83 years, will create great regret and sorrow, and arouse many recollections among the older residents of the city. As far as can be learned she was the oldest resident of Peterborough, in which she passed the years counted as the span of human life, three score and ten; and worthy, by virtue of her charter, of the universal respect, esteem, and even, veneration, she enjoyed. Many things have happened, many changes have come since the deceased lady first became a resident of Peterborough, and during the sixty years since she was married in old St. John's, in 1854. In all these years she had her sorrows and her joys, not the least of the latter being that she saw her children grown into Honourable, honoured, and useful citizenship, and, passing away, left them and the world an example of virtuous living and dear memories. It is much to have lived long; but it is more to have so lived that one still lives in the hearts and memories of men; so lived that one fears dying more than death.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR.

Liberalism, by virtue of its principles, is the natural champion of labour. Nearly all the legislation in the interests of Labour on the statute books of Ontario was placed there by Liberal governments; all, virtually all, the laws on the statute books of the Dominion, have been enacted by Liberal governments. It was the Laurier government that created a Department of Labour and placed it under a responsible Minister as one of the great departments of the government. Now a Liberal is proposing to do the same in Ontario. As things now are, labour interests are regarded as a mere side-show—given a corner in the Public Works Department like a neglected child. Mr. Rowell, the Liberal leader, is to move a resolution favouring the appointment of a Minister of Labour for Ontario. This is in line with the action the late Ross government contemplated and would have taken if it had not been retired from office. Perhaps Labour had a considerable share in effecting this retirement, reasoning perhaps with others, unthinkingly, that it was time for a change. Has the change benefitted labour interests?

HYDRO AND THE PEOPLE.

When the principle of the Hydro-Electric system was before the people for adoption, The Examiner, considering that there was likely to be considerable expenditure involved in its application to Peterborough, and also danger of a City Council, as it had in power to do, committing the people to a large expenditure without consulting them, procured from Hon. Adam Beck, head of the Hydro-Electric Commission, a promise that any by-law involving the expenditure of money in connection with the application of the system should be submitted to the people for their vote. This condition was recognized and acted upon. A by-law authorizing the expenditure of $120,000 upon installing a Hydro-Electric system in Peterborough was submitted to the people and approved by a large majority.

Subsection 6 of clause 8 of the bill respecting the City of Peterborough now before the Legislature seems to provide for a direct breach of the pledge given by Hon. Mr. Beck. It says:

6. The powers conferred by this act shall be deemed to have been sufficiently and validly exercised by the passing of a by-law of the Council of the City of Peterborough, reciting the powers conferred and containing a general description of the property intended to be taken, and it shall not be necessary to submit such by-law to the electorate of the City of Peterborough, for their approval.

This section plainly involves the expenditure of money and distinctly empowers the City Council to pass a money by-law without submitting it to the people. The $120,000 voted by the people was for the aquirement of the plant, etc., of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, in order to permit the city to supply electricity for light and power. Of this amount something between $28,000 and $30,000 is said to have already been spent in street-lighting. This leaves only $90,000 to acquire the property of the Light and Power Company. This amount is evidently too small for that purpose, if it was considered that $120,000 as voted by the people would be needed. $90,000 does not seem to be nearly enough to take over the property in question, even if by legislation the city is authorized to take only what it pleases; and not nearly enough if the company's valuation of its property is anything near what an arbitration court would award.

It is, then, quite evident that more money will be needed and the bill proposed provides that the City Council shall have power to raise and spend this money without the consent of the people. It is not urged that this expenditure may not be necessary if we secure Hydro-Electric, but it is urged in the people's interest that they should have a voice in deciding what money they wish to spend. This is especially necessary since we do not know that the $120,000 or whatever sum is found necessary to acquire the Light and Power Company's property, will be all that will be needed. Those locally in charge of the Hydro-Electric enterprise maintain so much secrecy that the public is in the dark as to the financial obligation it may be obliged to assume. We have not been assured that the $120,000 will be enough. The Council evidently thinks it will not be, when it virtually seeks power to raise more money—without the consent of the people.

If more money is needed it should be provided. We are committed to the principle of Hydro-Electric, and lack of a few thousand dollars should not stand in the way of the people getting the advantages claimed from its application. But the point is that Hon. Mr. Beck has given a distinct pledge that any by-law involving the expenditure of the people's money should be submitted to the people. If the people approve, nothing more is to be said. The people have a right to say how their money, and how much, shall be spent. But let the people decide. It should not be necessary, and is not necessary, to make Mr. Beck break his promise by Act of Parliament. The people who voted so strongly for Hydro-Electric in 1911, will certainly vote for any reasonable sum necessary to bring it into effect, unless the air of childish mystery, maintained by our city fathers, and the delay, create suspicion and disappointment. It will, however, be a distinct breach of faith to nullify Mr. Beck's promise that the people should be allowed to decide when a proposal to spend their money is concerned. The mere spending of the money is not what counts, it is the proposal to spend it without the people's consent; that is objectionable.

IS THE WHITNEY GOVERNMENT PROGRESSIVE?

Mr. Brewster, in his eulogy of the new Workmen's Compensation Act, which Mr. Rowell's prodding has compelled the Whitney government to introduce, made extravagant claims for the latter as being a "progressive" government.

Well, it has been very progressive in the matter of taxation reform, and it has been very progressive in its labour legislation, as the fact that the Bureau of Labour has been stripped of all real power, and that the factory legislation of the government is still left to be administered by the department of agriculture, along with legislation affecting the San Jose scale and the Canadian thistle, shows. In addition the following proposals in the interests of labour, offered by the opposition, have been voted down by the government's followers, Mr. Brewster included:

The appointment of four additional female factory inspectors.

That no child under 14 years of age shall be employed in any factory.

That no child under 14 years of age shall be employed in any shop.

That the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council shall, by statute, issue a proclamation defining hazardous and dangerous occupations.

That the hours of employment for children be limited to eight hours per day, and not more than 48 hours per week, and of all youths and young girls to nine hours per day, or 54 hours per week.

That the provision in the existing law providing that "the custom or exigencies of a trade" may permit youths or young girls to be employed beyond the prescribed time be stricken out.

That no child, youth or young girl under the age of 18 years shall be employed in any basement, or any part of a factory or shop building which is below the surface of the ground.

That the hours of labour for children between 12 and 14 years of age be limited to nine hours per day.

That no child shall be permitted to be employed in any factory or shop who cannot produce a proper age or schooling certificate.

That a fatcory inspector shall have power to prevent the employment of any child at work for which it appears to be physically unfit.

That no child under 16 shall be permitted to operate an elevator.

There is no flavour of "progress" about the rejection of proposals which have been made law in almost every state of the union, and there is nothing progressive about a government which makes no effort to secure the enforcement of the law respecting compulsory school attendance in the rural parts of the province, with the result that the attendance at these schools is only about 50 per cent. of the enrollment. The fact is that in many respects the Whitney government instead of being progressive, is moribund—Brantford Expositor.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

THE BIG LACROSSE MEETING WILL BE HELD IN THE ST. ALPHONSUS' LYCEUM

Should Be a Large Gathering of Enthusiasts to Hear Message From Mr. Frank Doyle, Secretary of the Ontario Lacrosse Association.

PRINCIPALS INVITED

Through the kindness of Rev. Dean McColl and the officers of St. Peter's T. A. B., the Peterborough Athletic Club have secured the commodious hall in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum, Simcoe Street, for the big lacrosse meeting on Wednesday night. The hall will be an ideal place for such a meeting as it is centrally located and roomy.

It is earnestly requested that every one in the City who is interested in the revival of lacrosse should attend Wednesday's meeting. The success of the movement will depend on the interest shown on this occasion, and a big audience should face Mr. Frank Doyle, the Secretary of the Ontario Lacrosse Association, on Wednesday night. Mr. Doyle is a splendid speaker and knows his subject thoroughly. He will tell of the boom that is spreading over the province and outline plans by which the game can be revived on proper lines in Peterborough.

Every school principal in Peterborough is especially urged to be present, as part of Mr. Doyle's message will be devoted to a description of what is being done in the different schools throughout the province. Every old lacrosse player and fan in the City should make it a point to be on hand Wednesday night. If the meeting is well attended the movement will go ahead, if not, there is little prospect of any more effort.

Dr. McPherson, President of the Peterborough Athletic Club, will be chairman at Wednesday night's meeting.

TRUE ENOUGH.

A teacher was questioning a class of boys on the subject 'birds.' Having received correct answers to the questions about feathers, bill, feet, and wings, he put the question: What is it a bird can do that I am unable to do?

'Fly,' was the answer he hoped to get. For several moments the boys thought, but gave no answer. At last one boy held up his hand.

'Well, my lad, what is it?'

'Lay an egg, sir,' said the boy.

BELLEVILLE Y.M.C.A. BEAT LOCAL TEAM 36 TO 28

Visitors Finished Strong and Outscored Homesters in the Second Half--Easterners Showed Splendid Skill in Long Distance Shooting.

The Belleville Y.M.C.A. basketball team proved too good for the local 'Y' quartette on Saturday night and the Easterners left the floor winners by 36 to 28, after a hard-fought game. It was nip and tuck in the first half, with the teams alternating in the lead. The Petes had a one-point lead at half time, being in front 15 to 14 when the teams crossed over, and they increased their margin early in the second period, only to have Belleville come on and out-play them for the last fifteen minutes of the battle.

Belleville checked more closely and more effectively and their long-distance shooting puzzled the Petes. The locals shot well when they were given an opening, but the visitors covered their men closely and did not allow the Petes much latitude.

For Belleville, Ketcheson, Moon, and Alexander were the stars. The centre man was all over the floor, and shot nicely, while Moon's marksmanship was quick and accurate. Alexander checked splendidly and pulled off some beautiful baskets on shots from well down the floor.

Bartlett was the local team's best scorer. In fact he led both teams in basket getting. Long was responsible for several pretty baskets.

Messrs. Powers of Belleville and Thompson of Peterborough handled the game splendidly. The teams:

Belleville Y — Guards, Robinson, Alexander; centre, Ketcheson; forwards, Moon, Finkle.

Peterborough Y — Guards, Peever, Cunningham; centre, Flowers; forwards, Long, Bartlett.

The scores were made as follows:

Belleville—Moon, 7 baskets; Ketcheson, 5 baskets, 2 fouls; Alexander, 3 baskets; Finkle, 2 baskets.

Peterborough—Bartlett, 7 baskets, 1 foul; Long, 3 baskets, 1 foul; Flowers, 3 baskets.

In a City League game the Leaders defeated the Collegiate by 39 points to 37. The winners were ahead most of the way, but the students made a great finish and very nearly caught them at the flag. The Collegiate team were minus the services of Rogers, while Peever only played half the game.

The League standing is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Peterborough A. C.	1	0
Leaders	1	1
Collegiate	0	1

Sarnia Following The Example Of Peterborough Athletic Club

SARNIA, March 30 — It has been felt for some time that there is great need in Sarnia for an athletic organization which would include the younger men, including many between 15 and 20, who are interested in outdoor and indoor sports, but have no place in the present clubs devoted to hockey, baseball, etc. To such young men Sarnia offers at present no facilities in this line whatever, and, apart from the reading-room in the public library, there are no places of recreation except the billiard rooms and hotels. The need of such an organization, and the need of a gymnasium, was responsible for a meeting attended by over 75 persons, at the Police Court room, at the call of Mr. Leslie Payne of the Bank of Commerce. Dr. W. A. Henderson was asked to preside and brief addresses were delivered by J. M. MacAdams, W. H. Kanny, L. Payne, Robert Thrift, W. J. Battan, James Morrison and others.

It was decided to proceed with the organization with the idea of taking up lacrosse, association football and field sports; also to secure quarters which could be used as a gymnasium and headquarters for the members.

NEW YORK GIANTS—The New York National League team photographed at their Southern training camp, Marlin Springs, shortly after their return from their globe-encircling tour. In their practices, the players who took in the winter trip with the Giants are showing better "class" than those who have been out of practice all winter. The team is as strong as ever, and McGraw is looking forward to a prosperous season.

BIG SURPRISE IN THE SEMI-FINAL CUP GAMES

Liverpool Defeated Aston Villa by 2 Goals to Nil While Burnley and Sheffield United Played a Scoreless Draw —The Scores and Standing of the Different Leagues

The unexpected happened Saturday and the mighty "Villans" fell to Liverpool at Tottenham by 2 goals to 0. The other game in the semi-finals, between Burnley and Sheffield United at Old Trafford, ended in a scoreless tie after 90 minutes of hard battling, and the game will be replayed at Everton on Wednesday. It looks as if there will be two Lancashire teams in the final this year, and if Burnley and Liverpool do come together at the "Palace" it will be a fight right from the fall of the hat. The defeat of the Villa is sure to cause a sensation amongst football enthusiasts, as they were generally looked upon as the eventual cup winners.

The game in the Scottish Cup semi-finals turned out as predicted. Celtics downing Third Lanark by 2 goals, and Hibernians proved too much for St. Mirren. This will draw Celtic and the "Hibs" together in the final and a battle royal will take place, though Celtic should win.

Blackburn Beaten Again.

Only six games were played in the First Division of the English League, but those were enough to register two surprises. The leaders, Blackburn Rovers, lost to Sheffield Wednesday at Hillsboro, while West Bromwich Albion defeated Sunderland. Bolton Wanderers sent Bradford City back to the Yorkshire town minus two points and the remaining three games were tied.

Clapton Score Five.

Clapton Orient were high scorers in the Second Division, running up 5 to 1 against Lincoln City at Clapton. Woolwich Arsenal were badly beaten at Birmingham, much to the surprise of the Arsenal supporters, who expected an easy victory. Stockport County, who have been doing so badly lately, came at the expense of Bury, whom they beat by 3 clear goals. Notts County still further increased their lead in the division and are now 8 points ahead of their nearest rivals. They defeated Hull City by 4 goals to 1.

Swindon Town Downed.

Swindon Town got a bad setback at Brighton where the Albion beat them 2 goals to 0. They cannot afford to lose any more games if they are going to keep in the lead to the end of the season. Southampton is another of the teams that seem to be going back and their loss to Watford will not gain them many supporters. West Ham United dropped down in the league standing as a result of their reverse at Gillingham.

Partick Defeated Hearts.

Partick Thistles spoiled Hearts' chances of getting near the leadership of the Scottish by getting a 2 to 1 victory got over them. Morton surprised Dumbarton on the latter's ground and piled up a 6 to 2 score against them.

SELAH B. HOWELL

This is the first picture published of the man who will sail the sloop Defiance, one of the three boats being built to compete for the honour of defending America's Cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger this Fall. Captain Selah B. Howell comes from Highland, N.J. He is one of the best-known racing captains in America. The Defiance is being built at Bath, Me., on designs of George Owen, of Newton, for the so-called Boston-New York-Philadelphia syndicate. The Defiance will be launched May 11th.

HIT AT THE RIGHT BALL, BUT WITH THE WRONG BAT

The favourite speech-making motto of John J. Tener, President of the National League, is: "When in doubt tell an anecdote," and friends expect him to be right in the race. His favourite story is as follows:

"On the bench of a certain baseball team sat a pinch hitter, whose only failing was a firm belief that alcohol was a food. The manager called him into action one day when he had dined in accordance with his theory.

"Take a crack at that ball,' ordered the leader of the team.

"The pinch hitter rose to his feet unsteadily, swinging a heavy bat.

"I see three balls and three bats,' he complained.

"Well, hit the middle ball,' suggested the Manager.

"Although the player swung three times he did not even make a foul tip.

"Didn't I tell you to hit at the middle ball?' shouted the manager when the player took the long walk back to the bench.

"Oh, I swung at the middle ball all right,' replied the pinch hitter. 'The only trouble was I used the outside bat.'

THE P. A. C. CAMPAIGN PROGRESSING

The Peterborough Athletic Club's campaign for funds is being vigorously carried on and when the reports are received on Wednesday night it is expected that the club will have enough funds to establish permanent headquarters. The canvassers are urged to renew their efforts now and Wednesday night in order to make the best possible showing. There are many citizens who are willing to assist if the matter is placed before them. Make it a point to see as many of these people as possible.

The citizens have given the club a cordial reception and seem to regard it as a movement along right lines. As will be explained in another column, a similar enterprise is being carried out in Oshawa where the business citizens are getting in behind the club.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL SOCIETY'S AIMS OUTLINED

Mr. J. J. Seicz, of Toronto, Addressed About 100 of the Local Society on Sunday Afternoon

HAS IMPORTANT OBJECTS

A meeting of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum, on Sunday afternoon, was addressed by Mr. J. J. Seicz, of Toronto, Manager of the United Typewriter Company, a gentleman deeply interested in charitable work, and especially in the welfare of this particular Catholic society. In Peterborough it pursues a quiet and unostentatious course, attending principally to the Catholic poor, and working to considerable extent in conjunction with the City's Relief Committee. Very little is heard of its activities, except by those whose circumstances call for assistance. Mr. Harry Carveth presided at yesterday's meeting which was for the purpose of reviewing the objects of the Society, and enlarging upon what may be done. Mr. Siecz stated that the Society was named one hundred years ago by St. Vincent de Paul of France, who devoted his life to the care of the poor, and working for orphans and foundlings. The first objects of the ociety were the saving of souls and the aiding of widows and orphans. Its work incudes the visiting of hospitals, consoling and helping the needy and, as far as possible, following the charitable work which Christ, Himself, established as an example. Said Mr. Seicz: There are 24 hours a day of this work, and it calls out the best that is in us. In the care of helpless children, the Society should consider not only their material welfare, but also the spiritual welfare. The C.M.B.A., the K.O.C. and other societies have some earthly reason for their existence. The St. Vincent de Paul Society is different from them all. Charity is its principal object. Among those present at the meeting were His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, Rev. Dean McColl and Rev. J. J. O'Brien.

VIOLATION OF LIQUOR ACT

This morning Mr. L. G. Bennett, proprietor of the Queen's Hotel will appear in the police court on a charge of violating the Liquor License Act. It appears, that Saturday night last, during prohibited hours, Constables Royce and McAvoy made a raid on the hotel, and found a number of notables, including a Reeve, and a former License Commissioner, in a side room, assembled for a game with a good supply of liquor and glasses on the table. The defence of Mr. Bennett will be that he did not know that the men were drinking or playing in a side room, and that the liquor was brought onto his premises from an outside source.—Port Hope Times.

A Little Tip For Patrons of The Street Cars

Here is a little stunt for the benefit of some patrons of the Street Railway Company. For some time there has been a rule in force which requires a passenger on the C.G.E. car going from Aylmer street, for example, to George, and thence back to Byersville to pay two fares. The company has been trying to discourage the holding up of the east-bound cars by persons who could wait for their return, and then enter them for Byersville. If you get on an east-bound C. G. E. car at Park street you have to pay going to George street, and again on the return trip. The company says, wait till the car comes back, then stop it. But if it happens to be a wet day if the individual does not take kindly to gawking on a corner, Hence, if you want to take the C. G. E. car south-bound and want to avoid the two fares, as explained, take the Jackson Park car east-bound, that always precedes the red car, and ask for a transfer to the C. G. E. line. At George street change cars, and there you are. The rule is there and the conductors have to obey it. The intentions of the company are to the end that the south-bound George street car will not be held longer than necessary; this method provides a little escape from the extra nickel.

MOVEMENTS OF THE STARS AND PLANETS DURING PRESENT WEEK

Saturday, March 28, the sun rose at Toronto at 6.08 a.m. and set at 6.40 p.m. For the latitude of Winnipeg and London, Eng., the sun rises about three minutes earlier and sets three minutes later than for the latitude of Toronto at this time of the year. During the winter and up to about a week ago our day-time was longer than for London, but now after the spring 'equinox' when the sun has passed to the north of the equator, the day-time on the latitude of London will continue to increase to a greater length than here until the middle of June, when they will begin to shorten again until the autumn equinox. After that time, when the sun passes the equator again from the north to the south, our daytime will increase to a corresponding degree longer than that of London. Whilst the sun is south of the equator the day-time is longer here, when it is north of the equator the day-time is longer there. This is explained by the fact that London and Winnipeg are more than 300 miles nearer the North Pole than Toronto is; a glance at the map will show this. This discrepancy in length of day-time increases the further we go north, until in the neighbourhood of the pole we get six months day and six months night.

During the week the moon will rise about 35 minutes later each morning and set each night about an hour later than the day before. On Friday the moon will rise at 10.23 a.m., and set at about 2 o'clock next morning.

On Wednesday morning the moon and the planet Saturn will be in conjunction about six degrees from each other, Saturn being to the south.

On Friday the moon will be at first quarter, and at night will be within about four times its own diameter of the planet Mars, Mars being to the south.

Mars is still well overhead to the west at night, and has receded from us about 6,000,000 miles since this time last week. His present distance from the earth is about 114,000,000 miles.

At the present time the earth is passing through a meteor swarm that appear to come from the constellation Draco in the neighbourhood of the North Pole. The meteors that strike the earth's atmosphere from that region will appear to move swiftly, as they are going in the opposite direction to that of the earth.

Where by this or any other Act power is conferred on a municipal corporation to borrow money for any purpose without the assent of the electors, it shall include not only the power to borrow money by the issue of debentures but also the power to agree with any bank or person for temporary advances to meet the cost incurred from time to time for such purpose.

SPECIFIC SERUM FOR PNEUMONIA

NEW YORK, March 27.—Discovery of a specific serum for the treatment of oblar pneumonia was announced today by the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. In a statement sent to physicians, the institute announces that it is prepared to treat patients suffering from the disease in acute form. Results of experiments indicate the efficiency of the discovery in lowering the mortality from this malady, the statement says:

The work of evolving the serum out of many experimental cultures was under the direction of Dr. Rufus Cole, medical director of the institute and has been in progress for the past three years. For the preparation of the serum a culture of the germs is prepared for injection into the blood of a healthy animal, the horse being used in this case.

Coincidentally it was announced from Bellevue Hospital that a pneumonia serum developed in its laboratories was recently used successfully upon a staff physician of that institution.

STILL MUCH TO BE DONE

While the large bulk of the new Windsor Station and offices of the Canadian Pacific at Montreal has been complete for some time past, there has been much work to do in the way of putting the finishing touches here and there, to give completeness and perfection to the ensemble. On the main floor it was necessary to lay down new flooring, open up an information bureau, a nursery, a luncheon and dining room where not merely the employees, but the general public, can be sure of appetizing dishes at moderate prices. Part of the plan was to incorporate the old front entrance on Osborne street with the great concourse and give a new entrance on the corner, with modern and rapid elevators. This work, which did not make bulk, but was most important, and which has ben carried on for many months, is now completed, and three new elevators in the northeast corner of the building, facing at once on Windsor and Osborne streets, have been opened to the public. The old luncheon room—for that is the space used—is now beautifully tiled and wainscotted with marble, delicately veined, and exquisite in polish and colour, while the elevators express the latest word in speed, comfort and reliability. The whole opens, which was devoted to the public, the ticket offices, and which went the length of the whole building, will now be taken over by or incorporated with the new concourse, which, large and dignified as it is, will be considerably augmented, thus giving it a sense of impressiveness and space, which will be much appreciated by the travelling public. With a new entrance, new elevators, a bit clock facing the public, the improvements and renovation will give to the old building a new and desirable character in keeping with that which the great station and office building presents to the eye from Osborne to St. Antoine street, and which on St. Antoine street will, with completed buildings, soon extend to Mountain street, thus forming, in one great and dignified whole the finest terminal, almost, it might be said, on this continent. Illuminated at night, with the myriad office lights, reaching to the sixteenth storey, each quivering point becoming more tenuous as the altitude becomes more marked, and enswathed by the white and softening glow of the great area outside, the monstrous bulk gives to the eye of the visitor the sense of power and vastness modulated by the fairy-like illumination which claims the admiring regard.

RALLY DAY WITH THE LIFE PROBLEM CLUB

It was rally day with the Life Problem Club at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday. There was a big attendance at the meeting in the afternoon, at which Dr. Moir gave a helpful and spirited address on "Secrets of Success." The mandolin club contributed two enjoyable selections, and Mr. W. J. Stubbs ably presided at the piano.

At 5.45 tea was served in the boys' room and at 6.45 sixty-five members of the Life Problem Club marched in a body to the George street Methodist church.

The Belleville Basket Ball Team and Physical Director Powers were the guests of the senior leaders at supper on Saturday night, and of the Life Problem Club on Sunday evening.

The 'Frampe' Reunion on Thursday and Friday nights promises to attract a big crowd. The tickets are selling rapidly.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS ATTEND THE GEORGE ST. METHODIST CHURCH

First Annual Church Parade of Boys' Department Held Last Night.

INSPIRING SERMON

A large number of the boys of the Y.M.C.A. attended the George Street Church last night. The south gallery had been reserved for them and its seating accommodation was taxed to the limit by the members of the Boys' Department, under the charge of Mr. G. Galley, Boys' Secretary. Mr. J. J. Thompson's Life Problem Club also attended, occupying the transcept of the north gallery. The boys met at the Y.M.C.A., and paraded to the Church at seven o'clock. In all probability the Church parade, so successfully inaugurated last night, will be made an annual affair.

Mr. Jas. Connal, President, and Mr. A. A. Hainsworth, Secretary of the local Y.M.C.A., with the Pastor, the Rev. R. G. Peever, were on the platform.

Mr. Connal, in a brief speech, said that the men of the George Street Church took more interest in the Y. M. C. A. than the men of the other Churches. He issued a cordial invitation to the fathers of the 'Y' members to visit the institution and see how their sons spent the time there.

The Rev. Mr. Peever preached a powerful sermon, directed particularly to the young men and boys present. The youth should be taken into the heart of the Church, and the Church of to-morrow, he said, should be built around tem. The Church had no right to throw stones at the youth, for the older members should remember their younger days, when they looked into life to find all the fun and laughter there was in it. The Church's to-morrow depended on its attitude to, and dealing with, the youth of to-day.

"Does it make a boy weak to be clean and pure?' asked the preacher. "If you want to be strong you should have a love of purity, love of the home, love of the temple of God, and to be of the Scriptures.' He exhorted the boys to ally themselves with the weak. That was a sign of strength. They should have convictions as to what was right, and have the courage of their convictions everywhere and at all times. He hated and despised a hypocrite. In the end Christ went to his death for his convictions.

Referring to the service the young men could be in the work of God, Mr. Peever said that very often the first twenty-four hours of a boy's life after his arrival in a city determined whether he would end in hell or in heaven.

In conclusion, he told of the wonderful life of Sir George Williams, the farmer lad who became a clerk in a large London drygoods store. Though only a clerk among hundreds of others, whose lives were in a very low moral plane, he accomplished a wonderful work and promotion through his steadfast efforts to help others. He ultimately founded the Y.M.C.A. in London, England, in 1844, and to-day is was an association of over a million members.

Sir George Williams made a success of life because he believed certain things and stood by them. He believed character was the most important thing in life and that power to perfect character came from God.

TANGOITIS RUINED 61 YEAR OLD HUBBY

NEW YORK, March 30.— The age limit of tangoitis was extended a bit when Otto Koster who is white haired, limps and says he is 61 years old, was summoned by Mrs. Koster before Magistrate Freschi in the Domestic Relations Court. Tangoitis has brought about ergasiaphobia, according to Mrs. Koster but she put her husband's ailments simpler by saying that his sudden devotion to the tango has aroused in him an aversion to work.

Mrs. Koster gave her address as 404 East Seventy-ninth Street, but there isn't any such number in East Seventy-ninth Street.

The defendant limped into Magistrate Freschi's court leaning heavily upon a cane. He could not work, he answered, answer to his wife's accusation, because he was physically unable, and stepped to his wife's charge of non-support was that he had been laid up in a hospital and had just got out. He limped to prove it. The Magistrate said that the charge seemed painfully real to him.

"Judge!" cried the wife, who confessed to be at least ten years younger than her husband, but says she is four years older, "the tango and these other new-fangled dances have spoiled him. Some younger people in our neighbourhood have taught him the tango. Now he stays out all night tangoing and when he does come home he always has to practice up the steps before he goes to bed. And the first thing when he gets up again, what does he do?"

"What does he do, madam?' asked the court with interest.

"Begins to tango," said Mrs. Koster. "He starts right off as soon as he is out of bed trying the new steps he learned the night before. Then he goes out and maybe he won't come back for days."

"Well, your husband's appearance certainly does not suggest that he is able to tango," the Magistrate said. "I may be deceived but his limp looks very real to me."

Magistrate Freschi thereupon announced that he would parole Otto for a week, during which time the stories told by Otto and Mrs. Otto will be looked into by a probation officer.

Vagrancy Case Heard This Morning

Magistrate Reserved Judgment in Charge Against Maloney and Brickley

In this morning's Police Court Jas. Maloney and Frank Brickley, the two men who have been held on suspicion for the past three weeks, were charged with vagrancy. Mr. D. O'Connell appeared for the defendants, and Chief Thompson conducted the prosecution. The two men when arrested about two weeks ago, were held on suspicion, and the local police got in communication with surrounding towns and cities, but no evidence was secured against them. This morning they came up for trial on a vagrancy charge and, after hearing the evidence the Magistrate reserved judgment.

Mr. C. Noyes was the first witness called. He produced a parcel of five keys, a razor, a file, three Jack knives and seven cards used for begging. These he found under a step leading to the little Grand Trunk building at the G.T.R. swing bridge. He found them on the 5th of March while looking for something else, between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning. He found seven jacknives, four of which he kept or gave away, and the other three he turned over to the police with the rest of the goods. On the day he found them he saw the two prisoners going east on the G. T. R. tracks, and the next morning he saw them coming back toward the City. One of them had two round tin cans, one in each of his inside overcoat pockets. That made witness think that they were going to spend the night in the G.T.R. shack, three miles down the track. The next morning he found that the shack had been occupied during the night and he found two tin cans on the floor, which had been used for making tea. The two men he saw had black overcoats. Mr. O'Connel had the overcoats produced and one of them was brown. Examination showed that neither had two inside coat pockets, and the Counsel contended that these could not be the men the witness saw.

Harold Toms, who is an employee of the Grand Trunk Railway, working on the G.T.R. swing bridge, said that on the 5th of March (the day the keys were found) he saw two men stop near the Grand Trunk house, near the swing bridge. He could not identify them as the prisoners, however. One man was taller than the other and he wore a black coat. The taller prisoner was ordered to put on his overcoat, and when he did so witness said that if that was the man he saw he did not have that overcoat on.

When arrested the two men had a kit with a rubber stamp used to print a notice to the public that the bearer had a disabled arm and needed help. An impression of this stamp was found with the keys and other goods. The prisoners had on them also packages of court plaster, exactly the same as was found in the package that had been hidden under the steps leading to the G. T. R. house at the bridge. This went to show, the prosecution argued, that the two men had hid the outfit there.

Mr. O'Connel, in summing up the defence, said that the fact that Brickley had $10 on him when arrested, precluded the possibility of his being convicted of vagrancy as he had a visible means of subsistence. He quoted cases to prove this.

The Magistrate reserved judgment in the case.

TO ESTABLISH SEWERAGE FOR TOWN OF WHITY

Council Directs Engineer To Plan a System Costing $100,000.

WHITBY, March 30. —At a special meeting of the Town Council, which last till an early hour Saturday morning, it was decided to go on with the establishment of a newer system for the county town. Mr. John Baird Laidlow, of Toronto, whose home is there, and who is a member of this year's Council, moved the resolution, which was adopted without opposition directing the engineer, T. Aird Murray, to complete his plans and specifications preparatory to advertising for tenders for sewers and disposal works estimated to cost about $100,000. The system will cover the central and southern part of the town, and, with extensions, will provide for a population of thirty thousand.

First Anniversary Of The Salvation Army In 25 Years

Adjt. McElheney has outlined a big five days' anniversary of the formation of the local corps of the Salvation Army to begin on April 9th. This will be the first anniversary held in twenty-one years, and the programme is being arranged on a scale that will partially compensate for lost time. There will be a big special meeting on Thursday, April 9th, at which some of the prominent citizens are expected to be present. On Good Friday afternoon there will be service entitled "The Death of Christ," and in the evening it will be held for adults. Anniversary supper will be held at four o'clock Saturday night will see an old-timers' meeting with the band attired in the old uniforms, and playing some of the old tunes. It will be featured by addresses by some of the pioneer members. Sunday afternoon there will be a big open meeting, and Monday will find the conclusion of the anniversary. Adjt. McElheney is working hard to make this a big affair.

The local corps of the Salvation Army was established in 1885 with Capt. Mills, the first officer in charge. The old Baptist Church building on Aylmer Street was used for services. It is now used by the First Church of Christian Science. Aide de Camp Eadie was present at the formation of the corps.

LEGISLATION AND MORALS

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I note in your issue of the 26th a letter from "A Man on the Street," which I think if I were a member of the Ministerial Association I would stop, consider, and be sure of my ground before I tried to run everybody and everything.

I think the public are getting sick and tired of the interference and dictation by the clergy in the affairs of the citizens in their public and private life, and conduct.

A few days ago a Toronto paper, speaking editorially, said in part: "What makes some reformers such a nuisance is the tolerance extended to them, it is their license that should be cancelled."

The clergy and followers make annual calls on the Provincial Legislature urging certain laws or changes to existing laws, the object being no doubt to make people live better, i.e., according to their views. Legislation and laws will never make man Christian, nor put virtue in him. The clergy need a boss to guide and hold a tight rein on them, having been without one for so long has brought them to the idea, they can never do wrong. As a rule they represent no body but themselves.

Yours truly,

Reason.

More Wages For G.T.R. Employees

Examiner Special:

DETROIT, Mich, March 30.—A. B. Lowe, of this city, president of the International Maintenance of Way employees, has announced that the Grand Trunk and its maintenance of way employees have by mutual consent, adopted a wage schedule as per award of the board of commissioners last fall. This award makes the C. P. R. standard rates, which are highest in Canada, the rates also of the Grand Trunk wherever these are less than the C.P.R. The increased pay of the G. T. R. becomes effective March 1st. Provision for overtime at time and a half was also made, also promotion by seniority where the man is qualified.

PROVED IT TO BE SO

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 29. — Is it possible to broil an egg on a cake of ice?

Certainly. All you need to know is how to manipulate ultra violet rays of proper angstrom units on the egg. Be sure and have your violet rays ultra, though.

Dr. W. L. Bovie did it yesterday at the laboratory of the Harvard Canter Commission. He exposed a regular egg and a chunk of ice to waves of a length of about 2,700 angstrom units. After a time the egg was hard boiled sure enough, and the ice was not melted.

Special Services In St. James'

DELIVERED ADDRESS

Mr. Clarence Bell, of Osgoode Hall, who is in town, gave an excellent address to the Men's Bible class of St. John's Church yesterday afternoon. He took for his subject, "St. Peter's Message to Timothy," when he started his career of Christianity.

Mr. Bell also delivered an able address at the evening service at St. John's Church. This is the first time for a long while that a layman has addressed the congregation of St. John's.

ROUGH PASSAGE

Two young English gentlemen who have come to Peterborough County for the purpose of learning the Canadian manner of farming with farmers in our locality, when interviewed by an Examiner representative, this morning, in regard to the condition of the ocean at this time of the year, stated that the high seas are at present very rough. On Sunday, March 22nd, the "Virginian,' a vessel belonging to the Allan Line, on which they were voyaging, was practically in distress. On the night mentioned all hands were kept on deck, all through the night, and at one time the engines were reversed. According to the testimony of passengers who had secured information from the vessel's officers, it was more than surprising that the vessel battled the terible gale that it encountered. In conjunction with the above it may be here incidentally mentioned that the 'Virginian' was carrying the largest complement of passengers that she has handled for some time. One thousand and fifty-four passengers disembarked at St. John, N. B. It is also stated that the steamship companies are anticipating an enormous trade this season.

Military Matters

The regular recruiting class of the 57th Regiment will be held to-morrow night in the Armouries. All men who have signed on will be expected to turn out for drill, and new members will be received and outfitted. It should be remembered that May 1st is the latest date at which recruits will be accepted for the 57th this year.

A meeting of the officers of the 57th Regiment will be held to-morrow night in the officers' mess.

There will be a class of instruction held to-night in connection with the 3rd Dragoons in the cavalry quarters of the local Armouries, and a full attendance is requested. There will be only a few more drills before the men leave for Stanley Barracks, Toronto, to pass qualifying examinations. Any young man wishing to become acquainted with the cavalry work in Peterborough, is asked to call at the Armouries on either Mondays, Wednesdays or Thursdays.

SOME THINGS AND A FEW OTHERS

Those who love flowers will find some beautiful blooms in the florists' shops these days. If you have any spare room in your home they are well worth a little space.

Quite a lull in the atmosphere of world events after the high tension of last week. Here's hoping the Nationalists abandon their quest. In this they will have the support of the Unionists, Sir Edward Carson, and the rest.

The shouters for justice mightn't be satisfied with that. The good old days of eviction and emigrant ships presented the easiest solution (temporarily) of the problem. But having set up a standard in these things, it would look too much like the Congo even to make an effort to pull up with past records.

Do the ladies intend to wear those new millinery contraptions? They look like the 'lids' our grandmothers wore, only they are short on class. You can't blame the weather man if he spills a shower on Easter Sunday.

The ordinary man concludes that a woman doesn't know when she is neatly dressed, and although he who insists on inspecting his wife's purchases has never found universal favour there is a grain of reason in his attitude.

It would be worth about 30 cents to see a 120 pound woman dressed in those de luxe section skirts. She'd look like a Chinaman's laundry bag on Monday morning.

All the Hydro lights will be on to-night for the benefit of the visiting members of the Borden Cabinet. Do not tell them that the Power Committee took the "hang went saxpence" "don't care if we bust" stand and turned on the full battery to dazzle the visitors.

A SHARP BOY

Friday afternoon. Mr. Grigson was busy and particularly anxious to get away from the office, when word came up that there was a gentleman downstairs waiting to see him on an important matter. So Mr. Grigson swallowed his annoyance, and bade the messenger bring up the gentleman.

The gentleman entered—a cheeky-looking little whipper-snapper, four feet nothing in his socks.

Mr. Grigson glared at him angrily. "What d'ye mean by saying that you want to see me on important business?" he thundered. "Aren't you the boy who was here a week or two ago looking for a job?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then, why ——" began Mr. Grigson, now purple in the face. But the youth interrupted him.

"You said then, sir," he remarked calmly, "that you wanted an older boy. That's why I've come back again now!"

C. Whitaker of London. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. J. Bowers, Rector of St. Luke's Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker left on an extended honeymoon, after which they will take up residence in Calgary.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. W. C. Whitaker and Miss Whitaker of London, Mr. F. D. Moore, K. C., of Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Allen, Master Jack and Miss Jessie Allen of Bethany.

Mrs. Dorothea W. Ritchie, widow of the late John Ritchie, died on Saturday at Montreal while visiting her daughter, Mrs. Vernon F. Fruetsmo. She had been ill for months, but of late improved, and was preparing to return to Peterborough when a relapse ended in her sudden death. Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie had just returned from the Pacific Coast and was having the old home prepared for the reception of the deceased lady, when the said news came by telephone Saturday evening.

The late Mrs. Ritchie was 83 years of age, 70 of which were spent as a resident of Peterborough. She was born in Shereock, Ireland, in 1831, and was married in 1854. She is the last of the family. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Freeburn of Montreal, and two sons, Mr. Albert J. Ritchie of Washington and Mr. Ryerson Ritchie of this City.

The funeral will be private from 200 Stewart Street on Tuesday afternoon, March 31st, at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery.

MISS TUCKER.

The death occurred at the home of Miss Spilsbury, 473 Water street this morning at half-past-seven o'clock of Miss Tucker, daughter of ex-Reeve Tucker, of Apsley, after a short illness. Miss Tucker was nineteen years of age, and was born in Apsley, where she lived up till a few years ago, when she came to this city. She has since resided here, and she was esteemed and respected by all who knew her. She is survived by her parents, four sisters and five brothers. Windsor Woman and Child Were Threatened With Death.

WINDSOR, March 31. — Startling charges were preferred by Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, a pretty little English woman, against her husband, David, when she appealed to the police yesterday for protection.

Mrs. Robinson declared her husband tied her and their infant baby to a chair and threatened to set both on fire if she attempted to free herself. Robinson admitted the charges.

"I was so angry I lost all control of myself," said Robinson when he was brought in. "It is purely a case of too much mother-in-law. My wife and I could be happy if her mother would leave her alone."

Magistrate Leggatt has taken the case under advisement.

GUARANTEED RELIEF FROM ALL BOWEL ILLS

If your bowels are out of order, instead of using some harsh salt or other physic, take a Rexall Orderlie tonight, and tomorrow you will feel great. They taste good and act so easily that there isn't a particle of griping or purging, nor the excessive looseness that follows the taking of salts and most pills. They soothe and strengthen the bowels, promptly relieving the constipation, making it unlikely to occur again.

We don't believe there is any other bowel remedy anywhere near as good, and at the same time so easy and pleasant to take as Rexall Orderlies. We know you will agree with us and believe you will thank us for telling you about them. If they don't satisfy you in every way, come back and tell us and we will give back your money without a word or question. You have no reason to hesitate when we give you the opportunity, as we here... [illegible] them at our risk. In vest pocket tin boxes, 10c, 25c, 50c.

MAKES BOLD MOVE

Asquith Takes Seely's Post and Seeks Re election

COMMONS IS ASTOUNDED

LONDON, March 31.—A series of sensations in the House of Commons yesterday in connection with the army crisis reached its climax with the announcement by Premier Asquith that he himself would assume the portfolio of Secretary of War, vacated by Col. Seely. He added that he would retire from the House of Commons until his constituents in East Fife re-elected him.

Field Marshal Sir John French, chief of the Imperial general staff, and Gen. Sir John Ewart, adjutant-general, declined to withdraw their resignations in spite of the army order issued on Friday, which Viscount Haldane cleverly framed as a platform on which the government might stand with consistency and honor.

It thus became impossible for Col. J. E. B. Seely, who was co-signer with them of the memorandum to Brig.-Gen. Gough that the army would not be used to suppress the Ulster opposition to Home Rule, to retain the secretaryship of War. His resignation, therefore, was accepted, after he had been for some days under fire from the newspapers of his own party, which insisted that he must go.

Viscount Morley of Blackburn, Lord President of the Council, who was partner with Col. Seely in drafting the offending paragraphs of the document, stands in the same position, and his withdrawal from office is expected to-day.

The Premier's absence from Parliament will not last longer than two weeks, as his re-election for the Scottish division he has represented ever since he entered Parliament is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

The decision of the Premier was wholly unexpected and momentarily overshadowed the retirement of Col. Seely, Field Marshal French and Adjutant-General Ewart. Politicians were brought back to the original cause of the Ministerial crisis by the admissions of Viscount Morley in the House of Lords, which confirmed many of the Unionist charges and the intimation that Viscount Morley himself intended to retire from politics.

"Col. Seely's resignation has been accepted." This was the euphemistic expression by Premier Asquith in announcing that his War Secretary had paid the penalty of his indiscretions in adding to the Cabinet document the two paragraphs which have aroused such feeling as threaten the existence of the entire Cabinet.

The first intimation received by members of Parliament that Col. Seely had definitely retired from the Cabinet was when he entered the House and took a seat in the back benches instead of among his late colleagues.

The only practical look to the party meantime will be the withdrawal of Mr. Asquith's voice from the debates. He will preside over the Cabinet meetings and direct manoeuvres in the House of Commons from an unofficial seat, while Reginald McKenna, the Home Secretary, and Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, will understudy him as House leader.

"Oh, I'll be handy if I'm wanted," Mr. Asquith remarked to Andrew Bonar Law, the Opposition leader, who thought that the Home Rule bill could not be proceeded with in the absence of the Premier.

Mr. Asquith apparently consulted no one except the King before his bold decision. His colleagues in the Cabinet seemed to be as surprised as the other members of the House when he revealed his plans. Mr. Asquith is already First Lord of the Treasury, which office he will continue to hold. If he had merely shifted from one office to another the resignation of his seat in the House of Commons would not have been necessary, but he said that he had been legally advised that the acceptance of "an office of profit under the crown," in the words of the statute necessitated a new election, although he will take only one salary, $25,000.

Both Houses yesterday debated the situation at great length, but the debates simmered down into merely assertions, on the one side of a plot to seduce the army, and on the other side of a plot to crush the Ulster covenanters, with denials and counter-denials and heated personalities.

VOTE FOR FILTERS.

Ottawa Citizens Defeat Hinnie's Plan After Bitter Contest.

OTTAWA, March 31.—After one of the most bitterly contested municipal battles in many years—a pure water supply for the capital being the issue—when ratepayers flocked to the polls yesterday and gave the project to mechanically filter Ottawa river water, at an approximate cost of $2,000,000, a majority of 1,308. In opposition to this plan was a scheme to take the water from Thirty-One Mile Lake, via a pipe line fifty-two miles long, at an estimated expenditure of $8,000,000. This latter scheme was reported on by Sir Alex. Binnie, an eminent British engineer, and the victorious project was recommended by Mayor McVeity and reported on by Archibald Currie, city engineer of Ottawa.

A majority of the council, led by Ald. Ellis, M.P.P. for West Ottawa, and mayor in 1913, who was defeated for re-election, 957 used the mechanical filtration scheme, supported by The Ottawa Free Press and The Evening Journal. The Ottawa Citizen joined forces with the minority in council, and for the past few weeks a warm fight has raged.

At one time the question went to the Ontario Legislature, which finally had to decide on the wording of the ballots.

INSURED AGAINST JAIL.

Montreal Women Have Protection Society Skips Officers.

MONTREAL, March 31.—A society for the aiding of women of ill-repute when arrested has, according to Lieutenant Sayard of the local police department, been discovered in Montreal. The books and papers of the society, all kept in a business-like way, were discovered in a raid on a disorderly house on Cadieux street yesterday morning. The woman paid a dollar a week into the society and in return their fines and the cost of their defence when arrested were paid for them.

Must Destroy Orchards.

ST. CATHARINES, March 31.—Walter Biggar, provincial fruit pests inspector, was in Niagara, and with R. Chapman, the local inspector, made a tour of the orchards and gardens in the town. As a result, about twenty orchards have been condemned, and the trees must be destroyed. Similar conditions prevail in the township and many orchards will have to be destroyed, as they are too far gone for spraying to be of any benefit.

Conservative Attack on N. T. R. Low Rate Competition

BENEFITS SEEN ALREADY

OTTAWA, March 31.—Another day was spent in the Commons debating the Gutelius-Staunton report on the building of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Marine introduced a bill to amend the Vancouver Harbor Board Act so as to permit the sale instead of lease of portions of the foreshore.

W. F. Carroll (Lib., E. Cape Breton) introduced a bill to limit the number of hours of work for railway trainmen. The bill provides, except in cases of accident and obstruction, that no trainman shall be kept at work for more than fourteen hours at a stretch.

Mr. Boyce (W. Algoma) resumed the debate upon the Gutelius-Staunton report on the National Transcontinental Railway. He denounced the construction of the N. T. R. between Moncton and Winnipeg as having been characterized by fraud and dishonesty, which the Laurier Government "connived at, condoned and concealed." He said that the Canadian Pacific Railway represented the Conservative party, while the National Transcontinental represented the Liberal party. The Canadian Pacific had made confederation possible and represented progress and prosperity, while the National Transcontinental stood for a dead loss of $75,000,000 to the people, and continued high freight rates for the west.

Hon. Frank Oliver said the National Transcontinental project grew out of the determination of the Laurier Government to free the western people from the monopoly of the Canadian Pacific. Already the new road had brought about railway competition, rate reduction, and had terminated the annual grain blockade at the head of navigation. It would give the western farmer a route open the year round and would put an end to the frantic rush to get all the wheat to Liverpool before the close of inland navigation, which meant a lower price to the farmer.

"The Conservative party fought for railway monopoly before;" he said, "and to-day by the use of this partisan report they indicate the determination of the Government now in office to break the back of the only enterprise in sight which can give the four western provinces effective railway competition.

"This Government," he continued, "is spending large sums upon the deepening of the Welland Canal. I am not complaining of that, but it is as much for the benefit of the United States, with whom the Government wanted no truck or trade, as for Canada. When they are doing this they are not the people to complain because a large sum has been spent for a railway entirely for the benefit of Canada, built for Canada, located in Canada, built not only for the grain trade of the west, but for the development of Canadian ports."

Major Sam Sharpe replied briefly at the evening session. He said that the building of the N. T. R. instead of reducing rates means higher freight rates for the next two generations. The building of the line from Levis to Moncton was an absolute waste of money. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had projected the National Transcontinental in the hope of leaving a monument to himself such as Sir John Macdonald left in the Canadian Pacific Railway, but the National Transcontinental would soon be a millstone about the neck of Canada, burdening the people for years to come.

"Another purpose for building this road," Major Sharpe continued, "was to enable party favorites and camp followers to enrich themselves at the public expense. Many a Liberal purveyor became a millionaire, and many a Liberal millionaire became a multi-millionaire."

Men Trapped in Fire.

QUEBEC, March 31.—Cyrille Belanger and Albert Poirier were probably fatally burned and their two other workmen suffered minor burns in a fire which destroyed a building on the harbor commissioners' Indian Cove property, where seventy men were employed building sheds. Some of the men were engaged in drying oakum. A dropped match fired the oakum and a fire ensued, which trapped the men in a hole as they tried to escape.

RESENTS INSULT.

President Wilson Sorry Tolls Debate Has Degenerated.

WASHINGTON, March 31. — On the eve of the vote in the House of Representatives on the repeal of the American toll exemption in the Panama Canal, Congress yesterday was completely absorbed in the controversy, verbal artillery thundering throughout the day in both Houses and Senate.

While opposing forces were clashing in oratorical fights at the capitol, President Wilson took occasion to discuss the all-engrossing situation with callers, expressing keen regret that what had promised to be a dignified contest over principles had degenerated into a fight upon the administration. While on the subject, President Wilson characterized as "a crowning insult of a number of insults" in the debate, the declaration of Representative Knowland of California, that the administration had made a deal to repeal the toll exemption with Sir William Tyrrell, secretary of Sir Edward Grey, British secretary for Foreign Affairs.

Little doubt as to the result of the vote on the bill is entertained by any one, the majority for the repeal being variously estimated at from 36 to 75 votes.

Man Who Tried to Burn Father-in-law's House Gets Five Years.

CHATHAM, March 31. — For attempting to burn down the house of his father-in-law, Edward Casgrand, on Taylor avenue, Gideon Jewel was yesterday sentenced to five years in Kingston by Magistrate Stanworth in the County Police Court. Jewel had trouble with his wife, and attempted to commit suicide by gas and acid, but failed. He was in a local hospital for several days, and after his release went to Wallaceville.

He came back here on the opening of Feb. 19 and set fire to the house where his wife was living with her parents. He was tracked through the snow by officers and arrested on a C. P. R. express just as it was leaving the city for Windsor.

"THE MAYOR'S WIFE"

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

CHAPTER XIV.

I SEEK HELP.

A bad night, a very bad night, but for all that I was down early the next morning. Bess must have her box and I a breath of fresh air before breakfast, to freshen me up a bit and clear my mind for the decisive act, since mp broken rest had failed to refresh me.

As I reached the parlor floor Nixon came out of the reception room.

"Oh, Miss!" he exclaimed, "going out?" surprised, doubtless, to see me in my hat and jacket.

"A few steps," I answered, and then stopped, not a little disturbed; for in moving to open the door he had discovered that the key was not in it and was showing his amazement somewhat conspicuously.

"Mrs. Packard took the key up to her room," I explained, thinking that some sort of explanation was in order. "She is nervous, you know, and probably felt safer with it there."

The slow shake of his head had a tinge of self-reproach in it.

"I was sorry to go out," he muttered "I was very sorry to go out,"—but the look which he turned upon me the next minute was of a very different sort. "I don't see how you can go out yet," said he, "unless you go by the back way. That leads into Stanton Street; but perhaps you had just as lief go into Stanton Street."

There was impertinence in his voice as well as aggressiveness in his eye, but I smiled easily enough and was turning toward the back with every expectation of going by way of Stanton Street, when Letty came running down the stairs with the key in her hand. I don't think he was pleased, but he opened the door civily enough and I gladly went out, taking with me, however, a remembrance of the furtive look with which he had noted the small package in my hand.

I pass over the joy with which Bess received the box and its desired contents. I had lost all interest in the matter, which was so entirely personal to herself, and declining the ten dollars which I knew she could ill afford, made my visit so short that I was able to take a brisk walk down the street and yet be back in time for breakfast.

This, like that of the preceding day, I took alone. Mrs. Packard was well but preferred to eat up-stairs. I did not fret at this; I was really glad, for now I could think and plan my action quite unembarrassed by her presence.

The opening under the vestibule floor was to be sounded, and sounded this very morning, but on what pretext? I could not take Mrs. Packard into my counsel, for that would be to lessen the force of the discovery with which I yet hoped to dissipate at one blow the superstitious fears I saw it was otherwise impossible to combat. I might interest Ellen, and I was quite certain that I could interest the cook; but this meant Nixon, also, who was always around and whose animosity to myself was too mysteriously founded for me to trust with any of my secrets or to afford him an inkling of my real reason for being in the house.

Yet help I must have, and very efficient help. Should I telegraph to Mayor Packard for some sort of order which would lead to the tearing up of this end of the house? I could not do this without fuller explanations than I could give in a telegram. Besides, he was under sufficient pressure just now for me to spare him the consideration of so disturbing a matter, especially as he had left a substitute behind whose business it was, not only to relieve Mrs. Packard in regard to the libelous paragraph, but in all other directions to which his attention might be called. I would see Mr. Steele; he would surely be able to think up some scheme by which that aparture might be investigated without creating too much disturbance in the house.

An opportunity for doing this was not long in presenting itself. Mr. Steele came in about nine o'clock and passed at once into the study. The next moment I was knocking at his door, my heart in my mouth, but my determination strung up to the point of daring anything and everything for the end I had in view.

Fortunately he came to the door; I could never have entered without his encouragement. As I met his eye I was ashamed of the color my cheeks undoubtedly showed, but felt reconciled the next minute, for he was not quite disembarrassed himself, though he betrayed it by a little extra paleness rather than by a flush, such as had so disturbed myself. Both of us were quite natural in a moment, however, and answering his courteous gesture I stepped in and at once opened up my business.

"You must pardon me," said I, "for this infringement upon the usual rules of this office. I have something very serious to say about Mrs. Packard—oh, she is quite well; it has to do with a matter I shall presently explain—and I wish to make a request."

"Thank you for the honour," he said, drawing up a chair for me.

But I did not sit, neither did I speak for a moment. "I am burdened with a secret, and it may all may appear puerile to you. I don't know whether to remind you first of Mayor Packard's intense desire to see his wife's former cheerfulness restored—a task in which I have been engaged to assist—or to plunge at once into my discoveries; which are a little peculiar and possibly important, in spite of my short acquaintance with the people under this roof and the nature of my position here."

"You excite me," were his few quick but sharply accentuated words. "What secret? What discoveries? I didn't know that the house held any that were worth the attention of sensible persons like ourselves."

"I had not been looking at him directly, but I looked up at this and was astonished to find that his interest in what I had said was greater than appeared from his tone or even his manner.

"You know the cause of Mrs. Packard's present uneasiness?" I asked.

"Mayor Packard told me—the paragraph which appeared in yesterday morning's paper. I have tried to find out its author, but I have failed so far."

"That is a trifle," I said. "The real cause—no, I prefer to stand," I me by a gesture to seat myself.

"The real cause—" he repeated.

"—is one you will smile at, but which you must nevertheless respect. She thinks—she has confided to us, in fact—that she has seen, within these walls, what many others have professed to have seen. You understand me, Mr. Steele?"

"I don't know that I do, Miss Saunders."

"I find it hard to speak it; you have heard of, of course, the common gossip about this house?"

"That it is haunted" he smiled, somewhat disdainfully.

"Yes. Well, Mrs. Packard believes that she has seen what—what gives this name to the house?"

"A ghost?"

"Yes, a ghost—in the library one night."

"Ah!"

The ejaculation was eloquent. I did not altogether understand it, but its chief expression seemed to be contempt. I began to fear he would not have sufficient sympathy with such an unreasoning state of mind to give me the attention and assistance I desired. He saw the effect it had upon me and hastened to say:

"The impression Mrs. Packard has made upon me was of a commonsense woman. I'm sorry to hear that she is the victim of an hallucination. What do you propose to do about it?—for I see that you have some project in mind."

Then I told him as much of our story as seemed necessary to obtain his advice and to secure his co-operation. I confided to him my theory of the unexplainable sights and sounds which had so unfortunately aroused Mrs. Packard's imagination, and what I had done so far to substantiate it. I did not mention the bonds, nor tell him of Bess and her box, but led him to think that my experiments in the cellar had been the result of my discoveries in the side entrance.

He listened gravely—I hardly feel justified in saying with a surprise that was complimentary. I am not sure that it was. Such men are difficult to understand. When I had finished, he rewarded me with a smile.

"So you conclude that the floor of this place is movable and that the antiquated ladies you mention have stretched their old limbs in a difficult climb, just for the game of frightening out tenants they did not desire for neighbours?"

"I know that it sounds ridiculous." I admitted, refraining still, in spite of the great temptation, from mentioning the treasure which it was the one wish of their lives to protect from the discovery of others. "If they were quite sane I should perhaps not have the courage to suggest this explanation of what has been heard and seen here. But they are not quite sane; a glance at their faces is enough to convince one of this, and from minds touched with insanity anything can be expected. Will you go with me to this side entrance and examine the floor for yourself? The condition of things under it I will ask you to take my word for; you will hardly wish to visit the cellar on an exploring expedition till you are reasonably assured of its necessity."

His eye, which had grown curiously cold and unresponsive through this, turned from me toward the desk before which he had been sitting. It was heaped high with a batch of unopened letters, and I could readily understand what was in his mind.

"You will be helping the mayor more by listening to me," I continued earnestly, "than by anything you can do here. Believe me, Mr. Steele, I am no foolish, unadvised girl. I know what I am talking about."

He suppressed an impatient sigh and endeavoured to show a proper appreciation of my own estimate of myself and the value to my communicatioin.

"I am at your service," said he.

I wished he had been a little more enthusiastic, but, careful not to show my disappointment, I added, as I led the way to the door:

"I wish we could think of some way of securing ourselves from interruption. Nixon does not like me, and will be sure to interest himself in our movements if he sees us go down that hall together."

"Is there any harm in that?"

"There might be. He is suspicous of me, which makes it impossible for one to count upon his conduct. If he saw us meddling with the cabinet he would be very apt to rush with his complaints to Mrs. Packard, and I am not ready yet to take her into our confidence. I want first to be sure that my surmises are correct."

"You are quite right." If any sarcasm tinged this admission, he successfully hid it. "I think I can dispose of Nixon for a short time," he went on. "You are bent upon meddling with that vestibule floor?"

"Yes."

"Even if I should advise not?"

"Yes, Mr. Steele; even if you roused the household and called Mrs. Packard down to witness my folly. But I should prefer to make my experiments quickly and without any other witnesses than yourself. I am not without some pride to counterbalance my presumption."

We had came to a stand before the door as I said this. As I finished, he laid his hand on the knob, saying kindly:

"Your wishes shall be considered. Take a seat in the library, Miss Saunders, and in a few moments I will join you. I have a task for Nixon which will keep him employed for some time." At this he opened the door and I glided out.

Making my way to the library I hastened in and threw myself into one of its great chairs. In another minute I heard Mr. Steele summon Nixon, and in a short interview which followed between them heard enough to comprehend that he was loading the old butler's arms with a large mass of documents andw papers for immediate consumption in the furnace. Nixon was not to leave till they were all safely consumed. The grumble which followed from the old fellow's lips was not the most cheerful sound in the world, but he went back with his pile. Presently I heard the furnace door rattle and caught the smell, which I was careful to explain to Ellen as she went by the library door on her way up-stairs, lest Mrs. Packard should be alarmed and come running down to see what was the matter.

The next moment Mr. Steele appeared in the doorway.

"Now what are we to do?" said he.

I led the way to what I have sometimes called "the recess" for lack of a better name.

"This is the place," I cried, adding a few explanations as I saw the curiosity with which he now surveyed its various features. "Don't you see how that cabinet leans to the left? I declare it leans more than it did yesterday; the floor certainly dips at that point."

He cast a glance where I pointed and instinctively put out his hand but let it fall as I remarked:

"The cabinet is not so very heavy. If I take out a few of thise big pieces of pottery, don't you think we could lift it away from this corner?"

"And what would you do then?"

"Tear up the carpet and see what is the matter with this part of the floor. Perhaps we shall find not only that, but something else of a still more interesting nature."

He was standing in the aill of what had been the inner doorway. As I said these words he fell back in careless grace against the panel and remained leaning there in a careless attitude, assumed possibly just to show me with what incredulity he regarded my childish enthusiasm.

"I don't understand," said he. "What do you expect to find?"

(To be continued.)

WOMAN WOULD NOT GIVE UP

Though Sick and Suffering; At Last Found Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Richmond, Pa. — "When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was in a dreadfully rundown state of health, had internal troubles, and was so extremely nervous and prostrated that if I had given in to my feelings I would have been in bed. As it was I had hardly strength at times to be on my feet and what I did do was by a great effort. I could not sleep at night and of course felt very bad in the morning, and had a steady headache.

"After taking the second bottle I noticed that the headache was not so bad, I rested better, and my nerves were stronger. I continued its use until it made a new woman of me, and now I can hardly realize that I am able to do so much as I do. Whenever I know any woman in need of a good medicine I highly praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. FRANK CLARK, 2146 N. Tulip St., Richmond, Pa.

Women Have Been Telling Women for forty years how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ills. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It will pay you to do so. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

WEAKNESS AND PALPITATION OF THE HEART.

When the heart begins to beat irregularly, palpitates and throbs, skips beats, and sometimes seems to almost stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm.

Many people become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social, business or household duties.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are a specific for all weakness and heart disorders, and are recommended by us with the greatest of confidence that they will do what we claim for them.

Mrs. George Bamidge, Cobourg, Ont., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I have been troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart. I tried many remedies but got none to benefit me like your pills did. I can recommend them highly to all with heart or nerve trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE WORD "OBEY"

Blessing of Bride Who Refused to Take the Vow

Marriage ceremonies are generally conducted all in one piece, but Rev. Canon Dixon, of Trinity East (Anglican) church, Toronto, officiated at one the other day which went through by instalments. It was the old question about the little word "obey," that eminent divines and lesser intellects have been talking over for years, that caused the embarrassing and astounding hold-up in the ceremony. Canon Dixon in due course asked the question about promising to "love, honor and obey," expecting to receive an answer in the affirmative, even if it came reluctantly. The lady, however, considered a moment, and then decided:

"No, I won't be controlled by him," she declared, and refused to reply to the compulsory demands.

"Well, the ceremony stops right here," said Canon Dixon, as he stopped dead to survey in wonder and surprise the "female of the species" who had at last given a practical demonstration of "equal rights" in marriage.

It was a pause of woe to be sure not to be wife, and the semi-agitated bride paused. The other principal pleaded for mercy. But not so one of the witnesses, who addressed the man as follows: "You're better without her."

Resignation meant the lady was lost as a wife to the man she had "promised to marry," and the lady was eventually persuaded, and the couple were lined up for part two of the ceremony. She promised to obey, although with no show of elation, and left the house a married woman.

Politics at the Pole

Speaking at Guildford, Mr. L. C. Harrapshil, who was with Captain Scott on his voyage to the Antarctic in the Discovery, said: "Out of the forty-four souls who sailed in the ship, I was the solitary Liberal on board. As soon as tempered wind tortures paints and battles I had to encounter during those long, Antarctic winter months."

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is usually one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

True Tales of Adventure

Tales of Hairbreadth Escapes

From Wild Animals Thrill the Guests of the Canadian Camp Club Annual Dinner

Copyright, 1914, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.

AFTER dining on walrus report à la Kleinschmidt, Cuvier alligator calls, Greasers' bear meat and porcupine steaks, Gerbia's wild boar, Alien's wild cat and other delicacies, most of them minted for the sportsmen members, the Canadian Camp Club and its guests at the annual dinner were ready to listen to any number of animal tales, and if the long-bow or tales of the trigger stood credulity at moments there were gestures to prove every man's tale of prowess.

Some of the men had been in the Arctic regions, some in the Antarctic, there were men who had hunted big game in Africa and those who had fished in the Philippine waters. All were interested in wild animal life wherever it persists and in the anthropologists of those who have pursued game and had wonderful victories from the jaws of danger.

"You see the shot is a little too far back," apologized the Rev. Dr. W. S. Rainsford, as the picture of a lion was thrown upon the screen. In the presence of so many keen sportsmen an explanation of the wound that appeared about midway of the body was necessary.

A Close-Range Lion Shoot.

Dr. Rainsford had been showing other pictures of himself in the course of his experience in East Africa. "This lion," he added, "was shot under particularly unfavorable circumstances. Early morning is a good time to find the lion. He has been out searching for prey during the night or is returning gorged with food. He can then be ridden down. That is what I was trying to do on this occasion. I had a man with me and we were a little distance apart when he saw a large lion at the edge of the brush. He shot at the lion, but he roused at the noise and his leg was merely grazed by the shot. It just drew blood without injuring the animal any more than to stir his anger. He turned, and, emitting the grunting noise peculiar to the lion when enraged, he charged full at my friend, who, having dismounted, had the chagrin of seeing his horse galloping away across the veldt, leaving him with but one shot to meet the rushing, infuriated lion.

"I saw his danger and, digging my spurs into my pony, hastened to his assistance. But the critical moment my horse balked and I was thrown as an ant hill in a most disadvantageous position and with not a moment to lose. I had to shoot my friend's assailant. I got my lion, but, as you see, I did not make as pretty a shot as I should like to have done."

Dr. Rainsford explained that the most of his hunting was done in a territory about one hundred miles long by seventy broad and one hundred and fifty miles distant from a railroad. Here are the little unrelated tribes of East Africa that are the mystery of anthropology. Their origin and continuance have baffled all research. Among these poorest and least civilized of men are to be found Englishmen who live out there sometimes for years in the pursuance of duty. One evening Dr. Rainsford came upon one of these men in his remote shack wearing evening clothes.

Were Swedish Clothes in Jungle.

"Why in the world are you wearing a Tuxedo coat out here?" he exclaimed.

"To keep from going down," replied the man, and that, said Dr. Rainsford, is the great thing. Man under the conditions he finds in the remote regions of Africa can "keep from going down" he in accomplishing a wonderful feat.

In defining the ideal African hunter or expedition leader Dr. Rainsford said that he should have the endurance of a man under forty, a copper lined stomach, be immune to tick, tsetse and mosquitoes, and should prefer the border of swamps to breezy uplands, provided he can win what he wants.

A Dozen of To-Day.

Another sportsman of experience in Africa is Mr. Carl E. Akeley, who also has shot lions, although elephants are his specialty. Mr. Akeley and his wife, who has been with him on his expeditions and is a fine shot, were guests of the Canadian Camp Club, Mrs. Akeley being the only woman invited as a special guest of the club. "I did not deliver my speech," said Mr. Akeley afterward, "because it grew so late, but this is what I was going to say:—'Some men say they would love to undertake explorations and study the interesting life of the wild places of the earth, but that they are married and dare not take the chance because of their wives and families. I was going to show pictures of some of the animals that Mrs. Akeley has shot when she accompanied me to Africa and tell them that it was because of my wife that I could go. I would show the largest elephant ever shot in that district and say that it was shot by Mrs. Akeley, and I would relate the story of the time that we were both in imminent danger of death and I, flinching a little at the prospect of the annihilation of the Akeley family, asked her if she did not want to get out of the way and she refused, so that, of course, I could not leave; and that is how the thought of a woman puts courage into a man instead of making him cowardly in the face of danger, as is sometimes asserted.

"This elephant," showing a picture of a huge tusked creature, "charged three times before we got him and he almost got us. You know, the elephant so fits in with the landscape that it is often difficult to see him, in spite of his size, until one is close upon him. We had shot at this elephant, Mrs. Akeley's first shot having knocked him down, but after that he did not mind the wounds he received, but kept on charging. We could not get in the right position to give him a fatal shot. You see, an elephant's brain is small and placed low in his head and it is hard to get him with a shot that will penetrate deeply enough to hit the heart or any vital part unless one is in just the right position with respect to him. Of course you may hit him so that he will die in half an hour, or in several hours, but that may not prevent his coming on and killing a man before he dies.

"When I saw this infuriated elephant making for us we kept on shooting, but the chances seemed against our escaping. Suddenly I was surprised to see him swerve and turn his head enough for me to hit him in the temple. At that he crumpled up dead on the spot. What had happened was that the small native boy who had charge of [illegible] monkey, having heard the shots and thinking that all was over, had started to come forward to look at the dead [illegible]. When he saw the big monster [illegible] for us he fell down in the tall grass to hide himself, but the [illegible] smelled him and had turned to [illegible]. That gave me the only chance I had to save our lives. The elephant has the keenest scent of any wild animal. On this and his acute hearing he depends for his preservation."

Another narrow escape from an elephant is one that Mr. Akeley has good reason to remember. Before he saw him an elephant charged upon him and bore him to the ground. Luckily he was simply pinioned between the tusks instead of being pierced by them, and the elephant having vented his rage left him unconscious and wandered into the brush. Mrs. Akeley was twenty miles away, and as soon as she could get to her husband she nursed him back to health. It was three months, however, before he was able to be about.

When he recovered he went after an elephant to prove to himself that he had not lost his nerve. Strange to say, he went into the brush along the path that had been cut to permit of his being carried out on a stretcher when he had been injured. He got his elephant, but it was not the one that had attacked him, as he had hoped it would be.

Another speaker at the dinner was Captain F. E. Kleinschmidt, who told stories, illustrated by moving pictures, of bears, walri and other denizens of the Arctic regions. One of the most interesting pictures was that of a polar bear and her cub swimming in the water, the baby holding on to its mother's tail. When the mother bear was tired of this way of progress or wished to teach the little one to be independent she turned and spanked it. After the punishment the cub would get along alone very well for a while but would again seek the comfort of being towed on by the maternal tail.

Captain Kleinschmidt decided to try to capture this cub for a playmate for another one that he had taken prisoner a short time before. He got a fine shot at it and was going to draw it aboard the boat when the mother bear put up a most remarkable fight. She charged fearlessly at the boat and tried to climb up its sides. The pictures showed the most remarkable expressions of anger, anguish and fury, softening as the desperate creature turned about to look at her child. When Captain Kleinschmidt announced that because of the plucky fight put up by the mother bear the little one had been released, and showed a picture of it going off holding on to the mother's tail, a loud cheer went up from the members of the club and their guests.

Yankee's New Year Eve in Bogota, World's Most Isolated Capital

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 19, 1914.—It has been the fate of the Yankee in a million, perhaps, to celebrate New Year's Eve on a boat on the Magdalena River, five hundred miles in the interior of the Republic of Colombia, South America. The experience is one not to be forgotten, because it is "different."

The scene is Puerto Berrio, on the western bank of the great, sweeping, muddy stream that is to Colombia what the Mississippi is to the middle of the United States. Puerto Berrio is one of the river ports of the Department of Antioquia. It sits, bored to the fore of a tropical sun, on a lonely hillside.

On the crest of the river bank, forty feet away, is a railroad whose narrow gauge roadbed runs off somewhere into the mysterious looking country to the westward. Beyond the railroad are white warehouses, their corrugated iron roofs hot as stoves. Behind the warehouses are the thatched roofs of the villagers' shanties in a dense clump. Not a single pane of glass is in sight save in the little passenger car that sits on the bill, waiting to haul its human freight on the morrow into the mysterious looking land away off there through the woods.

All day the waters of the river have been pulled and pushed by force its burden as strong against the current. All day the sun had beaten down relentlessly. Heat waves had quivered over the marshes. Even the alligators, usually wide open on the river bank or in the reasonably cool waters, had put into the shade, content to be contending against the fierce pressure on this final day of the calendar. The passengers and officers of the steamer, who reached the shores that paid their port tribute, lagged forward, clustered with perspiration. Less seasoned bodies would have been burned to cinders in half an hour in that sun.

It was 11 o'clock, December 31, when the river boat, its whistle screaming approach, pulls toward the bank at Puerto Berrio. Nude children, women clad in a single thin garment, men in scant raiment pour out of the hillside homes to see the craft. The hundreds of scavenger birds that fly over Puerto Berrio or sit on its warehouses and shops, unafraid, reconnoitre for the stray bits of food that may be tossed from the boat.

Here, at the foot of the village, the boat is moored for the night. It is too risky to brave the low waters and the snags of the river in the darkness. Now that the boat has stopped there is no breeze to modify the heat for the passengers. They wipe their wet brows in a temperature of 100 degrees and wonder how cold it may be in New York, where the populace is priming itself for the New Year fete in Broadway, blandly would the few Americans around exchange the heat for whatever kind of weather there is back in "the States."

The Bogota Moored on New Year's Eve at Puerto Berrio.

The Scavenger Birds of Puerto Berrio on New Year's Eve.

"The captain will give a New Year supper at midnight" is the message that goes from mouth to mouth on the boat in the early evening. "Every passenger is invited. We are to see the old year out and the new one in."

Likewise the news spreads over the village. A collection is taken aboard and the native quartet, maestros of the guitar and mandolin, come from somewhere out of the moonlight and start an impromptu concert. One player is barefoot, another wears sandals and the officers appear in their Sunday shoes, much battered and reputiated. The temperature has dropped to eighty-five degrees in the shade.

Pandemonium at Midnight.

Off there in the sky the southern cross glows bravely against the gaseous splendor of the moon. Every chance swain in the throng is serenading. Far off the hills are faintly visible. The forms of the black scavenger birds are outlined sharply as they roost on the warehouses and chimneys to keep watch all this common night is about down at the river side.

Railroad car roofs, piles of wood ties and the bare banks of the river are gay with a gathering of natives, assembled to listen to the dreamy love melodies which the black quartet picks from its strings.

"Somehow it makes me think of one of my New Year's eves at home in Kansas City," says "Chuck" Floyd. "Maybe it's because it ain't anything like that experience. I was due for a celebration in the evening and I had had a 'nip aborter' in the afternoon. Somebody pasted a lot of stickers on the bald head of mine, and when I went back to the Baltimore hotel to get ready for the evening [illegible] the stickers were still there,' like the flag. I took one look and the elevator boy allowed I ought to go up in the freight elevator."

On the boat are Americans, English men, Colombians, Portuguese, Germans, Spaniards, Italians and negroes from no-body knows-where. There are all the gradations of race [illegible] blonde [illegible] girl from the nether side of Mesa Bogota dances the tango. She has all the long, serpentine lines of a Bernhardt and her black hair streams down her back. She is graceful as she moves in rhythm with the music of a Colombian love song played by the string quartet.

There is a significant pause in the revelry just before midnight. The villagers have hushed their voices. They wait, silent and expectant. Their quiet is emulated aboard the boat. For a space one hears the waters purling along the bank of the river, the cry of a cricket somewhere in the trees, the distant call of frogs. The moon looks down benignly, from among the fleecy clouds.

Of a sudden pandemonium comes. The boat's whistle wakes the echoes of the night. A dozen rifles and mops revolvers on the boat speak at once a fusillade greeting to the baby year. Bells are ringing aboard and ashore. Voices are shouting and handkerchiefs are waving good wishes. The village concourse lately dormant, is quickened into life. Boys are scattering through the streets, writing messages on the houses in large letters with colored chalk. "Feliz ano nuevo," most of them read.

"Prosit Neujahr," [illegible] Herbst, the big German [illegible] aboard the Bogota, as he [illegible] one to another, shaking hands [illegible] glad wishes—seven [illegible] Faust Steward, the [illegible] with black moustache, [illegible] ano nuevo, 1915."

"Wella nna Nanna," cries the girl from the nether side of the world in Bogota, and for once during the long trip the other women aboard forego her for what she is and return the wish for a happy new year.

"Feliz ano nuevo," in the gravelly of the Italian bar, and the Portuguese [illegible] with [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] captain's midnight dinner. A [illegible] company can get on common ground when it comes to eating and drinking glasses.

"Well, I don't know but the wine's served here and the feed as good as it is in Kansas City on New Year's Eve," observes the smiling Floyd, hoping to fool us if he hadn't had his appendix amputated a month ago.

"Oh, if it only wasn't so hot!" says Mrs. Eyre, sighing.

"And there weren't so many mosquitoes," adds Mr. Eyre. "Now what's this?" he asks, unfolding a paper at his place, which reads:—

"The waiters of the S. S. Bogota wishes to all the passengers a happy New Year."

GIN PILLS Brought Relief

Larder Lake, Ont., March 26th.

"I had been suffering for some time with my Kidneys and Urine. I was constantly passing water, which was very scanty, sometimes as many as thirty times a day. Each time the pain was something awful, and no rest at night.

I heard of your GIN PILLS and decided to give them a trial at once. I sent my chum 60 miles to get them and I am pleased to inform you that in less than six hours, I felt relief.

In two days, the pain had left me entirely. I took about half a box and today I feel as well as ever and my kidneys are acting quite natural again."

While some land was being ploughed at Ely a horse fell down an old well, the planks which covered it having rotted through. After five hours' strenuous work the animal was hauled to the surface alive, about seventy men being employed in rescuing it.

Who Shall Whip the Boy?

In the Court of Criminal Appeal Lord Reading had to decide who should birch a boy who was ordered twelve strokes for stealing. He said that the sheriff or his subordinates were the persons to inflict the punishment.

Tramp Who Waxed

A bulky tramp admitted to the casual ward at Kingston-on-Thames proved to be quite a thin man when he prepared for the usual bath. He shed three overcoats, three jackets, five waistcoats, one pair of trousers, three pairs of pants, nine shirts, a chest protector, and no fewer than fifteen neckerchiefs.

All Due to One Dog

A dog attacked a man in charge of a wagon and two horses at Aldeburgh, and while he was beating it off with his hip the horses ran away. These caused a butcher's horse and a dealer's pony to stampede. All the runaways galloped the length of High street until three men sprang at their heads and stopped them.

Yeoman Tests

When three tradesmen were leaving a Sunday school-by North-West London the schoolfire were asked to bring each of them a written test of their own selection as a parting gift. TOOK SEVERE COLD.
Left A Terrible Hard Cough And A Nasty Tickling Sensation in The Throat.

A bad cough accompanied by that distressing, tickling sensation in the throat is most aggravating.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is rich in the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree, and for this reason it will stop that tickling in the throat which causes that dry hard cough that keeps you awake at night.

Mr. Sanford Roode, Antrim, N.S., writes:—"Last fall I took a severe cold which left me with a terrible hard cough and a nasty tickling sensation in my throat. I tried many cough medicines, but they did not help me so I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before I had used half of it the cough had left me, and the next one made a complete cure, and I will recommend it as the best cough medicine on the market."

See that you get "Dr. Wood's" when you ask for it. Do not accept any imitation. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price, 25 and 50c., and manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FAMOUS MAN GOING BLIND

G. A. Pearson, English Newspaper Magnate, Now Almost Sightless

"Though not yet quite sightless, I can no longer read at all except with my finger-tips, and am dependent upon guidance except in quite familiar surroundings.' That is an extract from a recent letter which bears the signature 'C. Arthur Pearson,' and it reveals the pathetic climax of one of the most remarkable careers of our time.

"For years Alfred C. Harmsworth and C. Arthur Pearson, who are today aged forty-eight and forty-seven respectively, ran a neck-and-neck race, and at one time it looked as though the latter would outdistance the former," says the Christian Commonwealth.

"A consensus of opinion amongst the intelligent blind has just been taken, 'and,' says Lord Pentland, 'we are rather startled to find the almost unanimity with which they agree on one point. Their deprivation does not distress them in the least. They scarcely spare a thought to the circumstance. What they dread is possible penury and helplessness.' They certainly ought to be relieved of that [illegible]

Try This Home-made Cough Remedy
Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with 1 cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else ever used. Usually ends a deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, croup, chest pains, bronchitis, and other throat troubles. It tastes like the sweetest and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural pine elements, which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven an instant success throughout the United States and Canada, but it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Succumbed in Way

A peculiar accident occurred at Coconsell, near Monaghan, by which a farmer named Thomas Knox was killed and his daughter injured. They were engaged at a potato pit adjacent to a pike of hay, a portion of which had been cut away. Without warning the pike of hay fell in the direction of Knox and his daughter, completely burying the former. Miss Knox was only partially covered, but was unable to extricate herself and her screams attracted the attention of some neighbours. When Mr. Knox was reached he was dead.

Discoloured, Wrinkled Skin Easily Renovated

(From the Woman Beautiful)

Since brown or yellow, over-red or blotchy complexions are decidedly not the fashion, I cannot understand why so many continue to wear them. Surely every woman has heard of mercolised wax. This I know from my own and others' experience will positively banish every unsightly tint; the wax really takes off a bad complexion. It gradually, harmlessly, absorbs the thin layer of surface skin with all its defects, as sharp, liver spots, pimples, freckles, blackheads. Just as gradually the discarded skin is replaced by the clear, white, youthful skin underneath. Mercolised wax, procurable at any drug store, is applied nightly like cold cream and rinsed morning and warm water. One ounce will produce a beautiful, girlish complexion in less than a fortnight.

I can't understand, though, why folks will be bothered with wrinkles, since the famous emollite formalin has become public property. One ounce of powdered emollite dissolved in a half-pint witch hazel, makes a wash before that will quickly efface every line, even the deepest.

A Witty Judge

Mr. Plowden, undoubtedly one of the most popular of London magistrates, and certainly one of the wittiest, was once called upon to defend a horse thief, and he made a striking speech for the defence. Unfortunately, the prisoner had pleaded guilty, unknown to Mr. Plowden, so the judge, in summing up, merely remarked, "Gentlemen, you have heard the prisoner and you have heard his counsel. It is for you to say which you believe. Only remember—the prisoner was there when the horse was stolen, the learned counsel was not."

COUNTESS'S PROTEST

Why Lady Warwick Does Not Wear Furs or Feathers

At Burlington Gardens recently the Countess of Warwick explained to an audience among whom plumage for personal adornment was an frequent as elsewhere why she wore neither furs nor feathers.

"For over twenty years," Lady Warwick declared, "I have carefully avoided wearing any feathers or plumage of birds, save the ostrich, and in recent years, owing to all that has come to my knowledge of the hideous cruelty inflicted in the fur trade, I have not worn furs. But one sees on every hand this fetish rampant of every woman's head adorned with the plumage of birds.

"Ladies who have taken to wearing little tails of fur round their necks are now not happy unless they have the whole beast spread out about them. My own psychic aura objects to having dead birds and beasts hung all around as modes of decoration."

The gathering was promoted by the Committee for the Economic Preservation of Birds, in view of the possible introduction in the present Session of Parliament of a Bill to abolish trade in the skins and plumage of birds, with the exception of the ostrich, the eiderduck, and domestic fowls in this country.

Mr. Bensusan urged that the effect of the proposed Bill would be merely to alter the addresses on the packing cases. France would not be a party to any action that threatened the plumage business, and the Bill would only transfer the trade from Britain to the Continent, whence skins and plumage would be distributed to other countries.

Rector Actor-Author-Manager

In the rectory grounds at Averham, near Newark, Nottinghamshire, the rector, the Rev. J. Cyril Walker, has built and equipped, at a cost of about £3,500, a model theatre to accommodate 160 people. He has himself designed the theatre, painted the scenery, made some of the properties, produced a comic opera, acted as stage manager, taken the part of country yokel, and written the words of a topical duet.

RUDYARD KIPLING ON SMELLS OF WORLD

The Two Elementary Smells Are Burning Fuel and Melting Grease—Poet is Humorous

The other night Rudyard Kipling enthralled an audience at Queen's Hall, London, by a lecture on "Some Aspects of Travel," under the auspices of the Royal Geographical Society. Midway in his lecture he branched into the fascinating subject of smells in their relation to the traveler.

"We shall soon have to exchange them for blasts of petrol and atomised castor oil," he said amidst laughter.

"Have you noticed wherever a few travellers gather together, one or the other is sure to say, 'Do you remember that smell at such and such a place?' Then he may go on to speak of camel—pure camel—one whiff of which in el Arabia; or of the smell of rotten eggs at Hitt on the Euphrates, where Noah got the pitch for the Ark; or of the flavor of drying fish in Burma. Then the company begin to purr like cats at Valerian, and, as the books say, conversation becomes general."

"God's Own Hour"

In delightful fashion the lecturer launched into what he described as "the two elementary smells of universal appeal"—the smell of burning fuel and the smell of melting grease—the smell, that is, of what man cooks his food over and what he cooks his food in.

"A whiff of wood smoke," he declared in an eloquent outburst, "can take us back to forgotten marches over unnamed mountains with disreputable companions to day-long pulls beside flooded rivers in the rain; wonderful mornings of youth in brilliantly lighted lands where everything was possible—and generally done; to uneasy wakings under the low desert moon and on top of cruel hard paintings; and, above all, to that God's own hour, all the world over, when the stars have gone out and it is too dark to see clear, and one lies with the fumes of last night's embers in one's nostrils, lies and waits for a new heaven to heave itself up against a new love."

In the Wilderness

Coming to smells of particular appeal, the lecturer suggested that to a Polar explorer the odour-less smell given off by the flame of a big spirit lamp when it is flattened out against the heated metal cooker above would remind him of his past experiences.

"I should put the limits of this appeal roughly as from the Levantine to either pole. From the Levantine to the Sixties runs that belt of unsanctified latitudes which are the stamping ground of the winds, the wilderness, and the fringes of the restless sea, all linked together in the minds of men who know it by the desolate smell of the stranded berg as it piles up reeking with ooze gouged off the seafloors. Melville, of the Jeannette, once told me that it would 'send your heart into your boots—if you hadn't eaten them already.'" (Laughter.)

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF IT IS FALLING OR FULL OF DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Ladies! Men! Here's the Quickest, Surest Dandruff Cure Known

Thin, brittle, colourless and scraggy hair is acute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die — then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine to-night—now—anytime — will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store, or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, down hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Tito Mattei, the noted Italian pianist, composer and conducter, died in London yesterday. He was born near Naples in 1841, and was pianist to the King of Italy.

The Brantford police ridicule the story emanating from London, to the effect that Brantford is one of the headquarters for the opium traffic "underground route."

Unless the Montreal master painters adopt a different attitude towards the organized painters, it is likely that a strike involving 1,000 men will take place in the near future.

Orders were received in St. Thomas yesterday closing up division superintendent's office of the Pere Marquette Railway, and henceforth the Canadian lines will be managed from Detroit.

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist.

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is acid in the stomach, usually due to, or aggravated by, food fermentation. Acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full, choky feeling. First, both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise over 90 per cent. of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by drinking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food destroyer known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties. — F. J. S.

THEIR AIRSHIP SILENT.

How Device on Zeppelin "Z8" Removes the Burning Sound.

BERLIN, March 31. — Germans are delighted over the newest achievement of Count Zeppelin in perfecting an invention which makes his airships practically noiseless in the sky. Berliners had the opportunity of observing the effect of the invention yesterday when the new army Zeppelin "Z8" cruised over Berlin without hardly an evidence of its proximity. The passenger Zeppelin "Hansa," which also flew over Berlin during the day, gave the usual sound of its approach miles away through the rumble of its engines and propellers. All this is done away with in the newest army and navy "Zeppelins," which as newspapers proudly proclaim, henceforth will be able to sail through misty or foggy skies without themselves giving warning to the enemy that Deutschland or the air are coming.

Miners Are on Strike.

LEEDS, Eng., March 31.—Thirty-five thousand coal miners in the Yorkshire pits laid down their tools yesterday demanding the introduction of a minimum rate of wage. Notices have been handed in by a further 35,000. Later it was announced that another 100,000 miners had given notice to quit their work, bringing the number up to 170,000.

The miners federation of Great Britain has given its support to the strike and a long struggle is expected.

Brutal Murder of Girl.

LITTLE FALLS, N.Y., March 31. —Jean Gianini, under arrest for the murder of Miss Lydia Beecher, the young school teacher who was found beaten and stabbed to death in the woods near Roland, has confessed his guilt, according to District Attorney Farrell. Gianini hit her with a wrench which he had concealed in his pocket and knocked her down. Then he beat her, stabbed her several times with a knife, dragged her body into the bushes, and went home to bed.

Lloyd George Ill.

LONDON, March 31.—David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was taken ill at Walton-on-Thames, Surrey, where he passed the week-end playing golf. The Chancellor, it was stated, would be unable to participate in the critical discussion in the House of Commons to-day on the situation brought about by the resignations of the army officers who refused to march to Ulster against the Unionists. The debating power of Mr. Lloyd George had been greatly relied upon by the Government.

Bishop Du Moulin Ill.

BALTIMORE, March 31.—Bishop Frank Du Moulin, formerly pastor of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Chicago, now co-adjutor of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Ohio, is a patient at a hospital at Baltimore, where he went after preaching Lenten sunday services. Bishop Du Moulin has been in poor health, and when he was invited to preach in Baltimore he decided to remain for treatment. He is a native of Montreal and son of the late Bishop of Niagara.

Lake Champlain Rising.

WHITEHALL, N.Y., March 30.—The level of Lake Champlain has risen four feet within the last 24 hours. Should the rapid thaw now in progress continue the worst flood in the history of this region will result, it is said.

Tariff Advocate Dead.

MONTCLAIR, N.J., March 31.—Wm. Dewart, prominently identified with the first Canadian protective tariff act and for many years a writer of articles dealing with tariff questions in the United States and Canada, died yesterday at the home of his son here. He was born in Canada in 1826, and was at one time a merchant at Warsaw, Ont.

Phantom Hounds.

Conan Doyle's "Hound of the Baskervilles," a "fearsome animal," is said to have its origin in the legends of packs of spectral hounds which are popular in various parts of England and Wales. In the north of England these apparitions are known as "Gabriel's hounds," in Devon the "Wish," "Yeat" or "Heath hounds," in Wales "Cran Annwn" or "Cwn Wybir" and in Cornwall the "Devil's Dandy dogs." They are supposed to be evil spirits hunting the souls of the dead. Generally they are only heard and seem to be passing swiftly along in the air, as they usually choose cloudy nights for the pursuit of their prey. Their yelping is said to be terrific, resembling the note of a bloodhound. All of which tends to show that the origin of these legends of goblin hounds is to be found in the terrifying noises made by flocks of wild geese.

Found Missing Woman.

ST. CATHARINES, March 30.—The police yesterday located at a farmhouse in Grantham Township Miss. James Higgins, who early Friday morning left her two children and told neighbors that they would find her body in the Welland Canal. The woman, whose husband is serving a term in jail for assaulting her, had taken to drinking heavily. She is being brought to the city on complaint of the Children's Aid Society.

Bank Was Looted.

TACOMA, Wn., March 30.—Seven armed men entered the Hima National Bank at Hima, in the southwest part of Washington Saturday, made a prisoner of the cashier and escaped with about $2,000.

The bandits, according to the report received here, set the schoolhouse on fire to attract attention. Several shots were fired, but no one was hurt.

AN ANCIENT RACE.

Fifteen Thousand Years Old Found in the Pavilland Cave.

The Pavilland cave—made famous nearly a century ago by the discovery of an ancient human skeleton, long known as the "Red Lady of Pavilland," owing to its bones being ringed over with ochre — was the subject of the annual Huxley memorial lecture of the Royal Anthropological Institute, delivered by Prof. W. J. Sollas. Prof. Sollas said the Pavilland cave recently acquired unexpected importance by the discovery that the skeleton belonged to a man of the Cro-Magnon race, which occupied the greater part of habitable Europe during the Aurignacian age, or some 30,000 years ago, when the glacial epoch had already passed its climax.

An exploration of Pavilland Cave began and completed during the winter of last year brought to light a large number of flint implements—scrapers, burins, borers, knives—of which the greater part are Aurignacian. The ivory implements, found by Buckland in association with the skeleton and subsequently are of the same age. They include an ivory amulet of the size and shape of an Indian silver bangle, ivory rods, smoothers for dressing fur, and finely pointed awls, which were used as substitutes for sewing needles. Some bone spatulas, or marrow scoops, have also been found. A curious find of Buckland's was the tusk of a mammoth in which a rounded hollow had been fashioned as a result of a wound involving the pulp-cavity.

Curiously enough, after the lapse of nearly a century, an egg-shaped mass of ivory, which evidently once partly filled this hollow, was found during the excavation of last winter. Further, this ivory "egg" has been carved by some Cro-Magnon man, who had placed it away on each side and at one end so as to diminish its thickness, and had then bored a hole through it for suspension. This was a confirmation of Buckland's assertion that the ivory implements in the cave had been carved out of mammoth ivory. It was evident, concluded the lecturer, therefore, that Pavilland Cave represents the most westerly outpost of the Cro-Magnon race, which extended to the east as far as Moravia and to the south as far as Mentone.

Pocked His Suit.

In Theroldt's "Life of Labouchere" is this amusing incident, which happened while "Labby" was still at Cambridge:

"On one occasion, having taken French leave to London, he was unexpectedly confronted one morning in the Strand by his father, who looked extremely annoyed to see the youth there when he imagined him to be occupied with his studies. Henry's wife at once was on the alert. He returned his father's cold greeting with a supercilious stare. 'I beg your pardon, sir,' he said, 'I think you have made a mistake. I have not the honor of your acquaintance.' He pushed by and was lost in the crowd.

"Rapidly consulting himself, he found he could, by running, just catch a train for Cambridge. He did so, and what he had foreseen happened. Mr. Labouchere, sr., after having accomplished the business he was about, took the next train for Cambridge. On reaching the university he was ushered into his son's study, where he found him absorbed in his work. The old gentleman made no reference to his meanders in the Strand, being persuaded that it must have been a hallucination."

Destroying an Island.

Breaking up an island is a feature of the construction of the great naval dockyard at Rosyth, Scotland, which is going on night and day uninterruptedly, except for the usual Sunday rest, there being over 2,000 men engaged in the work. Of the seven years given to the contractors four and a half have now passed, but it is expected that the work will be completed well within the contract time. An interesting feature of the work is the destruction of a whole island composed of whinstone. It lies right in the line of the channel and took blasting to the main basin, through which the largest battleships will be able to pass. Twice a day blasting operations are carried out, and the island is being conveyed almost piecemeal, to be crushed by the stone-breaking machines for use with concrete.

"Tight" to England.

D'Abernon, ex-minister to Berlin, is the following story: One day Mme. de Rubinstein's maid when handing him a cup of tea—D'Abernon's favorite beverage, and one which many people he has encountered in his world-wanderings to ask whether tea was not a very popular drink in England—has had gathered that it was, and, after handing through English novels.

"What do you know, English?" asked the poet, surprised at such erudition. "No," said the ingenious child, "but when I turn the pages of the novels I read at every second line the word 'tea.' It is awful to think of the amount of it that must be drunk in England."

"And what did you say, dear mademoiselle?" the humors of the succeeding never fail to ask.

"I told her," says the poet, with a smile, "that it is certainly an article very much in favor in Great Britain."—Paris Letter to London Telegraph.

"Going Into A Decline," Tired And Worn-out

Constant Pains in the Chest and Back—Wonderful Results Obtained by Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

What a host of symptoms are summed up in these words, "Going into a decline." It means, in short, that the patient is slowly growing weaker and weaker without hope of recovery. But read the letter quoted below and learn of the great food cure which naturally and gradually nourishes pale, thin, weak, tired-out men and women back to health and strength.

There is no treatment you can so well rely upon, for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food contains in condensed and easily assimilated form all the elements required to rebuild wasted and depleted nerve cells. It cures in Nature's way by filling the system with new vigour and vitality.

Mrs. Rene McNulty, St. Theodore, Que., writes: "I had almost continual pains in the chest, and backache. I was tired and weak all nearly all the time. Four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food did me more good than all the medicines I ever took. My system seemed to be all run down, and I was so weak I could scarcely do anything. The Nerve Food did wonders for me, and I want other women suffering as I did to benefit by my experience. I feel like a different person since using this great restorative."

Can you imagine any medical treatment better suited to the needs of a run-down system. As a spring restorative there is nothing to be compared to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It purifies and enriches the blood, builds up the system, and drives out pains, aches, tired feelings, and discomforts. WHEN YOU ASK FOR HERPICIDE FOR YOUR HAIR, DON'T BE TALKED OUT OF IT

If you knew it, you would not willingly accept counterfeit money. Instead, you would probably raise a disturbance and seek some means of redress.

Why then accept a preparation said to be "just as good as Newbro's Herpicide?" You know it is a counterfeit, an imitation of the real thing. You want "the original dandruff germ destroyer," Herpicide, and you can get it, too, if you insist.

Redress is always possible in such an instance. The most effective method is to trade where you get what you ask for and no suggestion offered.

With the elimination of the dandruff, the hair stops falling and is permitted to resume its natural growth and beauty. Such results follow the use of Newbro's Herpicide. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

A counterfeit article it never "just as good."

Applications may be obtained at all good barber shops and hair dressers.

Send 10c in postage for sample and booklet on the care of the hair to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, March 30.—Abundant moisture, which extended from the Mississippi river to the Rockies, and gave protection to contenders of the largest winter crop ever known, had a notably bearish influence today on wheat. Other speculative articles, too, showed a setback—corn 1c to 1¼c, oats ¼c to ⅝c, and provisions 15c to 30c.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, March 30.—At the live stock market bullocks picked up considerably, owing to the approaching end of the Lenten season. Receipts were larger, and in consequence the offerings were of a greater quantity and of better quality than of late. Drovers expected that packers and butchers would be disposed to operate more freely at a slight increase in prices, in order to secure some of the better stock for Easter trade, but the drovers were somewhat disappointed in these expectations, as buyers showed little disposition to operate any more freely at the highest prices named. For quite a number of choice Easter steers up high as $8 per 100 pounds were sold, but the top price reached for small bullocks was $8.75, and a few odd loads changed hands at $8.50, while good steers in car-loads sold at $8 to $8.10, and some fair stock at $7 per 100 pounds. There were a few extra choice bulls on the market, which brought $7.60 to $7.75, and as high as $7.50 was paid for a few odd lots of choice butchers' cows. The supply was in excess of the requirements, and some were carried over for next week's market.

To Walk Round the World.

MONTREAL, March 31.—Mr. and Mrs. Martley started out on a walking tour round the world yesterday. Their assets were two dollars in money and a few bones of Burnett food. The two globe trotters are athletes. The wife is 23 years of age and the husband is three years her senior. He is a former soldier, and during the South African war he saw active service with the Sixth King's Royal Rifles. They will earn money on the way by giving a series of dances, and later on they will print a little pamphlet of their experiences.

Orville Wright says flying now is fool proof. This is gratifying—because it is the only thing that is.

The only man who has managed to regain fashion because of his family quarrels is Ferdinand P. Earle.

Pleasant thought for the day—neither a pound of meat nor a dozen eggs costs as much as a pinch of radium.

PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1914

CONSERVATIVE MINISTERS SPEAK AT MASS MEETING IN THE OPERA HOUSE

Hon. Arthur Meighen and Hon. Robert Rogers the Head-liners of Programme Under Auspices of Conservative Association.

A COMPLIMENTARY DINNER

The mass meeting in the Grand Opera House last night under the auspices of the West Peterorough Conservative Association was a success. The principal speakers were Hon. Arthur Meighen, Solicitor General, Hon. Robt. Rogers, the Minister of Public Works, and Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P. Some twelve hundred people attended, the pit and balcony being crowded, while the gallery was about half filled. Although the preliminaries and the reading of complimentary addresses lengthened the programme, and the meeting was not over until 11.15 o'clock, the speakers were given an attentive and at times an enthusiastic hearing.

The hall and stage were draped with Union Jacks and presented an attractive appearance. Mayor Wm. Buller presided, and on the platform were some seventy-five prominent members of the Conservative party, the majority of whom had been in attendance at the banquet.

Hon. Arthur Meighen was the oratorical star of the evening. The Solicitor General has a pleasing appearance, an agreeable voice and a logical and convincing method of marshalling his arguments. His effort of over an hour and one half was devoted to blaming the Laurier government and the Senate for the troubles of the Borden ministry. The tariff, the Transcontinental Railway and the navy question were the three principal features of his address.

Hon. Mr. Rogers was somewhat overshadowed by the eloquence of his fellow minister, but had an opportunity of producing his black bag, from which he brought forth a boost for Mr. Burnham, a knock for the Liberal press, a new public building and a dry dock, during the first few minutes of his speech.

Mr. Burnham used the time at his disposal to a discussion of the Asiatic problem.

Brief speeches were made by Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P., E. A. Peck, M.P.P., and J. H. Sexsmith, M.P. During the evening a complimentary address was read to Hon. Mr. Meighen by Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., and to Hon. Mr. Rogers by Mr. Jas. Kendry.

Mayor Buller, Chairman, very briefly opened the meeting, and asked the Band to play "The Maple Leaf.'

He then called on Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., who said that his remarks would be extremely brief. He would give preference to the other two Ministers who were to speak, besides the Dominion Representative, Mr. Burnham.

He voiced the opinion that it would be entirely out of place to deal with Dominion matters, and also out of place to discuss Provincial matters, with which, perhaps, he was more familiar, now, but he hoped at some future time, to discuss these matters with them.

Mr. J. J. Thompson, M. P. P., for East Peterborough, also intimated his wish to follow the example of the former speaker, in being very brief. "We have heard a great deal lately, he said, about railway building, and it has been said that it costs $100,000 to build a mile of railway track. The Provincial Government has built some thirty miles of track, with the highest standard of metal, and materials, and it only cost $35,000 per mile to build it.

J. H. Sexsmith, M.P., for East Peterborough, in a brief address, was very eulogistic in his praises of Mr. H. Burnham, M.P.

Mr. Burnham.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P. for the West Riding of Peterborough, opened his remarks by telling some experiences of the House, after which he proceeded as follows:

"There is one thing I wish to call your attention to,' said Mr. Burnham, 'and the one I believe to be of the most important thing that remains for the careful consideration of the people of Canada. We have had in this community our ups and downs, but we are banded together in patriotic fervour. But we are more particularly concerned with the masses of the people, who form the great substance of democracy, and this is the age of democracy and the chastity of democracy. We must therefore prepare to face the great danger with which we are faced at the present time.

You are aware that there has been knocking at our doors for the past long time, a certain class of people, the Asiatics. The Asiatics have been and are, trying to break in to the places from which they have been excluded for many many years. Anyone is partial to the Asiatic, as a human being, but we must all be aware, the introduction of the Asiatic into Canada, into the United States, will cause that labour will be depressed, and wages restricted, and the result would be, that instead of that high standard of high civilization which we now have, we would have a country of capitalists.

There are nine hundred million men of the Asiatic, and seven hundred million men of white races. The Asiatic is for the first time, waking up. You are aware that Japan woke up in 1868, but not until 1884 did she admit foreigners into her domains. That will give you an idea of how we must prepare to defend ourselves against them. In China, there are 150 millions of men, from the extreme north to the extreme south of the country. They have lately established colleges for the pursuance and developments of arts and science. We find that they have the material that is required to make them the great manufacturing country of the world. They have the cheapest labourer in the world. The average labourer gets from two to five cents a day, while the most skilled artisan gets at the most 30 cents a day and they don't require and do not ask for more. They have so progressed and increased to such an extent that they have the attention of the entire world upon them.

We must preserve this country for ourselves. The capitalist requires the cheapest labour that he can get. By preserving our own interests, we are also preserving the interests of the country and preserving the high standard of life which is characteristic of this country. Pauperism, asserted Mr. Burnham, is increasing in England. This he said after having viewed the situation of the Tory and Liberal party in the Old Country. Both, he said, were working for the interests of free trade, but the people were leaving "Free Trade England' and coming to "Protective' Canada.

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

The conventional address of welcome embodying expressions of confidence in the recipient and the Conservative Government, was read by Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr. The Hon. Mr. Meighen pleaded "not guilty" to the many eulogistic references that the address contained. He attributed his present position to "turn of events and circumstances, coupled with hard work." He also commented upon the adaptability of the hall and the splendid acoustic properties which it provided. He next turned his attention to the tariff question, claiming that no speech was complete without some reference to that time worn and contentious subject.

The Notorious West.

"As a representative of a western constituency, I am well aware of the fact that the West is notoriously inclined to low tariff, said "the hope of the Conservative party." A fortunate circumstance connected with the Conservative policy of protected tariff is that it has never varied. We have stood on the one platform in power and out of power. We have no alterations to make or variations. The Conservative Government's election to office in 1911 was a tribute to the soundness of the Tory platform."

Mr. Meighen declared that the Liberals went out of power in 1911 for the most part avowed protectionists, and that the leader of the Opposition was losing all sense of responsibility when he advocated a minimum duty of fifteen or twenty per cent on farm machinery as a concession to the Conservative Government which had pledged itself to retain the present high tariff.

The Food Producers.

"Who are the food producers of the country and who are the food consumers," These two self evident questions were asked by the speaker. Answering them, he said. "The farmers are the greatest food producers of the country, but they are not the greatest food consumers. I do not think that any serious attention is paid to the free food policy of the Liberal party Protection is here to stay."

The next few minutes of Mr. Meighen's address was devoted to the transcontinental railway, in which it was alleged that vast sums of money had been needlessly spent. He accused Sir Wilfrid Laurier of trying to emulate the late Sir John A. Macdonald as a railway builder. In referring to the eleven hundred and forty-four miles of road between Quebec and Moncton, Mr. Meighen said that the brush grew to such a height as to break the car windows and that the road paralleled the line of the Intercolonial for the entire distance. The work was completed at a cost of thirty-five million dollars. "The work of constructing the transcontinental,' said the speaker, "was undertaken by Sir Wilfrid Laurier against the advice of the then Minister of Railways and Canals. Forty million dollars was sunk in the northern wilds of Ontario for a similar purpose." The speaker held that the system of letting contracts for the construction of the road was restrictive and partial to those who were in accord with the policy of the Liberal Government. These, together with the thirty-five million dollars that was loaned to the Canadian Northern Railway are some of the burdens that were being undertaken by the present government.

The Senate.

Mr. Meighen blamed the Dominion Senate for the failure of the Borden Government to redeem the pledges made during the election of 1911. He referred to the Highways bill which was "ruthlessly" destroyed" because the supporters of the measure would not agree to a clause providing for an equal distribution of the one million and a half dollars that was to be expended.

"The Senate of this country has denied to the Government the right to redeem its party pledges," said the speaker.

The Navy Question.

The representative for Portage la Prairie broke into the navy question with an elucidation of Canada's indebtedness to the Mother country and the need for Canada's financial, as well as moral support, in matters of naval defence. The speaker declared for one fleet and one Empire. He ridiculed Sir Wilfrid Laurier's policy of two fleet units, one for duty on the Pacific coast and the other on the Atlantic. At one time Great Britain expended annually six million dollars for naval defence. This expenditure has now increased to one hundred and thirty million. The present policy as proposed by the British naval authorities will average to six dolalrs for every man, woman and child in the country.

"Laurier's policy," said Mr. Meighen, "constituted a policy of millions for the contractors and prayers for the Empire. We propose to be a part of the British Empire. We will expose our policy to the storm of a general election in this country, and I can assure you that the policy of the Liberal party will never prevail."

HON. ROBT. ROGERS.

Mayor Buller introduced to the audience Hon. Robt. Rogers, the Minister of Public Works, who was greeted with a round of applause and an address from the Conservative Association, read by Mr. Jas. Kendry.

The Minister acknowledged the eulogistic references conveyed to him in the address, and stated that although it was his first visit to Peterborough he would endeavour to pay more frequent visits in future. The growing conditions of Peterborough impose, he said, certain responsibilities upon the Government. The growth of the City required that public business must be so arranged with the utmost convenience to the people.

Mr. Rogers paid a compliment to Mr. Burnham, before whom, he said, no member of the Government takes a place in respect to energy and the duty upon which he had been sent to Parliament. As a result of that industry he had won a place second to none in the confidence and respect of the present Government.

Public Works Here.

Hon. Mr. Rogers then proceeded to open, metaphorically speaking, the black handbag with which his name has been sometimes mentioned. It is true, he said, that we have decided to meet the growing conditions of your city, in so far as the Government is concerned. We have decided upon the immediate erection of a large public building which we trust will be satisfactory to you and a credit to your City. It will have the capacity to take care of the Post Office, Customs House, Inland Revenue and other offices in Peterborough. For this work we have already purchased a lot.

Also a Dry Deck.

We have noted the growing conditions in this City with respect to your waterways, and have provided for a dry dock which will be undertaken and carried out in the near future. Mr. Rogers then presented his respects to the ladies. He was pleased to see so many of them present and gratified with the interest they showed in the welfare of the country. In regard to the entire City, he stated that there was no place he would rather visit than Peterborough.

A Knock for the Press.

The next presentation from the Minister was directed to the Liberal press. There was a time, he admitted, when truth and principle were the guiding stars of the Liberal press of the Dominion, but now, alas, neither truth nor principle finds such place in their columns to-day. Hence, he agreed with the Solicitor-General that it was a good idea to make frequent visits to different parts of the country to present the position and the work carried on by a Government that recognises its responsibilities to the people.

Hon. Robt. Rogers then took up some of the issues of the day which Mr. Meighen had dealt with at length His statements in regard to the N. T. R. were practicaly identical with those of the previous speaker, with the difference that his remarks were brief, rambling and less restrained. He diverged to the general growth of the West and in referring to the early days, stated that he was sorry his friend, Mr. Burnham, had not come out then. "We would have found him a companion in life's journey. This proved to be a preamble to an entertaining marriage story, which tickled the audience. As a raconteur Mr. Rogers is at his best.

British Columbia a Great Province.

The Minister took up the development of the country and emphasized the growth and possibilities of the Western Provinces. British Columbia, he said, was developing into one of the first provinces of Canada, and there are many men who will argue that it will undoubtedly rival Ontario. It is noted for the large and increasing quantities of fruit produced; for its thousands of miles of rivers, teeming with fish; for its timber than which there is none finer in the world. You may say that it is encumbered by its great mountains, but these snow-capped peaks are guardians almost priceless to the human race.

REPORT DENIED BY MR. FREDERIC NICHOLLS C. G. E. NOT ABSORBED

Special Wire to The Examiner:

For some time past there have been rumours widely circulated in Peterborough to the effect that the Canadian General Electric Company was to be absorbed by the General Electric Company of the United States. So widespread were these reports that The Examiner had its Toronto representative interview Mr. Frederic Nicholls, General Manager of the Canadian General Electric Company in regard to the matter. Mr. Nicholls gave emphatic denials to the reports.

"It is absurd to think of such a thing, and there is absolutely no truth in any of the reports," said Mr. Nicholls.

IMPORTANT MEETING

Every Member of the Peterborough Board of Trade Should be On Hand To-night

A PERSONAL DUTY

Every member of the Board of Trade should attend to-night's meeting in the Council Chamber at which reports will be received and other business transacted. The renewed efforts the Board is making can be assisted materially by a big turn-out, and every member should feel it a personal duty to be on hand to assist in the work to-night. Start the campaign going with a bumper meeting.

WIFE DESERTION IS INCREASING

Several Cases Have Been Reported and Investigated in Peterborough—Deported as Undesirables

Of all the despicable minor offences which come under the notice of the law, that of wife desertion is assured the highest place on the roll of infamy. As a rule, when a husband abandons his wife, he does so when financial conditions are at a low ebb, so that nothing but charity stands between his victim and starvation. Often enough little children are joint sufferers with the deserted mother, whose support devolves entirely upon her efforts.

Sometimes, the woman, resenting publicity, decides to fight her battle singlehanded, and so refuses to communicate with the authorities.

Several women in Peterborough are doing this to-day, and the fact of their husband's cowardly behavlour, being known only to immediate neighbours.

There are many Canadians, as well as English people, who disregard the sanctity of their marriage vows. Although there has not been such a case reported lately, there have been in the past several cases in Peterborough.

Once it is known that a husband has deserted his wife, it is generally reported to the Relief Officer, who does what he can immediately, and sets about the task of locating them.

If a man is located and shows his willingness to contribute to the support of his life and family, all goes well, but if on the other hand he shows an inclination to have nothing more to do with his responsibilities, a warning is issued that he will be deported as an undesirable. We have not yet reached the stage where a wife deserter from the Old Country can be sent back for that offence, but an undesirable can be deported at any time, and what is more undesirable than a man who deliberately abandons his wife and little ones.

There are several parties in Peterborough to-day, who are receiving aid from the Charity Board on account of their husbands deserting them.

Some stricter measures will probably be introduced in the near future, to deal with this class of scoundrel, who is all too frequently prominent in our midst.

LIGHT IS SUPPLIED

Gratis by the Peterboro' Light and Power Co'y for Illuminating City's "White Way" Last Night

THE FIRST PEAK

The full blaze of Peterborough's magnetite arc lighting system greeted the visiting ministers of the Borden Cabinet last night. Every lamp connected with the system was turned on to complete the dazzling vista. For the past few weeks the street lighting system has been cut down one-half for economical reasons so that last night's display presented a marked contrast. The complete lighting of the whole system was done at the hospitable instance of Ald. Johnston, Chairman of the Power Committee of the City Council and an active worker on the Peterborough Conservative Association. In this case the extra illumination did not represent a charge on the ratepayers as Ald. Johnston approached the Peterborough Light and Power Company with a view of having the current supplied gratis. His request was readily granted by the Company and in view of the fact that the City purchases this power on a peak basis, a very substantial saving was effected. As a matter of fact it is hardly probable that the display would have otherwise been possible as this was the first peak made in March.

TENDERS HIS RESIGNATION

Mr. F. W. Miller Who Has Been Gov't Agent Since 1912 Will Relinquish the Position

Mr. F. W. Miller has formally tendered his resignation as Government Immigration Officer in Peterborough, to Mr. W. D. Scott, Superintendent of the Immigration Department at Ottawa If accepted, the resignation will come into effect at once, to allow Mr. Miller to commence his other duties of Relief Officer, which have lately bee nassigned him by the City Council.

Mr. Miller was appointed to the position in 1912, and succeeded Mr. Howson. During the period that he has held the position, Mr. Miller has handled some 400 farm workers, and several of these have since acquired farms of their own.

Several applications for the position that will soon be vacant have been made, but at present no appointments have been made.

Mr. Miller will have an office in the City Buildings, and will be working in conjunction with Sanitary Inspector Spence.

Annual Tea Held In St. James' Methodist Church

Programme Rendered and Address Was Given by the Rev. H. B. Kenny of Bowmanville

Last evening in the St. James' Methodist Church the annual congregational tea in connection with the 6th anniversary of the Church was held. A very large number attended, and the provisions which had been arranged for by the ladies were of the choicest order. The tea was held in the basement of the Church, and afterwards the members of the congregation assembled upstairs, where a splendid programme and an inspiring address by the Rev. H. B. Kenny of Bowmanville, were greatly enjoyed.

Mr. Kenny spoke on "How to Get the Most Out of Life," and in his address was replete with humour and splendid advice to all of his listeners.

The programme, which was very successfully presented, was as follows:

Selection by the S. S. orchestra.

Solo—Mrs. Rehill.

Instrumental duet—Mrs. Clarry and Lionel Wilson.

Recitation, "Caleb's Courtship"—Miss M. Bacon.

Vocal solo, "The Two Cities"—Mr. W. G. Wright.

GENERAL VILLA IS STILL CONTINUING HIS ATTACK

On Three Remaining Citadels —Rebels Admit That Situation is Precarious.

NOT YET OVER

Examiner Special:

JUAREZ, Mexico, March 31.—Conflicting reports have been received here and in El Paso. The Mexican Consul-General, M. Diebold, in El Paso received messages which he claimed were from Gen. Refugio Velasco, saying that everything was quiet in Torreon, that the rebels had been driven back in disorder, and that Pascual Orozco was coming with 9,000 men from La Colorado. The rebels claim that this is only one of the Federal fakes, and declare that private despatches have been received at military headquarters that Villa is still fighting stubbornly in Torreon, and has the Federals hemmed into three citadels, where he is holding them until more ammunition and dynamite may be brought up. The rebels admitted that the situation is precarious, and that the fact that five machine guns and $50,000 rounds of ammunition were rushed from the reserve arsenal here indicates that the battle is not yet over.

Suffering In Chihuahua.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, March 31.—War is reaping its whirlwind in this capital city of the Villa revolution. All day yesterday the hospital train has been flying the Red Cross flag between here and Bermejillo, which is the field hospital for the gathering of the wounded off the battlefield. There is nothing heroic in this return of the rebel., after leaving with bands playing and color flying. The hard floor of a cattle car, vermin ridden and unclean, was the only conveyance convenient for bringing back the wounded from the battle of Torreon.

MACEDONIAN HAS BEEN APPREHENDED

Further Developements in Connection With the Havelock Mystery—Wounds Were Sufficient to Cause Death

MAY BE BULLET WOUNDS

HAVELOCK, March 31.—According to the interpreter who is participating in the investigation that is being held here in connection with the recovery of the body of N. Duloff, the fellow Macedonian who left this district following Duloff's disappearance, is now under arrest. He was apprehended by the authorities upon his arrival in Macedonia at the instance of the dead boy's father. The charge is not known.

The body was found floating on Sunday last in a pond behind the C.P.R. shops and has been positively identified as the remains of N. Duloff, a Macedonian employed by the C.P.R., who mysteriously disappeared in the early part of December, 1913. The case was thoroughly investigated by both the provincial and C.P.R. detectives, but no trace could be found of Duloff, except part of his clothing, which was discovered stained with blood in the company's ash pit.

The general opinion at the time was that Duloff had been disposed of by some of his own countrymen, with robbery as the motive, as the missing man had drawn a large sum of money from the post office savings department.

Two Scalp Wounds.

Two scalp wounds, one of which was sufficient to cause death, were found on the body. The nose and face was also broken in. It is impossible to determine at the present whether any of the injuries are bullet wounds. Coroner Kindred has ordered a post mortem examination to be made, when the report of their finding will be submitted to the jury at the adjourned inquest that is to be held on Monday evening next.

Colour is added to the suspicion of foul play by the fact that a fellow Macedonian, who has since been arrested, on hearing of the investigation, left suddenly, and, it is said, journeyed to his own country.

"The Sword That Slays"

Inspiring Sermon By Evangelist Pugsley Last Night

The Park Street Baptist Church was filled with an attentive audience last night. All were delighted with the sermon by Evangelist Pugsley on "The Sword That Slays." The evangelist based his remarks on Hebrews, 2: 12, and proved by Scripture that the weapon with which to slay souls was the word of God. Eight professed conversion at the close of the service. Gilbert Peters, chorister, sang, "Never Give Up" very feelingly and all were impressed. Everything indicated this will be the greatest week of the campaign. To-night's subject will be, "What is Repentance?"

TAX RATE IN GALT GOES UP FOUR MILLS

Town Council Fixes it at 28—Could Not Manage Its Financings Less.

GALT, March 31—At a special meeting of the Town Council, held last evening, the tax rate for 1914 was fixed at 28 mills, an increase of 4 mills over the rate of last year. The increase in the rate did not come as a surprise, although it was generally expected it would be 25 mills.

Reeve A. M. Edwards, Chairman of the Finance Comittee, reported that it was impossible to provide for the Town's finances with a smaller rate. The amount to be raised was $171,686.3, which made it necessary, for the 28 mill rate. The fourteen mill increase was made up of the following items: 1 1-2 mills increase of school rate, due to the new school; 1-2 mill increase for interest and sinking fund, caused by the sale of $64,000 sewer debentures in 1913; 1-4 mills increase for street lighting; 1-4 mill increase for county rate; about 1-2 mill for garbage collection, and the remaining mill to liquidate overdraft of 1913.

No Union Station For Toronto Yet

Examiner Special:

TORONTO, March 31.—This city is again on tenterhooks in regard to its long promised and much-needed Union Station. About the beginning of March the railways announced that several acres of fire ruins would be cleared right away for the new station. And Toronto felt happy. Now to-day comes the rumour that this was all another stand-off by the railways and that nothing can be done for the present. The newspapers have been so far unable to get the railway officials at Montreal to say anything more about it.

A LAMB-LIKE DEPARTURE

The old adage about March coming in like a lion and going out like a lamb holds good this year. Today is gentle, with bright sunshine. There is not the faintest semblance of a repetition of the storm of March 1, when the highest wind ever recorded was put down on the books. The last part of the month has been free from storms, although there has been some rain. April 1 promises to be real nice, and March will slip out so that its end will not be noticeable. The month aside from the wind of the first few days was remarkably free from high winds, shattering the old rule about March gales. However, one of the old adages holding good is about as good a percentage as usual and gives both the believer and the non-believer a chance to set up arguments for the cause he favours.

TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1914

LAST NIGHT'S MASS MEETING.

It was indeed a mass meeting; the Opera House was filled with an interested audience. While naturally the Conservative element predominated, there was a generous infusion of the better elements, ladies and—Liberals. In these respects there was possibilities of a splendid meeting, which, however, was very much marred in effectiveness by means which should be avoided by organizers and managers of such occasions, no matter of what party. The meeting was ostensibly arranged to permit the audience to hear addresses upon current political topics, by two cabinet ministers. But the cabinet ministers were forced to play second fiddle to local orators and tedious preliminaries. The reading of fulsome addresses to two ministers, and the preliminary speaking, made it nearly ten o'clock before Mr. Meighen, the chief speaker, got a chance to open his mouth. And here it may be remarked, that if the whole programme had been left to the Solicitor General, the audience would have had full enjoyment of an oratorical treat.

Hon. Mr. Meighen is a clever young man. He is an easy and fluent speaker, and if one has reference to fluency and grace of diction, can easily be classed as an orator. His manner is better than his matter. He has a great deal of smart plausibility such as one would expect from a special pleader, and uses the ad captandum style of appeal very adroitly. As was to be expected, he dealt with the Transcontinental commission report. His remarks upon this subject were a revised version of his speech in the House on the same subject, which Mr. German described as a "rather narrow special pleading." One can fancy the temper in which Mr. Meighen addressed himself to the subject by his summary statement, that "it has been established by the incontrovertible evidence of a fair commission," that there had been a waste of forty million dolalrs in building the Transcontinental too well from Quebec to Winnipeg. But it was not here alone that Mr. Meighen shone. He was at his best in his oratorical specialty in dealing with the naval contribution policy of Mr. Borden. He went into great detail to show how Great Britain's back was bending under the burden of naval provision, to defend herself, to save herself from extinction, and to save the rest of the Dominions, especially ungrateful Canada. He rose to great heights of eloquence in describing the glories and greatness of Britain and the Empire and Canada's unflinching determination to remain in the empire. Naturally such sentiments so eloquently expressed, were heartily applauded. He dragged the dead and buried "emergency" out of its grave, he painted in lurid colours the dangers that threatened Great Britain, from the increasingly powerful enemies that were closing in upon her to wipe her off the map. The harrowing picture he painted of the dreadful peril, and the fright Affadavit peril, when in conjunction with the Bourassa's antecedent hysteria upon the yellow peril, was enough to make nervous persons afraid to go to bed, and to expect to hear that the New Zealander was packing his trunk for England to survey the ruins of the country from a broken arch of Westminster bridge. Mr. Meighen made the most of the "emergency" as an excuse for Mr. Borden's contribution policy, with the intimation that it was only temporary and that in due time his permanent naval policy would be announced and submitted to the judgment of the people at a general election.

Mr. Meighen's joyous reference to the Laurier Navy, the Niobe and Rainbow, though it raised a laugh, was a rather sorry anti-climax to the height of his oratory in dealing with the glories of Empire. He denounced the idea of a Canadian built and controlled navy, though in dealing with the protection question he demanded that everything that Canada was capable of producing, should be produced in Canada in the itterests of Canadian industry and labour. He insisted upon a high tariff as the only means of rightly developing the resources of the country.

It was eleven o'clock before Hon. Mr. Rogers, after bombardment by an address, got a chance to speak. Before he had been on his feet ten minutes he drew out of his bag a splendid public building, "suitable for your great and growing city of Peterborough," and a dry dock, too. Mr. Rogers can hardly pose as an orator, and he doesn't claim to be an orator. One would not expect eloquence and ability to "win elections," combined in anybody short of a political Admirable Crichton. Mr. Rogers, to do him justice, didn't get a fair chance to make a speech. Described by his cabinet colleague as "the speaker of the evening," he was crowded into a corner at the fag end of a long meeting. He began his oratorical journey in British Columbia, travelled east through the wheat belt, skimmed over Ontario and landed on the Niobe in Halifax harbour. Mr. Rogers' speech was superfluous because it was rather a limp over the same ground so smoothly travelled by Mr. Meighen. The serious part of Mr. Burnham's speech, which was well delivered, was evidently, from what he intimated, a rehearsal of the speech he intends making in the budget deabte—he was "trying it on the dog." Last night's meeting was a mass meeting in a double sense—in attendance and in the mass of specious and misguiding arguments adduced, which lent themselves to easy criticism and difficult belief.

THE EXPLANATION.

The Whitney government's claim to being progressive is rather difficult to establish. It took six or seven years to revise the statutes, and nearly the same length of time to take the plunge in the matter of compensation legislation. It promised anti-treating legislation two years ago, not in promotion of moral reform, but as a means of killing or blocking Rowell's banish-the-bar policy, and still refuses to bring it into effect. Now the government sits aloof and refuses its support to a measure to extend the municipal franchise to married women on the same terms as to widows and spinsters. In this matter "progressive" Ontario, as represented by a "progressive" government, is behind Great Britain—the home of entrenched privilege—Australia, New Zealand and other parts of the Empire, and many of the states of the American union. It is pointed out—and the Inspector Snider incident and other things are corroborative—that the hostility of the Whitney government to giving married women votes in the fear that the ballot placed in the hands of more women will be hostile to the interests of the liquor traffic in contests where temperance interests are involved. The explanation is simple and suggestive.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

A great work lies before the humane societies in Toronto and elsewhere. The people need education on the subject of humanity to animals. The instinct to destroy wild life is very widespread. The other day a squirrel was seen on a street where a sewer is being constructed. A labourer who saw it at once became wildly excited. He was not satisfied to watch the graceful movements of the harmless little creature. His destructive instinct was aroused. He pursued the animal as furiously as if it had been an inveterate enemy of the human race, and only the badness of his aim saved its life.

Now this man was probably no monster, but an ordinary good-natured human being. If anybody had asked him why he wanted to kill the squirrel he would have been puzzled to answer. A live squirrel is a thing of beauty. A dead squirrel of that size is of no use to anybody. The instinct must have come down from some savage ancestor roaming the woods in search of prey, and afraid that he would starve to death unless he devoured whatever came in his way.

But it is the business of education to remove those savage instincts. It is proposed to teach religion in the schools. There is not the least difficulty in teaching at least such elements of universal religion as kindness to animals. Such teaching is never forgotten. The savage instinct is easily eradicated. Many a boy who has been in the habit of destroying animal life has experienced a sudden revulsion of feeling at the mere sight of the lifeless body; has asked himself the question: "Why did I do that?" Tens of thousands of children have been converted to humane ideas by "Beautiful Joe," or "Black Beauty."

There is a splendid field for work here. Those who engage in it do not benefit the dumb animals alone. They help to civilize the community. Cruelty to animals is a relic of barbarism. When it disappears others relics of barbarism are likely to go also. —Toronto Star.

IF THIS GOVERNMENT HAD BUILT IT.

According to figures presented in the House, the cost of preparing the report on the National Transcontinental Railway which voted so beneficially on Canada's credit in Great Britain was $24,668.01 to Mr. Lynch-Staunton, $27,465.99 to Mr. Gutelius, and $11,894.66 for incidental expenses; total, $63,028.45. Is not this rather an extravagant way of going on the hunt for extravagance? But this is not all. While he was being employed to "investigate" the Transcontinental, Mr. Gutelius was also employed by the Government as general manager of the Intercolonial, and received for his work as such another $14,969.74. Then a private car was purchased for the manager of the I.C.R., and used by th Commissioners, at a cost of $17,-550, bringing the grand total up to $95,638.19. Outstanding amounts will carry this total to over $100,000. Items like these make one shudder to think what the Transcontinental would have cost if it had been built by the present Government.—Montreal Herald-Telegraph.

THE MANNERS OF THE MINISTER OF MILITIA.

Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes has not added to his reputation by the manner of his repudiation of a cabled statement from England of a report appearing in the English papers as to what was stated to be his attitude regarding volunteers going from Canada to Ulster. The perfectly legitimate inquiries which were made as to the authenticity of this statement elicited from him nothing but vulgar abuse. If the cabled statement was untrue, he should have made his repudiation of it commensurate with the dignity of a responsible Minister of the Crown. Instead of that, he said that some of the "outfit" in the House comprised a "slanderbund" which concocted slanders and sent them from one "boozorium" to another. This is about on a par with his temperance address last week, when he had the effrontery to insult the ministerial portion of his audience by describing their remarks as "a lot of hot air." Perhaps it is too much to expect any better behaviour from the one who made a libelous attack on the Hon. Sydney Fisher and has not the common decency to apologize on the one hand, nor, on the other, the courage to accept Mr. Fisher's challenge, and repeat his libellous charge outside the sheltering privilege of Parliament.—Montreal Herald-Telegraph.

OIL MORE COSTLY THAN COAL IS NOW

Examiner Special:

ALBANY, N.Y., March 31 — That under present conditions oil is not likely to be substituted for coal as a fuel for railroads in this part of the country is indicated by evidence furnished at a hearing before the Public Service Commission here to-day. The hearing was on a request from the New York Central Railway for permission to use coal instead of oil in the locomotives running through the Adirondack forest reserve. The Company asserts that the provision requiring oil for fuel during certain months, with a view of preventing forest fires, increased the operation expenses more than $100,000 last year and that the use of coal, with such precautionary measures as have been prepared would not increase the fire risk.

FROWNS ON REFORM

Provincial Government Will Defeat Women's Franchise Bill

ANTI-BAR PROPOSAL FAILS

TORONTO, March 31. — Although the debate was adjourned before a division was taken yesterday, J. C. Elliott's bill granting a measure of suffrage to women in municipal elections will be defeated when it comes up for a vote. Speaking for the Government the Provincial Treasurer, Hon. I. B. Lucas, said the time was not yet ripe for such legislation because the women, who should be chiefly interested, were not united in their demand for it. In fact, he said the majority were either opposed or indifferent.

Mr. Rowell maintained that although there might be a division of opinion regarding women's participation in national politics, there was none with regard to the value of votes for women in municipal affairs. The principle was accepted in Britain and in most leading countries.

Resuming the adjourned debate on Mr. Elliott's bill to extend the vote to married women property owners, Mr. Rowell demanded of the Government a statement of its position.

Hon. I. B. Lucas, in reply, said that in the world's history the granting of franchise extension to a new class had never been opposed by any in that class. This was not the case in this proposal, for a great many women were out against votes for women. If women were indifferent it would be a great mistake to press it on them, for a Government should know that any new electors were prepared to accept the full responsibility of citizenship. It was not a question of class or sex, because there were no clashing interests between the men and the women of this country, he declared. He disputed the contention that equal franchise rights would bring equal salaries. It had not done so in the U. S.

As to the effect of woman suffrage on temperance, Mr. Lucas was sceptical. There was only one state in the union where prohibition was in force and where women had the vote, and even there prohibition had carried twenty years before the first woman went to the polls. The time had not come when any good service would be performed by extending the franchise. The next point advanced was that the majority of women in the province did not want this new privilege. They had not declared for it.

Sam Clarke (Lib., W. Northumberland) declared that the question of equalization of wages had nothing to do with the matter, and that Mr. Lucas was simply dodging the real issue. If such a privilege was not in the interests of the state, it should not be permitted, but what was there in it that could be contrary to such interests? As far as he was concerned the bill did not go far enough. If he had his way he would give every woman of the age of 21 years and a British subject full power to exercise the franchise.

Mr. Rowell followed. He regretted that the Government had not seen fit to take a step in view of the widespread favor in which women's suffrage was held.

"The Government has apparently made up its mind," he said, "to kill this and all other bills of a similar character." He went on to point out that the bill did not affect the Parliamentary franchise but only the municipal one, and he did not believe that women themselves opposed it, as Mr. Lucas had intimated. In England the same privilege was granted years ago, and women were even eligible to hold municipal offices through it. It was wrong and misleading to say that women had objected to being given a municipal vote for on the contrary direct requests had been made. Mr. Rowell referred to the votes in Toronto, Ottawa and other cities, and concluded with an appeal based on the advocacy by women of advanced legislation along temperance, housing reform and general humanitarian lines.

J. G. Anderson (Bruce) and R. J. McCormick (Lambton) also spoke briefly.

The Opposition suggestion that the bars of the province be closed on all legal holidays and on Saturdays at noon went down in a division of the Legislature last evening following a short debate. Hon. W. J. Hanna said that the day had not arrived when such a move was warranted.

Wm. McDonald (Centre Bruce) was responsible for the measure on the order paper and urged it on the ground that what was good for one day in the year (Christmas) was good for several more. It was a small start, but it would mean a blow at the treating system, for this was the way in which boys began.

In replying, Hon. Mr. Hanna said that since 1905 upwards of thirty amendments had been made to the Liquor License Act. The legislation which had cut off two hours in the morning, had been beneficial, and yet the Government had received commendations from employers who observed an improvement in their staffs.

PETERBORO TORONTO

Rolled Oats Macaroons.

Three eggs, 1 cup white sugar, 1 heaping tablespoon butter, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup oats, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 cups rolled oats. Chop walnuts and after dropping by teaspoonfuls on well buttered paper, put walnuts on top and bake.

Minced Fish.

Take any piece of cold fish and put through your food chopper. To a cup of the fish add a large cracker rolled very fine, 1 beaten egg, a tablespoon of milk and salt and pepper to taste. Fry brown on both sides, after dropping a tablespoon at a time in hot fat. I think there is nothing as good for this purpose as a slice of fried out salt pork.

Dark Bread Pudding.

I take dry bread enough to fill a two-quart pan 2-3 full of bread after it is soaked, 1-2 cup molasses, 1 cup of sugar (brown if you have it, white will do), 1 cup of chopped suet or fat pork, 2 eggs, a pint of milk, 2 cups of chopped raisins. You can put in all kinds of spice. I only put in nutmeg and clove salt teaspoon. I bake mine all night. Wants to be baked slowly.

Cocoa Fudge.
(Requested.)

Two cups of sugar, 4 tablespoons of butter, 2-3 cups of milk, 5 tablespoons of cocoa, pinch of salt 1-2 teaspoon of vanilla. Put the sugar and milk over the fire until it boils, add butter and allow to boil until it becomes a ball if put in water. Take from fire, add vanilla and beat until it snaps. Put in buttered platter.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

Celebrated The Fifty-Ninth Anniversary Of Their Wedding

Former Local Woman Has Enjoyed Many Years of Married Life

RESIDE IN TORONTO

TORONTO, March 31.Time has dealt very lightly with Mr. and Mrs. K. Hamil of 2 Alexandra Boulevard. Both hale and hearty, despite their great age, they have just celebrated the 59th anniversary of their wedding day. Mrs. Hamil is now 78 years of age and her husband ten years her senior is strong and healthy in his 88th year. Mr. Hamil was born in Armagh, near Newry in Ire land and came to this country when he was 10 years of age, first locating in Township of Hope where he lived until he came to Toronto 10 years ago. Mrs. Hamil was born near Peterborough.

Remarkable Record.

Mr. Hamil boasts that he has never had a doctor in his life, and never tasted medicine until about two years ago when he was "run down." The old couple have seven children, five daughters and two sons, and another remarkable record is the fact that the family are still all living. That he comes of a long lived race is evident in the fact that Mr. Hamil has still a sister living in Lucknow, two years his senior, in the best of health. They did not hold any great celebration. As they naively put it they were waiting until next year when they will hold a fitting celebration for the 60th. anniversary

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKET

ALL FOOL'S DAY AMUSEMENTS

"A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men."

There should be nothing formal about an April Fool's Day entertainment; have a menu of devilled crabs, baked potatoes, finer rolls or biscuits, a salad, ice cream, coffee, cake, and bon bons. Tiny wands, wound with ribbon in different coours and a bunch of silver bells tied at the end, may be given as souvenirs, and place cards may be in form of a fool's cap.

Everything on the table should be a fool dish, and nothing like what it claims to be. For instance, baked potatoes may be made of minced carrots, turnips and peas, rolled into the shape of a potato and baked a nice brown; the ice cream may be just custard, frozen, and the coffee, not coffee at all, but a cereal browned, and made into mock coffee, .

By way of entertainment, have a museum, and invite your guests to inspect the collection. Have a large mirror hung where any one entering the room must himself the first thing. Start by saying that you have a very beautiful picture which you are showing for the first time, and which you are sure every one will admire. As each person views himself and reads "April Fool" which should be written across the mirror with chalk or soap in large letters, the joke will be appreciated. You may vary it by saying, if it happens to be a gentleman who is going to enter "I want to show you a fine picture of a lobster."

The list of exhibits may be as follows:

The Pink Hose of London, a pair of pink stockings.

"The Necktie of Mexico,' a rope noose.

The Od Fashioned Beaux, a bow of ribbon.

"A Diamond Tray,' the three spot of diamonds.

"A Fool's Paradise,' a pair of dice.

"Sacred White Rabbit,' a white hair.

"An Irish Bat' a birck bat, etc.

Have pitfalls and fill things all about the room, a coin glued to the floor, a vase of fresh flowers sprinkled plentifully with snuff which guests should be urged to smell and then they sneeze. An artificial mouse attached to a string, which should be slyly moved; pin papers on the backs of some, reading, "Please tell me where to get off," "Please kiss me often.' 'Please kick me gently.' 'Please make me laugh.' All these signs will seem funny, especially as the others will follow instructions to "grant the requests."

Offer a prize for the best "fool" story, and then award a box of sham candies. The one who declines to tell any story or tells the worst story, gets the real prize, but this should be kept secret.

Have a fine-looking chocolate cake, made with a filling of rolled oats and fine gravel, mixed with chocolate, the cake part being white and nicely frosted with chocolate. Any hostess with originality can think up many pretty ways of fooling guests and make the evening pass in fun and nonsense.

Another game is called "Spoony Fun."

All the players sit in a circle. One is chosen to be out. He is blindfolded and given a spoon (a large one) with which he is fed. He stands in the middle of the circle, then is turned around three times and told to guess who the first person, which he touches with the spoon, is.

He advances cautiously until he touches someone. Then with the back of the spoon he feels the person all over. The players must keep perfectly quiet, disguising themselves if they see fit, as the collars and cuffs of the men will be felt very easily with the spoon.

As soon as the blindfolded one has guessed who the player s he was feeling, they exchange places and the game goes on as before.

A few conundrums may be introduced betwen whiles:

Why are seeds sown like a gate post?

Because they are put into the ground to prop-a-gate.

Why was Noah a great financier?

Because he goated his company when all others were in liquidation.

Why did the lobster blush?

Because it saw the salad dressing.

Why is it easy to break into an old man's house,

Because his gait is broken and his locks few.

Why did the by fly,

Because the spider spied her.

When is it dangerous to go into the country,

When the hedges are shooting and bulrushes out.

Why is an author a queer animal,

Because his tale comes out of his head.

TRIAL OF MONA LISA THIEF

Examiner Special:

FLORENCE, March 31—The case of Perugia, who is charged with the theft of Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece, the "Mona Lisa," came up today for trial. It is expected that the trial will be brief, since Perugia confessed to the theft.

The "Mona Lisa' which is classed among the most famous and valuable paintings in the world, was stolen from the Louvre in Paris, on August 21st, 1911. For more than two years the mystery of the disappearance remained unsolved. In the early part of last winter the painting was recovered through information furnished by an art dealer of Florence, to whom Perugia is said to have offered the picture for sale.

At the time of the disappearance of the painting Perugia was employed as a workman at the Louvre and consequently was enabled to cut the painting from the frame and carry it from the building without detection. At the time of his arrest in Florence he is alleged to have made a complete confession, giving as his motive for the theft a desire to revenge himself upon the French for their despoilation of the art galeries of Italy during the Napoleonic invasion.

WHOOPING COUGH

Mrs. Charles Lovell, Agassiz, B.C., writes: 'Seven of our little children had whooping cough the same winter and we obtained their cure in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We always think it is the knock with remembered it as the king of all medicines. I was formerly constantly capable of recommending this to other Chase's Syrup.'

MOTORISTS HAVE 1914 LICENSES

On account of the licenses for motor cars bein sold and delivered in this City, instead of in Toronto, as last year, the local motoriats have found it a great deal handier to secure them. This is more than evident to Chief Thompson, who says that the policemen have not reported a single case of a motorist driving his car without a 1914 license so far. The colour of the licenses this year are darker than that of the 1913 licenses.

"The Thinking Makes It So"

A gentleman was asking me the other day how should he think of himself and his body, what of it. I said: "Think of your body as your garden, your mentality as the gardener, and your thoughts as the seeds; and if you will only do this, and watch it, when you come back your garden will be beautiful, because you have employed a new gardener, and he understands his business, and there will be no unsightly weed escape his eye."

The next time the gentleman was seen he certainly had made a change. It was the thinking of good thoughts that made it so.

FORMER LOCAL BOY VICTIM OF PAINFUL ACCIDENT IN LINDSAY

Mr. Les. Stevens Has Hand Injured and Fingers May Have to Be Amputated

"HEAL THE SICK"

LINDSAY, Ont., Mrch 31.—Mr. L. E Stevens happened with a bad accident Saturday while looking after a power-driven ice cream freezer in the rear of his Kent Steet store. In some way his glove caught in the cog wheels of the machine and his right hand was drawn in with it.

There was nobody with him at the time to shut off the power and his whole arm would have been drawn in if he had not had the presence of mind to kick off the belt and thus stop the machine. Although his fingers were badly mangled, the doctors do not thing that amputaion will be necessary.

Mr. Stevens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Stevens, George Street, City, and is a former Peterborough boy. He has a large number of friends here who will be sorry to learn of the accident.

Cordova Mines Mortgage Invalid

By Appellate Division in Toronto Yesterday

In Toronto, yesterday, the Appellate Division declared invalid, except so far as covering the indebtedness of the company, the $60.000 mortgage given by the Cordova Mines to Wm. Hughes and Dr. Graeme Mackenzie. The mortgage was attacked by the Northern Electric Manufacturing Co. and other creditors, on the ground that it was given to secure the money to be paid by Peter Kirkegaard to Hughes and Mackenzie for their stock in the mine. Their holdings, amounting to $333,320 in stock, were turned over to Kirkegaard.

The mine is situated in Belmont Township, Peterborough County.

TWO MEN INJURED

LINDSAY, March 30—A serious accident occurred at the Boving Companys plant this afternoon, about 2 o'clock, when two men were seriously injured, receiving several bruises about the body, and one of the men having his hand cut off near the wrist; the other workman had three fingers taken off his left hand.

The men were operating a wrench which the Company had in use installing some heavy machinery, and as it worked more rapidly than was expected the unfortunate fellows were drawn into the machine.

Certificates Have All Been Changed

Some short time ago, it was decreed that all Chinamen should have their certificates changed, and this change is now completed, and very satisfactorily so. Two photographs of each Oriental were taken, one of which was kept by the Chinese Immigration Department, and the other attached to the new certificate when returned. All the local Chinamen have complied with the conditions required.

Two Hundred And Four Prosecutions In Three Months

First Quarter of Year 1914 By No Means a Quiet One in Local Police Court Circles.

10 CASES OF THEFT

The first three months of the year 1913 are over to-day and since the first of the year two hundred and four cases have been heard before Magistrate Dumble in police court. Of these a little less than half the total number were cases of considerable interest, the remainder being prosecutions in which the offenders had violated the provisions of the statutes by being "found drunk" or "found drunk and disorderly" in a public place. Several of the prosecutions have been made under Acts hitherto entirely unknown to the local court. Joseph O'Toole was prosecuted under the White Slave section and his case was the first in this City to result from an alleged violation of the provisions of that Act. The Transient Traders' Act, too, amended through the efforts of the Retail Merchants' Association of this province, was aired for the first time in Peterborough police court, during the past three months. Under the new amendment, making the obtaining of board under false pretences, and the non-payment of it under certain condition, a criminal office instead of a civil one, two prosecutions were made this year.

Of the more serious crimes there have not been an exceedingly or alarmingly great number. This would seem to suggest that the police protection being given in this City in preventing crime as well as punishing offenders. Ten cases of theft have been heard in court and in the majority of cases convictions registered against the accused. Three cases of fraud, two of indecent assault, one of supplying drugs for illegal purposes, three of supplying liquor to minors, and one of procuring a girl for immoral purposes were heard since January the first.

Alleged breaches of several of the local by-laws have also led to police court cases. One person offering butter on the market was accused of selling a smaller quantity than represented. This case was dismissed. A local man was fined $5 and costs for burning waste paper on the premises in the rear of his store in contravention of the by-law governing that, and other prosecutions have been made for alleged breaches of the by-laws. There were four prosecutions for gambling on Sunday, and in each case a conviction was secured.

The most repelling cases were those of John McClay, charged with supplying drugs for illegal purposes, Joseph O'Toole accused of procuring a girl for immoral purposes, and Vincent O'Toole charged with allowing prostitution on licensed premises. While deserving no publicity, these cases show that the police are on the watch to go the limit of the law in checking immorality in this City.

During that period only two cases of insanity have come before the court. One was that in which a name named Louis, who resides on Edinburgh Street, attacked a neighbour's window with a hammer. He fortunately did not attempt bodily harm to any one, and as a result the damage he committed was to property only.

During the first three months of last year there were two hundred and ten prosecutions, approximately the same as this year, taking to-day's police court into the reckoning.

Following is a list of the nature of the cases, exceptcharges of drunkenness or being drunk in charge of a vehicle:

Nature of Case	No. of Prosecutions.
Theft	10
Breach of Moving Picture By-law	2
Supplying liquor to minor	3
Fraud	3
Non-support	1
Assault	5
Drunk while on prohibited list.	23
Supplying cigarettes to minor.	1
Supplying drugs for illegal purposes	1
Breach of pedlars' by-law	1
Breach of Transient Traders' Act	1
Supplying liquor to blacklisters	4
Insanity	2
House breaking	3
Non-payment of wages	3
Vagrancy	14
Allowing prostitution on licensed premises	1
Procuring girl for immoral purposes	1

IMPORTANT JUDGMENT

Handed Down in Osgoode Hall —Case Was Tried in Peterboro'

The following judgment has been handed down by the Appellate Division of the High Court, at Osgoode Hall, Toronto:

Northern Electric & Manufacturing Co. vs. Cordova Mines.—R. McKay, K.C., for plaintiffs. J. M. Clark, K.C., for Cordova Mines. G. F. Shepley, K.C., and W. N. Tilley for defendants Hughes and McKechnie. Appeal by plaintiffs from judgment of Middleton, J., of the 21st of October, 1913. Action to recover $37,709, alleged to be due for goods sold and delivered by plaintiffs to defendant, and to set aside a mortgage for $60,000 by the Mines Company to defendant Graeme and McKechnie, and for an order that these defendants account for and pay all moneys received by them under said mortgage.

At the trial the action was dismissed with costs as against all the defendants, but the company, against whom judgment was already entered for debt, and declaring the validity of the mortgage in qustion as against the company and creditors.

Judgment: The majority of the court are of opinion that the mortgage is ultra vires to the extent that it exceeds the liabilities of the company which were cancelled because of the mortgage transaction, but is a valid security in respect of the actual amount of those liabilities. Judgment varied in accordance with this finding. There should be no costs payable by either party throughout, including this appeal. Riddell, J., dissents.

Must Not Kill More Than 100 Ducks A Year

The following amendment to the Ontario Fisheries Act will interest local sportsmen:

1. Section 14 of The Ontario Game and Fisheries Act is amended by adding thereto the following subsection:

(4) No person shall take or kill more than one hundred wild ducks in any one year.

2. The Ontario Game and Fisheries Act is amended by adding thereto the following section:

4aa. No person shall sell or offer for sale, or purchase, or enter into any agreement to sell or purchase any wild duck at any time, and no person shall ship or cause to be shipped by any means of transportation any wild duck to be sold either within or without this province.

Keep These People Always On The Move

A George Street business man made the suggestion this morning that the police, on Saturday night, should keep the people moving continuously along the main thoroughfare. He cited an instance which had come to his notice, where a woman wheeling a baby carriage stopped in the middle of a crowd and for some minutes carried on a conversation, with some of her friends, while other pedestrians had to get on the roadway to pass.

Notice!

WILL ESTABLISH A CREAMERY

CARMANGAY, March 31.—As a result of the active movement of the farmers of this vicinity toward mixed farming and the consequent increase in the number of dairy cows kept on the farms near town, O'Hara Bros., of Millbrook, Ont., have decided to locate a creamery here.

The old post office building has been engaged for the purpose, and is now being put into shape to receive the machinery, which will arrive in two weeks.

The activity along dairy farming lines has been very marked in this community during the past year, and as far as Carmangay is concerned, the consuming public are through buying butter from New Zealand.

The creamery will add great stimulus to the hog industry in providing skim milk as a part of the porkers' daily ration.

Mayor Buller Will Spend Next Two Days In Toronto

Mayor Buller received definite information this morning that the City's private bill is scheduled for discussion in the Legislature on Thursday. This will necessitate His Worship remaining in Toronto for several days. He will attend the big radial railway conference on Wednesday morning, and at noon on the same day the deputation of representatives from Ontario municipalities will wait on the Legislature.

On Thursday all members of the City Council who can get away will comprise a deputaion to represent Peterborough's interests in the hearing of the City's private bill. Both these items are of considerable interest and their outcome will be eagerly awaited.

MANY MEN ARE STILL IDLE

Casual employment on our streets has ceased and many are daily going to the Government Employment Agency seeking employment of almost any kind. They are for the most, unskilled labourers and many of them have families to support.

Mr. Miller has been besieged with applicants for some time, but it should be understood that it is not his place to provide, or seek for, employment for men in the City. His duties are strictly confined to the immigrant, and several communications on that topic have been received at various times, from the Department at Ottawa.

A large number, it would appear, have found temporary or regular employment. Others have ben able to return to their trades, and the opening of the building season has helped to relieve the situation. But still, there are yet a large number of unemployed men in this City who have no trade, and are entirely dependent upon casual labour.

A Suggestion.

At this time of the year most house holders are required to have their cellars cleaned out, of their goods cleaned up, and their people would greatly relieve the situation by offering such work to men who have nothing to do, and yet have large families to support—on nothing.

TURNBULL'S

CONSERVATIVE MINISTERS SPEAK AT MASS MEETING

Moving eastward there are the three great prairie provinces. "I do not hesitate to say that we have in these Provinces the greatest inheritances known to man." The Minister emphasized the fact that only a fraction of the available land is under cultivation.

Hon. Mr. Rogers stated that the West was deeply interested in the Transcontinental Railway, but owing to the manner in which it had been handled the hope of relief which had been expected was destroyed. The Minister then touched upon the railway situation, and passed on to the naval question, both of which he attempted to wash over, and which Mr. Meighen had discussed at considerable length. His passing reference to the Senate concluded what proved to be nothing more than a summary of the principal topics in the speech of the previous speaker.

The idea of Laurier, on the naval question, was that a Canadian navy should be separate from the Imperial navy and neutral in the time of war. Following that idea, suppose the Niobe were at sea and flying a British flag at a time when Britain were at war. If the Canadian vessel met a ship of the enemy the Commander of the Niobe would have to say 'Please don't shoot.' It is true we are British in time of peace, but now that there is a war I will have to go back to chase and capture. Wilfrid Laurier, and if he says we are still British we will come back and fight, and not till then." The man who would be pleased with that stands only for independence. The Government is tied up by the dictates of one man who stands for independence. We are going to stand for our duty towards the people.

The meting closed with cheers for the King, Premier Borden, and the visiting members of Parliament.

The Banquet.

The C.P.R. train carrying the parliamentary party was half an hour late and the delay interfered to some extent with the arrangements. The ministers were met at the station by a number of the local stalwarts of the Conservative party and an automobile trip around the City, including short visits to several of the leading industries was the first part of the programme.

At 6 o'clock the party were driven to the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe Street, where a complimentary dinner was tendered the ministers and Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P. A gathering of over one hundred prominent Conservatives including a number from the surrounding district had assembled by the time the party arrived.

The banquet, which was an informal affair, was a complete success in point of enjoyment. Mr. T. H. Hooper catered for the occasion and the arrangement of the tables and menu left nothing to be desired.

At the head of the table were Mr. Jas. Kendry, president of the West Peterborough Conservative Association, who acted as chairman, Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, Hon. Arthur Meighen, Solicitor General, J. H. Burnham, M.P. for West Peterborough, J. H. Sexsmith, M.P. for East Peterborough, E. A. Peck, M.P.P. for West Peterborough, Jas. Thompson, M.P.P. for East Peterborough, and J. J. Turner, Jr., secretary of the Conservative Association.

The toast list was necessarily a short one, and owing to the lateness of the hour, the speeches were curtailed.

The toast to "The King" was heartily honoured by the singing of the National Anthem.

Mr. Kendry proposed the health of "The Guests," which was enthusiastically received, the gathering singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

In response Hon. Mr. Rogers stated that he had heard so many good things about Peterborough from Mr. Burnham that he was glad of the opportunity to visit the City and he was pleased to say that all he had heard had been verified. He had been impressed, he said, by the thriving industries of the City, and their condition he claimed was due to the protective policy which was the keystone of the Conservative policy. He was particularly interested in visiting the immense plant of the Quaker Oats Company, many of the head officials of which he knew intimately.

Hon. Mr. Meighen expressed his appreciation of the opportunity to get away from Ottawa and meet the people of other cities face to face. Their reception with a banquet was an original one, but one what might be expected from a constituency which had in Mr. Burnham one of the most original one, but only what might be expected from representatives in the House of Commons. The Solicitor General touched briefly on western conditions, showing how different in matters of tariff was the viewpoint of the man in the prairie provinces compared to the easterner.

Mr. Burnham, in expressing his thanks to the Association for the enjoyable dinner, remarked that he had found that what the members set out to do, they generally did properly.

Mr. E. A. Peck said that he hardly felt himself a visitor after forty-four years' residence in Peterborough. He referred to the present session of the Legislature, and to the absence of Sir James Whitney. With their leader missing he said the Conservative party seemed to join together to secure the best results, and in his experience in the House the government had never been so strong as the Opposition weak. Mr. Peck intimated that there might be a provincial election before long.

Messrs. Thompson and Sexsmith, the representatives for East Peterborough, spoke very briefly, expressing their pleasure at the opportunity of meeting so many of their friends in the West Riding.

The enjoyable affair was brought to a close with the National anthem, after which the gathering adjourned to the Opera House.

Mr. B. J. Devey presided at the piano.

SEVEN HUNDRED CARS OF GRAIN

Will Pass Through the City on Way to Montreal During Next Month

Seven hundred cars of grain are stored in the Grand Trunk elevator at Midland yet, and an effort will be made to have it removed and shipped to the East before the opening of the season of navigation. All of the trains taking the wheat cars to the East will pass through this city and the Grand Trunk lines through Peterborough will be busy during the coming month.

It is expected that navigation will commence during the last week in April and the Grand Trunk Railway Company is anxious to get the elevators at Midland cleared, to receive the grain that will be brought by water. The wheat at present in store in Midland is all to be taken to Montreal.

Nomination For Asquith

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Eng., March 31. — The London Times this morning, though bitterly opposed to the Government, calls Asquith's decision courageous, though dramatic. The Times says: "Let us say quite simply at once, that the Prime Minister has done the right thing." The Daily Chronicle (Liberal) is enthusiastic over it, and says if all the officers in the British Army went on strike to-morrow, Asquith would be strong enough to handle the situation with an iron hand. From the south of Ireland today comes fresh news of the Nationalists rallying to the support of their own cause of Home Rule. Money is not wanting towards this cause, either, though the Nationalists are not nearly as wealthy as the Unionists. However, the scene has changed. Attention is now directed towards East Fife in Scotland. If the Unionists put up a candidate there, there will be two weeks of unparalleled election excitement in old Scotia.

The prospects this afternoon are that the Home Rule debate second reading will last some time. The Unionists seem inclined to maintain opposition to the passage for some time by presenting amendments.

Poisoned By Candy

PORT WILLIAM, March 31 — Thelma Davidson, the seven-year-old daughter of Andrew Davidson, C. P. R. engineer, died in the hospital this morning from the effects of poisoned candy. An investigation is being held.

Local Lawyers Endorse Formation Of Bar Association

Annual Meeting of Peterborough Law Association Held Yesterday Afternoon—Officers Elected

The Peterborough Law Association held their annual meeting yesterday afternoon, and several matters of more or less importance were taken up. The formation of a Canadian Bar Association was discussed and heartily endorsed by the local Association.

The election of officers was held and resulted as follows:

President—W. F. Johnson, Esq.
1st Vice-Pres.—R. R. Hall, Esq.
2nd Vice-Pres.—A. E. Dixon, Esq.
Secretary—E. L. Goodwill, Esq.
Treasurer—B. F. Hall, Esq.
Trustees—Messrs. G. N. Gordon and F. D. Kerr.

The formation of the Canadian Bar Association has been a project of moment to members of the legal profession in Canada for some little time now. At present the Bar Associations are Provincial ones, divided into district associations. The new organization would be of Dominion wide, and has been endorsed by the leading lawyers of all the Provinces.

SECOND READING OF HOME RULE BILL TAKEN UP

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Eng., March 31.—(Special cable.)—The second reading of the Home Rule Bill was again taken up in the House of Commons to-day. Sir Edward Grey led the government supporters in the absence of Premier Asquith. Crowds thronged the galleries and there was expectations of lively debates. A test vote on the measure was speedily assured when Walter Long, Unionist, moved the rejection of the measure because of the absence of Asquith, in whose name the bill stood. Lord Morley, President of the Council and leader of the government forces in the House of Lords, announced to-day that he had no intention of resigning. Jim Larkin, the noted Dublin strike leader, has announced his candidacy to oppose Asquith in the East Fife election. This complicates matters somewhat.

LONDON, Eng., March 31.— Speaking in the House on the Home Rule Bill this afternoon, Sir Edward Grey reiterated the statement that the concessions already made were as far as the government would go in the matter. Sir Edward said that a Federal system for the whole United Kingdom might be established before six years more have passed and give permanent local autonomy to the provinces of Ulster and other parts of Great Britain.

Another Railway Across Canada

OTTAWA, March 31.—In the Railway Committee this morning, a bill to incorporate an All Red Railway Company, which proposes to construct the Transcontinental Railway across Canada from Labrador to British Columbia was given very little encouragement.

Hon. J. D. Reid, representing the Government, expressed the hope that the new concern didnt expect to get any assistance from the Government which had all it could handle at the present time. Several members expressed the views that it would not be advisable to start a fourth transcontinental through Canada at present. No decision was made.

DECISION WILL BE APPEALED

Mr. Daniel O'Connel, as has been announced previously, intends to appeal the case in which Mr. H. Clayton of the Royal Theatre, was fined $100 for allowing a child under 15 years of age, unaccompanied by an adult, to witness a performance of moving pictures. The appeal is slated among other cases at the Division Court on Friday, but it is probable that a sitting other than the Division Court sitting will be arranged. Certified particulars will be announced later.

PROMISES TO BE BIG ATTENDANCE AT LACROSSE MEETING TO-MORROW NIGHT

Everything is in readiness for the big lacrosse meeting in St. Alphonsus Lyceum to-morrow night under the auspices of the Peterborough Athletic Club. A large number of old lacrosse players and fans will be included in the audience, the principals of the different city schools are cordially invited to attend and every one interested should make it a point to be on hand to hear the message from Mr. Frank Doyle, the secretary of the Ontario Lacrosse Association. Mr. Doyle is coming in the expectation of finding a bumper meeting, and it is up to the good citizens of Peterborough to see that he is not disappointed.

There is a wreath of the old-time lacrosse days in the window of the Peterborough Book Store to-day, in the shape of a number of photographs of some of the famous old Peterborough teams of years gone by. The window also includes some of the sample sticks sent out by Mr. Frank Doyle, and is a reminder of the lacrosse boom that every citizen should see.

LESSONS OF HOCKEY SEASON JUST OVER

There is, however, a great movement in the legislative line of hockey that is likely to be brought to a successful issue before the next season opens. The Dominion governing body suggested at the last meeting of the Athletic Union has found favour in all sections of the country. One code of laws and one test of eligibility of players is the keynote of the movement for all amateur bodies in Canada, with a central body to control.

Lessons of Season.

The season just past had its lessons, just as every year has, and the older we grow the more we learn. Suggestions have been made along two or three lines that might help some:

1. That the hour be divided into four quarters instead of two halves—quarters rather than thirds because some of the rinks are better lighted at one end.

2. That no game shall go over 50 minutes overtime actual play. It is figured that after that it is a question of endurance rather than of hockey.

3. That in senior games if be optional whether a team drop players to even up for men going off the opposing team because of injuries or other reason, or to insist on the latter substituting men for any so forced to retire.

4. That where a player is prevented from skating a man onside by being checked, tripped or fouled in any way, no offside shall be called. This would make the game much faster even than it is now and do away with much rough work.

Was Great Year.

The year was a great one. Beginning badly because of the soft weather, a steady cold spell of two months cleared the ice in the O.H.A. without a hitch. Threatened trouble over ineligible players was quickly smothered by prompt and unflinching action of the O.H.A. sub-committee. Twice appeals to the full executive were made without rhyme or reason. But there was splendid hockey when the teams squared away, and the senior finals here created a record in enthusiasm and attendance.

The professional game did not detract from the interest in or attention to the O.H.A. battles. The points of attraction are entirely different and all in favour of the amateurs and sport for sport's sake, and their honour.

KEELEY MINE INTERESTS ARE OPERATING AGAIN

English Syndicate at Back of Enterprise—Development Satisfatcory Last Year.

COBALT, March 31. — The Keeley Mine of Farmers Bank fame is being opened up again after lying idle for the winter. The shaft is now being pumped out, and the underground work will be continued as soon as practicable. The Keeley is now held by the Huronian Belt Mining Company, a syndicate formed by Messrs. Ehrlick & Co., of London, England, in order to take up and develop properties for Canada. They are at the present time interested in the Keeley, at Lorrain, and the North Thompson, at Porcupine. The closing down of the Keeley was due entirely to the power situation, and not at all to mine developments. Dr. J. M. Bell, who is the General Manager of the Huronian Belt Company, states that developments last year on the Keeley were quite satisfactory, and there is every intention of prosecuting the work this year with every vigour. Two or three short bodies of high-grade were discovered in the course of last year's work.

Constipation

is an enemy within the camp. It will undermine the strongest constitution and ruin the most vigorous health. It leads to headache, biliousness, sleepless nights, bad complexion, dark tongue, bad breath, and is one of the most frequent causes of appendicitis. To neglect it is now suicide. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills positively cure Constipation. They are entirely vegetable in composition and do not sicken, weaken or gripe. Preserve your health by using

Pitcher Bob Sterling Now In The Fold And Petes Pitching Staff Is Complete

Good News From Manager Blount To-day Announces That Star of Last Year's Gunners Has Signed.

NEW FIRST SACKER

There is joy at the local headquarters of the Peterborough Ball Club to-day over the arrival of a letter from Manager Curley Blount announcing that Bob. Sterling, star of last year's pitching staff, had come to terms and sent in his contract. The matter had been left in Blount's hands and he has succeeded in coming to an amicable arrangement with the Mount Vernon, N.Y., boy.

"My pitching staff is now complete," announces Blount. The leader can afford to rest on his oars as far as his pitchers are concerning. With Sterling, Belting, Cresswell and Tracey, of last year's staff, Louie Schettler, star pitcher of the Erie, Pa. team, as well as three or four recruits, the gunning department leaves little to be desired. Among the recruits are Tirrell, a spit-ball pitcher from Rochester, Kileski from Hubbard, Pa., and a young south-paw, whose home is in Youngstown.

Manager Blount also reports to-day the signing of First-Baseman Willie O'Hearn, of Lockport, N.Y. O'Hearn comes most highly recommended and will fight it out with Eddie Flanagan, the former Youngstown first-sacker, for the initial corner position.

The Petes' squad report at Wright Park, Youngstown, two weeks from to-morrow. Two weeks from to-day the advance guard consisting of Travelling Secretary Dobson and Pitcher Stan Cresswell, will leave for the south.

Of last year's players reserved Sterling, Belting, Cresswell, Tracey, Fox and Chapdelaine, have signed their contracts, while Swartz and Byrne are still hold-outs. Of the other members of last year's team, Trout is with Toronto, McNeal with Buffalo, Hilliard with the Cleveland American Association team, and Brant with Fort Wayne. Davy Rowan is still at his home in Toronto, apparently without a berth, and nothing has been heard this spring of Second-Baseman Thompson, who was turned loose last fall. Toronto had a string on Penfold, the Port Arthur semi-pro., who finished the season with the Petes. He was turned over to Guelph, but there has been no mention of his name on the Erie roster this season.

The Canadian League season opens five weeks from Thursday.

BOXING

Bob McAlister will grab a boat and sail for Australia after his bout with Sailor Grande in Oakland next month.

Victor Breyer, the French promoter, says there is nothing doing at present in the way of a muss between Georges Carpentier and Eddie McGoorty.

Nothing to it but Smith when Jeff Smith, the Jersey middleweight, meets Dave Smith, the Australian champion, in Sydney on April 10th.

The bout with Willie Ritchie put Ad. Wolgast's right hand on the hummer. Ad's. injured fin will keep him out of the game until July.

Frank Moran, who is matched to fight Jack Johnson, in June, will sail for London on May 9. Frank Kennedy and Al Kubiak will help get Moran in condition for the bout.

Peterboro', Dark Horse Of Canadian League Says Ottawa Critic

The Ottawa Free Press Says:

As the season approaches for the Canadian League Clubs to go into training camp, the forcasters are getting a clearer wisdom of the probable pace makers during the first month of the schedule. The dope is bing worked out on the known men under contract.

There is no doubt London will have a corking fine club. Doc Rushing inherited a good club and has strengthened it materially. With five series at home during the month of May, London should be up close to front by June first, when the clubs have caught their stride for the long hike the rest of the way.

Erie will be a first division club for the inaugural four weeks at least. But the dark horse is Peterborough. With a whale of a pitcing staff, the Petes have a manager who is a live wire and who will plug up the hole back of the plate and on first base. In the past two seasons Peterborough has always broken to a disastrous start with a ball club that should have been up there fighting. Mismanagement is the only explanation for the Petes' failure in the past.

Shag's Ottawa champions are the "Mystery Club" of the circuit. The managers are all guessing what the big leader has secreted in his vest pocket. They dope the Senators as the team to beat again, but are undergoing several varieties of nightmare as to just what strength will be necessary to displace the maroon box.

Toronto a Guess?

St. Thomas is making unusual noise, but will have to show something when the battle gets under way before they will be reckoned as the money team. Like St. Thomas, McCaffery's Little Leafs are a guess, and its a cinch if the Toronto Canadian leaguers are to shape up with the other clubs, a big draw will have to be mad on the International Club of the Queen City. If McCaffery attempts to get by on raw recruits, he'll find the cellar has an asphalt floor.

Up to Ottawa.

Everybody over the circuit would like to see Tom Nelson with a first division club in Brantford. It looks as though it's all up to Rube Deneau. If Rube can get the players, Nelson is willing to pay for them. The sum total wished on Deneau from last year's booby winners, barely aggregate three men, so the ex-London leader has practically a whole new ball club to pull together, a tough task with the standard that will be set this season.

Dr. Yates of Hamilton.

Hamilton banks everything on Dr. Yates, one of Connie Mack's inspirations. Like Brantford, Yates will have to corral something close to a new ball club, though there are about four men including one outfielder, and two pitchers who should chase up with this year's stuff. If Yates has the close association with Mack the Hamilton people claim, he should get some good young timber. But Cornelius MacGillicuddy is notorious for his inability in recommending managers and ball players. Only this spring he recommended a manager to a club in a Class C league, said manager having knowingly been canned four times during the last four years in the same capacity. This is not a gloomy thought and it is to be hoped Doc Yates is the goods and has them with him, as Hamilton is too valuable a town to the league to have another ball club foisted on it like the one of last year and 1912.

Holly Is Released To The Leaflets

TORONTO, March 31.—The Toronto ball club yesterday announced the release of Eddie Holly, Pitcher McGinn, Infielder Charlie Isaacs, and Catcher T. C. Burns to the Toronto Canadian League club. Burns, McGinn, and Isaacs are all Toronto boys. Burns and McGinn were with the Don Valley League last year, while Isaacs was with the New York State League. The release of Eddie Holly settles the question of the managership of the local Canadian League team. The Toronto Canadian Leaguers will report here April 20 and will work out at the Island until they take the road on May 7.

OSHAWA IS IN LINE NOW

OSHAWA, March 30—There is considerable talk and general activity among the local sports to organize a local amateur athletic association to control all sport in the Town of Oshawa. A large number of citizens have signified their willingness to enter in to such an organization, and before the summer opens the same is likely to become a realism among the sports of Oshawa.

Jack Forbes Can Make 128 Pounds

Is Ready to Meet Little Hack at the Latter's Terms

To Sporting Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I am delighted to know that there are prospects of a wrestling bout in your city between Little Hack and myself. I see by one of your last week's editions that Little Hack wants me to make 130 lbs. at 6 o'clock. It is evident Little Hack thinks that I can't make 130 lbs., and is probably afraid to take chances with me with reference to weight. I will gladly forfeit my $50 and will make 128 lbs. ringside for him. I guess Little Hack hasn't forgot our last meeting over three years ago, in Swansea, Wales, when I held him two hours to a draw, and would have got the decision if the police had not interfered.

The only thing that remains now as far as I am concerned is getting a location and some one to stage the bout.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, in advance, I beg to remain

Yours respectfully,

Jack Forbes,

Featherweight Champion of Scotland.

BASEBALL

London Advertiser: According to a local fan whose business takes him to Michigan at odd times during the summer, Snyder, the Saginaw player, who was traded to the London Club for Chubby Coose, the former Brantford pitcher, is an outfielder, and not a catcher, as Manager Reisling was led to believe? The London man believes that Saginaw got all the best of the deal, as he has seen both Coose and Snyder in action and he thinks Coose is by far the better player.

The records show that Snyder played 95 games for Saginaw in the outfield last season. He batted .271 and fielded .931, only fair averages. Coose a pitcher, who was used occasionally in the outfield and at certetop, batted .263 In the matter of averages, Snyder shows up a tride better than the former Red Sox player. The records do not say anything about Snyder as a catcher one it is apparent that he did little backstopping for the Saginaw team last season. He stole 28 bases during the season, which is a pretty good record against Coose's nine, and made 20 sacrifice hits.

Snyder is a youngster, about the same age as Coose, and he is a comer. Manager Reisling had him signed up pretty strong or he would not have made the trade. He is a well-built boy and is said to be very fast. If he is coming to the London Club as a catcher it is only fair to say he has done some remarkable batting since he was playing the outfield for Saginaw, because that position has not a better good backstop.

Opening And Closing Of The Base Ball Leagues

NEW YORK, March 31.—In four California cities to-day the crack of the bat and ball, in the opening games of the Pacific Coast League, ushers in the 1914 season of professional baseball. From now until the end of October, on diamonds scattered from the Maritime Provinces of Canada to the Gulf of California, and from British Columbia to Florida, there will be a continuous performance of bingles, hits, steals, and home runs to draw forth the cheers or the jeers of the ardent "fans."

The heads of the many professional baseball organizations, big and little, predict the most successful season in the history of the national pastime. During the winter months the magnates and managers have been busy at work in efforts to strengthen their respective teams. Some of the smaller leagues have been reorganized since the close of last season, but the major leagues and the principal minor organizations start the season with the circuits unchanged from last year. There have been, however, numerous changes in club owners and team managers.

The debut of the Federal League in the big show promises to add interest to the baseball season. Speculation is already keen as to the success with which the new organization may meet, also the effects that it will have on the older leagues and organized baseball in general. The prospect of a general baseball war has already put the devotees of the game on edge and made them eager for the fray to begin. The ultimate results may be disastrous for players and promoters alike. But it is certain to be a great year for the "fans."

Following the opening of the Pacific Coast League season to-day the next organization to get under way will be the Texas League, which will begin its pennant race next week. The South Atlantic League will start about the same time and the following week will see the opening of the season in the major leagues. SEMI-FINAL AT MANCHESTER WAS A STRENUOUS AFFAIR

The Play Was of the Regular Ding-dong Cup Tie Order ---Notts County Are in Line For Second League Honours

Liverpool, 2; Aston Villa, 0. Followers of the game scarcely counted upon this turn-up in the semi-final round of the English Cup. The Birmingham Cub, not only by reason of its past record as finalists, but also because of general performance this season, was looked upon as virtual winner of the trophy this year. But 'the best-aid schemes of mice and men gang aft a'gley,' and Saturday's result amazed thousands. Liverpool, of course, had their following, and not a few from the Merseyside had sufficient confidence in their club to back it for a win at odds that seemed very poor compared with the Villa's record. It was mostly such keen enthusiasts that undertook the long journey from the city by the sea to Tottenham's grounds, and if after the game was over they did exhibit a spirit of reckless delight perhaps the occasion warranted it. In any event, few were more surprised at the result than Aston Villa. Six times have they appeared in the final and five times have they conquered. Never yet have they been able to win two seasons in succession, and now they must hand over the trophy which they won last year against Sunderland; but to whom is the problem. Sheffield United have shared in three finals, the last occasion being the season of 1901-02, when they defeated Southampton by 2—1, after a draw game. On two out of the three occasions were they successful, the 'Spurs in 1900-01 proving their stumbling block. Burnley and Liverpool have still to make their debut at Crystal Palace under similar circumstances.

A Strenuous Affair.

The Burnley v. Sheffield United semi- final at Manchester United's grounds, Old Trafford, proved a mighty strenuous affair. The play was of the regular ding-dong cup tie order, and on the whole a draw was a pretty fair reflex of the afternoon's combined exposition. The replay will take place at Everton, probably on Wednesday, and it is quite possible that Burnley may carve a niche for themselves on the pillar of soccer glory. In that event two Lancashire club will have completed this seasons pilgrimage to the Palace.

The Scottish Cup semi-finals were not marked by any such surprises. Celtic easily accounted for Third Lanark and Hibernians for St. Mirren. These two Irish clubs—that is if the sporting of green jerseys count for anything nowadays— will participate in the final best of the cup tourney at Hampden, on April 11. On nine previous occasions the Celtic Club has won out in the final, including season 1908-9 against Rangers, when the cup was withheld. Their last victory was 1911-12. The Hibs. have won the premier honour on two occasions—1902-7 and 1901-2—but, in spite of this poorer showing against Celtic, record their chances of adding a third victory to their list are just as hopeless as the majority imagine them to be. The boys from Easter Road are rare good cup fighters when it comes to a pinch, as many events, since Dawson's debut with them, have proved, and "Sailor" should prove a great asset.

League Matters.

Turning to League matters, Blackburn Rovers defeat by Sheffield Wednesday at Hillsbro gave quite a shock to Lancashire enthusiasts. There is no explaining this turn-up, and should a few such reverses come the way of Blacburn, then it's good-bye to championship honours for them, for this season at least. The Wednesday only repeated the dose they administered Rovers in the cup ties, and at that time the performance was regarded in the light of a fluke. The result again shows how one club can really buck up when pitted against a particularly strong opposition. Sunderland's tall before West Bromwich does not come quite within the same category, but the Roker Park lot were generally regarded as sufficiently strong to account for the Albion. Bolton Wanderers are gradually creeping closer to the leaders and they and Aston Villa may yet have a big say in the final resting place of the 'flag.' Out of the six games played three furnished 'draws'.

Only something in the nature of a miracle can rob Notts County of second-league honours. Another four games and their schedule will be completed. The 'Lacemen' lead Woolwich by eight points, but the latter are three games behind, and it is scarcely to be expected that they will win all their remaining matches. Were, they to succeed in doing so and Notts were to make a mistake, the finish would prove interesting beyond measure. Swindon still tops the Southern League table, but Crystal Palace can yet equal the leaders' points with a similar number of matches played. It has been a seesaw fight for leadership for a long time, and much may depend on the final game of the two clubs. Swindon must, however, guard against a repetition of their play yesterday if they would win the championship.

Thanks to Celtic having found it impossible to engage in league games during the past two weeks, Rangers have jumped to the head of the Scottish table, their win over Ayr at mid-week gaining for them two valuable points. Celts, however, if their cup ties have not taken too much out of them, can readily make up the deficiency, as they have two games on hand. Hearts, by allowing Partick Thistle to take two points from them, practically put themselves out of the running, so the real fight for the championship will rest between the two Glasgow teams.

Arthur Griggs, former first baseman of the Cleveland Naps, has joined the Brooklyn Federal League team.

From all accounts 'Rabbit' Maranville is the real live wire o' the Boston Braves, not excepting the scrappy Johnny Evers.

Young O'Hara has been holding down the regular job at short for the Brooklyn Superbas. He looks like a fixture with the Robinson crew.

Leach Schultz and Johnson stand, as 'The Cubs' speed merchants to date. Good has been fielding well, but has not been hitting.

A QUESTION

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir.—I would like to ask Mr. A. Osmotsk, through the medium of your paper, whether the Dan Spence Ambulance, operated by him for the City, is free to some only, or is fact, as well, I ordered the City Ambulance and had to pay $1.50 for the service I received. I understand that he is paid by the City for running the Ambulance and would ask him to let the public know at once whether he makes charges or to the citizens who pay for its use.

Yours truly,

Citizen.

It may be the forerunner of a proposal to extend the Charlotte Street line from Park Street to the boundary.

BAR ASSOCIATION MET

A meeting of the members of the Bar of all the provinces was held at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, on Friday, February 13th, at which every province was represented. The meeting was called at the instance of the Ontario Bar Association, the Manitoba Bar Association, and the Batonnier of the Montreal Bar, to consider the formation of the Canadian Bar Association, and if approved, then to recommend a suitable constitution and take proceedings toward its organization.

It was at this meeting that the new association had its birth.

SCHOOL TEACHER IS MURDERED

UTICA, N.Y., March 31.—Miss Lyda Becher, a teacher in the High school at Poland, was brutally murdered on Friday evening, and Eugene Giannini, aged 17, a former pupil, has been arrested in connection with the affair.

The body of Miss Becher was found by a farmer on Saturday in a field just outside the town. The head was badly battered, as if by a stone or club, and the body was marked by knife wounds. Suspicion was cast on Giannini, who was seen last in company with the teacher, and when search was made for him he was found in the railway station at Newport, four miles distant, waiting for a train to New York.

Blood stains were found on the boy's clothing, and a button which was missing from his coat, was found by the dead woman's body. No motive can be discovered for the crime.

Miss Becher was a resident of Bennet, Cayuga County, and she had been teaching two years in Poland, where she was held in high esteem.

THE GOVERNMENT GIVES TEMPERANCE THE DOUBLE CROSS

The Conservative temperance electors of Ontario begin to understand the significance of the Snider incident. They recognize that behind Inspector Snider's campaign against the Scott Act in Peel, Welland, and Huron is the sinister figure of the Provincial Secretary. Mr. Hanna publicly on the floor of the Legislature tells how the temperance men of th Province, Liberal and Conservative alike, are prepared to march shoulder to shoulder to the polls and vote for local option and the Scott Act. Later, in the same place, he defends and praises an official of his department who informs influential Conservatives of Welland that the Scott Act is "no good," that the Government could not enforce the law if it were passed, and that Conservatives should do their best to defeat the Act. Mr. Charles Steele, ex-Warden of Welland and President of the Port Colborne Conservative Association, is authority for the statement that Mr. Snider said these things to him. So grossly improper were the representations made that Mr. Steele did not believe Inspector Snider was an official of the Government at all, and informed the Temperance Alliance as to the operations of what he believed to be a bogus official hired by the liquor interests to pretend that the Government was double-crossing temperance reform.

When the amazing disclosure was made that Inspector Snider had not only been in Welland, but in Peel and Huron also, and that in each case he had professed to interpret the mind of the Government in telling leading Conservatives to vote against the Scott Act, Mr. Hanna saw that it would be necessary to repudiate the official whom everyone believed to be his confidential agent. Accordingly, he caused to be inserted in The Mail and Empire on February 7 a statement in which he said: "Mr. Snider was in Welland before the date of the election, and, as he himself says, he was without instructions from myself or the department."

Was that statement true? The Globe cannot believe that it was in any real sense. It may be that Mr. Hanna did tell Inspector Snider specifically to go out and notify trusted Conservatives in Huron, Peel, and Welland that the Government, while openly friendly to the Scott Act, was secretly opposed to it. But if there were no instructions there was assuredly a very complete understanding between Mr. Hanna and the Inspector. If there had not been how long would Inspector Snider have remained in the service of the Government after the discovery that he had falsely and without warrant proclaimed it to be the interest of the Government that the Scott Act should be defeated.

The inevitable inference from the facts, and from Mr. Hanna's subsequent praise of the Inspector on the floor of the House, is that Mr. Hanna knew of the mission to Peel, Huron, and Welland, and that he was a party to the double-crossing of the temperance cause. What was the price to be paid by the liquor interests for this black treachery?—The Globe.

Stock Markets

A. E. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

The bad news lacks potential power, had it not been that, which is apparently proved by the action of the list, the developments of the week just ended would have resulted in a break of many points in the stock market. We believe the standard stocks of good earning power have been liquidated, money is plentiful but confidence is lacking. Political agitations and schemes are the chief hold up to the return of confidence. Upon the declines the best stocks are taken by people who are far sighted and content to hold and be patient. The best stocks include Union Pacific, Reading, Great Northern, Southern Pacific and Louisville, Nashville and Can. Pac., all of which show strong earning power, even in these days of poor business. The copper outlook is poor but would be good were a rate increase permitted. Therefore only the best still stocks should be bought on the tractions.

EVIDENCE IS TAKEN

Cobourg Shooting Affray is Aired in Police Court When Injured Doctor Testified

CHIEF'S TESTIMONY

COBOURG, March 31.—Wm. Bamford came up for preliminary hearing in the Police Court to-day before Magistrate Boggs, and was remanded until Thursday afternoon. Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Hoskins of McColl & Keith, as counsel for Bamford.

The charge was that of shooting at Dr. Elliot with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The evidence of Dr. Elliott, of Frank Markey, employed at the Albion Hotel, who loaned prisoner the axe with which he smashed the door, and of Chief John C. Ruse, was taken. Markey did not know for what purpose the axe was required. There was a large crowd of interested spectators.

Doctor Denies Any Malice.

Dr. Elliott stated emphatically that there was no malice existing between himself and Bamford, and that he did not know him before Saturday, when, returning from lunch about 2:45 p.m., he found the inner door of his office smashed and the glass above it broken. He telephoned Chief Ruse, who investigated. The Doctor's opinion then was that it was the work of a drunk.

The Chief went north to see if he could find any person with a clue, and Dr. Elliot south. Returning to his office, Dr. Elliot said he found the prisoner there, who asked, "Do you know who the people are you are abusing?"

The Doctor replied, "I do not know you, you are a stranger to me." Prisoner said, "I am the man who smashed your door."

Bamford Pulled Revolver.

Witness had seen Chief Ruse go into a store across the street, and started in that direction, prisonr accompanying him aned accusing him of worrying and annoying him. Prisonr then pulled the revolver, a Colt automatic, from his picket, and pointed it at the Doctor's head, saying: "How would you like one of these to go through you? Look at it." The Doctor grappled with him as he became wilder, and seized one arm, Chief Ruse coming up seized the other, and at that moment the pistol went off, the shot striking the pavement between the Doctor's feet.

Witness said he did not think prisoner was under the influence of liquor. He said he had no grudge against Bamford. He had set a limb for a sister of Bamford's, when acting as a physician at the House of Refuge, where the latter was employed. He had had no other engagement with the family. The patient got along satisfactorily.

Loaned Him An Axe.

Frank Markey told of prisoner coming into the yard about 2:30 on Saturday, the 28th, and asking to borrow an axe, not saying what he wanted it for, which was loaned him. He returned in about ten minutes. He had known him all winter. Did not know that he was insane. Witness did not notice any excitement about prisoner when he returned.

Chief Ruse's Testimony.

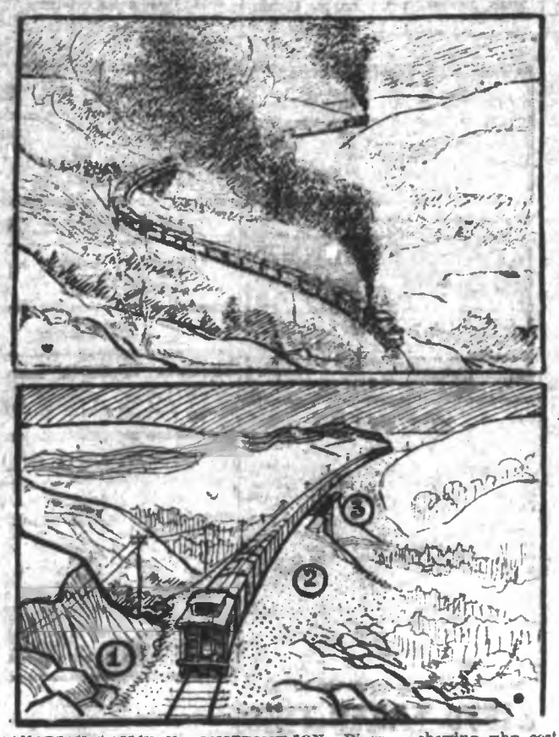
Chief Ruse was called and told of the arrest, and substantiated the evidence given by Dr. Elliott as to the details of the story. He saw Bamford with Dr. Elliott, and heard the former talking to the Doctor. He grabbed Bamford's arm with one hand and the revolver with the other. It was discharged. Prisoner did his best to pull it off again, but could not. When he was searched at Police Court there were eighteen cartridges in Bamford's pockets. They were 38-calibre cartridges.

When asked by the Chief if he wanted to shoot Dr. Elliott, he said he did, uestioned why he said: "He has not let me sleep for three weeks; had that X-ray machine on me." A razor was also found on the prisoner. The Chief stated that the prisoner said he had had three drinks. After he had been in the Polic office a little time he was quiet. He did not appear to the Chief to be under the influence of liquor.

CALMER NOW IN COMMONS

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., April 1—Much of the fire and fight had disappeared when the Commons took up the Home Rule discussion again this afternoon. There was a distinct tone of conciliation on both sides. It is thought that the division on the second reading will come next Monday, but in the meantime there may be more negotiations to compromise. Asquith's appeal to his constituency and Sir Edward Grey's suggestion in the Commons yesterday of a Federal Parliament scheme have struck popular opinion.



CANADIAN RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION.—Diagram showing why cost of constructing railways varies according to the way they are built. In view of the discussion before the Canadian House of Commons on the Transcontinental Railway reports, this map will give an idea of the way the cost varies. In the first diagram rock cutting is avoided by making a double curve, the road crosses the creek at a low point where very little filling is required. A wooden trestle spans the gap. These features entail the use of a "pusher" engine, a lower rate of speed, and a vast consumption of fuel. In the other case a rock-cutting (1) and "fill" (2) keep the line straight and comparatively level. A steel bridge (3) does away with danger and subsequent expense for upkeep. The result is a straight and smooth roadbed upon which a modern heavy locomotive can haul at a nearly uniform speed a much larger train of loaded cars.

FAMILY OF THREE SPENT NEARLY $1000 IN YEAR

System of Household Book-Keeping Enables Heads of The House to Know Exactly The Expenses For Year

GAVE $35 TO CHURCH

A citizen who with his wife keeps a detailed household book-keeping arrangement, concluded another year yesterday, and found that his expenditure was practically one thousand dollars. There are only three persons in the family, and the records include every outgoing penny. Some of the articles included in the list were as follows:

Taxes—$200, an indication that the family is fairly well off in this world's goods.

Milk—$23.

Bread—$15.

Meat—$96.

Groceries were lumped together and made a considerable item.

Sunday donations to the Presbyterian Church during the year amounted to a sum between $30 and $35. The husband's personal expenses included two suits of clothes during the year. This would have been augmented by an overcoat, but for the fact that last year's was made to serve for the past winter.

The keeping of household accounts is recommended by this citizen as a splendid idea for every household where orderliness is considered. It enables the heads of the family to know exactly what the expenses for the year have been. Whether economy is desired or not, the practice is said to be a good one. When the actual figures stare you in the face at the end of the year they may bring a surprise, pleasant or otherwise.

Another citizen whose family counts three all told, and who follows the same practice, stated that his expenditure for last year was $840. This included something like $100 for insur-

THREATENED TO BLOW BEATTY'S BRAINS OUT

That is What Thos. E. Harrison Threatened to Do According to Beatty's Evidence in Police Court

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

This morning's session at police court was a lengthy one. The two cases which have been remanded for some weeks past, those of James Maloney and a man named Brickley, who were charged with vagrancy, were disposed of, each being discharged. Although, as his Worship Magistrate Dumble said, they had everything in a bay that would lead anyone to suspect they were professional beggars. He could not commit them for vagrancy, as they each had money in their possession.

Patrick Lavery, who was charged with taking a gold watch away, contrary to the criminal code, one week ago, appeared in court this morning to hear the decision of His Worship. His finding was that there was no question that the man became possessed of the watch, which he converted to his own use, and deliberately so. He did not, however, feel like imposing a sentence in this case, but he would impose the costs of the court, which amounted to $14.75, to be paid in ten days, and trusted that if he ever had occasion to find anything again, he would do all in his power to have the property returned to the rightful owner. The watch in this case will be returned to Mrs. Finnie the owner, to the order of the court.

The case which occupied the attention of the court through the greater part of the morning was that of Thomas E. Harrison, who appeared on bail, charged with threatening to shoot Charles A. Beatty.

Mr. J. Wearing, Crown Prosecutor, conducted the prosecution, and Mr. Ruddy appeared for the defence.

The first witness called was Charles A. Beatty. He said that on March 24th he was appointed by Deputy Sheriff Hall to execute a writ of possession on lot 3, concession 8, North Monaghan, which parcel of land was at that time occupied by the prisoner, Thos. E. Harrison. He was accompanied by two other men, one of whom was appointed by Messrs. Hall, Medd & Davidson, to act as caretaker when the lands had been seized.

Witness went to the place in question with these other men, and on arrival produced his authority, and was greeted by the following expression from prisoner: "I will give you notice to get off this place. There is a waggon over there, and if you put your hand on it, I have a rifle here, and will blow your brains out."

Magistrate Dumble—And on account of that threat you went back to the sleigh and came home.

Witness—Yes.

Magistrate Dumble—You did a very wise thing.

A considerable amount of evidence was heard, after which the court committed prisoner for trial, bail being allowed.

Mr. Ruddy for the defence, asked that the prisoner be tried by indictment as that option was given under the section of the Act, under which the charge was laid, namely, section 501 of the criminal code, which is as follows:

"Every person is guilty of an offence, punishable, at the option of the accused, on indictment, or on summary conviction, before two justices, and is liable to conviction, etc."

The date of the trial is not yet fixed.

A local man was charged with being drunk and was remanded. It is likely that something else may develop in a day or two.

WILL PAVE MORE STREETS

Board of Works Outlines Central Block for This Summer's Work —Call For Tenders

THE LIST OF STREETS

The amount of street paving proposed for this year by the Board of Works should please every citizan who is looking forward to permanent street work in Peterborough.

The additional work for which tenders will be called in the near future comprises Water Street from Charlotte to Brock, Charlotte Street from George to Water Street, and Brock Street from Aylmer to Water Street. This means that a complete central block will be finished with modern road surface and the first extension work will be found in the strip from the G. T. R. to Park Street.

Engineer Parsons precipitated the discussion by requesting the Board to outline whatever work was in prospect, in order that all the preliminary work might be tucked away in time.

Mayor Buller stated that he was in favour of continuing the work this summer and suggested the central block already referred to. The strip to Park Street was also included, it being shown that this is one of the busiest sections of highway in the City.

All the members of the Board were in favour of a progressive attitude toward this work, and on a motion by Ald. Stratton, seconded by Mayor Buller, the City Engineer was instructed to prepare plans and call for tenders for the paving of the above streets. Tenders will be asked for both the bithulithic and asphalt pavements and contractors may figure for the entire work or only part of it.

Social Was A Spendid Success

Ladies' Aid of Knox Church Responsible for Good Entertainment Last Night

A splendid programme, including a well rendered dialogue by the ladies themselves, delighted a large audience at the social given by the Ladies' Aid in the Lecture Hall of Knox Church last night. The Rev. H. J. Keith, pastor of the Church presided, and every number of the programme was heartily received.

The dialogue was a humorous sketch, and the different characters were exceedingly well interpreted by those taking part. It was greatly appreciated. The proceeds of the social amounted to $42.58, which was very gratifying to those in charge. The money will be turned over to the general fund of the Ladies' Aid of the Church.

The programme was as follows:

Violin solo—Mr. Williams.
Vocal solo—Mr. Smith.
Vocal solo—Mr. Penrose.
Dialogue—By the Ladies' Aid.
Solo—Mr. Smith.
Violin solo—Mr. Williams.

Miss Ruby Carr presided very acceptably at the piano.

Man Hurt In Runaway Accident

Yesterday afternon a runaway team of horses, attached to a farmer's rig, loaded with provisions, caused some excitement. The pole of the rig broke and the owner, Mr D. Johnston, was precipitated to the ground. He evidently cut and bruised his face considerably as he was bleeding quite profusely and fainted when taken to one of the houses in the neighbourhood.

BY-LAWS THAT CAME INTO FORCE TO-DAY

Concern the Licensing and Registering of Laundries and Boarding Houses

TO BE INSPECTED

Two new sources of civic revenue sprang into existence to-day. These two sources represent the product of two bylaws that received the endorsation of the City Council a few weks ago. One bylaw related to the licensing of laundries and the other performs a similar function in respect to boarding houses. The first-named bylaw imposes a license fee of one dollar and the second named piece of legislation calls for a license fee of five dollars. All places licensed in accordance with the terms of the enactments contains special provisions for the inspection of the places concerned.

Chinese Laundries.

The by-law respecting the licensing and regulating of laundries was created, following the Sanitary Inspector's report of his inspection of the Chinese laundries of the cities.

Briefly the by-laws that come into force to-day are as follows:

Bylaw No. 1794 is a by-law to license, regulate and govern laundrymen, and laundry companies and for inspecting and regulating laundries. The license fee will be $1 a year.

Any person guilty of a violation of this by-law shall, on conviction, be liable to a fine not exceeding ten dollars or confinement in the County Gaol for a period not exceeding six months.

Boarding Houses.

A by-law to provide for licensing regulating victualling houses.

This by-aw shall apply to all persons, firms and corporations carrying on or conducting in the City of Peterborough victuals houses, and other places for the lodging, reception, refreshment or entertainment of the public.

The fee for each license shall be five dollars a year. Any person guilty of a violation of this by-law shall, on conviction thereof be liable to a fine not exceeding ten dollars and costs, or in default of payment a term in gaol not exceeding six months.

PORT HOPE TRAIN KILLED 2 HORSES UNDER SEIZURE

Are Reported to Have Been Taken From T. E. Harrison's Home Under Legal Process—One Lifted Into Creek

THE OTHER DESTROYED

Two horses which had belonged to Mr. Thomas E. Harrison, who resides near Fraserville, were struck by the Port Hope train this morning when they ran out from an adjacent building on to the track. They reached a nearby bridge over a creek when the engine struck them. One was shot into the creek and killed, the other had a leg or two broken and had to be destroyed. It was stated that the horses with other good and chattels had been taken possession of under legal process by representatives of the sheriff. The goods had been left temporarily on the roadside, and it was stated that the horses were handled in the same way.

A MONSTER DEPUTATION

Ontario Cabinet is Impressed With Necessity of Quick Development of Hydro-Electric Radial System

MAYOR BULLER SPOKE

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, April 1.—A monster deputation representing Hydro-Electric Radial agitators throughout old Ontario waited upon the cabinet of the Ontario Government at noon to-day to urge upon them the necessity for quick development and extension of the proposed Hydro-Electric Radial scheme as endorsed by the Government during the session of 1913.

At the same time a memorial from the representatives of interested municipalities was submitted to Hon. J. J. Foy, acting Premier. "The highest recommendation," said the delegation, "was due commission for its past work in distributing power, but they were of the opinion that more power could and should be developed at the Falls and other points in the province. "From the many and varied demands on it," the memorial stated, "it is no exaggeration to state that within a few years a large additional amount of horsepower will be required in Western Ontario alone. Without more power, the work of the commission would be hampered and the Hydro-Electric railways could not be built."

The delegation believed that under the Waterways Treaty Canada was entitled to develop more power by more advantageous location of its power plants. It is estimated that the same water now used could develop 225,000 horse-power. The Government promised consideration on this point.

The deputation asked: 1. That permission be given to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission to proceed once with the industrial development of the power at the spillway of the New Welland Canal and other points.

2. That the Government pass legislation guaranteeing bonds to be issued for construction of radial roads.

3. That the Government pass legislation authorizing bonds for such radial roads to be for a period of fifty years.

4. That your Government pass legislation authorizing the Hydro Commission to divide the province into electrical zones.

The deputation was introduced by J. K. Lyon, President of the Hydro-Electric Radial Union of Ontario.

Among the other speakers who pressed the demands of the Union were: Mayor Graham, of London; Alderman Hannigan, of Guelph; D. Gordon, of Belleville, and Mayor Buller, of Peterborough.

Minimum Reduced

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., April 1.— That encouragement of loan companies to assist farmers the minimum of capital stock necessary for such concerns should be reduced to a hundred thousand dollars, was the opinion expressed by some members of the Banking and Commerce committee of the Commons when the Finance Minister's loan companies bill came up for discussion. Hon. W. T. White said he would not be wise to encourage too many small companies, but consented to the reduction of the minimum to a quarter of a million.

BEE KEEPERS WILL MEE

The Beekeepers' Association will meet to-morrow at 2 o'clock in the Recreation Hall of the Armouries. Mr. Agar, Foul Food Inspector, and Mr. Morley Pettitt, Provincial Apiarist, will be there and deliver addresses.

PRESENTATION TO MR. L. L. EDNEY

Handsome Leather Bag Given Him by Choral Society

During the interval in the practice of the oratorio, "Judas Maccabaeus," in the Collegiate Institute last night by the St. George's Choral Society, a most interesting presentation was made to Mr. L. L. Edney, who has been treasurer of the Society since its inception some years ago. Mr. F. oCleman, president, in presenting Mr. Edney with a handsome leather bag, voiced the regret of the members at the loss of his services, but hoped that their loss would be Mr. Edney's gain.

"For he's a jolly good fellow" was heartily sung, and Mr. Edney made a short speech, thanking the Society for the present.

THE EXHIBITION.

In time of peace prepare for war, applies to the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, which can with the requisite enterprise, be made an important element in the development, and promotion of the interests of Peterborough. It is none too soon to consider its future. The Exhibition is an assured thing, but its character and quality, in regard to meeting the best purposes depend upon certain conditions. Among the first are some definite policy and corresponding action in reference to the grounds. They are now held by lease to the Exhibition authorities with the option of purchase, at a fixed and, it appears, reasonable price. In regard to the wisdom of acquiring these grounds in fee, there is difference of opinion. Some think that the site is too large and too valuable to be tied up for exhibition purposes. Others favour the idea of acquiring the grounds and converting them into an Exhibition Park, available for park purposes, and other purposes for the public benefit in the intervals between exhibitions. The existence and adaptability of the Exhibition Park, Toronto, seems to be a precedent for similar treatment of the present Exhibition Grounds. To effect this needs more intimate and direct co-operation on the part of the City, which, in view of its relations to the public, would have, and has, a direct and large interest in such a proposal. There is to be, we understand, a meeting of the Exhibition Board on Friday night, and it is not only desirable that there should be a full attendance of its members, but that the City Council, on behalf of the citizens, should be represented at the meeting.

BEGIN IN TIME.

A house fly seems small game to employ the destructive activity of a grown man, but it is capable of doing as much damage, is as dangerous, as an army with banners. The fly is a legitimate object of annihilation. Apart from its general capacity for being a nuisance, such as disturbing the morning or mid-day nap, promenading in the butter or taking baths in the cream jug, the house fly is a multitudinously effective agent of transmission of disease germs and an enemy to human health. The reproductive capacity of the fly is inconceivably great. According to this capacity for multiplication, from May 1st to July 1st, the product of a single house fly would total 6,000 millions of flies. So that with this rate of increase there would be produced from one house fly during the whole season, house flies to a number beyond all intelligible arithmetical expression, and beyond even the approximate conception of the human mind. Take a million flies beginning breeding at the beginning of May, the resultant product of a single fly would be multiplied a million times. This indicates the necessity of making war on the first appearance of flies. This, however, will be inefficient compared with the removal of breeding facilities. It is well known that the favourite breeding places of flies is among festering garbage and filthy residence premises. We have undertaken to minimise this danger by the installation and operation of a garbage collecting system. This imposes a duty upon householders to observe the most minute precautions even in the handling, covering and placing of their garbage for collection, and of additional care for the scrupulous cleanliness of their premises. The fight against the fly and its multiplication has not only its own particular merit, but if the fight is strongly waged, it means the provision of cleaner premises and domestic surroundings, of themselves important conditions of sanitation. Thus the house fly becomes a starting point for the battle for improved sanitary conditions that literally mean improved public health and a proportionate reduction of disease prevalence.

STATESMANSHIP AND ELSEWISE.

There are certain conventional standards of statesmanship that cannot be modified or set aside. Among these are honourable candour, strict fidelity to truth of statement. The premier of a province should be a statesman. Hon. Mr. Hanna is spoken of as the successor of Sir James Whitney. Has he the qualifications, especially those suggested as indispensable? When the loan to the Soo industries was before parliament ten years ago, Mr. Hanna, then in opposition, bitterly opposed it and it was intimated that his opposition was influenced by the fact of his relations as counsel or legal agent of a great United States' corporation — octopus — which was credited with a desire to get one of its tentacles upon the Soo industries. Mr. Hanna denied at the time that he had any connection with the Standard Oil Company. Things rested there since till this session, when Hon. Mr. Hanna's legal agency of the Standard Oil Company again became a pertinent question. Mr. Hanna again made denial, on March 10, in these terms:

"Ten years ago this month, if my memory serves me right, I made in this House a statement similar to the one I now find it my duty to repeat. And that is this: That never at any time did I or anyone connected with me receive, directly or indirectly, one dollar or one cent, from the Standard Oil Company of anywhere." (Applause.)

A few days after this denial by Mr. Hanna, in a United States' court proceedings were authorized against the Standard Oil Company and "subsidiary companies," among which is the Imperial Oil Company of Canada, with its headquarters at Ohio, and which has a pipe line (of the Standard Oil Company) running from Ohio into Sarnia. Mr. Hanna admits his legal relations with the Imperial Oil Company of Canada, which as a matter of fact, is as much a part and parcel of the Standard Oil Company as a finger is a part of a hand. The point is not so much Hon. Mr. Hanna's professional connection with a monopoly as conscienceless as it is powerful, as his denial of such proved relations, a denial that cannot be regarded as having the shadow of justification except on the ground of miserable quibbling and technicality. This hair-splitting and quibbling might be excusable in a pettifogging lawyer, but is quite unworthy of a Minister of the Crown, not to speak of a statesman named as a possible prime minister. A minister's word should, like Caesar's wife, be above suspicion. His public utterances should have no double meaning, involve no equivocation, especially when they are presented as a statement of fact in regard to the truthfulness and honour of a public man and a minister.

DOES IT MEAN BLOOD?

Lord Randolph Churchill said "Ulster will fight, Ulster will be right." That Ulster is on the verge of fighting is admitted. That she is right, that her attitude of continuous hostility is right, is a prodigious fiction. If dissatisfaction, enmity, arming, open rebellion is right when flung in the face of an honest and sincere attempt to pacify, then nothing in the world is right. News dispatches indicate that the acerbitic debate in the Commons over the vote of censure, defeated naturally, has aroused Ulster. Even the government is taking steps to guard strategic points. And now the navy is moving.

Asquith has taken a long time to move. He has shown inexhaustible, courageous patience. Perhaps this move is a feint, a strategy of warfare. But when England moves, history is written in bloody letters. So will it be in Ulster unless that Province and Sir Edward Carson realise the terrible position England and the Empire is in.

Unionist patriots of aristocratic birth, of clean white hands, declaim with vehemence that the British soldier will never fire on his Ulster brother. Won't he! The British Tommy shoots when he is ordered, and he always shoots to kill. He is paid to. Whether it be white man or negro is immaterial.

So will it be in Ulster. If she continues at this last moment to insolently flout all attempts at peace, if she will not listen to reason, to the sane pleading of a great statesman, who voices the feling of the nation, who is trying with all his power to save the Empire from eternal disgrace, then Ulster must expect to be treated as a rebel is treated. And wherever there are right thinking men, patient men, there will be no sympathy for her.

It may be that blood will be shed. It may be that great wounds will be rent in the heart of the Empire. But it will be laid now and in posterity to a band of fanatical unreasoning Irishmen, who were made the pawn of a political party. And the greatest disgrace shall be on the heads of those of that party who forsook the injunction laid on them in their public schools and colleges to "play the game."—Ottawa Free Press.

If the leaves of your plant turn yellow and drop off it is a sign there are worms at the root. Cut a raw potato in half and press cut side down close to the roots of your plant. Do not remove for two or three days and you will be likely to see Mr. Worm.

An April 1st. Council Meeting Should See Something Doing

A meeting of the Council will be held to-night when Ald. Anderson will present a method by which the tax rate may be reduced to 23 3-4 mills. It is expected that the Mayor and the other aldermen wil lagree to this figure, although some of them were holding out for a straight 23 flat.

It is also understood that the Council is prepared to take up the question of that street sprinkler for which Mr. Munroe has submitted a price. It is also promised that every street asking for watering this summer will be given serious consideration, as the Council is prepared to fight the dust evil on both wings and in the front and read. This doesn't mean that every street should grab for this favour, for there are other good things to be handed out. The Poperty committee is said to have prices for several recreation grounds, one in the northwest of the City and the other in the south ward. The special swimming committee will likely have something to say in regard to their investigations. Several sites have een considered, and the apparatus is as good as ordered. It will include anchored floats, diving platform an d spring boards, and the committee will turn down the matter if they are not assured that the bathing place will be absolutely free from stones and such things. The ban will be lifted from Sunday bathing accordng to a reported opinion of Ald. Langford.

Several of the aldermen are of the opinion that sports should be encouraged as they have been in the past, and will move that a finger mit be provided every boy of fourteen years up to eighteen. Over that it is felt they should earn their own baseball supplies. A price has been secured on 2,000 mits that sell regularly for $2.00 each. The Council is determined to make life worth living around these parts and at to-night's meeting there should be a big gathering of all those who do not overlook the fact that this is the first day of April.

Fifty Thousand Miners Out.

CLEVELAND, O., April 1.—With few exceptions every coal mine in Ohio was closed down indefinitely last night. Local operators estimate that 50,000 miners are affected.

Recent legislation changing the method of payment of miners from the screen plan to the run-of-mines basis is the cause of the shut down, operators refusing to renew contracts expiring to-day until conditions resulting from the new law became more settled.

TWENTY YEARS AGO on the First of March next, a well-known resident of this city took out at age 30 a 10 pay 20 year endowment policy for $1000, No. 43860, in the Sun Life of Canada.

The yearly premium he paid on the participating plan for 10 years only was.....$69.30

The yearly premium he would have to pay on the non-participating plan for the ten years is.....$62.25

Extra paid for profits for ten years.....$7.05

He received in cash at the end of 20 years, $1,279.25, that is, the $70.50 extra that he paid for profits yielded him $279.35, almost 400 per cent.

Or, he could draw out $736.45 in cash, which is $43.45 more than all he paid in, and receive a fully paid-up participating policy for life.

You can never obtain such results as these on the non-participating plan unless you die and die early, so that the price will not become too high.

"HEAL THE SICK"

(Frederick Dickson in Bedford Daily Circular, Bedford, England.)

A critic says that the command of Jesus to heal the sick was confined to a certain period, and that it is not necessary to-day. Every one knows that one of the common admissions which the churches are inclined to make with respect to Christian Science is that it has at least drawn attention to the forgotten commands to heal, while a large section of the Churches are themselves to-day engaged to the utmost of their ability in trying to carry out the command of the Founder of Christianity to heal the sick. Critic is seemingly not aware that the prayer-book for years contained a healing service, so that, apparently the generations of Churchmen who accepted this knew no better than Christian Scientists, and no better than the great number of Christians who are to-day engaged in endeavouring to heal the sick.

As a matter of fact, Jesus' command to heal the sick is not confined to a single gospel, much less to any time or place. His command to the disciples was to "preach the gospel" and to "heal the sick." If it is a fact that Christianity no longer needs the preaching of the gospel, for Jesus drew no distinction between the two. As a matter of fact, in his last recorded words, at the mountain in Galilee, he told his disciples to "teach all nations" and to observe all things whatsoever he had commanded them. Critics will hardly contend that the healing of the sick was not one of the things which Jesus had commanded his disciples to do. Again, in the famous words at the end of the gospel of Mark, speaking not of his disciples alone, but of his followers in all ages and in all places, he said, "These signs shall follow them that believe,' and then he went on to speak of many things, including the healig of sickness. The strongest, however, of all these sayings is that to which I alluded, recorded in the gospel of John. Here, again speaking of his followers in all ages and in all places, he said, "He that believeth in me, the works that I do shall he do also." It is perfectly certain, therefore, that the believers in Jesus believe exactly in the proportion in which they do his works. Certainly amongst the most insisted on of those words was the healing of the sick. If, therefore, Christians fail to heal the sick, one of their strongest claims to being believers is necessarily shattered.

There is no possible use in endeavouring to escape from the plain meaning of Jesus' words in the gospels, and that is what the Christian Church is gradually coming to perceive and to admit. The only proof, indeed, a man can give that the gospel he is preaching is the gospel of Jesus the Christ is the fact that he is demonstrating his teaching in the way demanded by Jesus.—Sentinel.

These Two Devices Give

The Meister-Touch

"Most Human of all"

Great pianists like de Pachmann, Scharwenka and Carreno—they have the meister touch—the genius and ability to get the much-talked-of "singing tone" out of a piano.

To reproduce this tone is impossible on any but the

Dom. Scale Williams Player Piano

As a counter-balance to your lack of professional training, the expression control in this great instrument is designed to give the real Meister-Touch.

The two opposing diaphragms shown in illustration breathe the tone out like a singer—make the touch flexible and give the tone shading and really human expression. With the Meister-touch you can emphasize any note or chord, or the entire melody—or only the accompaniment.

We will make a generous allowance in exchange for your old piano. 2D

GOOD MANNERS.

In the old days women taught their daughters good manners to ensure social success. To-day you should cultivate them to ensure business success. Good manners mean so much. Tact, insight, a sense of proportion, a serene temper, good breeding. Those things are all worth possessing for their own sake, and they bring a reward besides. The reward of appreciation, of liking. Good manners are the best sort of advertisement.

UNIONISTS ARE MORE READY TO COMPROMISE

Proposals of Sir Edward Grey in the Direction of a Federal Scheme For the United Kingdom Are Listened to in the House With Keen Interest.

LONDON, April 1.—A Parliamentary writer observed a few days ago: "This amazing Government seems to thrive upon its blunders," and the last result of a crisis without parallel in modern times has been that the debate on the second reading of the Home Rule bill was resumed yesterday in an atmosphere of unexpected calm with apparently a better prospect of being carried by consent than ever before.

The Unionists are clearly alarmed at the spectre which the Carsonite methods have raised of an election fought on a platform cry of "The Parliament vs. the Army." Even the moderate Liberals are anxious to avoid such a struggle which it is foreseen would leave loose a flood of passion exceeding even that which attended the agitation to abolish the veto power of the House of Lords.

Hence the proposal of Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to the House of Commons yesterday of a federal system of Government for the British Isles as a solution of the difficulty, which he put forward in a most conciliatory speech, has been received on both sides of the House with great sympathy, and it is believed will lead to a renewal of the negotiations between the two front benches in the arrangement of an acceptable compromise.

The large body of opinion, both inside and outside Parliament, supports a settlement on the Federal basis and a meeting of about fifty members of the House representing both parties was held yesterday to discuss a settlement.

It is reported from Dublin that Premier Asquith is to be opposed in the bye-election for East Fife by James Larkin.

Viscount Morley's decision not to resign as Lord President of the Council pleases the Liberals, as at his advanced age it would have meant his permanent retirement from politics and the party would regret to see the veteran statesman retired under a cloud.

The Cabinet met yesterday, and the strongest pressure was brought to bear on Lord Morley not to add to the difficulties of his colleagues by giving up his office.

Sir Edward Grey, during the debate in the Commons, suggested the resumption of the conversations between party leaders, in order to see whether the lines of a settlement could not be reached on the basis of establishing a federal system for the whole country before the end of the six years named by the Government in its offer to Ulster.

Sir Edward Grey said he believed that if the difficulty was not solved by the introduction of a federal system, the country would go under through the sheer inability of Parliament to transact its business. If, he added, an election could be assured on the terms of securing the abolition of plural voting and of placing Home Rule and Welsh disestablishment on the statute book, the method would be worthy of consideration. The suggestion of a federal system was received by the House with marked attention.

BOARD OF TRADE IS REPRESENTED

On Deputation to Toronto To-day—Mr. W. Worth Appointed at Last Night's Meeting

The Board of Trade met in the City Council Chamber last night and adopted several resolutions that will go far toward making the policy of the Board, as outlined at the first meeting of the year by the President an accomplished fact. Among those present were President Basil Hall, Treasurer Jas. Hamilton, and Messrs W. C. Ackerman, G. O. Cameron, H. P. Morgan, W. H. Dunsford, W. H. Munro, R. M. Gover, Jos. W. Worth, A. N. Allison, E. N. McWilliams, J. McNabb, F. Cressman, F. D. Kerr, C. J. Hicks, Tomlinson and J. John.

The President announced to the Board that the City Council had arranged to give them the use of the Council Chamber on the second Tuesday of every month, for the regular monthly meetings of the Board of Trade. He then reported that the Board had been informed that the Associated Ad. Clubs were holding their annual convention in Toronto, next June, and that the Executive Council of the Board had written to the Toronto Ad. Club extending the delegates a hearty invitation to visit Peterborough.

In connection with this Mr. McNabb reported to the Board that he had seen an official of the Toronto Ad. Club regarding the invitation to the delegates to visit this City, and had learned that it would be impossible for the convention to favour any of the outside cities of Ontario by having the delegates visit it in a body. But a space would be allotted the Peterborough Board of Trade free of charge on the Exhibition Grounds during the progress of the Convention, and by sending a commissioner with suitable literature to represent this City a great deal of advertising would be gained. Mr. McNabb suggested that this was a chance to take a definite step in regarding to advertise the City.

Mr. Glover said that he thought it would be a good idea to have a man at the Convention to represent this City who would have advertising literature. There would be 5,000 men all representing and directly connected with manufacturing and money-spending concerns, and it was an opportunity the Board could not afford to miss.

Mr. Dunsford wanted to know whether or not the City Council were going to spend any money on advertising the City at that convention. He suggested that the Board might act in conjunction with the Council in the matter. A lengthy discussion followed, in which all the members of the Board expressed the opinion that it would be folly to miss this chance of putting the advantages of the City before such a gathering of business men. Finally it was moved by Mr. Glover and seconded by Mr. McWilliams, that the Secretary be instructed to write the Toronto Ad. Club and ask to have a booth reserved for the Peterborough Board of Trade. This motion was unanimously carried.

Mr. Ackerman— "There is no use discussing expenditures until we know where we stand as to membership and means of raising the money."

The President replied that Mr. Ryerson Ritchie had expressed his willingness to meet the Board and confer with them as to the best means of securing members and other affairs of vital importance. As far as the money was concerned it might be found advisable for the Board to consider raising the membership fee. The present yearly fee, according to Mr. Ritchie, was lower than that of most Boards of Trade.

Messrs. Munro, McWilliams and Cameron, expressed themselves strongly in favour of waiting until the Board had a conference with Mr. Ritchie before launching on any membership schemes or definitely fixing the general work of the Board for the coming year.

On the motion of Messrs. Cameron and McWilliams it was decided that the Executive Council should hold a meeting in the near future and formulate a plan of action for the next year. This could be submitted to Mr. Ritchie and he could criticise it as he saw fit. The motion was carried.

In connection with the plan to advertise Peterborough at the coming convention of the Associated Ad. Clubs in Toronto it was decided, on the motion of Messrs. Glover and to have a deputation consisting of the Vice-President, Treasurer, Mr. Cameron and Mr. McNabb to wait upon the City Council at their next meeting and ask for a grant to aid in paying the cost of the advertising.

It was brought out at the meeting that the cities of Hamilton, Montreal, Ottawa and Guelph had all been offered the same as Peterborough, and consequently it was felt that if this City was to be advertised it would have to be thoroughly done.

Mr. Dunsford brought up the matter of asking the Postal Authorities to have the Toronto papers that come to this City by mail come on the early morning freight train as the papers that are distributed through the local stores. The Secretary was instructed to write the local member and the postal authorities about this.

Mr. J. W. Worth reported that he represented the Board of Trade at the meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. in the interest of securing playgrounds for local children, and that he was appointed to act on the Nominating Committee. He asked the Board to appoint a nominee to represent it on the committee that is being formed to make plans for local playgrounds and get things down to a working basis.

On the motion of Messrs. Glover and Ackerman, Mr. Worth was appointed the Board's nominee to the committee.

Repentance The Subject

Eight Responded to Evangelist Pugsley's Call Last Evening

The evangelistic services at Park Street are stirring the City of Peterborough. People from all parts of the City are attending and the large attendance last night was delighted with the able sermon of the evangelist. The subject, 'Repentance,' was clearly defined and it was made clear that God demands a man to forsake sin and cut loose from the world to be accepted. Wherever grace is effective, a well ordered morality must follow. And all this idea of justification without repentance, of religion without reformation of forgiveness, without purity of faith, without morality, is a libel upon the economy of God and a Satanic cheat to ruin immortal souls. Eight came to the altar at the close of the sermon. Subject to-night, "Be sure your sin will find you out." Special music by large chorus choir, led by Gilbert Peters, musical director. All welcome.

Extend Time For Payment.

OTTAWA, April 1. — The Senate yesterday gave third reading to the bill extending the time for payment of the $500 in lieu of land for South African veterans scrip. Senators T. D. Davis and Cloran claimed this was merely giving a bonus to land speculators and that this should be eliminated. The bill was adopted, however.

With Infantry And Cavalry

The first regular drill of the 57th Peterborough Rangers will be held next Tuesday night in the Armouries. It is requested that every man who intends to offer himself for service this year will be present, so that the strength of the regiment can be ascertained.

Sergt. Inst. Dunkerley had a large squad of 22 recruits on parade, and though at times they got rather confused, they are making a good showing.

These drill nights are sham battles between the sergeants of the different companies. All are trying to sign the most recruits.

The 3rd Dragoons held another class of instruction in their quarters last night, when practical work was taken up, and the men given the chance to familiarise themselves with the hand ling of troops.

The band has been practicing steadily for the past few weeks, and when they make their first appearance, they should add "tone" to the regiment.

The following are the conditions governing the competition for places on the Imperial Cadet team rifle meeting, 1914, and rifle may be used of a 22 calibre with open "v" of "u" sights, or the Ross rifle for cadets, 22 aperture sight. No alteration is permissible. As cadets have not had slings issued to them none will be allowed.

The Canadian Rifle League target No. 1 for miniature, as issued by the Ordinance stores may be used, and separate targets must be used for each test. Distance is 5 yards, and the position prone, forearm clear of the ground. In the kneeling position the forearm is rested as in firing over a wall. Two sighting shots may be fired (if desired), on separate targets.

Test 1 —Deliberate fire, position prone, 7 rounds; test 2—Deliberate fire, position kneeling, 7 rounds; test 3—Rapid fire, position prone, 7 rounds in one minute; test 4—Rapid fire, position kneeling, 7 rounds in one miute. Whe each test is completed, the number of the test and score will be entered on the target and signed by the cadet and supervising officer, who will forward it to the O. C. Division in district.

The senior team consists of five cadets not over the age of 18 years on July 1st, 1914, and the junior consists of five cadets not over the age of 16 years on July 1st, 1914. For the purpose of the contest targets in miniature may be obtained by applying in the usual way, viz., by indent from the Permanent Army Ordnance store corps. All reports must reach headquarters, Ottawa, not later than April 15th. Tests to be fired between April 6th and 11th.

As these tests are open to all cadet corps in Canada, a large number of entries are expected. Last year Toronto was not represented, and it is hoped that a much better showing will be made by the local corps this year, as all have been practicing with a view to entering the tests.

The selected teams report at Quebec on May 1st for practice and training and sail on May 15th for England. Harbord Street Collegiate is expected to have one or more representatives on the teams this year.

STRIKERS USE EPIDEMIC.

Mysterious Sickness In Russian Factories Blamed on Agitators.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 1.—Members of the Douma are urging the appointment of a commission to investigate the cause of a mysterious sickness from which operative in the tobacco and rubber factories are suffering. More than seventy new cases were reported yesterday in one tobacco factory and thirty in a rubber factory. The employes are leaving by the scores.

According to the police the epidemic is the result of a plot to foment strikes by men who have engaged an expert chemist to assist them to bring about conditions whereby the operatives have been overcome while engaged at their tasks. These methods so far defy detection, but it is supposed they consist of the production of poisonous fumes.

Start On a Walking Tour of The World

MONTREAL, March 30.—A strong athletic couple, tired of living in a cramped little slum at 197 Guy street, made a bold bid for independence this morning, when Mr. and Mrs. Hartley started out in a walking tour round the world. It was not altogether a matter of pleasure to them, because for a long time the two have been struggling to make ends meet, and they have found life in a big city a burden. When they closed their door behind them at eight o'clock this morning, they were glad to leave what they called a life of city bondage. Instead of being confined to the four walls of a comfortless dwelling, they now have the whole world for a breathing place. As they swung up Guy street, and marched out in the direction of Valleyfield, many spectators wondered at the young couple's outfit. They are fitted with a full equipment, including revolvers. They have no fears of the future, they were glad to leave what they had behind them, to go to far away China; they do not anticipate any trouble.

Their assets this morning, were two dollars in money, and a few boxes of tinned food.

The two globe trotters are athletes; the wife is 23 years of age, and the husband is three years her senior. He is an ex-soldier, and during the South African war he saw active service with the 6th King's Royal Rifles.

They will earn money on the way by giving a series of dances, and later on they will print a little pamphlet of their experiences. They will make for Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Fort William, Winnipeg, Vancouver, and by the time they get to the Pacific coast they count upon having enough money to pay their passage to Australia. They will then scamper across New Zealand, Africa, India, Japan, China, Manchuria, Russia, Germany, England, and then back to Montreal.

Jas. Bogue Gets $25,000 Contract For Extensions To Lindsay P. O. And Will Commence Work Soon

Contractor Jas. Bogue, who so satisfactorily brought about the completion of the Lindsay Armouries, has received the contract from the Government for erecting the new addition to the post office. The contract price is about $25,000.00.

Mr. Bogue, in company with Messrs. John Carew, Aldermen Duncan, of Peterborough; Wm. Hungerford, Lindsay, and Messrs. Turner and McIntyre, of Peterborough, visited the grounds to-day where the new structure is to be erected.

The extension will be placed at the south side of the main building, and will be used for the better facilitation of the surplus mail matter which arises from increased business, and extra packages carried by parcel post and rural mail deliveries.

Five hundred more boxes will be placed in the post office and a tower erected in which a large clock will be placed to measure correct time.

The work, Contractor Bogue informed The Warder, would start immediately, or as soon as the weather would permit or such operations.

The satisfaction with which Contractor Bogue completes his work evidently justifies the public in knowing that a structure as near perfection in material, architecture and structural strength will be given the citizens of Lindsay.—Lindsay Warder.

COBOURG ENGINEER SAYS PETERBORO' MADE A MISTAKE IN PLACING LIGHTS OPPOSITE

"All told, we will probably spend $5,000 and we will not make the mistake made in Peterborough, by placing the lights opposite each other. They will be staggered as in Lindsay.

Along these lines spoke J. E. Skidmore, Manager of the Cobourg Utilities Corporation, which controls the Waterworks system and gas and electric plants in the Lakeside Town. Mr. Skidmore was in Lindsay yesterday with a Cobourg delegation to inspect the northern town's street lighting system. Cobourg, he said, is about to wake up and take its place among the other towns and cities of the Province.

Ald. Duncan, who was also in Lindsay, mentioned the Cobourg delegation, and their choice of a town for examination was regarded as a joke by members of the Board of Works.

"They don't want to do very much" Mayor Butler said, "or they would not go to Lindsay for pointers; they can't be very serious."

England Adopts A Standard

Examiner Special:

LONDON, April 1—As a result of years of agitation on the part of the jewelery trade the principal countries of the world now have a standard unit for weighing precious stones. The 200 milligramme carat which was officially accepted by the U. S. Government, last year, after its adoption by France and other countries, to-day came into force in Great Britain. The reform is regarded as of the utmost importance in this trade. Heretofore, with a different standard carat in use in the various countries it has been a difficult problem for jewellers to figure the true values of stones.

Street Car Derailment

Demoralized the Service Yesterday Evening

Jackson Park car, number fourteen, jumped the rails at the intersection of Charlotte and Park Streets shortly before six o'clock yesterday as a result of which the service on that particular section was crippled up for upwards of an hour. A hurry call was sent in to headquarters and emergency car number seventeen, loaded with a supply of jacks and other paraphernalia was rushed to the scene. It required the services of four or five competent men and two or three dozen citizen inspectors to replace the stranded car on the rails. During the delay, old number seventeen of ancient vintage, rumbled up George Street with the object of completing the trip that was interrupted by the derailment of the Jackson Park car.

SEIZING MONEY IN MAILS.

Many Letters With Coins Being Impounded by the P. O.

OTTAWA, March 31 — Thousands of letters containing cash have recently ben seized by the postal authorities for the contravention of law and postal regulations by sending coins in letters instead of using postal notes or orders.

It is not clear that adequate notice has been given the public of this change in postal methods.

The last postal regulations in the hands of the public are a year old, and do not forbid the sending of coins in unregistered mails, although they suggest to the public "never to send money through the post office except either by means of a money order, a postal note, or a registered letter."

There is nothing about seizure and impounding letters which contain money. However, that is what is going on.

Objection To Depositing Brock Street Rink Ice On Aylmer Street

Must Not Be Done Another Year —Board of Works Regular Session Saw Considerable Business Transacted.

BILL PRESENTED FOR HOSE

The Board of Works disposed of another batch of routine business at a meeting held last night. Ald. Duncan presided with Mayor Buller and Aldermen Duffus, Stratton, Anderson McIntyre, Johnston, Geren and Saunders present.

Engineer Parsons was asked for a report on a petition from Mrs. Parker, 304 Park Street, for a cement crossing from several new houses on the East side of Park Street to the west side.

An account from the Fire, Water and Light Committee was presented, as follows:

200 feet, at 50c per foot, $250; 100 feet at 75c ft., $25. Total, $275.

Moved by Ald. Stratton, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that the Engineer report on their items.—Carried.

Work on Boundary Roads.

J. W. Kelly, Clerk of Smith Township, asking for an understanding in regard to the agreement for work to be done on Boundary Roads.

Moved by Mayor Buller that Mr. Kelly be notified that the City Engineer and Chairman of the Board of Works will meet representatives of both municipalities at a date agreeable to both parties for the purpose of outlining the work for the summer, which will be done by the County and of which the City will pay its share according to the agreement.

Street Signs.

Moved by Mayor Bradburn, seconded by Ald. Saunders that the Engineer report upon the condition of the sidewalk on the east side of Water Street, in the vicinity of the end of Charlotte street and south from that corner. W. G. Morrow complained that there is no crossing and that the planks of the board walk are in a bad condition.

A Bill for $5.

Mr. W. H. Munroe of the Peterborough Light and Power Company presented a bill amounting to $5 for thawing out a hydrant near the Nicholls Hospital. Mr. Parsons was asked for a report on the circumstances. Some of the members felt that this item was included in the amount paid some time ago as a settement of a number of claims.

Ice on Aylmer Street.

G.W. Charlton, representing B. J. Todd and Mrs. Burritt, residents near the corner of Aylmer and Brock Streets, registered a complaint against the depositing of ice on the side of Aylmer street.

Ald. Duncan explained to the Committee that is was ice taken from the Brock Street Rink. It was carted out to Aylmer street, and thrown along the road, a distance of 100 to 200 feet.

Mr. Parsons — Fortunately there was no accident. No one has any business to pile the ice there without notifying us.'

Mayor Buller — "You can bring them to the Police Court for that.

Ald. Johnston — "It might easily have caused an accident.'

Ald. Stratton—"Notify the Manager of the Rink that he must not do it another year.'

Mayor Buller—"He should be prosecuted now; there have been a number of cases like this during the winter.

It was finally moved by Ald. Stratton, seconded by Mayor Buller, that the matter be dropped for the present, but that the Brock Street Rink proprietor be communicated with in regard to the disposal of the ice in future years.

TO BE TRIED FOR SLAYING FATHER

Special to The Examiner.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., April 1—The most notable case to be tried at the April term of the Livingston County Circuit Court, which convenes next week, is that of Lee E. Hoyt, accused of the murder of his father, Edward Hoyt, a wealthy cattleman. The murder was committed at the Hoyt farm, twelve miles from this city on November 27th, 1911. The victim was beaten to death with a mattock.

It was believed at first that the elder Hoyt had been slain by robbers. After months of investigation detectives discovered faint finger prints in blood on an iron tank near where the body was found. These finger prints were identified as those of Lee Hoyt, the twenty-year-old son of the victim. Young Hoyt was taken into custody in February of last year and is alleged to have confessed to the crime, declaring that he had killed his father because the latter had been too severe with him.

The case was tried last July, but the Jury disagreed and was discharged. Shortly afterward the accused youth was examined by alienists and pronounced of unsound mind. He was taken to the State Hospita for the insane at St. Joseph. Recently he was discharged from the institution as permanently cured and now has been returned here to stand trial on the murder charge.

The owner was moving to Peterborough and had several threshing outfits which he wished to dispose of. Ald. Green pointed out that there was no immediate use for the boiler and the matter was laid over for more information.

Temperance As An Issue In Politics

Special to The Examiner.

Parliament Buildings, Toronto, March 31—"General election" is the all-absorbing topic of conversation not only in the lobbies of the Legislature, but also spreading through out the City. Enquiries from outside also reveal a keen interest throughout the Province.

Even at this date it is clear that the Temperance issue is going to figure with special prominence. In fact indications all point to an exceptionally hot fight, with men and women, who usually do not take part in politics at all, actively engaged in the contest.

The Temperance question is rapidly broadening out and invading other issues. For example, it is the widely expressed opinion that the defeat of the Opposition's Bill to grant the Municipal franchise to married women, otherwise qualified, is due almost entirely to the work of the liquor interests. The passing of the bill undoubtedly would have helped the Temperance people win Local Option in many close votes.

The Governments action, therefore, in defeating the Married Womens Bill has had a double effect. It not only has aroused the Opposition of the women and also of the Municipalities and the Townships which have petitioned for the Bill, but it has stirred up the resentment of the Temperance people irrespective of politics who are openly asking "Why do the interests of the liquor men and the Government coincide so often?

Simultaneously with the defeat of the Opposition's Bill for married women, comes the Government's killing of the Opposition Bill to close the bars at twelve, noon, on Saturday, and on all holidays. Not only did the Provincial Secretary slay this Bill, but he also explained quite clearly that the Government was not in favour of any more advanced temperance legislation at this time.

A clearcut issue always makes a general election important, and exciting. This time more than ever before in Ontario politics there is a clear, decisive issue between the parties and the public will have a comparatively easy time in deciding which they prefer. That issue is the issue of temperance.

SUFFRAGETTES WILL OPPOSE THE PREMIER

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., April 1—Militant suffragettes are preparing to take a very aggressive campaign against Asquith in the East Fife election. They blame the Prime Minister as the greatest obstacle of modern times in their attempts to get the ballot. Their hatred against him is intense and their influence may hurt Asquith considerably at the polls.

IS AWARDED 400 DOLLARS

Special to The Examiner:

BRANTFORD, Ont., April 1.—Geo. Miller, an Indian from a reserve near here, was at one o'clock this morning awarded four hundred dollars' damages by the Assizes Jury against Major Nelles Ashton, Principal of the Mohawk Institute, an educational institution, partially supported by the Government, because his two daughters had been badly beaten and ill treated.

The Jury agreed that the beatings had not resulted in permanent injury to the girls.

The case created a great sensation here.

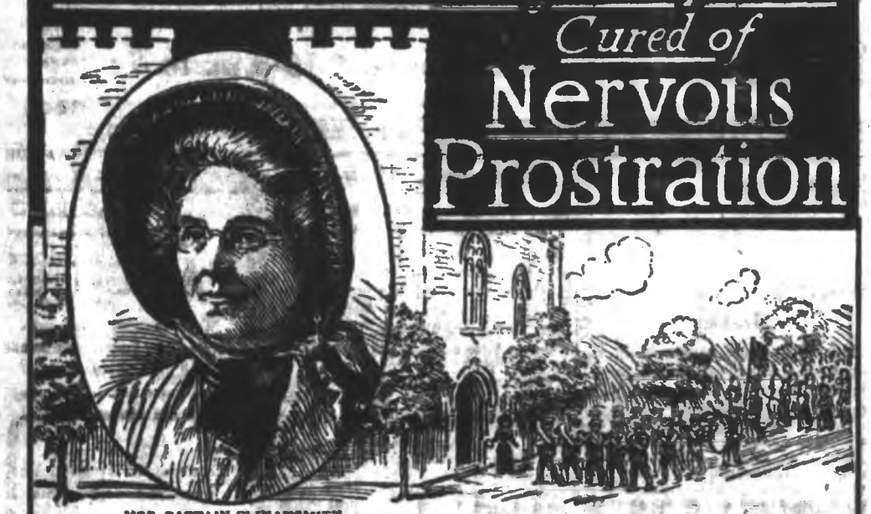
Salvation Army Captain Cured of Nervous Prostration



MRS. CAPTAIN CLINARSMITH.

NERVES UNSTRUNG

DID NOT KNOW WHAT REST OR SLEEP WAS

Mrs. Captain Clinarsmith, of the Salvation Army, formerly of Essex, and now living at Leamington, Ont., writes:—"I have used in all about 18 boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and this treatment certainly worked like magic. I was so run down that I suffered for 12 months with acute nervous prostration, and was so bad that I never knew what sleep or rest was.

"I consulted five different doctors, but still I did not make any signs of recovery. A friend of mine had suffered as I did and had been cured by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and recommended it to me.

"I can say that after taking the first box I felt every dose doing me good, and by continuance of this medicine I was cured. I could sleep as well as ever and found life worth living. When other medicines failed, the nerve food built me right up.

"A few years ago I was cured of a most severe case of protruding piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I had to keep to my bed and doctors could give me no help. When suffering untold agony I heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and was cured of piles, to the wonder of those around me, and after I had almost given up hope."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made a wonderful record as a cure for nervous exhaustion and prostration. By forming new, rich blood it restores feeble, wasted nerve cells, and, working hand in hand with nature, its cures are thorough and lasting. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50. All dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Write for booklet on "The Nerves."

Record Attendance Expected On Saturday—England vs. Scotland

In deciding the International championship in the Old Country this year, fortunately, the question of goal average does not arise. By defeating England and Wales in turn, and then playing a drawn game with Scotland, Ireland placed herself in an impregnable position, for Scotland had previously drawn with Wales, and the best that she could possibly accomplish this season with only England to meet to conclude her programme was to obtain four points. As the result of what happened at Cardiff on Monday England now ties with Scotland, but the latter has the better record, for it is level on goal average, whereas England has still a deficiency, and consequently takes third place in the table, which brought up to date, is as follows:

	P.	W.	L.	D.	—Goals— F.	A.	P.
Ireland	3	2	0	1	6	2	5
Scotland	2	0	0	2	1	1	2
England	2	1	1	0	2	3	2
Wales	3	0	2	1	1	4	1

The only game that now remains to be played is the England vs. Scotland match, at New Hampden Park, Glasgow, on April 4, says London Sporting Life. It is true that this season the championship does not depend upon the result, as was the case last April, but that will not make any difference to the enthusiasm that will be shown in the event by the Scottish folk. The classic contest between these historic rivals is to Glaswegians, and in a less degree to Scottish sportsmen up and down the country of cakes and ale, one of the greatest events of the year. When played in Glasgow it approaches the dignity of a national festival. Those who have not witnessed the England vs. Scotland match at Hampden Park have not seen the most wonderful sight that football provides for its patrons. On two successive occasions over 120,000 persons have assembled on the Queen's Park ground, and from the interest shown in the coming contest, judging from exterior indications, all previous records are likely to be left behind this year.

Further improvements, I understand, have been made to Hampden Park, and the accommodation increased to enable over 140,000 persons to see the match. When, two years ago, England and Scotland were in grips at Glasgow, 127,307 spectators passed the turnstiles, and the total receipts were in the neighbourhood of £7000. This is a record attendance at any football match in any part of the world, but the receipts were exceeded last April at the final tie for the F. A. Cup, when 120,028 persons paid £9406 9s for admission. Figures of this kind prove most convincingly what a tremendous hold the Association code has upon thed emocracy. Even in South Wales, where a few years ago the dribbling game was practically a negligible quantity, the democracy are taking it up now in earnest, and on Monday the receipts at Cardiff, on a most unpropitious day, were over £1000, this being a record for the principality for an International game.

Good Wrestling Bouts Likely For Peterborough

Growing out of the success met with by the wrestlers from the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. who took part in the Toronto City Wrestling Championships recently, an invitation has been sent to Toronto for some of Torontos best wrestlers to come to Peterborough and compete against our local wrestlers in a series of bouts on Thursday evening, April 9th, in the Y.M.C.A. An effort is being made to secure wrestlers to rthe 115, 125, 135, 145 and 158 pound classes. These are the standard weights.

Mr. Collings, wrestling instructor of the Central Y. M. C. A., Toronto, has intimated over the long distance telephone that he will be able to send up a bunch of the best men they have got. If the local Y. M. C. A. is successful in securing these wrestlers it will make the best night of wrestling ever seen in Peterborough. Any wrestlers in Peterborough who are aamteurs, whether they belong to the Y.M.C.A. or not, are invited to send in their entries to Mr. J. J. Thompson, Physical Instructor, by Tuesday of next week.

PETES TEAM TO BEAT SAYS MANAGER "SHAG"

Ottawa Journal — "Peterborough, Erie, London, St. Thomas, those are the fellows to watch out for," predicts Shag. "Peterborough, with Blount in charge and grabing all his Youngstown Class B players, to my way of figuring is the toughest looking proposition for us this summer. Erie is bound to have a strong club, and London is pretty sure to be there, also St. Thomas."

Shag figures that the Petes will be strong in every department, pitching particularly. He also figures that there will be few weak spots on either Erie or London, while the Saints will be very strong in twirlers. Toronto may or may not be strong. If Kelly intends to suply turn over all his recruits who fail to make the International grade, the Little Leafs may find themselves in the cellar, whrde Shag. expects Hamilton and Brantford to linger this season.

The Senators signed up Newman, a Toronto pitcher, on the recommndation of President Fitzgerald. He will be given a try-out. President Sammy Litchtenhein, of the Royals, has offered the Senators the pick of some of his recruits now in camp at Norwood, N.C.

* * *

Shag leaves on April 11 or 12 on his scouting trip. The real stars in line for the champs. will be announced after his jaunt. Shag has his iye on three or four players, but is not taking any chances by handing out their names. Competition is too keen for good players this year.

While Shag, Lage, Dolan and Murphy hit over .300 last year, th pitching this summer will probably be away better than last. The "wrecking crew" isn't figuring very largely in Shag's hopes for the pennant.

London Advertiser—The baseball season is advancing with leaps and bounds. In a little over a week, the major leagues will lift the curtain and the 7914 sason will be under way. A little over a month and the Canadian League will also launch out onto the 1914 pnnant race. And yet it is only a little over a week ago that local fans were all wrought up ovr the hockey gam between Berlin and Western University.

Locals Report April 7.

A week from to-day, the first of the Loidon Club recruits will report to Manager Reisling at Marietta, Ohio, and in two weeks the whole London team will be at work preparing for the sasoen in the Ohio city. From then on until the opening game time should speed quickly for local enthusiasts. The London Club's players will probably report earlir than the players of the other clubs. The Peterborough team will not report at Youngstown until April 15, while Shaughnessy's Senators do not arrive in Chatham until April 20. The Erie Club will train in Erie, starting about the end of next week. Manager Yates will likely have his amilton players report about the first of next week, while Brantford and St. Thomas players will also report about then. The Toronto players hvae not all been picked yet, but some of them are working out with the International Leaguers at Marlin.

The grounds at Marietta are in fine shape, and all ready for the team. The Marietta College Club is at present using them for working out.

Deal Not Yet Completed.

The London club has not yet completed its lase on Tecumseh Park, the dal hanging fire for a few days. Howevr, it is expcted that this matter will be settled in a few days and work will be commenced gtting the grounds in shape for th London club when it arrives here on May 4.

Some Report April 13.

The main squad of London players will not report until April 13. Louis Berbauer, who is at present working for The Advertiser, Bobbie Heck, Eddie Linneborn, Hienie Steiger and some more of last year's players will not report until April 13 or 14. In the meantime Manager Reisling will have weeded out some of the recruits and the real training work of the team will begin in earnest.

First Game on April 9.

The London Club will play its first game on April 9 against the Marietta College team. This will practically begin the spring schedule as the team will be engaged for the balance of the week playing exhibition games. Good weather is expected and the indications are that the club will experience some ral, warm, bastball weather.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

(St. Thomas Times.)

"Dad" Stewart, the former manager of the Saints and London's right fielder last year, is unsigned. "Dad" is at present holding down a job as brakeman on the Wabash at his home here, and the strenuous life on the railroad kept him in good shape. There's no doubt that when the ball season opens the Wabash will be short one good brakeman and some team in the Canadian League will get one good outfielder, and a good sticker in the bargain.

Dad, it is understood, is in communication with several of the Canadian League, as well as South Michigan League managers, but owing to the fact that his home is in St. Thomas, he prefers to remain with the Canucks. He is in the lucky position of being a free agent, his contract with London last year being for one season only. Consequently he can choose his own masters. He was the choice of a section of the directors of the St. Thomas team as manager for 1914, but now that is settled he is being sought as first lieutenant to some of the other managers. Dad's many years of baseball experience, together with his value as a fielder and as a hitter, especially in the pinches, makes him a valuable man on any team. This was shown by his work with the Cockneys last year. One department in which Stewart excels is in getting runs over the plate that a majority of players in the league would lose on close decisions. Dad has the faculty, when closely pressed for time at the plate, of doing a fadeaway slide to either side, that generally leaves a catcher feeling among the dirt or atmosphere for somewhere else to place the ball. This accomplishment has gained the teams he played with many runs, and frequently it has been the deciding point in games.

From the present outlook it would not be surprising to see Stewart back with Rube Deneau. Deneau is getting together a good team for Brantford and is said to be figuring on the services of the man who helped him put London in second place last year.

BASEBALL

Manager Jack Dunn has gathered a fast bunch of Baltimore Orioles this spring and he believes his team will outclass the Baltimore Federal outfit.

Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford have started to paste the pellet, which means the slaughtering of the minor leagues with which the Tigers engage in battle.

Manager Pieper, of the Lawrence New England League team, has signed the younger brother of Christy Mathewson and Smoky Joe Wood Both boys are pitchers.

Joe Oeschger, the Phillies' youthful player from California, cost President Baker $3,500. He played with the St. Mary's College team, with which Harry Krause also was developed.

Anway, Bill Dahlen has it on most of the former big league managers. The Brooklyn players gave their exboss a chest of silver, whereas most managers are decorated with tinware when they are dropped.

Manager McGraw of the Giants is taking no chances these days of his regulars jumping the job. Manager Mac is signing up all of his stars to long-term contracts.

It has been a great spring for the yannigans with the Giants anr Red Sox. The two rookie outfits have shown up their big brothers so often in the practice games that the goats of the regulars have flown.

The services of President Dreyfuss as a schedule maker are in great demand about this time of the year. The boss of the Pirates has just completed a schedule for the Western Caanidan (Twilight) League in which the games are not started until 6 oclock in the evening.

With so many 'B's' in the training camp of the Athletes it begins to lok like another sting for the other American League teams. with the world's champs copping the honey again nert October. With the Mackfen are Baker, Bender, Barry, Bush, Brown, Baldwin, Bohen, Bessler, Boardman and a second Baker, who is a rookie pitcher.

Bill Crystal, formerly with Knotty Lee's band of Canadian leaguers, will this year manage the Adrian club of the South Michigan League.

St. Thomas, March 30—Being strong in his pitching department with more Beavers than he knows what to do with and why a first baseman, Maanger "Midge" Craven stands ready to make a trade of some of his pitching staff with the London Cub for a first sacker.

Manager Reising has two first sackers in Bierbauer and another Ohio man, who will be given a trial next week, and if the St. Thomas eader gets in touch with the London pilot at Caldwell a transfer may be made.

Former Manager Ort of the St. Thomas Club, just returned from Toronto, where he was tendered a contract by President Kerwin of the Toronto Caandian League Club, and indications at the present time poit to Geo. Ort playing with the Queen City out fit this season.

"BUT WHAT'S THE USE?"

I must tell, in words of sorrow,
That your paper empty seems;
Lots of room for poets' efforts,
Lots of time for painted dreams.

Not to-day your time you're spending
On the "Wanted Column" long
Just the raising of the prices—
Stories of conditions wrong.

From the prices out of reason
We can find no way to shirk;
And to meet requirements daily
We must soon procure some work.

Though the work be most unpleasant
I believe it could be said,
That there would be no kick coming,
For the children must be fed.

Though we walk each day, and ponder
O'er the butcher and the rent,
'Tis enough to make you wonder
Where your summer's wages went.

If we find that all next summer
Has to foot this winter's bills,
'Tis enough to make one pencil
Rhymes that give the reader chills.

Of those now out of employment
We refer to by the score;
If we mention all we know of,
Still we find there's hundreds more.

There is really nothing doing,
Only that up on the hill,
And when they stroll about in Summer,
They won't have to foot a bill.

Bad times, like poets' efforts,
Annoy—what's in a name?

We must tolerate the hardships,
With no chance to fix the blame.

So, why not time for poets' labour;
Why not time for poets' labour?
But with all we wait in patience,
For a "Wanted Column" long.

BOARD OF TRADE REPRESENTED

At the Board of Trade meeting last night Mayor Buller invited the Board to send a representative with the deputation to Toronto this morning to wait upon the Legislature in connection with the Hydro-Radial scheme for Eastern Ontario and the City Bill. All present viewed the proposal favourably and it was agreed to send a representative. Mr. J. W. Worth was elected to represent the Board of Trade on the deputation.

A resolution of condolence expressing the Board's sincerest sympathy with Mr. Ryerson Ritchie in his recent bereavemnt was passed. The secretary was instructed to embody the motion in a letter to Mr. Ritchie.

Mr. Basil Hall said that ninety per cent. of the residents on Hunter street, between Aylmer street and Belmont avenue, had signed a petition asking the Council to pave that portion of Hunter street. He asked if it would be deemed advisable for the Board to pass a resolution endorsing their request. Mr. Worth thought it more important to urge the paving of Charlotte street.

Mr. Kerr thought that a motion of that kind would be apt to prevent the harmony with which the Board of Trade and City Council were expected to work. He thought that the Board should not deal with such details that obviously were for the City Council to deal with. Mr. Worth agreed that the Board would lose a good deal of its prestige by passing an "irresponsible mass of resolutions." No action was taken in the matter.

ODDS AND ENDS OF STREET WORK NEED ATTENTION

Mr. G. W. Gillman, who resides at the south west corner of Simcoe and Stewart Streets, presented a request to the Board of Works that an effort be made to drain the water from in front of his residence.

Ald. McIntyre presented a claim for the filling in of the culvert on Mark Street.

TWO RESIDENCES BURNED TO GROUND

Since First of This Year But Both Were Just Outside City Limits

During the month of March, 1914, the Fire Department has responded to 7 alarms of fire. The total damage done by fire last month was $10. This compares very favourably with the records for last year, which show that in March, 1913, there were 19 fires and the total damage during that month was $685.

Sincethe first of this year there have only been two serious fires to which the Brigade was called, and both of these were outside the City limits. It is a curious coincidence that both of these fires resulted in the total destruction of a residence. One was a conflagration that burned to the ground a house on the north west limits of the City belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Oliver of Port Hope. The damage was estimated at $1600. The home of Mr. Gilgour, which is not more than two hundred feet outside the northerly boundary of the City, was totally destroyed by fire, and the total loss exceeded $1,600. No serious fires have taken place in the City so far this year.

Six Lindsay Stores Were Burglarized

Gang Get Away With Rich Plunder in Spite of New Lights and Chief Clifton

LINDSAY, April 1—Despite the boasted superiority of Lindsay's street lighting, and the alleged efficiency of the Scragog 'Cops,' burglars entered six stores last night, and almost walked away with half the Town.

The following is a list of the stores etc. that are reported as having been broke into:

Britton's Jewellery Store,
Morgan's Drug Store,
Maunder's Milling Office,
Robson's Grocery Store,
William's Cigar Store and Bowling Alley,
McWatters' Confectionery Store.

Goods to the value of nearly $500 were taken away. The work was of a decidely amateurish nature, as was evident by the manner that they broke into tills, and jammed open the door of one big safe.

The robberies were not discovered until this morning. The police were immediately communicated with but no trace of the perpetrators could be found. It is expected that they have got clean away with everything. Meanwhile, investigations are being pursued.

SIGNS TO PROJECT TEN FEET OVER THE PAVEMENTS

City Engineer Parsons refused to recommend the erection of the large electric sign asked for by Messrs. Hourigan and McLean for their store on Hunter Street, but suggested that the by-law be amended to provide for wider signs.

The present by-law limits a sign to project not more than 6 ft. 6 in. over the sidewalk. Mr. Parsons suggested that this be increased to 9 ft. 6 in. He also recommended that the heights of signs above the sidewalk be fixed according to their size. Thus a sign less than 6 ft. 6 in. wide should be at least 8 feet clear of the sidewalk; a sign from 6 feet to 8 feet wide should be 10 feet clear of the walk and one from 8 to 10 feet wide should be 12 feet clear of the sidewalk.

Ald. Green said that a sign 10 feet wide might be a source of danger to pedestrians if its vertical measurement was at all appreciable. It would catch the wind more readily, and would be more likely to give way unless very strongly supported.

This consideration was passed to the City Engineer to be taken up with the City Solicitor. Ald. Duffus moved, seconded by Ald. Stratton that the by-law be amended and introduced at the next meeting of the Council.

Mr. Walter Fisher Succeeded As Clerk Of The Market To-day By Mr. Sanderson

Mr. Walter Fisher concluded his year as Market Clerk last night and was succeeded this morning by Mr. Sanderson who, apart from his other duties, is regarded as the Speaker of the Senate during the winter session. Just now there is the long recess at hand and the assemblies have dwindled to a mere handful, who eschew weighty topics, preferring a quiet sunbath on the sunny side of the office. Mr. Fisher has been a courteous clerk and will be missed by those who have business on the market. As far as the demands of the present by-law are concerned he carried it out even to details, and never displayed anything that might be termed officiousness. He has made friends among the farmers and citizens who visit the market. His successor, Mr. Sanderson, commenced duties this morning and was greeted by the Spring remnants of the Senate. It may not be necessary to say it, but by some, at any rate, the fact has been noted that one seldom hears profanity at the Senate gatherings. And some how or another the assemblies are just as cheerful, if not more so, than if they were enlivened (sic) by the swearing types.
